The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 639. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 16.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,

Issued every Wednesday Afternoon at 167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE: S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE: H. F. CARPENTER, N. Y. DAVIS, M. BATCHELDER, J. G. HAMBLIN, D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS, TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

"NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE."

Nearer, Father, draw me nearer,
Nearer yet, my God, to thee!
For thy matchless love is dearer
Than all other love to me.
Thou hast been my staff in weakness,
In adversity my friend;
Thou my help hast been in sickness,
Hope and sweet relief did'st send.

Other friends may prove false-hearted;
Thou wilt never be untrue;
When life's fondest ties are parted,
Falls thy love as healing dew.
Hearts I loved have oft betrayed me;
In thy love I rest secure;
All the promises thou'st made me,
I have found them faithful, sure.

Whatsoever grief o'ertake me,
Though I walk death's valley through,
Thou wilt never leave, forsake me,
Thou art changeless—Thou art true.

Perth Amboy, N. J. ANNA E. MCELLISTER.

For the World's Crisis.

THE DAY AND THE HOUR.

The question is often asked, Can we know anything about "the times and seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power"? And those that put this question (very often) are ready to say, "No." The reason is this: the Savior said, "But of that day and that hour knoweth no man; no, not the angels which are in heaven; neither the Son, but the Father." This text is supposed to refute every argument that can be brought; it matters not how strong the evidence, or how unmistakable the proof is against it. Now what is true of one class is of all; so if one is prohibited from knowing, all must be. This is evident. Who will say the Savior will not know the time of his advent? It seems to me no sensible man will take this position; but we find many of the D. D.'s of our land who declare we can know nothing about the time of the coming of Christ, and yet who presume to say it will not come in thousands of years. Now if we know not the time of his advent, neither can we tell when he will not come. But let us take heed unto the sure word of prophecy, and remember that "no prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation; . . . but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." We see if man will not know the time of the advent, that Christ will not; and to say the latter will not know, is in my estimation complete nonsense.

To those who are preaching against time, and are saying the world is in its infancy, I would have them tell me, When will it be old? and what will be the condition of the world in its old age, if sin and iniquity increase at the rate they have for the last half-century? Methinks papal persecution will not be a fit comparison; but brother will rise up against brother, and blood will flow as freely as water runs in our great rivers. But assertions will not do. We must have something permanent—true as the word of God.

"But of that day and hour knoweth no man." We do not wish to be understood that Christ knew the time of his return while on the earth. No, no. Christ declared he did not know, and there was but one that did,—the Father. Christ had not yet ascended to the Father, and as the Father was the only one possessing that knowledge, it was necessary that Christ should go to the Father, in order to receive that knowledge, as it was that he should go away that the Comforter might be given. Christ says, "If I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you."—John 16: 7. How was that to be effected? "I will pray the Father, and he shall send you another Comforter."—John 14: 16. Now notice one of the offices of that Comforter. Says Christ, "I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye can not bear them now. Howbeit, when he, the Spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth; for he shall not speak of himself, but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak; and he will show you things to come. He shall glorify me; for he shall receive of mine and shall show it unto you. All things that the Father hath are mine; therefore said I, that he shall take of mine and shall show it unto you."—John 16: 12–15. It is positively stated here, "All things that the Father hath are" Christ's; so we see the Savior must necessarily come into possession of this knowledge concerning the day and hour on his ascension to heaven; and, as the Holy Spirit was to receive of Christ and show it unto the disciples, and show them all things, they must of course come into possession of the knowledge concerning the times and seasons of his second coming. Christ tells them plainly that he had yet many things to say unto them, but they could not bear them at that time; but comforts them with this promise: that they should not only have a Teacher that should bring to mind what things he had said unto them, but should endow them with power from on high, and should show them things to come.

Christ says, "When ye shall see the abomination of desolation spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing where it ought not (let him that readeth understand)"—Mark 13: 14). If we consult Daniel, he informs us that from the time this abomination of desolation stands up, to the time he is to stand in his lot (by a resurrection), there should be 1335 days. It should always be remembered by the reader that days, in prophecy, signify years. See Ezek. 4: 6.

Daniel says, "Many shall be purified, and made white, and tried; but the wicked shall do wickedly; and none of the wicked shall understand; but the wise shall understand." When? "At the time of the end." Understand what? The oath of the angel regarding the time, in answer to the question, "How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?" which is the resurrection. Daniel was then informed that "the words are closed up and sealed till the time of the end," not the end of time, but "the time of the end," or last generation; so we see this truth was hidden from all generations except the last one, and if it is not understood by them, the prophecy will not be beneficial, and will not perform that for which it was intended. But the oath of the angel, coupled with the declaration that "the wise shall understand," reveals the fact that this truth, kept concealed from all others, should be of the utmost importance to the generation for whom it was reserved. Now who is that wise servant, who is looking for the return of his blessed Lord, and is administering to the starving, giving them "meat in due season? blessed is that servant whom his Lord when he cometh shall find so doing; but and if that evil servant shall say in his heart "My Lord delayeth his coming, . . . the Lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of." Here are two classes of servants brought to view, delivering opposite messages. The evil servant is saying, "My Lord delayeth his coming," and is smiting his fellow servant; but the good servant was giving the household "meat in due season," proclaiming the advent at hand. We see the Lord came upon the evil servant in an hour he was not aware of. Why? Because he said, "My Lord delayeth his coming," and shut his eyes to the increasing light. What was true of the evil servant could not be true of the good servant; therefore, the Lord will not come upon the good servant unawares; for "the secret of the Lord is with them that fear him" (Ps. 25: 14); but "as the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be."

Noah was a preacher of righteousness, but his salvation depended upon his building the ark, according to the divine will. The Antediluvians knew not the time of their visitation. Why? Because they would not believe the preaching of Noah, but rejected his words, and cast them aside as idle tales.

Reasoning from analogy, we see Noah and the Antediluvians set forth as representatives of the two corresponding classes at the coming of Christ. It is evident that Noah knew the time of the flood, from the following: "For yet seven days, and I will cause it to rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights." The people had been warned of the approaching danger; the building of the ark was a powerful sermon of itself; but they, like the evil servant (no doubt), were saying, The world is in its infancy; and knew not until "the fountains of the great deep were broken up, and the windows of heaven were opened." But, alas! all was confusion; probation was then ended, and the world, "being overflowed with water, perished; but the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment, and perdition of ungodly men" (2 Pet. 3: 7); "but of the times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you; for yourselves also know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night; for when they shall say, Peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them, . . and they shall not escape. But ye, brethren, are not in darkness that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of the day; we are not of the night, nor of darkness."—1 Thess. 5: 1–5.

Here we see that the day of the Lord is to come upon a certain class as a thief, and that it is upon those that say "Peace and safety," that "sudden destruction cometh." "But ye, brethren, are not in darkness that that day should overtake you as a thief"; but it will come upon the world as a snare, and it will overwhelm them; but the church will occupy a far different position, for they are "the children of light." On such facts as the foregoing I rest assured, believing we may know the time of the advent. Such is my hope. I soon expect to see Jesus coming in regal majesty, with all the holy angels. Let us be sober, and watch unto prayer. Our toiling time will soon be over. The night is far spent, the day is at hand. The Master will soon come. Let us be ready to hail his approach with joy, that we may see his face in peace; and say, "Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us. This is the Lord, . . . we will be glad, and rejoice in his salvation."—Isa. 25: 9. G. F. SHIRLEY.

Woodhull, N. Y.

☞ The command is, "fight the good fight of faith." Though there are many warriors who enter into battle with doubts and fears as to the issue of the conflict, it is not so among the soldiers of the Lord Jesus Christ. Victory is declared before the combat commences, and as sure as they begin to fight, faith tells them they shall be made "more than conquerors."

CHARACTER OF THE MILLENNIUM.

Of the specific character of the millennium, further than we have advanced already, it will be difficult for us to speak with certainty. We have but few beacon lights to guide us. One thing, however, we think we have fixed without a reasonable doubt, namely, that the millenium spoken of in the Bible, cannot take place in the present organized state of the world, or of its inhabitants. Man must be new made, and so must be the world he inhabits. Of this the Scriptures speak abundantly in all places which are relied upon as pointing out a millenium. "Behold I create," says Isaiah, "new heavens and a new earth, and the former shall not come into mind." And this new heavens and new earth, he informs us in the succeeding chapter, shall REMAIN. And that Isaiah was speaking of the millenium, I think none will doubt. The event he speaks of cannot be transferred to any other region than the present earth new made; nor can the scene be withdrawn to a period this side its renovation. The language of the prophet will not bear it.

There is another fact settled. The new heavens and new earth is to be the final abode of the saints. This was the opinion of Mr. Wesley. This was the opinion of ancient fathers; and this the Scriptures confirm. Peter expressly declares, not only that there is to be a new heavens and new earth, but he holds out this as the HOPE of the church, which he could not do unless it were to be her children's, or their abode. "We look for a new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness." And Peter wrote his second epistle, that the disciples should not forget this very promise, though that promise seemed to be delayed. John also fully and gloriously points out the new heavens and earth as the final habitation of all the redeemed. And where this abode is to be, we gain additional light from the testimony of the four living creatures who are before the throne, and the four and twenty elders. Their united testimony declares it will be ON THE EARTH—and that it shall be inhabited by the saints, or by those washed in the blood of Christ, and made priests and kings unto God." This I think unexceptionable testimony. Their exact language is, "And when he had taken the book, the four living creatures, and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having, every one of them, harps, and golden vials full of odors, which are the prayers of the saints. And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book and to open the seals thereof; for thou wast slain and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; and hast made us unto our God kings and priests; and WE shall reign on the earth."

Who these living creatures are we may easily learn from the fact that, 1. They worship God, therefore they must be creatures. 2. They were redeemed by the blood of Christ. They could not therefore be angels, for he taketh not hold on the nature of angels. They must therefore be the representatives of human creatures. 3. They will reign on earth. They without doubt represent, with the four and twenty elders, the Jewish and Christian church, and the redeemed from all nations. So they testify, "Thou hast redeemed us from every kindred, tongue and people." And they are to reign on earth. No one would expect them to reign on earth as it now is. . . . . To reign with Christ implies that Christ first reigns; and this he is to do in its full sense on the earth, the uttermost parts of which are his inheritance.

If the above two propositions are true, we have ground enough for our present purpose. There is to be a new heaven and a new earth. This cannot take place in time, properly so called. There is but one new heaven and earth spoken of, after time. That one is the abode of the saints. And this must be the one spoken of by the prophets, and by John, because the one they speak of cannot take place in time, and they speak of but one after time. This new heavens and new earth is also identified with the millenium, because the millenium of the prophets includes a new heavens and a new earth.

Taking our departure, therefore, here, we are safe, although our light were glimmering in the extreme. The new heavens and new earth is the christian's heaven. Whatever that heaven contains this contains. Sure we are, this will contain the "redeemed of all nations." This itself were enough seemingly to consummate bliss. But we superadd to it the presence of the Lamb. And it shall be said, too, "Behold the tabernacle of God is with men," and he shall walk with them—dwell with them. And they shall hunger no more—thirst no more; for the Lamb shall feed them, and lead them to living fountains. And they shall never die. Perhaps angels will be there. For these also will God bring with him. But God will be its light, and glory, and joy. Hallelujah, indeed, it shall be said, when the Lord God in this sense reigneth. Something of its blessedness may be shadowed out in the following stirring lines of one of our hymns:—

"O what a mighty change
Shall Jesus' suff'rers know!
While o'er the happy plains they range,
Incapable of wo!
No ill-requited love
Shall there our spirits wound;
No base ingratitude,
No sin in heaven is found!

"There all our griefs are spent;
There all our sorrows end;
We cannot there the fall lament
Of a departed friend!
A brother dead to God,
By sin, alas! undone;
No father there, in passion loud,
Cries, 'O my son, my son!'

"No slightest touch of pain,
Nor sorrow's least alloy,
Can violate our rest, or stain
Our purity of joy!
In that eternal day
No clouds or tempests rise;
There gushing tears are wiped away
Forever from our eyes."

I will only add, that Mr. Wesley has an excellent sermon upon the new heavens and earth, with which I can heartily unite; and to which I refer the reader; simply remarking, it will be a place of RIGHTEOUSNESS. All things that offend will be taken from it, or rather not allowed to enter. The wicked shall not be there; yea, thou shalt diligently consider his place—but it shall not be. "Without," in utter darkness, are the "unclean." The next question will be the time.

G. F. COX.—Herald & Journal.

For the World's Crisis.

"LET BROTHERLY LOVE CONTINUE."—Heb. 13: 1.

Love uncreated bears the sway,
To Him begin and end the day,
Thought, feeling, all to Him belongs,
Of prayer the hope, of Him the songs;
Goodness and wisdom both combine
To woo and win thy soul and mine;
Springing indeed from Love Divine,
Which sweet reflected on the heart,
Leads us to take each other's part;
"Bear . . . one another's burdens"; share
Each other's joy, each other's care;
Confidence mutual, and prayer.
Thus will our experience be
"If the Son" hath made us free;
Free from self, for others living,
Freely forgiven, and forgiving.
The joy of angels we shall share,
If we thus our ways prepare.
Life heavenly indeed we know,
If heavenly lives we live below;
Thus we testify around
We the life divine have found.
Thus to "lovers of pleasure" show
Affection's not on things below;
Thus to the selfish world we prove
Religion springs from holy love

Philad., Oct. 27. CHS. GREENE.

DO YOU PRAY FOR CHRIST'S COMING?

As members of the christian church, we continually profess our faith in the second coming of Christ; and, it may be, that we sometimes meditate upon his glorious appearance. But have we adopted it as one of the subjects of our addresses at the throne of grace? We pray for forgiveness of sin, for God's Holy Spirit, for renewal of heart; but have we ever prayed that Christ might come to judgment? On many occasions we thankfully adopt the language of the Psalmist, and are glad to repeat his prayers, and say: "Enter not into judgment with thy servant," "Cast us not away from thy presence, and take not thy Holy Spirit from us." But has our faith ever enabled us to take up his language, and say: "Let God arise, and let his enemies be scattered; let them also that hate him flee before him?" If it were a prayer suited only to the individual case of David, no obligation could rest upon us to unite in it; but it is a prayer for the universal church; for every one who loves the Savior, and desires to see the "King in his beauty"—for every one who mourns over the state of the world and the church, and is anxious for the promotion of God's glory. It is a prayer frequently repeated in Holy Scripture of the Old Testament taught by our Lord, now offered up by saints in the presence of God, and with which the Scriptures of the New Testament conclude.

Read that beautiful prayer which begins in the fifteenth verse of the sixty-third of Isaiah, and is continued to the end of the sixty-fourth chapter, and learn the earnestness with which we should present our petitions for the coming of the Lord: "Oh, that thou wouldst rend the heavens, that thou wouldst come down, that the mountains might flow down at thy presence, as when the melting fire burneth, the fire causeth the waters to boil; to make thy name known to thine adversaries, that the nations may tremble at Thy presence." This prayer is sometimes used as if it expressed nothing more than a petition for the supply of grace, or, at the most, for the Lord's spiritual communion with his people, whereas it is a most urgent suit to the Lord to come down visibly and personally; to reveal himself in flaming fire, and take vengeance on them that know not God, and obey not the gospel. Compare this prayer with the ninety-seventh Psalm, and you will see that it relates altogether to Christ's glorious coming. Here the prophet prays that the Lord would make known his name to his adversaries by revealing himself in fire, so that the mountains may melt, and the waters boil. In the Psalm you will find a prophecy of the literal fulfillment of these petitions; for, it is said, when the Lord shall reign, "A fire goeth before him, and burneth up his enemies round about. His lightnings enlighten the world; the earth saw and trembled. The hills melted like wax at the presence of the Lord—at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth."

In the prayer which our Lord hath taught us, we offer the same petitions, at least if we understand the words aright." "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven," is a petition that the Lord may take unto him his kingdom, and begin that reign of righteousness, during which God's will shall be done on earth as it is in heaven. It is plain that when we say, "thy kingdom come," we pray for something that is not yet to come: for if it be already come, it is folly to pray that it may come. And the Scriptures tell us positively that there is a kingdom which is not to commence until the Son of God cometh in glory. Dan. 7: 13 says of this kingdom: "I saw in the night visions; one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of Days, and they brought him near before him, and there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom." And he says expressly that God's will shall then be done on earth; for he declares that this kingdom, given to the Son of man, is of such a nature, "that all people, nations, and languages shall serve him." The Lord himself speaks of a kingdom which is not yet come, for He is gone to receive it: "A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return." (Luke 19: 12.) St. Paul speaks of a kingdom which is not to come until the Lord appear to judge the quick and the dead. He says to Timothy (2 Tim. 4: 1,) "I charge thee before God and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead at His appearing and kingdom." All these passages show us, that when the Lord taught us to say, "Thy kingdom come," he taught us to join in the prayer of David: "Let God arise, and let his enemies be scattered." . . .

With this prayer, also, the New Testament concludes. The Lord's last words in the last book of Revelation refer to the second advent: "He which testified these things saith surely, I come quickly." And John replies: "Amen, even so, come Lord Jesus." John had himself experienced the awfulness of the Lord's presence; for he tells us, "When I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead." All the troubles that should precede the coming of Christ had been made known to him—all the terrors of judgment had been presented to his view; but none of these things moved him, nor could restrain the prayer, "Come, Lord Jesus." We cannot, therefore, doubt but that it is our duty to join in a prayer which the Holy Ghost has dictated, which our Lord has appointed, which the saints in heaven use, and which the beloved disciple offered up. The nature of the prayer presents another argument to enforce this duty. We are bound to pray for those things which promote the honor of Christ, and the eternal happiness of his people; but never shall the honor of Christ be complete, nor his people be happy, nor the righteous be glad and rejoice exceedingly, until God arise, and his enemies be scattered. Until then iniquity shall abound, yea, and increase more and more; until then wicked men will deny and blaspheme the Lord that bought them; his followers shall have tribulation; sickness, and sorrow, and death retain their cruel sway; tears still continue to flow, and none can dry them.

Brethren, have you never withdrawn your thoughts from the cares of this life, from the treachery of present joys, or the oppression of transitory griefs, to look upon the church and the world as they are? Have you never lifted up the veil of deceit in which the world, and all things therein, are shrouded, that you might behold its form in truth? If you have, you will understand why Christ's advent is so desirable. The sight of all the manifold forms of human misery, of all the various gradations of human depravity—the view of a world that lieth in the wicked one—of a once blessed creation subject to curse and vanity because of sin—of Christ's church, that was once as a pure virgin, now corrupted with superstition, led astray by error, and rent to pieces by divisions—of Christ's most holy religion perverted by men's imaginations—of Christ himself, the Savior of the world, dishonored and crucified again in every spot of Christendom,—the sight of all this must have made you wish that this present state of things were past, and taught you to pray that Christ might come to deliver his church, and to redeem the world. . . . .

The Scriptures tell us that the last days shall be the worst; so, when the Son of man cometh, he shall not find faith on earth. Our only hope, therefore, is in the coming of Christ. And shall we not pray for that which is our only hope? or, if hope be not sufficient, will not love unite with it? Have we no desire to be united to him who died for us? Have we no longings of heart after him who hath loved us even unto death? The eyes of faithful servants look for the return of a kind master—children long for the presence of their parents; and shall not we pray for the return of Him who is more to us than master, father, or brother—the propitiation for our sins, and the Savior of the soul? If, therefore, we would follow the example of the saints, or obey the instruction of the Savior—if we have any zeal for his honor, or any desire for the happiness of his people and our own—if we would attain that which is pointed out as our hope in Scripture—if we would hearken to the dictates of love—it is our duty to join in the Psalmist prayer: "Let God arise, and let his enemies be scattered," or to take up the language of the prayer book, and say: "We beseech thee, of thy gracious goodness, shortly to accomplish the number of thine elect, and to hasten thy kingdom, that we, with all those that have departed in the true faith of thy holy name, may have our perfect consummation and bliss, both in body and soul, in thy eternal and everlasting glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord."—Prophetic Times.

For the World's Crisis.

"IN THE DAYS OF THESE KINGS."

What Kings? Daniel foretells the setting up of the kingdom of God, (after presenting the rise of four universal earthly kingdoms, and the division of the fourth kingdom,) in the following language: "In the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom." Dan. 2: 44. Some of the advocates of a spiritual kingdom, who claim that the kingdom was "set up" at the first advent of Christ, inform us that the expression, "In the days of these kings," refers not to the ten kings, or ten divisions of Rome, but to the four kings, or four universal kingdoms. But this would be an impossibility, for those four kingdoms were not cotemporary kingdoms, but when the second arose, the first ceased to be; when the third arose, the second ceased to be; and when the fourth arose, the third ceased to be; therefore, the fourth kingdom existed alone, and the third universal kingdom had passed away about sixty years before the crucifixion of Christ. So, if a spiritual kingdom was set up at the first advent, it certainly was not set up in the days of the four kingdoms, as only one of them existed at the time; but the kingdom here mentioned was to be "set up" in the days of a plurality of "kings;" and the prophecy distinctly affirms that the fourth kingdom (Rome) should be "divided" prior to the setting up of this kingdom, and this division did not take place for several centuries after the first advent.

Furthermore, in the seventh chapter of Daniel this same fourth kingdom (Rome) is brought to view under the symbol of a beast with "ten horns," representing ten divisions of the Roman kingdom; and "after them," "ANOTHER" horn should rise, and persecute the church for a "time, times, and the dividing of time," and continue to exist "till the Ancient of days should come, and judgment be given to the saints of the Most High, and the time come that the saints should possess the KINGDOM." Dan. 7: 21, 22. Here the kingdom is located down this side of the fourth kingdom, this side of its ten divisions, and this side of the bloody history and long existence of the Papal horn.

Now, as the second and seventh chapters of Daniel present the same chain of earthly kingdoms, they also present the same heavenly kingdom, and give it the same chronological location. Let the two chapters harmonize concerning the kingdom. W. SHELDON.

For the World's Crisis.

CHASTENING.

"Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth."

How sweetly comforting are these blessed words to a sorely chastened heart; resting like holy balm upon the grief-smitten soul. Sorrow's waves have gone over my soul, yet the Lord holds me up, while to my afflicted heart, as healing dew, comes the blest assurance, "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth"; and through our blinding tears we view the loving hand of mercy. Our Father saw our danger, while loitering 'neath shady bowers, by sunlit streams, far from the pearly gates of the golden city, whence I am bound; the syren's song in my ear lulling my soul to fatal repose. My Father called, bidding me rise and pursue my journey; saying, "For the night cometh wherein no man can work." I strove to obey, to shake off the stupor that had imperceptibly stolen over me. Alas, the spell was woven deeply around me, while lingering on sleep's enchanted ground. Vainly I assayed to break the chain. The rod must fall, the hand of mercy laid it on. Hard, quick and sharp the blow was dealt, raising my soul to earnest action.

But for this, where would the night have found me? Alas! far from my blissful home in Father's house, far from that glorious land where our elder Brother shall reign a king forever; where we shall share the "far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory" which these light afflictions shall work out for us.

We thank our kind Father in heaven for the blessings so thickly woven around our path; yea, and for the trials too his love hath sent; those blessings in disguise. I thank thee, O, my God, from a meekly chastened heart. We humbly feel to say, Thy will, O God, not ours be done.

ANNA E. MCELLISTER.

Perth Amboy. N. J.

For the World's Crisis.

"JESUS LOVES ME."

How sweet and simple are these words, as expressive of the christian's assurance of the favor and affection of Jesus. They speak volumes. They blend together the melting tenderness of Jesus' love, and the strong confidence of one who feels that his faith in the crucified, risen, and pleading One, is not in vain: that his efforts to please Jesus, in a penitent, faithful, and christian life, have been successful; and he tenderly, exultingly declares, "Jesus loves me."

The language has always had force, and been brimful of meaning to me. It means so much. That sweet, little child song—

"Jesus loves me! yes, I know,
For the Bible tells me so,"

is unsurpassed, and the humble "child" of God, who has given all for Christ; whose life is one of devotion, of self-sacrifice and holy communion with Jesus, finds it his greatest joy to sing, and to whisper in his heart, day by day,—

"Jesus loves me! yes, I know,
For the Bible tells me so."

With all the force these words have ever had to me, they have augmented a hundred-fold since they came from the lips of our dear departed Bro. Turner. The last words of great men are treasured up, and repeated, among men. They are often woven into the adages that form the great medium of expressing men's thoughts about practical life. The sentiments of the living, too, are often thus made the watchwords of men. Like Perry's—"Don't give up the ship!" Nelson's—"England expects every man to do his duty!" and Grant's—"I will fight it out on this line, if it takes all summer!" These are often repeated and are made appropriate for whatever one wishes or determines to do.

But the sentiments of heroes pale before the lustre of such words as those of the dying Cox in Africa—"Tell my brethren I died at my post"; and Wesley's—"The best of all is, God is with us"; and, lastly, our dear Bro. Turner's words—"Jesus loves me." The dear, faithful watchman, laboring incessantly in efforts to spread the light of truth, as seen in this last-day message, of the soon coming of Jesus, wears out his physical power, and is prostrated by disease. It fastens itself surely upon him. It steals through his trembling frame like the serpent, leaving its poisonous fangs in all the system; and it burns like fire flashing in the red flush on cheek and brow. It is soon apparent that the devoted minister must die; the strong man is bound by the red-hot bands of fever. He is weak. He is exhausted. Pains are darting here and there over trembling, sensitive nerves. His "head is sick"; his "heart is faint"; his eye grows dim; his breath comes feebly up; he cannot make strong efforts now; but, though sick, weary, and worn out, and about to sleep, he tells us, in those sweet, blessed words, what gives us assurance of his spiritual condition; although languidly, tending to death,—"Jesus loves me." He knew that He whose love he sought, and whose service he loved, poured out from his sacred heart that deep, strong love for his dying servant which is always so desirable, so satisfying; especially when "flesh and heart fail," and "Pale, frosty death, concluding, comes at last,

And shuts the scene of life."

Bro. Turner I never saw, to know personally; have only heard of him through the papers, and from others; but his dying words, so simple and child-like, uttered in the weakness of life's last hour's fleeting breath, so full of deep, strong assurance, as might be expected from such a man, have come to my heart like an angelic song, and melted in liquid music through my whole being. Henceforth those words shall be more precious to me, and to the people of God. They shall stimulate us in our work, as we can know that these believers in death's unconsciousness and the literal resurrection "die well." They shall ever wake us to love, to feel more preciously the same blessed sentiment, the same assurance.

Let every servant of Jesus from henceforth be sure to feel and say, "Jesus loves me." And let the whole body of believing ones love Jesus with the strength of affection he deserves, that we may appreciate his love whom we love because he first loved us. We will fight on in this glorious warfare; we will ever keep with the utmost care this sacred, blessed privilege of having Jesus love us. It shall be our motto, kept by the church as a dearer sentiment than any ever uttered by the world's heroes, but held in our hearts as a dear, priceless treasure, enjoyed as an inestimable privilege. Then we shall ever be able individually to say, "JESUS LOVES ME."

L. C. MCKINSTRY.

For the World's Crisis.

ALMS, PRAYER AND FASTING EQUALLY REWARDED.

In speaking of these duties, almost the same language is used; and each are equally enjoined upon Christ's followers. Let us compare them. "Therefore, when thou doest thine alms, do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward."—Matt. 6: 2. "And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are; for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward."—Ver. 5. "Moreover when ye fast, be not as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance; for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward."—Ver. 16.

"But when thou doest thine alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth; that thine alms may be done in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." "But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." "But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thy head, and wash thy face; that thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly."

Brethren and sisters, here are acts, or duties, each one equally devolving upon us; and can we, dare we say that one is not just as necessary, in the sight of heaven, for us to attend to as the other? They are couched in almost the same language, and the rewards are spoken of equally in the same terms. If any one shall say, I am very poor, and have nothing to give; remember, Jesus Christ requires no impossibilities of you, but only to do that which is for your best good. The widow's two mites will be as acceptable as larger offerings out of abundance; and of the reward you will be just as sure.

In regard to the duty of secret prayer, all are ready to admit that this is indispensable, and without which we should soon lose all spiritual life and power, and become as withered branches; and yet, in the language of our Savior, it is no more indispensable or important to us than giving alms or fasting. Works will accompany faith, unless it be a dead faith; and if we believe the words of Jesus Christ in regard to these christian duties, although we may have neglected them, yet if we now see that they are specially enjoined upon us, we shall no longer defer them, unless we are willing to run the risk of losing entirely and forever the promised reward.

If any shall say, What I have is my own, and I do not see the necessity for every little while of starving myself; remember, dear brother and sister, our Lord and Savior has required nothing of us but what is for our present and eternal good. Now shall any poor brother or sister say, I have had scarcely enough to keep me from day to day, and have of myself had to fast of necessity. Then let me say to you, dear brother or sister, let your future fasting be as not unto yourself, but as unto the Lord, and then you may rest assured that you will have the promised reward.

Dear brethren and sisters, the opportunity for attending to all these duties will very soon be forever past, and the day of rewards will soon dawn upon us. Therefore awake! arouse! exhume the buried talent; occupy and improve the few remaining golden moments in a way that shall meet the approval of your Judge. Rewards and crowns will soon, yes, will very soon be given, and if faithful we shall not fail of the glorious inheritance or promised possessions. "He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son." Again let me say, be faithful. "Behold, the Judge standeth before the door." The day of espousals will soon dawn upon us. Amen. So let it come. I remain, ever your brother in Christ,

Marion, N. Y. S. L. MANLEY.

☞ The best companion a man can have, is a holy, watchful, tender [illegible].

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Jan. 1, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ ATTENTION!!

As we are about changing our subscription list, we request all those whose names are not spelled correctly,—whose papers are directed to other parties,—whose Post Office address is incorrect, or incorrectly spelled,—whose papers come in the wrong packages, or come singly when they should come in a package,—or whose credit has not been rightly given, to write to us immediately, stating how it is and how it should be, and it will save us much trouble in the future.

DISCUSSION IN QUEBEC.

We have arranged to have a discussion with Mr. S. H. Phillips, in Quebec, P. Q., Canada, commencing Monday evening, Jan. 13th, to continue five evenings.

QUESTION: "Do the Scriptures teach that, after the judgment, the wicked will be punished with eternal death and cease to exist as conscious beings?"

THE NEW YEAR.

WE WISH ALL OUR READERS A HAPPY NEW YEAR IN THE LORD.

We have entered a year of special interest to the student of prophecy. It may be the last one in the present dispensation. If it is not, some, no doubt, who read these lines, will be silent in the grave before another new year comes. Life is very uncertain. Let each passing moment be well spent. Let us make it our chief business to prepare for the coming life, where sorrow's tears will all be wiped away.

We may expect startling events before the close of the year. The great powers of Europe are getting ready for a terrible onset. Napoleon is making great preparations for war; so are the Russians, Turks, Prussians, Italians, the English, and the other nations. A crisis is at hand. The last days have come, and the events correspond. Every month brings additional evidence that the day of the Lord will soon begin, when the dead will be raised, the sanctuary cleansed, and the kingdom given to the saints.

Let us make this year the best one of our lives to the present time. Great efforts will be made by the powers of darkness to draw us away from Christ, and from holy living. Satan is exceedingly busy to draw our attention off from the great event now at hand, and to get us absorbed in the fashions, follies and amusements of the day. Never was the worldly current stronger, or rising more rapidly, than at the present time. The Evil One knows his time is short; and he is in earnest to gather all his forces in battle array against the Lord and his children. The perilous times of the last days are upon us, and will grow more severe till our King appears in glory to take his waiting bride "to the marriage supper of the Lamb." The church is now occupying a sublime position. Let her not soil her pure garments by the filth of this wicked world, as she would do, should she conform to the spirit of the times.

In this trying hour she needs great firmness to resist all the alluring charms of the deceiver. This is the time to be radical for the right. Make no compromise with evil in any form whatever. "Be ye steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord." Half-hearted religion can not stand the severe test that is to try the faith of the followers of Jesus. Nothing short of entire consecration can warrant us against the attacks of our powerful enemy. We must rest wholly in Jesus; then all is safe. He is a mighty conqueror, and no one is able to pluck us out of his hands. It is only by our own misconduct that we lose our armor with which to resist our arch enemy. Those who expect to stand in the coming conflict and gain the victory of the faithful, must put on "the whole armor of God."

We think but few are aware of the cunning devices of Satan, which he employs to lead us astray. He does not attack christianity now with the bold opposition of former days, but in the garb of an angel of light. He wishes to have all religions tolerated alike; and would have the christian religion especially made honorable and fashionable, knowing that by these means he can destroy its vitality, and prevent it from leading men to repentance. He would rob it of all its radicalism, make it conservative, and have it mingle and mix with the world, thus neutralizing it, so that the outsiders will see no difference between those who profess religion and those who do not.

Brn. and Srs., let us raise our banner for the Lord higher than ever before. This is no time for a compromise with the enemy. He is preparing for a terrible onset. Let us not be found sleeping. Only those who endure to the end have the promise of salvation. Let us all endeavor to live nearer to the Lord than ever before. Live so that this will be emphatically a happy year. Only the good are happy. There is no pure joy except in the hearts of christians. All other is Satan's counterfeit. His never satisfies. But the follower of Jesus has peace like a river, overflowing, wider and deeper till he reaches the great ocean of the love of God in the everlasting kingdom, where joy is unending and glory unbounded. Let us do all to the glory of God till our King appears for our deliverance.

OUR MISSIONARIES.

We would call attention to the condition of the missionaries we have sent South and West. It will be seen by their reports that they need help. There are but few who are willing to leave home and friends, take their lives in their hands, and suffer the privations incident to a missionary's life. It is a very trying situation, even when they have the necessaries of life; but to be deprived of them, be among strangers, and in the midst of the enemies of the cross, is not a very desirable situation. Nothing but love for souls could lead our brethren to go out from all they hold dear, and spend their time at the South among the Freedmen and others.

Now the question is, Shall we who remain at home, surrounded by our dear friends, and the comforts of life in abundance, allow those self-denying men and women to sink under their load for want of what we can supply them? Let us imagine ourselves in their places, and then do as we would be done by. We fear our Brn. and Srs. are not awake to the importance of this missionary work. A wide door is opened, and the call is urgent; but there is a lack of means to carry on the work with that energy that should be manifested in an hour like the present.

The enemy of all righteousness is making an extra effort to sow tares in the South in advance of the good seed. He is ever on the lookout, and ready to improve every opportunity to scatter error and fables. The people in the South, both whites and Freemen, are in the most favorable condition to receive the gospel of the kingdom that has been known for half a century, or perhaps ever before.

Brethren, is it not a duty we owe to them and to Christ, to put our hands deep into our pockets, and send forth the means to help scatter the light and truth throughout the entire South? Let us all do what we can. Soon our treasures will be worthless. Let us use them while they can be devoted to a holy purpose. Shall we not deny ourselves of luxuries, and even of some things that are not, for the sake of doing good to those in the South who are starving, physically, mentally, and spiritually? Come, let us be noble in this glorious work.

THE STATE OF EUROPE.

The condition of Europe is certainly a most critical one, with no prospect of any improvement. The lower and middle classes, who have been so long trodden under foot by the rich and proud, now feel determined to shake off the oppressor's yoke, and be free. We see this feeling manifesting itself in all countries. It has been growing and spreading for a number of years, and cannot be suppressed much longer. It is like a pent up volcane. An eruption must take place; and when it begins; it will be terrible. We see its workings in England and Ireland, Greece and Italy. It is shown in all countries in the cry for "rights." A great struggle is evidently at hand. The people are more and more unwilling to submit to the principle that "might makes right."

The following from the Montreal Witness indicates the true state of things in Europe:

"The sky of Europe is rapidly darkening for a storm, and that, perhaps, the most terrible that has shaken the old world. In Italy, all is excitement; and the temporal power of the Pope, unless sustained by France, is likely to be swept away, as chaff before the wind. Prussia manifests, in various ways, a readiness to take the part of the Italian Kingdom, or, in other words, to oppose France; and France is arming with such rapidity as to lead to the supposition that there will be a winter campaign, a most unusual thing in the history of European wars. In the midst of all these threatening demonstrations, the question naturally arises, What have they to fight about?

DISCOVERIES AT JERUSALEM.

Any facts connected with the Jews and their ancient city, when existing in its glory, are items of special interest to the Bible student. Many have made pilgrimages to that far-famed city, since the visit of the Queen of Sheba, and have felt well paid for traveling thousands of miles, to see even the spot where the temple once stood, now occupied by the Mosque of Omar. Of late some important discoveries have been made which render the sacred spot still more interesting. The following from the Boston Journal, Dec. 23d, gives some interesting facts:—

Biblical students will be greatly interested in the discoveries which have been made, and are now in progress, at Jerusalem, by Lieut. Charles Warren of the Royal Engineers of England. The colossal foundations of Temple wall, which are "stones of ten cubits and stones of eight cubits," laid by Solomon or his successors on the throne, are now being laid bare at the enormous depth of ninety feet and more beneath the present surface. If bared to its foundation, the wall would present an unbroken face of solid masonry nearly 1000 feet long and 150 feet in height! The wall, as it stands, has excited the wonder of the world. A letter in the London Times says:

'The pinnacle of the temple, on which the tempter placed the Savior, has just been uncovered to the base, and is found still to have an elevation of 136 feet. The statement of Josephus is therefore no exaggeration. 'If any one looked from the battlements into the valley he would be giddy, while his sight could not reach to such an immense depth.' Sections of the ancient wall of Ophel have been exhumed, showing that, as Josephus says, it was joined to the southeast angle of the Temple. Aqueducts, cisterns, rock-hewn channels and passages have also been discovered within and around the harem, throwing new light on the buildings, the arrangements and the services of the Temple.'

The sites of Calvary, the Holy Sepulchre and the pool of Bethesda are hoped to be discovered; and, if the exploring party is provided with funds, Lieut. Warren does not despair of surveying and designating the boundaries and chief localities of the ancient Jerusalem which the Savior saw and which Josephus described. The recent visit of the Sultan to England has been favorable to the work of exploration, and the wisdom and tact of Lieut. Warren and his staff have smoothed down Moslem prejudice, removed local opposition and brought about opportunities for excavation such as never occurred before; and, besides, large numbers of Arab laborers have been trained to the work and are eager to be employed, and the exact points for successful exploration are now well known."

But when we think of the glories of the coming city, the new Jerusalem, which John saw in vision, all the splendor of the ancient city sinks into utter darkness in comparison. O what a privilege to be there. Well, the day draws near when all the holy ones will be gathered to meet the King of kings and Lord of lords. What a soul-stirring thought. Dear reader, we must be there. Let us be true to Jesus till he comes.

THE POPE'S TROUBLES.

Pius IX. seems to be aware that his condition is a critical one; and that unless he gets help soon, he will be obliged to bid an everlasting farewell to his magnificent palace on "the seven hills." He is calling loudly for help, but the aid is not sufficient to keep him from sinking. It is evident he can no longer stand alone. Some one must hold him up, or he will soon fall. Napoleon is the only one who can support him, and does it only out of policy. Should Pius IX. die, we may not expect to see another Pope, except in the person of Napoleon III.

In an Encyclical letter of the Pope, addressed to the "Primates, Patriarchs, Archbishops and Bishops of the Catholic world," dated Rome, Oct. 17th, 1867, he says:—

"We cannot refrain, venerable brethren, from pointing out first to you, and to all the faithful committed to your charge, the extremely sad condition and serious danger in which we are now placed, especially by the acts of the Piedmontese government. In fact, although we are defended by the bravery and devotion of our most faithful army, which has given proof of its loyalty by exploits of the most heroic courage, it is nevertheless evident that it cannot long resist the more considerable numbers of these most iniquitous aggressors. And although we experience great comfort from the filial piety manifested towards us by the remainder of our subjects, reduced to a small number by criminal usurpers we are reduced to regret deeply that they themselves necessarily feel the very serious dangers with which they are assailed by these ferocious battalions of criminal men, who constantly terrify them with all kinds of menaces, and who despoil and torment them in a thousand ways. . . . .

"Amid all these calamities and sorrows which have burst upon the church and upon ourselves, as there is no one, save our Lord God alone who sustains the contest in our favor, we earnestly call upon you, venerable brethren, in the name of your love and zeal for Catholic interests, and in the name of your profound piety towards us, to unite your most fervent prayers with ours, to beseech and to supplicate God unceasingly, with all your clergy and faithful people, that, mindful of His eternal mercy, He may turn His indignation from us."

Pius IX. is now in the 25nd year of his Pontificate. Many of the Catholics are quite well satisfied that the present one is the last Pope. There is a trembling in view of approaching events. All these things are but signs that Jesus is soon coming to set up his kingdom.

CHURCH GAMBLING.

It is astonishing to see the amount of church gambling now practiced at the fairs held by the various denominations. It would seem they thought the end justified the means, let them be what they may. We do not see how any one, calling himself christian, can give countenance to such things; much less a minister professing to be a christian. The things practiced at fairs are as direct gambling as may be seen among any professional gamblers; but because it is a church it is passed over in silence, and patronized by leading members in the different churches, with their minister in the foreground. Says the Buffalo Express, Nov. 26, 1867,

"We are not disposed to be ascetic or unreasonably strict, but candor compels the admission that there was something not altogether agreeable in the sight that met the visitor on the threshold of most of the charitable fairs of the last few years. One of the wisest laws of the State, and one which, as against society at large, has been most rigidly enforced, has been openly violated, under the cloak of religion, night after night in every city of the State."

What shall we think of a Christianity that will allow its members to get so far as to be rebuked by the secular press, in language like the foregoing? Is there not need of a reform? Shall we close our eyes to such things and refuse to give the alarm?

MORMONDOM.

Brigham Young at the head of the Mormons, is doing what he can to establish a new power in politics and religion. He shows himself to be a man of great enterprise. The spirits say his system is the nearest right of any on the earth, aside from Spiritualism. This is rather of a poor recommendation.

In the Buffalo Express, Nov. 26th, is a letter from their "own correspondent," written at Great Salt Lake City, Nov. 8th, 1867, in which he says, when speaking of "The Tabernacle,"—

"Rome, proud imperial Rome, which sat upon her seven hills, and from her throne of beauty ruled the world,' boasted her architectural wonders. Great Salt Lake, 'Queen of the Mountains,' sits upon her shining valley, and boasts a wonderful Tabernacle. I was permitted to enter and take an inside glance at this mammoth structure. I shall not attempt a full and elaborate description, for that would monopolize too much time and space. It is constructed somewhat after the style of the Roman Pantheon, rather inclined to the oblong. The huge building rests upon forty-four piers of cut sand stone, each pier nine feet square at top and bottom, and the whole averaging twenty feet high to the spring of the roof. In the centre of the building, the height from the floor to the ceiling is about seventy feet. The inside contains no columns. The length of the building is two hundred and fifty feet from east to west, by one hundred and seventy feet from north to south. The audience room has a straight centre of one hundred and seventy-five feet, and is calculated to comfortably seat nine thousand persons. In the construction of this building they have used nearly or quite two million feet of pine lumber. It is covered with four hundred thousand shingles. The entrances thereto number fully twenty-five. The stand for the speakers covers seventy-five hundred feet of surface. From the speaker's stand forward the floor rises with a grade of one foot in every ten. The seats have the appearance of having been constructed with an eye to comfort. The First Presidency, Twelve Apostles, Bishops and Priesthood, all have their respective and proper circles. To the rear of the speaker's stand is an immense organ, furnished at a cost of ten thousand dollars, and said to be second in size in the United States. I have never listened to the music it imparts, but am told that it is a fine instrument."

MOUNT VESUVIUS.

The noted volcano, Mt. Vesuvius, in Italy, is now performing wonders. It seems bent on doing something grand. The sight of its exhibitions are truly sublime. What an immense force must be operating in the bowels of the eath to produce such results as are now witnessed on that mountain. The following dispatch, dated London, Dec. 24th, will give a faint idea of what is being done:—

"Dispatches received from various parts of the Kingdom report everything quiet to-day. Dispatches received from Naples mention that the eruption of Mount Vesuvius is continually increasing in power and splendor. Immense sheets of white, yellow and crimson flame rise hundreds of feet above the crater, and at night the Bay of Naples is lighted up for miles. Lava is pouring down the mountain side in immense quantities, and large stones are occasionally thrown out from the mouth of the volcano. A deep rumble like reverberating thunder is heard from time to time as in the bowels of the earth, and many of the people in the vicinity have left their homes, fearing an earthquake or other calamity. No such eruption has probably occurred in Vesuvius for centuries, and the spectacle is regarded as one of the most magnificent and sublime ever witnessed in nature."

SPEECH OF NAPOLEON.

In the speech of Napoleon III. at the opening of the French Chambers, Nov. 18th, after speaking of the benefits of the great Paris Exposition, in uniting the nations of the earth in one common brotherhood, he says:—

"These incontestible pledges of concord do not allow us to dispense with improving the military institutions of France.

It is the imperious duty of every government to follow progress independently of circumstances in all the elements which constitute the strength of a country, and it is for us a necessity to bring to perfection the military organization, as our weapons are the army and navy."

He then goes on to say; "The stronger we are the more certain will be the assurance of peace." "The relations of Italy to the Holy See interest the whole of Europe. When speaking of the Eastern question he says:—

"I am happy to announce that they [the powers of Europe] have agreed on two principal points—the maintenance of the integrity of the Ottoman Empire and the amelioration of the condition of the Christians. Since last session universal suffrage has been called upon to elect a third of the members of the Consuls Geveraux. These elections carried out with calmness and independence have everywhere demonstrated the good feeling of the populations. The journey I have made with the Empress to the east and north of France has afforded the opportunity for manifestation of sympathy which have touched me profoundly. I have been able to ascertain that nothing has been able to shake the confidence the people have placed in me and the attachment they entertain toward my dynasty. For my part, I labor incessantly to anticipate their wishes. . . . Let us, then, follow up the work which we have undertaken together for fifteen years. We have shared the same idea to uphold, above controversies and hostile passions, our fundamental laws which the popular voice has sanctioned; but at the same time to develope liberal institutions, without weakening the principle of authority. Let us not cease to spread around us the comforts of life by the prompt completion of our means of instruction to render access to justice less expressive by symplifying legal procedure and to adopt every measure that will render prosperous the social condition of the great masses. . . . For my own part you may rest assured that I will uphold firmly the power conferred on me, for no obstacle or unjust opposition will shake either my courage or my faith in the future."

☞ We shall be very grateful to any one sending us Crisis for Dec. 11. We want several copies.

CORRECTION.—In obituary of Nov., No. 20, for "Mallas," read Mallard.

LIGHT ADVANCING.

A member of the Methodist church in Nashville, Tenn, writes: "I have been so fortunate as to read a few of your tracts, papers, etc., even way off here in Nashville; and, as the most ardent and sincere wish of my heart is to learn the Bible truth, and to obey God and our Savior just as that blessed Bible tells us, I wish to understand the "one baptism." I am dreadfully alarmed, lest I should be found not ready. The thought fills me with energy to work hard and find out. I am so favorably impressed with your Bible views, that I wish to learn all about them. I want to be a real christian. Almost every one tells me that if baptism were so important, God would have told the right method in plain words. I think every thing God tells us to do should be done, as he wishes it; and that it is a labor to work out our salvation, and how well worth our labor is the glorious reward.

I would leave home and country to be near those who preach the Bible as you do. Although I believe and trust in Jesus, I have never obeyed him in respect to baptism. I am not satisfied. Will you help me?"

For the World's Crisis.

"THE PLAN OF REDEMPTION."

I have read this new book by Brn. I. C. Wellcome and C. Goud, and will say I think it the best work on the Atonement I have ever read. It is just the thing to lend to your friends and the ministry to enlighten them on the great plan of Redemption. The chapters on the Atonement and the Old Covenant I consider worth the price of the book. Send for a copy and read it, and then lend it to your friends and neighbors. You will never regret it. Work while you can. Soon the Master will come and say "Well done" to all who have done what they could in this great and glorious work of salvation.

So. Albion, Me. JER. CARR.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office.

TRACTS IN PACKAGES.

On doctrinal and practical subjects; also Leaflets for Letters, and Children's Tracts; all put up in neat, printed wrappers, and selling for 25c., 50c., and $1.00, postpaid. Also $1.00 packages of Pamphlets, containing our best. Who wants one, five, or fifty packages of tracts and pamphlets, to scatter among their friends? Packages sent directly to any Post Office desired.

THE PLAN OF REDEMPTION.

Brn. I. C. Wellcome and C. Goud have just issued an interesting work on the Atonement and Plan of Redemption. It contains 328 octavo pp. With it is bound Bro. Wellcome's valuable work on Baptism, of 82 pp. Price of book, $1.25, postage 16 cents. For sale at this office.

THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK.

A new edition of this work has just been issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price reduced as follows: $1.25 per dozen, or $1.50 by mail. Single copy 15 cents by mail.

The Young Pilgrim for 1868.

Now is the time to see to your CLUBS, to secure the old names and obtain new ones.—☞ Every club maker, and every subscriber, whose term expires this year, is especially requested to let us hear from him before the issue of the January number, as we stop no paper without express orders, and we desire to know how many papers to print. W. B. H.

Two Hundred Stories for Children.

BY T. M. PREBLE.

(A new edition. 234 pp.)

This valuable book for children needs no other recommendation at this time, than to say that the present edition is the nineteenth thousand since its first publication. Many will be glad to know that this favorite book is again in print. The Voice of the West says of it:—"One of the best story books for children ever published. Never fails to interest." To be had at this office. Price 88c., postpaid.

For the World's Crisis.

CALLS FOR HELP.

I have received the following calls for help. They are from workers in the Lord's vineyard, who are doing what they can to feed his lambs. They want Sunday school books and papers, but are too poor to pay for them. There is no fund with which to help in such cases, and as I do not keep any supply of S. S. books on hand, but simply purchase them as they are called for, I have no means by which I can do anything for them. If the Lord shall direct any of his stewards to help in this matter, I will do my part towards furnishing them with good books, which shall teach truth and not error, and make the children who read them wise unto salvation.

The following is from a sister in the interior of Maine:—

"DEAR BRO. HERRON:—I thought when I wrote to you last summer that we should be able to raise money to buy books for the Sunday school, but we have been disappointed. Our numbers are few, and our means small. Our Sunday School is a mission school, our object being to gather in children from the street. The school numbers about forty-five scholars; and there are other children who would be glad to come, if they had clothing. It costs considerable to fit them for school, and we are doing what we can, but we find few who are willing to help. We are much in need of Library Books and The Young Pilgrim, but money we have not got to send. Can you help us? If you can, we shall be very glad."

Here is another from Milwaukee, Wis:—

"DEAR BRO. HERRON:—We have a Mission School (a Union School) here, and are in want of Sunday School books and papers. But they are poor, and not able to pay for them. If you could furnish them with a few, it might be the means of giving them the light, and perhaps they might be able to pay when they get in a more prosperous condition. Please let me know what you can do for them."

Bro. L., a preacher, writes from a seaport in Maine:—

"DEAR BRO. HERRON:—I write to you to know whether you can provide a Sunday School Library for the brethren here, and wait till next spring or summer for your pay. They have built a house of worship this season, though poor and few in number, which has called for all of their available means, and it forces them to give up the idea of a library, unless they can get it without present pay. The brethren here go to sea in summer, and spend the severer winter months at home, which is the best season for their Sunday School. If you can send them a library, please do so as soon as convenient."

If the means were at hand, I would furnish each of these schools with a $12 or $15 Library at once, but as I have not the means, I must wait till the Lord sends it.

Boston, Mass. WILLIAM B. HERRON.

The Young Pilgrim for January.

The Young Pilgrim for January 1st contains the following good reading for the young:

"The Sun-bright Clime," a beautiful description of that better world to which we are going. The Story of "Little Annie," showing how our young pilgrim friends may work for Jesus and bring sinners to Christ. "Blossoms in Winter," showing what young Gotthold thought about the near coming of Christ, and the signs of it. "Wasn't Eve Foolish?" or how we lost the first Paradise, and how we may gain the better one. "A Bad Foundation," a good word for boys and girls who would build up a good character. "The Strange Appearance in the Heavens" in England. "The Giraffe," with a cut. "Greenland Boys playing Ball," with a cut. "The Memphis Band of Hope." The column "For Our Wee Ones," and many other good pieces, questions, and puzzles.

Now is the time for new subscribers to begin. Single copy, 50 cents; ten copies, 40 cents each; fifty copies, 35 cents each. Address YOUNG PILGRIM, BOSTON, MASS.

NOTE.—I am at liberty to supply destitute places with preaching wherever it is desired.

A. KIDDER.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, on Wilbraham Camp-ground, Friday, August 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments.............$288.04
John Bigwood.................................1.00
J. P. Marquard................................2.00

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments..............75.35

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments.............$3221.17
Geo. S. Harwood..............................90.00
N. W. Wait....................................200.00
Mary Veasey.....................................1.00
Charlotte C. Manchester......................1.00
Martha L. Willard..............................1.00
A Friend (South Reading) pledge paid..10.00
P. S. Butler (balance of pledge)...........15.00
John Bigwood....................................1.50
Mary C. Tuller.....................................12

"Friends," to furnish food and clothing for the Freedmen at Memphis, $30.00; Geo. S. Harwood $10.00, for the Sunday School at Memphis; 2 barrels of clothing from the North Church, Lake Village, N. H.

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments..............$99.37
Mary Veasey......................................1.00
Wm. Elder...1.00

For the World's Crisis.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

It is one month ago to-day since Bro. R. W. Wilson and myself arrived in this place, two poor invalids; but what God hath wrought in that short space of time, is most incredible to any one not an eye witness. My health never was better, and my enjoyment in the blessed work of the Lord cannot be expressed. The climate acts like a charm on me, both physically and spiritually, and I can perform much more labor in the way of preaching than I can North. Bro. Wilson is getting better also, and doing very much in the work of exhorting, praying, singing, and visiting from house to house, and the Lord blesses him very much. But the best of all is, the Holy Spirit attends the word spoken, to the powerful conviction and conversion of sinners and backsliders to God.

Last evening between twenty and thirty rose for prayers, and I think as many more under conviction. After meeting, the postmaster from up the river, about one hundred miles from here, came to me and begged of us to pray for him, and urged us to send an appointment to his place; and two young men from some vessels on the river, with hearts very much affected, wanted us to pray for them; although they did not rise for prayers, yet they were wrought upon by the Spirit of the Lord, and could not go away without talking with us.

O what a glorious work this is! Angels rejoice, and I will rejoice with them. You may have some idea of it when I tell you that men will rave and say very hard things about the meetings, and the same evening they will come to meeting, and the truth and the Holy Spirit will get hold of their hearts, and they will weep like children, and the next move will be to rise for prayers. All classes of people are moved, and every professor that I have talked with about his enjoyment says he is in a backslidden state. The best christians in the Methodist church have been affected in regard to introducing instrumental music in the church. They will not go the Methodist, so they come to our meeting, and say it is the old-fashioned Methodists of twenty years ago, and they like it and receive the truth. The saying that we have heard everywhere we hear here; that is, the Bible is a new book; and it does me good as I see their eyes sparkle and their hearts filled with thanksgiving to God that we ever came to Florida.

The prayers of our dear brethren and sisters for the restoration of our health and the prosperity of our mission to this place have been literally fulfilled. Praise the Lord for his goodness to us. O what a field is the South for labor! The people are broken down and humble, and in just the condition to hear the "gospel of the kingdom." I shall never go back to the North to live. This is the field for me till Jesus comes. Yours in the blessed hope, P. A. SMITH.

Jacksonville, Fla.

For the World's Crisis.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Mrs. C. B. Turner acknowledges the following denations: Friend in Redfield, N. Y., $1.00; A. Malloroy, Westfield, Pa., $1.00; West E. Wilkinson, Buchanan, Mich., 50 cts.; Miss F. Clarke, So. Dansville, N. Y., $1.00; Mrs. H. M. Buttors, Karotie, Minn., $1.00; H. W. Pray, Newport, R. I., $5.00; Miss Dr. B. St. John, Wolcottville, Conn., $5.00; Mrs. A. S. B. Simonds, Darien, N. Y., $5.00; H. F. Carpenter, Danielsonville, Conn., $5.00; Mrs. Davis, Syracuse, N. Y., $5.00; Amanda Underhill, Oneida Valley, one barrel of apples; Mrs. Lauren Grinnell, West Barre, one barrel of flour, and "from friends," $11.00; Mrs. H Luce, Savannah, N.Y., $2.00, one barrel of apples, one of potatoes; M. R. Miles, Wolcott, N. Y., by collections, $14.00; a friend, Vallejo, Cal., $1.00.

Many thanks, dear friends, for your timely aid and welcomed letters. May you all receive a rich reward for your kindness when Jesus comes, and be so unspeakably happy as to enter the haven of eternal rest.

LATER.

☞ SR. A. E. SMITH acknowledges the following donations for the Mission:—One box from Susan M. and W. E. Robinson, Rockport, Me., with books; from "a friend looking for Jesus," a box with clothing and books, also one with men's clothing, books, and some apples; $1.00 from "Pilgrim and stranger," Bangor, Me.; F. A. Ketchum, Portland, Me., $1.00; Elizabeth Farnsworth, Groton, Mass., $10.00; also in same letter, from Bro. G., $5.00; Westfield, Mass., $2.00; from Concord, N. H., $3.00. The five barrels noticed last week from Concord were three from Concord, one from East Concord, by Sr. Hutchins, and one by Sr. L. W. Davis, Warren Village; Bro. A. M. Higgins, Palmer, Mass., $20.00; Bro. and Sr. S., Michigan, $2.00; L. B., Guilford, Ct., $5.00, to pay his share of five months' rent; Srs. Hayward and N. L. Pierce, New Britain, Ct., $1.00 for rent; from "a brother in Jesus," for Mission work, $5.00; Bro. Peirce, Westerly, $1.00, and six postage stamps; I. L. Curtis, Thompsonville, Ct., 50 cts.; one barrel from Worcester, Mass., by Sr. L. B. Cummings.

For the World's Crisis.

THE CUP.

"The cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?"

This language of our Savior was uttered by him when set upon by the officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, who took and bound him who is King of kings and Lord of lords, and led him before counsellors and chief priests, who put to death the Lord of life and glory. As they came out to take him, one Simon Peter drew his sword and smote the high priest's servant and cut off his ear, which called forth this saying from him who had been but a short time before in great agony pleading with his Father, and sweating as it were great drops of blood—"Put up thy sword into its place; the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?" Equivalent to saying, The cup which my Father hath given me, I shall drink it. Oh no, says one, he prayed to his Father that that cup might pass from him; that he might not drink it; and he prayed unto Him who was able to save him from death, and was heard in that he feared; and the cup was this: He in the garden with the sins of the world heaped upon him was afraid, or feared that the devil would take his life then and there, and he prayed unto Him that was able to save him from death, and was heard in that he feared, and the cup did pass from him; he did not have to drink it. But, says Christ, The cup which my Father giveth me I shall drink. Now if this be so, why does our Savior use this language? Let us examine the prayer of our Savior, and see if he feared the devil would kill him, and he should not die as the prophets had said he should,—that he should be taken and by wicked hands crucified and slain; that he should be numbered with the transgressors; that he should pour out his soul unto death.

Now we find that after the Savior had eaten the passover with the twelve, he said unto them, All of you shall be offended because of me this night; and to Peter he said, This night, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice; and then he came with his disciples unto a place called Gethsemane, and said unto them, "Tarry ye here while I go yonder and pray"; and he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be very sorrowful, and said, "My soul is exceeding sorrowful even unto death; tarry ye here, and watch with me"; and he went a little further, falling upon his face, and prayed saying, "O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me; nevertheless not my will, but thine be done." Then as he came unto his disciples, he found them asleep, and said, "Could ye not watch with me one hour?" and he went away the second time and prayed, saying, "O my Father, if this cup may not pass from me, except I drink it, thy will be done." How differently he prayed the second time from the first. First he said, If it be possible, let this cup pass from me; but when he prayed the second time he said, If it may not pass except I drink it, thy will be done. When he prayed the second time he felt almost satisfied that the cup could not pass except he drank it; and when he prayed the third time he used the same words, and came to his sleepy watchers and said unto them, "Sleep on, now, and take thy rest [my prayer is answered; the cup cannot pass from me; I must drink it]; the hour is at hand"; the Son of man is betrayed, and my betrayer is at hand. Not a word said or even intimated that he feared the devil would kill him then and there, and prayed unto his Father not to let him kill him, and was heard in that he feared, and the cup did pass from him; no, not at all.

He desired that this cup might pass from him, yet feared that it could not, and as he prays the second time, he is almost sure that it could not, and after praying the third time, he was heard in that he feared. Therefore he says, sleep on now, the Son of man is betrayed, and he that doth betray me is at hand; and as they come to take him, and Peter with his sword cuts off the ear of the servant of the High Priest, he says, "Put up thy sword; the cup which my Father has given me," I shall drink it. This plainly shows that his prayer was answered, for the cup which he told Peter that he should drink was none other than the cup which he asked his Father to let pass from him, if it were possible. No, our blessed Savior did not fear that he would die by the hands of the devil in the garden, for but a moment before he came in the garden where he prayed unto his Father sweating as it were great drops of blood, he says unto his disciples, as he ate that passover with them, a thing he desired to do before he should suffer, and while the hand of him that should betray him was upon the table, he says, Truly the Son of man goeth as it was determined, that he should be delivered by the determined counsel and foreknowledge of God, for the hand and counsel of God had determined before what was to be done with the holy child Jesus.

Yes, sinner, Jesus drank the cup with its bitter dregs, for you and me, and through his sufferings and death his faithful followers have a hope of a resurrection from the dead to life eternal, their bodies changed and fashioned like unto his own glorious one. He drank the cup to redeem the earth and bring it back again to its pristine glory, that it should once more become good, bloom in immortal beauty, and be the everlasting abode of all the children of God. Would you like a home there, where no sickness, pain or death can ever come; where sighs and tears will never enter? Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ with all your heart and you may, and that in a very little while, for he soon is coming here again; not to drink another cup, but to cause all the wicked and ungodly to drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which will be poured out without mixture, and to reward all them that love him and his appearing with life unending, and a home with him in the kingdom. A. J. PAGE.

For the World's Crisis.

TO THE CHURCHES IN MASS.

Dear Brethren:—Shall we sustain our State Conference? If so, will you send your delegates? The churches in other States are doing much good in this direction. Let us rally to the next quarterly meeting some time in January. When shall we have it? Will some church that is desirous of a meeting of three days or more invite the conference to their place? Let us hear from you as soon as possible. Direct your letters to J. HEMENWAY, Athol Depot, Mass.

☞ Confucius has been translated, abridged, and set forth for the edification of English readers by James Legge, D. D.

Correspondence.

From Sr. C. B. Turner.

Bro. Grant:—As the dear friends of Jesus have written me so many kind, consoling letters, and express a desire to have me answer them privately, I thought best to write a letter for the Crisis, our much loved paper. Will those who have written to me please accept this as an answer to their letters? I have answered many of your letters, but find it keeps my mind too active; therefore it will be necessary to suspend writing for the present. Dear friends, you who sympathize with me in this hour of deep affliction and bereavement, I well know many are the hearts smitten by the same sad stroke I feel. It seems almost impossible for me to become reconciled. As the days and weeks pass by I feel sad and lonely. O how I miss my beloved companion. He was truly the light and joy of my happy home.

It may interest you if I relate a dream that he had about one year ago. I think it was a premonition of his death. He dreamed that he died and yet lived. He thought he saw himself laid out in the coffin, and his coffin placed near the railroad, where he was transacting business. He dreamed it was almost impossible for him to keep away from the coffin. He was laid out beautifully, with a pleasant smile on his countenance. While gazing at himself he felt afraid it might attract the attention of the men on the railroad, so he dropped the lid of the coffin, for fear they might call him a very foolish man to take so much pride in gazing at himself. Thus ended his dream. It has proved to be a reality. There was no business transacted by him on the railroad, but he was brought home a corpse. He had a sweet smile on his countenance. There were some present at the funeral who never cared to look at a corpse, it gave them such gloomy feelings; but it was with reluctance they turned away from his. It did seem as though he might converse with us; but oh! it could not be; his precious form was cold and lifeless, his eyes closed in death.

O! how could I endure it without the sustaining grace of God? The world is cold and drear and almost empty without you; but you are safe, sealed for the first resurrection; and by the assisting grace of God I shall meet and greet you in the paradise of God, where all tears will be wiped from every eye. The blessed Savior says, "In the world ye shall have tribulation, but in me ye shall find peace." Praise the Lord, I do enjoy that peace of mind that is like a river, the righteousness thereof as the waves of the sea; and I can say, "Though He slay me, yet will I trust in Him."

Dear brethren and sisters, how is it with you, who have been so highly favored in hearing the words of life from my beloved companion's lips? I exhort you to be faithful to the grace already given; cast not away your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward. My prayer is that you may so run the race, so wage the good fight of faith, so discharge the solemn and imperative duties devolving upon you, that you may overcome and meet my beloved and the whole church of God at the sound of the last trump; then partings will be eternally unknown. There will be no more separations by death, but an eternal reunion in the kingdom of God.

From your sister in tribulation, striving for the incorruptible crown,

Syracuse. N. Y. Mrs. C. B. Turner.

From Sr. A. E. Smith.

Bro. Grant:—After being quite sick four days, not able to be about, I commence work again to-day feeling somewhat better, but far from well. My first work is to inform your readers that I have received the things sent me, and no doubt I have had their prayers, or I should not have been raised up so soon. I received a letter from some one saying, "A. E. Smith. Please find one dollar enclosed for Star of Hope Mission, and oblige a sinner. I wish I had the faith and hope your people seem to possess." Now, brethren and sisters, will you pray that this one may have our faith and hope, and be saved by grace in the everlasting kingdom of God?

Also received one box of books, corn, and twenty-six boxes of Dr. Fuller's Household Pills, from Sr. Fuller of Hartford, Ct.; also a little box of new books from L. Morse of Acworth, $1.05. Another box of books from J. Weston, of St. Charles, Mo., $1.50. A box from D. I. Ellsworth, of Windsor, Ct., with a splendid turkey for Christmas dinner. Thank you. Sr. Boide says, "God bless you."

Yesterday was a dull Christmas; not a single present to any one of us, and only one meal; but to-day the turkey has come, so we shall have our Christmas dinner to-morrow, Friday. We feel a little ashamed, although sick and nervous, that we did fret and think it was hard to be missionaries and have no friends to come and speak kindly on that day, if on no other day in the year; but it is all over now, and we feel better. The Lord forgive us. We do not want to complain.

Two barrels of crackers from Bro. William Brown, Jr., of Dansville, N. Y., freight paid through. My dear brother, if you could only see these hungry ones as we give each a few, and hear the prayers that go up for those that sent them, you would be repaid; you can afford to wait till Jesus says, "I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat."

Also $2.00 by the same, from Eld. J. B. Cook of Rutland, Vt. From Sr. Sarah Mills, of Jonesville, $2.00, for rent for Dec. or Jan.; also $1.00 from E. C. G., old Lyme, Conn.; P. O. order from the brethren and sisters of Providence, R. I., $16.50, by Nathaniel Phillips; one barrel from Mrs. P. Glidden, Roxbury, Vt., containing three quilts, and sundries; freight on it $2.00.

Thus we saw it looked very dark around us about paying this month's rent, as it is almost due; but it looks more like it now, and we begin to cheer up and take courage. It will do us good to have our faith tried; but we thought we had plenty of care on us, to look after the sick and dying, without being obliged to worry about the rent. But that is my disposition, unless every thing moves along as it ought, I fret; but I think if I stay in this work long, I shall learn not to worry, but to trust. I have got to the place where there is no use in talking, but must move right along and see what the Lord will do. So please to pray for me, that having done all, I may stand still and see the salvation of God.

I am still very weak and nervous; can not sleep; for four nights have not slept; and when morning comes am just as tired as the night before. I have just received a letter from Mother Howard of Va., begging for more clothes and books for her schools. All of the books which we do not need for our mission I shall send to her, and so keep them moving and doing good. Our missionaries are doing a good work down there now, and are getting ready to start three more schools, and will need hundreds of books and slates. Please do not forget these laborers way off by themselves; no whites live near them; no society; no home comforts; no good food. Do not be afraid to fix up a box of canned fruits or jellies, and a home-made fruit cake, and send it to them. Remember, we have three of our best workers down there,—two from Boston, and one from Philadelphia; and they have not been used to such hardships. Let us try and make them as comfortable as we can. Remember the laborer is worthy of his hire; but they all work without money and without price. God will hold us accountable for the care we take of them. Your sister in the highways and hedges, Anna E. Smith.

No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.

From Sr. J. M. Holdridge.

Bro. Grant:—It being an utter impossibility to correspond individually with all of those with whom I so recently formed acquaintance in Mass., more particularly in Bro. Mirick's and adjoining neighborhoods, I take this way of tendering my sincerest gratitude to one and all, for their kindness toward me. I sometimes think, as I roam abroad over the earth, trying to tell the story of the cross; feeling and knowing for myself and not for another that my labors, though performed in weakness (aside from the help God vouchsafes to give), are appreciated; and I everywhere meet with cordial greetings, warm welcomes, and friendships formed of a christian character, of the language of the poet:

> "How do thy mercies close me round!
> Forever be thy name adored;
> I blush in all things to abound;
> The servant is above his Lord."

To say I like the people called Adventists, would be language too weak to express my warm sympathy and spiritual regard for them, as far as my knowledge of them extends. I love them as christians love one another; or as children belonging to the great household of faith.

No doubt, I shall entirely forget many occurrences that have transpired since my visit was made among them; but never, whilst memory retains her accustomed seat on the throne of reason, shall I forget their devotion to the truth, their apparent forgetfulness of self, and their love for their neighbors. Since my return home, the people being anxious of course to know where I have been, and what I have seen, I tell them among other things that I have seen a people, mingled with them day after day, ate and drank with them, preached and prayed with them, that came the nearest to Paul's requisition, to esteem others more highly than ourselves; and again Christ's command, Do unto others as you would like to have them do unto you, of any class of people I ever saw or expect to see. This truthful statement is no no mean compliment, is it, friends? May blessings temporal and spiritual attend you. Amen and amen.

Mrs. Jane M. Holdridge.

From Bro. J. Cornell.

To the Crisis:—Dear brethren of this northern region, I feel very desirous that you should have the labors of Elder G. W. Rathbone, of Illinois. He is now laboring in Winona with very good effect. As a church and people we were very low. With the consent of our pastor and the other deacon I sent for him. Some of our most prominent members say his teaching is far in advance of the day.

Elder Rathbone thinks of spending the winter in this region. I am satisfied that you will confer a blessing upon yourselves by securing his services. He expects to attend the conference at Eleota. Brethren, you may think it strange that I thus write to you; but I have known Eld. Rathbone years, long enough to know him to be a scholar—one mighty in the Scriptures; more than this, a man of faith and full of the Spirit of God.

Yours with respect, Joseph Cornell.

Winona, Minn.

P. S. Direct early to Eld. G. W. Rathbone, Winona, Minn.

From Bro. H. Pratt.

Bro. Grant:—I found a good interest at Knowlesville, and a good attendance. I returned to Rochester Friday. Met with the church at the new hall; a large attendance, and a most heavenly time. Five arose for prayers. Bro. Dutton's son-in-law, a Baptist preacher from the west, spoke very highly of the meeting and interest. Sunday was another of those melting times that brings us near to God. Some were ready for burial, but the grave was not dug, so we deferred it till next Sabbath. H. Pratt.

For the World's Crisis.

100 AGENTS WANTED.

We want at least one hundred active, earnest men, to sell the forthcoming book, entitled "Adventism, What is it? Its Relation to Theology and Prophecy." We want men to travel on foot, and stop at every house, and earnestly solicit every family to purchase a copy, that they may correctly understand our sentiments. Many will purchase such a book out of curiosity, and thus get interested in the the truth, You will meet some cold bigots no doubt; but many of them even will purchase the work after hearing the index read. Some of you cannot preach, but wish to do something in the cause; in this manner you can do more good than many preachers are doing. You will not get rich, but you can make fair wages, and be at work for God at the same time. Make the experiment. Try the work for two weeks, even if you make poor wages. The retail price of the work will probably be 50 cts., and the printer promises to have it out of press about the first of January.

If we had the funds on hand, we would let you have them on commission; but as it is, you can send Bro. Himes ten dollars and get a package at the lowest figures, better than to take them on commission, and run your own risk of selling them. This small amount will not break you, even if you have poor luck in selling them. This will give you experience, and satisfy you how largely to order afterwards. Ministers, too, can do this work. Try it. Who will volunteer? Send an order, with ten dollars to J. V. Himes, Buchanan, Michigan. Wm. Sheldon.

☞ That man is poor who cannot pay his debts, though he has thousands in his possession; that man is rich who "owes no man aught but love," though he eats from a pine table, in a log cabin, kept neat and clean by an industrious wife.

WALKING WITH GOD.

How blessed are all who walk with God! Their spiritual enjoyments, to carnal minds unknown, vastly transcend the highest delights of mere sense. Religion also sweetens all their earthly good, and gives it a peculiar relish. Health, food, rest, retirement, and whatever else, are enjoyed the best by those who use them all with a single eye to the glory of God; and even afflictions lose much of their keen edge, and are often welcomed as gracious and salutary dispensations, where God is truly enjoyed. In this world, the pious are not left without many expressions of God's favor and love; but in regard to the world to come, it hath entered into no human mind to conceive how vastly more blessed they shall be and that forever and ever. None serve God for nought; for "in the keeping of his commandments there is great reward." "Blessed is every one that feareth the Lord, and that delighteth greatly in his commandments. Such are blessed with the sensible favor, support, guidance, and protection of the Most High, and with a satisfying hope and earnest of glory everlasting. Our happiness rises in proportion to our devotedness to God. Without religion we cannot but be unhappy; and the not being so earnest and faithful as we should be, after having known the salvation of God, deprives us of much enjoyment, and exposes us to a miserable and ruinous fall." "Watch and pray!"—Ex.

Obituaries.

Potter. Died in Clements County of Annapolis, Nova Scotia, March 25th, 1867, my brother, John L. Potter, aged sixty-five years.

Bro. John loved the Lord. He never joined any religious sect, fearing that he might deceive himself; but a short time before his death the Lord revealed himself unto him, and made his path plain, which grew brighter and brighter until death closed his eyes, to see no more until the resurrection morn, when I trust that brother John will come forth clothed in immortality, to die no more. He leaves a sorrowing widow and five children to mourn the loss of a kind husband and parent. May the Lord's promise be fulfilled to them.

E. M. Potter.

Green. Died at the residence of D. Mathewson, Sandy Hill, N. Y., Dec. 13th, Mrs. Polly B. Green, relict of the late Rowland Green, of Galway, N. Y., in the seventy-second year of her age.

Sister Green embraced the religion of Christ, and united with the Christian Church in Galway, N. Y., in 1814. In 1842, she, with her husband, embraced the Advent faith under the preaching of Father Miller, and remained a firm believer of the doctrines until her death. The blessed hope of soon seeing the Just One sustained her in her last trial. She sighed for the rest that remains for the people of God. Sister Green was a good woman. None knew her but to love. D. Mathewson.

Hubbard. In Sandisfield, Mass, Nov. 16th, of typhoid fever, Bro. Harley A. Hubbard, aged thirty-one years.

"Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." May the bereaved widow, with other mourning friends, be comforted with the "blessed hope." Geo. L. Teeple.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

London, 25. The precautions of the Government against the Fenians continue. Very extensive and unusual preparations have been made today, which indicate that the authorities are in possession of information that a general attempt is to be made by the Fenians to rescue the prisoners confined in the various parts of the United Kingdom for complicity in the late outrages both in England and Ireland. In addition to the regular police force, special constables are everywhere on duty, and other precautionary measures have been adopted by the Government, which it is hoped will result in the preservation of order.

The Times of to-day has an editorial on the subject of the Abyssinnian war, which it fears will be protracted until next year. It blames Sir Wm. Napier, the commander of the British forces, for the delay which the expedition has encountered, and says nothing of consequence can be done during the present season.

The Russian Government has addressed a note to the Government of France protesting earnestly against the shifting policy of the latter upon the Eastern question.

Advices from China by the overland mail and telegraph report that the rebels are meeting with success in their operations against the Imperial Government.

Paris, Dec. 26. The report that the French expeditionary corps remaining in Italy is to be reinforced is confirmed this morning by the Patrie, which states that the French Government has issued orders for the departure of 20,000 more troops for Civita Vecchia.

Dec. 27. The Pope has enjoined the Rothschilds against paying the coupons on the Italian bonds in this city.

London, Dec. 27. It is reported that the Sublime Porte has offered to the Cretans an autonomous government, but has named Prince Christian as its head.

Dec. 29. Dispatches from Italy represent that there is much political agitation in Northern and Southern Italy. In Naples and in the cities of Piedmont the excitement is dangerous, and fears are entertained that it may culminate in risings against the authority of the Government.

DOMESTIC.

☞ The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune says that "despatches have been received at the War Office within the last few days stating that the soldiers sent to take possession of the icebergs are in a most destitute condition; that they will be frozen to death or maimed for life before supplies can reach them. General Grant and General Sherman had a consultation a few days ago on the subject. General Grant stated that he had nothing to do with the affair, that the President ordered the troops there, and that he had no authority to act. It appears that there is no way now to relieve them, and that all access to our northern paradise is barred by the eternal snows and ice."

Niagara Subsided.—A letter in the New York Tribune describes certain strange phenomena which occurred at Niagara River and Falls last week. The strong easterly gale sent the waters of Lake Erie westward, leaving the Niagara River and tributaries lower than were ever known before. Buffalo Creek was so low that all the vessels in it were grounded, and Niagara Falls was a rivulet compared with its native grandeur. The American branch was so denuded that one could travel in its rocky bed without wetting his feet, and mysteries that were never before revealed came to light on that day. Rocks that heretofore were invisible appeared in their full-grown deformity upon the surface, and great was the consternation among the finny tribes. The Three Sisters were accessible to foot passengers, and many traversed where human foot had never trod, with perfect impunity and dry feet. Below the Falls was the wonder of wonders. The water was full twenty feet lower than usual, and the oldest inhabitants gazed in wonder at the grand transformation. Near Suspension Bridge the celebrated rock at Whitmer's mill, upon which a drowning man caught and rested several years ago, which barely projects its head above the water, was laid bare twenty feet above the surface.

☞ Very many more Americans have visited Russia during the past year than ever before, and were treated with marked courtesy by the government and people. While Englishmen and Frenchmen have their trunks searched and undergo a good deal of general scrutiny, Americans pass hither and thither at will, without molestation. From Czar to peasant, all extend a cordial welcome to those coming from the United States.

It is said that an agreement has been arrived at between Louis Napoleon and the Italian ambassadors at his Court, that Italy shall at once take possession of the Papal States, but that Pio Nono shall retain the Government of Rome until his death, when the Temporal Power shall cease to exist.

Married.

In Castleton, Vt., Dec. 25th, at the residence of the bride's father, by Eld. S. G. Mathewson, Mr. D. Dwight Cole, late of Otego, N. Y., and Miss M. Alice Sherman, eldest daughter of Carlos S. Sherman.

In Westport, Dec. 25th, 1867, by Eld. J. W. Thomas, Eld. Allen Damon of Corrina, Me., and Miss Lucy A. Sherman, of Westport, Mass.

At Meredith, N. H., Nov. 18th, 1867, by T. E. Lang, Jr., Bro. W. N. Bagley of Lynn, Mass., and Sr. Mary Ann Nute of Sandwich, N. H.

In Victory, Nov. 25th, 1867, by Eld. E. C. Cowles, Mr. Seneca Goodman and Miss Esther Pulver, both of Victory, N. Y.

Notices.

Conference Notice.

The first quarterly meeting of the Conn. A. C. Conference will be holden at Day's Hall, northwest corner of Elm and York Streets, New Haven, Ct., commencing Wednesday evening, Jan. 8th, at 7 o'clock, and hold over the following Sunday. The church at Day's Hall propose to accommodate all who will come. They, therefore, cordially invite the friends of the cause throughout the State to assemble with the brethren in the ministry. They, with the conference, would also be glad to welcome brethren from other States. Brethren coming to the meeting will call on Bro. Dunham, 138 George street, or G. W. Denny, at the same number; Bro. Gillespie, 2 Lafayette Place; or Eld. Amzi Steele, 20 Franklin street.

Come from all points by R. R. By boat, from New York, if you wish. Propeller Line, 26 E. R., (Peck Slip), 4 P. M., arrive at 10 P. M. Fare 75 cts. Old Line, 25, E. R. (Peck Slip), 3.15 P. M., arrive at 8 P. M. Fare $1.00.

W. S. Campbell, President.
B. St. John, Secretary.

Notice.

The church worshiping at the Bethel, in Concord, N. H., have secured the labors of Sister Anna E. Smith, the Lord willing, in a protracted effort, to commence Tuesday, Jan. 14th, and hold over the following Sunday. The object of this meeting is to try to save men and women from the coming wrath of God, so soon to burst upon a sleeping church and guilty world. We invite our preaching brethren, and all the Lord's children in the adjacent towns, and elsewhere, to come and assist us in laboring for the perishing. May our prayers unitedly ascend the throne of grace, that this meeting may be specially blessed of God, and result in the highest good to all who may attend. "The Judge standeth at the door." For the church,

T. H. Ford,
J. T. Kimbell,
A. H. Saltmarsh.

Ministerial Conference at Lewiston, Me.

The fifth Ministerial Advent Conference will hold its session Tuesday, Jan. 21st, 1868, at 2 P. M. Preaching in the evening. Ministers are invited to attend and confer with each other in relation to spreading the gospel of the kingdom in Maine, that we may labor in harmony together in the great work of saving sinners. Homes for brethren and sisters, but no stables for horses.

S. K. Partridge, President.
C. H. Leverton, Secretary.

Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Our conference will hold its annual session at North Scituate, R. I., commencing Wednesday, Jan. 1st, 1868, at 2 P. M. Will not every church send a delegate? Will not preachers come from far and near? Come to our watch meeting Dec. 31st.

H. F. Carpenter, Clerk.

Notice.

I would say to the readers of the Crisis that I am publishing a book containing all the testimony of the Old and New Testaments, relating to the second personal coming of Jesus Christ. Also extracts from history of the early reformers on the subject. Price, $3.00 per hundred; 50 cts. per dozen; 5 cts. single, postpaid. All orders may be sent to Allen Daman, Fall River, Mass., for the present.

Conference.

There will be a conference at the Federal meeting-house in Buckfield, Me., commencing Thursday evening, Jan. 9th, 1868, and continue over the following Sunday. Ministers and brethren from abroad are cordially invited to attend. Call on R. A. Haggett and Cyrus Bartlett.

E. M. Haggett.

Notice.

Bro. A. C. Newell has labored with us to good effect the past weeks, and by request of the brethren will remain for the present, preaching Sunday, Jan. 5th, and evenings through the week, and onward as the Lord may direct. For the brethren,

J. S. Maynard, Sec.

Knowlesville, N. Y., Dec. 27th, 1867.

Notice.

Bro. J. G. Hook is requested to come to Hoosick and hold some meetings at the Advent Chapel, as soon as he can make it convenient. Will Bro. Hook please drop a line to Box No. 2, Hoosick Falls, N. Y. L. Harrington, Clerk.

Conference.

The North Western Quarterly Conference will be held at South Casco, Me., commencing Thursday evening, Jan. 1st, 1868, to continue over the following Lord's day. Brethren and sisters, with ministers from abroad, are invited.

Jas. A. Libby.

Notice.

The Eastern Maine Advent Conference will be held at Bangor, Me., to commence in Music Hall, on Thursday evening, Jan. 2d, to continue over the following Sunday. Brethren laboring to save our fellow men from sin and the wrath to come, are invited to attend. By order of the last quarterly conference, Thomas Smith.

Notice.

I will hold a series of meetings in New London, Fish Creek Landing, Oneida Co., N. Y., as Bro. Wm. Morrel may appoint, commencing Jan. 16th, 1868. Bro. Stevens will be present to help preach the word; also Sr. Jennings a part of the time. Meetings will continue as long as seems duty.

M. R. Miles.

Notice.

The Alton Bay Campmeeting Committee are requested to meet at the Advent Chapel in Exeter, N. H., Thursday, Jan. 2nd, 1868, at one o'clock P. M., to attend to necessary business connected with the interest of the meeting. J. G. Smith.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION,
No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.
Anna E. Smith, Superintendent and Manager.

Meetings.
Sunday School 10 o'clock every Sunday.
Love Feast 2 o'clock every Sunday.
Preaching 7 o'clock Sunday evenings.
Meetings every evening during the week.

Notice.

Elder Thomas Smith, No. 7 Fourth Street, Bangor, Maine, keeps for sale English Bibles and Testaments, American Bible Union Testaments, H. F. Hill's "Saint's Inheritance, or World to Come," with the general variety of Tracts issued by the A. C. P. Society, Boston, Mass.

Holiday Presents for the Children.

Would you make your young friends a present which will afford them continual pleasure and instruction through the year? Send them The Young Pilgrim for 1868. Thus, for 50 cents each, you can, if you please, give a dozen of your young friends "A Happy New Year!" which they will not soon forget; or, for 40 cents each, receive the thanks and prayers of some poor Sunday School, who are unable to pay for the paper themselves.

The following are also very appropriate and acceptable presents for the holidays:—

Stories for Young Pilgrims, Vol. I., with eight illustrations, 50 cts.
Stories for Young Pilgrims, Vol. II., with twelve illustrations, 50 cts.
Pilgrim Praises, in boards, 43 cts.
Revised New Testament, 18mo., $1.12.
Revised New Testament, 32mo., (small) 50c.
Clover Hill Stories, Pleasant Hours, Good Stories,—50 cts. per dozen.
Bethlehem, a Rhyme for Children, 5 cts. single; 50 cts. per dozen.
Chloe Lankton, 87 cts.
Bible Dictionary, with maps and 250 engravings, $1.75.
Bible Text Book, for Students of the Bible, 40 cts.
The Celestial Railroad, 10 cts.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as Tuesday Morning, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston, corner of Causeway and Lowell Streets. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.
J. Couch............Sundays, Dec. 29th and Jan. 5th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)
J. S. White............Sunday, Jan. 5th
C. Goodrich............Sunday, Jan. 12th
A. Simpson............Sundays, Jan. 26th and Feb. 2d

Melbourne, P. Q., Canada, Monday and Tuesday evenings, Jan. 6th and 7th.
Danville, P. Q., Canada. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, Jan. 8th, 9th and 10th.
Quebec, P. Q., Canada............Sabbath, Jan. 12th to 19th
Miles Grant.

Abington, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 5th
H. F. Carpenter.

Lake Village, N. H............Sunday, Jan. 12th
Lowell, Mass............Sunday, Jan. 19th
Lawrence, Mass............Sunday, Jan. 26th
J. Couch.

Square Pond, Ct.
B. Hitchcock............Sunday, Jan. 12th
L. B. Potter............Sunday, Jan. 19th
A. M. Higgins............Sunday, Jan. 26th
P. S. Butler............Sunday, Feb. 2d

Scitico, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 5th
L. F. Moore.

Keene, N. H............Jan. 5th and 12th
Sacrament on first Sunday. A. M. Higgins.

Brimfield, Mass............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Rufus Baker.

Yarmouth, Me.
R. R. York.....every Sunday in January and February except Jan. 12th.
L. F. Cole............Sunday, Jan. 12th

Bath, Me............Sunday, Jan. 19th
L. F. Cole.

Alton Corner............Sunday, Jan. 12th
Melvin Village............Sunday, Jan. 19th
Wolfborough (Furber school-house), Tuesday evening, Jan. 21st, and over Sunday, Jan. 26th.
S. S. Mooney.

Knowlesville, Orleans Co., N. Y., Sunday evening, Jan. 5th. J. W. Lawton.

River Point, R. I............Sunday, Jan. 5th
C. F. Dixon.

Cohocton, N. Y., (as Bro. T. C. Armstrong may appoint), Jan. 6th. C. F. Sweet.

Richmond, Me............Sunday, Jan. 5th
A. H. Walker.

Lovely Street, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 5th
S. Woodruff.

West Scarboro, Me............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Joseph W. White.

Newmarket, N. H.......Wednesday evening, Jan. 1st evenings through the week, and over Sunday, Jan. 5th
Lowell............Thursday evening, Jan. 9th
Manchester, N. H............Sunday, Jan. 12th
A. Mussey Tripp.

Moultonborough, (Hodgdon school-house)......Jan. 5th
Madison, N. H., Saturday, P. M., Jan. 18th, for conference, and Sabbath for baptism. T. W. Piper.

Concord, N. H., (Center Street Church)......Jan. 5th
Loudon Ridge............evening, Jan. 6th
Pittsfield............evening, Jan. 7th
Barnsted, Lock's Corner............evening, Jan. 8th
East Rochester............Jan. 9th
Elliot, Me............Jan. 10th
D. M. Leavitt.

Wallingford Farms, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Square Pond, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 12th
B. Hitchcock.

Cape Elizabeth, (at the brick school-house, known as the Knightville school-house), Sunday, Jan. 5th.
Timothy Cole.

Bristol, R. I., Sabbath, Jan. 5th, and hold meetings through the week and over the following Sabbath, and if thought best, can continue my labors some three or four weeks in that vicinity. T. M. Preble.

New Haven, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 5th
West Haven, Ct............Tuesday evening, Jan. 7th
New York City............Sunday, Jan. 12th
Pleasantville, N. Y............evenings, Jan. 13th and 14th
Brewsters, N. Y., (as Bro. H. Bailey may arrange), evenings, Jan. 15th and 16th.
Pawling, N. Y............evening, Jan. 17th and over the following Sunday. C. H. Sweet.

Center Harbor, N. H., (Town House)............Jan. 5th
Lake Village, N. H., (Chapel), Saturday evening, Jan. 11th, and over Sunday, the 12th.
Campton, N. H., (Bump school-house), Sunday, January 19th.
Holderness, N. H., (True school-house), eve., Jan. 1st
Brick school-house, Jan. 9th. John H. Evans.

Philadelphia, (9th and Spring Garden Streets), Sunday, Jan. 5th, and every evening this week. Subject, the appearing of Christ this year.
William C. Thurman.

West Abington, Mass............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Thomaston, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 12th
New Haven............Jan. 19th
New Britain............Jan. 26th
Hartford............Feb. 2d
W. S. Campbell.

Hartford, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Hiram Munger.

Middletown, Conn............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Prospect, Conn............Sunday, Jan. 12th
Bro. Berkeley, please meet me at the depot, last train south, Saturday, Jan. 11th.
Bristol, Conn............Sunday, Jan. 19th
Middletown, Conn............Sunday, Jan. 26th
Wm. Stuart.

Bristol, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 5th
New Britain, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 12th
Springfield, Mass............Sunday, Jan. 19th
Brimfield, Mass.......Tuesday evening, Jan. 21st till Friday evening. A. Simpson.

West Abington, Mass............Sunday, Jan. 12th
J. M. Murlio.

Carthage............Sunday, Jan. 5th
At Carthage will make arrangement for Weld.
J. T. Jordan.

Wrightville............Sunday, Jan. 5th
New Britain............Sunday, Jan. 12th
Wm. J. Ripley.

New York, (where Bro. Benj. Young may arrange) Jan. 1st, and over Sunday. John G. Hook.

East Rochester, N. H............Sunday, Jan. 5th
J. G. Smith.

Charlton, Mass............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Will some brother meet me at the depot on the arrival of the afternoon train? S. Anderson.

Franklin, Susq. Co., Pa., (new Presbyterian church), evening, Jan. 7th.
Summersville, same county, evening of the 8th; at which time arrangements will be made for a series of meetings in Franklin and Summersville. Preaching by C. F. Sweet. D. D. Lathrop.

West Winsted, Ct....Sunday, day or evening, Jan. 5th
Litchfield, (Chesnut Hill, or as Sr. Abbie Baldwin may arrange), Jan. 12th.
Morris, Ct., (as Bro. S. Glover may arrange), Sunday, Jan. 19th.
New Preston, Ct., (as Bro. Baldwin may arrange), Sunday, Jan. 26th.
Lanesville, (as Bro. Marsh may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 2d.
Brookfield, Ct., (as Sr. C. Barnes may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 9th.
Will Bro. James Squires be so kind as to meet me at the Westfield station, when the 12 o'clock train from Springfield arrives on Friday?
If any of these appointments conflict with others, brethren interested will please drop me a line to that effect, as soon as they see this notice. Direct to H. Rockwell, care of H. H. Dickinson, 44 Windsor Street, Hartford, Ct. H. Rockwell.

Nashua............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Lynn............Sunday, Jan. 12th
Auburn, (at A. F. Fox school-house)............Jan. 19th
Derry, (Killray school-house)............Sunday, Jan. 26th
Will Bro. Brown meet me at the Lynn depot?
Caleb Richardson.

Concord, N. H., (at the Bethel.)
J. T. Dixon............Sundays, Jan. 5th and 12th
Sr. Anna E. Smith............Jan. 14th and onward

Schoodac............Saturday evening, Jan. 4th and over the following Sunday, Jan. 5th.
Z. Ford.

Glenmore, N. Y., Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings, Jan. 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th.
New London, N. Y., school-house near Bro. Wm. Morrell's, Monday evening, Jan. 6th.
Higginsville, N. Y............Tuesday evening, Jan. 7th
Verona, N. Y., at the Lock school-house, Wednesday evening, Jan. 8th. C. H. Williams.

Compton, C. E., (where Bro. Stephens may arrange), Sunday, Jan. 5th. T. E. Lang, Jr.
C. H. Willey.

Meredith Neck............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Wm. H. Shaw.

Parma, Monroe Co., N. Y., (as Bro. Cronk may appoint), January 5d, and over Sunday.
New Milford, as (Bro. D. D. Lathrop may appoint), and continue over the Sunday following. C. F. Sweet.

Southbridge, Mass............Jan. 8th and 9th
Charlton, Mass., Dresser Hill, (as brethren may arrange), Jan. 10th, and over Sunday, and on as the Lord directs. Geo. A. Streeter.

Chelsea, Mass............Sunday, Jan. 5th
Springfield............Jan. 10th
Hartford, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 12th
New Britain, Ct............Sunday, Jan. 19th
Southington, Ct............Jan. 20th
New Haven, Ct............Jan. 21st
West Haven, Ct............Jan. 28th
J. S. White.

Portsmouth, N. H.
Benj. Woodside............Sunday, Jan. 5th
D. M. Leavitt............Sunday, Jan. 12th

Dover, N. H............Sunday, Jan. 12th
Wm. Bodge.

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ Correspondents should, and ought to know, that we cannot discontinue or send their orders, unless they give us the post office and state in plain letters.

☞ ALZINA SPEAR—Money received. Pays to 679.

☞ T. A. GODFREY—Received. Pays to 687.

☞ P. A. SMITH—The Crisis is mailed regularly to his address.

☞ Will Bro. John Richard Boynton give his P. O. address through the Crisis?

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

* The present No. of the Crisis is 639. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid.

If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to, is less than the present No., the difference shows for how many weeks you owe.

Forevery week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the product (which will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness) deduct four cents for every dollar, and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each—G W Thomas 666, P I Brown 632, S B Smith 638, R. Price 688, J W Sharuck 642, W Griswold 658, E. A. Catlin 656, M. Gore 657, H N White 627, J A Hunt 644, R. A. Delano 671, W A Manning 645, A C Knowlton 659, J Hedrick 660, B F Millard 661.

$1.25 each—J Blaisdel 647, J Kenney 650, D B Eaton 656, L Munson 650, S. B. Weeks 663, A S Breed 646, H Vandry 647, H D Law 665, M Crowninshield 663, R Milliken 647, J B Adams 652, J Brown 663, E G Hedges 639, E F Darling 661, E Hartman 663, J Clark 704, S Seeley 637, C. W. McCutchen 663, A A Amsbury 664, A Foster 664, R H Fuller 662, J F Hart 649, H E Spencer 662, J Sturdybaker 582, W Coughman 664, J Hidden 664, J Ritchie 664, F M Graham 640, J S Hutchinson 660, C O Chamberlain 665, N A Smith 665, T. Grover 638, J Bean 665, W B Todd 632, L. Parmelee 616, G Hollar 665, J. Floy 665, W G Churchill 663, H. Moffit 665, A Dolloff 663.

$2.00 each—Z Whitney 680, J Bean 650, N P Woods 679, M Cross 686, R Volentine 641, M G Dunham 692, A Kenney 675, C. O. Taylor 646, W H Thayer 651, C Smith 679, M M Gould 677, E F Wood 673, F Bates Jr. 660, H C Freeman 720, E M Woodbury 677.

$2.50 each—M. Wallace 694, N. S. Chamberlain 687, M W Martin 685, A S Breed 646, J F Atwood 631, W Watson 685, J Smith 636, A Patterson 683, E C Deming 687, C W Richardson 687, N Dooman 674, C Bragg 678, F D Harl 689, G Dean 700, T Marshall 663, J Butler 689, T Clark 690, S G Labree 624, T Libby 653, B Wheelock 693, R Sister 688, W Chamberlain 691, J Nichols 681, E R Williams 689, D. Kendall 691, J S Smith 679, J B Wilbur 686, H G Shaw 690, W Joy 687, G Patch 690, S P Eldridge 674, H Snell 693, B H Albee 690, D Braley 690, A. Hunt 692, C A Parmeter 685, G W Holliday 645, J Wiggin 690, W Chapman 663, J Bardiness 618, C Vanderbeck 682, J C Wheeler 691, J Adams 690, S T Bradbury 596, W Putnam 688, D Palmer 681, C H Smith 670, L F Gardner 676, J Edges 695, J Danforth 687, J L Hyde 674, J Bigwood 686, B & Mc L Gilmore 690, C S Hall 693, Z Littlefield 691, G W Buckley 691, C C Manchester 692, A McLean 670, M M Smith 691, O Kendall 686, C Warner 698, W S Howd 661.

Various Sums.—S. D. Gaylord $5.00, 694; J Sawyer $5.00, 647; D Churchill $4.50, 691; R W Neal $1.50, 642; B. S. Colby $2.55, 713; M. Morgan 85c, 657; D Streeter $2.90, 705; I S Palmer $3.00, 621; R Eaton $3.00, 609; M A Torrence 20c, 641; A Robinson $3.00, 690; B Boughton $3.65, 679; O P Cane $3.00, 695; E W Chandler $3.00, 512; H McClary 50c, 633; J Clark $3.00, 691; S. Wells 90c, 632; J. Pierce $1.50, 660; C. W. Greenfield $3.00, 697; D C Andruss $1.50, 670; O. T Hobbs $5.60, 624; J. G. Pettis $1.50, 682; J. Nason $3.00, 717; S. Thurlow $3.00, 647; S. B. Safford $4.53, 638; A Hall $7.40, 639; R Pratt $1.30, 666; J Talbut 50c, 461; R Pike $3.25, 727; E A Slayton $5.00, 645; B B Campbell $3.00, 662; W H Cook $5.00, 639; A M Barnes 35c, 637; J C Safford $3.00, 621; D S Randall $3.00, 696; W A S Smyth $5.20, 639.

FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.

John Bray $6.00, S Follinsbee 35c, R Lanning $1.00, J G Stauffer $1.07, W Watson $1.50, J Litch $6.00, A Googins 70c, H L Woodard $1.00, H Vaudry $1.75, N Dooman $1.00, G Dean 50c, A Bartlett $1.40, C F Thurlow 35c, A A Lawrence $1.00, E Hartman $1.75, J W Trufant 50c, W E Burnham $1.00, H A Dayton $2.35, W H Thayer $9.00, C F Sweet $1.25, B Boughton 35c, J. B. Wilbur 35c, C E Chamerlain $1.00, H Snell 50c, B H Albee $1.34, M M Goodale 35c, G W Young $5.50, C F Churchill 60c, H S Mitchell $5.00, S. E. Bailey 50c, D Cogswell $4.00, W H Brinkerhoff $1.00, L. W. King $1.20, W. A. Fenn $4.10, R. Pike $1.50, C. S. Hull $3.00, J. P. Marquard $1.25, G. W. Burnham $1.50, S Wheelock $3.00.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.

By Mail—H E Austin, E A Shaw, A Fike, J M McCagg, J Myers, Carlisle Smith, J Kingsley, J I Mettler, Irene Loveland, C Worthington, H A Cressy, Ralph Storrs, L H Luttington, John G Putnam, Daniel Pease, Geo W Foster, Mrs T W Piper, Mrs J Sanders, Lyman Town, G W Burnham, Thomas Rhines, J M Hackett, J S St John, Mrs Thos H Smith, L H Shephard, John Marvin, Rev W Kampmeir, A Ritterhouse, E Hartman, A Daman, D Cogswell, G W Rathbone, C A Chamberlain, D D Lathrop, Hannah Snel, Burr Boughton, Benj H Albee, C F Sweet, B P Stephens, H A Dayton, W E Benham, H A Little, J H Trulant, Mrs J F Cloutman, Mrs A A Lawrence, C F Thurlow, Melinda Woodruff, Miss E A Bartlett, Saml Fallensbee, Rosette Lanning, Wm R Northup, E W Carpenter, E W H Brinkerhoff, D B Dodge, T J Whitcar, Miss S E Baily, H S Mitchell, M M Goodale, Wm A Fenn, Miss F Moulton, G S Shirley, A. H. Watson, James Stewart, E Addison, Mrs. C Fuller, L A Pierce, Gilbert Dean, H L Woodard, A Googin, Chancey Baker, Wm. Watson, J G Straffer, S Smith, Mrs. M L Hunt.

By Express—J Litch, Rice Knight, S L Manley, J C Libby, H H Darling.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

S S Chamberlain, G D Hardegg, N N Davis, G W Denney, W Sheldon, E M Briggs, J R Cooper, C Bragg, H Munger, Mrs. C B Turner, C H Sweet, T G Burper, B C Morrill, O Kendall, S K Paine, L A Jones, M Foss, H Pratt, L. J. Rice, D F Newton, W. Brewster, I C Wellcome, C Colegrove, L T Cunningham, A E Smith, E Bellows, R W Wilson, J Lyle, S M Pollard, J Hemenway, G L Teeple, A A Phelps, R A Delano, E L Hough.

ADDRESS OF PREACHING BRETHREN.

C. E. Piper—41 Grove Street, Boston, Mass.
C. Goodrich—69 Marion Street, East Boston, Mass.
J. S. White—98 Decatur Street, East Boston, Mass.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford, Mass.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls, Mass.
L. Boutell—Salem, Mass.
H. Pratt—Springfield, Mass., 57 Cedar St.
P. S. Butler, Collins Depot, Mass.
E. Owen—Springfield, Mass., No. 64 Walnut Street.
Alvah Bean—Lowell, Mass.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana, Mass.
Allen Damman—Fairhaven, Mass.
C. H. Sweet—Millville, Mass.
J. W. Brittan.—Westboro, Mass.
S. Anderson.—Warren, Mass.
Rufus Baker—Warren, Mass.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer, Mass.
W. E. Hathaway—North Carver, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Lynn, Mass.
S. S. Brasee—Cold Spring, Mass.
N. J. Streeter—Southbridge, Mass.
C. H. Leverton—Surry, Hancock Co., Me.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills, Me.
J. C. Wheeler—Carthage, Me.
F. A. Baker—Levant, Me.
H. S. Mitchell—Cushing, Me.
I. K. Lombard—Machiasport, Me.
J. Carr—South Albion, Me.
B. P. Manning—Goffstown, N. H.
J. G. Smith—New Durham, N. H.
C. C. Stevens—Exeter, N. H.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia, N. H.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth, N. H.
J. Couch—Concord, N. H.
A. W. Sibley—Lincoln, N. H.
A. Simpson—Concord, N. H.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village, N. H.
Z. Ford—Concord, N. H.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426 Concord, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover, N. H.
Wm. H. McDaniels—Fisherville, N. H.
J. B. Cook—Poultney, Vt.
G. W. Stetson—Rutland, Vt.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford, Vt.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
D. N. Chadsey—Canaan, Vt.
J. A. Cleaveland—South Royalton, Vt.
Wm. H. Fisher—Windsor, Ct., care of S. Cooper.
H. F. Carpenter—Danielsonville, Ct.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville, Ct.
L. B. Potter—West Stafford, Ct.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville, Ct.
T. S. Canfield—Bantam Falls, Ct.
B. St. John—Wolcottville, Ct.
Dr. Samuel Wells Treat—Middlebury, Ct.
S. B. Munn—Waterbury, Ct.
Ira Wyman—Warehousepoint, Ct.
Wm. J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley, Ct.
L. F. Moore—Somersville, Ct.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted, Ct.
Geo. A. Cole—Phenix, R. I.
J. K. Bellows—19 Orchard Street, New York City.
Wm. A. Fenn—Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester, N. Y.
Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
S. P. Babcock—Malaga, New Jersey.
J. W. Taylor—Chatham Valley, Tioga Co., Pa.
F. H. Burbank—Dorcas Mission, 705 Lombard street, Philadelphia, Pa.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.
Dr. I. L. Leslie—Box 534, Memphis, Tenn.
Wm. Deverell—Keswick, C. W.
Wm. M. Ingham—Clementsport, N. S.
H. K. Flagg—Advent Christian Hall 1136, No. 5th Street, St. Louis, Mo.
H. Rockwell—Lenox, Ashtabula Co., Ohio
L. C. McKinstry—Norwalk, Ohio.
A. N. Seymour—Fremont, Mich.
J. M. Snook—Romeo, Mich.
J. R. Preston—Lapeer, Mich.

BOOKS AND TRACTS
FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE
Advent Christian Publication Society,
No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Predictions fulfilled, and his Kingdom near. By I. C. Wellcome. 25c; by mail, 27c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 1, By S. S. Brewer. 7c; by mail, 9c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 3, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.
THE KINGDOM OF GOD, and Signs of the Times. By S. S. Brewer. 15c; by mail, 20c.
THESSALONICA; or, The Model Church. By H. L. Hastings. 25c.
SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsay, D. D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE SEVEN SEALS. Exposition of Rev. vi. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.
LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church. By H. L. Hastings. 10c.
THE DAYS WE LIVE IN; The Lord soon to come By S. S. Brewer. 10c; by mail, 12c.
THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M. Preble. 13c; by mail, 15c.
THE SLAYING OF THE WITNESSES. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3c; by mail, 5c.
THE GREAT IMAGE soon to be dashed to pieces By S. S. Brewer. 4c; by mail, 6c.
THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures. Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, etc. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 60c.
STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. 20c; by mail, 22c.
RETRIBUTION; or, The Doom of the Ungodly. By H. L. Hastings. 20c.
DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.
PAULINE THEOLOGY; or, The Christian Doctrine of Future Punishment, as taught in the Epistles of Paul. H. L. H. 10c.
GLAD TIDINGS; or, The End of Woe and Sin by the Destruction of the Wicked. (Three chapters from "Death not Life.") By J. Blain. 8c; by mail, 10c.
WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 6c; by mail, 8c.
ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.
THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.
SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.
REV JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 3c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.
THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables Price, by mail, 40 cents.
UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.
"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.
"THE JUBILEE SONGSTER." A choice collection of original and selected Hymns. A pamphlet edition of ninety-eight hymns. By S. S. Brewer. By mail, 15c. single copy; $1.50 per dozen.
THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail. $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.
THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin. Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant, Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.
LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.
THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 15 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postage, 8c. on every three copies.
THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.
CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.
EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.
HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.
STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.
COOKERY or How to prepare food from Grain, Fruits and Vegetables. By F. W. Hurd, M. D. 15c; by mail, 17c.
VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook and Wm. H. Brinkerhoff. 10c.
THE SABBATH, and its Relation to Man. By mail 3 cts.
SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. 3c. single; 5c. by mail.
BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.
CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.
BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.
DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
RAHAB THE HARLOT. The Scarlet Line the token of Safety; or, the fall of Jericho a type of the fall of the "cities of the nations." By Wm. Shepherd. 10c., postpaid; 85c. a dozen.
CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; a Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Worship. 80c; by mail, 88c.
PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 6c; by mail, 8c.
THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT—Superiority of the New. By A. W. Sibley. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY, or, the Sealed Book of Daniel Opened. $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; or, a Dissertation on the Evidences of Christianity. 25c; by mail, 29c.
SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?—a tract on War. By I. C. Wellcome. 10c.
THE PROPHETIC TIME QUESTION; or, Bible Time Examined. By Wm. Sheldon. 27c.
CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c.
NON-RESISTANCE. By W. C. Thurman. 20c; by mail, 24c.
DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c.
THE DAY AND THE HOUR: a Lecture, by Joseph A. Seiss, D. D. 15c.
"OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.
"THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.
"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"GOLDEN MOMENTS." A four-page tract. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"THE PENALTY OF SIN." By O. R. Fassett. By mail, single copy, 5c.; 40c. per dozen.
AMERICA IN PROPHECY; an Exposition of Isaiah XVIII. By O. R. Fassett. 8c; by mail, 10c.

OUR INFANT LORD.

Long ages past a brilliant star,
Hung in the distant west,
Led wondering wise men from afar,
To find an infant blest.

Its silent course at length was stayed
Above a mean abode,
Just over where that babe was laid,
The kingly Son of God.

With joyful haste, to worship there,
Into that house they come;
They spread perfumes and treasures rare,
And then departed home.

That star went out from Bethlehem's sky;
That humble house decayed;
That babe upon a cross did die;
Those kings in dust were laid;—

But from that strange and lowly birth,
Came all the peace and rest
With which a weary, sinful earth,
Has been rejoiced and blest.

That night has brought an endless day;
That star a sun revealed;
That babe has opened up the way,
By which our sins are healed.

To Christ the Lord our lives we owe,
And all our hopes above;
Then by our service let us show
Our gratitude and love.

E. A. A.—The Christian.

For the World's Crisis.

THE WAY TO LIFE AND THE WAY TO DEATH.

However many divisions the human family may be classed, in a worldly point of view; or however many divisions society may make in regard to character; or however many sects may be originated in the world; or however many distinctions human law may recognize; the divine law and record shows there are but two classes of persons, or two grand divisions of the human race. In the world we may find different classes of people, each class recognized by its own peculiar characteristics; and in a divine point of view we see each of the two grand divisions recognized by their peculiar characteristics, there being a wide difference between the two, both in their manners and habits, and in their objects. One, and by far the largest division, contains people of all kinds of character and habits, from what is termed the moralist down to the vilest and wickedest person living. This class or division lie on one side of the Bible line, and are walking in the broad road that leadeth to destruction; while the other and smaller division, which contains all christians, of whatever name, order, or denomination, are walking in the strait and narrow way which leadeth to eternal life.

Again, each of these grand divisions have their recognized chief or leader, as every sect and order of people in the world have their leaders. On the one hand we find Satan leading a large army, as it were, and he holds out all kinds of false encouragements to prevail on his followers; and he does not hold them out in vain. He commenced his art of gaining confidence in himself in the days of Adam and Eve, in the garden of Eden, and he has kept it up ever since, and with how much success may be seen by glancing over the world to day.

On the other hand, we find a class following the poor despised Nazarene, who holds out no false encouragements, but leads his people in a quiet and peaceable way. He does not make frequent changes in his tactics to keep his little army together, but faithfully fulfills all his contracts and promises when due.

Now, dear reader, to which of these grand divisions do you belong? who is your leader now? The question is not, To what order or society do you belong? or, Of what church are you a member? but, Are you going in the broad road; or are you with the little army walking in the narrow way? Are you of that class who profess to love God, but are so much bound up in the world that you cannot attend to christian duty? Is your lamp burning dimly, so as not to be seen but once in a great while, thus really showing to the world that you have little interest in religious matters? If so, you are in danger every moment of your life. Trim and light your lamp. Come out fully, or you will find yourself at last going down to ruin.

Are you among those who are living on other folks' failings, really having confidence in nobody as christians, but yet talking loudly of how christians ought to live? If so, remember that no excuse you can offer will avail you anything in that day when Jesus, the leader of the christian army, shall come to judge the world and give to every man according as his works shall be. Leave this path, and turn to Christ, and do a christian's duty.

Are you among those who believe in the Bible, but are unwilling to obey its precepts and follow its teachings, relying on your morality for salvation, or on some good works which you may have done, but at the same time omitting the weightier matters, such as repentance, bearing the cross, and confessing Christ? If you are here, do not rest a moment longer, for you are yet in the broad way. Are you found among swearers, drunkards, liars, and subject to all evil habits which we see practised in this day? If you are, remember you are fast hastening to the end of your journey, which will be everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord.

All these characters we find among that class that are following the devices of Satan. There is a vast difference in the appearance and feelings of the two divisions. One is ever seeking after but never finding true happiness; while the other has true peace and happiness amid all the scenes of life. One is seeking the pleasures and habits of the world; while the other is seeking the pleasure that Jesus gives. One class is walking in what seems to be an easy way, and although it costs but little effort to walk in it, yet when we view it in its true light it is a hard way; while on the other hand the other way, although it may seem a hard way, and may cost some effort to walk in it, is an easy one to all who are willing to walk in it.

Sinner, do you desire salvation? do you want a Friend that will never leave nor forsake you? Turn to Jesus, and you will find all this. Have you ever tasted the sweets of salvation and turned back into the world? You know by experience that you cannot find solid peace out of Christ; then why stay away when his mercy is still extended to you? Are you weighed down with sin? Carry it to Jesus, and he will lift it from you. Do you feel that you are lost in your present state? Then flee now. Are you afraid to meet death? Turn to the Life-giver, and he will take this all away. Do you realize that in a little while you must give account to God for your deeds? Get ready to render up your account with joy. Look the matter over and ponder these things well in your heart, and may God give you his Spirit to show you where you are, and help you to turn to him and accept the great salvation and follow Jesus.

To the scattered flock let me say, hold on by faith to our glorious Leader, and he will soon bring us all into one fold; then he who is now our Advocate will be our King, and we shall reign with him for ever. Here we have trials, temptations, afflictions; friends may prove false; the enemy Death may overtake us; but our Friend Jesus will never leave nor forsake us as long as our trust is in him. Let us hold on, then, and soon it will be said unto us, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you"; but to the wicked it will be said, "Depart from me, ye cursed"; and they will be cast into the lake of fire "prepared for the devil and his angels." Sinner, beware! Christian, press on!

N. B. McMurphy.

Gilmanton, N. H.

BY FAITH AND NOT BY SIGHT.

The main point of difference between the christian and worldling is, the one walks by faith, the other by sight. And to the casual observer, to the one unacquainted with that life that is hidden with Christ in God, there may seem to be no important difference between the two. He sees the person pursuing the one path, subject to the same trials of life, susceptible to the same sorrows as the other; and he, whose own soul has never plumed itself with the wings of faith, is unable to pierce beyond the natural horizon that bounds them, hence to him so small seems the difference between the two. But very different is the judgment of one whose own soul has been enlightened by the Spirit's beams.

There are across life's desert these two paths, the one of faith, the other of sight; and by one of them, every earth-born traveler effects his journey of life. Upon the path of faith shines a heavenly radiance, and a celestial guide conducts the traveler; while upon the other falls no cheering rays, nor is there any guide pledged to lead in safety; but the traveler must grope his own way amid the darkness, nor does he know at one step where the next may plunge him. For to man is revealed but a single step of the path of life at a time. But he who can see the end from the beginning, willed not that any should thus blindly pursue his course, but invites all to the luminous path of faith and light.

To the heathen philosopher, persistent in his own blind philosophy, life must indeed be a mystery. To open one's eyes upon this world of beauty, to realize something of the magnificence of created things, to learn something of the wonders of mind, to experience its varied emotions, to speculate upon its undefinable longings here all unsatisfied, and then so soon to leave all, to die with no hope of a life of immortality, but cherishing the motto "death an eternal sleep," such a life must be one of little cheer. And if this heathen blindness is called inexcusable, far less excusable is he, who, rejecting the clear light of revelation falling all around him, seeks to direct his own way, and scorns the offers of that Savior whose mission to earth he knows full well.

Dangerous indeed are the goings of such an one, and if his steps slide not to premature ruin, he is but treasuring up a double retribution to meet finally.

But how different is the state of one who, feeling his own insufficiency to direct his way, humbly yields himself to a heavenly guide, and strives to walk the path of faith.

To walk by faith is to walk trusting in God, holding ourselves in readiness to follow each direction of his Spirit, and cherishing that state of mind that says, "Thy will be done."

The benefits accruing to this walk, are many even in this life. It ever affords to the mind a feeling of safety and security. However fearfully the elements around are raging, he who is walking by faith, can look up to his divine guide, and be assured that, under the shadow of the Most High, he abideth safe.

He who lives a life of faith is best prepared to bear the ills of life, for life's ills will, inevitably, come to all. Trial and temptation are in the world, the fortunes of men are ever fickle, friendships are often but a name, and death, walking both in darkness, and at noon-day, enters many a happy household, bears away his spoil, and leaves bereaved hearts to mourn. Hence, oft-times the soul will be bowed down under a heavy weight of sorrow, yet he who exercises a lively faith can drain the bitter cup and at the same time bless the hand that gives it; and as hotter grows the furnace of his affliction, he feels it will but the more effectually purge away the dross and refine the gold. And while he remembers that the Captain of his salvation was made perfect through suffering, he can rejoice that he also is deemed worthy to suffer. It is in seasons of greatest temptation and sorrow, that we are conscious our divine guide is nearest. It was after Christ's temptation in the wilderness, at the pinnacle of the temple and upon the mountain, that angels came to him, and it was in lone Gethsemane, where the human struggled with the divine, that an angel appeared and strengthened him.

He who lives a life of faith, lives a life of usefulness. He forgets not the words of Jesus, "Inasmuch as ye did it to one of the least of these, ye did it to me." Nor with any sparing hand does he scatter the good seed broadcast over the land, for his faith assures him that every good seed sown, God will watch, and, in his own good time, cause to bring forth fruit.

Faith is a power in the hands of him who exercises it, a power that can move even the arm that moves the world. Many are the benefits that even in this world attend the life of faith, but in that world to come, we can have no hope of anything, unless faith is the basis of that hope.

Sin cannot be forgiven without faith, for he that cometh to God must believe. No one is prepared for that future state of sinless being, who has not exercised faith, for it is by faith that the heart is made pure.

The apostle, while enjoining the putting on of the various parts of the christian armor, says, "Above all taking the shield of faith." Faith is the medium by which we may learn the language of heaven, even while upon earth. By it we obtain a good report of the land of promise, and oft-times, bright glimpses of that city whose builder is God; and by it we are encouraged to persevere yet a little longer in the struggle of life, till faith shall be changed to sight, hope to fruition, and prayer to praise.

☞ The Emperor of Germany, Sigismund, being asked the surest mode of obtaining happiness, replied, "Only do in health what you promised to do when you were sick."

"STRANGERS AND PILGRIMS ON THE EARTH."

Such we all are. Earth is not our home, we are simply passing through it. We have here no continuing city—no permanent abode—no enduring inheritance. The fashion of this world passeth away. The places that now know us here, will soon know us no more forever. May we all realize this solemn fact, and act as becomes wise men in view of it. . . .

If we were traveling through the wilds of Africa, or amid the ruins of Asia, we should doubtless see much of the wisdom, and goodness, and power of God—and much, alas! of the degradation and wickedness of man. But we should hardly think of seeking a home there. We should feel ourselves but strangers and pilgrims in such lands as those. We would tarry no longer than might be necessary to accomplish the object of our journey. Nor would we wish to encumber ourselves with anything not indispensable to comfort and safety. In such a journey we would lay aside every weight—everything that might retard, or hinder our progress. So it ought to be in the pilgrimage of life. How unwise in a pilgrim to load himself down with things that he does not need, and may never use! Every one would say that a traveler thus acting was most foolish.

But how much greater the folly of those seeking "an heavenly" country, who yet persist in lading themselves with the "thick clay" of earthly cares and treasures. The pilgrim may appreciate all the beauty and grandeur of the scenes through which he passes, may use whatever the country affords to help him on his way, and to promote his comfort. And so may the christian enjoy all that a bountiful heaven bestows, and use this as may best facilitate his progress toward his final and eternal home; but not otherwise. He must not give his heart to them—must not find satisfaction in them—must not loiter in the way to enjoy them, or to add to them. He must confess himself a stranger and pilgrim, by acting in accordance with his true character, and so as best to secure the grand object of his journey.

No intelligent American or European traveling in a tropical region, would think of lugging along with him more of the fruits of the country than he might need for present consumption. Why? Because they are perishable. He could not get them home for future use. So neither can the pilgrims on earth carry aught of its treasures to that better country, save only the fruits of righteousness—the reward of holy living and works of beneficence. How unwise then to set their affections on things on earth, or to be anxious to lay up treasures merely for moths to corrupt, for rust to corrode, or for thieves to break through and steal! What would be said of the sanity of a traveler in a land far distant from his home, who would waste his time and strength in hoarding up stores that he could neither consume nor transport? Would not every one say, the man is deranged—he acts like one bereft of reason? So is every one that is found toiling to accumulate treasures on earth, and who is not rich toward God. "He feedeth on ashes—a deceived heart hath turned him aside, that he cannot deliver his soul, nor say, Is there not a lie in my right hand?"—Ex.

For the World's Crisis.

I AM WEARY.

I'm weary of old earth, as it moves along like a perpetual panorama, upon which are depicted scenes of horror, carnage, debauchery and misery. I'm weary of this enchanted ground, so overhung with threatening clouds, storm and tempest. O yes, I'm weary of this country where fear, anxiety and disappointments are the principal ingredients of life, and pale death has unlimited sway. I'm weary of tenting in a foreign land, exposed to the chilly blasts of winter and melting heat of summer. I'm weary of living where adieus are so often expected, and the parting tear dropped. I'm weary of this mortal life, with which pain is almost a constant companion. I groan for redemption. I sigh for home. I tarry only for the jubilee trump to speak these wearisome days ended, and summon me to a fairer clime. O that it might break the stillness of this midnight hour, and the parting heavens reveal the beautiful countenance of my Beloved, uttering the kind solicitation, "Come, ye blessed of my Father," enter into thy rest.

Many are the storms and tempests
That o'erlay our pathway here,
Many are the scenes of sadness
Calling forth the silent tear.

Far beyond this vail of darkness,
Far beyond all earthly woe,
There appears a glorious morning,
Where eternal light shall glow.

Then with firm and measured footsteps,
Often tattered, bleeding, torn,
I wend my way through maze and thicket,
Towards my long-sought Eden home.

Goffstown, N. H. F. F. Boynton.

PERSECUTION.

We quite mistake the nature both of Christianity and of man, if we suppose that opposition to religion can be limited to any age or country. Persecution, in its most terrible forms, is only the development of a principle which must unavoidably exist until either christianity or human nature be altered. There is a necessary antagonism between christianity and human nature. The two cannot be amalgamated: one must be changed before it will combine with the other. And we fear that this, in a degree, is an overlooked truth, and that men are disposed to assign persecution to local or temporary causes. But we wish you to be clear on the fact, that "the offense of the cross has not ceased, and cannot cease."—Gal. v: 11.

We readily allow that the form, under which hatred manifests itself, will be sensibly affected by the civilization and intelligence of the age. In days of an imperfect refinement, and a scanty literature, you will find this hatred unsheathing the sword, and lighting the pile, but when human society is at a high point of polish and knowledge, and the principles of religious toleration are well understood, there is perhaps comparatively small likelihood that savage violence will be the engine employed against godliness. Yet there are a hundred batteries which may and will be opened upon the righteous.

The follower of Christ must calculate on many sneers, and much reviling. He must look to meet often with coldness and contempt, harder of endurance than many forms of martyrdom; for the courage which could march to the stake may be daunted by a laugh. And frequently the opposition assumes a more decided shape. The parent will act harshly towards the child; the superior withdraw his countenance from the dependent; and all because of giving heed to the directions of Scripture. Religion, as though it were rebellion, alienates the affections, and alters the wills of fathers and guardians. So that we tell an individual that he blinds himself to plain matters of fact, if he espouses the opinion that the apostle's words applied only to the first ages of christianity, "all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution." 2 Tim. 3: 12. To live godly in Christ Jesus is to have enmity put between yourselves and the seed of the serpent; and you may be assured, that unless this enmity be merely nominal on your side, it will manifest itself by acts on the other.—Earnest Chris.

For the World's Crisis.

LINES.

On the Death of Minnie Ada Gibson, who died Oct. 8th, 1867, at New Durham Ridge, aged three months and seventeen days.

LITTLE MINNIE.

Little Minnie lies asleep,
In a quiet dreamless rest,
Folded are her tiny hands,
On the little pulseless breast.

Never more to suffer pain,
Never more to sigh or weep;
Guardian angels watch her now,
Till Jesus wakens her from sleep.

Weep, fond parents, Jesus wept,—
Oh, 'mid our lot of griefs and fears,
When earth to us is desolate,
How sweet the privilege of tears.

Trust in Jesus, he's your friend,
And he will grace and strength impart;
Oh yes, the Savior loves you still,
And he will heal the wounded heart.

Another darling claims your love,
Another babe your constant care;
Heaven shield the precious one from harm,
And bless her, is my fervent prayer.

And when your little Minnie's feet
Shall press the soil of Eden fair,
Where death-divided ones will meet,
May you embrace your darling there.

M. S. Horne.

For the World's Crisis.

WHAT I'VE HEARD AND SEEN.

An Episcopal minister said there should be two churches; one for the rich, learned and respectable; another for the poor, and unlearned, as these could not appreciate and understand the discourse, doctrines and theology the first class could!

A Baptist D. D. in Boston said, that, as quite a number of the working class had come into their church, they best get a chapel elsewhere for them to attend, as perhaps they could not feel at home there.

A certain society, of which Rev. Dr. H. is pastor, have procured a hall at the south end for their poor and lower class to attend, not wishing them in the same church with them, on the aristocratic grounds of the back bay, of gothic piles and brown stone, of ivy-covered walls and stained windows, of splendid pealing organs, and harmonious quartette salaried choirs. Wonder if these poor foolish mortals, who ape to point others the way to glory, think there will be two classes there?

Sometime ago two pastors of the churches in Chicago were arrested in a theatre, on suspicion of being pickpockets. They were dressed up in the height of fashion, having on false mustaches, jewelry, etc. etc. Their excuse was they wanted to see what was going on.

The pastor of a little church in Boston advised the sisters of the church to dress finely, to put on flowers, ornaments, etc., to make them look well!

One night I strayed into a hall where a political meeting was being held. The chairman called on Rev. Dr. W. for a speech, saying the reverend gentleman had to come there Saturday evenings to prepare his mind for his Sabbath duties. Mr. W. said he "didn't come to make a speech," and went on eulogizing Mr. R. as a pure patriot, etc.; and after a few rounded sentences of eloquence, would say, "But I'm not going to make a speech," and then the laugh came in; and he would launch out again in bombastic political lingo, and get off his pet phrase again and again. I would have taken him for a bar-room orator, or a pettyfogging lawyer, from his speech.

Sometime ago a private theatrical performance was given in aid of the church of the Unity. A lady dressed in silks and costly array, with three or four rings on one finger, and several others on other fingers, said in a prayer meeting she had given up every thing for the Lord. Why didn't she give up the jewelry and pride?

Deacon E., an excellent man, visited the Howard Atheneum, to see Miss —— perform, he "so much admired the classics"! A young lady went to hear a certain divine preach. She was profuse in her praises of the meeting. The discourse was "eloquent, magnificent, sublime." On asking her the text, or subject, she could not tell any thing about it; but the preacher "had a pair of handsome black eyes"; a "beautiful head of hair," and "a splendid set of teeth," and the organist "played magnificently."

This is about what nearly half the popular church-goers learn from hearing the mealy-mouthed, velvet-tongued occupants of too many pulpits. And if, perchance, any of these preachers get a glimpse of truth, and feel compelled, as it were, to utter it, they dare not lest they offend some big man, or some rich man, who has dealt in "shoddy" or "petroleum," or "gift enterprises," or similar means, to get money.

May those who profess to be looking for Jesus soon to come, "preach the word" in God's fear only, and leave the consequences with him. Some are doing it, all around wherever they go, and the Lord blesses them.

J. N. Berry.

For the World's Crisis.

HOW TO AVOID A QUARREL.

A true story is told of a lady who complained to her minister that her husband was always quarreling with her every time he came into the house. The good minister, suspecting the true cause, told her to fill her mouth with flour when she saw her husband coming. She did so, and to her great surprise her husband did not quarrel with her at all.

If some men and women would try this process of filling their mouths with flour, and so be obliged to keep them shut, they would find, like the case above, that those that they complain of quarreling with them would be pleasant, and their quarrels would all be avoided. Try it, and see if it does not work like a charm.

"If any among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, that man's religion is vain." "Put on, therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, long-suffering, forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any; even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye."

Boston. A. P. Moore.

A NEW CREATURE.

Dear reader, are you in Christ Jesus? By this I would not be understood as asking if you are connected with some evangelical church, contribute largely for the support of the same, and faithfully observe its outward forms and ceremonies, and if you are benevolent to the poor; for important as these interrogations may be, underneath lies one of greater magnitude, viz.: "Do you now enjoy the favor of God?" The question is an important one; and time should be allowed for a thorough investigation. The only mode by which you can arrive at a correct conclusion, is a close examination of your heart by the light of the inspired word. A partial examination will not be sufficient. The heart is always changing its appearances. A superficial glance is not enough for a thing so deep; an unsteady view will not suffice for a thing so wavering; nor a casual look for a thing so deceitful!

We must examine our conduct, our opinions, our desires, our prejudices, and our propensities. Our actions will be sufficiently apparent. "It is our intentions, which require the scrutiny." These we should pursue to their remotest springs, scrutinize to their deepest recesses, and trace through their most perplexing windings. Unless we have the word and the Spirit to direct, we shall wander in uncertainty. But with them we shall be safely conducted "through the intricacies of this labyrinth." "What I know not, teach thou me;" should be our constant petition in all our researches."

We may have professed religion for years, and thought ourselves christians, but there is a possibility of our being deceived. But while there is a possibility, there is no necessity. "A wayfaring man, though a fool, need not err therein." I praise God that we may and must know our spiritual latitude and longitude, and that they must be thoroughly understood. Do you know yours? If so, are you in Christ Jesus? If you are, you have, in the language of the apostle, "become a new creature." He says, "If any man," be he rich or poor, black, white, young or old, learned or unlearned, "be in Christ Jesus, he is a new creature," not physically but morally. If not, however high his profession may tower, he is not in Christ, but in his sins, let his confidence, reputation or abilities be what they may. . . . .

Do you find your affections placed upon earthly things? Are you grasping eagerly after the things of the world? Is the acquirement of wealth your greatest study? If so, deceive not yourself. This is not the characteristic of a new creature. Do you love to pray? Do you have communion with God? Do you love the Bible better than the novel, and do you seek to honor God in all that you do? Does your dress, conversation and mode of living bespeak you a pilgrim to the skies? Is your course of life changed materially from what it was prior to your making a profession of religion? Do you hate and oppose sin? Do you love God and the doctrine of holiness? Have you lost the desire for the amusements and honors of the world? If to these interrogations you cannot reply affirmatively, then you are out of Christ, and therefore are not a new creauture.—Ex.

For the World's Crisis.

REPORT

Of the Proceedings of the New York Christian Conference,

Held at Springwater Valley, Dec. 12th to 15th, 1867.

The meeting opened on Thursday evening, Dec. 12th, with a blessed social meeting, where many of the dear saints were gladdened again by their reunion with each other in this land of death, and by the outpouring of the Spirit of the Lord upon them. All felt that it was good to be there.

Friday. Conference assembled at 1 o'clock, and listened to an able discourse from Bro. E. Cotton upon the gift of the Spirit, and afterwards many of the dear saints gave in their testimonies for Jesus, and the Father filled them with the Spirit as he always does. Truly it was a "heavenly sitting together in Christ Jesus." Conference assembled in the evening at six, and many dear saints spoke for God and truth; afterwards the writer preached from Jude 3, upon the faith of the elect people of God.

Saturday morning. Prayer and conference at ten o'clock, and the Spirit ran and could not be stopped. All the dear saints were comforted by the "heavenly gift." At one o'clock listened to a sermon from Bro. B. P. Stevens, which God blessed to the comforting of the weak and feeble ones.

At five o'clock conference assembled for business. Bro. D. Cogswell was elected Pres. pro tem, Vice Pres. C. W. Low being absent. W. Marlatt was elected a member of the conference, on motion of C. F. Sweet. W. Marlatt was then elected Sec. pro tem, on motion of the same. Letters were read before the meeting from Brn. Fenn and Wendell relative to the conference tent. On motion of B. P. Stevens, all action upon the transfer of the tent was deferred until the annual meeting, when steps will be taken to legalize the transfer of the same. On motion of Bro. Wm. E. Brown, a vote of thanks was tendered to Bro. Jonas Wendell for the efficient manner in which he conducted the tent meetings last season. On motion of Bro. C. F. Sweet, Bro. E. Cotton was elected a member of the conference. On motion of the same, it was resolved to pay the expenses of the Sec. to and from all meetings of the conference, and request his attendance upon all its deliberations. On motion of the writer, a vote of thanks was tendered to Brn. B. P. Stevens and E. Cotton for their efficient labors in tent meetings the past season.

The Treasurer, C. F. Sweet, reported three dollars and forty-two cents ($3.42) on hand, and was directed to purchase tracts with the same to distribute as he may think best for the cause of Christ. The business meeting then adjourned sine die, after which Bro. M. R. Miles preached an able discourse showing that the Scriptures could not be broken.

Sunday morning conference assembled at nine o'clock for a love-feast, which was truly a blessed season for all; after which, Bro. C. F. Sweet preached upon the one hope of the gospel. At one o'clock discourse from Bro. B. P. Stevens, after which the ordinance of the Lord's Supper. It was a solemn scene, and long to be remembered. Nearly two hundred of the dear saints partook of the emblems of the Lord's broken body and spilled blood. In the evening Sr. E. S. Jennings preached with great power.

There were present of the preaching brethren—Elds. D. Cogswell, C. F. Sweet, E. Cotton, B. P. Stevens, M. R. Miles, Ira Allen, — Buell, H. H. Brown, — Newell, W. Marlatt, and Sr. E. S. Jennings. It was a meeting long to be remembered as having been a reunion of those who loved the Lord in this part of his vineyard; and, praise God, there were no sectarian distinctions. Methodists, Baptists, Christians, and all denominations, met in harmony and parted in the hope of a speedy reunion in the kingdom of God.

The conference expresses its heartfelt thanks for the kind and christian spirit manifested by Eld. D. D. Van Allen in letting them have the use of the chapel; and also to the dear brethren of all denominations who so kindly entertained us while in Springwater. May the good Lord reward, is our prayer, and keep them all until Jesus comes. Amen.

W. Marlatt, Sec.

HOW TO BE SAVED.

Are you a lost sinner? Are you ready to confess your guilt and helplessness? He is an almighty Savior. Do you really wish to be saved? He is not less desirous of saving you. Are you oppressed with the sense of your sins? He is the "Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world." He died for our sins according to the Scriptures. Do you wish to be forgiven? "Him hath God exalted with his right hand to be a Prince and a Savior for to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins." Do you sigh for rest, for inward tranquility? He says, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Do you wish to rest without performing the service which he requires? You cannot have it thus, for he adds, "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest to your souls." We must not only learn what Jesus teaches, but also to do as he did, to bear the yoke after his manner. He meekly bore that which his Father laid upon him, and it was heavy. But of this he says, "My yoke is easy and my burden is light." You cannot be his disciple unless you walk in his steps. Thinking about him or his words, no matter how seriously or constantly, is not all that is necessary to the keeping of his commandments. Indeed this may be without doing his will at all. You must form the definite purpose to be a christian, i. e., Christ's man or follower. And this purpose is a very simple one in its nature, although it has a world of meaning, and brings a host of duties and labors in its train.—Rev. S. McCall.

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—Paul.

VIOLATIONS OF LAW.

Disease of every character is a disturbance of vital action, and originates in a disturbed mind, an obstructed circulation of vital forces, or an impure condition of the blood.

All forms of disease which do not arise from a disturbance of the nervous system, or troubles of mind, have their birth in the vascular system. This is a self-evident truth, when we consider that the component parts of all animal matter are found in the blood. The bones, muscles, cartilages, all the fluids, acids, alkalies, etc., pertaining to the animal structure, are developed and nourished by the blood. Dr. Combe says "that the quantity and quality of the blood must have a most direct and material influence upon the condition of every part of the body. If the quantity sent to the arm, for example, be diminished by tying an artery, through which it is conveyed, the arm being then imperfectly nourished, wastes away, and does not regain its plumpness, until the full supply of blood is restored. In like manner, when the quality of that fluid is impaired by deficiency of food, bad digestion, impure air, or imperfect sanguification in the lungs, the body, and all its organs become more or less disordered."

A free circulation of vital and nervous electricity, an unruffled mind, and pure blood, are essential to good health, and it requires only a moderate exercise of common sense to see that all forms of disease originate from a disturbance of these indispensable conditions. There may exist hereditary organic weaknesses, but even these had their origin in the disturbed fountains of life of our parents or ancestors.

We will next invite your attention to physiological laws, and to the principal causes of nerve and blood derangements, or to the primary causes of various forms of disease.

Gluttony is universal with the American people. Medical men in our midst attribute the prevalence of indigestion and the exhaustion of nervous power chiefly to our gormandizing habits. We begin to stuff the infant when only a few hours old. We stuff it through childhood, continue the stuffing through youth, and persevere till middle age; and when at last the worn out stomach yields to its overtasked work and disease is produced, we lament the rest of our lives our compulsory abstinence. In the mansions of the rich, and in the humble cottage of the poor, there is on an average, twenty per cent. more food consumed than nature requires, or health will allow.

To this gluttony is to be attributed the sallowness of complexion, the torpid liver, and the melancholy spirits which is characteristic of us. The overloaded stomach is never permitted to have rest, and sequent upon this the skin acts sluggishly, the mind feels dull, and a lassitude pervades the whole system. I have known one hearty meal to produce acute bronchitis, and the overloading of the stomach to bring on paralysis; thus the system is fretted, and worn out, by excessive toil and friction.

Fast eating and the swallowing of the food half masticated, is another evil which the American people have run into. Nature has provided glands in the mouth and cheeks for the thorough insalivation of the food, and requires that the food taken should be thoroughly comminuted, and reduced to a soft pulpy mass before entering the stomach. We do not deny but that food swallowed whole is partially digested. Still good health cannot be maintained in the use of any kind of food, unless this law is implicitly obeyed. This has been witnessed in the experiments upon the stomach of St. Martin, of which we may hereafter have occasion to speak.—Health Reformer.

ATTENTION TO THE FEET.

It is utterly impossible to get well or keep well, unless the feet are kept dry and warm all the time. If they are for the most part cold, there is cough or sore throat, or hoarseness, or sick headache, or some other annoyance.

If cold and dry, the feet should be soaked in hot water for ten minutes every night, and when wiped and dried, rub into them well, ten or fifteen drops of sweet oil; do this patiently with the hands, rubbing the oil into the soles of the feet particularly.

Under any circumstances, as often as the feet are cold enough to attract attention, draw off the stockings, and hold them to the fire; if the feet are much inclined to dampness, put on a pair of dry stockings, leaving the damp ones before the fire to be ready for another change.

Some person's feet are more comfortable, even in winter, in cotton, others in woolen stockings. Each must be guided by his own feelings. Sometimes two pair of thin stockings keep the feet warmer than one pair which is thicker than both. The thin pair may be of the same or of different materials, and that which is best next the foot, should be determined by the feelings of the person.

Persons who walk a great deal during the day, should, on coming home for the night, remove their shoes and stockings, hold the feet to the fire until perfectly dry; put on a dry pair, and wear slippers for the remainder of the evening.

Boots and gaiters keep the feet damp, cold and unclean, by preventing the escape of that insensible perspiration which is always escaping from a healthy foot, and condensing it; hence the old-fashioned low shoe is best for health.

A POINT TO BE THOUGHT OF.

The body is not the only part that becomes morbidly affected by errors in diet; the mind also suffers with it. There is a great sympathy between the organs of digestion and the brain. They are closely and intimately connected by nervous communication, so that you cannot, to any extent, affect the one, without affecting the other; and to the degree that you affect the brain, to the same degree do you affect the mind; for it is by the action of the brain that mind is produced.

Now, unhealthful food irritates the nerves of the stomach, and through them, the irritation, to a greater or less extent, is conveyed to the brain, causing it to act abnormally; thereby affecting and perverting the intellectual and moral condition of the mind. And then again, bad food makes bad blood, and bad blood has a tendency to irritate the brain as it passes through it, and is poorly adapted to sustain the brain in its important function; and, as a consequence, evil results follow.

Many an individual has often wondered why he could not better control his mind, and why his evil passions should so often and so easily gain the mastery over him, and he become irritable, fretful, peevish, and fault-finding; when, if he would but correct his bad habit of eating, and would live on plain, simple, and unstimulating food, he would easily find that his mind would be more easily controlled, and be in a much better condition to bear the trials and difficulties of this life, and he would have a better prospect before him of securing that which is to come.—Health Reformer.

REMEDY FOR DIPTHERIA.

The New York Tribune says: "We have just received a recipe for the cure of diptheria, from a physician who says that of one thousand nine hundred cases in which it has been used, not a single patient has been lost. The treatment consists in thoroughly swabbing the back of the mouth and throat with a wash made thus: of table salt, two drachms; black pepper, golden seal, nitrate of potash, alum, one drachm each. Mix and pulverize, put into a tea-cup half full of water, stir well, and then fill up with good cider vinegar. Use every half hour, one, two and four hours, as recovery progresses. The patient may swallow a little each time. Apply one ounce each of spirits turpentine, sweet oil and aqua ammonia, mixed, every hour, to the whole of the throat, and to the breast bone every four hours, keeping flannel to the part."

CLOTHING THE NECK.

The clothing about the neck should be very moderate in quantity, and worn so loose as to prevent the slightest compression. The great errors frequently committed in clothing this part of the body, consist in wearing such an amount as to overheat and weaken the throat, and thus render it easily susceptible to cold, or in wearing it so tight as to retard the circulation of the blood to and from the head.

Great care should be exercised upon this point, as the arteries and veins leading from the heart to the brain are situated so near the surface in the neck, that a slight compression there serves to check the flow of the blood.

Many cases of congestion of the brain and headache are partially or wholly caused by too tight collars and cravats.—Health Reformer.

Something besides Nutriment.—The idea that ale and beer contain the concentrated virtues of the grain from which they are manufactured, is dispelled by chemical science. Prof. Liebig, one of the most eminent chemists of Europe, states that 1,460 quarts, or ten barrels, of the best Bavaria beer contain exactly the nourishment of two and a half pounds of bread. The nutritious portion of the grain is rotted before beer can be made; and Prof. Playfair declares that if the fermentation is complete, no nourishment whatever remains in the fermented liquor. The fact is therefore demonstrated, that stimulus, and not nutrition, is what beer-drinkers seek and obtain.

☞ Clothing, labor, rest, air, light, sunshine, exercise in riding on horseback and otherwise, etc., etc., are all hygienic agents, which, when skillfully made use of, have power to enable the sick to recover their health. To bring to our aid all the recuperative force which is within the circle of hygienic agencies, we should be made familiar with the effect which every such agent has under different circumstances, and have them all so within our knowledge and control, that we can derive the greatest possible benefit therefrom.

Life-Pills.—Parr, who died at the advanced age of one hundred and fifty-two, gave this advice to his friends: "Keep your head cool by temperance, your feet warm by exercise, rise early, and go early to bed, and if you are inclined to grow fat, keep your eyes open and your mouth shut. Are not these excellent life-pills?

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..................$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address.........$5.50
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address..........$10.00.
Same rate for any number under ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's name, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
Private Letters.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE, Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM:

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS:

Payable invariably in advance.

[illegible]

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 640. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 17.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon at
167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

THE GARDEN OF THE LORD.

Isaiah 51: 3.

O beautiful Eden, thou undefiled land,
Declaring the skill of thy Creator's hand!
There I behold the fair garden of God,
Whose pathways in innocence Adam once trod.

The sons of God shouted when thou wast revealed,
The morning stars joyfully sweet anthems pealed,
Every thing breathing rejoiced to accord
With trees, streams and flowers, in praising the Lord.

But soon the sad story of blighting must come,
Of man's disobedience, and loss of his home;
The tempter beguiles him his God to distrust,
And, lo! he is mortal, and crumbles to dust.

Ever since that sad moment sin's curse, like a pall,
Hath spread the thick darkness of death over all;
Earth has been groaning in anguish and tears,
And telling the story for six thousand years.

Oh, shall the dark death-shadow always remain?
Shall Paradise never make earth glad again?
Come to Gethsemane's garden and see,
And let its scenes answer thy questions for me.

There kneels our Deliverer, determined to save,
Though in the sore conflict he sink to the grave;
Like Samson, his sorrows are bowing him low,
But his hands grasp the pillars that ruin the foe.

Oh, see the dread monster hath surely prevailed,
And firm to the cross the dear Savior is nailed;
Fear not, ye mourners, all yet will be well;
Our Captain, in dying, shall spoil death and hell.

To one other garden our footsteps repair,
Some lovers of Jesus with angels are there;
List to the glad words the shining ones say,—
"Your Lord has arisen; behold where he lay!"

Arisen, ascended, with Hades' strong keys,
And soon he is coming his Bride to release;
Then the death mantle shall rend at his word,
And Paradise bloom again, fully restored.

All hail, new creation! let morning stars sing,
Again let the shouts of the sons of God ring;
Hallelujah to God and the Lamb, by whose blood
The treasure is purchased—the garden of God.

Newark, N. J. JOHN LYLE.

For the World's Crisis.

SPIRITUALISM, AND THE DEMONS.

There are two questions of special interest, from which proceed important issues.

1. Do we believe the Bible?
2. What does the Bible teach?

The magnitude of interests affected by the right answer of these questions, cannot easily be overrated. Let these questions be scrutinized, and the more carefully they are considered, the more evident, we think, will appear their importance. Not alone in the rejection of the Bible is peril and disaster involved, but in its mis-interpretation. Here are two colossal and in some sense kindred evils. From them flow almost infinite diversities of mischief.

We may suggest a third inquiry also in this connection; viz., Is not Spiritualism infidelity? And is it any less practical and dangerous infidelity, because it pays a degree of respect to a portion of the Bible, while it utterly contravenes and denies another portion? Is it less reprehensible and noxious, because it allows just that part of inspiration which it chooses, and rejects the rest? because it admits what may lend an air of sacredness to its own promulgations, but discards all that in the remotest degree is its own obvious condemnation? What shall be thought of a system that thus seeks to adorn or hide its own fallacy with casual ereptions of Scripture, while it carefully avoids and emphatically repudiates the truths which compose the very foundation and framework of Christianity? We submit this proposition: The Bible is utterly antagonistic to Spiritualism.

Of course it would be impossible to elaborate and illustrate this truth fully in a single article. We shall pursue only a single line of argument in this paper. As Spiritualism is eminently founded on the alleged immortality of the soul, what we shall suggest here will be simply in evolution of a great truth; viz., that the Bible is absolutely and emphatically a negation of what is thus alleged concerning the nature of man.

If a man is naturally immortal, it follows as a direct conclusion that the immortal element remains conscious after death. This is what the Bible clearly and decidedly does not teach, but quite the contrary. As Spiritualism assumes to maintain converse with conscious intelligences, the object of this article will be to show the real nature of those identities, and that the Bible absolutely confutes the allegation of any possible communication with the spirits of the dead who formerly lived on earth. The logical and impassable barrier in the way of any such assumption is the simple fact of the entire and universal unconsciousness of the dead. This is a position which it is impossible to assail, without (1) either denying the Bible altogether, or (2) distorting and misinterpreting it. Granting freely the fact of actual communications with invisible intelligences, the next thing will be to show exactly what the Bible represents those intelligences to be. While they are assumed to be the spirits of the dead, revelation teaches us that they are fallen beings of another race, or revolted angels.

And here we may remark, that it is of great importance that our views should be close and strictly in agreement with Divine revelation. The doctrine of the immortality of the soul has had an extensive, prolonged, and pernicious prevalence throughout Christendom. Hence some have industriously labored to show that the "spirits" which manifest their presence under certain conditions are the spirits of the wicked dead. I recall a discourse published not long since, designed by the learned author to furnish a solution of the "spiritualtic" phenomena, by seeking to substantiate the synonymy of the demons in the New Testament, and the spirits of dead men. It will be our object to show that this is altogether an erroneous idea, without adverting particularly to the vast and accumulated testimonies of Scripture to the positive unconsciousness of the dead, and all the dead, until a resurrection.

The question is, then, who or what are the "demons" mentioned in the New Testament? This word in reality is never found in our common version. The English rendering of daimon is always devil; the latter word occurring, if I have counted correctly, in all, about seventy-five times, of which the representative in the Greek is daimon and diabolus, respectively about forty-eight and twenty-seven times. Diabolus is always used in the singular number, denoting pre-eminently the captain of the infernal legions, the leader and prince of fallen angels. He is otherwise variously and specially designated by the terms, Beelzebub, Satan, the old serpent, the great dragon, the prince of this world, and the deceiver.

If it be asked why such marked prominence is given to this great enemy of man and God, it is sufficient to reply that he is evidently a being of extraordinary cunning, energy, and malevolence, and that having lapsed from a position of singular exaltation originally, he still retains a degree of vigor, pertinacity and strength, which puts him far in advance of his subject forces. He bears the bad pre-eminence of being a leader in mischief, a leader through all the ages of the past until this day, and until the day of final and irretrievable overthrow. We may mention some of the cases in which this archon or prince of fallen angels is specially denoted, as follows: Christ was tempted by the devil or diabolus. The enemy that sowed the tares is diabolus. "Ye are of your father, diabolus." "O, full of all deceit and imposture [Elymas], thou child of diabolus." "Put on the complete armor of God, that you may be able to stand against (the crafty ways of diabolus)" Perhaps these quotations will suffice.

We proceed to show the undoubted meaning and application of the word "demon" (occurring both in the singular and plural), and that it is an assumption and an error to refer the term to spirits of any human beings whatever.

1. It is evident that the possession or infection of human beings by demons, in the time of Christ, was in every instance injurious and malignant. The power of God was manifest in numerous instances in expelling these usurping tenants. Christ was ever opposed to the spirit and work of demons, and vice versa. Hence demons were never recognized in the New Testament as aught but evil in their work and character.

2. Diabolus, or the devil, is in numerous instances styled the prince or head of tributary and confederate beings, resembling their leader. This is manifest from the language of Christ in the coming judgment, in which the wicked are denounced to "depart into aionian fire prepared for the diabolus and his angels. "And the angels which kept not their first estate, but left their own habitation, he has kept in perpetual chains under darkness, for the judgment of the great day. Because our conflict is not with blood and flesh, but with the governments, with the authorities, with the potentates of the darkness, with the spiritual things of wickedness in the heavenlies. For if God spared not the angels that sinned, but having Tartarized them with chains of thick darkness, delivered them over into custody for judgment."

We may remark in passing relative to the darkness (zophon) under which the evil angels are confined—

1. The brightest light that shines on our earth is probably a murky gloom, in comparison with the intense brightness of that light in which these fallen beings lived and moved before their revolt and rejection.

2. The earth is one half the time veiled in the shadows of night, in the course of its revolution on its axis.

3. I believe there is no reason to doubt that at a point considerably beyond the limits of our atmosphere, there is a widely prevailing and intense gloom of darkness, since the light which we enjoy here is, in a great measure, due to the endless refractions and reflections produced by the atmosphere and the earth's surface itself. Hence we recognize the propriety of the expression, "under chains of darkness." Their motion is limited to earth and the atmosphere. They can not possibly cross the intervening vastness, which restrains their access to other worlds in every direction. To them, this prohibition is doubtless an irksome restraint, nor is an intense activity within a comparatively narrow sphere inconsistent with a specified impossibility to pass beyond it, expressed by an incarceration under chains of darkness.

Now if Satan is the declared chief of authorities, potentates, and angels who are leagued with him, can we not identify them and must we not identify them as the "demons" that Jesus expelled? If diabolus molested men, would not his fallen confederates do the same? If diabolus took the lead, would not his subject angels follow? If Satan specially tempted the holy Jesus, would not his less powerful allies tempt and oppress other and imperfect human beings? If diabolus tempted and possessed Judas, would not lesser diaboli possess and afflict persons standing less responsibly and peculiarly for the moment related to Christ? But if they would, and we must think of this there is incontrovertible probability, should they not be spoken of in Scripture? should they not be characterized? We answer—Yes. The comprehensive designation of all these evil agents is by one term; viz., of "demons." Think of this carefully, and see if you would honestly conclude adversely. If the demons do not denote fallen angels, then what common Scripture term in the New Testament does?

3. Take the account in Matt. 12: 22. When Jesus had cured a demonized man (blind and dumb), the envious and evil Pharisees openly imputed to him collusion with the chief of infernal powers. Horrible and shocking allegation! They said, "This man expels not demons except by Beelzebub, prince of the demons." Here the relation of Satan and his leagued evil loyalties is expressed. (As there can be but one chief or prince of fallen powers, Beelzebub and Satan are one.) Jesus said, "If Satan cast out Satan, he is at variance with himself; how then will his kingdom stand?" This is a plain case. The expelled demons are characterized as "Satan cast out." Can we designate them, without violence or misapplication, as the spirits of wicked dead men? The demon that afflicted this dumb man, we should think, must have been a truly Satanic spirit, a fallen angel, kith of Beelzebub. Is it not so?

4. Again, refer to Mark 1, and Luke 4. There was a man in the synagogue with the spirit of an impure demon. And he cried with a loud voice, "Ah! what hast thou to do with us, Nazarene? Comest thou to destroy us? I know thee, who thou art, the holy one of God." What is the natural and obvious inference from this language? Whence this instant and positive identification of Christ by the demon? Does it not fairly imply such a present and previous knowledge as we should suppose a being once pure, now revolted and ruined, would possess? Is it not the alarmed confession of a spirit once angelic, but now outcast and abandoned? the shriek of a recognition agonized through a bitter memory, and the antagonism of incurable malignity to the pure and powerful Savior of men? The summary interpretation of these demonizations by insanity or epilepsy would be much more than I should dare to venture. Neither would I assume to pronounce them the manifestations of the lost souls of men, alive after they are dead. (By the way, the Bible never suggests that the devil or any of his angels ever died, hence there is reason enough why they are alive. But when we come to the point of asserting that death is life, or that the dead are alive, do we not "err, not knowing the Scriptures"? Jesus said that Jehovah was the God, not of "disembodied souls," but of resurrected men.)

5. The "seventy" returned with joy, saying, "Lord, even the demons are subject to us by thy name."—Luke 10: 17. And he said to them, "I saw Satan fall from heaven like lightning." Now, shall we rend or disjoin the things associated in the saying of Christ? Whatever he meant by Satan's fall,—whether literal or spiritual, or both,—one thing is clear. The victorious journey of the seventy, and their exulting testimony of mastery over demons, instantly suggested to their Divine Lord the picture of that flaming descent,—Satan, a fallen brightness, plunging like an aerolite into an abyss. The seventy, through Christ, could drive out inferior infernal powers; Jesus, the Lord of glory, would certainly vanquish the prince of demons, the grand antagonist of God and men.

6. "When the impure spirit is gone out of a man, it roves through parched deserts, seeking rest and finding none. Then it says, I will return to my house whence I came. And coming, it finds it empty, swept, and furnished."—Matt. 12: 43. Now if this is a spirit of a wicked dead man, its proper house would be its once inhabited body. We think the whole connection renders a reference to such a spirit, or entity, unreasonable and untrue.

7. The whole theology of "orthodoxy," almost, assigns to the spirits of the wicked, in a supposed intermediate state, no such pernicious activity and mal-possession of human beings, but a place and state of suffering in primitive fire, or in agonized and endless self-condemnation. The Bible, however, clearly affirms the positive unconsciousness of the dead until the resurrection. It is with the logic of this plain scripture that we can best meet the fallacies and falsehoods of Spiritualism. The Bible denial of a post-mortem consciousness of the dead, is the most absolute negation of all possible communion with the dead. This is the iron-plated armor with which to meet the sophistries of demonism. And it is the complete armor to every illusion with which Spiritualism would solace the woes of the bereaved. Disrobed of every deceitful guise, this communion with "spirits" is converse with demons. It is a fearful delusion, and we need the grace of God, with the prayer of faith, that we may be kept from every snare. C. COLEGROVE.

Sardinia, N. Y., Dec. 21st, 1867.

For the World's Crisis.

THE CROWN OF GLORY.

Such a crown is laid up for all who love and obey the Lord. Paul confidently expected such a crown for himself, but not for him only, but also for all those that love his appearing. Many weary hearts will rejoice at the appearing of that great and glorious One for whom they have waited long with earnest desire. His coming is near, even at the doors. Now is the time to be all ready and waiting.

Let us all be in earnest in the work of preparation. We must have no unkind feelings towards any, but love for all, even enemies. "And when the Chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a CROWN OF GLORY that fadeth not away." SUSAN S. CHAMBERLAIN.

Sutton, Mass.

GETTING THE HEART RIGHT.

We must heartily repent of all our sins. However little may be said in modern pulpits about it, the Bible lays great stress upon repentance. It is the first step to be taken in order to obtain a genuine work of grace in the soul. Jesus says: Except ye repent, ye shall all perish.—Luke 13: 5. These words were first spoken to those who belonged to the church of God. They apply today, with undiminished force, to every one who neglects his duty, whether he makes a profession of religion or not. To repent of his sins one must see them in all their enormity. But the nature of sin is to blind its victim to its true character. Hence men need to be told of their sins—to see them painted in their true colors, and to be warned faithfully of their fatal consequences. The more popular a sin is,—the more it is sanctioned by illustrious examples, the greater need there is that it should be dwelt upon, and the people warned against it. . . .

We often see persons professing holiness who are living in open violation of the plain commands of God. Some are unequally yoked together with unbelievers, in secret societies. Others are conformed to the world. They adorn themselves with "gold or pearls or costly array." Remind them of their inconsistency, and they will tell you that the "Lord does not show them that it is wrong;" although the Bible speaks as plainly as it can do; and the founder of the church declares that, "Whoever says there is no harm in these things may as well say there is no harm in murder or adultery." This avoiding all mention of popular sins proceeds from a cowardly fear of man, and not from a love of souls. The command of God is, "Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and show my people their transgressions, and the house of Jacob their sins." Do you obey this command? You neglect it at your peril.

If the heart is right the life will be right. Sin of every kind will be avoided, and every duty to God and man will be faithfully performed. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.—Earnest Christian.

For the World's Crisis.

KICKING FOLKS.

"Stand firm! what though perchance you fall,
'Tis with your armor girded on—
You have obeyed the General's call."

Kick, does he? What makes him kick? Persons that kick have a reason for it, have something to kick at. Saul of Tarsus kicked for a while, but he found it hard work, so does every one that kicks against the truth. "If it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found to fight against God." Acts 8: 39.

There is no peace to these kickers, they are like "the troubled sea, casting up mire and dirt." Saul never kicked any more after the scales fell from his eyes; his name was changed to Paul the apostle. The cause of all kicking against the truth is because truth is hated. Persons that kick do not like to be probed, searched out, their sins exposed, brought to light.

We need not expect anything else but kicks from those who hold on to lust, pride, covetousness or oppression. Persons also who manufacture, sell and use rum and tobacco, write novels, puff novels, sell novels, read novels, and the like, are almost sure to kick when reproved; we have found it so. Ministers, editors, theological teachers, that keep back part of the price, cry "peace, peace," when there is no peace, that succumb to iniquity in high places, wink at sin, bow the knee to the popular voice, hush agitation, are almost sure to kick when a word of reproof is dropped in the ear. And a kick from this quarter, of all other kicks, tells! Its a kick in very deed. "Every one that doeth evil, hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved." John 3: 20.

It was kicking in gospel times, it is kicking now, in our times. Haters of the truth kicked then, haters of the same truth kick now, and the same kicking against God's truth, doubtless will go on, so long as there are haters of the truth to kick. The true prophets of God were kicked and kicked time after time, for rebuking sin and sinners. The Scribes and Pharisees of old kicked terribly when Christ exposed their sins, their pride, covetousness, hypocrisy, their spirit of caste and aristocracy; while they honored God with their lips, at the same time their hearts were far from him; when he compared them to "whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness." See Matt. 23d, throughout. They kicked.

Luther was kicked severely for rebuking sin in high places; so was Wesley, Whitfield, Bunyan, Baxter, Edwards, Payson, the Tenants. And these same kickings are going on.

Our eye is now fixed on a beloved minister of the gospel, who has received kicks, not a few, while pulling sinners out of the fires of hell, by thousands; still the blessed man labors on, toils on, fights on, sounds the gospel trumpet of full and free salvation, louder and still louder, in the midst of all these kicks, even though kicked by bishops and doctors of divinity.

The beloved Tyng of Philadelphia, who on his dying pillow said to his father, "Stand up for Jesus," was kicked out of his pulpit for rebuking sin in high places, opening his lips for the dumb, and those "appointed to destruction." Was he disheartened at these kicks, that kicked him out of his parsonage? Did he stop preaching the truth, close his lips, hush the question of reform and salvation because of this kicking? Nay, he went on in the name of his divine Lord, declaring still more earnestly and faithfully "all the words of this life;" God honored him, gave him a name imperishable. "Them that honor me," saith the Lord, "will I honor, and them that despise me shall be lightly esteemed." Brother, sister, minister, editor, are you God's, wholly God's,—God's now, henceforth and forever? Do you expect to move on heavenward, softly and smoothly, in the path of duty—stand for Jesus always, without any kicks? We tell you nay, nay.

"Where is thy cross? the daily care,
The daily toil, the daily strife—
The warfare thou art called to bear
With foes who aim at more than life."

What says Christ? "He that will live godly in Christ Jesus, shall [not may] suffer persecution." "I come not to send peace on earth, but a sword." "What I tell you in darkness, that speak ye in light; and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the house tops." "And fear not them which kill the body but are not able to kill the soul, but rather fear him who is able to destroy both soul and body in hell."

"Must I be carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease,
While others fought to win the prize,
And sailed through bloody seas?"

D. F. NEWTON.

For the World's Crisis.

"HOW LONG, OH LORD?"

With Advent hours, sweet Christ, O bless this world,
The heavy hearts that long have looked for Thee—
Dim eyes that wait to see war's banners furled,—
From ears attent bid discord's murmurs flee.

How long, oh Lord, this dirge for parting souls,
This wail o'er broken bands and homes bereft,
Grief's harrowing share, that through the sad earth rolls,
Leaving her face with death's dark furrows cleft?

The heaving nations shudder with affright,
As pent volcanoes tremble 'neath the sea;
The powers below seem loosed to do despite;
The good are dumb at their wild revelry.

So stout hearts fail, and prayers would e'en grow faint,
As misery flaunts her garments through the vale;
Nature oppressed sighs out her sad complaint,
Aghast at rampant evil, Hope grows pale.

Thine ear has heard the plaint, thine eye has seen
How here thy perfect image sin has marred—
Its darksome pall flung o'er creation's sheen—
Her loveliest harmonies with discord jarred.

But Thou wilt come! The Lord of Hosts has said,
Prophets and seers in glowing numbers told,
Crown above crown on thy once thorn-crowned head,
With all the glory that thou hadst of old.

The foul destroyer then shall cease to smite,
Disease with folded hands itself shall die;
The solitary place with bloom grow bright,
The tempter's foot shall never more pass by.

O, blest Epiphany! O, perfect day!
O, new-created earth! to groan no more;
The noon-day splendor of the Savior's reign
Shall brighten every sea, bless every shore.

Lo! at his potent voice—"Arise and come!"
From their rent graves immortals shall rise;
And shall we meet them in this earthly home,
Forever happy and forever wise?

And what shall be their joy who as He is,
Shall see and know their Lord, then face to face;
Bask in his love, no sin to blight their bliss,
And sing perpetual songs of sovereign grace?

Day soon must break through all this night and storm,
The shadows are so deep, how bright t'will be!
No clouds shall gather round His glorious form—
Unsetting sun when He bids darkness flee!

Hear, O ye heavens! the voice of mighty song,
Like the deep waters and the thunders' tone,
The ransomed on the earth the strain prolong,
The Lord Omnipotent hath taken his throne.

Christmas, 1867. A. M.

For the World's Crisis.

"IT IS DONE!"

In some stage in human history this startling and thrilling announcement will emanate from the celestial throne, and roll in upon the ears of a slumbering world. Then endless fates will be awarded to the children of men. Our work will then all be done; the filthy will be filthy still, and the holy will be holy still, he doom of the human family be unalterably fixed. The day of mercy will be changed to the day of wrath. The day of hope will be turned into a day of despair. The Mediator will become a Judge.

"It is done," forever done. Solemn scene. And is that scene just about to dawn upon us with all its attendant realities?—Yes, it is almost here. The infallible programme of Heaven affirms it. And are we ready for it? Is our work all done? Do we enjoy a fullness of peace with God? Are we earnestly striving to win souls to Christ? Are we consecrated fully to the service of God? Are we letting our light shine to all around?

Let us stand in continual readiness to hear the final announcement to the world, "It is done!" WM. SHELDON.

For the World's Crisis.

PRAYER.

There is probably no duty enjoined upon us accompanied with so many precious and impressive promises as prayer; nor is it without cause that the Scripture enforces the observance of this duty. In order to live a christian in these perilous times we need to pray often; not occasionally, but we are commanded to pray "without ceasing." The christian has often to undergo many trials in the world, and is often persecuted for Jesus' sake. Such treatment from this quarter only verifies the words of their Master—"In the world ye shall have tribulation, but in me ye have peace."

How important it is that we be found often in our closets. It is there we gain strength to resist temptation, and are enabled to overcome the world, the flesh, and the devil. When we lose the spirit of prayer, and the closet becomes distasteful to us, our devotion begins to languish, and our enjoyment leaves us. The vital power of religion cannot be preserved in the heart without prayer.

How blessed it is to know that prayer is not confined to persons or places, but we can call on the Lord at all times and under all circumstances. If we are tempted we can pray; if sorrowful and cast down, we can pray; if persecuted and forsaken by those we thought were friends, we have the blessed privilege to carry all to the Lord in prayer. It has been so ordered through the goodness of God that when we are exposed to the frowns of men, and they persecute us, and say all manner of evil against us, we have generally inward peace and joy to balance the weight of outward trials and afflictions we may experience on account of religion. How blessed it is to feel at such times the smiles of our heavenly Father resting upon us, and we can commune with him, and feel the blessed influence of the Comforter in our hearts. We are willing to have our names cast out as evil if they can only be found in the book of life.

How thankful we ought to be that there has been a throne of grace provided for us, and we can come, all sinful and guilty as we are, and claim the promises of God. Unbelief flies away before the golden beams of promise, and the painful sense of sin vanishes before the cleansing efficacy of the blood of Christ; and when wearied with toil, and the cares of life, and in view of the responsibility that rests upon us; and when we feel our weakness and our many failures, we sometimes shrink, and are led to ask, Who is sufficient for these things? Then comes the answer, so comforting, so assuring, My grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect (or manifested) in weakness. Fear thou not, for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God. I will strengthen thee, yea, I will help thee. Thus comforted and sustained we can go forward, being inspired with new life, and the very impediments we feared will be walls of defense on our right hand and on our left.

Take courage, then, ye tempted and tried ones, who are halting by the way; we have an advocate with the Father, even Jesus Christ the righteous, and when forsaken by friends, and persecuted by the world, go to him; he has promised to be with us always, even to the end. Think it not strange concerning these trials; they will only lift us above the world, and draw us nearer to Jesus; and the nearer we live to him, and the closer we walk in his footsteps, the less we shall have to do with the enemy. Let us be willing to take up every cross and follow Jesus through evil report as well as good. He will not suffer us to be tempted above what we are able to bear, only enough for our good. The trial of our faith is more precious to us than silver or gold. Let us come boldly to the throne of grace, and obtain help in time of need; and thus by waiting upon the Lord, we shall renew our strength, and we can run and not be weary, we can walk and not faint.

Goffstown, N. H. JENNIE E. WHIPPLE.

For the World's Crisis.

LETTERS TO AN "ORTHODOX" FRIEND.—NO. 1.

The following letter was not designed for publication; but the author, who is a physician, has kindly given permission to have it published in the Crisis.

You have often censured me for certain "very odious views of mine," as you term them. You tell me that you have never looked into the work which I lent you in June, viz., Hudson's "Debt and Grace; or, the Doctrine of a Future Life." I am sorry that you have not done so. Though not committed to the doctrine there taught, as far as my denominational opinion goes, I must nevertheless, in all fairness and candor say, that Professor Hudson has in that settled beyond all possibility of refutation the great question of future retribution. I wish some of our "learned and able divines," whom you are continually quoting to me, would undertake a thorough examination of that book. They dare not do it.

I have to confess that the secret drifting of my mind has been for years in the direction of materialism. I cannot find the doctrine of the immortality of the soul either in reason or revelation. And therefore I am constrained to believe that man is what he is by virtue of his physical organization. Every animal is distinguished by a certain peculiarity of organization. Man is distinguished from the brute creation by the excellence of his organism, and especially by the superior development of his brain. The vital forces use this organism as their instruments, and the various functions of the mind are equally functions of the brain. Force cannot exist independent of matter, for they are as inseparable as shadow is inseparable from substance, and the former is but an attribute or property of the latter. I know that the heathen, the Pharisees, the modern christian world, have believed in the separate existence of the vital principle. The more rational theory is that the vital principle is not a separate, indivisible, uncompounded identity, but an aggregation of forces, dependent on and kept together by the bodily frame-work.

Death destroys all that constitutes a man what he is. A dead man is a dead man till God gives him life by a resurrection power.

Does the whole man die, or does only the baser, the unessential part die? If it be the latter, if only the unessential part dies, and the real person, the I and you, does not die, then did Satan tell the truth when he said to our first parents—"Ye shall not surely die." But he told a lie, and with that lie he has deceived people in all ages.

Because the heathen believed; because the Pharisees received from the heathen the doctrine that the principal part of man does not die, but soars away an airy phantom to heaven or hell, and because all literature has been more or less tinctured with the notion, must we believe it? Did not the pagans give form and shape and organs, eyes and ears and hands to this ghostly being? What gross inconsistency! the real eyes and ears and hands and organs were at rest in the grave, or had mouldered to dust. How can we think of our dead friends even, unless we associate with them those physical organs which we know are now laid away in the grave? O, my lamented M——! what wouldst thou be now to me without thy sparkling eyes, whose glance was intelligence; without that melodious voice; without even those features and those lineaments, those smiles which I have always associated with thy memory, and which gave thee so much grace!

But our departed friends shall rise again. O, glorious, sublime, and animating thought! By virtue of Christ's resurrection they shall obtain a resurrection to incorruption and immortality. Then, and not till then, will they become animated beings. The elements of their being are somewhere in existence, and Christ will take care of them till the day when he shall come. Then the glorified body shall come forth,—perhaps not the same body in every sense of the word, but one in strict organic continuity and perfect identity with the former body.

This seems to me to be the Scripture doctrine. I cannot have any faith in an intermediate state—in the existence of inane, inert, indefinable, incomprehensible, disembodied spirit,—a being wholly separated from the world of matter, having no bonds of connection with the material universe around it, no organs with which to compare, to judge, to feel, to see, to hear, or to enjoy. No wonder a resurrection is needed for such a being. If nothing but a "shadow" (umbra) as the ancients called it, surely when the substance perishes the shadow must perish also.

Yours affectionately, DA[illegible]

BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT.

One day the Queen of Sheba gave Solomon a ring, with many score of oxen. She bade him bestow it on the wisest of his sages. So Solomon commanded his wise men to appear before him on the feast of the full moon. They came from Bethel and Dan, the court and the school of the prophets.

Then King Solomon, arrayed in regal robes, sat on his throne, the sceptre of Israel, in his right hand. The Queen of Sheba sat beside him.

He commanded his sages to speak. Many opened their mouths and discoursed right eloquently. They told of many wondrous things. The eyes of the Queen shone like dew-drops which quiver at sunrise on the peach blossoms. Solomon was sad.

At last one arose of courtly mien. He told of wondrous cities in far-off lands. How the sun scalds the dew in Sahara. How it forsakes the chill north for whole months, leaving the cool moon in its own place. He spoke of the fleets that go down into the sea; he told how they weave flax at Tyrus, spin gold at Ophir; of the twisted shell that comes from Orba; and the linen in Egypt that endures the fire. He spoke of fleets, of laws, of the art that makes man happy.

"Truly he is wise, said the King, "but let others speak."

Another came forth—he was young in years, His cheek was burning with enthusiasm. The fire of genius shone in his eye like the day star, when all the others are swallowed up in light. He spoke of the works of the great One. Told how the cedar of Lebanon, when the sun kisses its forehead, lifts up its great arm with a shout, shaking off the feathery snow in winter, or the pearly dew of autumn, to freshen the late calma that glitters at its foot. He spoke of the elephant, the antelope, the jackal, the eagle, the mule. He knew them all. He told them of the fish that made glad the waters, as the seasons dance the frolic round about their heads. He sang, in liquid softness, of the daughters of air who melt the heavens into song, he arose to the stars, spoke of old chaos, of the world, the offering of love; he spoke of the stars, Mazzaroth, and the tall ladder Jacob saw. He sang again of the song of creation.

"He is wiser than Solomon," said the King, "To him belongs the prize."

But at that moment some men, in humble garb, brought a stranger unwillingly along. His raiment was poor, but comely and snow-white. The seal of labor was on his hand, the dust of travel covered his sandals. His beard, long and silvery, went to his girdle. A sweet smile, like a sleeping infant's, sat unconscious on his lip. His eye was like the angel's lamp, that burns, in still devotion, before the court of paradise. As he leaned on his shepherd's staff, in the gay court, a blush like a girl's stole over his cheek.

"Speak." said the king.

"I have nothing to say," exclaimed the hoary man, "I know only how unwise and frail I am. I am no sage."

And Solomon's countenance arose. "By the sceptre of El-Shaddai, I charge thee to speak, thou ancient man."

Then he began: "My study is myself, my acts, my sentiments. I learn how frail I am. I, of myself, can do nothing. I listen to that voice within, and I know all, I can do all." Then he spoke of his glees and his gloom, his hopes, his aspirations, his faith. He spoke of nature, the modest trees, the pure golden stars. When he came to Him, who is ALL IN ALL, he bowed his face and was dumb.

"Give him the ring," said Solomon. "He knows himself, he is the wisest. The spirit of the Holy is in him."

"Take back the gift," said the sage. "I need it not. He that knows himself needs no reward. Alas! I do but feebly know myself. I deserve no ring. Let me return to my home and my duty."

GOOD MAXIMS.—Maintain dignity without the appearance of pride.

Preserve self-possession, and do not be talked out of conviction.

Be guarded in discourse, attentive and slow to speak.

Be punctual and methodical in business, and never procrastinate.

Rise early, and be an economist of time.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Jan. 8, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ ATTENTION!!

As we are about changing our subscription list, we request all those whose names are not spelled correctly,—whose papers are directed to other parties,—whose Post Office address is incorrect, or incorrectly spelled,—whose papers come in the wrong packages, or come singly when they should come in a package,—or whose credit has not been rightly given, to write to us immediately, stating how it is and how it should be, and it will save us much trouble in the future.

DISCUSSION IN QUEBEC.

We have arranged to have a discussion with Mr. S. H. Phillips, in Quebec, P. Q., Canada, commencing Monday evening, Jan. 13th, to continue five evenings.

QUESTION: "Do the Scriptures teach that, after the judgment, the wicked will be punished with eternal death and cease to exist as conscious beings?"

MEETINGS BY THE WAY.

Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 24th, we left Boston en route for Montreal and Quebec. In the evening we had the privilege of being with the church at Portsmouth, N. H. This church has been recently fovored with the labors of Brn. J. G. Hook, and M. Batchelor, and several new ones have started in the service of the Lord. This is a living church ready for every good word and work. We always expect a good meeting at Portsmouth.

Wednesday evening we were at Portland, and had an excellent meeting. A lively interest was manifested in the conference, after the sermon. We could say it was good to be there. The church in P. has kept a constant light burning, and feels determined to endure to the end, "looking for that blessed hope and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ." A large and attentive audience was present. We had the pleasure of meeting Bro. B. Emery, a faithful minister of Christ, with whom we had a very pleasant visit at Bro. J. S. Brooks' good pilgrim home.

Thursday, Dec. 26th, we went on to Bryant's Pond, sixty-two miles from Portland, situated on the Grand Trunk R. R. It is a pleasant village. Our meeting was held in the Baptist meeting-house. Several came from eight to twenty-five miles to the meeting. We had a precious season. The Spirit of the Lord was with us, and many hearty testimonies followed the preaching. Among the others were Brn. True Jordan and J. Whitman, faithful ministers of the gospel, who are sounding the alarm to a guilty world and a sleeping church. Their faith is strong in the hope of soon seeing Jesus. They are not ashamed of their calling. Bro. Whitman resides at Mechanic Falls, Me., and Bro. Jordan at Portland, Me.

Friday, we left B. P. for Montreal, stopping all night at Island Pond. Saturday, Dec. 28, we arrived in M. and received a hearty welcome by the friends of Jesus. On our way from Richmond, P. Q. to M. we passed hundreds of acres where not a flake of snow could be seen. This seemed odd in Canada, near the last of Dec. They have had some quite cold weather, with mercury at twenty degrees below zero; but it is now quite moderate and pleasant. In the city there is just snow enough to make the best of sleighing.

Our first visit to M. was on the 21st of Sept. 1863. Since then the Lord has done a good work here. It is very hard soil to cultivate in spiritual things. The bigotry is abundant, and is a great obstacle in the way of preaching the gospel of the kingdom. The people seem to think that what a popular minister says is the highest authority. If he says a certain doctrine is infidelity, they do not wish to inquire any further. They at once raise the cry,—"Infidel," infidel," and the people take fright and dare not come near lest they become poisoned with infidel sentiments. Montreal does not seem like the cities in the States, on account of the great control exercised over all things by the ecclesiastical power. Americans do not feel as much at home here as in their own country. We think it would be a great blessing to the Canadians if the middle wall of partition was broken down between them and the United States. The chief objection now existing are our heavy taxes. One can now live cheaper in Canada at present, than in England. But we feel that we can afford to pay extra for our living, on account of the liberty enjoyed, and our freedom from the ecclesiastical rule of bigotry and superstion. Yet there are noble souls in Montreal and in all parts of Canada, who dare do their own thinking, and stand up for the pure religion of Jesus, which does not seek to make any display or parade; a religion to which the poor are specially invited.

These who embrace the blessed hope here are at once shut out from their former society. They are not respected any more than were the early Methodists, when they enjoyed the life and power of religion. There is a most marked difference between those who really enjoy the christian religion and those who support the popular church interest. The Catholic influence is very strong here, and exerts a controlling power, to which all others submit more or less.

During the last two and a half years it has not been our privilege to visit the church in M. They have been supplied by different preachers, and for the last year, mostly by Brn. J. B. Cook, and J. Salmon. In the last mentioned period, some sixteen have been baptized, and are rejoicing in the hope of the gospel. Others are almost persuaded to follow Jesus through evil as well as good report. We learn there are many in the churches who believe with us, but who do not take a bold stand for the truth. They choose to remain with those who support popular error, rather than be identified with those who sustain unpopular truth. Our prayer is, Lord increase their courage, that they may become bold soldiers of the cross, and let their light shine before the world.

Our first meeting was last Sabbath, Dec. 29th, and was a good one. Their hall was well filled during the day, and crowded in the evening. The audience listened with the best attention, and we heard of one who commenced praying that night. We expect to hear of others who will consent to be christians. In the evening we had the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. It was good to be there. At the close of the communion several very interesting witnesses spoke of their experience in they way of life. One said he was an Atheist, another said he was an infidel when they first came to our meetings in 1863. They heard "an infidel" was giving lectures, and they came to hear him discuss with one who was reported to be orthodox; but they came to the conclusion that the wrong man had been called "the infidel." They continued to come till they embraced what some call "infidelity." It led them to confess and forsake their sins, to love Jesus and his appearing, and now their hope is like an anchor, and more precious than ever. They are new creatures in Christ Jesus. We learn the sad news that the one with whom we had the discussion is now a fallen man, and not allowed to preach. We have never known prosperity to attend those who oppose the doctrine of the speedy personal coming of Christ, the resurrection of the dead, and the setting up of the everlasting kingdom. On the contrary, all who receive it, however much they may have enjoyed before, always receive extra joy and peace when they embrace these great truths. Why is it?

GROANING CREATION.

It seemed as though the earth sympathized with the times in which we live, and was groaning for deiiverance from the burden of sin resting upon it. It is in a very uneasy condition, as is shown by the multitude of earthquakes that have recently agitated its bosom. It seems to be experimenting, or practising, for the purpose of soon doing some grand thing, that will astonish a wicked world.

The Ogdensburg Journal, when speaking of the "moral effect of an earthquake," says:—

"The more we hear of the impressions produced upon the minds of the people by the visitation of Wednesday morning the more we appreciate its awful grandeur. Very many fervently pious people supposed that the 'Judgment Day' had actually arrived, and remained in a state of almost suspended animation for several seconds, expecting to hear the 'last trumpet sound.' In the Third Ward a dancing party suddenly broke up and departed for home and places to pray. A knot of gamblers in the lower part of the village dropped their cards, looked each other in the face and skedaddled for a refuge. Very few in looking over the records of their deeds and misdeeds, which always pass so rapidly in moments of such fearful suspense, were satisfied with the balance sheet."

"DELUGE OF CRIME."

The "progress" of the world, about which so much is said by the spirits and their followers, is very apparent; only it is in the opposite direction from what they teach. They say the world is rapidly growing better. In proportion as their sentiments advance, they claim that there is actual progress towards a higher life; whereas facts demonstrate that the opposite is true. Never has crime been increasing as at the present time. While there are those who wish to sustain a theory, who shut their eyes to the facts about them, and are like a man in a darkened room who sees no light at mid day; yet there are others who are looking at things as they are. Even unconverted, worldly men, who have been expecting an improved state of society, are now compelled by stubborn facts to acknowledge society is in a very sad condition.

The following from the New York Tribune of Dec. 25th, is to the point:—

"The sad death of Mr. Hamilton, Member of Congress from Ohio, adds another item to the flood—we may say the deluge—of crime and accident with which our columns have for days past been overburdened. The telegraph wires bend under their weight of woe; the old earth quivers with throbs of agony from from the centre to the pole; cities are shaken down, countries are engulphed, fair domains are overflowed with red-hot lava: wife is arrayed against husband, mother against child, son against father; a hecatomb is sacrificed on one railway, half as many on another, and on still another the width of a hair stands between a thousand and sudden death. In social life, our newspapers are smutchen all over with reports of divorce and separation trials, of infidelity and disgrace, of gigantic crimes undertaken, half accomplished or completed. What shall be the end of these things?"

We may well ask, "What shall be the end of these things?" None but those who take heed to the sure word of prophecy are able to give an intelligent answer. That assures us that we can hope for no better state of things till Jesus comes to set up his kingdom. "Evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse." It is to be as in the days of Noah and Lot when the Son of man is revealed. The mass of the people are embracing infidelity, and turning a deaf ear to all the invitations of the gospel. There is a degree of recklessness that is truly alarming. We must be prepared for worse times than we have yet seen. We need to watch specially lest we partake of the cold, formal spirit that is now pervading christendom, and then become "lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God." Let us remember, if we "love the world, the love of the Father is not in" us.

For the World's Crisis.

NOTES, QUERIES AND OBJECTIONS.

BY REV. A. A. PHELPS.

10. You contend for a literal sense of Scripture terms; especially of the terms "life" and "death." Let us first inquire whether your interpretation of the term "life" will bear the test of sound criticism. It is not denied that "life" means existence; it certainly means that; but it often means more. In common with many other terms, it has a secondary and higher sense. Life comes to mean not only the performance of certain functions, but also the healthful, harmonious, and happy performance of them. Take a few examples. A vigorous woman was called a "lively" or living woman. (Ex. 1: 19.) David prayed, "Wilt thou not revive us again?" It might have been rendered—"make us alive." (Ps. 85: 6.) Solomon said: "Hope deferred maketh the heart sick; but when the desire cometh, it is a tree of life." (Prov. 13: 12.) No doubt happiness here expresses the true sense. Says the apostle (1 Thess. 3: 8),—"For now we live, if ye stand fast in the Lord"; that is, "your prosperity will make us happy."

Life is also applied to that spiritual union with God which every christian enjoys. He existed when a sinner; but now he lives. Thus the poet:

"He only lives, who lives to God,
And all are dead besides."

So also the Scriptures: "You hath he quickened [made alive] who were dead in trespasses and sins."—Eph. 2: 1. "And you... hath he quickened [made alive] together with him, having forgiven you all trespasses."—Col. 2: 13. "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life."—Jno. 3: 36. "To be spiritually minded is life and peace."—Rom. 8: 6. "He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life."—1 Jno. 5: 12.

It is plain that life in these passages implies the element of spirituality, or a gracious union with God. If this be so, then who shall say that eternal life does not include both existence and happiness? Indeed, is not the latter element held out very prominently in connection with the promised rewards of the righteous? Is it not true that a particular mode of existence is sometimes the all-absorbing consideration?

REPLY BY THE EDITOR.

We hold that when the words life and death are used in connection with rewards and punishments, that they are used in "a literal sense." But we do not find one passage where life plainly means happiness. There are seven words rendered life, but they are not once rendered happiness. We admit that some modern theologians have assumed that zoe, one of the five words rendered life, means happiness, but we fail to see the truthfulness of such an assertion. The word is from zao, which is primarily defined, "to live, i. e., to have life, be alive." Zoe is first defined, "life, i. e., animated existence, state of being alive." Psukee is another of the words rendered life, and is defined:—"breath; life, i. e., the animal soul, principle of life." A fourth word is pneuma; which is rendered life but once, and that is in Rev. 13: 15, where the beast is said to have power to give life unto the image of the beast." The other three words are zoopoieo, bios and biotikos. As zoe is the only word rendered life that is claimed to represent not only life, but also happiness, we will introduce a few examples of its use, and leave the reader to decide whether it means happiness. "All the days of your (zoe) life."—Lk. 1: 75. "In thy (zoe) *life*time."—Lk. 16: 25. "His (zoe) life is taken from the earth."—Acts 8: 23. "Giveth to all (zoe) life." Acts 17: 25. Does the Lord give happiness to all? "If in this (zoe) life only."—1 Cor. 15: 9. "Savor of (zoe) life unto (zoe) life."—2 Cor. 2: 16. "By (zoe) life or by death."—Phil. 1: 20. "The (zoe) life that now is."—1 Tim. 4: 8. "For what is your (zoe) life? It is even a vapor, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away."—Jas. 4: 14.

These examples most clearly show that zoe means, in harmony with its definition, "animated existence, state of being alive." We are taught that if we are christians, our life is hid with Christ in God; hence those who have "the Son have life." But where is it? It is "hid with Christ in God."—Col. 3: 3. It is not yet in us. If it were, we could not die. "He that believeth not God hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son. And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his SON."—1 John 5: 10–11. It is secured to us through Christ, provided we endure unto the end; otherwise, we have no promise.

Nothing is said in the Bible about a happy eternal life and a miserable eternal death; but the Scriptures speak simply of "life and death" as the rewards of the good and the evil. Take an example:—"The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord."—Rom. 6: 23. If all men are to live eternally, then we might expect to find words qualifying life, indicating whether the life should be a happy or miserable one; but we do not find any such examples. The Scriptures speak just as we should expect they would, provided that the word (zoe) life means "animated existence," or "state of being alive"; and (thanatos) death "the extinction of life."

There are Scriptures which plainly teach us that the life promised to the righteous will be one of happiness; but the fact is not expressed in the word zoe, or the word life, which means simply "animated existence"; or the opposite of being dead.

The only qualifying words we find associated with the word life, are such as express its duration. Its character is ascertained from language like the following:—"God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away."—Rev. 21: 4.

CONDITION OF THE SOUTH.

Reports from the South show that the people are in a sad state of destitution. The accounts from there are heart-rending. The following, from a despatch to the New York Herald, is a sample:—

"One of our traveling correspondents, who has just made an extensive tour through Louisiana, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, North Carolina and South Carolina, represents the condition of the freedmen as heart-rending in the extreme. In all the cotton districts of those States the great mass of the freedmen are not only on the point of starvation, but possess scarcely a sufficiency of clothing to cover nakedness. At most of the railroad stations many colored children collect on the arrival of the trains and enter into competition with famished swine and dogs for the possession of the bones thrown by passengers from the trains, while scores of negroes will collect about the depots as spectators. In the corn growing district the prospects of a famine are not so near and whites and blacks are on friendly terms. In many counties of these States the forests are filled with armed negroes, who hunt game in the day time and make raids upon the planters' stock at night. This destitution, however, is not confined to the blacks. Thousands of the white population have not a month's provisions ahead, and no money with which to lay in a supply. Many planters provided a year's supply for their families, but the starving negroes have very generally pillaged their smoke houses and granaries, and stripped them clean. His estimate of the number of persons (compiled from statistics collected by the Executives of the States and others) who will starve unless Congress provides some relief, is three millions, two-thirds of whom are negroes. This estimate embraces Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, and the Carolinas. He has no estimate of the other unconstructed States. The planters are generally alarmed and would leave the country could they raise the means to remove their families. Hundreds are offering their homes for a mere song, but can find no purchasers. Plantations that before the war commanded as high as $50 per acre can be purchased for $5 per acre."

The following is an extract from a private letter from Madison Station, Miss., published in the New York Tribune:—

"People through this region are broke generally. The negroes are stealing cattle, sheep, hogs, and killing them to get something to eat. The planters are all broke, and the negroes can find no employment. When turned off, their rations stop, and, having nothing to buy provisions with, they take to stealing. But as that can't last, the negroes break from the plantations to the towns and cities. Thousands of them are without adequate shelter from the weather, and don't know where their next meal will come from. In the towns and cities they huddle together like pigs, where, of course, morals and shame are unknown. It is estimated that in this district from 30,000 to 50,000 will perish from hunger, exposure and destitution this winter. And next year what of it? Tax, or no tax, there will be little cotton raised. It will no longer pay to raise cotton. I doubt if even a bounty of two-and-a-half cents a pound, instead of a tax of that amount, would stimulate production. It is too late."

A REASON FOR SUICIDE.

The following strange plea for suicide is somewhat consistent, when viewed from the stand-point of popular theology, especially from that of the Universalist and Spiritualist. No doubt many commit suicide for the same reason as that assigned by Mr. Twyman. But how absurd the idea that a man is a man without a body, when it is the physical organism by which he is known in this world, is as unreasonable as it would be to say the hole in a bank existed after the earth composing the bank was all carried away, and densely packed in another place. The hole was not an entity existing by itself. It could exist no longer than the bank existed. There could be no hole without the bank; so there can be no man without the physical organism. When the man is dead there is nothing to live any longer. All the rest of him, aside from the breath of life, is like the hole in the bank.

We now give the suicide's plea, as published in the Cairo (Mo.) Democrat, Dec. 8th, 1867.

"The recent death in our city of Col. R. B. J. Twyman, by his own hand, will insure for the following "Plea for the Suicide," written by him on the 22d ult., a general perusal. The manuscript, in the Colonel's own handwriting, was inclosed in an envelop, directed in pencil to 'John H. Oberly, Esq.,' and was deposited with a leading druggist of our city, with instructions concerning its publication after his death. The manuscript, if desired by his family, can be had on application to this office:

THE PLEA FOR THE SUICIDE.

How common it is for the loving world to declare that the 'suicide was crazy;' that he or she, who has voluntarily freed their suffering, wearied, immortal spirits from this world of misery and woe, were laboring under a mental aberration! The idea, therefore, of a sane person committing suicide is not to be tolerated.

I think differently. I believe that a person can be of sound mind, and earnestly desire to go to God—sincerely pray to be transferred from this world of suffering and sorrow to the blissful spirit land of endless eternity.

The truly good have no fears of death or of the judgment. God gave us life, and implanted in us an immortal spirit, and when that spirit is pure, it has a constant desire to return to that God of purity and love from whence it came. The selfishness, the deceit, the hypocrisy, the malignity, the hatred, the envies and the corruptions by which we are surrounded in this world so afflict the spirits of the pure in heart, that they long to be freed from the curse of mortality, that they may enjoy the presence and glory of God forever.

But according to the doctrines of the so-called orthodox christians, "He who destroys his own life loses his own soul." I do not believe it. We were taught by God himself, through the person of his Son, Jesus Christ, to pray for the coming of the kingdom. What is the kingdom referred to? Where is that kingdom? Christ said it is not of this world. It is the kingdom of heaven—of eternity—for which we are taught to pray. Is it a crime, then, for us to go to that kingdom? There is but one way for us to reach it, and that is through the gates of death—the cold grave—where we lay down mortality and take up immortality.

For what does man cling to life? Is there happiness here? No. Can purity be found here? No. Nothing but sin and misery fall to the lot of man, from the cradle to the grave.

Who are they that cling to life so tenaciously? Are they those who love God and desire to go to the spirit land, that they may see and enjoy his glory? No. They cling to life because they are afraid the devil will get them when they die. They who love God truly and sincerely are not afraid of the devil, and hence are not afraid to die, but welcome death as the real messenger of eternal freedom and peace. To the good, death is the king, not of terrors, but of peace and joy everlasting.

Who, then, will dare say that the soul is lost who voluntarily seeks the bliss of eternity? When the prison house of clay, in which the immortal spirit is confined, knows nothing but pain and suffering—when friends desert and scorn you—when you are surrounded on all sides by swindlers, knaves and scoundrels—when your future is all gloom and darkness, the very blackness of despair, with no ray of hope to illuminate your soul—you voluntarily give back your immortal spirit to the God who gave it, and your body to the dust from whence it came, and then men say you were crazy, that you are eternally lost—they are hypocrites or knaves, and know not of what they speak. "Judge not," etc. So ends my "plea." R. B. J. TWYMAN.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office.

TRACTS IN PACKAGES.

On doctrinal and practical subjects; also Leaflets for Letters, and Children's Tracts; all put up in neat, printed wrappers, and selling for 25c., 50c., and $1.00, postpaid. Also $1.00 packages of Pamphlets, containing our best. Who wants one, five, or fifty packages of tracts and pamphlets, to scatter among their friends? Packages sent directly to any Post Office desired.

THE PLAN OF REDEMPTION.

Brn. I. C. Wellcome and C. Goud have just issued an interesting work on the Atonement and Plan of Redemption. It contains 328 octavo pp. With it is bound Bro. Wellcome's valuable work on Baptism, of 82 pp. Price of book, $1.25, postage 16 cents. For sale at this office.

THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK.

A new edition of this work has just been issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price reduced as follows: $1.25 per dozen, or $1.50 by mail. Single copy 15 cents by mail.

Two Hundred Stories for Children.

BY T. M. PREBLE.

(A new edition. 234 pp.)

This valuable book for children needs no other recommendation at this time, than to say that the present edition is the nineteenth thousand since its first publication. Many will be glad to know that this favorite book is again in print. The Voice of the West says of it:—"One of the best story books for children ever published. Never fails to interest." To be had at this office. Price 88c., postpaid.

Stories for Young Pilgrims.—Vol. II.

Another neat little volume of 200 pages, with 12 illustrations, has been issued by the Advent Christian Publication Society, and is for sale at this office for 80 cents postpaid. A good book for your Sunday School library. Send for one.

For the World's Crisis.

FOR THE "BRUISED REED."

I have received quite a number of letters (containing money) in response to the appeal of Bro. Grant in the Crisis of Dec. 4th, and several who gave their names were strenuously opposed to having them published, or any public acknowledgment made. I have replied by letter to all who gave me their full address, except in one case, where I was requested not to acknowledge it publicly or otherwise.

Anonymous letters have been received as follows: Providence, R. I.; Chelsea, Mass.; Worcester (two anonymous letters came from Worcester, one containing a "Christmas present" for S. S. C.); Pleasant Valley, "E. W. R."; Sardinia, N. Y.; Marion, N. Y.; D. L. Allyn, Montgomery (State not given); Wilbraham, Mass.; Melvin Village (for S. S. C).

While we thank all who have thus ministered to our wants, and earnestly pray that they may be rewarded many fold, we also ask an interest in their prayers that we may increase and abound more and more in all spiritual blessings, and be filled with all the fulness of God.

Before this is published, the year 1867 will be numbered with the past, and a NEW YEAR will have been ushered in. We are resolved to begin this year 1868 as we ought, and through grace to live soberly, righteously and godly, "looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day ... wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat."

That glorious day is very near,
And Zion's King will soon appear.

F. H. & S. S. CHAMBERLAIN.

Sutton, Mass.

For the World's Crisis.

REPORT OF LIBERTY CONF.

Conference met according to appointment. The meeting began and closed with a good spirit. Ministers present:—J. Carr, N. G. Reed, J. Somes, N. Nason, H. S. Mitchell, S. K. Partridge.

The conference called to order by the Pres. The Secretary being absent, S. K. Partridge was chosen.

Voted, That our next conference be held at Friendship (new meeting-house), Feb. 6th, in the evening. Chose S. K. Partridge, H. Doe, W. H. Worthirg, a committee to request the Ministerial conference to take into consideration the labor of men who travel in our State claiming to be ministers and have not a christian character.

J. PARTRIDGE, Pres.
S. K. PARTRIDGE, Sec.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, on Wilbraham Camp-ground, Friday, August 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments	$271.94
John Craig	.90
J. F. Busch	10.00
A. Damon	.45

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	75.25
A. F. Rice	1.50
J. F. Busch	10.00

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$3540.79
J. C. Baston	10.00
J. F. Busch	60.00

One barrel of clothing, etc., etc., from Mrs. F. M. Shimper, for Memphis; also $2 from "two aged ladies," for the same.

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments	$101.37
J. F. Busch	10.00

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$562.44
O. N. Brooks	5.00
Aldis Perrin	5.00
Scitico, Ct.	5.00

For the World's Crisis.

CREDIT TO WHOM CREDIT IS DUE.

In Sr. Anna E. Smith's recent letter of acknowledgments, she speaks of receiving $2.50 from Sr. M. D. Wellcome, which conveys the idea that we alone contributed that amount. In our letter we stated that the money was contributed to pay expressage, and requested her to state in the Crisis as acknowledgement, "One barrel from friends at Yarmouth, with $2.50 by letter."

It is not strange that Sr. Smith, with her multiplicity of letters and cares, should sometimes in her hurry make mistakes. We wish no unmerited credit, and as we were only one with others in this matter, we feel that this correction is due to the friends at Yarmouth, whose hands furnished material and money.

We would say, in conclusion, to the readers of the Crisis, "Go thou and do likewise"; gather up the garments which will make warm the shivering poor, and send along the cash to pay freight thereon, and if it exceed the required amount, let it go to help replenish Sr. Anna's purse; for (I whisper this in your private ear) that dear, self-sacrificing sister, toiling day and night for others, has sometimes gone to bed without anything in the house to eat, and, having no money to purchase her food, has started fasting in the morning on her mission of love. Think of that, ye who know not what it is to want any good thing, whose store-houses are full; and let your hands at once be moved to action in this matter. Send in to this, and to other missions, the needful to sustain them, and ~~thus will you be as truly co-laborers with them~~ in this blessed work of soul-saving as though you were there in person to help.

Come, lend to the Lord liberally; he will repay you with usury. Supposing you do feel it; will you give to the Lord that which costs you nothing? It is best to give till we do feel it; why should we not sacrifice and labor in this work as well as those faithful missionaries? It is a shame to have, among those who are looking for an eternal inheritance soon, any who are suffering in any way for food and raiment. When the Lord, the righteous Judge says to us, "Give an account of thy stewardship," shall we be able to render it with joy or grief?

M. D. WELLCOME.

For the World's Crisis.

THE DORCAS MISSION.

H. H. Tilley, Washington, $5.00; George Needham, Artesio, Ill., $1.00; a sister, South Wilbraham, $1.75; Sr. Busch, $5.00; Bro. Stetler, $10.00; "friends," Concord, N. H., $3.00; Miles Clark, Hartford, $6.00; John Denman $2.00, Wm. Denman $1.00, Sister Denman and her husband $5.00, their three children, Hattie, Johnnie, and Lydia, 25 cts. each, all of Wakeman, Ohio; "friends," Vershire, Vt., $2.50; friends in Wilbraham, 75 cts.; Bro. Dockerty, $5.00; E. L. Higgins, Worcester, $2.00; S. P. H., New Bedford, $1.00; Wm. Knowlton, Portsmouth, N. H., a New Year's present to myself, $2.00; Sr. R. A. Staples, Monroe, Ct., $2.00.

Received a barrel from Miles Clark of Hartford, half full of pop-corn, also containing a bag of walnuts, about five pounds of butter, about eight pounds of pork, some clothing, etc. A box from Sr. E. M. Fisher of Windsor, Ct., containing a salted ham from Georgia and Mary Miller, and a dozen pairs of shoes from Bro. Williams, all of Westfield, Mass; and a lot of envelopes, tracts, a few stockings, shoe-strings, etc. Received a half-barrel of clothing from M. A. Harris of Otsego, Mich.; some dried apples among the things sent, and a lot of clothing belonging to a deceased child. Dear sister, the time of rejoicing is at hand; rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him. Received from Sr. Malinda Proctor of New Durham, N. H., a barrel containing three quilts, half a bushel of beans, some dried berries and dried apples, and a lot of clothing.

May the blessing of the Lord rest upon all these dear friends for their kind remembrance of us. We thank all, and believe that the Lord will reward. We have twenty-eight children under our care at this time. Pray for us. Yours, etc., in Christ,

708 Lombard St. F. H. BURBANK.

For the World's Crisis.

A BRIEF REPORT OF A SERIES OF MEETINGS HELD IN THE R. I. MISSION TENT.

The tent was located in the following places:—Bristol, R. I., Rockland, Providence, Wilbraham, Wyoming, No. Scituate, Thompson, Ct. In all these meetings the power of God was manifested in the salvation of souls and in the building up, reorganizing, and adding to the church such as we hope to be saved. Sixty-one were baptized at North Scituate, and more expecting to be. Thirteen were baptized at Thompson, and a good prospect of establishing a permanent meeting in that place. At the last named place we parted with our much beloved Bro. Reed, who through his liberality purchased the tent and hired a brother to take care of it. He has now taken it down South to carry the glad tidings of the soon coming kingdom to the poor freedmen. May the Lord guide him, and the cloud of his presence be over the tabernacle wherever it is pitched. He has placed means in my possession to obtain another tent to go wherever Providence may open the way.

Preachers who labored in connection with these meetings were Brn. Durpee, Northup, Reed, Ingham, Wood, Chapman, Hastings, Brown, J. T. Dixon, C. Dixon, Carpenter, Sweet, Phetteplace, Hopkins. Bro. E. Smith rendered essential aid (the brother employed to take care of the tent). Most of these preachers were with us but little of the time. Bro. Reed and Sr. Crumb moved with the tent and cloud in almost every place. Yours in the good work of the Lord,

E. BELLOWS.

For the World's Crisis.

ON ITS MISSION, AND WORKING.

"THE PLAN OF REDEMPTION" is having excellent success. One brother, who has sold about thirty copies among the various churches in his vicinity and travels, hears "good results from it in all quarters. It awakens investigation and produces theological revolution."

Another brother in Illinois, who has read the book, thinks it "a very useful and interesting work to circulate," and orders one hundred dollars' worth to begin with.

A sister in Ohio, who wishes to be useful in spreading the light on our faith and hope, orders fifty copies. May the Lord give her success, and bless the work to the building up of his people.

A Bro. in Mass., who is anxious to spread the truth of the Bible Plan of Redemption, orders fifty copies to commence with.

A Bro. in Maine, who is deeply interested that the people should see the truth on the great Plan of Redemption, orders two dozen of the book to circulate.

The first thousand copies, just published, are mostly in circulation, and a second edition will soon be got off. For sale at the Crisis office. Also by the publisher, I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

For the World's Crisis.

POMPEII.

BRO. GRANT:—Reading in the Crisis of the 25th of the wickedness of Pompeii, reminds me of what I saw when in Italy, especially in Naples. Truly wickedness does abound there.

I spent one day with my late husband among the ruins of Pompeii. The walls of the city are nearly twenty feet thick and about as high, faced with blocks of lava inside and out. There are six gates, and many towers rising above the ramparts, and pierced with arches. We went by the Appian way to the "Gate of Herculaneum." Along either side of the road approaching this gate are a number of ancient tombs, many of which are in as perfect a state as though they had been erected at a more recent period; they recall the ancient glories of the Appian. The road is called the "Street of the Tombs." Judging from the number and richness of the antiquities in the Museum taken from the houses as they unburied them, it must have enjoyed a reputation for wealth and luxury far beyond ~~anything we can conceive of in these our days.~~

I was greatly disappointed in regard to the size and number of the houses and streets that have been excavated since the year 1755. I expected to have seen a single street of some fifty or sixty yards in length; instead of that, I found one-third of a city as large as Camden, entirely excavated; and as you walk the streets and observe the deep ruts made by the carriage wheels over three thousand years ago, and enter the houses and stores where they did business; walk through the amphitheatre where the gladiators fought; enter the forum where Cicero, Augustus and Nero all appeared and played a conspicuous part; you are forcibly reminded of the flight of time, and can scarcely imagine yourself standing in the very streets and treading the identical steps these people trod in ancient Rome.

The appearance of the place to me is very much like entering a city that has recently been destroyed by fire, and nothing left but the walls. In some of the wine shops the very jars that contained the wine remain undisturbed. Even the ovens where the bakers baked their bread and cakes still remain; and at the Museum I have seen the loaves just as they were taken from the oven, burnt black, and with the owner's name on them; as it would appear at the time of the eruption there must have been a batch of bread in the oven.

But this is not all. In the house of Diawde, who had an extensive villa, just within the Herculaneum gate, and who with his family was destroyed in attempting to escape, three skeletons were found in the cellar, and the impressions remain in the wall. These skeletons have been preserved in glass cases in a room in his house, and are to be seen by visitors. They are all in agonized positions, as if they had suffered much in dying, and on the finger of the youngest there is a gold signet ring. These skeletons are an evidence that many of the inhabitants were destroyed, whilst the most of them had abundance of time to escape the overwhelming destruction.

Could not some one be sent to preach to the poor deluded people of Naples in their own language, that their eyes might be opened to see the truth? Pray for the poor Italians.

Respectfully, C. M. JEWELL.

Phila., Dec. 29th.

☞ SR. A. E. SMITH acknowledges the following donations for Christmas: "A Christmas present from the Lord," by the hand of Bro. H. L. Hastings, $25.00; Sister Holden, $5.00; Widow A. Thomas, Holden, a half-barrel, with beef, just killed, some clothing, books, herbs, and a doll from Clara Bailey; a barrel from Providence, R. I., containing one quilt, twenty-three new made under garments for women, Sunday School Library, two red flannel shirts, three new pairs of shoes, a map of St. Paul's travels, besides men's clothes and papers, $1.50 from Bro. I. B. Morgan, $1.00 from his wife; "New Year's gift" from "Hope," So. Reading, Mass., $1.00; $3.00 from Bro. J. M. Weston, Keesville, N. Y., for rent; $1.00 from a friend, of South Hadley Falls, Mass.; a barrel with no name, containing four rolls of butter, dried apples, dried berries, beans and clothing, with $10.00. I would like to know where this barrel came from. The letter is signed E. A. Poole. From "better late than never," Chester, Mass., $2.50; a barrel from E. Roxbury, Vt., from a widow and her daughters, both invalids, Mary I. Glidden; friend in Portland, $1.00; C. C. M., Jersey City, $10.00; a sister in Portland, Me., $2.00, for rent; Sr. F. F. Lyman, Hartford, Vt., $2.00; Sr. S. T. Palmer, Sandusky, O., $2.00, for rent; 50 cts. by the hand of S. C. R. Bailey, from an aged sister, lately deceased; a barrel from Northville, N. H., of clothing, books, etc., and quilt; a small box of herbs, all nicely labeled, with salves for sores, and bandages all ready, two pieces of dried beef for the sick, some apples and nuts, no name, or letter, but expressed from Plymouth, Ct. May God bless the hands that put up that box! Many thanks for all these New Year's gifts.

Correspondence.

From Sr. A. E. Smith.

Bro. Grant:—Truly the Lord is as good as his promise. We have food and raiment, and therewith are content. We have some in this street that were converted just in time. Some were taken sick and died in a few days afterwards. One case I will mention. There was one woman we had been visiting for some time sick with consumption; she seemed indifferent about salvation, but when she found she was sinking fast, she became more earnest and was anxious to have us pray with her. She imagined one day that she could not be converted unless she was taken to the Mission. They came and asked me if they should bring her around to the Mission? I thought it was only a notion, and I sent word she could get religion in bed as well as at the Mission. But she would not. Doctor said she would not live two weeks. They finally brought her, all rolled up in quilts, in a big chair, and carried her up to the Mission room. At first she was very weak, and I feared that she would not have any strength to pray; but after awhile she revived and began to pray very earnestly; and all in the meeting seemed interested in her case. Just before the meeting closed she found peace in believing; then what a blessed time we had.

The next Sunday was our love-feast and communion. She wished to come. She was carried round again in the afternoon. When the love-feast was over she wanted to stay to the evening meeting and take the communion, as she had never received it. So we took her up some toast and tea, and she ate her supper and said she felt so much better; but I told her I thought the next time she took the communion would be in the kingdom, for I saw she was sinking. They took her home on Monday. She seemed much better, but Thursday began to sink very fast. On Saturday, at twenty minutes past eleven, she breathed her last. From the time she was converted till she died she was just as happy as she could be. She often said, "O, what a narrow escape I made; almost within a hair's breadth of being lost for ever. O glory to God."

"Amazing grace! how sweet the sound,
That saved a wretch like me."

"O," she would say, "how is it that the Lord did save me?" The night before she died she was very happy, and sung and praised the Lord.

If this were the only one saved, we have been amply paid for all our labor and expense; but she is not; there have been twenty-seven converted since we started our new mission. Praise the Lord. O, how easy it is to work when we see souls converted.

I am sorry I have to take "poor" money sometimes, and money for mission work, to pay the rent with, especially when those that send it say it is for mission work; but I am trying to do the best that I know how to keep everything moving in the Mission.

A word about books for our circulating library. You can send school books and every thing that is like a book, or slate, for all we do not need we will send down to Mother Howard's Mission schools. She expects me to supply her with books. She is going ahead, and our missionaries that have gone down are doing a good work. Keep praying for them, and the Lord will bless them.

Anna E. Smith.
No. 14 Laurens St., N. Y. City.

From Bro. Jas. M. Weston.

Bro. Grant:—I write you to relate some strange things that have lately transpired here in our midst. We have had very cold weather during the fore part of the month, so much so that for five days in succession the thermometer ranged from 16 to 10° below zero. During the first eighteen days of the month, plum trees put forth blossoms in our village in full perfection and beauty; and five miles south of us, an apple tree put forth its blossoms, in as full perfection as in Spring-time; and three miles north of us, apple and plum trees blossomed in considerable numbers; and all this time the thermometer did not rise higher than twelve above zero, from the 18th to the 27th. In a garden within a few rods of us could have been seen at any time, by any one, a red rose in full bloom, with four feet of frozen ground under it, and an atmosphere full of frost around it. "Who can account for these things?"

We had a very heavy shock of earthquake on the 18th, at ten minutes past 8 o'clock in the morning, shaking the buildings, etc.; the first sensation felt was like the cracking or heaving of a vessel on the billows, and then came the jar, which was so severe as to remove the plaster from the houses in many instances. Its duration was about thirty seconds; the course of vibration seemed to run north-west to south-east. At our house the effect of the shock was felt with more violence than any other ever experienced in this part of the country.

We are earnestly trying to serve the Lord acceptably, and heartily pray, Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as in heaven.

Your Bro., James M. Weston.
Keesville, N. Y., Dec. 28th, '67.

The Earthquake at Santa Cruz.

The Disaster to the U. S. Steamer Monongahela.

An officer on board the U. S. ship Monongahela, which was left "high and dry" by the recent earthquake at Santa Cruz, sends us a vivid account of it as witnessed and experienced on board the ship. We make the following extracts. It is dated U. S. steamer Monongahela, Frederickstadth, Santa Cruz, Nov. 20:

"On the afternoon of the 18th inst., about 3 o'clock, we were visited by one of those infernal, or internal, shakings of the earth, which I am sure will remain un-obliterated in the minds of the present generation of this island and the present crew of the Monongahela. The first intimation we had of the terrible affair was a violent shaking of the ship as if she was easing her boilers by blowing off steam, but with twenty times the force. So violently did she tremble that there was every fear the masts and spars would fall and crush all under them. The water was actually seething as in a caldron, and though anchored about a mile from shore, the shocks were as perceptibly felt as they were on the land. At first everybody laughed at the strange phenomena. We felt no sense of danger until the second shock. Then we saw the houses swinging to and fro, the church steeples tumbling and the people leaving their houses and running for the hills. The sea rushed past us, our anchor seemed to sink, and the bottom seemed to have sunk, for the sea rushed past us at the rate of forty or fifty knots, and the land seemed moving and appeared to approach the ship and then sink into its natural position, and out we floated with the receding of the water. Our cable not being slipped in time, we were left on the bottom, the water receding a half a mile astern of us. This hove the ship on her side, sending all on board to the other side and injuring several. When the sea went as far as it could in a seaward direction, it instantly gathered itself together with all its power, like a boa ready to pounce on its prey. The bottom of the sea was visible for a mile and a half and looked like a fine sanded beach. Soon the order rang out 'Hold on, boys, the sea is advancing!' Who can imagine the sensation that came over us; every man holding on for life, but no one expected to escape. When that terrible boa came rushing on the ship, roaring with a terrific noise, thirty or forty feet high, we shut our eyes, expecting it would roll over us and swamp the ship, never more to rise. But Providence ordained otherwise. The sea took us up as if a chip, and hurled us with crushing force against the houses and trees of the town. The water at this time rushed furiously through the town, fifteen feet high, sweeping everything before it. The screams and shouts of the people, as they ran before it, trying to escape, were fearful. Whole houses were swept from their foundation, merchandise of all descriptions floated out of the stores and shops. Suddenly the water receded, carrying with it everything it picked up in its ravishing course. Our ship was carried out almost to her old anchorage, and then was enacted over the scene of the first shock, viz: the receding of the water, leaving us on the ocean's bottom; the rumbling of the earth, like heavy thunder, followed by that soul-fearing quaking, as if the ground would open and swallow all. Then came another boa, more dreadful than the first, rolling on the ship as if she was doomed, lifting us a second time, and sending us against the store houses of Mr. Moore (American consul) with terrific force, crushing them as if they were so many paper boxes, and breaking the trees as if they were pipe stems.

Again the water receded, and careened the ship on her port side on the rocks, at the water's edge, where she now lies a wreck. The last time we struck shore, orders were given for every man to leave the ship and save himself. I must confess it looked dubious, for we were then expecting another boa, which, if it came, would inevitably have crushed the ship on the rocks, or carried her out to sea, where she would have sunk, and all hands lost. The crew understood this, and, as life is dear to every man, all obeyed orders. Every one rushed to the side, and threw ropes over, and escaped from the ship, only to meet a large body of water forcing its way through the town, through which the men had to struggle against the rapid current waist and neck deep. The rushing back of the waters carried with it all sorts of rubbish, which felt rather unpleasant against the tender part of a man's leg, especially when he had a mouthful of salt water and sand.

The mass of water rushing to its natural bed was fearful. That, with the cries of the struggling women and children, as they went down and rose successively, carried under by the rapid current, and the trembling, rumbling and shaking of the earth, will ever be impressed on my memory. At every subsequent shock the poor people would fall upon their knees and send up a heart-rending shout, supplicating their Maker to spare them. Mothers with their daughters, fathers with their sons, crowding and pressing together for a place of refuge amongst the hills. Christians with their prayer books and bibles in hand, quietly sending up prayers and exhortations to their Creator, thinking no doubt the day of judgment had come.

The second shock threw up a bar a mile astern of us, and sunk, causing the receding of the water, to fill up the vacuum created by the sinking of that transient bar. Our loss of life was four men, drowned by the capsizing of one of the boats in which they were. Their names are Charles Haggett, ship's cooper; Albert Voseman, Commodore's coxswain: John Cotter and James Smalden, landsmen. We lost our Parrot 100-pounder, which was unsecured on the forecastle. It rolled off at the second shock.—Journal.

☞ Received from the church in Castleton, Vt., for Sr. Turner, $39.39.
D. Mathewson.

Obituaries.

Pray. On the eleventh day of April, 1867, Edwin Irving Pray, son of Harley W. and Hannah A. Pray, of Newport, R. I., died of consumption, at Taunton, Mass., aged twenty years, eleven months and one day.

Edwin was a child of rare powers and much promise. Active, intelligent and precocious, he was not exempt from the faults and sins of youth so common among those who are exposed to the temptations of city life, but his deep conscientiousness allowed him no rest in scenes of sin, and the grace of God led him gently to the Savior's feet.

He could not carry sin upon his conscience, and well does the writer recollect the evening when Edwin came into his study, and after a few hesitating remarks burst into tears, confessing the waywardness and wickedness of his life, and endeavoring to right the wrongs that he had done. During the several months through which he was an inmate of the writer's family, his feet seemed to be turned to the testimonies of the Lord, and thus recalled from his wanderings he endeavored to live as one who had been buried by baptism, and had risen with Christ, and who sought the things that are above.

For some months he was employed as a clerk in the office of The World's Crisis, and by his tact, his diligence, and his ability, he won the esteem of all. Leaving this situation under a strong conviction of duty, he at once assumed the charge of his father's extensive watchmaking establishment, and devoting himself to it with the utmost assiduity, he gave fresh promise of a noble manhood, if he should be permitted to enjoy it.

His ardent temperament, however, drove him beyond his powers of endurance, and he only retired from his post in quest of health when that precious boon was beyond his reach for this life. With intense solicitude we marked his slow decline, and were glad to hear him testify amid it that whether living or dying he was the Lord's, that great question having been so settled that he felt himself safe in the grace of Jesus Christ.

He died at last in conscious peace, and in good hope of everlasting life. The writer was called to minister consolation to the living by unfolding the hope of all the dead in Christ; and the burying ground in North Scituate, R. I., treasures his precious dust "until the day break and the shadows flee away." In that morning may we see his face in everlasting peace! H. L. H.

☞ There are eight newspapers published by colored men in this country. The New Orleans Tribune has the largest circulation—10,000 copies daily.

☞ The reports of distress in all parts of the South among whites and blacks are not exaggerated.

☞ Grief knits two hearts in closer bonds than happiness ever can; and common sufferings are far stronger links than common joys.

☞ Our greatest troubles are those that never happen.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

Paris, Jan. 1. Baron Von Goltz was received to-day by the Emperor Napoleon as the Ambassador from Prussia and of the Confederation of the North German States. The Baron assured the Emperor of the earnest desire of his Majesty, the King of Prussia, for peace and for close friendship with France.

Napoleon, in his reply, expressed in warm terms his approval of the unity of Northern Germany, and hoped that the Baron Von Goltz would continue to promote the peaceful relations between Prussia and France.

Florence, Jan. 1. King Victor Emanuel, in reply to an address of both Houses of the National Parliament, says that Italy is now passing through a crisis, surrounded by her foes, but he hopes for a good result and advises the Parliament and people to be calm.

Paris, Jan. 2. On New Year's day, in accordance with the time-honored custom, all ambassadors of foreign powers now in Paris were received in a body by the Emperor at the palace of the Tuilleries. The Papal Nuncio, speaking for the diplomatic corps, assured the Emperor of their good wishes for himself and the Imperial family. The Emperor, in reply, addressing the assembled diplomats, said he was happy to again begin a new year, as heretofore, surrounded by all the Great Powers, to once more reaffirm by this interchange of assurances the friendly relations which now exist between France and their respective Governments.

The Archbishop of Paris, who was present, prayed that God would preserve the life of the Emperor as a guaranty of peace. He said progress of religious and moral ideas in France was the only safe basis for the Throne.

To this the Emperor responded in these words: "The wish deeply touches me. Believe me, the interests of the religion of the country and of civilization are inseparable."

Vienna, Jan. 2. The Government has forbidden recruiting of reinforcements for the Papal army in the Austrian Empire.

London, Jan. 2. Dr. Livingston, the African traveller, is alive and well. Positive advices just received from Africa leave no longer any doubt of his safety.

Florence Jan. 2. In a public speech yesterday King Victor Emanuel declared it was the unanimous desire of Italy that Rome should be the capital of the nation, but treatment of the question demanded patience on the part of the people.

Paris, Jan. 3. It is now generally conceded that, notwithstanding the recent attempt of certain journals to the contrary, all hopes of the assembling of a general conference of the European powers for the settlement of the Roman question have been abandoned by the French Government.

Paris, Jan. 5. The Constitutionnel editorially declares that the relations of France and Italy were never more satisfactory than they are at the present moment, but fear is expressed that the false and mischievous rumors now in circulation in regard to the new Ministry which Gen. Menabrea is forming will have a bad effect.

DOMESTIC.

Hudson, N. Y., Jan. 3. On Wednesday last a terrific gale swept along the line of the Harlem Railroad and the southeastern section of this county. The morning up freight train, with a passenger car attached, was struck by the gale while between Boston Corner and Copake stations, and the passenger car and one platform car were raised bodily from the track and precipitated down an embankment some fifteen feet. There were five men in the car who were more or less injured, but none seriously. In the descent the stove was capsized, and the car set on fire, but the flames were extinguished before they had gained much headway. A gentleman from Martindale was severely burned about the head. Mr. Hawley, of Egremonte, was badly bruised about the face. The other passengers were but slightly hurt. Three ladies had fortunately left the car at Boston Corner a few minutes before the accident. The gale continued from early in the morning until three in the afternoon.

The Massacre in Fiji.—The Australian papers give a full account of the murder of the Rev. T. Baker, Wesleyan missionary, Shadrach Seileka, a native assistant missionary, a native catechist and six (natives) students in the circuit training institution under Mr. Baker's superintendence. It appears that they were endeavoring to cross over the island of Viti-levu, so as to arrive on the coast at Vuda. On the 20th of July they reached the principal town of the Navosa tribe, and though not cordially received, went peaceably to rest. Next morning Mr. Baker observed that the natives were excited, and told his companions that they must be off, or they would all be killed. After concluding the mornings devotions, he stepped out again, when a chief approached and said, "Come, let us show you the path to Vuda." They all started off, the chief leading the way with a battle-ax in his hand. After going about one hundred yards, one of the students, who had stopped to speak to a native, saw the people rapidly coming out of their houses, with guns and clubs, and hurrying after them. Rushing to his comrades he exclaimed, "We are to be clubbed." At that instant Aisea, one of their number, who was carrying a tin box on his shoulder, was struck with a club from behind. The box, however, received the full force of the blow, and merely glanced against the left side of his head. He dropped the box and rushed from the path. Mr. Baker turned round at once on hearing the stir behind and said, "Don't run away," or "Don't" when the chief, who was immediately before him, turned sharply round and struck him on the back of the neck with his ax, and he fell dead upon the spot. The native minister, who was but a few yards behind, stooped down over the body to kiss it, saying as he did so, "We will die together with our missionary," in which position he too was chopped down. All the party were instantly dispatched, with the exception of Aisea and Josefata. These men only ran a few yards and then threw themselves down and crept under the long and decayed reeds. By the exercise of a great amount of skill both of them managed to escape and convey the tidings to the headquarters of the missionaries. The savages who perpetrated this inhuman tragedy are to be punished. A military force is to be sent into their country for this purpose.

The Earthquake.

Rouse's Point, N. Y., Dec. 29, 1867.

The earthquake which occurred at 3 o'clock on the morning of the 18th of December was no inconsiderable affair. The throb and tremor was felt as far east as Three Rivers and west to Belleville; north to Montreal and Ottawa and south to Syracuse and Springfield, embracing an inland area of country equal to a length of four or five hundred and a breadth of three hundred miles, or from 120,000 to 150,000 square miles, being as much solid earth as is contained in all the States of New England and New York combined. At Three Rivers the shock was pretty severe; at Sorel and Chambly it was felt distinctly; at Berthier, a slight vibration. Along the entire valley of Lake Champlain the shock was perceptible; at Burlington, a very distinct shock, lasting twenty seconds; at Syracuse a considerable shock, lasting a minute and a half; at Auburn a very distinct shock, shaking buildings to their foundations. At Rouse's Point and westward all through northern New York the oscillation varied from twenty seconds to one minute. At Montreal the shock was severe; it appeared to be a low rumbling sound, followed by a throb—then an earth-wave, which lasted two or three minutes. The city was generally aroused, and people arose from their beds in great terror. The fear was augmented by the vivid recollection of a prediction made by a dying nun at the Hotel Dieu some years ago, who declared on her death bed that an earthquake would some day overwhelm the whole city and sink it in the St. Lawrence. This belief is current among all the lower French families, and many were almost scared out of their senses.

Houses rocked, and strange stories are told of beds rolling over the floors, and affrighted husbands and wives leaping from their couches, believing the house was gliding into some abyss of ruin.

At Ottawa the shock was heavy and the tremor a low rolling sound like distinct artillery. The vibrations continued two minutes, and nearly every one in the city was awakened. The shock in Ogdensburg was violent, shaking the firmest buildings and lasting about two minutes. In all directions people sprang from their beds in terror or lay still in solemn awe. In Cornwall and Kingston the earth-throb was very severe. We hear of doorbells rung, doors opened, stoves shaken, windows rattled, beds in which persons lay seemed tossed up and down, crockery in many places was tumbled from the shelves and broken, walls were cracked, and in one instance the roof of a dwelling was removed some inches. Dancers ceased their revels and retired to their homes, and gamblers laid aside their cards at the stamp of the earthquake's terrible foot. Everywhere the people were sobered, made thoughtful and awe-struck. Would that these moral effects were perpetual, in some cases at least.

With atmospheric convulsions the whole world over; with almost a thousand earthquake shocks occurring in the West Indies in the short space of two months; with Vesuvius in magnificent eruption, and our own continent in a tremor; how striking the language of a celebrated savan, who says: "It is a well established geological fact that the interior of our earth is a subterranean lake of fire, and that earthquakes are but the concussions of its rolling waves, and volcanoes safety-valves for its escape," and we are likewise reminded of the uncomfortable theory of Professor Loomis of Yale College, who supposes that steam may generate in the bowels of our globe in sufficient quantities to blow it into a thousand pieces. Whatever these fearful forces are that lie in muttering insurrection far beneath our feet, it would appear from certain facts and statistics lately put forth that they are slowly, century after century, approaching nearer and nearer the surface. Ansted, the English geologist, reports that, after immense research, he discovers the number of earthquakes from the earliest period to have been no less than seven thousand, his data bringing these phenomena down to 1850. During a period of three hundred years, from 1500 to 1800, there occurred two thousand eight hundred and four earthquakes, while from 1800 to 1850 there is on record no less than three thousand two hundred and forty, or nearly half as many in the short space of the last three-quarters of a century as have occurred in all the time since creation! And both Ansted and Merriam have asserted that from fifty to sixty distinct earthquakes have occurred yearly in various parts of the globe during the present century. Assuredly, of late this number is more than quadrupled. Is the crust of the earth getting thinner? Are the internal fires gradually or rapidly eating it away as running waters underneath wear away the ice? Is the molten heart of old mother Earth like the heart of a fevered patient, beating faster and faster until it shall break and end in one mighty convulsion, rocking empires to their ruin? Who shall answer and tell us?—Journal.

The Eruption of Mount Vesuvius.

Naples, Jan. 4. The eruption of Mount Vesuvius, which was described some few days since as becoming still more intensely grand, is just now quite alarming. The whole of the volcano is in violent action, and flames issue not only from the old crater and many new openings to the air, but it continues to blaze after its ejection. A slight subsidence of the volcanic motion had taken place, and on Monday, 9th of December, the mountain remained quiescent, its sides being covered to a great extent with lava. A heavy colored smoke issued from what savans term the "smoke holes," old and new. Tuesday night, Dec. 10, the eruption was resumed with great force, and a mass of lava resembling a solid rock was shot from the crater to a great height, and as seen from this city rolled down the sides of the great cone after falling. A loud roar as of artillery was heard during the entire night. The mountain was veiled in darkness long after the hour of daybreak next morning. As the forenoon advanced a strong wind sprung up from the north and dispelled the gloom, and Vesuvius has been witnessed in its fiery grandeur daily since. To-day a perfect river of fire is seen to flow from the mountain, running in a westerly direction. The fiery flood is nearing the town of Bercala. The upheavings of the volcano are attended with shocks resembling those of an earthquake, and loud detonations, as if a battery of heavy guns in full play was heard. A perfect panic prevails among the inhabitants of all the villages situated in the neighborhood of the foot of the mountain.

Married.

In this city, Jan. 5th, by Elder C. C. Ramsey, Mr. John L. Maloone and Miss Prudia A. Leavitt, both of Boston.

Notices.

Conference Notice.

The first quarterly meeting of the Conn. A. C. Conference will be holden at Day's Hall, northwest corner of Elm and York Streets, New Haven, Ct., commencing Wednesday evening, Jan. 8th, at 7 o'clock, and hold over the following Sunday. The church at Day's Hall propose to accommodate all who will come. They, therefore, cordially invite the friends of the cause throughout the State to assemble with the brethren in the ministry. They, with the conference, would also be glad to welcome brethren from other States. Brethren coming to the meeting will call on Bro. Dunham, 138 George street, or G. W. Denny, at the same number; Bro. Gillespie, 2 Lafayette Place; or Eld. Amzi Steele, 20 Franklin street.

Come from all points by R. R. By boat, from New York, if you wish. Propeller Line, 26 E. R., (Peck Slip), 4 P. M., arrive at 10 P. M. Fare 75 cts. Old Line, 25, E. R. (Peck Slip), 3.15 P. M., arrive at 8 P. M. Fare $1.00.

W. S. Campbell, President.
B. St. John, Secretary.

Notice.

The church worshiping at the Bethel, in Concord, N. H., have secured the labors of Sister Anna E. Smith, the Lord willing, in a protracted effort, to commence Tuesday, Jan. 14th, and hold over the following Sunday. The object of this meeting is to try to save men and women from the coming wrath of God, so soon to burst upon a sleeping church and guilty world. We invite our preaching brethren, and all the Lord's children in the adjacent towns, and elsewhere, to come and assist us in laboring for the perishing. May our prayers unitedly ascend the throne of grace, that this meeting may be specially blessed of God, and result in the highest good to all who may attend. "The Judge standeth at the door." For the church,

T. H. Ford,
J. T. Kimbell,
A. H. Saltmarsh.

Ministerial Conference at Lewiston, Me.

The fifth Ministerial Advent Conference will hold its session Tuesday, Jan. 21st, 1868, at 2 P. M. Preaching in the evening. Ministers are invited to attend and confer with each other in relation to spreading the gospel of the kingdom in Maine, that we may labor in harmony together in the great work of saving sinners. Homes for brethren and sisters, but no stables for horses.

S. K. Partridge, President.
C. H. Leverton, Secretary.

Notice.

I would say to the readers of the Crisis that I am publishing a book containing all the testimony of the Old and New Testaments, relating to the second personal coming of Jesus Christ. Also extracts from history of the early reformers on the subject. Price, $3.00 per hundred; 50 cts. per dozen; 5 cts. single, postpaid. All orders may be sent to Allen Daman, Fall River, Mass., for the present.

Conference.

There will be a conference at the Federal meeting-house in Buckfield, Me., commencing Thursday evening, Jan. 9th, 1868, and continue over the following Sunday. Ministers and brethren from abroad are cordially invited to attend. Call on R. A. Haggett and Cyrus Bartlett.

E. M. Haggett.

Notice.

I will hold a series of meetings in New London, Fish Creek Landing, Oneida Co., N. Y., as Bro. Wm. Morrel may appoint, commencing Jan. 16th, 1868. Bro. Stevens will be present to help preach the word; also Sr. Jennings a part of the time. Meetings will continue as long as seems duty.

M. R. Miles.

Conference.

The Maine Quarterly Conference will be held at Friendship, Me., Feb. 6th, to commence at 6 o'clock in the evening, and hold over Sunday. Brethren and sisters, with ministers, are invited.

S. K. Partridge.

Notice.

Advent meetings are held every Sunday in North Adams, Mass., on Center Street, corner of Lincoln Street. Preaching brethren are invited to give us a call. Inquire for Isaac Blanchard, Jr., Eagle Street.

Notice.

My tracts have not been completed as soon as I expected, but I shall be ready to fill all orders soon. All orders sent to Fairhaven, Mass.

Allen Damon.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION,

No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.

ANNA E. SMITH, Superintendent and Manager.

MEETINGS.
Sunday School 10 o'clock every Sunday.
Love Feast 2 o'clock every Sunday.
Preaching 7 o'clock Sunday evenings.
Meetings every evening during the week.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as Tuesday Morning, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston, corner of Causeway and Lowell Streets. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.
A. Ross........Sunday, Jan. 12th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)
C. Goodrich........Sunday, Jan. 12th
A. Simpson........Sundays, Jan. 26th and Feb. 2d

Danville, P. Q., Canada, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, Jan. 8th, 9th and 10th.
Quebec, P. Q., Canada........Sabbath, Jan. 12th to 19th
Miles Grant.

Lake Village, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Lowell, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Lawrence, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 26th
J. Couch.

South Boston, (Union Hall, Broadway.)
Enoch Morrill........Sunday, Jan. 12th
J. M. Muhlig........Sunday, Jan. 19th

North Somers........Sunday, Jan. 19th
L. F. Moore.

Bath, Me........Sunday, Jan. 12th
I. C. Wellcome.

East Canaan, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 12th
J. A. Cleaveland.

New Boston, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Schoodoc, (Warner)........Sunday, Jan. 26th
C. W. Sargent.

Yalesville, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 12th
The Lord's supper will be administered.
S. Woodruff.

Wellfleet, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 12th and through the week. Joseph W. White.

Acushnet........Wednesday evening, Jan. 8th and over the following Sabbath. Allen Damon.

Suncook, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 12th
T. T. Farrell.

Worcester, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Ira Wyman.

Mechanic Falls, Me........Sunday, Jan. 12th
J. A. Libby.

Richmond, Me., (Reed meeting-house), Sunday, January 12th.
West Falmouth, Me........Sunday, Jan 19th
Lewiston, Me........Sunday, Jan. 26th
N. G. Reed.

Springwater Valley, N. Y., Sundays, Jan. 12th and 19th
Knowlesville, N. Y........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Lockport, N. Y........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Youngstown, N. Y., Niag. Co., (where Bro. Tryon may appoint), Sunday, Feb. 9th. E. Cotton.

Springfield, Mass., (Bethel Church), Sunday, Jan. 12th
Rufus Wendell.

Scituate, R. I........Sunday, Jan. 12th
J. M. Muhlig.

Lewiston, Me........Sunday, Jan. 19th
J. C. Wheeler.

Pittsfield, (Bethel)........Sunday, Jan. 12th
W. Glidden.

Concord, N. H., (Center Street Church), Sunday, Jan. 12th.
Lowell, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 26th
E. G. Chadsey.

Hall Stream, C. E........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Upper Pittsburgh, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Coaticook, (Kenney school-house)........Sunday, Feb. 9th
D. N. Chadsey.

Merideth Neck, N. H........Jan. 10th and over Sunday
Center Harbor, N. H........Jan. 19th
W. H. McDaniels.

Lawrence, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Elliot, Me........Tuesday evening, Jan. 14th
Portland, Me........Sunday, Jan. 19th
L. Boutell.

Square Pond........Sunday, Jan. 19th
I. B. Potter.

Westfield........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Southington, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 26th
E. Owen.

Wilmot Flat, N. H., (at the Baptist Church), Sunday, Jan. 12th, and continue as long as seems duty.
J. H. F. Varney.
J. Pinkham.

New York City, (corner of Grand and Allen Streets), Sunday, Jan. 12th, A. M.; P. M. at Cooper Institute; evening at 24th Street. John G. Hook.

New York City, Jan. 12th, A. M., at Cooper Institute; P. M., 24th Street; evening, Star of Hope Mission, 14 Laurens Street. O. D. Woodruff.

Philadelphia, (9th and Spring Garden Streets,) Sunday, Jan. 12th, and every evening this week. Subject, the appearing of Christ this year.
William C. Thurman.

Square Pond, Ct.
B. Hitchcock........Sunday, Jan. 12th
I. B. Potter........Sunday, Jan. 19th
A. M. Higgins........Sunday, Jan. 26th
P. S. Butler........Sunday, Feb. 2d

Hartford, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 12th
New Britain, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Southington, Ct........Jan. 20th
New Haven, Ct........Jan. 21st
West Haven, Ct........Jan. 26th
J. S. White.

Portsmouth, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt........Sunday, Jan. 12th

Dover, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Wm. Bodge.

Keene, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Sacrament on first Sunday. A. M. Higgins.

Manchester, N. H........Sunday, Jan. 12th
A. Mussey Tripp.

Yarmouth, Me.
R. R. York.....every Sunday in January and February except Jan. 12th.
L. F. Cole........Sunday, Jan. 12th

Bath, Me........Sunday, Jan. 19th
L. P. Cole.

Alton Corner........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Melvin Village........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Wolfborough (Furber school-house), Tuesday evening, Jan. 21st, and over Sunday, Jan. 26th.
S. S. Mooney.

Madison, N. H., Saturday, P. M., Jan. 18th, for conference, and Sabbath for baptism. T. W. Piper.

Square Pond, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 12th
B. Hitchcock.

New York City........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Pleasantville, N. Y........evenings, Jan. 13th and 14th
Brewsters, N. Y., (as Bro. H. Bailey may arrange), evenings, Jan. 15th and 16th.
Pawling, N. Y........evening, Jan. 17th and over the following Sunday. C. H. Sweet.

Holderness, N. H., (Tine school-house), eve., Jan. 1st
Brick school-house, Jan. 9th.
Meredith, N. H., (Dulloff school-house), Sunday, Jan. 12th.
Campton, N. H., (Bump school-house), Sunday, January 19th.
Lake Village, N. H., (Chapel), Saturday evening, Jan. 25th, and over Sunday, the 26th.
John H. Evans.

Thomaston, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 12th
New Haven........Jan. 19th
New Britain........Jan. 26th
Hartford........Feb. 2d
W. S. Campbell.

Prospect, Conn........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Bro. Berkeley, please meet me at the depot, last train south, Saturday, Jan. 11th.
Bristol, Conn........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Middletown, Conn........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Wm. Stuart.

New Britain, Ct........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Springfield, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Brimfield, Mass........Tuesday evening, Jan. 21st till Friday evening. A. Simpson.

West Abington, Mass........Sunday, Jan. 12th
J. M. Muhlig.

New Britain........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Wm. J. Ripley.

Litchfield, (Chesnut Hill, or as Sr. Abbie Baldwin may arrange), Jan. 12th.
Morris, Ct., (as Bro. S. Glover may arrange), Sunday, Jan. 19th.
New Preston, Ct., (as Bro. Baldwin may arrange), Sunday, Jan. 26th.
Lanesville, (as Bro. Marsh may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 2d.
Brookfield, Ct., (as Sr. C. Barnes may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 9th.
Will Bro. James Squires be so kind as to meet me at the Westfield station, when the 12 o'clock train from Springfield arrives on Friday?
If any of these appointments conflict with others, brethren interested will please drop me a line to that effect, as soon as they see this notice. Direct to H. Rockwell, care of H. H. Dickinson, 44 Windsor Street, Hartford, Ct. H. Rockwell.

Lynn........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Auburn, (at A. F. Fox school-house)........Jan. 19th
Derry, (Killray school-house)........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Will Bro. Brown meet me at the Lynn depot?
Calab Richardson.

Charlton, Mass., Dresser Hill, (as brethren may arrange), Jan. 10th, and over Sunday, and on as the Lord directs. Geo. A. Streeter.

Concord, N. H., (at the Bethel.)
J. T. Dixon........Sunday, Jan. 12th
Sr. Anna E. Smith........Jan. 14th and onward

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ Correspondents should, and ought to know, that we cannot discontinue or send their orders, unless they give us the post office and state in plain letters.

☞ A. Lathrop—Money order received.

☞ J. B. Chamberlain—Money received. Pays to 687.

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

The present No. of the Crisis is 639. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid. If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to, is less than the present No., the difference shows for how many weeks you owe. For every week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the product (which will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness) deduct four cents for every dollar, and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each—G. Alkire 659, M. Whitman 634, S. P. Vickery 698, S. B. Davis 655, E. C. Wheeler 658, J J Whitman 533, N Bailey 660, W H Norville 635, J Roberts 641, C W Palmer 661, C S Bushnell 657.

$1.25 each—J. Archibald 665, H C Dennis 665, G A Guynap 665, W Goldsmith 665, D. Platt 644, G Tyler 664, A Tandy 654, A Kimball 654, A J Barrett 656, N Morse 639, M Shatswell 652, O D Batcheley 665, W J Cabot 663, C Sheldon 658, J. G. Clark 663, W. Collier 650, D D Shattuck 635, D W Bucklin 639, J N Shattuck 650, H Jones 665, R P Austin 665, W H Bradley 647.

$2.00 each—T Ness 669, N Lewis 679, J M Rannells 658, O M Brooks 668, J Whitman 669.

$2.50 each—R Emery 695, Z A Waterhouse 701, S J Gaylord 691, A T Rice 692, D Fiske 690, C R Wiggin 685, G B Cargill 691, J E Babbidge 661, J W Huston 660, A Libby 691, L B Moore 691, R Shepardson 691, H A Heckman 641, S Robinson 684, G W Makepeace 691, E Dunham 693, R Sevely 653, J Lawson 682, E Ludden 691, J. Burgess 724, M Flint 660, R. Clark 687, M Ramsdell 691, N Andrews 691, W P Knightly 679, P Campbell 686, Y M C A, Bristol, Ct., 691, J Card 731, H Batch 691, S L Searle 666, L R Gilmore 722, J H Cotton 669.

Various Sums—L L Soper $3.00, 624; A Wyeth $3.75, 689; G Marsh 50c, 649; A. Labounty $3.00, 594; J W Thayer $5.00, 630; W. H. Card $2.65, 639; S. A. Card $1.35, 667; J Harmon $2.05, 638; J. Stockwell Jr. 50c, 670; C Prince $2.25, 666; H. L. Gage $1.50, 693; J M Durham $3.00, 668; A Munger $2.25, 776; N A Brooks $1.50, 647; O Glines $1.50, 665; A Moore $1.20, 641; C B Hall $5.00, 657; A Choates $3.00, 642; J Maxim 50c, 649; I C Jackson 63c, 652; L C Collins $3.00, 662; A Smith $3.00, 686; G W Smith 50c, 660; S P Baxter 63c, 652; H Phelps $5.00, 684; J M Durnam $5.00, 705.

FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.

A T Rice $1.50, J. Craig $3.00, C. Colegrove 35c, L Cresson $1.00, W L Brown $1.15, E L DeLam $4.00, M H Whitman $1.25, A Lord 35c, B N Dowe 50c, H Darling $4.75, A A Bickford 88c, J F Cloutman 50c, J D. Hancock $1.50, L M McEwen $2.00, J V Himes $20.00, J Roberts $1.00, N White $1.00, G W Stetson $2.00, S Mitchell $1.75, H Balch $2.50, O R Fassett $16.90.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.

By Mail—S Wheelock, Geo. W Burnham, Annie R Shaw, Chas. S Hall, Nathl. Daman, Mrs. L R Brown, L Sears, A T Rice, Thomas Ness, C Colegrove, L Cresson, W S Brown, E L DeLam, Arvilla Lord, Benj. N Dow, D Eastman, Jas. B Wilbur, Geo. B Macomber, Miss M F Rogers, Wm. Nash, L W King, John P Baker, J Porter, H B Eaton, R S Johnson, J I Mettler, J F Kidder, L M McEwen, J D Hancock, Mrs Bickford, J J Smith, Saml. Smith, N White, S Mitchell, H Balch.

By Express—I B Potter, Thos. Smith.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

C E Williamson, A T Gorham, E E Coolidge, E S Willard, A Damon, S K Partridge, B Mathewson, F S Ainsworth, P A Smith, G W Hurd, A E Smith, I C Wellcome, O D Woodruff, J T Briggs, A S Whitney, Jas. M Weston, Geo. D Dager, H Pratt, G W Stetson, M D Wellcome, J G Hook, H H Hall, E A Libby, S K Paine, N B McMurphy, N F Nason, N M Henry, F H Chamberlain, O D Eastman, J Weston, C C Ramsey.

ADDRESS OF PREACHING BRETHREN.

C. E. Piper—41 Grove Street, Boston, Mass.
C. Goodrich—69 Marion Street, East Boston, Mass.
J. S. White—93 Decatur Street, East Boston, Mass.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford, Mass.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls, Mass.
L. Boutell—Salem, Mass.
H. Pratt—Springfield, Mass., 57 Cedar St.
P. S. Butler, Collins Depot, Mass.
E. Owen—Springfield, Mass., No. 64 Walnut Street.
Alvah Bean—Lowell, Mass.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana, Mass.
Allen Damman—Fairhaven, Mass.
C. H. Sweet—Millville, Mass.
J. W. Brittan—Westboro, Mass.
S. Anderson—Warren, Mass.
Rufus Baker—Warren, Mass.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer, Mass.
W. E. Hathaway—North Carver, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Lynn, Mass.
S. S. Brasee—Cold Spring, Mass.
N. J. Streeter—Southbridge, Mass.
C. H. Leverton—Surry, Hancock Co., Me.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills, Me.
J. C. Wheeler—Carthage, Me.
F. A. Baker—Levant, Me.
H. S. Mitchell—Cushing, Me.
I. K. Lombard—Machiasport, Me.
J. Carr—South Albion, Me.
B. P. Manning—Goffstown, N. H.
J. G. Smith—New Durham, N. H.
C. C. Stevens—Exeter, N. H.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia, N. H.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth, N. H.
J. Couch—Concord, N. H.
A. W. Sibley—Lincoln, N. H.
A. Simpson—Concord, N. H.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village, N. H.
Z. Ford—Concord, N. H.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426 Concord, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover, N. H.
Wm. H. McDaniels—Fisherville, N. H.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff, N. H.
J. B. Cook—Poultney, Vt.
G. W. Stetson—Rutland, Vt.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford, Vt.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
D. N. Chadsey—Canaan, Vt.
J. A. Cleaveland—South Royalton, Vt.
Wm. H. Fisher—Windsor, Ct., care of S. Cooper.
H. F. Carpenter—Danielsonville, Ct.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville, Ct.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford, Ct.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville, Ct.
T. S. Canfield—Bantam Falls, Ct.
B. St. John—Wolcottville, Ct.
Dr. Samuel Wellis Treat—Middlebury, Ct.
S. B. Munn—Waterbury, Ct.
Ira Wyman—Warehousepoint, Ct.
Wm. J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley, Ct.
L. F. Moore—Somersville, Ct.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted Ct.
S. Woodruff—Unionville, Ct.
Geo. A. Cole—Phenix, R. I.
J. K. Bellows—19 Orchard Street, New York City.
Wm. A. Fenn—Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester, N. Y.
Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
S. P. Babcock—Malaga, New Jersey.
J. W. Taylor—Chatham Valley, Tioga Co., Pa.
F. H. Burbank—Dorcas Mission, 708 Lombard street, Philadelphia, Pa.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.
Dr. I. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis, Tenn.
Wm. Deverell—Keswick, C. W.
Wm. M. Ingham—Clemensport, N. S.
H. K. Flagg—Advent Christian Hall 1136, No. 4th Street, St. Louis, Mo.
H. Rockwell—Lenox, Ashtabula Co., Ohio.
L. C. McKinstry—Norwalk, Ohio.
A. N. Seymour—Fremont, Mich.
J. M. Snook—Romeo, Mich.
J. R. Preston—Lapeer, Mich.
Wm. McCulloch—New Rutland, Ill.
George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co., Ill.
O. D. Gibson—Amboy, Ill.
F. Burr—New Rutland, Ill.
J. Wilbur—Box 882 Janesville, Wis.
B. Wm. Wilkins—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634 care of I. I. Leslie.
Daniel Reed—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634, care of I. I. Leslie.
Eld. G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co., Ind.

New Music.

"'Tis the very same Jesus" (separate sheets, at 5c.), Calvary, Over There, I shall Rest, The Shining Land, New Year's Chime, Hallelujah, "Say, Brother, shall we meet?" "The Little Grave," "We shall walk through the Valley in Peace." All on one sheet, at 20c. For sale at this office.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.
Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.
Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 16 cents per copy additional, when sent by mail.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

Spiritualism Unveiled.
What is Man?
The Soul—What is it?
The Spirit—What is it?
The Rich Man and Lazarus.

All the above works, in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to Miles Grant, Boston, Mass.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE
Advent Christian Publication Society,
No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsey. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 60c.
MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Predictions fulfilled, and his Kingdom near. By I. C. Wellcome. 25c; by mail, 27c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 1, By S. S. Brewer. 7c; by mail, 9c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 3, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.
THE KINGDOM OF GOD, and Signs of the Times. By S. S. Brewer. 18c; by mail, 20c.
THESSALONICA; or, The Model Church. By H. L. Hastings. 25c.
SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsay, D. D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE SEVEN SEALS. Exposition of Rev. vi. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.
LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church. By H. L. Hastings. 10c.
THE DAYS WE LIVE IN; The Lord soon to come By S. S. Brewer. 10c; by mail, 12c.
THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M. Preble. 13c; by mail, 15c.
THE SLAYING OF THE WITNESSES. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3c; by mail, 5c.
THE GREAT IMAGE soon to be dashed to pieces By S. S. Brewer. 4c; by mail, 5c.
THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures. Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, etc. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. 20c; by mail, 22c.
RETRIBUTION; or, The Doom of the Ungodly. By H. L. Hastings. 20c.
DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.
PAULINE THEOLOGY; or, The Christian Doctrine of Future Punishment, as taught in the Epistles of Paul. H. L. H. 10c.
GLAD TIDINGS; or, The End of Woe and Sin by the Destruction of the Wicked. (Three chapters from "Death not Life.") By J. Blain. 8c; by mail, 10c.
WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 6c; by mail, 8c.
ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.
THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 3c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.
SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.
REV JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 3c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, post-paid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.
THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables Price, by mail, 40 cents.
UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.
"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.
"THE JUBILEE SONGSTER." A choice collection of original and selected Hymns. A pamphlet edition of ninety-eight hymns. By S. S. Brewer. By mail, 15c. single copy; $1.50 per dozen.
THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.
THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.
LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.
THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 15 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postage, 8c. on every three copies.
THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.
CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.
EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.
HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.
STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.
COOKERY or How to prepare food from Grain, Fruits and Vegetables. By F. W. Hurd, M. D. 15c; by mail, 17c.
VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook and Wm. H. Brinkerhoff. 10c.
THE SABBATH, and its Relation to Man. By mail 3 cts.
SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. 3c. single; 5c. by mail.
BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.
CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.
BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.
DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
RAHAB THE HARLOT. The Scarlet Line the token of Safety; or, the fall of Jericho a type of the fall of the "cities of the nations." By Wm. Shepherd. 10c., postpaid; 85c. a dozen.
CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; a Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Worship. 80c; by mail, 88c.
PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 6c; by mail, 8c.
THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT—Superiority of the New. By A. W. Sibley. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY, or, the Sealed Book of Daniel Opened. $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; or, a Dissertation on the Evidences of Christianity. 25c; by mail, 29c.
SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?—a tract on War. By I. C. Wellcome. 10c.
THE PROPHETIC TIME QUESTION; or, Bible Time Examined. By Wm. Sheldon. 27c.
CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c.
NON-RESISTANCE. By W. C. Thurman. 20c; by mail, 24c.
DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c.
THE DAY AND THE HOUR: a Lecture, by Joseph A. Seiss, D. D. 15c.
"OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.
"THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.
"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"GOLDEN MOMENTS." A four-page tract. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"THE PENALTY OF SIN." By O. R. Fassett. By mail, single copy 5c.; 40c. per dozen.
AMERICA IN PROPHECY; an Exposition of Isaiah XVIII. By O. R. Fassett. 8c; by mail, 10c.

FATHER, TAKE MY HAND.

The way is dark, my Father, cloud on cloud
Is gathering thickly o'er my head; and loud
The thunder roars above me. See, I stand
Like one bewildered. Father, take my hand,
And through the gloom lead safe along thy child.

The way is dark, my child, but leads to light;
I would not always have thee walk by sight;
My dealings now thou canst not understand
I meant it so; but I will take thy hand,
And through the gloom lead safely home my child.

The day goes past, my Father, and the night
Is drawing darkly down; my faithless sight
Sees ghostly visions; fears, a spectral band,
Encompass me. O Father, take my hand,
And through the gloom lead safe to light thy child.

The day goes past, my child; but is the night
Darker to me than day? In me is light;
Keep close to me, and every spectral band
Of fear shall vanish; I will take thy hand,
And through the night lead on to light, my child.

The path is rough, my Father; many a thorn
Has pierced me, and my weary feet, all torn
And bleeding, mark the way; yet thy command
Bids me go forward. Father, take my hand,
Then safe and blest lead on to rest thy child.

The path is rough, my child, but oh, how sweet
Will be the rest when weary pilgrims meet;
When thou shalt reach the borders of that land
To which I lead thee, as I take thy hand,
And safe and blest with me shall rest, my child.

The cross is heavy, Father; I have borne it long,
And still do bear it; let my worn
And fainting spirit rest in that blest land,
Where crowns are given; Father, take my hand,
And reaching down lead to the crown thy child.

The cross is heavy, child; yet there was One
Who bore a heavier for thee,—my Son,
My well beloved; for him bear thine, and stand
With him at last, and from thy Father's hand,
Thy cross laid down, receive a crown, my child.

—Selected by S. W. Pollard, North Fairfield, O.

For the World's Crisis.

THE FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT.

The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance."—GAL. 5: 22.

LONG-SUFFERING.

The first three fruits of the Spirit are rich blessings upon him who bears them. The world cannot see the love, the joy, the peace, which are in the heart of the one who has the Holy Spirit. Though the inner life may be bright and glorious, it is hid from the gaze of man. But the next three fruits of the Spirit, long-suffering, gentleness, and goodness, affect the outward life, and are manifested in our intercourse with others.

The genuine christian, whoever and wherever he is, has severe trials. We are purified through trial, as gold is purified by fire; and the more dross there is in us, the more fire it takes to purify us; for we must be pure before we can receive the crown of life. No dross will enter the kingdom.

The true children of God are different from the children of the world in every respect. Their dress, conversation, ways of living, motives and desires, are directly opposite from those of the worldling, and their daily life constantly condemns sinners, and more especially those who profess to be christians and yet are so like those who do not that they cannot be told apart. The proud man of the world, whose chief object in life is to be honored by his fellow men, is condemned by him who cares not for the praise of men if he can only be honored by God; and she who dresses so as to be admired and attract attention, is annoyed by her who dresses in the manner that she can best glorify God; and as a natural consequence, those who are condemned hate those who condemn them, and those who are not governed by natural benevolence, self-respect, or worldly policy, if they can in any way hurt the feelings or try the patience of God's children, will.

There is a class of individuals who enjoy tormenting those who serve the Lord. They are some like boys who take pleasure in sticking bugs on pins, pulling off the wings of flies, fastening tin pans to the tails of dogs, and otherwise inflicting pain on every innocent creature they come across who has not spirit or power to resist them; and these persons take every opportunity to insult and injure the despised, peculiar follower of the meek and lowly Jesus; and it takes grace to bear this persecution and always be forbearing, kind and pleasant.

Those who are called Adventists have peculiar trials. Being looked upon as a foolish, deluded set of fanatics, and counted as the offscouring of the people, we have much to bear, much to work in us patience. Many young persons, as they enter the ranks of "Millerism," little know how they will be looked upon, both by the world and the popular churches. Their load of sin is removed, and their hearts are light and filled with love for Jesus. They see the light on the speedy coming of Christ, and it is to them joyful news. They love it, and think that others when they hear the arguments will gladly go with them, and they start on their pilgrimage light-hearted and hopeful, fearing no storms or contrary winds and tides, but expecting to sail into the harbor of eternal rest, without a trial or a struggle worth mentioning. But they have a lesson to learn which may be bitter and agonizing, and will find before they have gone far that their trials have only just commenced.

There is a warfare before them. They have a great enemy to overcome,—self; for self is an enemy to God, and every selfish desire, every selfish habit, every selfish passion, must be overcome.

When those who were once their friends, and are still near and dear to them, forsake them, or, still worse, contrive every way to drive or lead them from such "absurd nonsense," when their reputations are attacked and their names cast out as evil, when they are watched and criticized and ridiculed and insulted in every possible way, then the warfare commences.

Jesus said, "Love your enemies, do good to them who hate you, bless them that curse you, and pray for them who despitefully use you. And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek, offer also the other; and him that taketh away thy cloak, forbid not to take thy coat also. Give to every man that asketh of thee, and of him who taketh away thy goods, ask them not again. And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."—Luke 6: 27–31.

It is hard to bear the cutting remark, the scornful look, the unjust reproach, the hateful insinuation, and always speak pleasantly and return kind acts for injury, kind words for insult. No one can do this by nature; it requires help from above; and in this is shown the goodness of God. By grace we are saved, wholly, entirely by grace; we can do nothing ourselves. From the time the sinner first felt a regret for sin, till he a christian shall receive eternal life, all his joy, all his sorrow, all his overcoming, all his christian experience, is but an evidence of the love of God.

While we were far from life, in the broad way of death, the Father sent the Holy Spirit and convicted us of sin; and when we repented of our sins and wished them remembered no more against us, they were forgiven; and when we knew we were all weakness, and could not in our strength keep from sin, he gave us the Spirit, which brought forth the fruits of righteousness; and the same grace which saves us from sin now, will in the day of judgment save us from the second death. It is free and full salvation by grace, salvation from sin now, and salvation from death when Jesus shall come.

Great trials are easily borne compared with the little petty trials of every-day life. A heavy shower does not wear the rock so much as one drop constantly falling in one place day after day and year after year. I have known men and women who could bear great afflictions with patience, who, when they lost friends and property, would bow to the will of God without a murmur; but if a button was lost, a book mislaid, or a clean floor soiled, would make a household miserable by their fretting and scolding, and perhaps for a week that little trivial offence would be mentioned whenever anything was said that brought it to mind.

We all like to see a patient, forbearing spirit. The most quarrelsome admire patience and forbearance in others. We enjoy a visit in a family whose members are all trying to serve the Lord. Where the father never finds fault, the mother never scolds and the children never quarrel, but all are patient and forbearing with each other. A heavenly calm pervades the very atmosphere of such a home, and those who enter there can feel its power. But such homes are few, even among those who profess christianity; for many whose names are on the church book know very little about the true principles of godliness. All who are truly converted have the spirit of Christ.

"If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, that man's religion is vain." All homes would be pleasant if all would control the tongue and repress every word unlike Jesus. "Grievous words stir up anger," and where anger and discord are, the Holy Spirit cannot stay. The two spirits are antagonistic. "Doth a fountain send forth sweet water and bitter?" Many who wonder why they have no enjoyment of religion, if they would review one day, and recall their sharp words and impatient complaining, would wonder no longer, for the same Spirit which brings forth love, joy and peace, brings forth long-suffering, and those who have the Spirit bear all the fruits.

O how good the Lord is! He gives grace for every time of need. Whatever he suffers to befall his children is for their best good, and he will give them strength to bear every trial they have. "My strength is made perfect in weakness."

I have known nervous, high-spirited, and impulsive women, with large families and a thousand cares, who fretted and stormed continually, who, after they were converted, could endure the teasing of the children, the carelessness of the servant, and the unkindness of their husbands, and remain calm and cheerful.

I have known those who were by nature passionate, strong-willed and proud, who would not bear a disrespectful word, but by their resolution and sarcasm ruled all with whom they associated, and made themselves hated and feared by all who knew them; who, after they gave their hearts to God and received the Holy Spirit, became patient as lambs, and would bear insult and injury with gentle forbearance, and watch for an opportunity to do the unkind one a kindness. I have known those who were nervous and irritable when well, to be taken with lingering, painful disease, and during their illness to find peace in Christ, and for years to suffer untold agonies with cheerful patience.

There is no virtue God requires of us but he will help us obtain. He has promised the gift of the Spirit whose fruit is long-suffering.

Then let us walk in the Spirit, and run with patience the race set before us; let patience have its perfect work, and of the Spirit reap life everlasting. S. K. PAINE.

East Killingly, Ct.

For the World's Crisis.

THE READING OF GOOD BOOKS.

I wish to call the attention of our brethren, and especially our ministers and others who "give attention to reading," to the importance of greater activity in, and more special effort for a much wider circulation of books. We are doing about nothing in this direction, while some of us know it is one of the most powerful agencies in promoting any good or evil work.

A really good book will accomplish a vast amount of good in a neighborhood, when owned by any one who has been awakened, instructed, and benefited by it; for they will lend it, recommend it, and get it into many a dark corner where a preacher's voice would not be heard; and thus the truth will work in awakening many to inquiry, and turn their attention to the Bible to see whether these things are so.

But some, yes, many of our traveling preachers think they cannot be encumbered with books, and devote attention to selling them; others have other objections. I know full well the labor, care, and cross of such work; and I know something of the good results it has effected in many families. I can count hundreds of believers in the speedy coming of our Lord, and kindred views, through the instrumentality of our books.

Among the various instrumentalities in promoting a cause, the circulation of books is one of the most powerful. The Methodists in this and other countries owe a very large share of their success in gaining adherents to Methodism, and their former usefulness in society, to their incessant activity in their "book concerns," while their ministers were active agents in introducing and recommending them everywhere. And such of them as have tended to induce an interest in the Bible and its Christ, such as have improved the mind and made society, have answered an important end.

But my present object in this article is to awaken the minds of my brethren everywhere to activity in recommending to the readers of our papers, and of any papers where you can speak, such books as you value highly for the truths they contain, and such as you think would be of real service to tens of thousands of our brethren and sisters who never saw them, and which, if they should obtain, they would not only be greatly benefited by their perusal, but would recommend them and put them into the hands of ten thousand others who are starving for lack of knowledge.

It seems to me that many of us who have read valuable books, which laid open great Bible truths which had been dark to us, leading us to see new light and beauty in the Bible, bringing us to enjoy what we now do, forget that thousands of our brethren and others never read them nor saw them. They may have seen the titles of them in the papers, but have had no knowledge of what they contain.

If some who do know would take the opportunity to recommend such books frequently through the papers, it would awaken a great interest in others to send and get them, and share the benefits of them, as well as put them into neighborhood circulation.

Look into the columns of the various religious papers. See the array they make under the heads, "Our Book Table," or "Book Notices," every week. This gives their readers an idea of what the books are; then they are obtained and exert their influence, while the money goes to help publish more, and thus the work goes on.

THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES, by H. L. Hastings. This is a work which gives more historical facts in relation to the actual moral condition of Christendom, statistics of war ships, armies, munitions of war, of the rise and progress of slavery; intemperance in rum, opium; prostitution and other alarming sins, than any other work to be found. It also gives statistics and facts on the progress of civilization; the rise of Bible, tract, and mission societies, and what has been done by them to benefit the race; together with a vast amount of facts on the rapid increase of evil in this generation, as fulfilling the Scripture prophecies. Then it presents the blessed hope. It is a truly important work, just what all ought to read. Price $1.00. I. C. WELLCOME.

For the World's Crisis.

PLEDGES FOR THE NEW CAMP-GROUND AT SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

BRO. GRANT:—Having been appointed one of the committee at the last annual camp-meeting, together with Bro. S. G. Mathewson and Bro. I. B. Potter, to solicit subscriptions in money from brethren not present at the time of the meeting, called at that time in front of the stand for the purpose of raising the funds necessary to fit up the new camp-ground, would report progress. Generally, I have found this begging for money to carry forward some Christian enterprise, rather an unpleasant than a pleasing task. But this time, when I have called upon the brethren to ask for their pledges to fit up the new camp-ground, the brethren have received me so kindly, and donated so liberally, that really I begin to feel that begging goes well.

The following brethren have pledged the sums annexed to their names:—

Wm. Roworth, New York, $25.00; J. Stone, Charlestown, Mass. (paid), $10.00; E. T. Welsh, Oceanport, N. J., $5.00; Wm. H. Hanford, New York (paid), $5.00; Frederick C. Upson, Westville, Ct., $3.00; Wm. Payne, Springfield, Mass., $3.00; Helen Robertson (paid), $1.00; she is quite poor; hope some brother will refund the same back to her. She lives in Philadelphia. Life and Advent Union Association, New York, $100.00; Leonard C. Thorne, New York, $50.00; Wm. H. Thorne, New York, $50.00; Geo. K. Carroll, New York, $25.00; A. W. McDonald, New York, $23.00.

Thus far, you see, I have pledged and paid to me $300.00. But we have not enough yet. It costs money to fit up a new ground for so large a gathering as we expect next year (if indeed we are here); for we think we shall see the largest gathering of waiting ones ever gathered together in this country; indeed, we think it will be the largest gathering of the kind in the world. Sinners are being converted in many places. The churches are growing in many places. Thank God. Good and efficient men are being raised up, and are entering the field to labor for God and sinners. I feel it is a blessed work.

Come, brethren; come, sisters, have you a mite for the camp-ground? Be it ever so small, it will help. We hope you will be wonderfully blessed there next fall, and sinners too. O that a multitude of sinners might be brought to Christ. Come, brethren; come, sisters,—

"If you cannot be a Watchman,
Standing high on Zion's wall,
Pointing out the path to glory,
Offering life and peace to all;
With your prayers and with your bounties
You can do what heaven demands;
You can be like faithful Aaron,
Holding up the prophet's hands.

If you are too weak to journey
Up the mountain steep and high,
You can stand within the valley,
While the multitudes go by;
You can chant in happy measure
As they slowly pass along;
Though they may forget the singer,
They will not forget the song.

If you cannot in the harvest
Garner up the richest sheaves,
Many a grain, both ripe and golden,
Will the careless reapers leave;
Go and glean among the briars,
Growing rank against the wall,
For it may be that their shadow
Hides the heaviest wheat of all.

Do not, then, stand idly waiting
For some greater work to do;
Fortune is a lazy goddess,
She will never come to you:
Go and toil in any vineyard,
Do not fear to do or dare,
If you want a field of labor,
You can find it anywhere."

New Haven, Ct. G. W. DENNY.

THE RIGHT PERSUASION.—In terrible agony, a soldier lay dying in the hospital. A visitor asked him,—"What church are you of?" "Of the church of Christ," he replied. "I mean of what persuasion are you?" "Persuasion!" said the dying man, as his eyes looked heavenward, "I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels, nor principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, nor height nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate me from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus."

☞ There is nothing purer than truth, nothing sweeter than charity, nothing warmer than love, nothing brighter than virtue, and nothing more steadfast than faith. These united in one mind form the purest, sweetest, richest, brightest, holiest, and most enduring happiness.

For the World's Crisis.

LETTER FROM BRO. R. W. WILSON.

BRO. GRANT:—I wish to say a few words for the comfort and encouragement of God's praying people who are scattered abroad. Our meetings daily increase in interest, being more marked by the power of God in convicting and converting sinners; the precious "incorruptible seed" has taken deep root in some honest hearts, and the good work is spreading rapidly. Our tracts are read by some of all classes, and the blessed Bible is a new book to many. We frequently hear persons say that they never heard it preached before they heard it by Bro. Smith.

How true it is that the Bible is not taught by the popular teachers of our day; and in teaching the plain, naked, blessed word of God, we necessarily grieve those who "teach for doctrines the commandments of men." It is now as it was in the days of John and Peter. "As they spake unto the people, the priests and the rulers of the temple, and the Sadducees, came upon them, being grieved that they taught the people and preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead."

A day or two ago, as I was going from house to house distributing tracts, talking about Jesus, and praying with and for this famishing people, I met the Methodist minister of this place; and after saying—

"How do you do, Bro. ——?" I quoted this portion of Scripture: "In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thy hand." His reply was—

"You are circulating your dogmas among my people," and said it was very annoying to him; and in a very imperative manner he requested me to desist from doing so any more.

I answered him, first, that we had no dogmas to circulate; that we taught and distributed the word of God only. Second, that inasmuch as several of his people had told me already that they were not living in the enjoyment of religion, I considered it my duty to labor for the salvation of all such, whether I found them in his church or out of it; and that he might be sure that I would continue to do my work faithfully.

Some of the Catholics have been reading our tracts and attending our meetings. Their priest has told them that if they attend any more he will excommunicate them; and the colored ministers also have given warning to their people in relation to their danger in attending our meetings.

The Presbyterian minister has commenced a course of lectures for the express purpose of trying to confute the doctrine of God which we teach; and the Methodist minister above mentioned has secured the aid of a revivalist from abroad, and they are about to commence a series of meetings.

All the various sects are working against us night and day; but, "if God be for us, who can be against us?" Again, "Who is he that will harm you if ye be followers of that which is good?" In all my life I never followed after anything so truly good as this. I never had such sweet, solid, constant peace of mind, and "joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ," as now; and with all my heart I do sing—

"I have given all for Christ,
He's my all, he's my all."

My whole heart is in this work. I love it more than my life. I am exceedingly thankful to be able to take even an humble part in a work so glorious. It is written, "And they that be teachers [marginal reading] shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever." I have always thought that this glory was for ministers only; but by reading this passage over more carefully of late, I see there is a chance for me too, praise the Lord.

Last night we had a prayer meeting at a private house. The room was well filled, and we had the most heavenly meeting that I ever was in. It was very affecting to listen to the precious testimonies of those who had just "tasted the good word of God," and were feeling the "powers of the world to come," and to hear them thank God for sending these two brethren to Jacksonville, and to listen to their ardent prayers for us and the dear ones we had left at home in order to come here. We earnestly desire the continuance of your prayers for the success of this Mission.

I would like to hear from any of my friends who may read this. I am your Bro. in Christ, hasting unto the coming of the day of God." R. W. WILSON.

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 24th.

IT PAYS.

Reader, it pays to be a thorough christian. It pays to be converted. It pays to serve Christ. I do not tell you that it will increase your income. But I do tell you that it pays in happiness. In peace and hope and inward comfort, it pays a thousand times over.

The service of sin and the world is utterly unprofitable. It is a service in which there are plenty of promises, and very little performance. No wonder that Paul asks the Romans, "What fruit had ye in those things whereof ye are now ashamed?" Rom. 6: 21. Be like the many around you,—a thoughtless, careless, prayerless child of the world, and you will find one day that it does not pay at all. Be like the few who serve Christ,—a humble, penitent, believing, praying, Bible-reading christian, and you will most certainly find that it pays.

Out of all the millions who have turned to God, and repented, and been converted, who ever repented of repentance? I answer boldly, no one. Thousands repent every year of folly and unbelief. Thousands mourn over time misspent. Thousands regret their drunkenness and gambling and fornication and adultery and oaths and neglected opportunities. But no one has ever risen up and declared to the world that he repents of repenting, and turning toward God. The steps in the narrow way of life are all in one direction. You will never see in the narrow way the steps of one who turned back because the narrow way was not good. All find that it pays to serve Christ.

I remember reading of a remarkable event that occurred in a place of worship where a puritan minister, Mr. Doolittle, was preaching, two hundred years ago. Just as he was about to begin his sermon, he saw a young man, a stranger, coming into his church. He guessed, by the young man's manner, that he was anxious about his soul, and yet undecided about religion. He took a remarkable course with him. He tried a curious experiment; but God blest it to the young man's soul. Before Mr. Doolittle gave out his text, he turned to an old christian, whom he saw on one side of his church. He addressed him by name, and said to him, "Brother, do you repent of having served God?" The old christian stood up manfully before the congregation, and said, "Sir, I have served the Lord from my youth, and he has never done me anything but good." He turned to the left hand, where he saw another christian, and addressed him in the same way. "Brother," said he, calling him by his name, "Do you repent of having served Christ?" That man also stood up manfully before the congregation, and said, "Sir, I never was truly happy till I took up the cross, and served the Lord Jesus Christ." Then Mr. Doolittle turned to the young man, and said, "Young man, will you repent? Young man, will you take up the cross? Young man, will you this day begin to serve Christ?" God sent power with these words. The young man stood up before the congregation, and said, in an humble tone, "Yes, sir, I will." . . .

Reader, depend upon it, the two answers which Mr. Doolittle got that day are the experience of all true christians. Depend upon it, no man ever repents of repentance. No man was ever sorry that he served the Lord. No man ever said, at the end of his days, "I have read my Bible too much. I have thought of God too much. I have prayed too much. I have been too careful about my soul." Oh, no! The people of God would always say, "Had I to live my life over again, I would walk far more closely with God than ever I have done. I am sorry that I have not served God better; but I am not sorry that I have served him. The way of Christ may have its cross; but it is a way of pleasantness, and a path of peace."

Reader, cast fear away, and begin to be a true christian without delay. Repent, and be converted. Take up the cross, and follow Christ. There may be trials to be borne, and battles to be fought in the way to heaven. But never doubt for a moment that Christ's service is the best service. Godliness is profitable in the highest sense. It pays.—Ex.

BALM FOR THE WRONGED HEART.

Right or wrong, deservedly or undeservedly, most of us have at different crises of our lives, known this feeling—the bitter sense of being wronged; of having opened one's heart to the sunshine and had it all blighted and blackened with frost; of having laid one's self down in a passion of devotedness for beloved feet to walk upon, and been trampled upon and beaten down to the dust. In time it might have changed any one of us to a bitter, disappointed, suspicious cynic, had there not also come to us with strong conviction one truth—a truth preached on the shores of Galilee eighteen hundred years ago—the truth that can save the wronged heart from breaking—that he who gives away only a cup of cold water shall in no wise lose his reward. Still the reward is not temporal, and is rarely reward in kind. He—and He alone—to whom the debt is due, repays it not in our, but in his own way. One only consolation remains to the sufferers from ingratitude, but that one is all sufficing: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these little ones, ye have done it unto me."

FRESH FROM THE FOUNTAIN.

The following, on freshness of preaching, is well to the point. Too often people are supplied with that which has become stale from being long peddled about. Sermons, like refreshing drink, should always be just from the fountain. When thirsty, we always prefer water that is fresh and just drawn from the living fountain. We are not satisfied with that which has been long standing in some vessel of human construction. We want it as it comes from the bucket which God has made.

The Bible is a deep well containing the waters of divine truth. And when people come to the sanctuary to drink of these waters and slake their spiritual thirst, they do not want their ministers to hand about to them that which has become stale by long standing in the old painted buckets of formal theology. This water may yet contain all the elements of truth. But yet it will taste far better if the minister will just dip fresh from the great, deep well of the Bible which God has made.—Ex.

TAKE FREELY.

A ship was sailing in the southern waters of the Atlantic, when they saw another vessel making signals of distress. They bore down towards the distressed ship and hailed them.

"What is the matter?"

"We are dying for water," was the response.

"Dip it up, then!" was answered. "You are in the mouth of the Amazon River!"

There those sailors were thirsting, and suffering, and fearing, and longing for water, and supposing that there was nothing but the ocean's brine around them, when, in fact, they had sailed unconsciously into the broad mouth of the mightiest river on the globe, and did not know it. And though to them it seemed that they must perish with thirst, yet there were a hundred miles of fresh water all around them, and they had nothing to do but to "Dip it up!"

Jesus Christ says, "If any man thirst let him come unto me and drink." "And the Spirit and the Bride say, come, and let him that heareth say, come, and whosoever will, let him come, and take of the water of life freely." Thirsting soul, the flood is all around you. "Dip it up!" and drink, and thirst no more.

USEFUL HINTS.

Never make an apology while preaching—you will lessen yourself by so doing. Don't make long introductions to your sermons—a portico should never be as large as the house. Do not make a repeater of yourself, by repeating the same thoughts in your firstly, secondly, lastly, and in conclusion. Never defend yourself (while preaching) against any evil thing said of you; you are set for the defense of the gospel, and not for your own reputation. Keep your account with God, and not with man, and he will defend you. Do not preach long sermons; for long sermons do no good, but often do harm. Every moment that you detain your hearers after they become weary, you damage them and yourself also.

But the length of the sermon is not always measured by the time taken in its delivery. A sermon that has neither height, depth, or breadth, must necessarily be a long one. As long as you can hold the fixed attention of your hearers, it will be safe to go on; but when you can neither gain nor retain such attention, close it as soon as possible. Give your hearers as many thoughts in as few words as you possibly can.

☞ If you would know what a dollar is worth, try to borrow it.

SPEAKING WELL OF OTHERS.

If the disposition to speak well of others were universally prevalent, the world would become a comparative paradise. The opposite disposition is the Pandora box, which, when opened, fills every house and every neighborhood with pain and sorrow. How many enmities and heart burnings flow from this source! How much happiness is interrupted and destroyed! Envy, jealousy and the malignant spirit of evil, when they find vent by the lips, go forth on their mission like foul fiends, to blast the reputation and peace of others.

Every one has his imperfections; and in the conduct of the best there will be occasional faults which might seem to justify animadversion. It is a good rule, however, when there is occasion for fault-finding, to do it privately to the erring one. This may prove salutary. It is a proof of interest in the individual which will generally be taken kindly, if the manner of doing it is not offensive. The common and unchristian rule on the contrary, is to proclaim the failings of others to all but themselves. This is unchristian, and shows a despicable heart.—Ex.

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

For the "Children's Corner."

JESUS LOVES YOU.

Dear Young Pilgrims:—Did you ever think of this, how that Jesus came into the world and suffered for us, and died, that we by belief on him might obtain forgiveness of sins, and in all his teachings how great his love for the fallen race of man? Hear his words: "A new commandment I give unto you; that ye love one another as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." "Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God: therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not."

But have you ever felt that love for Christ, felt that you would willingly forsake all and follow him, take him as your Savior, love your enemies, love them that would try to injure you in every way, love all those that associate with you daily, love your parents, brothers and sisters? If so, you have the love of God in your hearts. You have the assurance that Jesus loves you, and though weighed down by sorrow and trials, how good it seems to know that Jesus loves us, and that we can go to him and pour out our sorrows to him, and know that he will not turn a deaf ear to our entreaties.

How glad I am Jesus loves me. "By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God and keep his commandments." "For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments"; and his "commandments are not grievous."

It is right that we should love Him who first loved us; but if we have not the love of God in our hearts, and have never felt the pardoning grace of God, let us think of this—Jesus loves me. Oh! let us strive to live so each day that we may perfect the love of God in our hearts, and be ready to hail him when he comes with joy and not with grief.

Winsted, Ct. UNCLE FRED.

For the "Children's Corner."

THE SAVIOR.

Who left a beauteous throne on high,
Came down to earth, and came to die
For all the world; thus, you and I?
Emanuel!

Who drove disease from man away,
Who with the humble made his stay,
Nor turned the suppliant away!
The Man Divine!

Who, loving, left his sacred seat,
"Girded himself," thinking it meet
To wash his own disciples' feet?
Our Savior dear!

Who conquered Death in Death's domain,
Triumphant over sin and pain,
And in like manner comes again?
"This same Jesus!"

Who comes to reign o'er all below,
Give wickedness its overthrow,
And crushing sin, to banish woe?
The King of kings!

He comes; let us his kingdom sing;
He comes; let us our offerings bring,
Prepare ourselves for Christ, the King,
Of David's throne the heir!

Philad. CHS. GREENE.

THERE'S ROCK AT THE BOTTOM.

When my Willie was sixteen he accidentally dropped a valuable watch into the well. His father was absent from home, and, without consulting me, he resolved to recover the treasure. Providing himself with a long handled rake, he gave it in charge of his sister Jennie, two years younger, and bidding her lower it to him when he called, he stepped into the bucket, and holding fast by the rope, commenced his descent. The bucket descended more rapidly than Willie expected, and struck heavily against the side of the well; the rope broke, and he was thrown into the water.

"Mother, I shall be drowned!" was his despairing cry, which Jennie re-echoed with a wail of anguish. But I knew the depth of the water, and shouted to him as calmly as I could, "Stand upon your feet, Willie, the water isn't over four feet deep."

"But I shall sink in the mud," said the poor boy, still striving to keep himself afloat by clinging desperately to the slippery stones.

"No, Willie, there's rock at the bottom. Let go the stones and stand."

The assurance of hard foundation and the impossibility of holding much longer to the slimy surface of the stone wall gave him confidence. He felt for the bottom, placed his feet firmly upon it, and to his great joy found that the water only reached his shoulders. I sent Jennie into the house for a new, strong rope, and fastening one end securely, I lowered the other to be tied into the bucket, and we drew him up.

"O, mother," said the dear boy, when he was rescued, "those were precious words to me, 'there's rock at the bottom.' I shall never forget them."

Two years after, in a commercial panic, my husband's property was swept away, and we were reduced to poverty. At first I bore bravely up. I chiefly mourned for my husband's disappointment and crushed hopes, and strove by unflagging cheerfulness to chase away the gloom which settled so heavily upon him. I endeavored to assist him, not only by the utmost economy in household expenses, but by devising plans for the future. Willie and Jennie were old enough to earn their support, and even to assist in the education of the young children. I succeeded in putting them in the way to do this. I felt strong and brave, and wondered at my husband's despondency.

But new reverses came. The bank in which Jennie had deposited her quarter's salary, which might possibly meet our necessities, suddenly failed, and her money was lost. I could bear this too; she would soon be able to replace it. Next, the school in which she taught was disbanded, and Jennie had to take much lower wages; but she still earned a little, and I said cheerfully: "We will not murmur; half a loaf is better than no bread."

Next, Willie's hand was disabled by an accident, and he lost his situation. My courage began to give way, but rallying myself for one effort, I resolved to brave the reproach of friends and the world's dread laugh, and seek remunerative employment for myself. It sorely tried my woman's delicacy, yet it brought the needed aid, and I battled with my wounded sensitiveness, and again screwed up my failing courage.

But the last blow came. Sickness suddenly laid me prostrate. "I shall give up now; we must sink together," was the language of my despairing soul.

"Dear mother," said Willie, when he heard my lamentation, "do you remember what you said to me when I was at the bottom of the well? I have often thought of it of late. I know we are in deep water, but God has promised they shall not overflow us. And is his word without foundation? Let us plant our feet on his promises, and stand firmly. We cannot sink, for there's rock at the bottom."

I heard, and took the lesson to my heart. I saw that I had been clinging to the slippery stones of human strength and self-dependence, and so when the providence of God bade me let go my hold, I was in despair. But the bank of heaven had not failed; and though I stood in deep water, it would not overwhelm me; neither would I sink, for "there's rock at the bottom."

So, from the chamber where pain and illness still hold me a prisoner, I send to each burdened and weary child of God who is tempted to feel that all is lost, the key-note of my new and grateful psalm. Whatever your sorrow or strait may be, plant your feet on the rock of ages, and with me, "thank God and take courage."

AN UGLY COMPANION.

Nobody can say that Impatience makes little show, or keeps himself in the background. Nobody ever accuses him of speaking softly. Don't he know how to slam the doors? And can anybody fling things about with more success than Impatience, when he has a mind? And as to seeing the best side—he hardly leaves a best side to see. Impatience can bring a cloud over everything, and generally gets hold of the thorns instead of the roses. Indeed his bushes rarely have roses at all, for he picks the green buds rather than wait for them to open, and eats all his fruit half-ripe. Impatience has two tempers; in the one he is angry with everything to-day, in the other he wants everything that belongs to to-morrow, and can't wait.

He has a strange way, too, of misnaming things. It is "cruel" to make Grace learn her lessons, instead of playing all day—it is "cross" not to give her cake between breakfast and dinner; and a rainy Saturday is always "provoking." He tells her "to-morrow" is "an age" off; he makes her think to-day not worth the having.

Impatience always gives selfish counsel. How can Grace finish her doll's dress, if she has to play with the baby, or run up stairs to get her sister's thimble? And when she has sharpened her pencil for herself, of course she does not want to lend it—just to have the point worn off again. And then the dinner bell must always ring just when she is in the midst of an interesting book—and it is so tiresome to run all the way up stairs to brush her hair before she goes to the table! But if dinner were delayed a little too long, no interesting book can keep Impatience quiet then. What he likes is anything but what he can get.

HONOR AND GENEROSITY.

A man was once carrying along a basket of peaches, covered with cloth, and slung over his shoulder, making a pretty heavy load. By some means the cover became loosened, and quite a number of the tempting-looking peaches rolled down upon the sidewalk, and the man went on without perceiving it.

A poorly-dressed boy, about ten years old, who was walking a little way behind, observed them, and immediately picked them up. But he did not put them in his pocket and run away, as too many boys would have done.

"Here! here!" he shouted to the man, who stopped, and the honest little fellow restored him his property.

The man rewarded him with one of the finest peaches, and went on his way. But this is not all. Just then the lad met two of his companions, and immediately divided his peach with them.

Was not that a noble-hearted little fellow? Who could but love him, ragged and dirty as he was? The part of the peach he had for his portion was sweetened by kindness, by honesty and generosity, and the fruit was more luscious than the most costly could have been, if obtained dishonestly.

GOOD ADVICE.

Be choice in your company.
Be not awkward in manner.
Be not forward.
Boast not.
Do not equivocate.
Ask no abrupt questions.
Improve every moment.
Confess your faults.
Interrupt no man's story.
Keep your temper.
Avoid debt.
Persevere against discouragements.
Be good natured.
Practice strict temperance.
Rather set than follow examples.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..............$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address.......$5.60
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00.
Same rate for any number under ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give DISTINCTLY and PLAINLY the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM;
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.
TERMS:
Payable always in advance.
[illegible]

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 641. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 18.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon at
167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

TAKE ME BY THE HAND, FATHER.

O, the heavy, heavy trials
Pressing closely round my way;
Take me by the hand, dear Father,
All my weary soul doth pray.
Clouds are gathering, wildly frowning
With sad portent o'er my head;
Sorrow's waves roll darkly round me,
Pathless wastes my footsteps press.

Hold me in thy arms, dear Savior!
Bear, oh, bear me safely through;
Save me from the misty darkness,
Light of home, oh, let me view.
Praise! the threat'ning clouds are lifting;
Joy! the raging waters cease;
Faith's high towers light up in glory;
Jesus sweetly whispers peace!

Perth Amboy, N. J. ANNA E. MCELLISTER.

For the World's Crisis.

THE BIBLE.

"For thou hast magnified thy word above all thy name."—Ps. 138: 7.
"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."—Ps. 119: 105.
"How sweet are thy words unto my taste! yea, sweeter than honey to my mouth. Through thy precepts I get understanding: therefore I hate every false way."—Ps. 119: 103, 104.

Thus we feel towards this blessed book. What the ark was to Noah this book is to us. And what the ark was to his generation this book is to this generation. Those who entered the ark were saved from the impending destruction; so those who accept the Bible as their guide will escape the impending destruction, by fire, to this generation.

Do you wonder that we love it? that we press it to our bosoms as the most precious earthly thing? How would Noah have felt just as the ark was completed had certain antediluvians stepped forward with axes and hammers to demolish it? As we suppose he would have felt, so do we feel toward every voice that is raised to weaken faith in God's revealed word. The Bible is our deed for an inheritance in the world to come. If the deed be destroyed, all is lost to us.

Every part of the Bible has its relative importance. What can a man know about a stream who has never seen nor heard anything about it except its mouth? or should he chance along its center, and know nothing of its origin or outflow, what would he know of the stream? or should he linger about its source only, what would he know of the stream? So what does a man know of the stream of Revelation who has never navigated it—who has not begun "in the beginning" and gone to its "Amen"?

"All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." 2 Tim. 3: 16, 17.

Here is the word of the Lord on the point, and who is he that dare contradict him? Who is he that dare select any one of the sixty-six books of the Bible and say, This is not "profitable"? Would this not be taking from the words of the book of this prophecy, and incur the penalty there threatened? Who dare cast aside any one of the seventeen writers of the Old Testament, or either of the eight writers of the New, and say he does not need what they say—that he is perfect, thoroughly furnished, without them? God forbid. Let God be true and listened to, for he knows best.

What, then, shall be said of the equipment of the man of God who casts aside two-thirds of his armor by rejecting the Old Testament entire? by treating it as absolete? Meager indeed is the outfit of such an one to enter upon "the good fight of faith, and lay hold on eternal life." How does he know that Jesus of Nazareth is the Messiah except he search the Scriptures of the Old Testament that testify of him? What does he know of Abraham, or of what it avails to become his seed by coming into Christ, if he search not the Scriptures as Jesus exhorted his hearers? What does he know of the "Israelites," of the "Covenants," of the "promises," without a careful study of the Old Testament? It is, indeed, the nomenclature of the New, and indispensable to its proper understanding. The Old Testament is the beginning of the story, and the New the sequel. They are indispensable to each other, and are joined together of God himself; therefore, let not man put them asunder.

Added to all this is the real native interest of the Old Testament. Its simplicity and natural way of saying everything, with its vein of Omnipotence so prominent; its noble characters without paint; its beautiful stories that never grow old, its vast variety of incidents, with its one great burden—Israel; then follows its crowning interest underlying the whole, the lineaments distinctly drawn of its coming Messiah—the "seed" of the woman, the "man of sorrows," the King in his beauty."

Thank God for the Old Testament and for the New. Together they are "the sword of the Spirit" so needful in this age of the serpent's guile. All his craft and cunning seem directed against "the word of God," which is "quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." Heb. 4: 12.

Let us not be ignorant of the use of this powerful agent, "for we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness [wicked spirits] in high places." Wherefore we need the whole armor of God that having overcome all we may stand. Heb. 6: 12.

Hence let it be the great business of our lives to become acquainted with our Bible; it is a library of itself. Let none feel poor and without books that have a Bible. Here are sixty-six books, and some twenty-five different writers each chosen in the wisdom of God, and guided what to say, and all bound together in one book, and presented to us as GOD'S BOOK, and shall we remain ignorant of any part of it?

What if we should get a letter from a friend, and only read a part of it! What could show a greater indifference to that friend than such a course? The Bible is God's letter, and shall we remain ignorant of any part of it? God forbid.

And just here rushes in the New Year and welcome! welcome! saith our souls, and what a good time to begin to know our Bibles anew. "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift" in this blessed book, and may we use it as the God-given treasure which he has magnified above all his name.

A New Year's greeting to all the dear saints under every variety of circumstance. Remember that "the God of all consolation" knows it all, and "if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath," both in talent, and in things temporal, and in suffering. "Brethren, pray for us."

Yours, E. S. WILLARD.

Haddonfield, N. J., Jan. 1st, 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

HOLINESS, PERFECTION, AND SANCTIFICATION.

Many seem to think that these gifts and attainments are not to be possessed while in this mortal state; but, dear brethren and sisters, does not the inspired word teach far otherwise? And can we expect to be made partakers of the glories to be revealed unless we avail ourselves of these gospel provisions? If we expect that anything less than these gospel requirements will avail us, or secure to us its saving power, then the sooner we understand our true position and relation to these things, the better will it be for us.

I think none of us are ready to take the position that our heavenly Father requires of us anything impossible or unreasonable, or that which is not for our best good. Therefore let us examine some of the Bible proofs on these points. In the first chapter of Luke we read, "That we . . . . might serve him without fear, in holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our life." Luke 1: 74, 75. Says the apostle, "And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness."—Eph. 4: 24. This is plain language, and none of us can fail to understand it. Says the apostle to Timothy, "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind. . . . Who hath saved us, and called us with a holy calling." 2 Tim. 1: 7, 9. "For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, but unto holiness."—1 Thess. 4: 7.

It is evident from the language of the apostle that sin and holiness can not dwell in the same breast. "What then? shall we sin, because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid." "Know ye not that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness? Can we adopt this language? "But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life."—Rom. 6: 15, 16, 22. If we do not feel freed from sin, what are we to do? Ans. "Having therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God."—2 Cor. 7: 1. Thus this duty is made plain to us.

The apostle also exhorts us to increase and abound in love towards one another, etc., "to the end he may establish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his saints."—1 Thess. 3: 12, 13. It is also recorded that "whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth," and that for our profit, "that we might be partakers of his holiness." Heb. 12: 6, 10. "For if the first fruit be holy, the lump is also holy; and if the root be holy, so are the branches."—Rom. 11: 10.

What reasonable service is required of us? Let Paul answer: "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."—Rom. 12: 1. How does Peter exhort us on this point? "But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; because it is written, Be ye holy, for I am holy."—1 Pet. 1: 15, 16. We have examples in the past of holy men, and women also, of whom Peter says their adorning was not of plaiting the hair, or wearing of gold, etc., but the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit. "For after this manner in the old time the holy women also adorned themselves."—1 Pet. 3: 3–5. And of holy men he says, "For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."—2 Pet. 1: 21. "That ye may be mindful of the words which were spoken before by the holy prophets." Also in connection with the destruction of Anti-typical Babylon, says the Revelator, "Rejoice over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets; for God hath avenged you on her."—Rev. 18: 20. Again, "Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection,"—20: 6; and, "He that is holy, let him be holy still."—22: 11.

Again, the apostle Paul exhorts us to "follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord."—Heb. 12: 14. He also says "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are." Is not any and every sin defiling? Now if we acknowledge we can not or do not live without committing sin, or sin daily, then do we not stand in our own condemnation? "He that sinneth is of the devil." "Let not sin, therefore, reign in your mortal bodies."

Again, some professors of religion say there is no one perfect, and we never can be perfect in this world. Now shall we take heed to this teaching, or to Jesus Christ who thus taught, "Be ye therfore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."—Matt. 5: 48. "If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor." Matt. 19: 21. And of his followers he also says, "I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one."—John 17: 23. Says St. Paul, "Howbeit we speak wisdom among them that are perfect."—1 Cor. 2: 6. "Finally, brethren, farewell. Be perfect, be of good comfort."—2 Cor. 13: 11. In pressing toward the mark for the prize, he says, "Let us, therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded"; and, "Brethren, be followers together of me."—Phil. 3: 14–17.

Paul also, in speaking of "the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles," which is Christ in you the hope of glory, says: "Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom; that we may present [some men? a few? or none at all? No, but] every man perfect in Christ Jesus, whereunto I also labor."—Col. 1: 27–29. He also speaks of "Epaphras, a servant of Christ, . . . laboring fervently for you in prayers, that ye may stand perfect and complete in all the will of God."—Col. 3: 12. We know what Paul says to Timothy, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, . . . that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." And to the Hebrews he says, "Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do his will."—Heb. 13: 20, 21.

In regard to "patience having her perfect work," says St. James, "That ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing."—James 1: 4. Also, "If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body."—3: 3. The apostle Peter also says, "But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you." 1 Pet. 5: 10. Says St. John, "God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. . . . . Herein is our love made perfect; . . . but perfect love casteth out fear."—1 John 4: 12–18. "The disciple is not above his Master; but every one that is perfect shall be as his Master."—Luke 6: 40. "But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected."—1 John 2: 5. Again, says the apostle Paul, "For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified."—Heb. 10: 14.

And of the sanctified, our Savior says—"Sanctify them through thy truth; thy word is truth. . . . And for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also may be sanctified through the truth."—John 17: 17–19. Yet how many are ready to say, this doctrine is fanaticism, which nobody can attain to in this imperfect state. But what did Paul say? "And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified."—Acts 20: 32. "Unto the church of God which is at Corinth, to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, and called to be saints: Grace be unto you," etc.—1 Cor. 1: 2.

Still further examples: "And such were some of you; but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified."—1 Cor. 6: 11. Again says Paul to Timothy, in regard to some things being to honor and some to dishonor, "If a man therefore purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honor, sanctified, and meet for the Master's use, and prepared unto every good work."—2 Tim. 2: 20, 21. Thus the sanctified, quickened and renewed by the Spirit of God, are effectually fitted to do the work of the Lord.

We know not from scriptural authority how sin and sanctification can dwell together. If we say we cannot live without committing sin daily, then condemnation (instead of sanctification) is our inheritance. Brethren, let us examine ourselves, and see if we do truly come up to the Bible standard of christianity. We had better give alms, with closet prayer and fasting, as stated by our Savior in Matt. 6: 3–18, if we would have the promised reward, rather than fail in this matter. "For both he that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one; for which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren."—Heb. 2: 11. "By the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all."—Heb. 10: 10. Again, Paul says to the Thessalonians, "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."—1 Thess. 5: 23. Is not this as necessary for us as for them? and especially as we believe that day is just at hand. Seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent, that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless."—2 Peter 3: 14. "And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure."—1 John 3: 2, 3.

Brethren, each of us have our own work to do in regard to these practical truths, as they apply to us individually. Says Jude, "The servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to them that are sanctified by God the Father, and preserved in Jesus Christ, and called: mercy unto you, and peace, and love, be multiplied." We are exhorted to "earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the saints"; "building up ourselves on our most holy faith"; and "to keep ourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life." "Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy; to the only wise God our Savior, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen."—Jude. Beloved, do we possess all these christian graces? If so, then this benediction will apply to us also; but if we do not, then it is time to awake to truth and duty in this matter, and apply ourselves at once without further delay to our high calling. The Judge is waiting at the door. That day is just at hand.

Marion, N. Y. S. L. MANLEY.

For the World's Crisis.

HOW SOON?

The weary, lonely pilgrim,
Treading life's thorny way,
Asks oft amid his wandering—
How soon will come the day,

The bright celestial morning,
When Christ shall claim his own,
Descending in his glory
From heaven's beaming throne;

To reign in glory ever,
King over all supreme,
His kingdom never ending,
His glory ever seen?

Then shall the christian, resting,
Be free from sorrow there;
Free from all sin and suffering,
And in Christ's kingdom share.

All now may seek an entrance
Into that home so bright;
The Day-Star beaming from on high,
Sheds forth a radiant light.

A. WHITFORD.

For the World's Crisis.

A FEW QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

BRO. GRANT:—As we have become an inquiring people, it is not strange that we should differ in some things, as some see quicker than others, some see further, and some are to do one kind of work and others do a different work. Some are good to settle disputed questions. But there is one question yet to be settled, i. e., the nature of the Adamic penalty, about which so many differ. I will ask and answer a few questions, as they present themselves to me. If any one can give more light on them it will be gladly received.

I. If man died a temporal death for his own sins, why do children and christians die?

II. What did the broken law claim of Christ to satisfy the demand against Adam?

Answer. It does not claim eternal death; if so, Christ is dead yet, and the Scriptures are broken.

2. It does not claim eternal torment; if so, Christ is suffering it now, and is not at the right hand of God.

3. It does not claim a spiritual or moral death; if so, Christ could not pay the debt.

III. What law did Adam break?

It cannot be the law of the ten commandments, or decalogue, for it was not given subsequent to the deluge to Moses; hence not in heaven. See Rev. 11: 19. If it was not the law of the ten commandments Adam violated, it was not that law whose claim Christ paid, but the one God gave Adam in the garden. Gen. 3: 2, 3. Hence a right to bring to life all the human family from the dominion of the devil or grave, and become the Savior of all men from the penalty of the Adamic death or sleep, and give eternal life or a special salvation to those who have sought for it by patiently serving him.

Some demand more than the law claims, and others less; while another class repudiate the claim of the law altogether. Yours after a settlement of these questions, if they can be reconciled so all can see.

HIRAM MUNGER.

For the World's Crisis.

CHURCH DISCIPLINE.

The article headed "Achan" in last week's Crisis seemed so pertinently truthful, as to give rise to some serious reflections relative to the religious duty of exercising church discipline, especially when I came to the question whether the modern "Achans" should remain in the camp. The answer was "No." If they will not repent, and change their course, and cleanse themselves, drive them from the camp, but leave the stoning until the day of judgment.

It is quite apparent that no stoning is to be performed under the gospel, but God both commands and threatens the local church relative to this point, and gives the example of commendation where church discipline has been rigorously exercised on those who professedly held a high office in the church.

In the catalogue of good works awarded the church at Ephesus, the following stands out in bold relief: "Thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and hast found them liars." And then the church in Thyatira were commended for their faith, works, and patience; nevertheless God threatens them because they allowed one to remain among them who seduced God's servants, committed fornication, etc.

Inspiration has warned the church relative to these things, forbidding even social intercourse with those who profess to be of the faith, but who in fact are fornicators, covetous, idolaters, revilers, drunkards, or extortioners. If any one is called a brother, and possesses any of these characteristics, keep no company with him. No matter if their name be on the church-book, and they have an honorary title affixed thereto; if they are ever so learned, understanding all mysteries, or possess all the wealth of India, whether it be a king on the throne, or a beggar on the dung-hill;—let all see that it is moral worth you appreciate instead of sectarianism, intellect, honor, or gold. 1 Cor. 5: 11.

But does Inspiration teach us to avoid wicked people altogether, that is, those who make no profession? Nay, verily. It would not only have us humble ourselves to eat with publicans and sinners, but it would have us appreciate and kindly reciprocate every act of kindness and beneficence they may extend towards us; and more also. It would have us put ourselves quite forward in this matter to seek by every act of kindness to win them to Christ. It would have us extend our hand to the burning flame, if perchance we may snatch some burning brand ere they wholly consume.

But is it right to allow the names of those who are guilty of fornication, covetousness, idolatry, drunkenness, etc., to remain among the saints? I think not, from the command in 1 Cor. 5: 13, which reads thus: "Therefore put away from among yourselves that wicked person." And in numerous places the gospel enjoins it upon us to withdraw ourselves from all those who walk disorderly, that they may be ashamed, and perhaps so feel their guilt as to repent and be saved. 2 Thess. 3: 6, 14; 1 Tim. 6: 5; 1 John 4: 1.

But then, there exists that ever memorable warning of the Master to the servants against pulling up tares, with this cogent reason, "Lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them." Now while God's word is clear relative to exercising faithful Bible discipline, that much care and prayerfulness should be exercised in the matter is quite apparent.

When a great tare makes its appearance, one growing a long time, and been allowed influence, riches, position, or education, to enrich its soil, and having roots extending under numerous spears of young and tender wheat; it would appear hazardous to molest it. The only safe way is to pray the great Husbandman himself to manage the affair; and if by his providences he shows it to be the more prudent not to molest it, why, then let it alone until it be his pleasure to separate it from the wheat; meantime keep the case before Him in solemn prayer.

But when certain marked providences indicate this tare uplifting on one side, and then on the other, we may rest assured what the Master undertakes he never leaves done at the halves. The time of its accomplishment may seem long to those who are waiting; as Bro. —— used to say, "God's mill grinds slow, but it grinds to powder." But it will be performed in a different manner from what mortals expected, and so adroitly as to cause them to marvel.

But what if this tare appear in such a manner before you as to cause painful solicitude and misgivings relative to the prosperity of those tender blades of wheat? Cast this burden right on Him who is abundantly able to carry it, every time the adversary casts it upon you. "It is good to both hope and quietly wait for the salvation of God." Trust him, TRUST HIM, TRUST HIM always, for—

"He doeth all things well."

B. MATHEWSON.

For the World's Crisis.

LOVE AND FEAR.

"There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear."—1 JOHN 4: 18.

John, "that disciple whom Jesus loved," was one of the most fervent lovers of Jesus, and in the record he gave of the "gospel of Christ," as well as in his epistles, he strove to show the importance of love. And where Christ spoke to his disciples concerning love, John was very faithful to record it. See John 14, and 15.

And Jesus said, "He that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him." John 14: 21. John loved Jesus much, and Jesus in return loved John much. Therefore when John wrote that there was no fear in love, he wrote from experience. He feared not to confess before the persecuting Jews that he was a disciple of Jesus. And when they sent Jesus to Caiaphas, the high priest, "that other disciple" (which was the manner in which John spoke of himself), went right up with him; while Peter, who had a warlike spirit (which is not like Christ's love), and "smote the servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear," follows "afar off"; and after John had brought him into the palace, he (Peter) denied that he was Jesus' disciple.

Wherever there is the most love for God, there is the most confidence in him. Elijah loved God, and had confidence to obey his word; and after the three years had passed in which there was no rain, Elijah obeyed the word of the Lord, and went down to Ahab, who had searched in every "nation and kingdom" for him, because he thought that Elijah had "troubled Israel." And he did not fear [illegible] before the "four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal." 1 Kings 18.

Daniel [illegible] the king's decree [illegible] the Lord, and in defiance of his windows being open into his house, and, [illegible] ard Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he had done aforetime. Dan. 6: 10.

The three worthies had confidence in God, and were not afraid of the king, and refused to bow down to his image, and the Lord was faithful to deliver them.

Dear brethren and sisters, time is short; our beloved Lord is coming soon to take the faithful home. Take courage and march forward. And you, poor, trembling ones, that feel it is a great cross to speak for Jesus, and let your light shine before the world, I entreat of you to get nearer to Christ. Study his word, and think of what he has suffered for you, that you may love him more. Do not cease striving to love him more until you have confidence to declare him before all his adversaries, and grace to keep all his words; for if we fail to confess him before the world, he will not confess us before his Father. If we love the Lord with all our heart, soul, mind, and strength, we shall not fear to stand before him in judgment. May the Lord help us all to continue in his love until he comes.

Prospect, Me. J. RIDLEY.

For the World's Crisis.

THINGS THAT MUST NOT BE.

Dear brethren and sisters in Christ, and all who may read these lines: Let me say to you, we cannot serve two masters; we cannot serve God and mammon. If we try to serve two masters, we shall most surely miss of salvation. We must not fail to love our enemies, and pray for them that hate us; for "God is love," and "we love him because he first loved us." We must not stand still in the way to heaven. We must not, we cannot, occupy mutual ground. We are going forward or backward every moment of our lives. We must not cease to pray; and we must watch and labor as well as pray. Let us not fail to have an eye single to the glory of God in all that we do. Let our hearts be strictly honest, and our motives pure; then our efforts for good will not be in vain.

Let us not fail to secure the favor of God, as it is impossible for us to be happy without it. "Be not deceived, for God is not mocked." We must not fail to bear our cross here, if we would wear a crown hereafter. If we are anxious to see the desires of our hearts, we must not cease to pray and work, work and pray, with our trust in the Lord alone. We must be holy, or never see the Lord in peace. Merely praying for it will not secure the blessing; we must labor for it in the name and strength of the Lord.

We must not fail to get our hearts cleansed from all unrighteousness, and then the Lord will fill us with the Holy Ghost; "for without the spirit of Christ we are none of his." Wicked men and seducers are waxing worse and worse, and the powers of darkness are let loose, to destroy, if possible, the very elect; but we are safe in our Father's hands so long as we continue faithful to him. O! let us never be weary in well doing, "for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

Much has been said, and much is being said, about obtaining a crown. And the question arises—

"Must I be carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease,
While others fought to win the prize,
And sailed through bloody seas?
Sure we must fight, if we would reign;
Increase our courage, Lord."

But, while we are running the race to obtain the crown of righteousness, we must not indulge in vanity, vice, and folly. Neither should we seek for worldly honor, and not the honor that cometh from God only. Nor should we seek for worldly gain; but let us earnestly seek for durable riches and righteousness, that will never fade away.

Now, my dear friends, if we mean to dwell with the pure and the blessed, we must "cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit; perfecting holiness in the fear of the Lord." In order for this, we must abstain from the filthy use of tobacco in chewing or smoking, and from taking snuff also. Oh! how sinful, filthy and mean these things make people appear. Neither should we indulge in the intoxicating cup, nor in drinking strong tea and coffee; for they tend to weaken the nerves, and thus hinder our usefulness in God's cause. God is not well pleased with any such work.

If we mean to "live as strangers and pilgrims on the earth," we must not imitate the world in personal adornments, in wearing gold, or costly array; we must not engage in idle conversation, or "foolish talking"; we must not cheat our neighbor, or tell lies, swear, or take God's name in vain. Let us "break off our sins by righteousness, and our iniquities by turning to the Lord." May God help us to be faithful to the end.

P. TANDY.

WORK AND WAGES.

This is a working world. Idleness is not the normal condition of human life. Men not engaged in doing good are doing evil. Those called idlers are only idlers in a good cause:

"And Satan finds some mischief still
For idle hands to do."

Hence, all are at work, and all as certainly get wages. The seeker of temporal bliss, the praise-seeking pharisee, praying to be seen of men, and the giver of a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple, all have their reward.

And work is the measure and maker of wages. A pearl will sell for as much more than a potato, as it costs of labor to obtain it. Gold is not as useful a metal as iron, for iron can be put to ten uses where gold can to one; but gold is valued ten thousand more than iron, and chiefly because it requires ten thousand times as much work to get it from the mines. Hence, work regulates its own wages, and secures to toil, in due time, its just compensation. The trampling, unmuzzled ox, gets his share of the corn. "He that reapeth, receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto eternal life; that both he that soweth and he that reapeth, may rejoice together." Let the desponding and discouraged think of this and "take heart again." "The laborer is worthy of his hire." He may not always get it in this world. But all the losses and deficiencies of this life will be so grandly made up in the life to come, that he who is poor for Jesus' sake may rejoice that he has treasures in heaven.

Wages for work are sometimes long coming, but are none the less sure. The navigator boldly sails forth, with an almost unearthly hope of discovering some trackless shore, where the bloom of spring lasts all the summer, and summer all the year. Let him sail on—his reward is sure. The inventor, with subtle skill, may construct and arrange wheels and levers, pinions and pulleys, and by an adroit adjustment, set in motion a machine, which will save time, labor and life—only let him persevere;—after the work come the wages. The gold-hunter blasts far into the mountain side, only let him dig far enough, and he will find where nature sits behind her crystal counter, and deals out to her rare visitors her yellow ingots. But let the worker for Christ set forth at the call of duty, and grander than discovery, and nobler than invention, and surer and richer than ingots of gold are the work and the wages which bless him. "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed," though he sicken, falter and fall in its sowing, yet in human hearts that tear-watered seed shall germinate, and the sower, at last shall "doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." Let him work now—his wages through Jesus' mercy will come by and bye, when tears and labors end.

The best work gets the best wages in compensation. For work so poorly done that it will only serve as an excuse, and stand in the way of better workers, will pay nothing. Low grades of work bring low wages. And good wages can only be obtained by good work.

The greatest personal work any one can do in this life is that of personal consecration to God. A work that involves the whole being now and forever, for time and eternity. Whoever he be that goes in for full salvation, must expect it to cost him everything,—must pay the uttermost farthing of property, earthly hopes, interests and ambitions, pride, self-love, good name, worldly pleasures, friends, social position—everything, and then, and not till then, is the offering made complete. This done, and God comes and accepts the offering, the old habitation is renovated and refitted, and made the sweet, glad home of the soul. The wages are an assurance of acceptance with God, and joy and peace now attend that soul through all its paths of storm and darkness. Fidelity and unswerving integrity, through years of life, bring that soul into such position that God can put confidence in it. I say, through years of consecration. For though we are well paid on the instant of giving all and doing all for Christ, yet larger dividends are paid to that man who holds on his way through every test and trial.

Then, dear fellow pilgrim, if you would have wages—work. Work long and unswervingly. Though the world despise and forsake you, work—they left your Savior, too. Strike strong and rapid blows for truth and God. Work within your own heart until all illuminated by the Holy Ghost, and then awaken the slumbering world around. God still wants watchmen upon his walls "who shall never hold their peace day nor night!" Then, sound the tocsin of alarm—cry from rampart and tower, "BEHOLD THE SWORD COMETH! Be faithful in thy work—thy wages are sure.—Ear. Chris.

DISTRACTIONS.

The distractions of the professing world perplex the unbelievers without, and many believers within. They are saying, What shall we believe? The great variety of distracting views held and advocated by the leaders of the christian church has led many very unwisely to cast the whole matter of religion aside. Of late this same difficulty has affected the students of the prophetic word. They begin to differ so widely among themselves on matters of unfulfilled prophesy that many stumble.

These things, however, instead of perplexing or discouraging us in the pursuit of truth, should make us more diligent in the study of the divine word. "Call no man master." Christ is the only master; follow him and you will have light and rest. Unless we give ourselves up to the divine word, and take our ideas of the coming kingdom and reign of Christ entirely from it, we shall not be secure against distractions and delusions; nor shall we be able to withstand the current of the popular theology, which overbears all independent thought by the cry, "Have any of the Scribes or Pharisees believed" it? Both of these dangers are to be resolutely avoided And we should understand that the distractions and perils into which we are now cast were predicted. They are to try us, and at the same time be harbingers of the coming day.

Let us, then, with the calmness of faith, And as Peter says, "Wherefore, beloved, see-study the prophetic word, and with confidence wait its fulfillment; and so much the more as we see the day approaching." That the day approacheth the signs and the prophetic periods plainly declare. We are living near the last trump and third woe. We must be late in the fourth and last watch of the night. The stars are fading from view, and the Day-Star is just about to appear. The "man of sin" has had his day, and is soon to be destroyed by the brightness of Christ's coming. Infidelity has poisoned and affected the moral atmosphere with its pestilential breath, but it is soon to go into perdition. Then comes the glory of the kingdom. All rule of human hand shall be put down, and "Jehovah alone shall be exalted in that day." "The saints shall possess the kingdom under the whole heavens." The wilderness and the solitary place shall be made glad, and the creature shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption; the earth shall stand forth in a beautiful restoration, more glorious than when the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy.—Voice.

☞ The judges in the court of the Areopagus at Athens used to hear and decide causes by night, lest the sight of the parties might tempt them to decide unjustly.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 641. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 18.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon at
167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

TAKE ME BY THE HAND, FATHER.

O, the heavy, heavy trials
Pressing closely round my way;
Take me by the hand, dear Father,
All my weary soul doth pray.
Clouds are gathering, wildly frowning
With sad portent o'er my head;
Sorrow's waves roll darkly round me,
Pathless wastes my footsteps press.

Hold me in thy arms, dear Savior!
Bear, oh, bear me safely through;
Save me from the misty darkness,
Light of home, oh, let me view.
Praise! the threat'ning clouds are lifting;
Joy! the raging waters cease;
Faith's high towers light up in glory;
Jesus sweetly whispers peace!

Perth Amboy, N. J. Anna E. McEllister.

For the World's Crisis.

THE BIBLE.

"For thou hast magnified thy word above all thy name."—Ps. 138: 7.
"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."—Ps. 119: 105.
"How sweet are thy words unto my taste! yea, sweeter than honey to my mouth. Through thy precepts I get understanding: therefore I hate every false way."—Ps. 119: 103, 104.

Thus we feel towards this blessed book. What the ark was to Noah this book is to us. And what the ark was to his generation this book is to this generation. Those who entered the ark were saved from the impending destruction; so those who accept the Bible as their guide will escape the impending destruction, by fire, to this generation.

Do you wonder that we love it? that we press it to our bosoms as the most precious earthly thing? How would Noah have felt just as the ark was completed had certain antediluvians stepped forward with axes and hammers to demolish it? As we suppose he would have felt, so do we feel toward every voice that is raised to weaken faith in God's revealed word. The Bible is our deed for an inheritance in the world to come. If the deed be destroyed, all is lost to us.

Every part of the Bible has its relative importance. What can a man know about a stream who has never seen nor heard anything about it except its mouth? or should he chance along its center, and know nothing of its origin or outflow, what would he know of the stream? or should he linger about its source only, what would he know of the stream? So what does a man know of the stream of Revelation who has never navigated it—who has not begun "in the beginning" and gone to its "Amen"?

"All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." 2 Tim. 3: 16, 17.

Here is the word of the Lord on the point, and who is he that dare contradict him? Who is he that dare select any one of the sixty-six books of the Bible and say, This is not "profitable"? Would this not be taking from the words of the book of this prophecy, and incur the penalty there threatened? Who dare cast aside any one of the seventeen writers of the Old Testament, or either of the eight writers of the New, and say he does not need what they say—that he is perfect, thoroughly furnished, without them? God forbid. Let God be true and listened to, for he knows best.

What, then, shall be said of the equipment of the man of God who casts aside two-thirds of his armor by rejecting the Old Testament entire? by treating it as absolete? Meager indeed is the outfit of such an one to enter upon "the good fight of faith, and lay hold on eternal life." How does he know that Jesus of Nazareth is the Messiah except he search the Scriptures of the Old Testament that testify of him? What does he know of Abraham, or of what it avails to become his seed by coming into Christ, if he search not the Scriptures as Jesus exhorted his hearers? What does he know of the "Israelites," of the "Covenants," of the "promises," without a careful study of the Old Testament? It is, indeed, the nomenclature of the New, and indispensable to its proper understanding. The Old Testament is the beginning of the story, and the New the sequel. They are indispensable to each other, and are joined together of God himself; therefore, let not man put them asunder.

Added to all this is the real native interest of the Old Testament. Its simplicity and natural way of saying everything, with its vein of Omnipotence so prominent; its noble characters without paint; its beautiful stories that never grow old, its vast variety of incidents, with its one great burden—Israel; then follows its crowning interest underlying the whole, the lineaments distinctly drawn of its coming Messiah—the "seed" of the woman, the "man of sorrows," the King in his beauty."

Thank God for the Old Testament and for the New. Together they are "the sword of the Spirit" so needful in this age of the serpent's guile. All his craft and cunning seem directed against "the word of God," which is "quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." Heb. 4: 12.

Let us not be ignorant of the use of this powerful agent, "for we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness [wicked spirits] in high places." Wherefore we need the whole armor of God that having overcome all we may stand. Heb. 6: 12.

Hence let it be the great business of our lives to become acquainted with our Bible; it is a library of itself. Let none feel poor and without books that have a Bible. Here are sixty-six books, and some twenty-five different writers each chosen in the wisdom of God, and guided what to say, and all bound together in one book, and presented to us as God's Book, and shall we remain ignorant of any part of it?

What if we should get a letter from a friend, and only read a part of it! What could show a greater indifference to that friend than such a course? The Bible is God's letter, and shall we remain ignorant of any part of it? God forbid.

And just here rushes in the New Year and welcome! welcome! saith our souls, and what a good time to begin to know our Bibles anew. "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift" in this blessed book, and may we use it as the God-given treasure which he has magnified above all his name.

A New Year's greeting to all the dear saints under every variety of circumstance. Remember that "the God of all consolation" knows it all, and "if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath," both in talent, and in things temporal, and in suffering. "Brethren, pray for us."

Yours, E. S. Willard.

Haddonfield, N. J., Jan. 1st, 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

HOLINESS, PERFECTION, AND SANCTIFICATION.

Many seem to think that these gifts and attainments are not to be possessed while in this mortal state; but, dear brethren and sisters, does not the inspired word teach far otherwise? And can we expect to be made partakers of the glories to be revealed unless we avail ourselves of these gospel provisions? If we expect that anything less than these gospel requirements will avail us, or secure to us its saving power, then the sooner we understand our true position and relation to these things, the better will it be for us.

I think none of us are ready to take the position that our heavenly Father requires of us anything impossible or unreasonable, or that which is not for our best good. Therefore let us examine some of the Bible proofs on these points. In the first chapter of Luke we read, "That we . . . . might serve him without fear, in holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our life." Luke 1: 74, 75. Says the apostle, "And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness."—Eph. 4: 24. This is plain language, and none of us can fail to understand it. Says the apostle to Timothy, "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind. . . . Who hath saved us, and called us with a holy calling." 2 Tim. 1: 7, 9. "For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, but unto holiness."—1 Thess. 4: 7.

It is evident from the language of the apostle that sin and holiness can not dwell in the same breast. "What then? shall we sin, because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid." "Know ye not that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness? Can we adopt this language? "But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life."—Rom. 6: 15, 16, 22. If we do not feel freed from sin, what are we to do? Ans. "Having therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God."—2 Cor. 7: 1. Thus this duty is made plain to us.

The apostle also exhorts us to increase and abound in love towards one another, etc., "to the end he may establish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his saints."—1 Thess. 3: 12, 13. It is also recorded that "whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth," and that for our profit, "that we might be partakers of his holiness." Heb. 12: 6, 10. "For if the first fruit be holy, the lump is also holy; and if the root be holy, so are the branches."—Rom. 11: 10.

What reasonable service is required of us? Let Paul answer: "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."—Rom. 12: 1. How does Peter exhort us on this point? "But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; because it is written, Be ye holy, for I am holy."—1 Pet. 1: 15, 16. We have examples in the past of holy men, and women also, of whom Peter says their adorning was not of plaiting the hair, or wearing of gold, etc., but the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit. "For after this manner in the old time the holy women also adorned themselves."—1 Pet. 3: 3–5. And of holy men he says, "For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."—2 Pet. 1: 21. "That ye may be mindful of the words which were spoken before by the holy prophets." Also in connection with the destruction of anti-typical Babylon, says the Revelator, "Rejoice over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets; for God hath avenged you on her."—Rev. 18: 20. Again, "Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection,"—20: 6; and, "He that is holy, let him be holy still."—22: 11.

Again, the apostle Paul exhorts us to "follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord."—Heb. 12: 14. He also says "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are." Is not any and every sin defiling? Now if we acknowledge we can not or do not live without committing sin, or sin daily, then do we not stand in our own condemnation? "He that sinneth is of the devil." "Let not sin, therefore, reign in your mortal bodies."

Again, some professors of religion say there is no one perfect, and we never can be perfect in this world. Now shall we take heed to this teaching, or to Jesus Christ who thus taught, "Be ye therfore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."—Matt. 5: 48. "If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor." Matt. 19: 21. And of his followers he also says, "I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one."—John 17: 23. Says St. Paul, "Howbeit we speak wisdom among them that are perfect."—1 Cor. 2: 6. "Finally, brethren, farewell. Be perfect, be of good comfort."—2 Cor. 13: 11. In pressing toward the mark for the prize, he says, "Let us, therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded"; and, "Brethren, be followers together of me."—Phil. 3: 14–17.

Paul also, in speaking of "the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles," which is Christ in you the hope of glory, says: "Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom; that we may present [some men? a few? or none at all? No, but] every man perfect in Christ Jesus, whereunto I also labor."—Col. 1: 27–29. He also speaks of "Epaphras, a servant of Christ, . . . laboring fervently for you in prayers, that ye may stand perfect and complete in all the will of God."—Col. 3: 12. We know what Paul says to Timothy, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, . . . that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." And to the Hebrews he says, "Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do his will."—Heb. 13: 20, 21.

In regard to "patience having her perfect work," says St. James, "That ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing."—James 1: 4. Also, "If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body."—3: 3. The apostle Peter also says, "But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you." 1 Pet. 5: 10. Says St. John, "God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. . . . . Herein is our love made perfect; . . . but perfect love casteth out fear."—1 John 4: 12–18. "The disciple is not above his Master; but every one that is perfect shall be as his Master."—Luke 6: 40. "But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected."—1 John 2: 5. Again, says the apostle Paul, "For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified."—Heb. 10: 14.

And of the sanctified, our Savior says—"Sanctify them through thy truth; thy word is truth. . . . And for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also may be sanctified through the truth."—John 17: 17–19. Yet how many are ready to say, this doctrine is fanaticism, which nobody can attain to in this imperfect state. But what did Paul say? "And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified."—Acts 20: 32. "Unto the church of God which is at Corinth, to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, and called to be saints: Grace be unto you," etc.—1 Cor. 1: 2.

Still further examples: "And such were some of you; but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified."—1 Cor. 6: 11. Again says Paul to Timothy, in regard to some things being to honor and some to dishonor, "If a man therefore purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honor, sanctified, and meet for the Master's use, and prepared unto every good work."—2 Tim. 2: 20, 21. Thus the sanctified, quickened and renewed by the Spirit of God, are effectually fitted to do the work of the Lord.

We know not from scriptural authority how sin and sanctification can dwell together. If we say we cannot live without committing sin daily, then condemnation (instead of sanctification) is our inheritance. Brethren, let us examine ourselves, and see if we do truly come up to the Bible standard of christianity. We had better give alms, with closet prayer and fasting, as stated by our Savior in Matt. 6: 3–18, if we would have the promised reward, rather than fail in this matter. "For both he that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one; for which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren."—Heb. 2: 11. "By the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all."—Heb. 10: 10. Again, Paul says to the Thessalonians, "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."—1 Thess. 5: 23. Is not this as necessary for us as for them? and especially as we believe that day is just at hand, ing that ye look for such things, be diligent, that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless."—2 Peter 3: 14. "And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure."—1 John 3: 2, 3.

Brethren, each of us have our own work to do in regard to these practical truths, as they apply to us individually. Says Jude, "The servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to them that are sanctified by God the Father, and preserved in Jesus Christ, and called: mercy unto you, and peace, and love, be multiplied." We are exhorted to "earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the saints"; "building up ourselves on our most holy faith"; and "to keep ourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life." "Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy; to the only wise God our Savior, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen."—Jude. Beloved, do we possess all these christian graces? If so, then this benediction will apply to us also; but if we do not, then it is time to awake to truth and duty in this matter, and apply ourselves at once without further delay to our high calling. The Judge is waiting at the door. That day is just at hand.

Marion, N. Y. S. L. Manley.

For the World's Crisis.

HOW SOON?

The weary, lonely pilgrim,
Treading life's thorny way,
Asks oft amid his wandering—
How soon will come the day,

The bright celestial morning,
When Christ shall claim his own,
Descending in his glory
From heaven's beaming throne;

To reign in glory ever,
King over all supreme,
His kingdom never ending,
His glory ever seen?

Then shall the christian, resting,
Be free from sorrow there;
Free from all sin and suffering,
And in Christ's kingdom share.

All now may seek an entrance
Into that home so bright;
The Day-Star beaming from on high,
Sheds forth a radiant light.

A. Whitford.

For the World's Crisis.

A FEW QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Bro. Grant:—As we have become an inquiring people, it is not strange that we should differ in some things, as some see quicker than others, some see further, and some are to do one kind of work and others do a different work. Some are good to settle disputed questions. But there is one question yet to be settled, i. e., the nature of the Adamic penalty, about which so many differ. I will ask and answer a few questions, as they present themselves to me. If any one can give more light on them it will be gladly received.

I. If man died a temporal death for his own sins, why do children and christians die?

II. What did the broken law claim of Christ to satisfy the demand against Adam?

Answer. It does not claim eternal death; if so, Christ is dead yet, and the Scriptures are broken.

2. It does not claim eternal torment; if so, Christ is suffering it now, and is not at the right hand of God.

3. It does not claim a spiritual or moral death; if so, Christ could not pay the debt.

III. What law did Adam break?

It cannot be the law of the ten commandments, or decalogue, for it was not given subsequent to the deluge to Moses; hence not in heaven. See Rev. 11: 19. If it was not the law of the ten commandments Adam violated, it was not that law whose claim Christ paid, but the one God gave Adam in the garden. Gen. 3: 2, 3. Hence a right to bring to life all the human family from the dominion of the devil or grave, and become the Savior of all men from the penalty of the Adamic death or sleep, and give eternal life or a special salvation to those who have sought for it by patiently serving him.

Some demand more than the law claims, and others less; while another class repudiate the claim of the law altogether. Yours after a settlement of these questions, if they can be reconciled so all can see.

Hiram Munger.

For the World's Crisis.

CHURCH DISCIPLINE.

The article headed "Achan" in last week's Crisis seemed so pertinently truthful, as to give rise to some serious reflections relative to the religious duty of exercising church discipline, especially when I came to the question whether the modern "Achans" should remain in the camp. The answer was "No." If they will not repent, and change their course, and cleanse themselves, drive them from the camp, but leave the stoning until the day of judgment.

It is quite apparent that no stoning is to be performed under the gospel, but God both commands and threatens the gospel church relative to this point, and gives the example of commendation where church discipline has been rigorously exercised on those who professedly held a high office in the church.

In the catalogue of good works awarded the church at Ephesus, the following stands out in bold relief: "Thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and hast found them liars." And then the church in Thyatira were commended for their faith, works, and patience; nevertheless God threatens them because they allowed one to remain among them who seduced God's servants, committed fornication, etc.

Inspiration has warned the church relative to these things, forbidding even social intercourse with those who profess to be of the faith, but who in fact are fornicators, covetous, idolaters, revilers, drunkards, or extortioners. If any one is called a brother, and possesses any of these characteristics, keep no company with him. No matter if their name be on the church-book, and they have an honorary title affixed thereto; if they are ever so learned, understanding all mysteries, or possess all the wealth of India, whether it be a king on the throne, or a beggar on the dung-hill;—let all see that it is moral worth you appreciate instead of sectarianism, intellect, honor, or gold. 1 Cor. 5: 11.

But does Inspiration teach us to avoid wicked people altogether, that is, those who make no profession? Nay, verily. It would not only have us humble ourselves to eat with publicans and sinners, but it would have us appreciate and kindly reciprocate every act of kindness and beneficence they may extend towards us; and more also. It would have us put ourselves quite forward in this matter to seek by every act of kindness to win them to Christ. It would have us extend our hand to the burning flame, if perchance we may snatch some burning brand ere they wholly consume.

But is it right to allow the names of those who are guilty of fornication, covetousness, idolatry, drunkenness, etc., to remain among the saints? I think not, from the command in 1 Cor. 5: 13, which reads thus: "Therefore put away from among yourselves that wicked person." And in numerous places the gospel enjoins it upon us to withdraw ourselves from all those who walk disorderly, that they may be ashamed, and perhaps so feel their guilt as to repent and be saved. 2 Thess. 3: 6, 14; 1 Tim. 6: 5; 1 John 4: 1.

But then, there exists that ever memorable warning of the Master to the servants against pulling up tares, with this cogent reason, "Lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them." Now while God's word is clear relative to exercising faithful Bible discipline, that much care and prayerfulness should be exercised in the matter is quite apparent.

When a great tare makes its appearance, one growing a long time, and been allowed influence, riches, position, or education, to enrich its soil, and having roots extending under numerous spears of young and tender wheat; it would appear hazardous to molest it. The only safe way is to pray the great Husbandman himself to manage the affair; and if by his providences he shows it to be the more prudent not to molest it, why, then let it alone until it be his pleasure to separate it from the wheat; meantime keep the case before Him in solemn prayer.

But when certain marked providences indicate this tare uplifting on one side, and then on the other, we may rest assured what the Master undertakes he never leaves done at the halves. The time of its accomplishment may seem long to those who are waiting; as Bro. —— used to say, "God's mill grinds slow, but it grinds to powder." But it will be performed in a different manner from what mortals expected, and so adroitly as to cause them to marvel.

But what if this tare appear in such a manner before you as to cause painful solicitude and misgivings relative to the prosperity of those tender blades of wheat? Cast this burden right on Him who is abundantly able to carry it, every time the adversary casts it upon you. "It is good to both hope and quietly wait for the salvation of God." Trust him, TRUST HIM, TRUST HIM always, for—

"He doeth all things well."

B. Mathewson.

For the World's Crisis.

LOVE AND FEAR.

"There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear."—1 John 4: 18.

John, "that disciple whom Jesus loved," was one of the most fervent lovers of Jesus, and in the record he gave of the "gospel of Christ," as well as in his epistles, he strove to show the importance of love. And where Christ spoke to his disciples concerning love, John was very faithful to record it. See John 14, and 15.

And Jesus said, "He that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him." John 14: 21. John loved Jesus much, and Jesus in return loved John much. Therefore when John wrote that there was no fear in love, he wrote from experience. He feared not to confess before the persecuting Jews that he was a disciple of Jesus. And when they sent Jesus to Caiaphas, the high priest, "that other disciple" (which was the manner in which John spoke of himself), went right up with him; while Peter, who had a warlike spirit (which is not like Christ's love), and "smote the servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear," follows "afar off"; and after John had brought him into the palace, he (Peter) denied that he was Jesus' disciple.

Wherever there is the most love for God, there is the most confidence in him. Elijah loved God, and had confidence to obey his word; and after the three years had passed in which there was no rain, Elijah obeyed the word of the Lord, and went down to Ahab, who had searched in every "nation and kingdom" for him, because he thought that Elijah had "troubled Israel." And he did not fear to stand before the "four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal." 1 Kings 18.

Daniel loved the Lord, and in defiance of the king's decree went into his house, and, his windows being open in his chamber toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he had done aforetime. Dan. 6: 10.

The three worthies had confidence in God, and were not afraid of the king, and refused to bow down to his image, and the Lord was faithful to deliver them.

Dear brethren and sisters, time is short; our beloved Lord is coming soon to take the faithful home. Take courage and march forward. And you, poor, trembling ones, that feel it is a great cross to speak for Jesus, and let your light shine before the world, I entreat of you to get nearer to Christ. Study his word, and think of what he has suffered for you, that you may love him more. Do not cease striving to love him more until you have confidence to declare him before all his adversaries, and grace to keep all his words; for if we fail to confess him before the world, he will not confess us before his Father. If we love the Lord with all our heart, soul, mind, and strength, we shall not fear to stand before him in judgment. May the Lord help us all to continue in his love until he comes.

Prospect, Me. J. Ridley.

For the World's Crisis.

THINGS THAT MUST NOT BE.

Dear brethren and sisters in Christ, and all who may read these lines: Let me say to you, we cannot serve two masters; we cannot serve God and mammon. If we try to serve two masters, we shall most surely miss of salvation. We must not fail to love our enemies, and pray for them that hate us; for "God is love," and "we love him because he first loved us." We must not stand still in the way to heaven. We must not, we cannot, occupy mutual ground. We are going forward or backward every moment of our lives. We must not cease to pray; and we must watch and labor as well as pray. Let us not fail to have an eye single to the glory of God in all that we do. Let our hearts be strictly honest, and our motives pure; then our efforts for good will not be in vain.

Let us not fail to secure the favor of God, as it is impossible for us to be happy without it. "Be not deceived, for God is not mocked." We must not fail to bear our cross here, if we would wear a crown hereafter. If we are anxious to see the desires of our hearts, we must not cease to pray and work, work and pray, with our trust in the Lord alone. We must be holy, or never see the Lord in peace. Merely praying for it will not secure the blessing; we must labor for it in the name and strength of the Lord.

We must not fail to get our hearts cleansed from all unrighteousness, and then the Lord will fill us with the Holy Ghost; "for without the spirit of Christ we are none of his." Wicked men and seducers are waxing worse and worse, and the powers of darkness are let loose, to destroy, if possible, the very elect; but we are safe in our Father's hands so long as we continue faithful to him. O! let us never be weary in well doing, "for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

Much has been said, and much is being said, about obtaining a crown. And the question arises—

"Must I be carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease,
While others fought to win the prize,
And sailed through bloody seas?
Sure we must fight, if we would reign;
Increase our courage, Lord."

But, while we are running the race to obtain the crown of righteousness, we must not indulge in vanity, vice, and folly. Neither should we seek for worldly honor, and not the honor that cometh from God only. Nor should we seek for worldly gain; but let us earnestly seek for durable riches and righteousness, that will never fade away.

Now, my dear friends, if we mean to dwell with the pure and the blessed, we must "cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit; perfecting holiness in the fear of the Lord." In order for this, we must abstain from the filthy use of tobacco in chewing or smoking, and from taking snuff also. Oh! how sinful, filthy and mean these things make people appear. Neither should we indulge in the intoxicating cup, nor in drinking strong tea and coffee; for they tend to weaken the nerves, and thus hinder our usefulness in God's cause. God is not well pleased with any such work.

If we mean to "live as strangers and pilgrims on the earth," we must not imitate the world in personal adornments, in wearing gold, or costly array; we must not engage in idle conversation, or "foolish talking"; we must not cheat our neighbor, or tell lies, swear, or take God's name in vain. Let us "break off our sins by righteousness, and our iniquities by turning to the Lord." May God help us to be faithful to the end.

P. Tandy.

WORK AND WAGES.

This is a working world. Idleness is not the normal condition of human life. Men not engaged in doing good are doing evil. Those called idlers are only idlers in a good cause:

"And Satan finds some mischief still
For idle hands to do."

Hence, all are at work, and all as certainly get wages. The seeker of temporal bliss, the praise-seeking pharisee, praying to be seen of men, and the giver of a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple, all have their reward.

And work is the measure and maker of wages. A pearl will sell for as much more than a potato, as it costs of labor to obtain it. Gold is not as useful a metal as iron, for iron can be put to ten uses where gold can to one; but gold is valued ten thousand more than iron, and chiefly because it requires ten thousand times as much work to get it from the mines. Hence, work regulates its own wages, and secures to toil, in due time, its just compensation. The trampling, unmuzzled ox, gets his share of the corn. "He that reapeth, receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto eternal life, that both he that soweth and he that reapeth, may rejoice together." Let the desponding and discouraged think of this, and "take heart again." "The laborer is worthy of his hire." He may not always get it in this world. But all the losses and deficiencies of this life will be so grandly made up in the life to come, that he who is poor for Jesus' sake, may rejoice that he has treasures in heaven.

Wages for work are sometimes long coming, but are none the less sure. The navigator boldly sails forth, with an almost unearthly hope of discovering some trackless shore, where the bloom of spring lasts all the summer, and summer all the year. Let him sail on—his reward is sure. The inventor, with subtle skill, may construct and arrange wheels and levers, pinions and pulleys, and by an adroit adjustment, set in motion a machine, which will save time, labor and life—only let him persevere;—after the work come the wages. The gold-hunter blasts far into the mountain side, only let him dig far enough, and he will find where nature sits behind her crystal counter, and deals out to her rare visitors her yellow ingots. But let the worker for Christ set forth at the call of duty, and grander than discovery, and nobler than invention, and surer and richer than ingots of gold are the work and the wages which bless him. "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed," though he sicken, falter and fall in its sowing, yet in human hearts that tear-watered seed shall germinate, and the sower, at last shall "doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." Let him work now—his wages through Jesus' mercy will come by and bye, when tears and labors end.

The best work gets the best wages in compensation. For work so poorly done that it will only serve as an excuse, and stand in the way of better workers, will pay nothing. Low grades of work bring low wages. And good wages can only be obtained by good work.

The greatest personal work any one can do in this life is that of personal consecration to God. A work that involves the whole being now and forever, for time and eternity. Whoever he be that goes in for full salvation, must expect it to cost him everything,—must pay the uttermost farthing of property, earthly hopes, interests and ambitions, pride, self-love, good name, worldly pleasures, friends, social position—everything, and then, and not till then, is the offering made complete. This done, and God comes and accepts the offering, the old habitation is renovated and refitted, and made the sweet, glad home of the soul. The wages are an assurance of acceptance with God, and joy and peace now attend that soul through all its paths of storm and darkness. Fidelity and unswerving integrity, through years of life, bring that soul into such position that God can put confidence in it. I say, through years of consecration. For though we are well paid on the instant of giving all and doing all for Christ, yet larger dividends are paid to that man who holds on his way through every test and trial.

Then, dear fellow pilgrim, if you would have wages—work. Work long and unswervingly. Though the world despise and forsake you, work—they left your Savior, too. Strike strong and rapid blows for truth and God. Work within your own heart until all illuminated by the Holy Ghost, and then awaken the slumbering world around. God still wants watchmen upon his walls "who shall never hold their peace day nor night!" Then, sound the tocsin of alarm—cry from rampart and tower, "Behold the Sword cometh! Be faithful in thy work—thy wages are sure.—Ear. Chris.

DISTRACTIONS.

The distractions of the professing world perplex the unbelievers without, and many believers within. They are saying, What shall we believe? The great variety of distracting views held and advocated by the leaders of the christian church has led many very unwisely to cast the whole matter of religion aside. Of late this same difficulty has affected the students of the prophetic word. They begin to differ so widely among themselves on matters of unfulfilled prophesy that many stumble.

These things, however, instead of perplexing or discouraging us in the pursuit of truth, should make us more diligent in the study of the divine word. "Call no man master." Christ is the only master; follow him and you will have light and rest. Unless we give ourselves up to the divine word, and take our ideas of the coming kingdom and reign of Christ entirely from it, we shall not be secure against distractions and delusions; nor shall we be able to withstand the current of the popular theology, which overbears all independent thought by the cry, "Have any of the Scribes or Pharisees believed" it? Both of these dangers are to be resolutely avoided And we should understand that the distractions and perils into which we are now cast were predicted. They are to try us, and at the same time be harbingers of the coming day.

Let us, then, with the calmness of faith, And as Peter says, "Wherefore, beloved, seestudy the prophetic word, and with confidence wait its fulfillment; and so much the more as we see the day approaching. That the day approacheth, both the signs and the prophetic periods plainly declare. We are living near the last trump and third woe. We must be late in the fourth and last watch of the night. The stars are fading from view, and the Day-Star is just about to appear. The "man of sin" has had his day, and is soon to be destroyed by the brightness of Christ's coming. Infidelity has poisoned and affected the moral atmosphere with its pestilential breath, but it is soon to go into perdition. Then comes the glory of the kingdom. All rule of human hand shall be put down, and "Jehovah alone shall be exalted in that day." "The saints shall possess the kingdom under the whole heavens." The wilderness and the solitary place shall be made glad, and the creature shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption: the earth shall stand forth in a beautiful restitution, more glorious than when the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy.—Voice.

☞ The judges in the court of the Areopagus at Athens used to hear and decide causes by night, lest the sight of the parties might tempt them to decide unjustly.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Jan. 15, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE; at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ CASH RECEIPTS.

Our subscribers in Massachusetts and Maine will find their credit of money received for the Crisis on the strip pasted on their paper, which shows the date to which their subscription pays, instead of the No., as formerly acknowledged. Others will be sent likewise as fast as we get each State so arranged. So you can look at the date on your paper, and see if it is changed after sending us money.

MONTREAL.

Our meetings in Montreal continued to increase in interest till their close. We have never had before so candid a hearing in that city. The audience were intelligent, very attentive, and treated the subjects presented with much candor. The door for the reception of truth seemed to be more widely opened than ever before. One was converted, others commenced seeking for the way of life, and several members of other denominations became very much interested in the meetings and our views of the Scriptures. The church was very much refreshed, and felt more than ever decided to endure to the end. We did not have the pleasure of seeing Bro. Salmon, their pastor, as he was away in the States; but trust that, on his return, he will find new ones ready to stay up his hands, and help him in his noble work in that city. We believe the Lord has opened a door there which the enemies of the cross cannot close.

For the World's Crisis.

NOTES, QUERIES AND OBJECTIONS.

BY REV. A. A. PHELPS.

11. As the term "life" often has a secondary or "pregnant" meaning, so also has "death." It is used to denote the cessation of certain functions. This is physical death. It is also used to denote moral condition. Those who are alienated from God by wicked works, are scripturally denominated dead. Sin distorts the moral nature, and destroys the elements of holiness and happiness. Man was originally threatened with death, to be inflicted on the day of transgression. He sinned; and on that very day there was a terrible severance from the divine fellowship, and a fearful moral degeneracy. If this was not death, then how and when was the penalty inflicted? There are many Scripture proofs that men are considered dead, while they yet move among their fellows in a state of conscious existence. Of the prodigal son it was said: "This my son was dead and is alive again." Paul said: "We know that we have passed from death unto life." "She that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth." "You hath he quickened who were dead." "Awake thou that sleepest and arise from the dead." Jesus said: "Let the dead bury their dead." "He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, . . . is passed from death unto life." Of the church in Sardis it was said: "Thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead."

Since "death" is used with so wide a latitude of meaning, how is it that you always exclude the idea of consciousness from the second death, which represents the sinner's condition in the world to come?

REPLY BY THE EDITOR.

The only death the sinner can die in this world, aside from literal death of the whole man, is to die to righteousness, or be dead to holiness. He is even then literally dead in relation to that, and literally alive in sinful pleasures. This is not his punishment, but his crime. When we make moral death the punishment for sin, we make the crime and penalty both one. And again, if moral or spiritual death was the penalty pronounced on Adam, then did Jesus suffer the penalty of the law, and die a spiritual death, or become a sinner. No one, who believes the Bible, would take such a position; but we see no way to avoid such a conclusion, provided Adam's punishment was moral death.

In answer to the inquiry, "How and when was the penalty inflicted?" we would answer, by the literal death of Adam at the age of nine hundred and thirty years. The record of his death says, "All the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died." His penalty for his sins is expressed as follows:—"In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return."—Gen. 3: 19. Who is represented by the pronoun "thou"? The one who sinned—"the real man." That one died notwithstanding Satan said he should not. But the death was literal and not spiritual. It caused the man to go back to dust again. As stated in Gen. 3: 22-24, he was sent "from the garden of Eden to till the ground from whence he was taken." This was done "lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live forever." Admitting that literal death was his penalty for sin, we do not see how it could be more plainly expressed. With this view all is plain.

Some say it must have been a moral death, because Adam did not die literally the day he sinned. This objection is easily met. The margin reads, "dying thou shalt die." That is, it was decided he should die, after he partook of the forbidden fruit. As Dr. Clarke says: "From that moment thou shalt become mortal, and continue in a dying state till thou die. This we find literally accomplished." If the penalty was a moral death, why drive him from "the tree of life," lest he "eat and live forever"? The Greek of Symmachus renders the phrase "thou shalt surely die," "thou shalt be mortal." Likewise the Syriac, which is approved by Jerome, Grotius, Chrysostom, Theodoret, Ambrose, the venerable Bede, Drusius, Diodati, Knapp, Cahen, Ainsworth, Patrick, D'Oyly, Mant, Henry, and Dr. Payne.—See Christ our Life, p. 43. The Arabic renders it, "Thou shalt deserve to die." The Targum of Jonathan, "Thou shalt be subject to death." Vatabulus says, "Thou shalt be subject to death, both of body and soul."

The phrase "thou shalt surely die," occurs in twenty other passages, all of which refer to a literal death. Why shall we say that this first use of the phrase, when language was used in its most simple form, is not literal? Does it look reasonable that the Lord should give to our first parents a command with its penalty in any other than literal language? Certainly not.

We will now give the twenty other passages where we find the phrase, "Thou shalt surely die." "Now therefore restore the man his wife; for he is a prophet, and he shall pray for thee, and thou shalt live; and if thou restore her not, know thou that thou shalt surely die, thou, and all that are thine."—Gen. 7: 20. "As the Lord liveth, who saveth Israel, though it be in Jonathan my son, he shall surely die." "Thou shalt surely die, Jonathan."—1 Sam. 14: 39, 44. "As long as the son of Jesse liveth upon the ground, thou shalt not be established, nor thy kingdom. Wherefore now send and fetch him unto me, for he shall surely die."—1 Sam. 20: 31. "Thou shalt surely die; thy blood shall be upon thine own head."—1 Kings 2: 37. "Thou shalt surely die, Abimeleck, thou and all thy father's house."—1 Sam. 22: 16. "Know for a certain, on the day thou goest out, and walkest abroad any whither, that thou shalt surely die."—1 Kings 2: 42. "When I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die."—Ezk. 3: 18. "He shall surely die, his blood shall be upon him."—Ezk. 18: 13. "O wicked man thou shalt surely die."—Ezk. 33: 8. "Again when I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die."—Ezk. 33: 14. This can not mean a moral death, for the wicked are already morally dead. The death they are surely to die, is the death which is "the wages of sin," "which is the second death." "They shall surely die in the wilderness."—Num. 26: 25. "And Manoah said unto his wife, We shall surely die."—Judges 13: 22. "He said to Nathan, As the Lord liveth, the man that hath done this thing shall surely die."—2 Sam. 12: 5. "The child also that is born unto thee shall surely die."—2 Sam. 12: 14. "Shall I recover of this disease? . . The Lord hath showed me that he shall surely die."—2 Kings 8: 8, 10. "Thou shalt not come down from that bed, . . but shalt surely die. . . Thou shalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but shalt surely die."—2 Kin. 1: 4, 6. "Thou shalt not come down off that bed on which thou art gone up, but shalt surely die."—2 Kings 1: 16. "When Jeremiah had made an end of speaking all that the Lord had commanded him, . . . that . . . all the people took him, saying, "Thou shalt surely die."—Jer. 26: 8.

The preposition in is translated from the Hebrew word be, which is translated in thirteen ways, three of which could be used in Gen. 2: 17, which are in, against and after. The word against would not make very good sense; hence the choice is between in and after. As King James' translators understood the death to be spiritual, consisting of Adam's sin, they chose the word in, thus affirming that he died that day. Had they rendered it after, as in other places, it would have harmonized with all the facts and the whole Bible. In numbers 28: 26, the same Hebrew word be is rendered both in and after: "Also in the day of the first fruits, when ye bring a new meat-offering unto the Lord, after your weeks be out, ye shall have a holy convocation."

It is certain the Lord did not intend that Adam should die in the day he sinned, because he said to him;—"In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground."—Gen. 3: 19. Had he died the day he sinned, it would have ended the human race, for at that time Adam had not received his first born son. Let the penalty for Adam's sin be the literal death which he died at the age of nine hundred thirty years, and all is plain and harmonious; whereas, if we assume that his punishment was spiritual death, all is confusion, and mystical.

When it is said of the prodigal son, "This my son was dead, and is alive again," the father is only saying what he supposed was the case in relation to his death. But when the son came home, then he could say, the one he thought was dead is alive. He had reference to literal, and not moral death.

When Paul speaks of passing from death unto life, we understand him to mean that he has changed his course of life, which led to death, as the wages of sin, to one which leads to eternal life. He has passed out of the broad road into the narrow way of life. In that condition he is a prospective heir to eternal life. Like a minor, who has an estate in the care of his guardian, he can say it is mine; yet he cannot receive it till he is of age.

Death, when used in a literal sense, always signifies a state of total unconsciousness. Says the Scripture, "There is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest."—Eccl. 9: 10. The word here rendered grave (sheol) denotes the state of those literally dead. This is the first death, the death that Adam died. As has been shown, this death was literal. The second death" must be just as literal; therefore, when the sinner shall die "the second death," he will again be where "there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom." When in such a condition, they must be wholly unconscious. The last mention of punishment found in the Scriptures occurs in Rev. 21: 8, as follows: "The fearful and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murders, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone; which is the second death. Can the wicked live in a lake of "fire and brimstone?" Does the Bible say they will live there? It says the fire "shall burn them up, . . . that it shall leave them neither root nor branch." Mal. 4: 1. Why not believe this statement, and let sin and sinners "be no more"?

LIKE SODOM.

The days of Sodom are at hand. Wickedness is abounding to an alarming extent; especially the sin of licentiousness. Like a rising tide it seems to be sweeping all before it. It is truly alarming to see what Satan is doing in this direction at the present time. The following is from the Chicago Republican:—

"There is an outcry in some of the Eastern papers against the innovations of the social evil upon steamboat routes. It is notorious to all who have had occasion to travel on the river and sound steamers that harlots have occupied the best state-rooms, and plied their vocation of bewitching and tempting male travelers with brazen audacity. The saloons of these 'floating palaces' have become floating brothels. Vice has invaded, and is fast assuming the control of these highways of travel, with the aid of the golden purse its victims fill. It is quite time there should be a protest made. The most emphatic and effective protest is to avoid such routes as apparently encourage this vile traffic."

We may well inquire to what are we coming? There is already a deluge of vice; and but few are free from contaminations. Virtue is waylaid on every side by the wiles of Satan. It is a sad hour for children. Parents' hearts are often wrung with anguish at the corruptions of their dear ones. A promising daughter or son, in whom is centered their fondest earthly affections and hopes, is led captive by the seducer's charms, and ruined for this life and the next. Vice now moves in the highest circles, dresses in richest apparel, and holds the honors and wealth of the world. For this reason it is courted and tolerated.

Now is the time for those who are truly righteous to manifest their lion-boldness, and stand up in the strength of Jesus against sin in all its hideous forms. It will not do to make the least compromise. It is the hour of peril, when the truly brave will find an earnest foe in the field ready for a terrible conflict. Let us strike for victory in the name of our great conquering King. If we have to go alone to warn a whole city of 120,000 inhabitants, as did Jonah, or like Lot in Sodom, let us not shrink from the cross. He who made the heavens and earth does not conquer by numbers but by holy ones. One real living christian will do more to stay the floods of wickedness than hundreds of lukewarm professors. The latter are to christianity what moderate drinkers are to the temperance cause,—one of the greatest obstacles against success. To all, we would say, Beware of any compromise with evil. Be immovably fixed for the right.

☞ Wanted at this office, the Crisis, No. 14, Dec. 18th, 1867. Also, No. 16, Jan. 1st, 1868. Thankful for past favors.

A VALUABLE WORK.

We have just received and examined a valuable work, issued by Dr. E. P. Miller, 15 Laight Street, New York City, which should be read by every body. It is entitled "ABUSES OF THE SEXUAL FUNCTIONS." We most heartily recommend it to our readers as a work containing important information for all classes. Every young man and woman, and every married man and woman, should read it. A vast amount of suffering, as well as physical, mental, social and moral ruin, would be prevented if all were acquainted with the facts contained in the work, and would follow its excellent advice. We think every one who gets the book would not be without it for ten times its cost; and many had better give a thousand dollars for it, rather than be without a knowledge of its valuable contents.

For sale at the Crisis office. Price, paper 75 cts.; muslin $1.00; tinted $1 25; which we will send, postage free, on receipt of the price.

For the World's Crisis.

THE YOUNG PILGRIM FOR JAN. 15.

The number for Jan. 15th contains a variety of good reading both for the youth and the little ones, and some for their elders:—

A beautiful piece of poetry on "The Better Land"; an interesting article on "The Resurrection"; a capital story about "Bennie Wilson's Anti-Society," or Band of Hope, and the good it did; a piece about "The Snow," and the sports for boys and girls that come with it; an answer to a question about "The Hyssop" of Scripture, and its uses; a story of "True Courage," or the boy who had moral courage to do right; how to promote the cause of "Temperance among the Children"; the importance of "Selecting Good Books" for our S. S. Libraries; "Going to the Foundation," a word to teachers; letters from George and Florence; Arctic Comforts; questions on "The Rivers of the Bible," and "Enigmas."

The Band of Hope column contains a sketch of "The Boy that Smoked," showing the evil consequences of Tobacco-smoking; "When the Devil Sows," and "How to Resist the Devil." The column For our Wee Ones contains four little stories—"I'll keep my eyes shut," or how to resist Temptation; "Don't give up," or the little boy who said "I can, and I will"; "Good Manners," and "I'm God's Child."

Now is the time to subscribe for your children, to form clubs in your Sunday Schools and neighborhoods, and make an effort to enlarge the circulation of The Young Pilgrim for 1868. Single copy, 50 cents; to clubs of ten, 40 cents; to clubs of fifty, 35 cents.

☞ Persons in neighboring towns may combine in clubs, at the above prices, and have the papers sent to different post-offices, if desired. Address Young Pilgrim, Boston, Mass.

W. B. H.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office.

TRACTS IN PACKAGES.

On doctrinal and practical subjects; also Leaflets for Letters, and Children's Tracts; all put up in neat, printed wrappers, and selling for 25c., 50c., and $1.00, postpaid. Also $1.00 packages of Pamphlets, containing our best. Who wants one, five, or fifty packages of tracts and pamphlets, to scatter among their friends? Packages sent directly to any Post Office desired.

THE PLAN OF REDEMPTION.

Brn. I. C. Wellcome and C. Goud have just issued an interesting work on the Atonement and Plan of Redemption. It contains 328 octavo pp. With it is bound Bro. Wellcome's valuable work on Baptism, of 82 pp. Price of book, $1.25, postage 16 cents. For sale at this office.

THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK.

A new edition of this work has just been issued by the A. C. P. Society. Price reduced as follows: $1.25 per dozen, or $1.50 by mail. Single copy 15 cents by mail.

Two Hundred Stories for Children.

BY T. M. PREBLE.

(A new edition. 234 pp.)

This valuable book for children needs no other recommendation at this time, than to say that the present edition is the nineteenth thousand since its first publication. Many will be glad to know that this favorite book is again in print. The Voice of the West says of it:—"One of the best story books for children ever published. Never fails to interest." To be had at this office. Price 88c., postpaid.

Stories for Young Pilgrims.—Vol. II.

Another neat little volume of 200 pages, with 12 illustrations, has been issued by the Advent Christian Publication Society, and is for sale at this office for 80 cents postpaid. A good book for your Sunday School library. Send for one.

For the World's Crisis.

BOOK NOTICES.

"Give attendance to reading."

"A GOLDEN TREASURY."

By C. H. V. Bogatsky, A. D. 1746.

The above is the title of a very valuable book, "consisting of devotional and practical observations on select passages of Scripture, for every day in the year."

Although there are ideas and remarks found in the book we dissent from, yet in the main it is a work of rare merit, full of the best thoughts and words from one of deeper christian experience, more scriptural knowledge, and correct doctrine than we find in most religious writers of the present generation. It was written when the Bible faith was less corrupted than now. Every christian family would be well repaid in the daily reading of it in connection with family devotions. We have circulated hundreds of them. Price 50 cents. Published by the American Tract society.

"THE GREAT CONTROVERSY BETWEEN GOD AND MAN; WITH OTHER TRACTS."

By H. L. Hastings.

In this time of national troubles, and almost universal anarchy, the minds of most religious persons become greatly tried, perplexed and confused, often tending to scepticism about the truth of the Bible. This is because they have been taught a false system of theology concerning the nature and end of nations. I know of no book so well calculated to lead such minds into the Bible view of this matter, and to awaken investigation on the destiny of nations as the above work. It will do to lend to all your neighbors, and most of them will read it in these times. Paper 50c., cloth $1.00.

"SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED." By Miles Grant.

This little book ought to be circulated by hundreds of thousands, to open the eyes of those who "don't see much good or evil in Spiritualism any way." It is a bomb that does great execution when thrown into their camp. It costs only 15 cts. Help it to a wide circulation.

TREATISE ON MATT. 24TH AND 25TH.

By I. C. Wellcome.

This work shows by infallible proofs that Christ's predictions concerning the Gentile times, the persecutions of the church, the signs of his coming, etc., are fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is now "nigh at hand." Although many thousands have read it and been enlightened by it, yet others ought to have it. The fourth edition is nearly exhausted. 180 Pages, 25 cts.

"FUTURE PUNISHMENT, AS TAUGHT IN THE SCRIPTURES." By H. L. Hastings.

This subject is now really before the people for investigation and discussion. Twenty years ago we feared it would be choked off by the self-styled orthodox teachers, but we are glad to have been mistaken; everybody in christendom hears it; many works are coming out on all sides of it; some deep, lengthy and learned, some candid, and some rabid. We think the above work one of the most clear, candid, and readable for for all classes, especially the common reader, of any we have seen. Cloth $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cts.

I. C. WELLCOME.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, on Wilbraham Camp-ground, Friday, August 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments	$282.29
O. Kimball	.50
J. R. Hopkins	.25
M. L. Calder	.50
G. W. Sleeper	.25
S. R. Blanchard	.25
T. E. Wilson	.50
A. Warner	.25
M. M. Pitkin	.50
H. Beadle	.25

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	86.85
O. Kimball	.50
J. R. Hopkins	.25
M. L. Calder	.25
O. A. Wilbur	.25
S. R. Blanchard	.25
Della Perry	.25
M. C. Spear	.25
R. A. Haines	.25
A Friend	.25

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$3610.79
Hannah T. Miller	2.50
M. Sunderland	5.00
Tooker and McAndrews	10.00
Eliza Davis	2.50
Louisa Murphy ($3 Canada Note) sold for	2.75

From the Christian Church of Castleton, Vt., for the poor of the Memphis Mission, $22.00. From the "Try Company" of the classes of Alice and Gertrude Sherman, of Castleton, Vt., for the Memphis Mission, $2.00.

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments	$111.37
Tooker and McAndrews	5.00

For the World's Crisis.

LETTER FROM ST. LOUIS, MO.

BRO. GRANT:—In the providence of God it is my opportunity as well as pleasure to address you once more. We are still striving to walk right in the light in which it was your opportunity to direct our wayward steps. And we trust that we are making some progress in that direction. I have long thought that, should God vouchsafe another year to the calendar of time, I would write you concerning his providential dealings with or towards this mission and its work.

Bro. Flagg is, under God, doing a great work here. He is both breaking up fallow ground, and paving the way to still greater good and usefulness. God has blessed him, both personally and in his labors, far beyond any thing of the kind that has ever fallen under my observation; concerning which a few items may not be uninteresting to your readers and his friends; notwithstanding allusion may have recently been made to some of the points, yet I may be indulged a few words on this subject.

Our mission church, as you are already advised, was on or about the last of August removed to our present commodious and convenient hall, corner of 5th and Biddle Sts., No. 1136, which is designated "Advent Christian Hall." From that time every interest connected with the mission began to improve greatly.

To give you some idea of his labors, I may remark that at this time we were having our usual morning service at eleven, and from one to two P. M. Bro. Flagg conducted a congregational and juvenile singing school; the juvenile department, his class, has often received the compliment of surpassing all others in the city, black or white. After singing, commenced the Sabbath School, which is rapidly increasing in numbers and interest; attendance ranging from one hundred to a hundred and twenty-five. Bro. F. is superintendent. At three o'clock public service, after which during the fall was administered the ordinance of baptism oftener than every other Sabbath, which was preceded by a short discourse at the river side, to large and for the most part attentive audiences, resulting as we have already seen in great good. The exercises for the day were invariably closed by preaching at half-past seven P. M. Tuesday evenings he devotes to Biblical instruction relating to prophetic and doctrinal subjects. Aside from this, during the week are two class meetings and one prayer meeting.

In addition to all this, the entire financial responsibility of the Mission was and is resting upon him. In October last, while engaged in arduous labors as above stated, he was taken suddenly and violently ill, by reason of what first seemed to be an ulcerating tooth, which shortly proved to be an attack of erysipelas. The inflammation and swelling extended over the entire left side of his face, seriously affecting his throat, extending up into his head and down into his body. He was completely prostrated from the first. In fact, with many years' experience in the practice of medicine, I have never met with a case of the kind more distressing or threatening in its aspect, and at the same time have never met with a case of the kind in which remedial agents or appliances seemed to be of so little avail. He was able to see but few of his friends; could articulate only in a whisper; deglutition was also attended with great difficulty.

Such was his condition when I saw him just before noon on Saturday; in view of which I had that day stated to our friends that I thought his illness would be protracted, possibly fatal. Hence how was I surprised, on my return home (between three and four that afternoon), when my wife asked me if I had seen Bro. Flagg, remarking that he had been over to see me, and that he had just been healed in answer to prayer. I returned his call immediately, and found that he was indeed well. He could and did sing, shout and praise God with as much freedom as ever in his life. He told me that afternoon he was impressed that it was the Lord's will that he should be healed, that he might attend to the duties of the morrow; hence he straightway arose from the bed upon which he had been confined, for nearly one week, casting aside remedies and remedial appliances, and by the time he got upon the floor he was a well man.

From that moment to the present he has not had the least symptom of erysipelas, in consequence of which he had been almost a constant sufferer for fifteen years. He was able to walk about the city considerable that evening, attending to business that he had been compelled to neglect through the week, without inconvenience or fatigue; and the next Sabbath he attended to his usual round of duties with more than ordinary liberty. This, however, is not all; for about this time the financial matters of the Mission threatened to become embarrassing. Hence he submitted the entire matter to the hand of Him who has promised not only to provide, but to be with him even unto the end. The result on this point was this: after he arose, while he was yet bathing, the postman delivered him a letter containing a money order from Bro. —— for twenty dollars, which entirely covered or relieved every pressing necessity.

One other incident I will give on this subject, showing the providence of God over his work here, also Bro. F.'s abiding confidence in him. New Year's eve had come; the brethren and sisters were convening at our hall to hold a watch meeting. Even then Bro. F. said to Mrs. B., "To-morrow morning our rents fall due ($60), and I have not one cent towards it." He added, "The Lord will provide." That evening, before the services commenced, he was in receipt of fifty dollars from the East. He received also a small remittance from parts unknown.

Thus far God has wonderfully manifested his watch-care over his servant and his work, which has been of late and is being prospered in a correspondingly wonderful manner; but of this I cannot write in full at this time, as I have already exceeded my proposed limits.

Jan. 3d, 1868. HIRAM BEADLE.

Correspondence.

From Sr. A. E. Smith.

BRO. GRANT:—Sr. Boide and myself have just returned from holding our quarterly conference at Hackensack. We had a blessed time. Srs. Williams and Murray have been holding a protracted meeting, and some have been converted; more are seeking the Lord. The church is prospering spiritually, but as to temporal matters they are poor and have not much of this world's goods; but they do what they can. Our new church is all fenced in, and it is a pretty place indeed. We are trying to get it paid for as fast as we can. The day school is doing well. What an improvement there is among the children and youth since Sister Williams has been among them! The children sing like angels. Next week they have their Anniversary. Are there any of the readers of the Crisis rich enough to give that school forty copies of the "Young Pilgrim," and fifty copies of the "Christian"? If so, will they write to me at the commencement of the new volume? I have distributed back numbers that have come in barrels and boxes, and they are becoming very much interested in reading them; and whoever can supply their needs will not lose their reward.

About the "Star of Hope Mission," the Lord is with us; our house is full, and the power of God is so displayed that they come forward without any invitation and fall on their knees and cry for mercy. I thought the Thomas street revival was the greatest I ever saw, but in some respects this exceeds that. We closed our protracted meeting, but the revival goes on. Three nights in the week the house is full. Surely this is the last work, and the Lord is doing it up fast.

Now about temporal things. Truly the readers of the Crisis are the greatest people I ever saw; their hearts are like their faith,—very large. Just tell them what you want, and that is all that is requisite. From every direction where the Crisis is sent come letters from the widows and orphans, with from three cent stamps to twenty-five dollars enclosed; all hearts beating in unison to help in this last work of preparing a people to meet the King in his beauty. O what a work is before us. But it is short. What a week of blessings this has been; barrel after barrel, and letter after letter, full of kindness, have made sunshine in our Mission. May God bless those who have sent us. For my own part, I have nothing to say. I did think God would sustain us in our work, but he is doing more than I expected. We are helping hundreds, and yet there is no lack. It seems the more we give out the more comes in; coats, pants, hats, shoes, dresses, shawls, sacques, bonnets, quilts, blankets, in fact every thing to cover from the cold. They come after, and we take to them, and still there is more. And bread, meat, oatmeal, potatoes, rice, coal, and medicine, and everything else that the poor need, we have on hand to give just as they need. Who is like our God? Surely if I was to doubt that God called us to this work, I should sin; and such thankful hearts; such "God bless yous" as we hear, and such big tears and broken expressions, as they pray for God Almighty to bless those that sent the things to us. It would melt the hardest heart.

What shall I say to you, my dear brethren and sisters? Language fails, and my pen can never tell you our feelings as we meditate and think over the matter. But He who knoweth the hearts of us all, bless you.

Nearly all we receive comes from the East. Some of the letters are very precious indeed. Dear ones, I have never seen you, and probably will not till I see you in the kingdom; but I do think I shall know you there. I shall be there as a witness to say, Lord, these have sent the food and raiment to do this great work with. What a day that will be. We think Wilbraham is a great place, but that is nothing to compare with the time when we shall meet on the new earth. I do not think we shall need any introduction to each other, for we shall know even as we are known. Praise the good Lord.

Jan. 4. In my haste to attend to burying the dead, I did not take all out of Sr. Fletcher's barrel till the morning after my letter went to the office; when I found at the bottom a nice box of butter, some sausages, and a chicken which we put right into the pot and made soup. One poor sick man came and brought his basket to get something for Sunday. We gave him a piece of cold chicken, bread and butter, and stewed apples; and as he ate it, the tears came to his eyes; he could not speak, but his actions spoke his thankfulness, and made us feel it was more blessed to give than to receive them. Sr. Boide filled his basket with beans, crackers, and meal; a piece of beef; yes, Sr. Thomas, your beef keeps going the rounds.

Sr. Mary found an old Indian woman yesterday who had nothing to eat, and had to stay in bed to keep warm. She was a christian. So Mary took her a basket of notions, and $1.00 to get her some coal, sugar, and bread; when they both had a crying spell; one shed tears of happiness for receiving, and the other tears of joy that she had it to give; and this is only one case out of fifty. I would say to those who have sent us medicine, it is going the rounds, like the food. We are feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, and healing the sick; and the Lord is casting out devils. If we do not do good now, the Lord will hold us accountable. What is there to hinder? Glory to God for something to work with.

Last evening Bro. Hook preached for us. The house was crowded, and more went away than could get in: but the Lord is still with us; souls are crying for mercy. Pray for us, that we faint not.

Received one barrel from Clinton, Mass.; another, with no name inside, with a lot of books and some bed-clothes. I judge it is from Sr. Titus of Northfield Farms, Mass. Very acceptable; thank you. Also $1.00 from Chas. Baker, Warren, Mass.; $1.00 for rent from Sr. Fairfield, Green Point; a friend from Middletown, Ct., $5.00; from H. Bailey, Brewster's, N. Y., $5.00; a barrel of sundries from E. M. Sperry, Wolcottville, Ct., and $1.00; $1.00 from Henry Drake, by the same; also $5.25 that Sr. Sperry handed me at Wilbraham campmeeting; also from "R.," Worcester, Mass., $8.00; by the hand of H. L. Hastings, $5.00 from James Motherwell, Lawrence, and $3.00 from Nancy Sibley.

We have now become an institution, and passed through the struggle, and come to the place where we are all square with the world, and owe no man nothing. This month,—January, I begin to pay the missionaries $10 per month, which with their board and rent is as much as the Dr. paid them; so we are getting up the ladder, one round at a time. They have all worked faithfully four months without any pay, and have been perfectly content; but the laborer is worthy of his hire, especially in such hard work as this, where they have to sacrifice society, friends, home, children, parents, and everything else.

Jan. 6. Received from "a friend to the poor," of H., Mass., and did what you requested with it; $1.15 from Ellen Wetmore, Long Point, Illinois. One barrel from Fidelia Clark, Dansville, N. Y.; a box of books and pamphlets, with $5.00, from F. A. Godfrey, Pottsville, Pa.

In answer to those who have written me about sending to our mission in Virginia, I would say, there is no steamer leaves Boston; if you send barrels or boxes they must be shipped from New York or Philadelphia. Freight is ten cents a foot, or forty cents per one hundred. If you wish to send by New York, if you direct to H. L. Hastings, Star of Hope Mission, 14 Laurens St., they will be sent with ours, without opening or unpacking. Children's clothes are in the greatest demand. I have just received another letter this morning from Bro. Boynton, saying, "Sr. Smith, send us all the clothes you can spare. We are about to start three more schools and three churches." The Lord is blessing their labors wonderfully, and doors are opening all around them. Pray for them.

ANNA E. SMITH.

No. 14 Laurens St., N. Y. City.

From Bro. O. D. Eastman.

BRO. GRANT:—I wish to say through the Crisis I expected to go to Memphis during the month of November, when Brn. Himes and Leslie went; but while making arrangements, I was taken sick, and was not able to go at that time; and there being additional help at that mission, I probably shall not go there at present, or during this winter. Being thus detained by unavoidable circumstances, I trust the Lord to overrule all for good. I pity the poor freedmen, and hope that such as have abundance of this world's goods will give to those who have none, and still aid in sending to them the word of life. There is a great field for doing good, and my whole heart was greatly interested in the work while among that poor and long oppressed people.

May our merciful God greatly bless and sustain all those who go to sound the last note of warning among them, and a people be made ready for his coming. I believe our time is short, and what we do must be done quickly. O that we may have it well done, for soon all the weary will forever rest. Yours truly, O. D. EASTMAN.

Landoff, N. H.

From Bro. H. Pratt.

BRO. GRANT:—Yesterday was thought to be one of the most decisive battles of the war in Rochester. The furnace was up to white heat, and what was not melted was turned to clinks, and, as in Stewart's parlor stoves, these were all disposed of without cooling the fire or damping the fuel. Our hall was well filled during the day, and in the evening packed. The interest has never been greater. We spread the table in the evening the whole length of our long hall, and it was filled; then seats were brought forward till they were two and three deep. Some two hundred and fifty came around that memorial supper, and great was the solemnity, and many were the tears that graced this ceremony by those who gazed upon this beautiful scene of remembrance. Many who came from curiosity said, Of a truth this is of the Lord. Unity prevails throughout our borders.

"Praise God, from whom all blessings flow."

Yours for "the land," H. PRATT.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 6th, 1867.

From Bro. Jas. S. Duffett.

BRO. GRANT:—It is now a little over a year since the first Second Advent church was opened for divine worship in Quebec by Bro. Salmon and a few who were not only friendly to the cause, but in reality believed in the doctrine set forth by the people professing that form of faith; and which the writer, who connected himself with the above church some time after its formation, cordially embraces, believing it to be the real and only true teaching of the Bible. The visit you paid us last year about this time no doubt helped considerably to advance the interest of the church, and to promote its welfare, by your efficient public lectures, and which had considerable influence on the minds of many who had the pleasure of hearing you, although belonging to other denominations. The little church since that time has persevered in its existence through many discouragements, but it has nobly sustained itself, notwithstanding the coldness and indifference shown her by other denominations professing to be the church of Christ; and no doubt it is because of the view we take of the Scriptures that makes our singularity. But is it not very singular that other churches cannot see the Scriptures in the same light as we do? Why is it that there seems to be such a veil over their eyes? They must not, they cannot, be blind to the fact that what the Bible teaches is the truth; but they are afraid to acknowledge it.

We still hold on, by the blessing of our heavenly Father, and our cause seems to be dearer to us than ever. We have had some little difficulties, but they have been overcome, and we are now in reality more united than ever. True, our numbers do not increase much, but we firmly commit our affairs into His hands who has promised to do more for us than we can ask or think. We feel determined to labor on, doing what we consider to be our duty, and leave the result with him. We know that great victories were gained and battles won by the few whom the Lord was pleased to appoint; and so by us, though few in numbers, and insignificant in appearance, yet while we have the truth on our side we fear not for consequences. We will go straight on, trusting in the Lord. We have shown to the world that we can maintain ourselves, notwithstanding all the obloquy that may be thrown against us.

Quebec, Dec. 17th. Jas. S. Duffett.

From Bro. Geo. W. Hurd.

Bro. Grant:—I have just returned from holding a protracted meeting with Bro. Wm. McCulloch at Ionia, Warren Co., Ill. The Lord blessed our humble efforts. Ten were baptized, and twelve added to the church. Others are waiting to go forward as soon as an opportunity may offer. The Lord be praised!

The brethren in Ionia have just finished a beautiful chapel and dedicated it to God's service,—without first dedicating it to the devil, by the modern grab-box and bogus post-office arrangement. Their house will cost nearly three thousand dollars, which is all paid but about two hundred dollars. This is, I think, the strongest and most united church of Adventists in Illinois. Bro. Wm. McCulloch labors with them one-fourth of the time, and I shall preach for them also one-fourth of the time, thus giving them preaching once in two weeks. I have been preaching in this place for the last six years. Pray for us. Yours in the Lord Jesus Christ,

Geo. W. Hurd.

From Bro. J. G. Hook.

Bro. Grant:—I have filled my appointments to this place en route for the South. Found the church in good condition at Worcester, Mass.; and a few at Warehouse Point looking for Jesus and loving his appearing. Some are investigating God's word, to see if the things we preach are so. At Middletown God has a few who walk with him. They need men of God to help them labor for the perishing; they are feeling much for sinners. The church in New Britain are alive, and are striving for the unity of the Spirit, and are being knit together in love. I hope all the churches will follow the example. At Southington the brethren and sisters are trying to live for the kingdom, although they are passing through trials at the present time.

In Hartford I found a goodly company, who meet in their pleasant hall, where for the first time I had the pleasure of preaching Jesus and his soon coming to this dear church; it was a good day, and long to be remembered. This church are doing well in the Lord; some are very much disappointed in the passing of the 1867 time, and like the disciples of Jesus, who were made sad at the crucifixion of their King, they are looking with much interest for Jesus soon to come. May we all be ready.

We are having a pleasant visit with Bro. Benj. Young's family in Brooklyn, and good meetings in New York with our sister, Anna E. Smith, and in other places. We feel it duty to tarry here and labor this week, as some wish to be baptized. Pray for us, Brn., that God may be glorified, and Jesus honored in the salvation of dying men. Your Bro., looking for a better country,

New York, Jan. 5. John G. Hook.

THE FAMILY.

When we consider how carelessly the foundations for the family superstructure are laid, the wonder is, not that ruin sometimes ensues, but that it is not more general than it is now found to be. Two persons from two already established families separate themselves to establish a third, whose tastes, habits, and dispositions are little known to each other, and may prove totally dissimilar and at variance.

* * * * * * * *

Webster defines a family to be: "The collective body of persons who live in one house, subject to one head or manager; a household, including parents and children, servants, boarders, etc."

In every well-regulated household there must be a supreme head or umpire—one to whom all may appeal, and whose decisions must be final; from whom there is no appeal: a wise, loving, judicious center who is to be looked up to as counselor, friend, judge. Where authority is divided conflicts will arise, dissensions will exist, and these will mar the harmony of the family, disarrange its domestic economy, and eventually endanger the happiness and well-being of the inmates.

Who shall be the head of the household? St. Paul decided the question nearly two thousand years ago, by asserting that "man is the head of the woman," and she ought to be subject to her husband, etc. I know the masculine arrogance of the Jew denied the equality of woman, and accepted her in the aspect of sex mostly, as Paganism did entirely. The Jew excluded woman then, as now, from the main body of the tabernacle in worship, and yet in the earlier and better ages she had been recognized in the nation both as judge and prophetess.

Milton, whose mind was Judaic in character, is decided in regarding women as inferior to men; she must look up to man, as to a god. He says of the two, that he was subject

"To God only—she to God through him."

My own opinion is this: that the man is the rightful, proper head of the family; that wife, children, and servants must and ought to yield not only respect but obedience to him as the head and ruler of the household; in his place there he should be king and priest, he should rule and worship in the altar-place of home.

There is something handsome and fitting in this, and it is apparent to the most casual observer that, when any circumstance forces this natural rulership aside, the harmony and dignity of the family are impaired.

There is a peculiar charm in contemplating the grand old patriarchs of the Bible with their great families and dependents, flocks and herds, wives and children, the whole presided over by one kingly man, were it not for the question of polygamy which naturally thrusts itself into the very foreground of thought. Abraham's jealous-minded wife could not endure a rival, hence her cruelty to Hagar and her child, Ishmael. Then the two wives of Jacob were equally discordant. These rich and manful old patriarchs could not well manage more than one woman. I am afraid they could hardly do even that in our modern days!

The true idea of a family is one man and one woman—as husband and wife—with their children, servants, and dependents. The first law in the household is obedience, in its high sense, to the head and center.

The second is loyalty.

This involves perfect confidence and candor in the various members. Where the great law of the household is love, this needs not to be enjoined; where each member is bound by the spirit of genuine good will, loyalty or fidelity, each to each, is comparatively easy; it assumes the aspect of an instinct, rather than of moral obligation; but where, as is too often the case, discordant elements are introduced, this sentiment of loyalty, or a high sense of honor, must take its place.

The four walls inclosing a household should be regarded as sacred now as in the olden time, when the hearthstone was sacred to the genial, peace-loving Hestia, and the Penates were worshiped in the penetralia of every dwelling, distinct from all outward and external observances, and regarded by the family alone.

If every household has its skeleton, as is often asserted, no one has a right to insult and horrify his guests by bringing the ghastly appendage to the feast table, or to parade it in the face and eyes of his neighbors. Let it be locked up in reverent silence and patient seclusion.

What transpires within the four walls of a dwelling should be vailed from the view of all others. No member of a household should be a traitor to it. * * * *

A woman should not marry till of an age to know and appreciate the importance of the step she is about to take, but once married, she must not only make the best of her "bargain," be it good or bad, but she must also bear in mind that she has positive and solemn duties to perform.

A woman's part is generally a subordinate one. Her marriage contract involves the condition of obedience as well as chastity; it rests with the wife to preserve order, cheerfulness, and frugality in the household. She is to see that what the husband provides is not wastefully squandered; she is to look well to the ways of her household, and not eat the bread of idleness.

Further than this, let the husband's faults be what they may, his good name is in part in her keeping, and she and her children must sink or rise to his level. The woman who proclaims the errors of her husband is the meanest of all traitors. * * * *

It is my solemn opinion that more than half of the shortcomings, the sins and crimes of the other sex may be traced home to their ill-assorted wives and disorderly households.

The cares of a wife, I admit, have a tendency to belittle her; but if she be capable of any nobility of sentiment, she can invest the humblest duty with beauty, as well as dignity. The position of a married woman is always more commanding than that of the spinster or old maid, and the sentiment of wifehood is broader and more responsible than that of maidenhood. Nothing is lovelier or more holy in our sex than a thoroughly wifely woman.

A wife is not without authority in a family; she must be obeyed in all household matters; the husband will uphold her authority, and sustain her in exacting obedience from her children and dependents.

If she would have individual respect, she must have a wise discretion that may be relied upon, a self-poise and equanimity at once firm and gentle, and an unflinching, reliable integrity, above suspicion or reproach.

We sometimes hear quite estimable women appealing to their husbands to insist upon the obedience of children or dependents. This is a great mistake, and the cause of much domestic disquiet, and indicates not only pettiness, but imbecility, on the part of the wife. Her children should obey from spontaneous love and deference; it is all over with her when she is obliged to say to them:

"I will tell your father if you do not obey me."

Such a woman is either weak or wicked; either is bad enough in a family.—Elizabeth Oakes Smith, in Journal of Health.

For the World's Crisis.

CONN. CONFERENCE.

The Quar. Meeting of the Advent Christian Conference of Connecticut was one of the most blessed ever held in the State of Conn. We closed Sunday night, after a most harmonious session of four days. The business was done in order and in love. The preaching, prayer-meetings, love-feast, and Lord's Supper, were all heavenly. Missionary funds raised freely, and $40 for Anna E. Smith's Mission, N. Y. Report from the Secretary in due time.

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 13. w. s. c.

Received.—From the A. A. Mission Society, $50.00.

R. W. Wilson.
P. A. Smith.

Jacksonville, Flor., Jan. 3d, 1868.

Obituaries.

Ely. Died in New Bedford, Dec. 12th, our much esteemed brother in Christ, George E. S. Ely, aged sixty-one years and six months.

Bro. Ely experienced religion when quite young, but did not openly profess his faith in Christ until about 1842. When the evidences of the speedy advent of Christ were laid open to his mind, he readily embraced the blessed hope, in which he stood and rejoiced, until death, the cruel enemy, did its strange work; when the silver cord was loosed, the golden bowl broken, the pitcher broken at the fountain, the wheel broken at the cistern, and the dust has returned to the earth as it was, and the spirit to God who gave it.

Our brother leaves to mourn his loss, a companion and three children, who, though their hearts are riven with anguish, do not mourn as others that have no hope. May the event be sanctified to the good of the family and friends, and to the church of which he was an active member.

On the funeral occasion words of comfort were spoken to the mourning circle by Bro. H. L. Hastings. A. Ross.

Sargent. Fell asleep in Jesus, in East Andover, N. H., Nov. 25th, 1867, of consumption, Samuel W. Sargent, aged fifty years and eleven months.

Bro. Sargent embraced Christ in early life under the labors of Elder Benjamin Corlis, and united with the Christian connection, with whom for many years he worshiped the God of his fathers, ever ready to confess Christ; and being a sweet singer, was considered an important help in prayer, conference and social meetings.

About 1854, being instructed in the true nature of the kingdom of God, the nature of man and kindred truths, he readily embraced them, in which faith he continued until death, which yielded him great support and satisfaction when wasting away under the hand of disease, and in view of approaching dissolution. In his family relations he was most affectionate and provident; as a citizen and member of society he enjoyed more than respect; he was emphatically a man of peace, which shone out in his example and precept; his charity was not confined to those with whom he worshiped; but extended to all who loved God. But his record is on high. The day comes apace when all will reap that which they have sown.

The funeral services were held in the Free Baptist meeting house, where a discourse was delivered from Psalm 17: 15, by the pastor, after which the remains were deposited in the new cemetery south of the village, to await the day and event in which he believed and waited for.

John H. Morgan.

Booker. Died in Gardiner, Me., Dec. 17th, 1867, Morrill C., only son of Timothy and Lydia A. Booker, aged eleven years and seventeen days.

H. D. Reed.

Married.

In Wakefield, N. H., Jan. 2d, 1868, by Eld. Joseph Spinney, Mr. John L. Shortridge, of Brookfield, and Miss Susan E. Mitchell, of New Durham, Mass.

In Richmond, Me., Jan. 4th, 1868, by H. D. Reed, Bro. Ezekiel Graves and Sr. Mariah A. A. E. P. Robbins, both of Bowdoinham, Me.

In Chatham, Tioga Co., Pa., Jan. 5th, 1868, by Eld. J. W. Taylor, Mr. Stephen Edwards, of Farmington, Pa., and Miss Polly Mosher, of Delmar, Pa.

In Kennebunk, Jan. 7th, 1868, by Eld. W. H. Mitchell, Geo. W. Leach, of Casco, and Esther J. Edgcomb, of Saco, Me.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 7. Reports have been received here from Siberia of the discovery of rich and extensive gold deposits on the Amoor river. The natives were flocking to the gold regions by thousands. So great was the excitement that troops had been sent by the Governor of the district to preserve order and guard the mines, and desperate and bloody conflicts had taken place between the natives and soldiers.

London, Jan. 8. It is reported that in consequence of the recent success of the rebels in China, the Imperialists have been reduced to extremities, and the Emperor of China has sent to the European Powers for their assistance in defending his throne.

Paris, Jan. 8. The Moniteur to-day says that dispatches have been received by the Minister of Foreign Affairs from the Diplomatic representatives of France abroad, which show that the speech of the Emperor to the Diplomatic Corps, on New Year's day, is accepted by all the governments of Europe as a pledge of peace. The flattering manner in which Baron Von Goltz was received on the same day as Minister of Prussia and the Confederation of the North was highly gratifying to Germany, and the terms in which the Emperor addressed him were eminently satisfactory to the Prussian Court.

Berlin, Jan. 9. At a large Conservative dinner in this city last evening Count Von Bismarck was present and made a speech. He reviewed the present political situation of Europe, in the course of which he said that war with France this year was a phantom, and urged his bearers to dismiss all fears in the matter. He was listened to with profound attention.

Vienna, Jan. 9. Dispatches have been received to-day which state that the Austrian frigate Novara, Admiral Tegethoff, with the remains of Maximilian on board, has arrived at the Island of Corfu on the way to Trieste.

Paris, Jan. 11. On New Year's day King William of Prussia sent the Emperor a cordial autograph note, which was answered in the same conciliatory spirit. A much better feeling has prevailed since publicity has been given of this intelligence, and no where was it better received than on the Bourse.

DOMESTIC.

False Reports from the South.—The Southern papers are contradicting the startling reports that have been sent from that section, and published at the North. The Richmond Enquirer says the dispatch sent to the New York Herald, in which it was asserted that Amelia, Nottaway, Prince Edward, Lunenburg, Halifax, Mechlenburg and Pittsylvania counties were under a reign of terror, is "false in every particular. There have been no disturbances in any of the counties mentioned, nor in any county on the line of the Richmond and Danville Railroad. No case of murder, arson or incendiarism has been heard of." The dispatch was concocted by a former rebel soldier, and was intended, of course, to create a feeling against the freedmen in the Northern States. Such reports are almost daily received, and they may be at once set down as false.—Journal.

Death of Bishop Hopkins of Vermont.—The Right Reverend John Henry Hopkins, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, over the diocese of Vermont, died at his residence in Rock Point, Jan. 9th, of congestion of the lungs accompanied by pleurisy. The deceased was born in Dublin, Ireland, on the 30th January, 1792, and was therefore nearly seventy-six years old at the time of his death.

The Two Sicilies.—Movement for the Restoration of the Bourbons.—New York, Jan. 10. Mail advices from Europe of 26th ult. state that a circular which has lately been addressed from Naples to all the embassies in Paris, is now the subject of much talk among diplomatists. This document announces the establishment of a "Central Insurrectionary Committee" in Naples, with the object of restoring "the independence of the Two Sicilies under the sceptre of their legitimate sovereign King Francis 2d., of Bourbon." The Committee declares that it has the support of "all the honorable men of the country," and that is is empowered by them to lay a true description of the Two Sicilies before civilized Europe. It then describes in very violent language the results of the rule of Victor Emanuel. Whole towns, it says, have been burnt or destroyed. Two thousand citizens have been shot, and five thousand have emigrated. The prisons are so full that monasteries have been turned into jails. The land owners have no money to pay taxes. The masses have none to buy bread, and a population of 9,000,000 have been made "the slaves of these new barbarians, who, drunk with blood and hatred, have overrun our provinces."

The War in Crete.—The schemes of the Turkish government for the pacification of Crete, according to reliable accounts, will prove failures, and the war will go on during the winter. It is stated that Hussien Pasha is in very low spirits with his prospects of subjugating the Cretans. The Turks only occupy about half the island—much less territory than they did three months ago. A few days ago a cable dispatch reported a victory of the Cretans over the Turks at Lakos, after a battle of eight hours. Lakos is a village near the coast, and the Turks say the people invited them to occupy it. They went there, but were driven off with loss. Sundry other skirmishes had taken place. The Constantinople correspondence of the Tribune, dated December 28, says:

"Re-enforcements are still going down from Constantinople. The Russians are still removing all the families who wish to leave, and the fighting men have the island pretty much to themselves. This is unquestionably an immense advantage to the insurgents. But the most important development upon the island is the rapidly growing discontent of the Turkish population. The war has now forced the Turks to keep within the fortified towns for more than a year. Their villages are at the mercy of armies, and they cannot pursue their ordinary avocations. They long for peace, but they see no prospect of it as things go now. The only prospect of peace is in the annexation of the island to Greece. Another thing about these Cretan Turks is that, unlike the Turks on the Continent, they have freely intermarried with the Christians, and many of them have christian wives whose fathers and mothers are now in arms against the government. It is not strange that at last these Cretan Turks are ready for any settlement which will restore peace, nor that they have given up their hope of a settlement favorable to the Turkish government. The Porte seems to be as obstinate as ever in its determination to put down the rebellion, and the prospect is that, through the winter at least, the war will go on. The Greeks again talk of declaring war against Turkey in the spring; but so they did last winter. Not much dependence can be placed upon Greek talk of this kind.—Journal.

A New Pulpit for Plymouth Church.—A plain mahogany table, open in front, without cushion or covering of any kind, has for twenty years rested on the platform from which Mr. Beecher has preached. The time-honored desk is now to give way to a new gothic table, made of wood from the Mount of Olives, and brought home by Captain Duncan, a member of Plymouth Church. The new pulpit is a simple straight standard, on which rests a board, the whole profusely carved, and bearing in front a Hebrew inscription. It is not a remarkably rugged looking affair, and whether it will bear the poundings Mr. Beecher gives his pulpit, or the leanings of his confidential moments, remains to be seen.

☞ Havana, Jan. 7. Strong shocks of earthquake were felt in St. Thomas on the 30th ult.

Homeric Affair.—A few days ago, at Breckinridge, Kentucky, some violent negro haters who had become enraged at the success of a colored school there, formed a plan for the destruction of all its inmates and friends at a single blow. On Christmas Eve, at an exhibition, they placed a keg of gunpowder under the platform on which the children were seated and applied a slow match, the church at the time packed with human beings. The match burned slower than was expected, so that the explosion did not occur till a few minutes after the house had been cleared on the completion of the exercises. A fiendish malignity of purpose, which contemplated the destruction of the entire audience, was evinced by the entire building's being blown to atoms.—Journal.

Items.

☞ In the parish of St. Mary, Louisiana, bananas are still untouched by the frost, the gardens look green and spring-like, and the grass is springing up as though the winter months had passed away.

☞ "Housatonic," long supposed to be an Indian word, is of Dutch origin, and means "the winding river of the west."

☞ A monastery, said to be the largest one belonging to its order (Cistercian) in the world is to be erected in the town of Millersy, in Dubuque county, Iowa. Its supposed cost will be between $300,000 and $400,000.

☞ Reports from Algeria describe the most frightful suffering among the Arabs. The cholera has already carried off fifty-two thousand of them, and now they are threatened with a terrible famine. An appeal has been made to France for help.

☞ An eminent physician of this city recently stated that his practice during the past year impressed him with the belief that excessive application to business was an alarming and increasing cause of disease among the merchants of Boston.

☞ The Germans are beginning to print their books in Roman type. It is found much clearer and less trying to the eyes.

☞ The Pope has ennobled three of his officers and given twelve thousand medals to the soldiers who assisted in scattering the Garibaldians.

☞ On Christmas eve, St. George's Society of Toronto distributed five thousand pounds of meat, nine hundred large loaves, and quantities of other food to the poor.

☞ A railroad is to be built around St. Petersburg and Moscow, which will connect all the railroads which centre in these two cities.

☞ The velocity of the Gulf Stream is reported by experienced navigators to have recently been greatly increased, and the currents along the Florida coast are said to be so strong as to almost draw a steam vessel upon the reefs. This phenomenon is supposed to be the result of the recent convulsions of the earth.

☞ Water in Burlington, Vt., is selling at half a dollar a barrel. Wells, springs and cisterns are generally dry, and water has to be drawn from the lake.

☞ Chicago possesses forty distilleries—twenty-five large and fifteen small—makes twenty-five thousand barrels of spirituous drinks a year, and has two thousand saloons, or one to every sixty members of her adult population.

☞ A recent letter from Rome says: Two thousand Spencer breechloaders have arrived from America for the Pontifical army.

☞ It is useless to fret before trouble comes, or growl after it goes away.

To-day's duties are more important than to-morrow's cares.

Notices.

Notice.

The church worshiping at the Bethel, in Concord, N. H., have secured the labors of Sister Anna E. Smith, the Lord willing, in a protracted effort, to commence Tuesday, Jan. 14th, and hold over the following Sunday. The object of this meeting is to try to save men and women from the coming wrath of God, so soon to burst upon a sleeping church and guilty world. We invite our preaching brethren, and all the Lord's children in the adjacent towns, and elsewhere, to come and assist us in laboring for the perishing. May our prayers unitedly ascend the throne of grace, that this meeting may be specially blessed of God, and result in the highest good to all who may attend. "The Judge standeth at the door." For the church,

T. H. Ford,
J. T. Kimbell,
A. H. Saltmarsh.

Ministerial Conference at Lewiston, Me.

The fifth Ministerial Advent Conference will hold its session Tuesday, Jan. 21st, 1868, at 2 P. M. Preaching in the evening. Ministers are invited to attend and confer with each other in relation to spreading the gospel of the kingdom in Maine, that we may labor in harmony together in the great work of saving sinners. Homes for brethren and sisters, but no stables for horses.

S. K. Partridge, President.
C. H. Leverton, Secretary.

Notice.

I would say to the readers of the Crisis that I am publishing a book containing all the testimony of the Old and New Testaments, relating to the second personal coming of Jesus Christ. Also extracts from history of the early reformers on the subject. Price, $3.00 per hundred; 50 cts. per dozen; 5 cts. single, postpaid. All orders may be sent to Allen Daman, Fall River, Mass., for the present.

Notice.

I would say to our preaching brethren, when they send an appointment to Richmond, it is necessary they should define the place, as we hold two meetings in town; one at the Reed meeting-house, which has continued since 1843, the other is held at the village. Please state for which place the appointment is intended. In behalf of the brethren. Frederic Bates, Jr.

Conference.

The Lord will, the first quarterly session of the New Hampshire State Conference for 1868 will be held at Wakefield, (Spinney meeting-house,) to commence Thursday evening, and hold over the following Lord's day. It is hoped that our preaching brethren will make a special effort to attend this meeting. An invitation is extended to all to come to the feast. T. W. Piper, for Com.

Notice.

There will be preaching at the house of Levi R. Teeple, by Bro. Elliot, on Sunday, Jan 26th. An invitation to all, both saint and sinner, to come to their feast. Come, children, make one more effort for this place, and let it tell for good in the coming judgment. Susan E. Teeple.

Notice.

Preachers are requested to correspond with one of the committee before sending appointments to Worcester, viz., M. M. Blackmer, N. Lazell, Wm. F. Collier. Per order of the church, Worcester, Jan., 1868.

Notice.

Preaching brethren intending to visit Lewiston, Me., before sending their appointments, will please consult the committee through Albert Burgess, corresponding secretary, to save confusion.

Notice.

I will hold a series of meetings in New London, Fish Creek Landing, Oneida Co., N. Y., as Bro. Wm. Morrel may appoint, commencing Jan. 16th, 1868. Bro. Stevens will be present to help preach the word; also Sr. Jennings a part of the time. Meetings will continue as long as seems duty.

M. R. Miles.

Conference.

The Maine Quarterly Conference will be held at Friendship, Me., Feb. 6th, to commence at 6 o'clock in the evening, and hold over Sunday. Brethren and sisters, with ministers, are invited.

S. K. Partridge.

Notice.

Advent meetings are held every Sunday in North Adams, Mass., on Center Street, corner of Lincoln Street. Preaching brethren are invited to give us a call. Inquire for Isaac Blanchard, Jr., Eagle Street.

Notice.

My tracts have not been completed as soon as I expected, but I shall be ready to fill all orders soon. All orders sent to Fairhaven, Mass.

Allen Damon.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION,
No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.

ANNA E. SMITH, Superintendent and Manager.

Meetings.

Sunday School 10 o'clock every Sunday.
Love Feast 3 o'clock every Sunday.
Preaching 7 o'clock Sunday evenings.
Meetings every evening during the week.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as Tuesday Morning, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston, corner of Causeway and Lowell Streets. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.
S. W. Thurber..........Sundays, Jan. 19th and 26th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)
A. Simpson..........Sundays, Jan. 26th and Feb. 2d
Geo. W. Brown..........Sunday, Jan. 19th

North Adams..........Saturday evening, Jan. 18th and Sunday, the 19th.
Hoosick, N. Y., (where Bro. Harrington may appoint), Jan. 21st.
Troy, N. Y., (where Bro. Harrington may arrange), Jan. 22d.
Canaseraga, N. Y., (where Bro. B. Roberts may arrange), Jan. 23d, and Sunday, 24th.
Ira Wyman.

Savoy, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
South Adams, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Brimfield, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 2d
West Stafford, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Rufus Baker.

Pittsfield, N. H., (Bethel Church)..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
J. T. Dixon.

Great Falls, N. H..........Saturday evening, Jan. 18th to hold as long as duty requires.
Our address is New Durham, or Holderness, N. H.
J. G. Smith.
D. M. Leavitt.

Northwood Narrows..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Epsom, (Marden's Corner)..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
N. Glidden.

East Village, Ct..........Sunday, A. M., Jan. 26th
Pleasant Vale, P. M. and evening.
Samuel W. Treat.

Whitefield..........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Nathan Wheeler.

Worcester, Mass.
T. M. Preble..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Sr. A. E. Smith..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
S. W. Thurber..........Sunday, Feb. 2d and through the month.

West Meriden, Ct., (dedication of new Hall), Jan. 19th
Campville, Ct..........Jan. 20th
West Winsted..........Jan. 21st and 28th
Wolcottville, (as Bro. St. John appoints)..........Jan. 23d
New Haven..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
W. S. Campbell.

Middletown, Ct..........Friday evening, Jan. 17th
New Haven, Ct..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
West Haven..........Wednesday evening, Jan. 22d
Bridgeport..........Thursday evening, Jan. 23d
Guilford, Ct..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Hiram Munger.

Concord, N. H.
(Corner of Green and Center Streets.)
J. A. Cleaveland..........Sundays, Feb. 2d and 9th

Rockland, Scituate, R. I., Monday evening, Jan. 20th to 24th.
A. Durfee.

West Abington, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
A. P. Moore.

Portland, Me.
Anna E. Smith..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Wm. H. Mitchell..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Clarkson Goud..........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Luther Boutell..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Wm. H. Mitchell..........Sunday, Feb. 23d

Elliota and Burr Oak, Minn..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Preston, Minn..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
T. K. Allen.

Lenora and Nickols, Minn..........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Elliota and Burr Oak..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Preston..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
P. Ramen.

Lenora and Nickols, Minn..........March 1st
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper..........March 8th
Elliota and Burr Oak..........March 15th
Preston..........March 22d
W. J. Bursell.

Exeter, N. H..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Dover, N. H..........Tuesday, Jan. 21st
New Durham Ridge, N. H., Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 22d and 23d.
Alton Corner..........Friday, Jan. 24th
Pittsfield..........Saturday evening, Jan. 25th and over Sunday, the 26th.
New Bedford, Mass..........through February
A. Ross.

Bristol, Conn..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Hartford, Conn..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
New Britain..........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Springfield, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Middletown..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
New Britain..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Wm. Stuart.

Pomfret, Vt..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
W. W. Sutherland.

Alton, (Chesnut Cove school-house), Thursday evening, Jan. 23d, and continue over the following Sabbath.
J. Knowles.
D. F. Leavitt.

Lowell, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Lawrence, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
J. Couch.

South Boston, (Union Hall, Broadway.)
J. M. Muhlig..........Sunday, Jan. 19th

North Somers..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
L. P. Moore.

Schoodoc, (Warner)..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
C. W. Sargent.

West Falmouth, Me..........Sunday, Jan 19th
Lewiston, Me..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
N. G. Reed.

Springwater Valley, N. Y..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Knowlesville, N. Y..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Lockport, N. Y..........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Youngstown, N. Y., Niag. Co., (where Bro. Tryon may appoint), Sunday, Feb. 9th.
E. Cotton.

Lewiston, Me..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
J. C. Wheeler.

Lowell, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
E. G. Chadsey.

Hall Stream, C. E..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Upper Pittsburgh, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Coaticook, (Kenney school-house)..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
D. N. Chadsey.

Center Harbor, N. H..........Jan. 19th
W. H. McDaniels.

Portland, Me..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
L. Boutell.

Square Pond..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
I. B. Potter.

Southington, Ct..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
E. Owen.

Square Pond, Ct.
I. B. Potter..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
A. M. Higgins..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
P. S. Butler..........Sunday, Feb. 2d

New Britain, Ct..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Southington, Ct..........Jan. 20th
New Haven, Ct..........Jan. 21st
West Haven, Ct..........Jan. 25th
Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Stoneham..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
J. S. White.

Bath, Me..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
L. F. Cole.

Melvin Village..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Wolfborough (Furber school-house), Tuesday evening, Jan. 21st, and over Sunday, Jan. 26th.
S. S. Mooney.

Madison, N. H., Saturday, P. M., Jan. 18th, for conference, and Sabbath for baptism. T. W. Piper.

Pawling, N. Y..........evening, Jan. 17th and over the following Sunday. C. H. Sweet.

Campton, N. H., (Bump school-house), Sunday, January 19th.
Lake Village, N. H., (Chapel), Saturday evening, Jan. 25th, and over Sunday, the 26th.
John H. Evans.

Springfield, Mass..........Sunday, Jan. 19th
Brimfield, Mass..........Tuesday evening, Jan. 21st till Friday evening.
A. Simpson.

Morris, Ct., (as Bro. S. Glover may arrange), Sunday, Jan. 19th.
New Preston, Ct., (as Bro. Baldwin may arrange), Sunday, Jan. 26th.
Lanesville, (as Bro. Marsh may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 2d.
Brookfield, Ct., (as Sr. C. Barnes may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 9th.
Will Bro. James Squires be so kind as to meet me at the Westfield station, when the 12 o'clock train from Springfield arrives on Friday?
If any of these appointments conflict with others, brethren interested will please drop me a line to that effect, as soon as they see this notice. Direct to H. Rockwell, care of H. H. Dickinson, 44 Windsor Street, Hartford, Ct. H. Rockwell.

Auburn, (at A. F. Fox school-house)..........Jan. 19th
Derry, (Kilrey school-house)..........Sunday, Jan. 26th
Will Bro. Brown meet me at the Lynn depot?
Caleb Richardson.

Rochester, N. Y.
Meetings are held at the Advent Hall, Curtis' Block, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Entrance, third door from the east end of the bridge, Main St.

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ Correspondents should, and ought to know, that we cannot discontinue or send their orders, unless they give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in plain letters.

☞ We received $3.50 from Whitefield, N. H. No name. Who was it from?

☞ AMANDA BROWN—Now due, 53 cents.

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

The present No. of the Crisis is 641. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid. If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to, is less than the present No., the difference shows for how many weeks you owe. For every week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the product (which will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness) deduct four cents for every dollar, and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each.

L W Ranger 642, H J Whitaker 661, E Kingsworth 612, C A White 660, J Henderson 673.

$1.25 each.

J Connell 665, M Merrill 660, N Davis 665, F D Tyler 665, L Mather 665, J H Denio 665, D B Day 665, C G Oaks 670, L P Waldron 639, F W Dame 665, R Morrell 632, M E Smith 665, I Roscoe 665, C Barnes 630, L D Thurston 631, E Francher 669, A Williams 669, W H Barrows 666, R J Rogers 665, S Buck 666, A L Mars 666, E Spencer 665, H. L. Whipple 665, J Harrington 659, J Rothennel 666, M H Mason 662, A Fenstermaker 664, G W Cadwell 665.

$2.00 each.

I Tuttle 637, A Knowlton 656, E P Robinson 670, M Smith 663, A Randall 666, O Sherwin 641, R Chase 663, C Watson 666, J. Glidden 679, J. D. Fernand 671, N Goodell 532, W Churchill 681, H L Close 675, R Scott 681, B Crandall 650, O D Eastman 681, H A Cressey 649, S Oaks 682.

$2.50 each.

J Nudd 676, T Fitzsimons 644, J G Weymouth 691, L Ellis 691, D P Reed 688, C Andrews 676, W W Ives 676, L A Durgin 647, B Atwood 691, J Barnes 691, A J Rawson 641, F Converse 691, R Geyer 688, I Wyman 688, L D Merrell 642, I Athins 665, A K Allen 691, B S Arlin 690, E Davis 688, E Blamnot 683, F C Abom 689, J W Frye 691, A Brown 650, T M Redhead 720, O M Clark 691, C Sherman 691, J Barnes 684, L Reimer 654, C M Jewell 691, M L Kremer 691, S M Cornell 612, J P Peters 691, A Egerton 658, F McClary 679, D Leavens Jr. 691, J. Sadder 682, J. C. King 688, A Ladd 676, J Olive 671, T R Burt 691, G M Brown 658, W R Alden 635, B Beach 676, D Hodge 694, E Blaisdell 689, S A Chaplin 690, W Smith 698, A French 691, S R Muttoir 691, B. Thebaut 692, T P Vanderbeck 652, E. Dannett 660, T H Tyler 688, J Whitcar 723, L Morrison 692, J Hudson 693, J. J. Macdonald 691, A Healey 605, A Gregory 656, J Price 665, H C Coppock 692, P Clay 650, A. Harris 691, V. N. Edwards 691, T. Hodgdon 692, A. Hussey 692.

Various Sums.

J McCaughy $5.00, 629; E Sidden $1.05, 639; S Walter $3.00, 653; M Wilkins $3.00, 634; A Gillett $10.00, 667; A F Welch $1.50, 674; M D Pease $3.00, 676; II L Ellis $1.50, 585; J Burnheimer $1.13, 639; A Logan $5.00, $5.13; J Thorp $3.00, 669; J Field $3.00, 701; A Field $3.00, $701; A Strong 63c, 652; A H Kidder $3.00, 668; R. Dowe $4.00, 649; S. Crispin $5.00, 694; C Coleman $1.55, 676; G. P. Shortridge $1.70, 676; W Churchill $1.70, 676; C. Holderness $3.50, 633; C Ave $3.05, 661; W. E. Grinnell 40c, 659; J. W. Gray $1.50, 677; S. Leavenworth 63c, 651; A. Perkins $5.00, 661; S. Jones $1.15, 629; N. Jones 85c, 638; L. M. Whitney $6.00, 685; J S Milne $1.36, 637; N Milne $1.36, 637; M McCloud $1.36, 637; J Kindness $1.36, 666; R Stanley 77c, 668; R L Jones $3.27, 571; W Littleton $6.55, 597; W. Tyler $3.24, 597; W. Clelland $7.86, 637; J Corner $3.27, 707; J Morrison $2.62, 685; John Morrison $2.62, 677; W. Woodward $3.27, 659; G. P. Metz $3.75, 688; J B Luther $3.00, 651; N H Berry $1.50, 706; C L Moseley $1.30, 641.

For Books and Tracts.

U Sinclair 36c, H F Pollins 50c, F M Huxford $1.45, C M Stark $1.00, R. Geyer $5.00, I. Atkins 35c, W. Ashdown $1.50, L R Brown $1.00, W E Benham $1.00, A A Lawrence $2.80, A Fike $10.00, M A Harris 50c, J. V. Himes $10.00, S Crispen $1.50, S Goodhue 50c, E Barrows $1.75, J. W. Findley 50c, L J Quimby 55c, A C Grover 35c, I B Potter $10.00, A Egerton 35c, J V Himes $10.00, D Stevens Jr $1.50, W Nash $2.50, M F Rogers 50c, B. Beach $3.66, J. Butchart $1.00, J. V. Himes $3.25, J. T. Kidder $3.00, J. Keene $1.50, J Hendson 70c, L L Barrett 35c, F. A. Foster 75c, F A Safford 63c, P S Hooker $1.65, J V Himes $1.00, R Perkins 35c, R. D. Lacoe $5.00, D Grant $7.00, G F Metz 35c, N. H. Berry $2.50, M G Wise $2.30, G W Maker 35c, M A Northup 60c, I Tuttle $1.03.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

W L Huntley, H D Reed, H Pratt, H P Sikes, W C Thurman, J A Cleveland, G W Stetson, H Beadle, J Olive, N F Nason, N M Henry, J H Tolman, E Doolittle, H H Hall, E A Libby, N B W Murphy, P A Smith, J G Hook, S C Nichols, N A Lapham, S P Howland, C Greene.

ADDRESS OF PREACHING BRETHREN.

C. E. Piper—41 Grove Street, Boston, Mass.
C. Goodrich—69 Marion Street, East Boston, Mass.
J. S. White—93 Decatur Street, East Boston, Mass.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford, Mass.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls, Mass.
L. Boutell—Salem, Mass.
H. Pratt—Springfield, Mass., 57 Cedar St.
P. S. Butler, Collins Depot, Mass.
E. Owen—Springfield, Mass., No. 64 Walnut Street.
Alvah Bean—Lowell, Mass.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana, Mass.
Allen Damman—Fairhaven, Mass.
C. H. Sweet—Millville, Mass.
J. W. Brittan—Westboro, Mass.
S. Anderson—Warren, Mass.
Rufus Baker—Warren, Mass.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer, Mass.
W. E. Hathaway—North Carver, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Lynn, Mass.
S. S. Brazee—Cold Spring, Mass.
N. J. Streeter—Southbridge, Mass.
C. H. Leverton—Surry, Hancock Co., Me.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills, Me.
J. C. Wheeler—Carthage, Me.
F. A. Baker—Levant, Me.
H. S. Mitchell—Cushing, Me.
I. K. Lombard—Machiasport, Me.
J. Carr—South Albion, Me.
B. P. Manning—Goffstown, N. H.
J. G. Smith—New Durham, N. H.
C. C. Stevens—Exeter, N. H.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia, N. H.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth, N. H.
J. Couch—Concord, N. H.
A. W. Sibley—Lincoln, N. H.
A. Simpson—Concord, N. H.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village, N. H.
Z. Ford—Concord, N. H.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426 Concord, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover, N. H.
Wm. H. McDaniels—Fisherville, N. H.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff, N. H.
J. B. Cook—Poultney, Vt.
G. W. Stetson—Rutland, Vt.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford, Vt.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
D. N. Chadsey—Canaan, Vt.
J. A. Cleaveland—South Royalton, Vt.
Wm. H. Fisher—Windsor, Ct., care of S. Cooper.
H. F. Carpenter—Danielsonville, Ct.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville, Ct.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford, Ct.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville, Ct.
T. S. Canfield—Bantam Falls, Ct.
B. St. John—Wolcottville, Ct.
Dr. Samuel Wellis Treat—Middlebury, Ct.
S. B. Munn—Waterbury, Ct.
Ira Wyman—Warehousepoint, Ct.
Wm. J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley, Ct.
L. P. Moore—Somersville, Ct.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted Ct.
S. Woodruff—Unionville, Ct.
Geo. A. Cole—Phenix, R. I.
J. K. Bellows—19 Orchard Street, New York City.
Wm. A. Fenn—Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester, N. Y.
Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
S. P. Babcock—Malaga, New Jersey.
J. W. Taylor—Chatham Valley, Tioga Co., Pa.
F. H. Burbank—Dorcas Mission, 708 Lombard street, Philadelphia, Pa.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.
Dr. I. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis, Tenn.
Wm. Deverell—Keswick, C. W.
Wm. M. Ingham—Clementsport, N. S.
H. K. Flagg—Advent Christian Hall 1136, No. 5th Street, St. Louis, Mo.
H. Rockwell—Lenox, Ashtabula Co., Ohio
L. C. McKinstry—Norwalk, Ohio.
A. N. Seymour—Fremont, Mich.
J. M. Snook—Romeo, Mich.
J. R. Preston—Lapeer, Mich.
Wm. McCulloch—New Rutland, Ill.
George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co., Ill.
O. D. Gibson—Amboy, Ill.
F. Burr—New Rutland, Ill.
J. Wilbur—Box 882 Janesville, Wis.
B. Wm. Wilkins—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634 care of I. I. Leslie.
Daniel Reed—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634, care of I. I. Leslie.
Eld. G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co., Ind.
P. W. Hough—West Salem, Wis.
George Thompson—Attica, Green Co., Wis.
Eld. A. F. Dugger—Simpson, Iowa.
O. R. Fassett—Minneapolis, Minn.
Philip Ramer—Winona, Minn.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cents per copy additional, when sent by mail.

New Music.

"'Tis the very same Jesus" (separate sheets, at 5c.) Calvary, Over There, I shall Rest, The Shining Land, New Year's Chime, Hallelujah, "Say, Brother, shall we meet?" "The Little Grave," "We shall walk through the Valley in Peace." All on one sheet, at 30c. For sale at this office.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Predictions fulfilled, and his Kingdom near. By I. C. Wellcome. 25c; by mail, 27c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 1, By S. S. Brewer. 7c; by mail, 9c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 3, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD, and Signs of the Times. By S. S. Brewer. 18c; by mail, 20c.

THESSALONICA; or, The Model Church. By H. L. Hastings. 25c.

SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsay, D.D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE SEVEN SEALS. Exposition of Rev. vi. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church. By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE DAYS WE LIVE IN; The Lord soon to come By S. S. Brewer. 10c; by mail, 12c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M. Preble. 13c; by mail, 15c.

THE SLAYING OF THE WITNESSES. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3c; by mail, 6c.

THE GREAT IMAGE soon to be dashed to pieces By S. S. Brewer. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5c; by mail, 7c

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures. Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, etc. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. 20c; by mail, 22c.

RETRIBUTION; or, The Doom of the Ungodly. By H. L. Hastings. 20c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

PAULINE THEOLOGY; or, The Christian Doctrine of Future Punishment, as taught in the Epistles of Paul. H. L. H. 10c.

GLAD TIDINGS; or, The End of Woe and Sin by the Destruction of the Wicked. (Three chapters from "Death not Life.") By J. Blain. 8c; by mail, 10c.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 6c; by mail, 8c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.

REV. JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 3c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables Price, by mail, 40 cents.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

"THE JUBILEE SONGSTER." A choice collection of original and selected Hymns. A pamphlet edition of ninety-eight hymns. By S. S. Brewer. By mail, 15c. single copy; $1.50 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God By Wm. Shepherd. 23c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 15 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postage, 5c. on every three copies.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

COOKERY or How to prepare food from Grain, Fruits and Vegetables. By F. W. Hurd, M. D. 15c; by mail, 17c.

VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook and Wm. H. Brinkerhoff. 10c.

THE SABBATH, and its Relation to Man. By mail 3 cts.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. 3c. single; 5c. by mail.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

RAHAB THE HARLOT. The Scarlet Line the token of Safety; or, the fall of Jericho a type of the fall of the "cities of the nations." By Wm. Shepherd. 10c., postpaid; 85c. a dozen.

CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; a Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Worship. 80c; by mail, 88c.

PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 6c; by mail, 8c.

THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT—Superiority of the New. By A. W. Sibley. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY, or, the Sealed Book of Daniel Opened. $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; or, a Dissertation on the Evidences of Christianity. 25c; by mail, 29c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?—a tract on War By I. C. Wellcome. 10c.

THE PROPHETIC TIME QUESTION; or, Bible Time Examined. By Wm. Sheldon. 27c.

CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c.

NON-RESISTANCE. By W. C. Thurman. 20c; by mail, 24c.

DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c

THE DAY AND THE HOUR; a Lecture, by Joseph A. Seiss, D. D. 15c.

"OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.

"THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.

"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.

"GOLDEN MOMENTS." A four-page tract. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.

"THE PENALTY OF SIN." By O. R. Fassett. By mail, single copy, 5c.; 40c. per dozen.

AMERICA IN PROPHECY; an Exposition of Isaiah XVIII. By O. R. Fassett. [illegible] by mail, 10c.

PENITENT.

Where art thou, O pitying Christ!
The night hath fallen, and the way I cannot see;
O reach down through the dark to me,
And fold me close unto thy all-forgiving heart,
Until the frozen waters of my spirit
In the sweet tears of penitence shall start;
Till thy divinest life shall mingle
With the colder tide of mine;
Fold me, Crucified and Risen,
In those arms of thine!

My doubting soul in cold rebellion went from thee,
I would not take thy proffered hand,
Nor at the fountains of thy tender mercy
With other thirsting pilgrims stand.
But now, with wandering in the night grown weary,
I lift my mute and willing hands to thee;
Canst thou, in thy compassion and thy pity,
Reach down through the dark to me,
And fold me close unto thy all-forgiving breast,
Until I feel the perfectness of rest—sweet rest!
—Sara Clemmer Wells.

For the World's Crisis.

THE FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT.—No. 5.

"The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law."—Gal. 5: 22.

GENTLENESS.

This is one of the most beautiful of the christian graces. We all like a gentle child, a gentle woman, a gentleman, one who has a mild disposition. Many seem to think that it is unmanly to be gentle; that if they are mild others will think they have no courage; that roughness and coarseness are marks of dignity; and they bluster and scold, thinking that thus they gain the respect and admiration of the community. Paul thought not thus. He says, "The wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle"; and that the servant of the Lord must be gentle towards all men.

But I have known christians, so called, who appeared to take pains to be rough. If they warned a sinner, reproved a brother who had done wrong, or argued with one who differed from them, they would talk so harshly and insultingly that those to whom they talked would become angry or discouraged. I have known instances where a weak one has been overcome by temptation, and by harsh treatment been drawn deeply into sin, when gentle words and kind acts might have won that erring one back to the fold of Christ. Says Paul, "If any one be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted."—Gal. 6: 1.

There are many who are kind-hearted, and would not for the world discourage a weak one, who are naturally energetic and positive; and when they see anything that is especially repulsive to them, they are apt to say things rather severe: and as individuals are more easily led than driven, they awaken obstinacy in those they wish to benefit, and thus do more harm than good.

We are apt to be guided by our feelings instead of the Holy Spirit. We can never make a sinner admire and desire religion by telling him that he is a miserable fellow, not fit to associate with decent persons, even if it be true; and we never can persuade an erring brother to confess and forsake a fault by beating or avoiding him; and persons will not see the light on certain doctrines any sooner for being called fools or hypocrites.

If we treat persons with respect, they will listen patiently, and weigh our opinions with more candor, than if we are rude and careless of their feelings. Children obey more promptly and cheerfully if spoken to with mildness, than they do if commanded harshly. There is nothing that hardens a child as quickly as scolding. The only way we can separate dross from gold is by melting it. We could pound the metal until tired, and we should only pound the gold and dross together more closely.

The fruit of the Spirit is gentleness, and those who are the sons of God, and are led by the Spirit of God, are seldom sarcastic, or rude, and seldom hurt any one's feelings. "If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man and able also to bridle the whole body."—James 3: 2. O, how easy it is to offend in word! How natural it is to speak the angry word, the impatient word, the scandalous word, the harsh word, the idle word. The tongue can no man tame, but with God all things are possible. He knew we could not in our strength keep his commandments, so he gives us the Holy Spirit to help our infirmities and enable us to do that which is impossible for us to do by nature.

Whenever I see a marble statue, and think of the process through which that piece of marble has passed, I compare it to a christian. When it was first taken from the quarry it was a rough stone, without form or beauty; but it was hacked, and hewed, and pounded, a piece knocked off here, and another there; until after days of hard labor it arrived at a state of perfection, and is now a beautiful statue which all admire.

Many think that conversion is all that is necessary for a person's salvation; and all the experience many have to relate is the story of their conversion. They compare it to a man in a horrible pit sinking deeper and deeper in the mud and filth, until he is rescued and placed upon a rock; and after he is once on the rock, all he has to do is to sit still until death or the judgment. The first part of the comparison is good, but after the sinner is taken from the pit, he has a journey to go in a narrow way full of snares to entrap him, and stones to hurt his feet, and hills for him to climb, and pleasant by-paths to allure him from the strait and rugged way. When our sins are first forgiven we are like children, and have to grow in grace and in the knowledge of the truth in order to become perfect men and women in Christ Jesus.

The christian's life is a constant warfare with self and nature. Every natural desire for worldly pleasure or ease must be overcome; every habit which is not in accordance with the Scriptures must be abandoned; everything which cannot be done with an eye single to God's glory must be left undone; every deed, every word, must be tempered to agree with the revealed will of God.

Every grace the Lord wishes us to possess is an ornament to us. The Lord's children are more beautiful in their characters and more lovely in their dispositions than any other people living. They are kind, tender-hearted, truthful, affectionate, cheerful, forgiving, humble and happier here, a blessing to those around us, and fit to be inhabitants of the new earth. S. K. PAINE.

East Killingly, Ct.

☞ Would to God that all the party names and unscriptural phrases and forms which have divided the christian world were forgotten, and that we might all agree to sit down together as humble, loving disciples, at the feet of our common Master, to hear his word, imbibe his spirit, and to transcribe his life in our own.—John Wesley.

For the World's Crisis.

LETTER FROM MEMPHIS, TENN.

BRO. GRANT:—I wish to let the brethren and sisters know, through the Crisis, what I have been doing since I have been in this place. I arrived here on the sixth of April, and was kindly received by the little church of Freedmen. My first thought was to set humility before them; and this was done to good effect; and from that time to the present has been an increase of interest in love of the truth, of the Lord's soon coming, and kindred doctrines of the Bible; and they see and talk quite differently now, from what they did when I first came here, in consequence of a split just before I came; and out of the wreck afterwards I found some twenty-two souls, and they were hard-looking sheep, more like goats with their horns knocked off by butting in the war; some lame, and bad language made use of. The new idea of the saints not going to heaven when they died, was a hard thing for them to get over. But when the Scriptures spoke out so clear on the subject, they gave way to the truth, and became firm believers in the resurrection. They all are glad that I came among them; one of their own color thus lifted them up. It was hard to believe on their part at first, but it was clear to some; they had faith in God's word.

The interest increased until July first; then trouble by the cholera. How we did suffer; we lost fourteen, young and old. O, how sad the thought to me. The cholera continued among us all during the month of July. I had a hard time of it, being left alone among the Freedmen. Then the yellow fever set in, and we all feared much; but, thank the Lord, it did not come near us; but the Lord is good; there was not one case amongst us. Bless his good name forevermore. The burying of the dead was a very costly matter; to dig the graves cost from ten to fifteen dollars, according to the size; and all other expenses made it very hard with them; still our meetings were good, and souls were converted to God. The hot weather was intense, and I suffered much; but still the good work went on.

Since I have been here have baptized seventeen souls, and five more are now ready to go down to the water on next Sabbath, and two more to be added to the church soon. We number now fifty-three souls, who have consented together to love God until he comes in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory; then the song of triumph will begin, to end no more. God bless all that are looking for and praying, "Thy kingdom come."

Brn. Himes and Leslie are well, and are as busy as bees about getting up the school-house; they are progressing fast. Praise the Lord. All hearts are glad and full of hope. Bro. Reed is full of life and doing all he can to make us all happy. I am going out into the country, to-morrow or next day, to see what I can do in talking the word of life among the people on the plantations about fifty miles off. The name of the place is La Grange. Pray for me, that I may do my Master's will in all that he has for me to do in his vineyard.

Some of the dear sisters have remitted to me some small sums of money for the sick, and it was all appropriated for that purpose. Thank you, dear loved ones. "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least" of them, "ye did it unto Me." Think of this. Pray for me.
B. WM. WILKINS.

For the World's Crisis.

PRAYER FOR HEALING.

"Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another that ye may be healed."—JAMES 5: 16.

It seems clear to me that forgiveness and spiritual cleansing should be sought first. "Seek first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness"; then whatever is best for us and most for his glory will be added.

I need not stop to argue with those who affirm that a sound body is the first requisite of a healthy spiritual state; but I will agree with them just so far as to say (what every one knows) that a sound body and firm physical health are desirable.

And the Lord is able now to heal the sick. He is able to heal ME! I think I never before was brought up to the point as I am now. It seems to me that even now I feel some of the healing power, and that it only needs the united prayers of my faithful praying friends to finish the work. And if it is for the glory of God, this will be done.

Devout reader, do you believe this? Will you pray for me that I may be healed? "The Lord's arm is not shortened that it cannot save, neither his ear heavy that it cannot hear." He will hear, and he will answer. Do not doubt it. Let every one who has the least interest in me pray earnestly that I may be healed. Not for my sake, but only for the glory of God. And let me from henceforth be wholly devoted to his service.

Brethren and sisters, one and all, pray for me that I may be healed.
Sutton, Mass. F. H. CHAMBERLAIN.

For the World's Crisis.

PLAYING DINNER.

I read an account of a dinner they had in one of our large cities the other day, where they had nice dishes and silver ware, splendid boquets tied together with costly ribbon; but, strange as it may seem, they had nothing to eat. I thought that a queer dinner, but it appeared to take well, because it was something new,—latest style.

A thought came to me after reading the account: that was about the way some of the churches are doing in these last days. They have nice dishes (so to speak), and they invite the people to come in; but it is about all dishes. Look nice, rattle them a while, and that is about all it amounts to; go to meeting hungry, go home hungry; like those that played dinner, they probably went away as hungry as they came. When I am hungry I want something to eat; all dishes and boquets will not do for me. It is the same in the other case. Give me the real food. The Lord helping, I will not be so particular about the dishes, if they are only clean. I had rather have some power than all form. I had rather be spiritual than fashionable. The Lord help us to be humble, then it will not be all dishes.

Dear brethren and sisters, you know how it is in these last days; it is meet, sing, pray, sing, preach, sing, then go—about the same as they came. I have nothing against singing when the Lord is in it. So I like praying when God helps; but I do not want people to pray and sing when God wants something else done. If the right one prays and sings it is all right, or speaks; if we will all speak or sing or pray when our turn comes, it will all be right. God will be pleased with such worship, and his children will be strengthened. Who will go in for a worship of that kind? If God wants the minister to preach, all right; if not, keep still. Some one will speak or sing if they do their duty. The Lord will direct the matter. Who will take a chance in a worship like this? Says one, That is not popular. No, I knew that before, but I tell you it will pay. I feel for one like taking a large share in just such a worship as this. Thank God, there are a few trying to worship in this way. It is everlasting life we want, and we think this is just the way to get it; so we labor on.

We are going to see better days just before Jesus comes. Preach the word, ye ministers; be instant in season. And to you, dear brethren and sisters, do your duty; if it is a word of exhortation, speak. Says one, The minister is going to preach. Well, let him preach when it comes his turn. Do your duty. God will bless. Sing, pray, exhort, old and young, one and all. The Lord help us, is the prayer of your Bro. looking for Jesus,
Concord, N. H. J. T KIMBALL.

For the World's Crisis.

MUSINGS.

BY ABBIE M. GRANT.

The cooling dew falls lightly,
The purple air is still,
All save the murm'ring waters,
And song-birds from the hill;—

His parting hymn he giveth,
Then seeks his place of rest,
The sun long since grew weary,
And went down in the west.

The pale-faced moon comes slowly
To light the waiting sky,
Her starry train draws round her,
Then hangs her lamp on high.

The moonlight brings me sadness,
Rememb'ring how her ray
Shone ghastly on the pillow
Of one who dying, lay

On his low couch at midnight,
With strange and altered tone,
With heavy labored breathing,
And low but painful moan;

And my young heart seemed frozen
With grief and childish fear,
While loud and bitter wailing
Fell sad upon my ear.

And some, too deeply stricken
For outward sign or cry,
Stood dumb with speechless anguish,
With phrenzied, tearless eye;

While wintry winds were 'plaining
With solemn, dirge-like tone,
And mockingly upon us
The cold, white moonlight shone.

And I ne'er see it shining
With clear, unclouded sheen,
But saddened thoughts come thronging
Of that remembered scene.

For the World's Crisis.

THEOLOGY AND PHILOSOPHY AT WAR.

While true philosophy never clashes with correct theology, it often happens that the received theology and philosophy of the day come in collision; and when this is the case, it is evident that either philosophy or theology must be defective. This is true of the seven-year-change-philosophy when applied to orthodox substitute theology, or to Bible substitute theology.

By substitute theology, I mean the sacrificial death of Christ for the sinner, in his stead. Modern theology insists that only the humanity of Christ died as a sacrifice, and that included his body. It is agreed, then, that whether Christ died in part only, or as a whole, his death included the body.

Therefore, as it will not be denied that Christ's body was mortal, and subject to the same change that other bodies are, it follows, if this seven-year-change-philosophy is unqualifiedly true, that Christ had really had four bodies prior to his crucifixion, and that it was his fifth body that was crucified. Does this agree with Bible testimony? Or was the crucified body the same one that was first introduced into the world? "When he cometh into the world, he saith, sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a body hast thou prepared me . . . we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ." Heb. 10: 5, 10.

Thus the very body that was prepared for Christ at the time he came into the world, was offered as a sacrifice on Calvary, despite the seven-year-change-philosophy to the reverse.—That kind of philosophy, which, if true, will rob us of the only sacrifice that God ever prepared for fallen man, and presents us with another in its stead, is not only at war with popular theology, but also with the Bible.

Christ came once, and will come "the second time;" not by proxy, in the person of a fourth successor. It is not true that the body which Infinite wisdom furnished as a sacrifice, passed into oblivion as a body years before the crucifixion.

That there is a continual passing off of substances received into the human system, is a conceded point; but when, on the strength of this fact, it is claimed that there is a total change of all that pertains to man, leaving man destitute of the principle of identity, except as we cling to immortal-soul theology for it, I demur. An array of facts, like an armed force, confront this claim, both from the Bible and philosophy in its undiluted form. This point we may notice at another time. WM. SHELDON.

For the World's Crisis.

SCOLDING.

BRO. GRANT:—The following is taken from the Church Monthly for Nov. I would like to see it in the Crisis. C. H. S.

"A little girl who had witnessed the perplexity of her mother on a certain occasion, when her fortitude gave way under severe trial, said:

'Mother, does God ever fret or scold?'

The query was so abrupt and startling that it arrested the mother's attention almost with a shock.

'Why, Lizzie, what makes you ask that question?'

'Why, God is good; you know he used to tell me he was the good man when I was little; and I should like to know if he ever scolded.'

'No, child, no.'

'Well, I'm glad he don't, for scolding makes me feel so bad, even if it is not me at fault. I don't think I could love God much if he scolded.'

The mother felt rebuked before her simple child. Never had she heard so forcible a lecture on the evils of scolding. The words of Lizzie sank deep into her heart, as she turned away from the face of the little one to hide the tears that gathered in her eyes."

☞ As a general rule, none obtain less sympathy than those who are continually running about to beg for it.

For the World's Crisis.

"WELL DONE."

When Jesus comes to judge the world, will he say "well done" to me? is a question which should be pressed home to every heart that professes to love God and keep his commands. And when this question is duly weighed in the mind, it is very easily answered; for the word of God is plain in teaching us what our work is as individuals, and the way to perform that work in order to have it said unto us "well done."

We understand by the Scriptures, as taught by our blessed Savior, that every person has a certain work to do, or a certain number of talents to improve; and we there learn that it depends altogether on how we improve them whether we have it said unto us "well done, good and faithful servants," or, "Depart from me," ye slothful servant. Many persons excuse themselves from duty because they have but one talent, and that a small one; but this excuse will avail nothing in that day. The smallest talent, if rightly improved, and willingly used, as God directs, will be of use somewhere, as the smallest piece of timber is of use in a structure of art. Then do not hide what little you have, but improve it. Let every person who is trying to be a servant of the Lord so improve whatever the Lord has committed to him that he may have the blessed assurance that he will say "well done." Let us all be willing to walk and do just as the Lord directs. If he gives us small things to do, do it willingly; and if he calls for a greater work at our hands, don't shrink back, but perform it in the strength of Him who will not require any more at our hands than we are able to perform.

The Master is coming in a little while to call his people to account, and he will bring his reward with him, to give to every man according as his works shall be. Then let us who are looking for him gird on the whole armor, and engage earnestly in the work which he has given us. Much remains yet to be done. Backsliders are yet out of the fold. Sinners are yet to be warned and invited. The people of God must be encouraged. The Gospel of the kingdom must be preached.

Dear brethren and friends, let us be engaged with all our hearts, and may it be said unto us finally, "Well done!"
Gilmanton, N. H. N. B. MCMURPHY.

SYSTEMATIC GIVING.

A great deal has been said as to how much we ought to consecrate to the service of God. It is an important question, on which every christian should come to a deliberate and prayerful decision.

We are only stewards, and a strict account will be required from all of us as to the use we have made of the temporal blessings entrusted to us.

When systematic giving is adopted; that is to say, when a certain proportion of our income or earnings is set apart to be given regularly to the Lord, either weekly, monthly, or annually, the custom tends to open our hearts, and it also relieves us from the effort otherwise required for each act of giving, as the money is then ready to pass on to some charitable object.

I feel confident that if any of your readers who have not tried this method will do so, they will never have cause to regret having made such a trifling sacrifice for the sake of our blessed Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, who has done so much for us.—Ex.

THE INFIDEL SON.

"I will never be guilty of founding my hopes of the future upon such a compiled mess of trash as is contained in that book (the Bible,) mother. Talk of that's being the production of an infinite mind; a boy ten years of age, if he was half witted, could have told a straighter story, and made a better book. I believe it to be the most—mess of lies ever imposed upon the public. I would rather go to hell, (if there is such a place,) than have the name of bowing to that imposter, (Jesus Christ,) and be dependent on his merits for salvation." "Beware! my son, 'for God is not mocked,' although, he beareth with the wicked long, yet he will not keep his anger for ever.' And all manner of sin shall be forgiven men, except the sin against the Holy Ghost; which has no forgiveness. And many are the examples, both in sacred and profane history, of men who have been smitten down in the midst of their sinning against that blessed Spirit."

"Very well, father, I'll risk all the cutting down that I shall get for cursing that book, and all the agonies connected therewith. Let it come, I'm not at all scared. "Oh! Father, lay not this sin to their charge, for he knows not what he does." "Yes, I do know what I am about, and what I say—and mean it." "John, do you mean to drive your mother distracted?—O my God! what have I done that this dreadful trial should come upon me in my old age?"—"Mother, if you do not want to hear me speak my sentiments, why do you always begin the subject? If you do not want to hear it, don't ever broach the subject again, for I never shall talk of that book in any other way."

The above conversation took place between two fond parents and their only son, who was at home on a visit from college, and now was about to return. And the cause of this outburst was, the kind-hearted and christian parents had essayed to give him a few words of kind admonition, which, alas! proved to be the last. And the above were his last words which he spoke to them as he left the house.

How anxiously those fond parents looked after him as though something told them that something dreadful would happen. What scalding tears were those that coursed their way down those furrowed cheeks! Oh! that they might have been put in the bottle of mercy! Poor wretched young man, it had been better for him had the avalanche from the mountain crushed him beneath its deadly weight ere those words escaped his lips. Little did he think that He who said "Honor thy father and mother," and, "He that hardeneth his heart and stiffeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy," was so soon going to call him to give an account for those words, so heart-rending to his aged parents, and so dreadful in the sight of a holy God. He had imbibed those dreadful principles from an infidel room-mate at college.

Beware, young men, with whom you associate, lest you fall as did this unfortunate young man. John B—— left his home and hastened to the depot, where he took the cars which were to bear him to M——, where he was in a few months to finish his studies. The whistle blew, and away swept the cars "across the trembling plain." But, alas! they had gone but a few miles, when the cars coming round a curve in a deep cut, came suddenly upon an obstruction on the track, which threw the engine and two of the cars at once from the rails. As fate would seem to have it, the wicked son, (John B——) was that moment passing between them. He was thrown in an instant from the platform, his left arm being broken and his skull fractured by the fall; and in an instant one of the wheels passed directly over both his legs near the body, breaking and mangling them in the most dreadful manner. Strange as it may seem, no one else was injured. The dreadful news soon reached his already grief-stricken parents; and ere long that beloved, yet ungrateful son, was borne back to them; not as he left, but lying upon a litter, a poor, mangled, raving maniac.

Why these pious parents were called to pass through this dreadful trial, He "whose ways are in the deep, and past finding out," only knows; except that by this sad example of his wrath many might be saved. Many skilful physicians were called, but the fiat of the Almighty had gone forth, and man could not recall it. When the news reached the college, his classmates hastened to see him. When they came, nature was fast sinking, . . . Oh! that heart-rending scene. His reason returning brought with it a dreadful sense of his situation. His first words were, and O, may never mortal hear such a cry as that again, upon the shores of time. "Mother! I'm lost! lost! lost! damned! damned! damned! forever!" and as his class-mates drew near to the bed, among whom was the one who had poisoned his mind with infidelity, with a dreadful effort he rose in the bed and cried, as he fixed his glaring eyes upon him; "J——, you have brought me to this, you have damned my soul! May the curses of the Almighty and the Lamb rest upon your soul forever." Then, like a hellish fiend, he gnashed his teeth, and tried to get hold of him that he might tear him to pieces. Then followed a scene from which the strongest fled with horror. But those poor parents had to hear and see it all, for he would not suffer them to be away a moment. He fell back upon his bed exhausted, crying, "O mother! mother, get some water to quench this fire that is burning me to death;" then he tore his hair and rent his breast . . . And then again he cried, "Oh mother, save me, the devils have come after, me. Oh! mother, take me in your arms, and don't let them have me. And, as his mother drew near to him, he buried his face in that fond bosom which had nourished and cherished him; but, alas! could not now protect, or shield from the storm of the Almighty's wrath; for he turned from her, and with an unearthly voice he shieked, "Father! mother! father, save me; they come to drag my soul—my soul to hell." And with his eyes starting from their sockets, he fell back upon his bed a corpse.—Earnest Christian.

For the World's Crisis.

LINES.

Dedicated to Sister Howard, on the death of her much loved husband.

He sleeps in Jesus and is blest,
For he has gained a quiet rest;
And when the Savior comes to wake
Our loved ones from the grave he'll take.

O! cruel death! how hard thou art,
To tear our friends from us apart;
We see them laid beneath the ground,
And all grows dark and drear around.

Our eyes grow dim with bitter weeping,
To think our loved one now is sleeping
Beneath the cold and silent ground,
But nought disturbs his rest profound.

I know it must be lonely now,
While death has paled his loving brow,
And his place is vacant by your side,
But O! may Jesus be your guide.

I know 'tis hard to say "farewell"
To those we love, when death shall call,
And see them lie in his embrace,
And we no more to see their face,

Till Jesus comes to wake the dead;
Then he'll arise from his low bed;
Then you will meet your dearest one,
And hear the Master say, "Well done."
North Dana, Mass. L. B. WEAVER.

For the World's Crisis.

A REFLECTION.

How intermixed in this life are joy and sorrow. Sometimes we are on the mountain top rejoicing; at another time we are in the valley of sorrow. The words of Jesus to his disciples were, "These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation. But be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." And the true christian knows what the apostle means when he says, "Sorrowful, yet always rejoicing." How sad the condition of those who have not this peace in Christ. When we have Christ for our friend, we are prepared to enjoy the blessings of this life. And then only are we prepared to endure with joyfulness our trials. A. WHITFORD.

DR. CHALMERS AND HIS VISITOR.—While very busily engaged one forenoon in his study, a man entered, who at once propitiated him under the provocation of an unexpected interruption by telling him that he called under great distress of mind. "Sit down, sir; be good enough to be seated," said Dr. Chalmers, turning eagerly and full of interest from his writing-table. The visitor explained to him that he was troubled with doubts about the divine origin of the Christian religion; and, being kindly questioned as to what these were, he gave among others what is said in the Bible about Melchizedek being without father and without mother, etc. Patiently and anxiously Dr. Chalmers sought to clear away each successive difficulty as it was stated. Expressing himself as if greatly relieved in mind, and imagining that he had gained his end, "Doctor," said the visitor, "I am in great want of a little money at present, and perhaps you could help me in that way." At once the object of his visit was seen. A perfect tornado of indignation burst upon the deceiver, driving him in very quick retreat from the study to the street-door, these words escaping among others: "Not a penny, sir; not a penny. It is too bad, it is too bad; and to haul in your hypocrisy upon the shoulders of Melchizedek!"
—Our Own Fireside.

SHORT PRAYERS.—There were but three words in the petition which Peter gasped out; but they were sufficient for his purpose. They reached the ear of Jesus, and his heart too. Not length, but strength, is desirable. A sense of need is a mighty teacher of brevity. Verbiage is to devotion as chaff to the wheat. Precious things lie in small compass, and all that is real in prayer in many a long address might have been uttered in a sentence as short as that which burst from the soul of the sinking apostle.

☞ "Heroine" is perhaps as peculiar a word as any in our language; the first two letters of it are male, the first three female, the first four a brave man, and the whole word a brave woman.

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—Paul.

For the Hygiene Column.

MY REMEDY.

BRO. GRANT:—As others are recommending healthy food, I wish to state a few facts which may be of use to those who are dyspeptic, or troubled with their food distressing them, especially if they eat meats. Four years ago I was not able to eat enough to support nature without distress, and "ding-bats" and Graham puddings I never could eat. All who know me well, know I do not eat one half the amount of common men, and never did from a child. I cannot get it into my stomach, and I always needed hearty food. Nearly all men come to a turn of life when forty or fifty years old, and there must be a change of diet and labor, or they run down. I came to the point at fifty-eight; my appetite was not sufficient for the requirement of nature, and my weight fell to one hundred and sixty-five pounds. I adopted the following rule: to eat just as much hearty food as tasted good, which was very little, and then take one half pint, or three gills of good new milk, sweetened with granulated sugar, and a little salt in it, and two common crackers, and top off with that instead of pies or cakes. This I followed for three months, and gained twenty pounds. It tasted good. In six months I weighed one hundred and ninety-two, and stand there now. I recommended it to one of my neighbors, who was troubled in the same way. He tried it four weeks. His blood came up; health improved, and gained ten to twelve pounds. On coming home, he told me the sweetened and salted milk had made him a new man.

Last fall, in Lynn, I found Bro. Ira Heath in the same situation. No appetite, blood low, of course taking medicine. I recommended this mode of living. He adopted it, and in three months I found him twenty-five pounds heavier, and he could eat meat, which he loved. If he ate the milk after it, it never hurt him.

One more case, and I close, although I might name many. I found Bro. Newell, of Portsmouth, with poor appetite, blood low, running down. His wife asked me to prescribe for him, at the same time sweetening and salting the milk she promised to get me if I would come there to dinner. I told him of my success and others in this way of living. He followed it three months. I saw him at Alton Bay campmeeting, fleshy, well, and heartier than ever before.

In a number of cases where young women had lost their appetite, and blood low, face pale, etc., trying this diet a few weeks they came up well and healthier.

If I can get these facts before the brethren, and they will try it, many will receive a great benefit, with little expense. Some think milk gives the headache. The sugar and salt make a body to the milk, and will digest. No headache is felt. If you drink strong tea, stop it, and use the sweetened milk in its stead, and drink a little, and that very weak, with your meat victuals.

Change of diet is better than medicine or doctors. Try it. Experience and experiment lead to much useful knowledge.
HIRAM MUNGER.

THE ART OF BREATHING.

The first, last, and one of the most important acts of life is to breathe, and there can be nothing more essential to life and health than to properly perform this function, and yet a majority of our civilized and enlightened people are utterly ignorant of the first principles of a correct inspiration. Millions of human beings pass through this life performing this act upward of twenty-five thousand times every day, or more than six hundred and fifty millions of times in a lifetime of seventy years, and yet they neither know why they do it, nor how to do it as it should be done. The consequence is their health is impaired in various ways, their vitality unnecessarily wasted, and their lives greatly shortened.

The conditions necessary for natural and healthful breathing are:

1. Pure air to breathe.
2. Freedom of motion of the respiratory organs.
3. A correct mode of inspiration.
4. Suitable physical exercise.

Most people think if they "go out to take the air" for half an hour a day that they fulfill the first requirement, even if they are shut up in close, unventilated rooms all the rest of the twenty-four hours, and many there are who do not even do as much as that. What the lungs require to purify and vitalize the blood, and give the finishing touch to the process of digestion, is pure air all the time, night and day.

The second condition, and equal in importance, requires an erect bodily position and an unrestrained movement of the chest and abdomen. A bent position of the body, with the shoulders drooping forward, habitual with many at all times, and often temporarily assumed by others, as when engaged in certain occupations, or when sleeping with the head elevated by bolsters and pillows, prevents the free expansion of the chest and lessens the amount of air inspired. So also, to a far greater extent, does compression of the chest and abdomen by corsets and tight clothing diminish the inspiratory power of the lungs, and weaken all the powers of life.

As many as nine tenths of the women of this country, and probably one-half of the men, scarcely ever use the principal respiratory muscle of the body—the diaphragm—in breathing. Tight clothing and a cramped bodily position prevent its action. The consequence is the chest is only expanded laterally, and the lungs but partially filled with air. When the diaphragm acts naturally, as it only can do when the body is unconstrained, it presses the stomach, liver, and bowels downward and outward at each inspiration, and the contraction of the abdominal muscles returns them to their position at each expiration, thus keeping up a constant motion of the digestive organs, which is essential to their normal and healthful action. Without this motion they can not act properly, and torpidity of the liver, constipation of the bowels, and other digestive derangements, are thereby induced. An example of the artificial mode of breathing can be seen in any fashionably dressed lady; the upper portion of the chest expands laboredly, because unnaturally, and that is all—there is no expansion of the lower part of the chest, of the sides, or the abdomen, as there is with those persons who have lived uprightly, physically speaking, and who have never tried to improve upon God's beautiful handiwork of the "human form divine" by pinching and squeezing themselves in accordance with the behests of Dame Fashion. New-born children always breathe correctly, as do animals of every kind. Look at them, examine them carefully, and go imitate them. In a natural inspiration the principal visible motion is in the abdomen. The upper portion of the chest expands slightly, the lower portion of the chest and sides expand more, and the abdomen most of all. Do not breathe through the mouth—the nose is the true entrance to the lungs, the mouth to the stomach. The natural position of the mouth is closed, and it should only open to eat, to drink, and to talk; the natural position of the nostrils is, open, and they never close, as, while life lasts, breathing never ceases.

Physical exercise is equally important in promoting the healthful action of the lungs, as it is of every other organ of the body. It hastens the frequency of breathing, and causes a greater quantity of air to enter the lungs at each inspiration, thus greatly increasing the quantity of inspired air, and more perfectly purifying and vitalizing the blood.—Dr. A. L. Wood.

THE TWO MEAL SYSTEM FOR CHILDREN.

Much has been said in this journal on the subject of the two-meal system, and it will probably be quite generally conceded by intelligent health reformers that two meals per day are sufficient for adults. But when we come to talk about children, it seems to be quite another matter. The mothers, especially, seem to think their little darlings must have at least three or four meals per day, with something to eat between, "for they are growing, you know, and need to eat oftener than others."

Doubtless, young and active children, who exercise much in the open air, can more readily dispose of three meals, and with less injury to themselves, than grown persons; but the question should not be, how much can the system be made to do in this direction? but how can the vital force be best and most economically expended?

It should be remembered that while vitality is manufactured from the food we eat, the digestion and assimilation of that food also causes quite an expenditure of vitality. A certain amount of food well and thoroughly digested, will make more and better blood than a much greater amount poorly and incompletely digested. It follows, therefore, that in order to receive the full benefit from our food, it must be perfectly digested and assimilated. It is an old saying among farmers that fifty acres of land, well cultivated, are better than one hundred poorly tilled, and it might as truly be said that two meals per day, well digested, are vastly better than any number incompletely digested.

Now, in the light of these facts, let us examine the question of two meals for children. It is a fact well known to physiologists, that nine-tenths of the people eat vastly more than is necessary, and of no class is this more emphatically true than of children. The majority of them are cramming from morning until night, in season and out of season. It is unquestionably true that if this dietetic error were so far corrected as to induce children to eat regularly, even three or four times per day, something would be accomplished; but true health reformers want the very best method, and should be satisfied with nothing less.

If two meals will furnish all the necessary vitality for growing children, and will make better blood, if well digested, than three meals poorly digested, as it necessarily must, then of course the two-meal system is the better. Probably no stronger argument need be adduced for this than actual experience, and of this we have an abundance. There are, in the families of health reformers in this city, children whose ages range from ten to fifteen years, who have adopted this system, and, so far as our knowledge extends, in every case where the practice is strictly and faithfully adhered to, a marked improvement in health has been the result, and probably in no community is there less juvenile mortality than among the health reformers of this place. But right here the question will arise, How early shall we adopt this system? A correspondent in the last Reformer asks if young children can do well on two meals per day. On this point we will also give one item of experience.

Our little boy, now less than two years of age, eats only twice in twenty-four hours; breakfast at seven, dinner at half-past one. Before he was a year old, he ate only three meals, with nothing between, and at the age of sixteen months, the third meal was discontinued. In two days he ceased calling for supper, and in less than a week had entirely forgotten it. In my opinion—and it is also the experience of others—the earlier this change is commenced, the more easily it can be brought about.

Probably there are but very few children who cannot be brought to this system before they are two years of age, and when once the practice is established and regularity is observed, the child will be far less liable to the many prevailing diseases which sweep so many of our little ones into premature graves.

Doubtless, the difference in temperaments and organizations may make some difference in the case with which the change can be made. Some mothers will say, "Why, my little boy wants to eat all the time, and I never could bring him to two meals a day." Such children have alimentiveness large, and are the very ones who should be taught early to control their appetites, before they become fixed and less easy to bring into subjection. Our little boy is very hearty and healthy, eats his food with great relish, but can see apples and other fruit in his reach, between meals, without touching it, except it may be to play with it as he would with a ball or marble. He has never eaten butter, meat nor spices, and if a mouthful of food is put into his mouth, salted as the generality of people eat it, he will spit it out with disgust. We call him a model health reformer, and he certainly furnishes good proof that young children can thrive and do well on two meals a day.—Health Reformer.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..............$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address......$5.60
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00.
Same rate for any number under ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give DISTINCTLY and PLAINLY the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to
MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,
THE YOUNG PILGRIM;
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.
TERMS:
Payable always in advance.
[illegible]

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 642. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 19.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,

Issued every Wednesday Afternoon at

167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:

S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,

TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

DE PROFUNDIS.

Draw me, O God, and I will follow thee!
Draw me in spite of my too vain excuse;
Draw me against my struggles to go free;
Draw me with claspings that I cannot loose.
Draw me by love alone, if that can be;
Draw me by love's rebuke, if so thou wilt;
Draw me by anger—only draw thou me!
Draw me although I loiter in my guilt;
Draw me although I seek not to repent;
Draw me although I cling to my despair;
Draw me by mighty succor swiftly sent;
Draw me before my lips shall cease their prayer;
Draw me before mine eyes can dry their plea;
Draw me, O God, and I will follow thee!

—Theo. Tilton.

For the World's Crisis.

ADVENTISM SOON TESTED.

What if 1868 passes without bringing the long-looked for King from heaven to raise the dead saints, and to establish his sinless and deathless kingdom on earth? Will not that put a quietus on Adventism? No; far from it. Time is in the Bible, and must not be ignored or repudiated; the passing of this or that point of time, instead of proving time an incomprehensible theme, would only prove that we had commenced the computation of heaven's measurements from the wrong epoch. If we have not now the full light of prophecy upon this theme, we expect we shall have it, for prophetic truth was to shine gradually upon the pathway of the church in "the time of the end," instead of shining in its fullness and clearness all at once.

The angel, after telling Daniel to "shut up the words, and seal the book [of prophecy] even to the time of the end," next tells the prophet what should take place in the time of the end," namely: "many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased;" so it is evident that prophetic light would not shine in its full brightness at first, but "be increased." This has been true. The light of prophecy has been shining brighter and brighter for the past quarter century.

Knowledge has been increased since Miller's and Wolf's computations of time have proved premature; and if 1868 should pass, the statement of the angel would be more fully verified, "knowledge shall be increased."

In the infallible programme of heaven, the different sections of earth's history of mortality and sin are so clearly marked off by the finger of inspiration, that we know we are in the last section, and near its termination; and a slight inaccuracy in computing our precise nearness to the termination of this last section, can never invalidate the fact that we are near the terminus of the prophetic programme.

If a reliable mind should inform a favorite friend that an exhaustless mine of gold was situated directly eastward from his residence, and that in order to find it he must take a road leading over four large mountains, and ten hills, and then a long ridge must be followed for 1335 rods before striking the mine, and should this friend feel a little uncertain just where to begin to measure this ridge—whether at its first elevation above the ground, or at the highest point—and finally conclude to measure from the first elevation, and fail to strike the mine, would he not then measure from a more prominent elevation?

And if he failed to strike the mine from this starting point, would he not then measure from the highest prominence, instead of concluding that nothing could be known about it? Certainly; after passing over the mountains and hills described to him, and after finding the ridge referred to, he would feel unshaken confidence; and after measuring off 1335 rods from the first elevation that appeared to be an appendage to the ridge, if he failed to strike the mine there, he would feel like saying, I am over the mountains and the hills, and even if I have commenced my measurement too soon, the greater share of the measurement is out, and I am very near the mine; and he would begin to count his distance from the next and the next prominence.

So with the prophetic student; he is traveling to a kingdom situated beyond four governmental mountains, ten governmental hills, and the long ridge of Papal supremacy, just 1335 prophetic paces from the true starting point of this ridge. It being a little doubtful whether certain elevations really helped compose this ridge, some anxious ones have ventured to include them in the measurement, and have consequently met with a disappointment.

But this is no argument against our nearness to the kingdom, nor against our finding out when the prophetic measurement will terminate. Adventism cannot be tested by the passing of 1868, even if it should pass; nor would that end time computation. Time is in the Bible.

WM. SHELDON.

☞ For a man to be just and respectable toward all mankind, he must first begin with himself. A man who is not able to make a bow to his own conscience every morning, is hardly in a condition to respectfully salute the world at any other time of the day.

For the World's Crisis.

JUDAISM OVERTHROWN.

"When they, therefore, were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?"—Acts 1: 6, 7.

It is evident from this question of the disciples of Jesus,

1. That Israel once had a kingdom.
2. That it had been taken from them.
3. That they expected its restoration.

The answer of Christ does not intimate that they were mistaken in their expectations. "It is not for you to know the times and seasons." That the disciples at that time had correct views of the nature of the restoration of the kingdom of Israel, is questionable. But after the Holy Ghost came upon them, they received power to understand. "Howbeit, when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth; . . . and he will show you things to come."—John 16: 13.

That the apostles ever taught any temporal restoration of the Jews, or of the kingdom, in this mortal state, I deny, and demand the proof. When the Jews rejected Christ as their king, it sealed their fate as a nation, and proved their eternal overthrow politically, and this was a matter of prophecy. Ezek. 21: 25–28. "And thou, profane, wicked prince of Israel, whose day is come when iniquity shall have an end; thus saith the Lord God, Remove the diadem, and take off the crown; this shall not be the same: exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high. I will overturn, overturn, overturn it, and it shall be no more, until He come whose right it is; and I will give it him." The Jews grew so audaciously wicked, from the days of Jeroboam, king of Israel, down to Zedekiah, that the Lord could bear with them no longer; but they must be punished severely; so they were carried off into captivity to Babylon for seventy years, Zedekiah dethroned, Jerusalem overthrown and burned with fire, the temporal line of kings of the house of David broken up, and has remained broken to the present time, although they had a tributary government, after their restoration from the Babylonian captivity, down to the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, A. D. 70; since then they have had no political existence whatsoever; and the throne of David, or Israel, is to be "no more, until He come whose right it is." This can only be the Lord Jesus Christ at his second advent to reign; as in Luke 1: 32, 33, "And the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David. And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end."

In the house of David, God promised to perpetuate the royalty of the kingdom forever. 1 Chron. 17: 9: 14,—"But I will settle him in my house and in my kingdom forever, and his throne shall be established forevermore." Ps. 89: 28–37, and 132: 11,—"Of the fruit of thy body will I sit upon thy throne." Also in Acts 2: 29-31, Peter, speaking of the patriarch David, says that "God had sworn with an oath to him that of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, he would raise up Christ to sit on his throne," etc. In Isa. 9: 6, 7, we have a prediction of the birth of Christ, and his attributes; also the eternity of his government and kingdom, on the throne of David, which is to be fulfilled after his second advent to this earth.

From the foregoing testimony, it is as clear as a sunbeam that the Jews can never again have any political government in this world. In Jer. 19: 11, under the type of the breaking of a potter's vessel, is foreshadowed the destruction of the Jewish nation. "Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Even so will I break this people and this city, as one breaketh a potter's vessel, that cannot be made whole again." Also in Dan. 9: 27, in a prophecy of the destruction of the city of Jerusalem, we read: "He shall make it desolate even until the consummation." And with this agree the words of Christ in Luke 21: 24,—"And Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled." The times of the Gentiles will not be fulfilled until the "stone cut out of the mountain without hands shall smite the image upon the feet" (Dan. 2nd chap.), representing the Gentile governments of earth; at which time Christ will receive "the throne of his father David"; and the kingdoms of this world will become his.

Julian, the apostate, emperor of the Roman Empire, attempted the building of the temple at Jerusalem, and the restoration of the Jews, in order to falsify the predictions of Christ and the prophets; but was signally defeated. Gibbon, the historian, says (vol. 2, pp. 436–439), "As the Christians were firmly persuaded that the sentence of everlasting destruction had been pronounced against the whole fabric of the Mosaic law, the imperial sophist would have converted the success of his undertaking into a specious argument against the faith of prophecy, and the truth of revelation. . . . He resolved, therefore, to erect, without delay, on the commanding eminence of 'Moriah,' a stately temple, which might eclipse the splendor of the church of the resurrection on the adjacent hill of Calvary. . . . The minister to whom Julian communicated . . . received an extraordinary commission to restore in its pristine beauty the temple of Jerusalem; and the diligence of Alypius required and obtained the strenuous support of the governor of Palestine. At the call of their great deliverer, the Jews, from all the provinces of the empire, assembled on the holy mountain of their fathers; and their insolent triumph alarmed and exasperated the Christian inhabitants of Jerusalem.

"The desire of rebuilding the temple has in every age been the ruling passion of the children of Israel. In this propitious moment the men forgot their avarice, and the women their delicacy: spades and pickaxes of silver were provided by the vanity of the rich, and the rubbish was transported in mantles of silk and purple. Every purse was opened in liberal contributions; every hand claimed a share in the pious labor; and the commands of a great monarch were executed by the enthusiasm of the whole people.

"Yet on this occasion the joint efforts of power and enthusiasm were unsuccessful; and the ground of the Jewish temple which is now covered by a Mahometan mosque, still continued to exhibit the same edifying spectacle of ruin and desolation. . . But the Christians entertained a natural and pious expectation that, in this memorable contest, the honor of religion would be vindicated by some signal miracle. An earthquake, a whirlwind, and a fiery eruption, which overturned and scattered the new foundations of the temple, are attested, with some variations, by contemporary and respectable evidence.

"This public event is described by Ambrose, bishop of Milan, in an epistle to the emperor Theodosius, . . . by the eloquent Chrysostom, who might appeal to the memory of the elder part of his congregation at Antioch; and by Gregory Nazienzen, who published his account of the miracle before the expiration of the same year. The last of these writers has boldly declared that this præternatural event was not disputed by the infidels. . . . While Alypius, assisted by the governor of the province, urged with vigor and diligence the execution of the work, horrible balls of fire breaking out near the foundations, with frequent and reiterated attacks, rendered the place from time to time inaccessible to the scorched and blasted workmen; and the victorious element continuing in this manner obstinately and resolutely bent as it were to drive them to a distance, the undertaking was abandoned."

Says Gibbon, "Such authority should satisfy a believing, and must astonish an incredulous mind." In this impotent but determined effort of Julian to restore the Jews to Jerusalem, Judaizers in our time may well learn a lesson of wisdom.

Some maintain that God has preserved the Jews a distinct race these eighteen hundred years, for the special purpose to restore them. I maintain, on the contrary, that they have been continued to vindicate God's faithfulness in executing his threatened punishment upon them, which is to continue to the end of time. Luke 21: 23, 24. I maintain, also, that all the temporal prosperity they ever enjoyed was on account of the covenant God made with their fathers—Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and because of the elect or pious ones in the nation. In the days of Moses, they became so rebellious and wicked that God threatened to disinherit them, and make of Moses a mightier nation than they; and it was only by the intercession of Moses that they were spared from instant destruction; but were compelled to wander forty years in the wilderness, till the carcasses of over six hundred thousand able bodied men fell in the wilderness, and only Caleb and Joshua, out of that number of adults that came up out of Egypt, were permitted to enter the land of Canaan.

After they entered Canaan they continued the same "stiff-necked" and rebellious race in persecuting the prophets and slaying those who made known the coming of Christ, and "filled up their measure of iniquity" in betraying and murdering him.

And now, after having supplicated the blood of Christ to be on them and their children, which appears to have been fulfilled in resting on them like a weight of lead for over eighteen hundred years (and also in falsifying the plain predictions of the Scriptures that foretell their continued desolation to the end of timess; that the Rothschilds, the bankers of Europe, are going to purchase Jerusalem and return the Jews,—is believed by many who profess to be Bible students.

The apostle Paul, in his epistle to the Galatians, to meet the Judaizers of that time, infallibly establishes some points touching this subject.

1. The justification of believers, whether of Jews or Gentiles, by faith in Christ, and not by the law. Therefore he says (chap. 3: 7), "Know ye, therefore, that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham." And this agrees with what he says in Rom. 2: 28, 29,—"For he is not a Jew which is one outwardly; . . . but he is a Jew which is one inwardly." Also in chap. 9: 6–8,—"For they are not all Israel which are of Israel; neither, because they are the seed of Abraham, are they all children; but in Isaac shall thy seed be called. That is, they which are the children of the flesh, these are NOT the children of God; but the children of the promise are counted for the seed."

Here Paul teaches that God has never regarded the Jew, as such, or because he was a Jew, but only as they have been in possession of the faith of Abraham. Therefore he says, Gal. 3: 16–18,—"Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is Christ. And this I say, that the covenant which was confirmed before of God in Christ, the law, which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect. For if the inheritance be of the law, it is no more of promise; but God gave it to Abraham by promise." Here Paul shows that the natural descendants of Abraham, as such, are not included in the promises, but only those who had the faith of Abraham; that is, had faith in Christ, by whom the promises have, and are to have a fulfillment. As in verse 29,—"There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in Christ Jesus. And if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise."

2. Paul teaches (chap. 3: 17) that "the law, which was four hundred and thirty years after" the promise, which pertained to the inheritance of the literal land of Canaan, by the natural posterity of Jacob, "was added because of transgressions, till the seed should come to whom the promise was made." So we see by this scripture that the law was only designed to be of temporary duration; and only by obedience to which the Jews could enjoy the blessings of that land flowing with milk and honey. But the promise made to Abraham embraced more than Canaan. It embraced the whole world. Rom. 4: 13, 14, "For the promise, that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith. For if they which are of the law be heirs, faith is made void, and the promise made of none effect."

In Gal. 4: 22–26, Paul speaks of the sons of Abraham, Isaac and Ishmael, the "one by a bond-maid, the other by a free woman"; "the one born after the flesh, the other by promise"; "which things," he says, "are an allegory; for those are the two covenants; the one from the mount Sinai [that is, the covenant of the law] which gendereth to bondage, which is Hagar [or the bond-woman]; which answereth to Jerusalem that now is, and is in bondage with her children. But Jerusalem which is above is free [which represents the children of promise]; which is the mother of us all," or all believers.

Therefore Abraham and the patriarchs sojourned in the land of promise, looking for the heavenly country. Also David, after he had reigned forty years in the land of Canaan, says,—"For we are strangers before thee, and sojourners, as all our fathers were." Also Ps 39: 12,—"For I am a stranger with thee, and a sojourner, as all my fathers were."

If in the days of David and Solomon, at the zenith of power and glory of the kingdom of Israel, they regarded themselves as but strangers and sojourners, as were Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the same land; does it not follow that they regarded it as but a type of the future inheritance of that land in the world to come (after the resurrection of the dead)? And now, after the kingdom of Israel has been broken in its temporal phase, can we expect it will be restored again temporally, when God has declared "it shall be no more until He come whose right it is"?

Then the true Israel, those who have the faith of Abraham, whether Jew or Gentile, will return to the everlasting inheritance, in a world restored; when Christ shall receive the "throne of his father David; and he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end."

Some hold to the view that the Jews are to return to the land of Palestine in connection with the coming of Christ; and are then to be converted, and probation continue through the "thousand years," and they are to act as special instruments in converting the Gentiles. We have not space to examine this point at length in this article; but we think this position untenable, for the following reasons:

1. When Christ comes, it will be "without a sin-offering."—Heb. 9: 28.

2. Christ will then come as "judge of the living and the dead."

3. He will separate the righteous from the wicked as a "shepherd divideth the sheep from the goats"; this he will do to ALL nations; receiving one class to glory and the kingdom, the other condemned to their merited punishment in "everlasting fire."

4. In the days of Noah, and in the days of Lot, the flood and the fire destroyed all the ungodly and the unbelieving, as soon as the righteous were secure. Christ says, "Even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed."—Luke 18: 26–30.

5. "In the time of harvest" Christ will say to the reapers, which are the angels, "Gather ye together first the tares to bind them in bundles to burn them." Matt. 13: 30. From the above Scripture we learn that the wicked on the earth are disposed of before the righteous receive the kingdom. Please read the explanation that Christ gives to his several parables in Matt. 13, and it will be seen that at the harvest (or judgment), instead of probation continuing after that epoch, rewards and punishments are to be administered according to character.

From Isaiah 6: 8–13, we learn that blindness, darkness and unbelief are to remain on the Jewish people "until the cities be wasted without inhabitant, and the houses without man, and the land be utterly desolate"; or as in the margin, desolate and desolation. Did such desolation ever occur, or will it until the scene described in Isaiah 24, and 2 Peter 3? Until then the blindness is on them. But there is to be a tithe who will return after this desolation ends. That tithe is the holy seed, or the elect out of the Jewish people.

In Dan. 8: 13, 14, we learn that the "sanctuary" is to be trodden under foot for 2300 years, and that is a period of indignation, both to the land and the people. The powers that are predicted to "tread down the host and sanctuary" are termed "the daily [or continual] and the transgression of desolation."

It is generally admitted by Adventists that the "sanctuary" embraces (at least) Jerusalem, and there can be no cleansing of that by human agency; but will be accomplished by the direct interposition of Christ, in the "time of trouble" that is coming on the world, under the "third woe," at the seventh and last trump, at which time the nations are angry, and God's wrath comes, and it is "the time of the dead that they should be judged," "and shouldest destroy them that corrupt the earth."

From the foregoing we can see that there can be no return of the carnal Jews to Jerusalem, either before or after the coming of Christ; nor probation after that event, for either Jew or Gentile. Amen.

O, Lord, prepare both the writer and the reader for the solemn judgment, which is but a step before us.

L. T. CUNNINGHAM.

☞ "Three things," said the Rev. Dr. Henry, "appeared to have been uninjured by the fall: the song of birds, the beauty of flowers, and the smile of infancy, for it is difficult to conceive how either of these could have been more perfect had man remained holy; as if God would leave us something pure to remind us of the Paradise we have lost, and to point us to that which we shall regain."

PRAYER.—The seed sown will never spring up unless it is watered by prayer. A man once said of his minister, "I love to hear him preach, because his preaching always causes me to pray."

THURMAN'S CHRONOLOGY.

For the information of some who have not read this work, we may say that this Chronology is established in seven different ways.

1. By the Bible. 2. By Astronomy. 3. By the Parian Chronicle. 4. By the annals of the kings of Tyre. 5. By the recent discoveries among the ruins of Nineveh. 6. By the Olympic games. 7. By the various historians.

And to give an idea how this Chronology is established by the combined authority of these seven different ways, we might here mention a few of the most important dates which Thurman and others consider immovably fixed.

1. Josephus gives B. C. 4125 for the beginning of creation, which is but one year short of the true Bible Chronology, which gives B. C. 4126, and is by Astronomy proven to be correct.

2. Both Josephus and the Bible give the same date (B. C. 2469) for the deluge.

2. Josephus gives B. C. 2040 for the time Abraham went to Canaan, which is again one year short of the Bible Chronology—2041.

4. For the time Israel left Egypt Josephus once gives B. C. 1614, once 1611, and four times gives 1610; which is again just one year short of the Bible Chronology, that is, B. C. 1611. This date is by Astronomy, the jubilee and the Sabbatical year, proven to be strictly correct.

5. The first jubilee commenced with the tenth day of the seventh month, B. C. 1563, according to both the Bible and the authority of the Jews.

6. End of the kingdom of Israel according to the Bible Chronology in B. C. 681, and proven to be correct by Astronomy, the recent discoveries among the ruins of Nineveh, and Demetrius, a learned Jew, who lived about two hundred years before the Christian era.

7. The eighteenth of Josiah is fixed to B. C. 583, which all, both Jews and Gentiles admit was a jubilee.

8. The captivity commenced B. C. 558, according to the Bible and Demetrius, which date is by Astronomy, the Sabbatical year, and jubilee proven to be correct.

9. The Bible and Clemens Alexandrinus are both agreed in placing the fall of Babylon in B. C. 491.

10. The first of Cyrus is fixed to B. C. 488 by Bible, Astronomy, and History.

11. The time Xerxes invaded Greece is fixed to B. C. 456, by Astronomy, History, and the Olympic games.

12. The twelfth of Artaxerxes, with which Daniel's vision of 2300 days begins, is fixed to B. C. 426 by the Bible, Astronomy, History, and the Olympic games.

13. The birth of Christ is fixed to B. C. 5, by Daniel's sixty nine weeks and the time of the death of Herod.

14. The crucifixion is fixed to A. D. 30, by Daniel's sixty-two weeks, "the death warrant of Jesus Christ," which was "engraven on a copper plate," and the Olympic games, and proven to be strictly correct by the unerring records of Astronomy.

15. Daniel's 1335 days end with the beginning of the seventy-first jubilee on the tenth day of the seventh month, 1868.

16. Daniel's "time, times and a half," the 2300 days, Moses' seven times, and the 6000 years of the world's age, all end in 1875; and since it has been so clearly proven that there must be an interval of seven years between the appearing of Christ and the end of these dates, they all point to 1868 for the year of that jubilee in which "ye shall return every man unto his possessions." Lev. 25: 13.

THE WAY TO BE USEFUL.

No man ever had more solemn views than Mr. Rowland Hill, of the true nature of the ministerial work, and of the necessity of an humble dependence on the Lord's assistance, for a blessing in it. One of his remarks was—"If favored at any time with what is called a good opportunity, I am too apt to catch myself saying—'Well done I'; when I should lie in the dust, and give God all the glory. Another was—"Lord make me distrustful of myself, that I may confide in thee alone. Self-dependence is the Pharisee's high road to destruction." "Oh dear," he said, "what poor stuff makes a preacher in the present day!—a useful minister must have brains in his head, prudence in his conduct, and grace in his heart; which is more than too many of the made-up talkers, who set up in these times for preachers, have."

"Some folks," he would say, "appear as if they had been bathed in crab verjuice, in their infancy, which penetrated through their skins, and has made them sour blooded ever since. But this will not do for a messenger of the gospel; as he must manifest a spirit of love." A minister having observed to him, that notwithstanding the fault found with his dry sermons, there were hopes of their usefulness, for Samson had slain the Philistines with the jawbone of an ass. "True, he did," replied Mr. Hill, "but it was a moist jaw-bone." He used to like Dr. Ryland's advice in his young academicians—"Mind, no sermon is of any value, or likely to be useful, which has not the three R's in it—Ruin by the Fall—Redemption by Christ—Regeneration by the Holy Spirit." Of himself he remarked, "My aim, in every sermon, is a stout and lusty call to sinners, to quicken the saints, and to be made a universal blessing to all."

It was a favorite saying with him—"The nearer we live to God, the better we are enabled to serve him. O how I hate my own noise, when I have nothing to make a noise about. Heavenly wisdom creates heavenly utterance." In a letter to Mr. Jones he observes—"There is something in preaching the gospel with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven, I long to get at. At times, I think I feel something like it; and then I bawl almost as bad as a Welchman. If we deal with divine realities, we ought to feel them such, and acknowledge the power that does wonders on the heart."

I love a serious preacher, who speaks for my sake, and not for his own; who seeks my salvation, and not his own vain glory. He best deserves to be heard, who uses speech only to clothe his thoughts, and his thoughts only to promote truth and virtue. Nothing is more detestable, than a professed declaimer, who retails his discourses, as a quack does his medicine.—Earnest Christian.

THE HEBREW SHEOL, HELL.

A most powerful—and to the priests, profitable—association of ideas, has been connected with the word HELL. By means of this association, they operate upon the fears of the fearful, and render them mental slaves and cowards, who dare not think for themselves, but accept their own opinions vicariously and pastorially. Thus the Divine government becomes frightfully misrepresented, christianity maligned, and infidelity engendered.

The vulgar, physical, and contradictory notions attached to the word "hell," as a place gleaming with flame, yet utterly dark, where bodies and immortal souls are made to suffer misery without disorganization, injury or death! find, indeed, a partial correspondence in Milton's Paradise Lost, but none at all in the Jewish Scriptures. The slightest collation of texts will show, that men have no authority for transferring the modern-made meaning of the fire-hell, with its pains and penalties, to the one Hebrew word, trifoldly translated grave, pit, and hell.

Sheol means something dug or hollowed out; literally, shooled or shoveled;—i. e., a pit or grave,—what is grooved or grubbed out. Hence also, what is covered, a shealing or hovel, a hole or hollow. All these words are kindred. In the Bible it never once stands for a place of torment. The modern quibble that the place hell is a figure for the state hell is pure moonshine. A "state" implies a "place;" and has, and can have no more meaning or sense, than the taste of a tart without either tart or taster.

When Sheol is personalized, or localized, it is always represented as within the present earth, and in regard to time, during, or at the boundary of this mortal life. In two or three texts it is used antithetically with Shamen, "heavens," i. e., the upper parts of the earth, or the depth beneath; but it is not in one solitary instance put as a place of roasting in opposition to one of rest, or as a place of suffering in opposition to one of bliss. The ancient Hebrews were complete strangers to the abominable conceptions of the modern hell-mongers.—Dr. Lees.

For the World's Crisis.

THE HIGHER LIFE: ENTIRENESS IN JESUS.

"Thus strong in our Redeemer's strength,
Sin, death and hell we trample down,
Fight the good fight, and win at length
Through mercy an immortal crown."

Holiness to the Lord: talk about it? pray about it? preach about it? write about it? breathe it out, live it out, act it out, sing it out, shout it out? Unquestionably; every look, thought, word, action—every moving muscle must witness for this glorious, overpowering gospel salvation. Our time, talents, property, influence—all that we are in body, soul and mind, must be for this glorious object. It must be the first thing rising up, the first and last lying down, the first going out, the first coming in.

"Holiness to the Lord" must be written on our foreheads, our doorposts, on the bells of the horses. "Yea, every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah shall be holiness unto the Lord." Zech. 14: 21. The very thought of being saved from sin in this life, through the blood of the Lamb, should fill us with ecstasy, joy unspeakable; cause us to shout hallelujah, glory to God in the highest. All heaven is in jubilee at the mere name of holiness. The heavenly host rest not day or night saying, "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come." Rev. 4: 8.

Holiness is the only thing that makes us like God. Nothing short of this can remove the curse of the fall, heal our spiritual maladies, restore the Eden lost. President Edwards says, "It was a part of God's original design in the work of redemption to destroy the works of the devil, and confound him in all his purposes. "For this purpose was the Son of God manifested that he might destroy the works of the devil." 1 John 3: 8. It was part of his design to triumph over sin, and over the corruptions of men, and to root them out of the hearts of his people by conforming them to himself. He designed also that his grace should triumph over men's guilt and sins in spite of demerit.

Friends of truth and love, advocate this blessed doctrine of the Bible; publish it, sound it out to the ends of the earth; pray for it; beseech God to perfect holiness in your own soul and in the souls of his people, that earth may blossom as the rose.

Beloved, ye who do pray, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven;" you that delight in this redeeming, purifying, sanctifying grace, whose souls are kindled to a flame at the name of "holiness to the Lord," what say you? Is it not time to bestir ourselves, prepare for battle? The weapons of our warfare are "not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong-holds, casting down imaginations, every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ." 2 Cor. 10: 5.

"Rise to a higher, holier life,
Ye who are called the sons of God;
And, girded with the Spirit's sword,
Go nobly to the strife."

We repeat with redoubled emphasis, why not preach it, publish it, pray it, declare it, day and night? Hold it up in all its clearness, fulness, freeness, gloriousness, preciousness, righteousness? Inculcate it, enforce it, insist upon it in the pulpit, in the prayer and conference meeting, at home and abroad, everywhere? Holiness is the thing, the great, the all important to save the church and the world, to convict, convert, elevate, purify; nothing else will suffice but this salt of the earth, this light-house, this elevated standard of piety, this assurance of faith, this fulness of joy; what ministers, church officers, and laymen need, must have to duly qualify them for the great work of salvation, to labor for God, to glorify God in their bodies and spirits. Why, then, is this blessed doctrine of the Bible kept in the back ground, put under a bushel, pushed from the pulpit and the press, viewed by some as erroneous or fanatical?

Do not ministers and editors and the people see and know something is wanting, that professing christians generally are not living for God? that very many are cold, indifferent, proud, covetous, worldly minded, selfish, conforming to customs diametrically opposite to gospel purity and simplicity? Do they not see and know the dreadful, lamentable state of things in our cities, villages and country places? that iniquity abounds, and the love of many is cold? Some do see it and weep over it.

One beloved minister in our vicinity has been laboring, toiling, mourning and weeping, for weeks and months (in the old beaten track), to bring his people to a sticking point, arouse them from a state of lethargy, stupidity, worldliness and calamity. He is aware that preaching to sinners over a dead church is labor lost, worse than useless. Therefore his object has been to arouse the church, lead them to a preparation of soul and spirit to labor for God, to pull sinners out of the fires of hell. Has he succeeded while keeping back part of the price? Alas! his soul is burdened, distressed, at the little success hitherto. With all his preaching, praying, exhorting, weeping between the porch and the altar, the object is not attained.

What's the matter? God speaks once, twice, three times, and man perceiveth it not. Tell this good brother he began at the wrong end, that he is neglecting to comply with a positive duty, that God has a controversy with him, will he believe you? Tell him to begin at the right place, where God would have him, tarry at Jerusalem till he and his people receive power from on high, the special influence of the Holy Spirit, the tongue of fire.

What now? sinners sleep? How was it with Peter on pentecostal day, after his reception of the spiritual baptism? How with the multitude? "Lord, save, we perish." "Men and brethren, what shall we do? "The same day were added to them about three thousand souls. Let holiness prevail in all the churches, entire consecratedness to the work of saving souls. Glory dawns—Satan falls as lightning. Hallelujahs ring from pole to pole; the kingdoms of this world become the kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Glory to God in the highest. Let it come—it must come. "Yet a little while, and he that shall come will come, and will not tarry."

"Let us to perfect love restored,
Thy image here retrieve,
And in the knowledge of our Lord
The life of angels live."

D. F. NEWTON.

For the World's Crisis.

THE LORD WILL COME.

"For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie; though it tarry, wait for it; because it will surely come; it will not tarry."—HAB. 2: 3.

Yes, weary pilgrim, it is the immutable promise of Jehovah. Fear not. The Lord will come, and that speedily. Ah! yes, this doomed, unbelieving, sin-ruined world is soon to witness a spectacle which will far outshine the grandest of earth's scenes. The crowning of kings and monarchs, the triumphal march of conquerors, the glories of the Crystal Palace, are as the glimmering of a taper to the noon-day sun, when viewed beside the dazzling splendor of that day.

And you, ye toil-worn, despised pilgrims, shall be exalted then. The rich, and great, and proud of earth, in utter dismay and confusion will meet an awful doom; but your "good time" will then have come. "He shall appear to your joy, and they shall be ashamed." Then will be fulfilled the prophecy of Zephaniah,—"I will get them praise and fame in every land where they have been put to shame."

But, says some faint-hearted, fearful one, "We supposed the Lord would have come long ere this. His coming is delayed so long, I hardly know what to think." Stop, brother. Had our Lord come back in '44, God's dealings with the church in this age would have been different from his usual mode of dealing with his children. We should have been an exception to the general rule. We seemed to forget, back there, that every particle of faith in God or his word must be tried. Thus it has always been. Saints in ages past have always had their faith tested. Now, suppose the Lord had come then; how would our faith in his coming have been tested?

Witness the deliverance of the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage. God had promised to bring them into the land of Canaan. And they were left to groan and sigh under the bitterest servitude for many years. At length the long-looked-for time of deliverance came.

We might mention the case of David. He had been anointed king of Israel. Yet for about the space of seven years was he most bitterly persecuted—driven from cave to cave, hunted as a partridge upon the mountains by the wicked king of Israel, till his faith almost sank. At that moment deliverance came, and he was raised to the throne of Israel. Your Bro. in hope,

H. P. STEBB.

Northfield, Mass.

☞ It is easy to look down on others; to look down on ourselves is the difficulty.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.
Boston, Wednesday, Jan. 22, 1868.

☞ Take Notice! All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable in advance, at the rate of $2.00 a year.

☞ Please Remember! All communications to the office, in the form of letters, [illegible] and postal money orders, should be made payable to the Business Agent, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS. Our correspondents should remember that [illegible] of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the [illegible] Geo. T. Adams, directing it to Miles Grant, [illegible] Post Office [illegible].

☞ CASH RECEIPTS. Our subscribers in Massachusetts and Maine will find their credit of money received for the Crisis on the strip pasted on their paper, which shows the date to which their subscription pays, instead of the No., as formerly acknowledged. Others will be sent likewise as fast as we get each State so arranged. So you can look at the date on your paper, and see if it is changed after sending us money.

THE COMING OF CHRIST.

The subject of the coming of Christ is continually receiving more and more attention from the friends of Jesus. Those, who a few years since, had no interest in these things, are now very anxious to hear on the subject. We think this interest will continue to increase till all the followers of our Lord will be looking for his coming; while the great mass of the world will become more and more opposed to the preaching of this great truth; and will take the position that Christ is making his second advent in Spiritualism. A large number of those who once enjoyed religion are now drifting into Spiritualism, and many thousands have wholly embraced it fully, and have wholly rejected the plan of salvation as taught in the New Testament. They treat the whole subject with contempt, sneering at the idea that we are to be saved through Christ. We think the world will be divided into two classes at the coming of Jesus; one loving the Lord, and looking for his personal appearing; and the other will be Spiritualists, and will include the great mass of the human race.

The number of the various churches who are interested in the evidences of the speedy return of our great King is small when compared with the whole number of church members; and yet so many more are becoming interested, when they come together, they make larger congregations than we have had for many years. We feel very much encouraged to labor in this glorious effort to arouse as many as possible to be ready for the great day of the Lord. It is time for all who see this truth to lend a helping hand in spreading it everywhere, as far as lies in their power. If all who are satisfied that we are in the last days, would let their light shine, and be willing to be scoffed at by the enemies of the cross of Christ, great good would be accomplished. Many might do much if it were not for their fear of displeasing some who do not love the appearing of our Savior. Those who act on that principle are sure to lose ground, and be found unprepared for the event. Thousands are starving for the rich heavenly manna on which some of us have been feasting for years. Shall we not lend our aid and assist them to see the glorious hope? If we can be instrumental in persuading even one to get ready to meet Jesus it will pay for a life labor. But who is so weak that they cannot do something towards leading men to Christ? If we devote all our energies to the service of the Lord we shall be astonished at the happy results. Our working days are nearly all spent. Let the remnant be well improved. What joy will fill our hearts should we hear Jesus say, "Well done;" but who can bear the thought of hearing him say "Depart ye cursed."

Once lost, and we are lost forever. Who can endure the thought of being shut out of the everlasting kingdom. Dear reader, let us make sure of a home there, if we have nothing here. We can well afford to be poor and despised in this world, if we can only secure the glories of the next. When trials and temptations come upon us, we shall do well to think of the value of eternal life, and ask ourselves, can we afford to lose it for the sake of any thing to be enjoyed during this short life? Who will say yes to this inquiry? Let us be wise, and "lay hold on eternal life" before it is beyond our reach.

Our Life-giver is coming soon to reward all the saints. Will our course of life secure the prize? Let this question come home to our hearts, and let us attend to this matter first. Secure the highest prize, if the small things of this life should be neglected in consequence. If we gain the whole world and lose eternal life, we have lived in vain. "The wages of sin" is a poor reward for a life service; but all we shall get for serving Satan will be sorrow, remorse and misery while we live, and death as the final wages. Who can afford this? Where is the profit arising from sin? "Godliness is profitable unto all things, having the promise of the life that now is, and of the one which is to come." If we would be ready for the coming of Christ, we must be pure in heart, then we have nothing to fear. We can sing "All is well."

☞ Wanted at this office, the Crisis, No. 14, Dec. 18th, 1867. Also, No. 16, Jan. 1st, 1868. Thankful for past favors.

[illegible] ITALY.

Italy is at present [illegible] critical [illegible] of the Papal power. Events do not come along quite as rapidly as we expected, but they are sure to come, because foretold by the prophets. Nearly all the great prophetic chain of events are now matters of history, and the last one—the earth's closing drama cannot be far in the future. The Pope has lost nearly all his dominion in Italy, and with it his temporal power also. He has no kingdom left under his control. The ten divisions of Italy have all revolted, and become bitter haters of the church at Rome. We believe the "ten horns," on the scarlet-colored beast, who were to hate the harlot woman and take away her dominion, have done their work successfully since 1859. Those ten divisions are as follows:—Sardinia, Lombardy, Venetia, Parma, Modena, Illyria, Tuscany, San Marino, States of the church, and Naples.

In a Catholic commentary on Rev. 17th chap., published about 1860, by J. F. Bird, when speaking on the 17th verse where it is declared, "God hath put in their hearts to fulfill his will, and to agree, and give their kingdom unto the beast until the words of God shall be fulfilled," says:—"By the late Italian war—the war of 1859—the same two Catholic powers [France and Austria] that altered, broke up, or joined the toes, have now repaired and arranged them again. Now, after the war in Italy, the Catholics have got all their kingdoms—all the toes—ready, all ready to be given up. The Italian war of 1859 was, as it were, for this very purpose. And it ceased suddenly when this object was accomplished. The Italian war raised up an additional kingdom—the kingdom of Venetia. . . . So that viewing the late Italian war of 1859 in a Scriptural point of view, the object of it was to get the toes of the statue, . . . ten Catholic kingdoms—ready for the beast." The writer makes Mohammedanism the Little Horn of Daniel, and says, "The Little Horn will come to his end on the 23d of April 1868." He thought the Mohammedan power would take Rome in 1864, and occupy it three and a half years, till the latter part of 1867.

We introduce the foregoing to show the fact that there are ten divisions in Italy, represented by the ten horns on the scarlet-colored beast. These were to hate the harlot woman on "the seven hills," and make her desolate by taking away her dominion. All that now remains to be done, so far as we can see, is the total destruction of the seven-hilled city, either by human or divine agency. We do not know of any Scripture which marks the precise time between the taking away of the "dominion" of the little horn, and the appearing of Christ; but from reading the context in the eighteenth and nineteenth chapters of Revelation, we think it cannot be long. We may expect more light soon. The last events in prophetic history are at hand. It has become a very grave question with the great powers of Europe, especially France, What shall be done with Rome? Shall the Pope be allowed to exercise his ecclesiastical authority in the old homestead, or must he depart to some other country? Rome is the most fit place for his residence. To him there is no place like Rome. We think it will be thought best by Napoleon to have him remain at Rome as long as he lives; and to this the Italians may consent, if he will not attempt to exercise temporal power over them.

As the temporal power of the Pope has passed into the hands of the Italians, so far as the ten horns are concerned; and the dominion is taken from him, the "time and times and the dividing of time," during which the "times and laws" were "given into his hand," must be either ended, or just at their close.

The following is a proclamation issued by Major Ghirelli, commander of Garibaldi's Roman Legion, on arriving in the Papal States:

"PROCLAMATION—In the name of the Roman People reigning, His Majesty Victor Emanuel II., by the Divine Providence and the National will, King of Italy:

Citizens—In order that the arms of liberators may never be even momentarily unaccompanied by order, which is the supreme attribute of liberty, I assume the provisional government of the commune occupied by the Roman Legion.

To you, children of the people who gave the world the genesis of law, I need not recall that law claims respect and observance from all.

Citizens—The temporal power of the Popes has ceased to exist. Rome hails the dawn of her regeneration. We do not come to force conscience nor to impose preconceived designs.

We return to our homes, and in the folds of the glorious banner which waved beneath the sun of Palestro, San Marsala, Calatafimi and Castelfidardo, we bring you freedom to choose your lot.

The Commander of the Roman Legion,
JOHN PHILLIP GHIRELLI.
Headquarters, Oct. 15, 1867.

As the result of losing his dominion, the Pope, during the past year, has been obliged to look on and see the church property confiscated by the Italians and sold to pay the expenses of the government. Fifty years since, none but a student of prophecy could expect to see that mighty power at Rome reduced to its imbecile state. But the facts are before us, and the prophetic word is verified before the church and world. The kingdom of God must be "at hand." This is the hour to watch.

AN ANCIENT PROPHECY.—A correspondent of the Boston Transcript, writing from Ulm, South Germany, among other interesting matter says:—

"There is an ancient prophecy among this once powerful people, which says: 'When the steed of the Sultan shall go to wet his foot in the river Rhine, and quench his thirst with its waters, then look! for the Moslem power will be falling to its ruin.' The last summer months saw the Rhine waters troubled by the plashing hoof, and the Sultan's Arab steed drank of it to quench his thirst and wet his nostrils. And the signs of the times! do they point us to the convalescing or expiring sick man [illegible] saying, I suppose, [illegible] bright and prosperous. The 'true believers' were very averse to the visit of the Sultan to Paris and [illegible] and put in motion an avalanche that may hasten the downfall of his power."

VISIT TO QUEBEC.

Here we are again among the icebergs, biting wintry winds, and cutting cold, so peculiar to this locality. When we stepped from the cars at Point Levi it seemed as though we had really reached the polar regions. Huge piles of ice greeted our eye, and heaps of snow, with a morning temperature of eighteen degrees below zero. The winter here, thus far, has been unusually severe. The people in the States hardly know much of winter when compared with what is felt and witnessed here. The cold air here is dryer and purer than in the States, and does not produce such a chilly sensation as is often felt there. One feels invigorated by this atmosphere more than by that further south.

The people dress much warmer than in the States, and show much more common sense in the style of their dress, especially the women. Here they wear warm and comfortable shoes and caps; so that they do not seem to mind the weather any more when eighteen degrees below zero than the people of New England, when the mercury stands at zero. Every one here,—man, woman and child,—wear caps. We saw no one with a hat on; hence the writer could be designated as the man that wears a hat. We were truly a "gazing stock." The people passing in the streets would stop and gaze with wonder at the Yankee infidel, who receives the scorn and contempt of all the popular clergy and the mass who are under their influence. The people in the States have but a faint idea of the church power exercised over this city, surrounded by massive walls, with mounted cannon pointed so as to defend the streets leading through its five gates. It makes one think of the days when Rome put men and women to death because they would not support the church on the seven hills. If a merchant or mechanic receives the frowns of the church for embracing the blessed hope of the gospel, as some have done here, they do it at the peril of their business. But few have courage to face such a powerful influence, and risk every thing for Jesus; but those who do, are living epistles, known and read of all men, and capable of giving a reason of the hope in them. The Lord has raised up a number of such noble souls in this city, who are fully competent to defend the truth of the Bible before any of the clergy of the city, and do it in a manly and christian manner. No amount of scoffs and frowns have any weight on them. They must have a thus saith the Lord. Mere assertion will not convince them. They have found that error is noted for the bold assertions of its defenders. We have rarely met more intelligent christians than some of the members of the church in Quebec. They have kept up their meetings without a preacher, for several months; and, by the help of the Lord, have been able to defend their hope against all the attacks of their subtle enemy.

Our meetings yesterday, Jan. 12th, were seasons of refreshing and special interest. We had a number of very interesting testimonies after the morning sermon. One man, who gave a heart-cheering testimony, said he was established in infidelity when he first came to our meetings, a year ago. Then the Boston Investigator, a noted infidel paper, was his favorite reading; but now the infidel darkness was all gone, and he was happy in the Lord. This glorious change was brought about by his being led to see that the Bible was in harmony with reason, commonsense, and facts, in teaching that man is a mortal being, and must obtain immortality "by patient continuance in well doing." Other infidels were converted also, in consequence of hearing on the nature of man, the resurrection of the dead, and the destruction of the wicked. We are expecting to see others start soon, and we are more and more convinced that the truths we have embraced, for the belief of which we are called "infidels," are of first importance to this generation, to provide the church with an armor against Spiritualism, the last great delusion of the devil. The Bible is so plain and harmonious on the subject of man's entire mortality, we do not see how any one can come to any other conclusion.

It is very evident from many facts gathered that large numbers have been made infidels by the preaching of the natural immortality of man, and the consequent doctrine of eternal misery to the unsaved. As the Bishop of Quebec said, this subject has become "a very grave question. We are glad to find the theological waters so troubled on the subject. We trust they will not soon become quiet again; for the people are beginning to demand an examination of this grave question." Those who stand opposed must bring something more than contempt and ridicule if they expect to get our attention, or make any impression on our minds. We have learned that Satan is often most bitter against the important truths. We have also observed that often Satan's best tools are those who once enjoyed religion, or who may now be known as intelligent persons, but they have become conformed to the world, and hence blinded; and consequently are easily deceived by the cunning wiles of our great adversary. To such he transforms himself into an angel of light; thus gaining their confidence, and persuading them to adopt his policy, by means of which he succeeds in neutralizing the power of the gospel and the influence of its defenders. In short, backsliders are Satan's best weapons, [illegible] of Christ. [illegible] all ages. [illegible] doctrines held by the church which they support. Their doctrines are made the test of fellowship, instead of holy living,—creeds, instead of the Bible. A large number of the sects have arisen on non-essential points of doctrine. To these they adhere with the strongest tenacity; while they are almost destitute of brotherly love, without which we cannot be the disciples of Jesus. Let us all profit by our experience, and [illegible] a happy [illegible]. We had a large and very attentive audience, and all seemed specially friendly. We found it easy speaking, because the people had ears to hear. The truth was received joyfully, and we trust it will bring forth an abundance of good fruit. Some prominent citizens were present; among them was the leading Methodist minister in the city. We feel very much encouraged. In our next report, we hope to be able to give some additional good news.

THE QUEBEC DISCUSSION.

As soon as we arrived among the icebergs of Quebec, we were informed that the one with whom we were to hold a discussion had "backed out," hence victory was declared without striking a single blow. We learned that our proposed opponent was considered the best qualified of any one in the city to meet the question, and said he could use us up in half an hour, and even in less time; but it appears that courage failed at the hour of action. There is much stir about the matter, and the people feel an increased interest to hear on the subject.

We found the following in the Quebec Chronicle, on our arrival in the city, Jan. 11th:

"NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

"The religious discussion advertised in this paper will not take place, in consequence of Mr. Phillips refusing to meet Elder Grant, according to his written agreement. As Eld. Grant has traveled from Boston in consequence of said agreement, he is prepared to meet in public discussion any clergyman or gentleman, who will take the negative of the question advertised, or any other of a similar nature. Elder Grant will meantime lecture throughout the week in the Temperance Hall, beginning Monday, the 13th, each evening, at half-past [illegible], on the following subjects:—'Man entirely mortal'; 'His future life dependent on Jesus and the resurrection'; 'The complete eradication of evil from God's universe, by the destruction of evil men and demons'; 'The second coming of Christ, and the setting up of his everlasting kingdom.'

Religious services three times on Sunday, at half-past ten A. M., half-past two P. M., half-past six evening. A collection will be taken up at the close of each service."

We learned that the Bishop endeavored to discourage our opponent, telling him the question was a "very grave one."

CANADA MEETINGS.

We have been highly delighted thus far with our visit to Canada. The Lord has been pleased to comfort our heart with great peace, and a very bright hope of a home in the coming kingdom. Never were we better satisfied than now, that those who are looking for the speedy coming of Christ are looking for just what the Bible warrants them to expect at the present time. We have not a doubt on this subject. All is clear that we are near the time when the kingdom of God will be set up to "stand for ever." We find the people anxious to hear on the evidences of the coming of our great King. Notwithstanding all the failures, and the misconduct of many, still the people are earnestly requesting preaching on the second advent of Christ. The Spirit seems to be impressing their minds that "the end of all things is at hand."

Our meetings in Melbourne were excellent. The audiences were large, attentive, and solemn. We never had a better hearing there, nor ever saw more happy results. We only had two evening meetings, but some six or seven requested prayers, and the saints were greatly comforted and strengthened, and expressed it joyfully. Earnest calls came in for meetings in the surrounding towns. They came from eight to forty miles to the meetings, and felt as though they could not be denied the privilege of having some meetings in their own neighborhoods. We are glad to find the children of the Lord manifesting an increasing anxiety to have the people hear the glorious tidings that Jesus is soon coming. They are not satisfied to enjoy it alone. This is as it should be, and now is the time to make the effort. If preachers cannot be obtained, get tracts and scatter. Get up neighborhood prayer-meetings. Let each child of the Lord become a home missionary and converse with the people on the all-important subject of the coming of Christ, and blessed results will follow. Begin at once,—to-day, this evening. Time is short.

DANVILLE MEETINGS.

We have had a very interesting time at Danville. We had four meetings; three in the evenings, and one in the afternoon. They were all precious seasons. The Spirit of the Lord was specially present to admonish the sinner, and comfort the saints. We had a delightful visit at Bro. Porter's excellent pilgrim home, where the children of the Lord always find a hearty welcome. He is the pastor of the church, and for twenty-five years has been an ardent lover of the appearing of Jesus, and anxiously waiting for his coming. Those who met him at the last Wilbraham meeting will remember him as the man with one arm and only three fingers.

Large audiences were present at our meetings, and among them prominent members of other churches, some of whom took an active part in the exercises, showing a true christian spirit. We have never left Danville better pleased with the results of our meetings than at the close of this visit. Quite a number requested prayers, and expressed a strong desire to be christians. The people took great pains to get to meeting, not regarding cold nor distance. We were astonished at the efforts made by some in order to be present. It is a pleasure to talk to such people. They have "ears to hear." They are of that class who rejoice in the truth, and are willing to make a sacrifice to obtain it. They buy it and "sell it not." They have a pleasant house, warm and generous hearts, and a strong love for our coming King. We parted with them with bright hopes of an early meeting in the kingdom of heaven.

A VALUABLE WORK.

We have just received and examined a valuable work, issued by Dr. E. P. Miller, 15 Laight Street, New York City, which should be read by every body. It is entitled "ABUSES OF THE SEXUAL FUNCTIONS." We most heartily recommend it to our readers as a work containing important information for all classes. Every young man and woman, and every married man and woman, should read it. A vast amount of suffering, as well as physical, mental, social and moral ruin, would be prevented if all were acquainted with the facts contained in the work, and would follow its excellent advice. We think every one who gets the book would not be without it for ten times its cost; and many had better give a thousand dollars for it, rather than be without a knowledge of its valuable contents.

For sale at the Crisis office. Price, paper 75 cts.; muslin $1.00; tinted $1.25; which we will send, postage free, on receipt of the price.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

We would say to the brethren and sisters who subscribed towards fitting up the new camp-ground, those who have not as yet paid their subscriptions, that the committee have already expended several hundred dollars in the work; and that other engagements have been entered into, which will require the payment of several bills within a few weeks. So that where the friends can, if they will please forward the amount of their subscriptions soon, it will confer a favor upon the Committee, enabling them to meet the bills promptly. Any who have not subscribed, and who are disposed to help in fitting up the ground, are cordially invited to do so. Please direct to

GEO. T. ADAMS, Treasurer.

PROPHETIC CHART.

This Chart will be ready for sale by the 25th of this month, January, 1868. It is a large, illustrative Chart of the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation, with the arrangement of chronology in harmony with W. C. Thurman, giving the chronology of the world, showing the 6000 years will terminate in 1875. Also giving the Jubilee arrangement, briefly showing that the great Jubilee will fall in A. D. 1868. It brings out conspicuously the great Image of Daniel 2nd chapter; also the Beasts of Daniel 7th and 8th, with the leopard beast and scarlet-colored beast of Rev. 13th and 17th chapters, with a description of the great red dragon of Rev. 12th chapter, all in large size, making it a grand thing in aiding preachers, or any one, in understanding prophecy. The size will be about six feet square, mounted, for the use of churches, or for traveling preachers.

Send in your orders immediately. Price, $10.00. For sale at this office.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office.

NEW TRACT.

"THAT MAN OF SIN." By Eld. O. R. Fassett.

The above is the title of a new tract just published by the W. A. C. P. Association, to which is added "The Only Hope," and "The True and Only Hope of the Church." An interesting and valuable tract. Price 5 cents single, postage 2 cents; 50 cents per dozen, postage 6 cents.

Stories for Young Pilgrims.—Vol. II.

Another neat little volume of 200 pages, with 12 illustrations, has been issued by the Advent Christian Publication Society, and is for sale at this office for 80 cents postpaid. A good book for your Sunday School library. Send for one.

For the World's Crisis.

ORDINATION.

Bro. Alpheus D. Flagg, of Jersey City, was ordained to the work of the gospel ministry Dec. 22nd, 1867, by a vote of the Advent Mission church of New York City. The ordination sermon was preached by Eld. T. J. Cox, prayer by Eld. Henry Davis, and charge by Eld. A. H. Brown, after which Eld. Cox gave the right hand of fellowship.

We cordially recommend him to the confidence and fellowship of all christians as a minister of Christ, qualified to labor and perform all the ordinances of the house of God.

In behalf of the church,
A. H. BROWN, Clerk.

BRO. HENRY PRATT, Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 31st, writes:—"Our meetings are increasing in interest as never before. I baptized three last Sabbath, and five more are only waiting for milder weather. Our new hall will soon be too strait for us, if the interest should continue as it has for two weeks past. We are all astonished at the wonderful works of God in this place."

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the [illegible] Society, on [illegible] Friday, Aug. 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the coming year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments	$285.64

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	89.60
R. C. More	.40
Mrs. M. Percival	1.50

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$3653.54
John F. Linville	1.78
George W. Brown (pledge paid)	25.00

1 barrel clothing from Whitefield, N. H., by C. Libby, and $1.00 in money. 1 barrel clothing from Castleton, Vt., by R. Mathewson. 1 barrel clothing from Lowell, Mass., by S. W. Thurber, and $3.10 in money. 1 barrel clothing from Mattapoisett, by J. B. Smith, and $3.75 in money. J. C. Newhouse $5.00. All for the poor of Memphis Mission.

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments	$116.37
Emma J. Chandler	10.00

For the World's Crisis.

MISSION LETTERS FROM SWITZERLAND.

NUMBER TWENTY.

BRO. GRANT:—During the unusually long time that has elapsed since my last letter to America, I have found no time to write you. Having decided to make Italy my field of labor for the winter, partly on account of the state of my health, and desiring much to visit again the dear saints in the valleys of Piedmont, and also extend my labors to other parts of this country, to do all in my power to scatter the seeds of truth where error has so long had dominion, I was much occupied before leaving home in making preparations for my long absence.

I left Switzerland about the middle of November, returning to Italy by the same route that I left it with my family, a little over two years before, passing Mont Cenis on foot, the snow being at the time between two and three feet deep.

I was much encouraged by my visit to Piedmont, seeing that the good seed scattered there during my fourteen months' sojourn among that dear people had not been unfruitful. I could spend but three or four days there, but during that time I held five assemblies, which strengthened much the faithful few, and encouraged others, who were hungering and thirsting after the truth, who manifested a desire to join the little flock, and watch (Luke 12: 38,) among whom was an Evangelist, Bro. Ferrari, who desires also to proclaim the coming of our Savior. Dear Bro. Besson wished much to accompany me, and share my labors from place to place, and he is capable of aiding me much, especially in this country; but unfortunately I am destitute of means to provide for his family, and supply his daily necessities, and Italy is too poor to use hospitality, having thousands of poor in the streets to feed, so that with a sad heart I left him.

From La Tour, Pellice, I turned my steps to Turin, where I found some of my Polish compatriots, and others, apparently disposed to receive the present truth of the gospel of the kingdom, among whom I am happy to mention Louis Kossuth, formerly Dictator of Hungary, with whom I had a very pleasant interview. He accepted a prophetical chart and a volume of the Evangile Eternel, promising to examine them, saying that this great question of the kingdom of Christ was not new to him. May God bless him abundantly, and his dear nation.

Being unable to obtain a suitable place for lectures in Turin, I left that city after stopping three days, and pursued my way. By the grace of God I was enabled to sow the good seed in the environs of Biella, Vercelli, Martara, and Novara, which I hope will bear good fruit, and then to visit this large and beautiful city, where I have spent three weeks and labored as the Lord has opened the way. Having no means to hire a hall in a central locality for public lectures, as I much desired, I labored from house to house, and held several small assemblies, and trust that thus some good has been done. I have been privileged to find some souls here well prepared and disposed to receive the truths of the kingdom, especially two ladies of intelligence and influence, and several members of the Vandois church. Among these are a pastor and two evangelists, with whom I have had warm religious discussions, and for whose conversion to the pure truths of the gospel I have much hope. Several young men, Catholics, also listened attentively to the word, and manifested much interest.

I expect to leave this city to-morrow on foot for Verona, Padua and Venice, thinking that by continuing my colportage from place to place until a wider door shall be opened for me. I shall form acquaintances, and scatter many seeds of truth, that I trust will not be lost.

Picture to yourselves, dear brethren and sisters, a soldier of Christ, fifty years of age, carrying a fifty lbs. weight of books, tracts and papers from place to place, who often knows not where to lay his head at night, crowded with correspondence; and who, while resting, writes articles for the Evangile Eternel, to send each week to St. Blaise; and pray for him, and if possible aid him to finish the work you enabled him to commence. Soon will the servants of Christ receive their recompense, and we, if faithful, shall be delivered from all our tribulations.

May God bless you all abundantly at the commencement of the New Year, 1868, which will be rich in events, for which the church of God should be prepared.

Your affectionate Bro. in Christ,
M. B. CZECHOWSKI.

P. S. I pray dear Bro. Brower to send me no longer the Bridegroom. I am obliged to refuse it, being unable to pay the four or six cents postage on each paper. M. B. C.

Milan, Italy, Dec. 22, 1867.

☞ We trust there are many generous hearts among those whom our Lord has appointed as his "stewards," who will not read the above appeal in vain. Let not the faithful harvesters be forgotten.—ED.

☞ Very few, if any, can bear continual prosperity in this world, without being lifted up in heart; hence it is often necessary that our brightest schemes be blasted, and we be humbled in the dust, and learn more fully than ever, that all our help must come from God.

For the World's Crisis.

THE DORCAS MISSION.

The following report will inform our friends of the total amount of our receipts and expenditures for the six months ending Dec. 31st, 1867.

Contributions in this city and elsewhere for preaching, $23.27. Individual donations in various places visited, $10.15. Sums received at the Home from callers from this city and others, $313.16. Donation from the former managers of the Home (Quaker ladies), $100.00. From a brother in Bristol, R. I., $175.00. Amount received by mail, $842.33. Monies received at the Wilbraham campmeeting, $[illegible].64. Amount received at the Alton Bay campmeeting, $238.27. Sales of rags, carpet balls, etc., $9.77. Making the total amount received by me from all sources, $1764.59.

Expenditures: Spoons, 75 cts.; crockery, $4.77; cloths, $6.17; two iron bedsteads, $10.00; stationery and stamps, $11.07; knives and forks, stove-pipe, boiler, buckets, brushes of various kinds, brooms, etc., $19.54; Express bills, $29.67; gas bill for three months, $8.26; Dispensary, $65.09; ten tons of coal, $67.50; donations to assistants at the Home, rents, traveling expenses, $226.46; wages of the cook, repairs, etc., $197.35; donations to the poor around us in money, and in provisions bought for them, $233.32; general expenses, which include the purchase of shoes, shoe-strings, cotton, thread, pins, needles, ink, matches, nails, starch, soda, soap, and a score of other things, $144.50; provisions for feeding the entire household, $731.17, or less than $4.00 per day on the average; funeral expenses of Mary Ann Biddle, the little orphan girl who died at the Home, $13.50. Thus the total amount of our expenditures was $1764.-62.

During those six months we received thirteen and a half barrels of clothing, etc., and after supplying the Home, the balance was given to the needy around us. It is now my purpose, by the will of God, to give extracts from my journal from last June and onward, which I hope may comfort the hearts of those who trust in the Lord. We render all praise to our heavenly Father, who has helped us hitherto, and in whom we trust to-day for all things.

May He bless the Editor and the readers of the Crisis, and all others who love Jesus Christ in sincerity. Amen.

Pray for your affectionate brother in Christ,
708 Lombard St. F. H. BURBANK.

For the World's Crisis.

ARE WE ALMOST THERE?

Are we almost there? How often do the saints of God in this world of sorrow, pressed by the afflictions of life, ask this question,—Are we almost there? How often when hope is almost gone, when darkness comes over them, when light is unseen, do they lisp forth the inquiry, Are we almost there?

When the world persecutes us for Jesus' sake; when we are despised by those around us; when our names are cast out as evil; when we are held up as gazing stocks by our old associates; when we are derided and ridiculed by men, we ask, Are we almost there?

When we see the professed disciples of Christ, those with whom we have taken sweet counsel together, with whom we have walked to the house of prayer, turn again to the world and forget their first love; when the church joins with the world in scenes of amusement and dissipation, of folly and sin, of frolic and mirth, go with them into many vain things; when we see the breach in the church caused by this union, and see the sad condition of the church, do we ask, Are we almost there?

When we have to face the storms of this life to bear to dying men the glad tidings of salvation and the story of the cross, and meet in this work of mercy with the mocks and scoffs and rebuffs of the world; when the cross presses heavily upon us; when our duties are arduous, our work great, and we small and weak and frail, do we cry out in an agony of suspense, Are we almost there?

When we see the advancing tide of iniquity that is sweeping in upon both church and world, read the history of crimes and sins, see the downward course of humanity; when we see the effect of the curse on old earth, the falling leaf, the decaying blossom once so beautiful, the drooping bud, the withering blight; when we see earth bring forth thorns and thistles, disease and death; when we see old age and gray hairs, the stooping form and drooping frame, the dimmed eye and faltering step; we ask, Are we almost there?

When we stand by the couch of suffering and the bed of death, and see the clammy sweat upon the marble brow, see the dying struggles of some loved friend, see them grasp with the grim monster and last enemy death, contending with an enemy with whom they are not able to cope, and see them forced to yield to his power and close their eyes in death; when we see the grief of afflicted friends, of parents and children, of brothers and sisters, hear their sighs and see their tears; when we consign all that was once lovely of our friends to the grave, to await the sounding of the trumpet that shall awake the dead and call the sleeping forth; when we are compelled to part with those we love in gospel bonds; we ask, Are we almost there?

Ye watchmen on the mountain's height, are we almost there? Are we almost through with the persecutions and afflictions of life? Are we almost to the end of sin and iniquity in the present world? Have we almost done with the crosses and labors of time? Are we almost done with old earth, with its curse? Are we almost done with scenes of suffering and death? Are we almost done with the things of time? Are we almost there? Say, watchman, say, are we almost there?

Yes, we are almost there, we are almost there. Soon shall earthly scenes be gone, and sorrows all be flown. Soon shall we be free from trials and sorrows, cares and crosses. Soon shall we meet at home and be for ever blest. Yes, brethren, yes, we are almost there. God speed the time.

EDMUND MOULTON.

☞ Count the cost of loving God more than you love money. Count the cost of offending some of your friends. Christ is a better friend than they. Count the cost of quitting "profitable" sins. Count the cost of some sneers, of a great many hard knocks, and still more hard work. Count the cost of a noble, prayerful, unselfish, godly life. It will cost dearly; but, thank God, it pays!

☞ Time, patience and industry are the three grand masters of the world—they bring a man to the end of his desires; whereas an imprudent and turbulent murmur oftentimes turns him out of the way of his proposed ends.

For the World's Crisis.

WHAT PEOPLE WILL TALK THE MOST ABOUT.

I find that people who seem to love money better than anything else, talk about money the most of any thing; and they not only talk about it the most, but also how they can secure the greatest amount of it. Then I find that people who seem to like this world better than anything else, talk about it more than anything else; and not only talk about it, but also how they can stay in it the longest.

I find that people who like the world to come better than they do anything else, talk about the world to come more than anything else, and also how they are to gain an admittance into it.

I find that people who love this life better than they do anything else, talk about this life more than anything else; also how they can preserve it the greatest length of time; and some go so far as to get it insured.

I find that people who love that life to come better than they do anything else, talk about that life more than of anything else, and how they are to conduct themselves in the life that now is, so as to be accounted worthy to obtain that which is to come, when He who is their life shall appear.

In conclusion, I am one of those who think or love that life which is to come better than anything else, and because I think it will far surpass anything I have ever enjoyed in my present existence. Hence it follows that it will be perfectly natural for me to talk the most about that "life which is to come," which I expect will not be like the one that now is, but one that will never end.

There is nothing that will grieve me more than to be in a meeting where the people are so particular about what they have said in it, as not to like to have others talk the most about what they honestly love the most.

Clinton, Mass. A. S. WHITNEY.

Correspondence.

From Bro. P. A. Smith.

BRO. GRANT:—Yesterday was a glorious day here for those whose hearts have been made glad by hearing the tidings of the soon coming kingdom. Last evening we had a very large and attentive congregation; a number started to be disciples of Jesus. I preached on baptism, and the Lord blessed in the presentation of that glorious subject, and when I finished the discourse, some responded immediately to the claims of the gospel, to be baptized. It was cheering to see them so ready to say "I am a candidate for baptism." Next Sunday we expect to lead those willing ones down into the St. John's river, that beautiful body of water, and bury them in the likeness of the death and resurrection of their Master, and then to administer the Lord's supper. It would do you good to see the firm, unyielding faith of some of these disciples. Glory to God, for the unspeakable privilege of being permitted to deal out the "bread of life" to the famishing sons and daughters of Adam.

After the close of the afternoon discourse on the "new birth," a man came forward and wished to talk with me. He said the remarks that I made in regard to captains and sailors coming into the hall, and the power of truth effecting them, "touched my case. I am a sailor, and a great sinner. I have been in Boston, and have heard Eld. Adams preach." And as he said, "Will you pray for me?" the tears run down his face.

There is here the most visible manifestations of the workings of the Holy Ghost accompanying the word to the hearts of wicked men and women, that I ever witnessed. This southern country is the hardest place, except California, I ever saw wherein to live a christian life. The habits of the people are such; there is so much dissipation, so much frolicking and dancing; and if the young people feel under the most powerful conviction, it is almost impossible to keep them away from amusements, which bring condemnation on them. It requires constant watchcare and labor to keep the sheep from running off with the goats. If ever there was a place that needed strong men, it is here; men who will be ready to lay down their lives for Jesus and his gospel. The opposition is mostly from the ministers and the church members; but, in spite of all their opposition, the work goes on in power. Pray for us.

My health never was better, thank the Lord. O! how sweet it is to labor for the Lord, after having been afflicted so long with the asthma. I will praise him. Yours in hope of eternal life, P. A. SMITH.

Jacksonville, Flor., Dec. 30th, 1867.

From Bro. H. Pratt.

BRO. GRANT:—I found some fifteen or twenty in this place that had been drawn together by the tent meeting of Brn. Brewer and Decker in the fall, who are still holding on to the blessed hope. They have a small room, formerly occupied by the Quakers, where they meet, and so much the more as they see the day approaching. Some say they were drawn from the bondage of Sabbath-keeping, as they saw plainly the days had not ended, and are striving to release others as earnestly as they sought to get them into it. They are united and happy.

The Congregational minister, Mr. Bennet, gave us the use of their chapel three nights, and a Presbyterian minister, Mr. Marvin, invited us to occupy his desk Sabbath evening.

The severity of the weather made the attendance small till Sabbath, when we had a good congregation at the Temperance Hall, and a large and attentive congregation at the church in the evening. Mr. Marvin is a devoted man, and is an earnest inquirer after truth. He was much interested in the subject, as was his congregation and another minister present. He expressed his desire to hear more upon Christ's coming, and had not there been a conference this week in his church, I should have staid longer.

Never have I found preachers more affable than here. God bless them. O for judicious and experienced laborers. Will other churches listen to the voice of God through his holy prophets, and get ready for the kingdom? I hope our brethren that have been disappointed will not be discouraged, or go off into exclusiveness, but, like Garibaldi, leave home once more and battle for the Lord. Rome has not fallen, neither have the nations of the earth; therefore there is work for him and us.

I had supposed that in Lockport, where the time had been preached so positively, that great prejudice would prevail; but it is otherwise, among some at least, and the interest in the church here is greater than before. May the Lord guide us safely into port.

Lockport, Dec. 16, '67. H. PRATT.

From Bro. J. Cleveland.

BRO. GRANT:—Since the closing up of the last year and the ushering in of the present, I have felt very solemn, for it has seemed to me for some time in the past that 1868 would bring our blessed Lord to earth again. I ask myself the question, Is it so? and if so, am I ready to meet him? is my work well done? It is a very startling thought. When I consider that none but the pure can enter the kingdom, I think, perhaps I may be left out. Oh, how can

"I bear the piercing thought
To have my worthless name left out"?

I cannot have it so. I must be there. I will, by the grace of God, be there.

I have long since given up this world, and for twenty-five years have been striving for the kingdom. I cannot give it up now. It won't pay. I must be there, if it costs my life; and to-night, while watching with a sick father, who must in a very few days fall by the relentless hand of death, my heart is sad; yet I am made to rejoice, for I know it will not be long before I shall see him again on the other shore.

I thank the Lord for the heavenly prospect of soon meeting the loved of earth, where death and the tomb can divide us no more. Oh,

"I long to be there, and the thought that 'tis near,
Makes me almost impatient for Christ to appear."

I am well satisfied that this present year will bring the Savior the second time, or give us more light than any year of the past. Brethren, let us watch and be sober, and hope to the end for the grace that is to be brought at the revelation of Jesus Christ.

Tunbridge, Vt. J. A. CLEVELAND.

From Sr. C. Bragg.

BRO. GRANT:—I am very much interested in the paper, and would like to say a word of encouragement to its readers. I hope you and all that profess to love the cause of Christ and his coming may have grace and wisdom to direct in all your ways. I fear sometimes that those that set time are unwise. I think time is in the Bible, but when there is such a diversity of opinion, it would seem to be a cause of stumbling, reproach and unbelief among those that might otherwise be inclined to examine the doctrine advocated in your paper. I have for a long time thought time would be known a little while, at least, before Christ come; how long I do not know; but I expect that most of the watchmen will see the time alike. When that time comes I shall have some confidence in time.

I feel that the end is near. The Advent movement at first was of God, and is from heaven; but there have been so many failures I really hope the brethren will be sure that duty calls them to set time ere they venture to bring unnecessary scoffs upon a cause of so much importance. MRS. C. BRAGG.

Vergennes, Vt.

From Bro. O. D. Woodruff.

BRO. GRANT:—I have just returned from a visit to Mattawan, Mich. I went to do the will of the Lord, and the Spirit was poured out, and sinners and backsliders reclaimed. About twenty have come out on the side of the Lord and the blessed truths of the Bible.

This little band of believers desire the sincere milk of the word, and would be glad to have any brother in the Lord passing that way give them a call. Mattawan is situated on the line of the Michigan Central railway, and the district where we held the meetings is about four miles south of the depot. Any brother wishing to call there can correspond with Bro. Wm. Keen, Mattawan, Mich.

These people have never heard of Jesus' coming, and kindred doctrines, in the light of the gospel before, and they now want gospel food. May the good Lord send them some faithful laborer. Your Bro. in Christ, O. D. WOODRUFF.

Southington, Ct., Dec. 31st, 1867.

From Sr. M. Foss.

BRO. GRANT:—My Bible, the Christian, and the Crisis, constitute my daily reading. When I fail to get either, I deeply feel the loss. It is almost two years since I laid aside the Ledger and all other fictitious reading for the Crisis, and I have great reason to be thankful that ever the Crisis and Christian came under my observation. Your Sister in Christ, looking for immortality when Jesus comes, MIRIAM FOSS.

Lower Gilmanton, N. H.

BRO. P. A. SMITH, Jacksonville, Flor., Jan. 6th, writes:—"The sound of the gospel of the kingdom has gone through the surrounding country for a hundred miles. People that come into the city on business drop in and hear one discourse, and go into the interior and spread the tidings of two wonderful men preaching in Jacksonville. The result is, we have calls to go to different parts to preach. They want to hear.

This city is to Florida what the city of New York is to the State of N. Y.; and we think we should remain here until we establish a basis of operations, organize a church, and at the same time scatter tracts by boats and travelers into the interior.

O what a field this is to work in! But a person must have means for his own support. It will not do for a man to come here without money. Money is scarce; board is high; but with means a person can put up a house cheap, as the weather is so warm the buildings can be occupied without being plastered, and then he can live cheaper than to board. Property is changing hands fast; many are going to raising oranges. Many groves are being set out. Northern people are coming here fast from all of the northern States. There is plenty of opposition. The devil is here, stirring up the people, as in the days of the apostles. Yours in the "blessed hope."

Obituaries.

HISCOX. Died, in Stafford, Ct., Jan. 9th, Mrs. Laura S. Hiscox, aged forty years.

Sr. H. was converted several years since, and baptised by Bro. Mathewson; has been a consistent christian, and during her last illness manifested that christian patience and fortitude which always tell in favor of Christ. She suffered most intensely for months from a cancer, which broke out in several places on her body, and the pain she said was not unlike the sting from bees constantly. She longed for rest, and it came at last. She sleeps in Jesus. She selected Matt. 24: 44 as the text from which her funeral sermon was to be preached. Also the hymn, "I would not live alway," to be sung. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." E. OWEN.

SPRAGUE. Died in Sangerville, Me., Dec. 30th, 1867, E. G. Sprague, aged seventy-four years. SARAH P. SPRAGUE.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

ADEN, Arabia, Jan. 4, via LONDON, Jan. 15. The Bengal brigade is passing through this city to embark on steam transports to Annesly Bay. Additional steamships are being hurried off to Bombay for troops to reinforce the army. The authorities have learned that force must be used to free the captives held by the Abyssinian king.

FLORENCE, Jan. 14. Italy is the first European Government to recognize the restoration of the Mexican Republic by a diplomatic appointment. Senor Scovasso, now Colonel General at Belgrade, has been appointed Minister of Italy to the Republic of Mexico, and will leave at an early day for the Mexican capital.

LONDON, Jan. 15. The Fenian officers and men who were arrested on the 31st of December at Merthyr Tydvil, in South Wales, have been examined and committed for trial on a charge of treason.

It is stated that Prussia has joined France and Austria in their notice to the Government of Servia censuring its hostile preparations.

PARIS, Jan. 14. The Patrie to-day, in a leading editorial, says the Governments of France and Prussia have agreed to act together on the Roman question so far as to restore the relations between the kingdom of Italy and the States of the Church to the exact status created by the Semptember convention between Italy and France. The Patrie hopes Italy will not interpose any obstacles to the accomplishment of their purpose.

The appearance of the pamphlet on the foreign relations and domestic affairs of France, which is being prepared by Prince Napoleon, is eagerly awaited by the public.

VIENNA, Jan. 15. The approach of the frigate Novara having been signaled from Trieste, the Emperor Francis Joseph, the Archdukes and other members of the Imperial family left to-day on a special train for that city to receive the remains of Archduke Maximilian.

TURIN, Jan. 15. A delegation of Italians, with Gen. Mezzorcappo at its head, has gone to Trieste to be present at the landing of the remains of Maximilian.

TRIESTE, 15th. The fleet bearing the lamented Maximilian's body on board, entered the harbor of Trieste this morning. The frigate Novara was boarded by the Archduke, who covered the catafalque containing the corpse with wreaths of flowers. Great preparations are being made in the city for the funeral ceremony.

LONDON, 16th. It is reported that Lord Bloomfield, British Minister to Austria, and Lord Clarendon have gone on a mission to Rome to request the Pope to use his influence with the inhabitants of Ireland for the suppression of the Fenian agitation.

LONDON, 16th. The aggressive policy of the Russian Government in the Eastern question causes much alarm in Turkey. The Northern Post of St. Petersburg has a noticeable article on the subject, which declares that Russia does not desire an extension of territory; that her only aim is to secure the safety of her christian subjects.

The St. Petersburg asserts that both England and France have urged the Sultan to make extensive military and naval preparations in the Mediterranean.

BRUSSELS, 16th. Intelligence of the death of the Archduke Maximilian, was for the first time communicated to his widow, Carlotta, four days ago. What effect this announcement had upon her mind and health is not known, as no report has been made as to her condition.

Trieste, 16th. The remains of Archduke Maximilian were landed from the Novara this morning with the most solemn ceremonies, and in the presence of immense crowds, gathered on buildings, piers and shipping. In the city, public and private buildings were draped in mourning, and the flags were covered with crape. Business was suspended, and the stores were all closed. On the vessels in the harbor and on the wharves flags were at half-mast.

At 10 o'clock the procession escorting the corpse from the place of landing through the city. The cortege was preceded by a body of cavalry, and consisted of the municipal government of Trieste, clergy in their vestments, the hearse loaded with flowers, the Archduke of the Empire, Admiral Tegethoff, Embassadors of foreign nations, Austrian officials of high rank, foreign consuls, various corporations of the city and the people generally. A division of infantry brought up the rear.

A feeling of profound grief was everywhere shown by the vast multitude who lined the streets and thronged the houses along the route of the procession.

The day was very fine. Almost the entire population was assembled to honor the memory of the Archduke, who was greatly beloved by the people of this city. The solemnity was one of the most touching and impressive spectacles ever witnessed.

LONDON, Jan. 17. The Turkish government is seeking to raise a loan in the English market, the proceeds of which are to be applied to improving navigation at the mouths of the Danube.

Advices from Hong Kong and Shanghae have been received, which state that another battle had been fought between the rebels and imperialists at Shingturn. The imperialist army, which was under the command of Footal, was again defeated.

CORK, Jan. 10. A strict search of the person and baggage of George Francis Train disclosed no proof of complicity with Fenian movements or anything justifying his arrest by the British police on suspicion of being concerned in Fenian plottings. Mr. Train asserts that he came over to Europe as the special correspondent from Ireland for the New York World. He has formally protested, through the United States Consul, against his detention, and declares that he was arrested on no other ground of suspicion than the finding of an Irish paper in his trunk.

DOMESTIC.

Washington, Jan. 14. Official accounts were to-day received from Crete, dated Dec. 17. The Provisional Government addressed a manifesto to the representatives of the Christian powers, expressing the futility of Ali Pasha's packed assembly, and publishing statistics of the popular vote, protesting against the delegates of the Turkish Commissioner. The Cretan Government further protests against the massacres of the Turks, and details a number of atrocities committed by them. The Cretans scornfully reject all concessions, and declare that they come too late. After two years' fighting they want their liberty and the expulsion of the Ottoman power.

New York, Jan. 17. By the arrival of the steamship Australian, one day's later details of news is received. The doings and intentions of the Fenians continued the all absorbing theme of the English journals.

The Paris correspondent of the Brussels journal Le Nord says: It has been proved that the Fenian organization has its accomplices in France, and that its name is legion. Searches have been made by order of the prefect of police in certain quarters which have led to the seizure of correspondence between English Fenians. Among it were discovered plans of fresh outrages to be carried out in England, one of which is the destruction of the fleet, and names of the most important correspondents of the Fenian movement in London. The discovery has been kept quite secret, but the documents have been forwarded by the Police of Paris to the Government of Great Britain.

Some of the survivors of the battle of Montana having met at a fraternal banquet in Montana on the 16th ult., the following telegram was sent to General Garibaldi:

"Some of the survivors of Montana send their General an affectionate greeting. Push on the completion of our unity. Call upon us; we are ready."

The General sent the following reply:

"CAPRERA, Dec. 22, 1867.

My Dear Fingi: I have received from a lady the following motto: 'Victory is achieved by perseverance.' I hope Italy will remember the motto next Spring. My affectionate compliments to the companions in arms of yours, G. GARIBALDI."

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 15. Gen. Scott, Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, will issue a circular letter to-morrow, announcing that the government has again devolved upon him the duty of distributing food to the people of this State for the double purpose of relieving suffering and preventing the recurrence of like destitution. Relief will be granted to the full extent allowed by the government, but only to the extremely destitute and those about to plant a sufficient area in cereals to insure them provisions for the next year, and who have a reasonable prospect of being able to repay the government the cost of the provisions advanced.

THE EMPEROR'S PRIZE.—The Emperor Napoleon has received the hat and sword which the Pope blessed at the last consistory, and which, according to custom, are presented to the sovereign who has rendered during the year the greatest service to the Holy See and the Catholic church.

☞ Robert Johnson, son and private Secretary of the President, has been placed in the lunatic asylum of the District of Columbia, to cure him, if possible, of periodical drunkenness, which in his case amounts to insanity.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Jan. 15. The funeral ceremonies of Bishop Hopkins took place at St. Paul's Church in this city at noon to-day. The church was heavily draped. The remains of the deceased, clad in Episcopal robes, lay in state in the vestibule of the church from 9 o'clock until half-past 11. A vast number of persons viewed the corpse. The features of the deceased were full and extremely life-like. The coffin was made of live oak, and heavily mounted, on the lid was a crown and full length cross. At the base of the cross were eight steps, indicating his eighth decade. The following Bishops were present: Bishops Neely of Maine, Clark of Rhode Island, Williams of Connecticut, Randall of Colorado, and the Lord Bishop of Quebec. Archdeacon Leach and Canon Balch of Montreal, and fifty clergymen from various dioceses, were also present. The services were participated in by all the Bishops and many clergymen. Eloquent addresses were made by the Lord Bishop of Quebec and Bishop Williams. The remains were temporarily deposited in the public cemetery. After the funeral the Bishops and clergymen held a meeting, appointing a committee of one from each diocese to draft suitable resolutions.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS.—For the instruction and guidance of some who may possibly need information on the subject, we publish the following:—

Postmasters are required to give advice by letter when a subscriber does not take his paper from the office; and give the reason for its not being taken. Neglecting to do so makes the postmasters responsible to the publisher for the payment. The letter of information should be addressed as "post-office business" to the postmaster in the place the paper is published.

Any person who takes a paper regularly from the post-office, whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the payment of the subscription.

Any person ordering his paper discontinued must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it is taken from the office or not.

The courts have decided that refusing to take a newspaper and periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Married.

Jan. 8th, by Elder E. M'Culloch, Mr. JOHN H. TOWLE and GALESTA A. THAYER, both of Savoy.

Notices.

Discussion.

There will be a public discussion in the Bethel Church, Vernon Street, Springfield, Mass., commencing Jan. 29th, at 7½ P. M., of the following questions:—

1st. Does Reason teach the natural immortality of man?

2d. Does the Bible teach that man is naturally immortal? Jas. Chattaway, Esq., of this city, takes the affirmative. R. Wendell, of Salem, the negative.

3d. Does the Bible teach the literal resurrection of the dead? Wendell affirms, Chattaway denies.

Conference at Westfield.

Our next quarterly conference will be held at Westfield, Mass., commencing Feb. 5th, at 7 P. M., and continue through the week, and over the Sabbath. Come, brethren and sisters, let us go up to Westfield and do what we can for the Lord's cause. The people need and want the truth that God has commissioned us to preach. Can we be justified in letting worldly business keep us at home? We want the small gifts to work in this place, and this conference will give all a chance to work where there is an interest to hear. Come, one and all that can, to work for the Lord.

Per order, J. HEMENWAY.

Dedication.

The new Advent Chapel in Bridgewater, Vermont, will be dedicated on Saturday, Feb. 1st, 1868, at 11 o'clock A. M. Preaching again in the evening and over Sunday. Dedication sermon by Dr. G. W. Stetson, of Rutland. All that can are respectfully invited to come in the name of the Lord, looking for a pentecostal season. By request of the brethren, STEPHEN BARROWS.

Ministerial Conference at Lewiston, Me.

The fifth Ministerial Advent Conference will hold its session Tuesday, Jan. 21st, 1868, at 2 P. M. Preaching in the evening. Ministers are invited to attend and confer with each other in relation to spreading the gospel of the kingdom in Maine, that we may labor in harmony together in the great work of saving sinners. Homes for brethren and sisters, but no stables for horses.

S. K. PARTRIDGE, President.
C. H. LEVERTON, Secretary.

Conference.

The Lord will, the first quarterly session of the New Hampshire State Conference for 1868 will be held at Wakefield, (Spinney meeting-house,) to commence Thursday evening, Jan. 30th, 1868, and hold over the following Lord's day. It is hoped that our preaching brethren will make a special effort to attend this meeting. An invitation is extended to all to come to the feast.

T. W. PIPER, for Com.

A Quarterly Conference.

A quarterly session of the Advent Christian State Conference of New Hampshire will be held in Wakefield, N. H., (Spinney meeting-house), commencing Feb. 13th, and hold over the following Sunday. In the meantime let prayer go up to God for his blessing. A. W. SIBLEY, Secretary.

Notice.

My tracts are now completed, which include all the testimony of the Bible relative to the second coming of Christ. Price $3.00 per hundred; 50 cts. per dozen, 5 cts. single copy. Orders sent to ALLEN DAMON, Fairhaven, Mass.

Notice.

There will be meetings at Union Hall, Westminster Street, (rear of 1st Universalist Church), Providence, R. I., regularly every first day of the week, as long as the Lord will.

WM. H. DOUGHTY, for the Church.

Notice.

There will be preaching at the house of Levi R. Teeple, by Bro. Elliot, on Sunday, Jan 26th. An invitation to all, both saint and sinner, to come to their feast. Come, children, make one more effort for this place, and let it tell for good in the coming judgment. SUSAN E. TEEPLE.

Conference.

The Maine Quarterly Conference will be held at Friendship, Me., Feb. 6th, to commence at 6 o'clock in the evening, and hold over Sunday. Brethren and sisters, with ministers, are invited.

S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Notice.

Advent meetings are held every Sunday in North Adams, Mass., on Center Street, corner of Lincoln Street. Preaching brethren are invited to give us a call. Inquire for Isaac Blanchard, Jr., Eagle Street.

Notice.

I would say to our preaching brethren, when they send an appointment to Richmond, it is necessary they should define the place, as we hold two meetings in town; one at the Reed meeting-house, which has continued since 1843, the other is held at the village. Please state for which place the appointment is intended. In behalf of the brethren. FREDERIC BATES, JR.

Notice.

Preachers are requested to correspond with one of the committee before sending appointments to Worcester, viz., M. M. Blackmer, N. Lazell, Wm. F. Collier. Per order of the church, Worcester, Jan., 1868.

Notice.

Preaching brethren intending to visit Lewiston, Me., before settling their appointments, will please consult the committee through Albert Burgess, corresponding secretary, to save confusion.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION,
No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.

ANNA E. SMITH, Superintendent and Manager.

MEETINGS.
Sunday School 10 o'clock every Sunday.
Love Feast 3 o'clock every Sunday.
Preaching 7 o'clock Sunday evenings.
Meetings every evening during the week.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.
S. W. Thurber ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)
A. Simpson ...... Sundays, Jan. 26th and Feb. 2d

SOUTH BOSTON, (Union Hall, Broadway.)
J. M. Mahlig ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d

Portsmouth, N. H. ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
MILES GRANT.

South Reading ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

New Haven ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
West Winsted ...... Jan. 28th
Hartford ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
New Britain ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
W. S. CAMPBELL.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
Wm. Stuart ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
H. F. Carpenter ...... Sundays, Feb. 16th and 23d

Warsaw, Wyoming Co., N. Y. ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th and part of the week following. J. BLAIN.

Meredith, N. H., (Dolloff school-house), Sunday, Jan. 26th, and onward. JULIA BUZZELL.

Warehouse Point ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
Scitico ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered. L. F. MOORE.

Springwater, N. Y. ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
Conesus, N. Y. ...... Jan. 30th
Dansville, N. Y. ...... Feb. 6th
Rogersville, N. Y. ...... Feb. 13th
Stop one week in each place. J. K. BELLOWS.

BRISTOL, RT.
Sr. M. L. Durand ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
Wm. J. Ripley ...... Sunday, Feb. 16th

Centre Harbor, (Town House) ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
Meredith Village, N. H., Wednesday evening, Jan. 29th
Tuftonborough, N. H., (Melvin Village), Thursday evening, Jan. 30th.
Moultonborough, N. H., (Hedgdon school-house), Friday evening, Jan. 31st.
Parsonsfield, Me. ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
WM. H. SHAW.

Suncook ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
T. T. FARRELL.

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)
J. T. Dixon ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th

Hampton, N. H., (Town Hall) ...... evenings of Jan. 23d and 24th. ANNA E. SMITH.

Windsorville, Conn., (as Bro. St. Clair may arrange), Thursday evening, Jan. 30th, and over Sunday.
S. C. HANCOCK.

Groton, Vt. ...... evening, Jan. 23d
Andover ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
North Haverhill, N. H., (as Bro. Abbott may arrange), evening, Jan. 27th. T. E. LANG, JR.
C. H. WILLEY.

Woodstock Valley ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
I. B. POTTER.

Lunenburg Corner, Vt., (Town Hall), Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, and over Sunday. A. GORDON.

Rocky Brook, R. I. ...... Sunday, San. 26th
J. M. MUHLIG.

Keene, N. H., (where the brethren may appoint), Friday evening, Jan. 24th, and over the following Sunday.
D. EASTMAN.
J. C. MOORE.

Laconia, N. H., (where the brethren may appoint), evening, Jan. 28th.
Loudon Ridge, N. H. ...... evening, Jan. 30th
Concord, N. H., (Centre St. Church), Sunday, Feb. 2d
JOHN H. EVANS.

Pleasant Valley, Ct. ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
Wallingford Farms, Ct. ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
New Haven, Ct., (Day's Hall) ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
Hartford, Ct ...... Sunday, Feb. 23d
B. HITCHCOCK.

Northwood Narrows ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
Tuftonboro, (Melvin Village) ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
Dover, N. H. ...... Sunday, Feb. 16th
WM. BODGE.

Dover, N. H. ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
Rochester, (New Chapel), evenings ...... Feb. 4th and 5th
East Rochester ...... evenings, Feb. 6th and 7th
Farmington ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
H. M. BRYANT.

Lanesville, Ct. ...... evening, Jan. 28th
New Preston ...... evening, Jan. 29th and over the following Sunday.
West Haven ...... evening, Feb. 4th
Wallingford, (as Bro. Ives may arrange), evening, Feb. 5th.
Middletown, (if desired) ...... evening, Feb. 7th
Yalesville ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
Buckland, (as Bro. Grant may arrange), evening, Feb. 11th.
Square Pond ...... Sunday, Feb. 16th
C. H. SWEET.

Pittsfield ...... Saturday evening, Jan. 25th and over Sunday, the 26th.
New Bedford, Mass ...... through February
A. ROSS.

Hartford, Conn. ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
New Britain ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
Springfield, Mass. ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
Middletown ...... Sunday, Feb. 16th
New Britain ...... Sunday, Feb. 23d
WM. STUART.

Pomfret, Vt. ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Alton, (Chesnut Cove school-house), Thursday evening, Jan. 23d, and continue over the following Sabbath.
J. KNOWLES.
D. F. LEAVITT.

Lawrence, Mass ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
J. COUCH.

Canastota, N. Y., (where Bro. B. Roberts may arrange), Jan. 23d, and Sunday, 26th.
IRA WYMAN.

South Adams, Mass ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
Brimfield, Mass ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
West Stafford, Ct. ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
RUFUS BAKER.

Epsom, (Marden's Corner) ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
N. GLIDDEN.

East Village, Ct. ...... Sunday, A. M., Jan. 26th
Pleasant Vale, P. M. and evening.
SAMUEL W. TREAT.

Whitefield ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
NATHAN WHEELER.

WORCESTER, MASS.
Sr. A. E. Smith ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
S. W. Thurber ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d and through the month.

Bridgeport ...... Thursday evening, Jan. 23d
Guilford, Ct ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
HIRAM MUNGER.

CONCORD, N. H.
(Corner of Green and Center Streets.)
J. A. Cleaveland ...... Sundays, Feb. 2d and 9th

West Abington, Mass ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
A. P. MOORE.

PORTLAND, ME.
Wm. H. Mitchell ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
Clarkson Goud ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
Luther Boutell ...... Sunday, Feb. 16th
Wm. H. Mitchell ...... Sunday, Feb. 23d

Preston, Minn. ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
T. K. ALLEN.

Lenora and Nichols, Minn. ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
Elliota and Burr Oak ...... Sunday, Feb. 16th
Preston ...... Sunday, Feb. 23d
P. BAKER.

Lenora and Nichols, Minn. ...... March 1st
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper ...... March 8th
Elliota and Burr Oak ...... March 15th
Preston ...... March 22d
W. J. BURRELL.

Schoodoc, (Warner) ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
C. W. SARGENT.

Lewiston, Me. ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
N. G. REED.

Knowlesville, N. Y. ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
Lockport, N. Y. ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
Youngstown, N. Y., Niag. Co., (where Bro. Tryon may appoint), Sunday, Feb. 9th. E. COTTON.

Lowell, Mass ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
R. G. CHADSEY.

Hall Stream, C. E. ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
Upper Pittsburgh, N. H. ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
Coaticook, (Kenney school-house) ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
D. N. CHADSEY.

Southington, Ct ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
E. OWEN.

SQUARE POND, CT.
A. M. Higgins ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th
P. S. Butler ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d

West Haven, Ct ...... Jan. 26th
Plymouth, Mass ...... Sunday, Feb. 2d
Stoneham ...... Sunday, Feb. 9th
S. W. [illegible]

Lake Village, N. H., (Chapel), Saturday evening, Jan. 25th, and onward. [illegible] JOHN H. EVANS.

[illegible]

Derry, (Killrey school-house) ...... Sunday, Jan. 26th. Will Bro. Brown meet me at the Lynn depot? CALEB RICHARDSON.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.
Meetings are held in the Advent Hall, Curtis' Block, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Entrance, third door from the east end of the bridge, Main St.

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ CORRESPONDENTS SHOULD, AND OUGHT TO KNOW, THAT WE CANNOT DISCONTINUE OR SEND THEIR ORDERS, UNLESS THEY GIVE US THE POST OFFICE AND STATE IN PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ AURELIA LAWRENCE—Money received—Pays to 651.

☞ JAMES BOWLY—You only sent one dollar.

☞ NANCY DOWD—Give us your Post Office, Town and State, and we will credit your money.

☞ EMERY BARBER writes from Stewartstown, sends $3.00, and wishes his paper stopped, but does not give his P. O. address. We can neither credit his money nor stop his paper.

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

The present No. of the Crisis is 642. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid. If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to is less than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you owe. For every week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the credit of each person will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness (about four cents for every dollar,) and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each—Wm. Forrister 692.

$1.25 each—E. Hazen 644, W. Lawrence 656, M Eaton 658, C E Lawrence 658.

$2.00 each—C Bond 680, W Richardson 680, H Vandry 680.

$2.50 each—H R Moore 695, O A Scott 692, R Hinkley 650, C C Hutchinson 690, J Webb 679, W Barnard 693, W Culross 687.

Various sums—F. Robbinson $2.55, 692; J. Wilson $2.67, 682; E Yale $1.31, 659; J Daniels $1.26, 653; H Perkins $2.62, 617; T. Adams $2.37, 631; D Blackwell 62c, 653; S Cole 62c, 645; W. D. Davis 63c, 664; W P Willoughby $3.00, 662; M Nowlin $3.00, 683.

FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.

C. M. Jackman 52c, J. M. Hackett 35c, H. F. Holton $1.00, W. E. Brown 50c, A. Churchill 36c, J Thomas $1.00, T Smith $1.00.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.

BY MAIL—H F Holton, J F Funk, A Churchill, S A Dunham, G W Maker, M S Barnard, Mrs C M Stark, J Blain, I Atkins, A A Phelps, U R Sinclair, H F Pollina, P A Smith, R Barrows, J F Linville, E Edwards, D Moshier, S E Trott, A F Hawkins, A Edgerton, L J Quimby, A C Grover, F H Safford, B Burroughs, John Butchart, J Keene, J K Graves, J Hudson, L L Barrett, Fannie A Porter, H Decher, H S Hooker, Cyrus Reeves, Z D Drake, B Perkins, T Jones, G P Metze, N Berry, M. G. Wise, C L Mosely, G W Maker, M A Northup, Ira Tuttle, A. H. Hooker, W E Bowen, J M Hackett, — Jackman, M J Pierce, C. E. Rounds, O Stone, F Sterling, J M Drill, F H Safford, J B Reynolds, Geo W Fisher, E. O. Kimball, W L Churchill, G H Bundy, Sarah Smith, S A Seaman, Dr. E G Bills, D Z Lantz, R M Rising, A Phillips, E Luddon, R Clark, J M Andrews, B B Scott, J G Putnam, B C Russell, C Palmer, C H Baker, D W Lamb, Wm Payne, Wm Bursley, J B Chamberlin.

BY EXPRESS—A Cressey, E H Eggleston, H S Mitchell, Mrs. D Leavens, Jr., W Williams, Eld J Porter, B Taylor, T W Piper, C G Darrow.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

S H Brown, C E Gilbert, E W Waters, C Colegrove, H Beadle, W F Collier, M R Phetteplace, F Alling, H Pratt, W Bicknell, M S Horne, J H Morgan, E Seymour, C Greene, F H Burbank, J R Graves, J G Bush, T H Cheney, A Damon, W Vreeland, I C Wellcome, L A Reed, J Compton, O Sherwin, W Keen.

ADDRESS OF PREACHING BRETHREN.

C. E. Piper—41 Grove Street, Boston, Mass.
C. Goodrich—69 Marion Street, East Boston, Mass.
J. S. White—98 Decatur Street, East Boston, Mass.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford, Mass.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls, Mass.
L. Boutell—Salem, Mass.
H. Pratt—Springfield, Mass., 57 Cedar St.
P. S. Butler, Collins Depot, Mass.
E. Owen—Springfield, Mass., No. 64 Walnut Street.
Alvah Bean—Lowell, Mass.
Geo. A. Street—North Dana, Mass.
Allen Damon—Fairhaven, Mass.
C. H. Sweet—Millville, Mass.
J. W. Britten—Westboro, Mass.
S. Anderson—Ware, Mass.
Rufus Baker—Warren, Mass.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer, Mass.
W. E. Hathaway—North Carver, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Lynn, Mass.
S. S. Brewer—Cold Spring, Mass.
N. J. Stratton—Southbridge, Mass.
S. W. Thurber—85 Church Street, Lowell, Mass.
C. H. Leverton—Surry, Hancock Co., Me.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills, Me.
J. C. Wheeler—Carthage, Me.
F. A. Baker—Levant, Me.
H. S. Mitchell—Cushing, Me.
I. K. Lombard—Machiasport, Me.
J. Carr—South Albion, Me.
B. P. Manning—Goffstown, N. H.
J. G. Smith—New Durham, N. H.
C. C. Stevens—Exeter, N. H.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia, N. H.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth, N. H.
J. Couch—Concord, N. H.
A. W. Sibley—Lincoln, N. H.
A. Simpson—Concord, N. H.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village, N. H.
Z. Ford—Concord, N. H.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426 Concord, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover, N. H.
Wm. H. McDaniels—Fisherville, N. H.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff, N. H.
J. B. Cook—Poultney, Vt.
G. W. Stetson—Rutland, Vt.
R. G. Chadsey—Richford, Vt.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
D. N. Chadsey—Canaan, Vt.
J. A. Cleaveland—South Royalton, Vt.
Wm. H. Fisher—Windsor, Ct., care of S. Cooper.
H. F. Carpenter—Danielsonville, Ct.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville, Ct.
I. B. Potter—Westfield, Ct.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville, Ct.
T. S. Canfield—Bantam Falls, Ct.
B. St. John—Waterbury, Ct.
Dr. Samuel Wells Treat—Middlebury, Ct.
S. B. Munn—Waterbury, Ct.
Ira Wyman—[illegible]
Wm. J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley, Ct.
L. F. Moore—Somersville, Ct.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted, Ct.
S. Wood—Unionville, Ct.
Geo. A. Cole—Phenix, R. I.
J. K. Bellows—19 Orchard Street, New York City.
Wm. A. [illegible]—[illegible], N. Y.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester, N. Y.
Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street.
S. P. Babcock—Malaga, New Jersey.
J. W. Taylor—Chatham Valley, Tioga Co., Pa.
F. H. Burbank—Dorcas Mission, 708 Lombard street, Philadelphia, Pa.
John T. Oagley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.
Dr. I. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis, Tenn.
Wm. Deverell—Keswick, C. W.
Wm. M. Ingham—Clementsport, N. S.
H. K. Flegel—Advent Christian Hall 1136, No. 5th Street, St. Louis, Mo.
H. Rockwell—Lenox, Ashtabula Co., Ohio
L. C. McKinstry—Norwalk, Ohio.
A. N. Seymour—Fremont, Mich.
J. M. Snook—Romeo, Mich.
J. R. Preston—Lapeer, Mich.
Wm. McCullock—New Rutland, Ill.
George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co., Ill.
O. D. Gibson—Lanark, Ill.
F. Burr—New Rutland, Ill.
J. Wilbur—Box 863 Janesville, Wis.
B. Wm. Wilkins—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634, care of I. L. Leslie.
Daniel Reed—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634, care of I. L. Leslie.
Eld. G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co., Ind.
F. W. Hough—West Salem, Wis.
George Thompson—Albion, Green Co., Wis.
Eld. A. P. Duggett—Simpson, Iowa.
O. R. Fassett—Minneapolis, Minn.
Philip Ramer—Winona, Minn.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.50 per dozen.

☞ Postage 16 cents a copy additional, when sent by mail.

New Music.

[illegible]

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsey. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Predictions fulfilled, and his Kingdom near. By I. C. Wellcome. 20c; by mail, 27c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 1, By S. S. Brewer. 7c; by mail, 8c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 22c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 3, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 22c.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD, and Signs of the Times. By S. S. Brewer. 18c; by mail, 20c.

THESSALONICA; or, The Model Church. By H. L. Hastings. 25c.

SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsay, D. D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE SEVEN SEALS. Exposition of Rev. vi. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church. By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE DAYS WE LIVE IN; The Lord soon to come By S. S. Brewer. 10c; by mail, 12c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M. Preble. 13c; by mail, 15c.

THE SLAYING OF THE WITNESSES. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3c; by mail, 5c.

THE GREAT IMAGE soon to be dashed to pieces By S. S. Brewer. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $1.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures. Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, etc. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. 20c; by mail, 22c.

RETRIBUTION; or, The Doom of the Ungodly. By H. L. Hastings. 20c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.

PAULINE THEOLOGY; or, The Christian Doctrine of Future Punishment, as taught in the Epistles of Paul. H. L. H. 10c.

GLAD TIDINGS; or, The End of Woe and Sin by the Destruction of the Wicked. (Three chapters from "Death not Life.") By J. Blain. 8c; by mail, 10c.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 5c; by mail, 6c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.

REV JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 3c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.25; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables Price, by mail, 40 cents.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

"THE JUBILEE SONGSTER." A choice collection of original and selected Hymns. A pamphlet edition of ninety-eight hymns. By S. S. Brewer. By mail, 15c. single copy; $1.50 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 15 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postage, 3c. on every three copies.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.35c. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with Illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

COOKERY or How to prepare food from Grains, Fruits and Vegetables. By F. W. Hurd, M. D. 15c; by mail, 17c.

VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook and Wm. H. Brinkerhoff. 10c.

THE SABBATH, and its Relation to Man. By mail 3 cts.

SPIRITUAL EVIL; A Warning for the Unwary. 3c. single; 5c. by mail.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 35c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

RAHAB THE HARLOT. The Scarlet Line the token of Safety; or, the fall of Jericho a type of the fall of the "cities of the nations." By Wm. Shepherd. 10c., postpaid; 85c. a dozen.

CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; a Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Worship. 80c; by mail, 88c.

PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 5c; by mail, 8c.

THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT—Superiority of the New. By A. W. Sibley. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY, or, the Sealed Book of Daniel Opened. $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; or, a Dissertation on the Evidences of Christianity. 25c; by mail, 30c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?—a tract on War By I. C. Wellcome. 10c.

THE PROPHETIC TIME QUESTION; or, Bible Time Examined. By Wm. Sheldon. 27c.

CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c.

NON-RESISTANCE. By W. C. Thurman. 20c; by mail, 24c.

DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c.

THE DAY AND THE HOUR; a Lecture, by Joseph A. Seiss, D. D. 15c.

"OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.

"THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley 5c. single copy by mail; 40c. per dozen.

"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 25c. per 100 copies.

"GOLDEN MOMENTS." A four-page tract. By mail, 25c. per 100 copies.

"THE PENALTY OF SIN." By O. R. Fassett. By mail, single copy, 5c.; per dozen, 40c.

AMERICA IN PROPHECY; an Exposition of Isaiah XVIII. By O. R. Fassett. [illegible]

TWO WAYS TO LIVE ON EARTH.

There are two ways to live on earth—
Two ways to judge—to act—to view;
For all things here have double birth—
A right and wrong—a false and true!
Give me the home where kindness seeks
To make that sweet which else were small;
Where every lip in fondness speaks,
And every mind hath care for all.

Whose inmates live in glad exchange
Of pleasures, free from vain expense;
Whose thoughts beyond their means ne'er range,
Nor wise denials give offence.

Who in a neighbor's fortune find
No wish—no impulse—to complain;
Who feel not—never felt—the wind
To envy yet another's gain!

Who dream not of the mocking tide
Ambition's foiled endeavors meet—
The bitter pangs of wounded pride,
Nor fallen Power that shuns the streets.

Though Fate deny its glittering store,
Love's wealth is still the wealth to choose;
For all that man can purchase more
Are sands, it is no loss to lose!

Some beings, wheresoe'er they go,
Find naught to please or to exalt—
Their constant study but to show
Perpetual modes of finding fault.

While others in the ceaseless round
Of daily wants and daily care,
Can yet cull flowers from common ground,
And twine enjoy the joy they share;

Oh! happy they who happy make—
Who, blessing, still themselves are blest!
Who something spare for others' sake,
And strive in all things for the best!

For the World's Crisis.

TIME!

Although much has been said in regard to this subject, both for and against, still there is a great deal more that might be said, and if said in the right spirit would most certainly prove to be a great benefit to sceptics. Some are for driving stakes so deep that it looks almost impossible to draw them; the consequence is, that a great many who are carried away as it were by infatuation, pin their faith fast to the stake that is driven, and there they are.

But this, methinks, is not the proper way; for we know that men are sometimes led to jump at conclusions, when really they are rather doubtful in regard to the matter themselves; but simply because the thing looks plausible to them they advocate it. This is the light in which I look at the subject. Taking the 24th of Matt., I consider that here is need of great study. I also consider that there is time connected with it. Running over the verses till we get to the fifteenth, we would consider well the language, and its connection.

In the first place, let me say, that it is necessary to bear one thing in mind, i. e., that Jesus was talking to his apostles, who were Jews; remembering this, all will be straight. Now the language, "When ye, therefore, shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place," etc.; "then let them which be in Judea flee to the mountains."

Now we would consider what abomination is meant. I am aware that some of our brethren say, It is the abomination of desolation of the twelfth of Daniel, and charge it to the Papacy; but I would ask, What has or had Papacy to do with the land of Judea? and also that the abomination was the edict of Justinian; but I would ask, If all had the space of three months, under the Justinian edict, to embrace or reject the faith of the apostate church, why the need of praying that their flight be not on the Sabbath day? We rather reject their mode of interpretation, because after examining it thoroughly, we are satisfied that it is not correct.

Now considering candidly, and laying aside every preconceived opinion, let us read and examine verses 15 and 16: "When ye, therefore, shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, stand in the most holy place," etc.; "Then let them which be in Judea flee to the mountains." Did Daniel speak of any abomination in connection with the land of Judea? He did, and in the ninth of Daniel we can find something to unlock the door and give us a fair view. But before considering this, let us make a few remarks further on the twenty-fourth of Matt.

Reading from the 17th to the 20th, we find them all connected; then the 21st,—"For then [When? "when ye see the abomination spoken of by Daniel the prophet," etc.] shall be great tribulation such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be." Now we see no disconnection between the verses from the fifteenth to the twenty-second, and no reason whatever presents itself for disconnecting them, because it is one subject, and the laws of grammar and language forbid our separating any of them. Therefore, we are willing to examine Daniel ninth for a solution of the subject.

In the twenty-fourth verse we have this language: "Seventy weeks are determined upon thy [Daniel's] people and upon thy holy city" [Jerusalem]. What shall transpire during those seventy weeks? Not the total destruction of Daniel's people, nor of their city; but the seventy weeks are only determined upon them as measuring the time in which the people of Daniel should have to choose between life and death, blessing or curses; and as we find them during the last of the seventy weeks rejecting their Messiah and crucifying the "Prince of Life," we are led to the conclusion that they chose death.

But again, after giving the measurement of the sixty-nine and the sixty-two weeks, and what should take place at their end, we read, "And the people of the prince that shall come shall destroy the city [Jerusalem] and the sanctuary," etc. "And he [the prince of the people that shall come] shall confirm the covenant with many for one week." Here, then, we have ground to work from. Then taking the armies of Antichrist (as a warning to the followers of Christ to flee to the mountains), which was most certainly the Jewish army, and composed of those who deny that "Christ is come in the flesh," for the abomination of desolation which did stand in the holy place, and then the coming of the Roman army and surrounding and laying siege to the city, we have the beginning of the "great tribulation"; and what tongue or pen can describe the misery and suffering at the destruction of the Holy City! It was terrible in the extreme.

Now we have nothing to measure the length of this time of trouble definitely as to years, till we arrive at the darkening of the sun and moon, [illegible] follow, making it to be, by humble opinion, the whole of the twelfth fourth of Matthew is upon the Jews, exclusively, and does not touch either Gentile or Christian; and by reason of their Christ rejecting to his apostles, who were Jews, and the Jews did not know that the gospel was to be preached to all to the Gentiles till that time. This is evident, for we find them asking, "Wilt thou restore the kingdom to Israel?" Again, they knew nothing about preaching to the Gentiles till after the day of Pentecost, which was some fifty days after Christ's ascension. And the language of the twenty-third and twenty-fourth verses will warrant me in my statement. "Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there, believe it not. For there shall arise false Christs," etc. How is this to be placed upon the Gentiles? Every man knows that the Gentiles never looked for false Christs to arise among them, for they knew that the Jews, according to their Scriptures, looked for a Messiah or Christ; and would it not be absurd to think of placing this language any where else but with the Jews? True it is that Mahomet in 622 professed to be a prophet; but mark, he did not represent himself to be Christ, but said that before him there had been other prophets—Abraham, Moses, and Jesus Christ; but that he was the last and greatest of the prophets.

But, says one, How will you reconcile the darkening of the sun? God had made a covenant with the Jews, which may be considered blessings if they obeyed, and curses if they disobeyed. The language of Daniel is, "The covenant should be confirmed with many for one week." It does not read all, but only "many" of Daniel's people; therefore we are not restricted to the one week or seven years employed in the destruction of the Holy city and the confirming of the covenant, but can run beyond that even; and after that we find false Christs arising among the Jews all the way from A. D. 434 to A. D. 1682, and all the way down we find also the covenant being confirmed, and the Jews despised and hated of all nations.

In the Papacy they found a most implacable enemy. During the Crusades, they suffered terribly in Spain, France, and England. We see them driven and hunted like brutes, deprived of every privilege or right of men, and looked upon with scorn, and considered not fit to live. Pilate washed his hands, thus showing his innocence of the blood of Christ; but the Jews cried, "His blood be upon us and upon our children"; and this, together with the covenant of our faithful God, who will bring to pass all things written by the prophets, follows the Jews, fulfilling this part of the covenant, which was "curses."

Verse 29,—"Immediately after the tribulation [here you see the subjects are connected] of those days shall the sun be darkened." Some of our brethren have been obliged to break the language of the connection in the subject, and place this tribulation with the Papacy. That this is not correct, we will thus prove:

In 1792 or 1793, free toleration of religious worship was allowed by the beast from the bottomless pit (Infidel France). This is their statement. Very well. Now, then, "Immediately after the tribulation" the sun was to "be darkened"; or, "In those days, after the tribulation," as Mark has it. Question. Has the sun been supernaturally darkened since 1793? In 1780 the sun was darkened, so that astronomers can not account for it; but this was thirteen years before the Papal tribulation ceased; or, cutting off the time of the Revolution of Infidel France against Papacy, it will be at least ten years before; but the language is positive: immediately after, not before, or just prior to the end, but after the tribulation has ceased, the sun must be darkened.

So our brethren are in error. Now as we remarked, the Jews suffered terribly, from the year 65, all the way down the stream of time till 1753, when we find measures taken for their amelioration, but the people objected, and some trouble ensued; but in 1780 we find edicts issued for their toleration. Then begins the Reformation, the tribulation was over, and the sun was darkened immediately after the tribulation.

"And except those days shall be shortened," etc. A few words on this, and I am through. In Luke 21: 24, we read that "Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, till the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled." Now we consider this simply that the days of the tribulation should be shorter than the times of the Gentiles, for if they had not been, it is almost certain that all Jewish flesh would have been destroyed from the face of the earth.

In verses 33, 34, we have a positive command from our Savior to "know that it [i. e., the end of the world] is near"; also that this generation, seeing those signs—the darkening of the sun, the falling of the stars, the shaking of the powers of heaven, shall not pass away till all be fulfilled. Therefore we reckon thus: the darkening of the sun taking place in 1780, and beginning the generation then, and allowing ninety years for a generation (which is too much) we conclude that our Lord will come very soon. Brethren and sisters, watch.

Somerville, Ct. L. F. MOORE.

For the World's Crisis.

READING THE BIBLE.

To the true child of God, nothing is more precious than the volume of Inspiration. He loves God, therefore in obedience to the command of Jesus (John 5: 39), he searches for a correct knowledge of his heavenly Father's will concerning him, with far more eagerness than for hid treasures of silver and gold. When he has succeeded in obtaining this knowledge, he makes that will the rule of his conduct.

This being true of him who is earnestly engaged in the service of God, what can we think of those who go day after day, week after week, and perhaps month after month, without reading a chapter in the Bible, to say nothing of carefully studying it? Is this not an evidence that they do not love the Supreme Being as they should? To such I would say, endeavor to cultivate more love to God by studying his word with greater care.

But says one, "I can find but very little time to read." This may be true, but how do you improve the little time you do find? Is it all taken up in reading the political paper, a fictitious story, or something of the kind? This, alas! is too often the case. Now do you not think it would be more profitable to read your Bible, though you have to neglect all other reading?

How can we expect to make advancement in the divine life, or stand ready at all times to give a reason for our hope, while we are continually neglecting to read and study the Bible?

I will here suggest a plan for reading the Bible in 1868, as we are about entering upon that year.

There are eleven hundred and eighty-nine chapters in the Bible. Now if you will read three chapters each week-day, and five on Sunday, should the last until Dec. 27th, 1868, you will have read the Bible through. Let all adopt this plan. Should anything occur to prevent your reading the allotted number of chapters one day, read so many more the next day, and thus carefully continue this plan to those who have been in the past so negligent about reading the Bible.

C. H. SWEET.

Lanesville, Ct., Dec. 24th, 1867.

For the World's Crisis.

FIERY TRIALS.

Do you feel that your trials are more severe than the trials of all others, and are you ready to cry out, "Was ever sorrow like my sorrow?" No finite creature can measure the length and breadth and depth of your wo. What nights of grief, and days of wretchedness—what clouds of darkness, and storms of sorrow; what unutterable longings for the return of the loved and lost. Oh, who can tell the vain regrets, the sighs of anguish; the bitterness of the dregs of that cup which is now being pressed to your lips! Do you think these trials strange, as though "some strange thing happened unto you?" Do you dare to say that you are chastened too severely, or more than you deserve?

You may say that you are set as a mark, or target, and that all the arrows of His quiver are being showered upon you, and piercing even to the dividing asunder of the soul and spirit, yet remember that "whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth." And there is consolation for every afflicted soul. As no other can measure the extent of your calamity, so you can measure the grief of others only by your own! Yes, the sword has pierced other stricken ones, and some have suffered even as you have suffered. Think of this. And let your heart flow out in sympathy toward your suffering fellow creatures.

"Thou too hast suffered, and thy heart can feel
For all thy brother's grief."

Countless thousands still beneath the same fierce torture bleed, and your anguish is but a reflex of theirs. And as surely as you are a friend of Jesus, so surely all these trials are for your profit. "No affliction for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; but afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruits of righteousness to them who are exercised thereby." And when the trial is over, you shall come forth as gold purified seven times.

"Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you; but rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings, that when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy."

Sutton, Mass. F. H. CHAMBERLAIN.

STANDING ALONE.

Well, what of it? Better; a thousand times better stand alone, with correct principles and everlasting truth, for a rock foundation under you, than,—being destitute of all principle, and divested of all truth,—not be able to get into upright position at all. Better stand alone in the light of truth and live, than to drift, and float with the multitude, with the scum and filth of error, hoodwinked, groping in darkness, until you are knocked down by time's death dealing blow, and covered with the rubbish or borne away in silence to be buried in forgetfulness and rest in oblivion forever. Better stand alone, and upright, than be tempest tossed and driven furiously before the fierce winds of passion on to the breakers, without a life boat, without a preserver, without the light of hope, there to be wrecked and founder amid the foam, or lie like a beast in the filth, and roll in the mire and pollution of error and falsehood unable to touch bottom anywhere, or rise from such dead level to a living perpendicular.

Oh! anything, but three dead stones that go like lead, right straight to the bottom of corruption's cess pools, in order to find company, rather than stand alone, in the world, or travel alone through it, however rough the road may be.

There is a summit, away up yonder, above the level of the common walks of life, on the mountain's top, where storm-cloud and tempest never come to obstruct the genial rays of God's glorious sunlight, where the lightning's fierce flash, and the thunder's angry growl never blind the eye nor grate harshly on the ear. Where the fogs never obscure, nor false lights bewilder the clear vision of him who climbs with cool head, firm foot, steady hand and fixed determination of mind, to that glorious look out, on the top of truth, justice, goodness and mercy. Few there be that find it, for to reach it, you must leave "the crowd" and go alone,—think for yourself, then reduce your thoughts to action.

The dog follows his master, and fawns, that crumbs and bones may follow him. Do not take the quadruped's place, but get up! do stand up: lift yourself up, if you do not, rest assured no one will do it for you, and if you cannot, then you are not worth lifting. If you have got any soul of your own, do dare in this free country to claim it; if any manhood, assert it; if any mind, unshackle it; exercise it vigorously, freely, fully, unbiased by pre-conceptions, untrammelled by prejudices and unswayed by force of habit and popular influences around you.

There is a servitude in bondage, to be feared and deprecated more than that of chains and manacles that bind the limbs and gall and chafe the flesh of man. 'Tis that which holds the human intellect in slavery, and chains down the powers of reason, and clogs the human will, till in its self-abasement, and forced habitual degradation, it loses its natural elasticity and power to rise, in which abnormal state, it becomes a subject of merchandise and is bought and sold by "dealers in the souls of men," like sheep in the shambles, or knocked down to the highest bidder for ballots, in order to political self aggrandizement, like damaged goods upon the auction block.

What a miserable must that thing be, that can thus prostitute the semblance of a human soul to such base usage. The voluntary humiliation of a freeman! a rational intelligence! of an American citizen! born under the folds of the Star Spangled Banner, nourished under and protected by our constitutional government, reared amid our free institutions, and religious toleration, surrounded by schools, colleges, academies, mechanic arts and sciences, breathing God's free atmosphere, drinking from the pure mountain stream, and eating the bread of honest toil. The willing self-abasement of such an one, claiming to be, what God made him for—a MAN!—under such God-given privileges,—is the villest—scarce credible more than any kind of flesh.—Saturday Evening, Rutland, with all its due thereof. Once more, be one of our public, dismiss the fair [illegible] of our Bible, or belief and thought and conclusion of history of Rights. Why, you had better get off from that bilge which [illegible], and get on the temperance waves amid the soothing billows of a horticultural Truth for a support, and Right for a chart, while bring your little shallop safe into harbor, on the other side of that vast ocean, with Faith and Hope for cable and anchor, then leave those principles behind you, and taking passage with thousands find your resting place in—well, say Perdition!

Young man, you had better, every way better, take your pick and spade to the pit, or to the ditch, and dig; your axe to the woods, your maul and wedge to the rail-cut, your plow to the furrow, your sickle to the grain. Yes, you had better take your shovel and barrow to the road and wheel dirt at a shilling a day, sleeping on a pile of Canada thistles for a bed and a bundle of porcupine quills for a pillow, eat brown bread, drink cold water, and cover yourself with a fit of the night-mare, than abandon correct principles, for the sake of popularity to go with the crowd, that fickle fool, that changing mass, that vox populi, that crucified the Lord of glory, and go to prison and to death, go to shame and the Devil, which is the sure end of that road that is frequented with so many unprincipled travelers.

G. W. STETSON.—Rutland Independent.

For the World's Crisis.

THE MEMPHIS MISSION.

Jan. 1, 1868. Another New Year! and the one to which so many have looked forward with joyful anticipations. Around this year how many hopes of redemption cluster! Will it be the year of jubilee? Will thy kingdom, O Savior, come ere its circle shall be completed? Come, if thou canst, dear Redeemer, and end this scene of sorrow and suffering. Come to thy people ere they faint and fall. Let them be with Thee soon, and behold thy glory.

Awoke this morning to see the storm-clouds flying from the sky, and the earth covered with a garment of snow. For the last twenty-four hours we have been in the midst of a northern-like snow storm; hurling itself into every cabin, through every crevice, and huddling together the inmates over an old broken and smoking stove, or around the fire-place, blazing with a little picked-up wood and bark from the sawmill yard, or the river bank.

A snow storm here is a sad event to many of these poor half shod and scantily clad children of poverty and oppression. When it rains and is mild, they can get out and shift about for something to do, and go through the mud and wet to meeting; but when the ground is covered with snow, and it is cold, but few of them are seen away from their cabins.

Our watch-meeting last night was therefore not very fully attended. There were, however, more present than we expected. Had the weather been mild, and there had been no snow, the house that was but half filled would not have contained more than half that would have come. This people are night worshipers; and so our evening meetings are the best attended. This comes from their habit of meeting when in slavery only at night. As we have said, our evening meetings are better attended than those of the day; but we are trying to break up this habit of neglecting the day meetings for the night; and are succeeding to some extent, and hope soon to obliterate that old slave habit of late and midnight meetings, with doors and windows all closed, as if to prevent still the slave driver from hearing them, or knowing of their worship.

Our meeting closed at about half-past twelve. The old year has taken farewell of with gratitude to God for his goodness and mercy to us all during its revolving months of pestilence and death; and the new year welcomed with the prayer that we all might still be kept from the enemy until the great Deliverer should come. Nearly all present testified to the goodness of God in sending us here with the blessed tidings of the Lord's coming. Some of them said they never heard the gospel preached until we came here. Their hearts were full of joy, and we separated with praise to God, after singing the hymn

"Come, let us anew our journey pursue."

The work upon the chapel has been stopped by the storm, and we shall have to wait until the snow melts away before we go on again. The walls are covered and painted once; the roof is nearly closed in and ready to shingle. A few days of fair weather and the outside will be finished.

This house of God is preaching loudly and effectually here. Far and wide has the sound of its building gone out, and strangers are already coming to see who we are, and attend our meetings. Some are moving in from the country, and taking homes in this part of the city, in order to be near us and the church, as they say. There is much inquiry in relation to our views and preaching; and the interest increases as the house progresses. We and the chapel are the subject of much conversation and discussion. We are spoken against by many, and our preaching and views are denounced as false; but still the truth reaches the hearts of many, and so we are rejoicing in persecution.

Just now the letter carrier comes. A letter from Boston, and from Bro. Adams. It reads as follows:—

DEAR BRO. LESLIE:—Inclosed you will find a Postal Order for $30.00 sent by 'friends,' and to be used expressly for the purchase of food and clothing for the suffering freedmen, as mentioned in your last letter in the Crisis. Also an order for ten dollars, which amount is sent by Bro. G. S. Harwood, of Providence, R. I., for the Sunday School at Memphis, and is to be disposed of as follows: Five dollars to be given to the scholar who will commit to memory and recite the best the greatest number of verses from the Bible. Three dollars to be given to the one who will learn and recite the next highest number; and two dollars for the next highest number committed. The understanding is to be, that the money shall be presented by each of the winners to help finish the chapel, giving it themselves as their earnings; and the result to be published in the Crisis, Young Pilgrim, and Voice of the West."

This coming on the first day of the year, is surely a New Year's present. God bless the givers.

Next Sabbath I shall lay the matter before the school, and find how many will try to gain the first prize. As the time was not fixed by Bro. H. within which the trial was to be made, I have decided to limit it to two months; so that sometime in March the result will be made known. And then—think of it—to see the prizes each a Jubilee Harp. This plan of Bro. H. will add greatly to the interest of the school, and thus increase the knowledge of the Scriptures among them.

Since my last acknowledgment I have received the following donations for the sick and destitute: D. A. Dickinson, Camden, Iowa, $5.00; "Thrown out to Mrs. Wakefield," $2.50; T. C. Cook, Cuttingsville, Vt., $3.00; Isaiah and Lucinda Allen of North Church, of the Village, N. H., $5.00; Sr. R. W. Jones, Pleasant Valley, Ct., $10.00; "One who pities the poor," $2.00; "Friends," by the hand of Bro. G. T. Adams, $30.00.

We learn also that two barrels of clothing have been sent by the North Church, Lake Village, N. H. May God bless Bro. Knowles, and all those, for their efforts to help us in our work here. Thanks also to all the dear friends who have sent us aid in this time of need among the "little ones" here. We are giving daily as their conditions demand, and our hearts are lighter as we are able to give.

A happy New Year to all the dear ones, everywhere, is our wish; hoping ere its close we may be done with labor and suffering, and find rest with all the good of every age and clime. I. I. LESLIE.

A HEALTHY CHRISTIAN.

"A healthy christian is one who can work as well as eat. If there is a heavy load to carry in Christ's cause, he takes to it at once. If there's a wall to build, he is the man to lift the big stones. If some one has to go out in the storm and endure pelting opposition, who so able to bear it as his broad breast and brawny arm? A man that loves Christ, loves work. A dyspeptic christian dreads work, A lazy one shirks it.

What a hospital is many a church! Here lies one poor man down with the paralysis of faith. Here is another, laid up with a sprain which he got by a sudden fall into temptation. Here is one whom the fever of passion has burned out; he looks hardly worth the medicine to cure him. Alas for another! he is under pastoral treatment for the blindness of unbelief, and for another whose gaping wound reveals the spot where Satan's fiery arrow went in.

A revival commonly clears the church. A long period of spiritual declension crams it to the doorway." F. F.

Every member of the church would do well to meditate upon the above and profit by it. The church as a whole is a large body, but if it was separated into its two classes, those who labor for it, and those who do not, the former would be a handful—the latter a host. Laborers are wanted in the vineyard—not idlers. Too many need "treatment." Reader, what do you do for the church and its advancement? If you cannot work by your own exertion, help some one else—don't be idle. Such as work have promise of reward.—Church Reporter.

For the World's Crisis.

DEMONISM.

If any doubt that Spiritualism can do harm, or that it is of God, or in any way superior to the present system of Christianity, let those read the following, and be satisfied that it is Demonism from beginning to end. From the Boston Herald of Jan. 7, quoting from New York of the 6th:—

"The party of Spiritualists who have been making demonstrations [It might read demonstrations] in Newark, N. J., are all declared to be partially insane by the doctors; the chief of them, a man by the name of Mc Ewan, declared himself Jesus Christ, and demands to be crucified; while Mrs. Reeves, the oldest woman of the party, believes herself to be either Eve, or the Virgin Mary. They were in the habit of haranguing multitudes on the doctrine of Spiritualism . . . from their door-steps, while in a nude state. They are all in the station house." "Go not after them, as they will lead you down to dusty death."

New Sharon, Me. JOHN TAYLOR.

WISE WORDS FROM JOHN WESLEY.—We may die without the knowledge of many truths, and be carried to Abraham's bosom; but if we do without love, what will knowledge avail us? Just as much as it avails the devil and his angels. I will not quarrel with you about any opinion; only see that your hearts be right towards God—that you love the Lord Jesus Christ—that you love your neighbor—walk as your Master walked, and I desire no more. I am sick of opinions; I am weary to bear them—my soul loathes their frothy food. Give me a humble lover of God and man—a man full of mercy and good fruits—a man laying himself out in the work of faith, the patience of hope, the labor of love. Let my soul be with such christians, wheresoever they are; and whatsoever opinions they may hold. "He that doeth the will of my Father in heaven, the same is my brother, and my sister, and my mother."

THE VOLCANIC ERUPTION IN NICARAGUA.

Hon. A. B. Dickerson, U. S. Minister to Nicaragua, has written a very interesting letter describing the new volcano which broke out in a range of volcanic mountains in that country on the 14th of November, about eight leagues to the east of the city Leon. It began at midnight with a succession of explosions, which opened a fissure through the earth's crust about half a mile long. Fire issued from various places, and the explosions continued irregularly. Low rumbling sounds were heard almost incessantly. In the course of a few days two craters were opened in the fissure about one thousand feet apart, one discharging perpendicularly and the other at an angle of forty-five degrees. The flames from these two craters steadily increased in volume and height. On the 22nd of November the main crater appeared to be about sixty feet in diameter, and was constantly filled to its utmost capacity with the ascending masses of flame and cinders. A regular cone, built up of cinders was now white with heat, and outside was clear lava. Lava was belched over the side of the cone and flowed down. [illegible] red hot half the way down, while the remainder of its black groundwork was glittering with innumerable glowing sparks. The column of flame and cinders rose about five hundred feet above the mouth of the orifice. Explosions occurred at short intervals. The cinders went up in half-fused blazing masses, from one to three feet in diameter, and came down upon the cone hardened, striking with a clinking, metallic sound. After daylight there appeared ance of the cone changed to a bluish black. The other crater was about twenty feet in diameter, and was in constant activity.

On the afternoon of the 27th, after a series of explosions, which seemed to shake the earth to its centre, the volcano commenced discharging large quantities of black sand and heavier rocks. The column of flame at night was considerably increased in height, and bright meteor-like spots were seen ascending in the flames to the height of not less than three thousand feet, and the largest rocks discharged of two and five feet in diameter. The next morning the streets and house-tops of Leon were covered with a fine black sand, and for three days and a half, the city was [illegible] under its fall. This continued until the 30th, when the volcano died away, apparently exhausted by its exertions. The new crater is about one hundred and twenty feet in diameter, its sides sloping away from the crater to the Pacific. It is from an eighth to one-third of a mile from the opening to the base of the cone. Nearer the volcano it became deeper and coarser, at the distance of a mile being a foot in depth, and half an inch in diameter. Still nearer it increases to several feet in depth and the particles increase in size till they become small broken rocks. Around the base of the cone heavy rocks are thickly scattered.

The crater, at the close of the eruption, was found to be 200 feet in diameter and about the same in depth. The slaggy, lava-like scoria which first issued from the main crater, is now principally covered up by the hard plutonic rocks which came out from the profounder depths with the last discharge. The forest for leagues around is scarred and maimed by the sharp cutting storms of sand, and near the volcanoes the trees lie cut into numerous fragments. The eruption lasted for sixteen days. The sand which has rained down from this and the numerous other volcanoes in the range is exceedingly fertile. The recent fall of sand was succeeded by a shower of rain, and vegetation throve with surprising vigor. Some weeds and plants the sand kills, but to others it imparts new life and growth.—Journal.

GENTLENESS.

"Thy gentleness," said the Psalmist, "has made me great." There is true greatness in gentleness. Little minds, with little grace, cannot bear contradiction. But he whose heart is filled with love to God and love to man can bear with the weaknesses, the imperfections, and even the perverseness of others. If you find yourself fired with every body, rest assured of one thing, that however much out of the way they may be, you are not right yourself. Glass imparts its own color to every object that is seen through it; so do the passions and prejudices of our own souls color the actions of others. To one absolutely deaf there are no sounds; and to one fully saved there are no provocations that disturb the equanimity of the soul.

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

For the "Children's Corner."

THE CHILDREN'S FRIEND.

Children, will you listen to me
While to you a tale I tell,
Of a little cherub infant
Who once on our earth did dwell?
And he had a loving mother,
Gentle, kind, and pure, and true;
And she loved her little darling
As your mothers now love you.

Oft she gazed upon her dear one,
Kissed her smiling, fair-haired boy,
While she breathed a prayer to heaven,
God would guide and bless her joy;
But he had no little cradle,
Such as hold your infant head;
He was cradled in a manger,
In a stable was his bed.

In those days of ancient story
There arose a man of strife;
Herod feared the future glory,
And he sought the young child's life;
Many little infant children
By his cruelty he slew,
And in Ramah there was weeping,
Rachel would no comfort know.

But a God of love watched o'er him,
And an angel, in a dream,
Bade his parents flee to Egypt,
That no harm might come to him;
Then there came unto him wise men,
Guided by a shining star,
And their hearts were filled with gladness,
Gifts they brought, frankincense, myrrh.

Herod fain would have these wise men
Show him where the young child lay;
But they foiled his wicked scheming,
And returned another way.
Listen, children, while I tell you
Of this little infant's name,
It was JESUS, God's Beloved,
And from glory bright he came.

He increased in years and stature,
Yet no sin he ever knew,
Never disobeyed his parents,
Can you, children, say so too?
But the world would not receive him,
Though to save them he was sent;
Though he toiled in pain and anguish,
And for them his life he spent.

Yes, they persecuted, hated
God's dear blest beloved Son,
While he prayed God would forgive them
For the wicked deeds they done.
O methinks I see him bowing
Low in dark Gethsemane,
While the sweat, like blood and water,
Freely flows for you and me.

But, at last, his work was finished,
And they nailed him to the cross;
Him who long had toiled and striven,
That their souls might not be lost.
Children, 'twas for you he suffered,
'Twas for you this Jesus died;
Not alone for those who killed him,
Was the Savior crucified.

Jesus died, and he was buried,
Laid in Joseph's own new tomb;
But he burst the bars asunder,
And he banished all its gloom.
Now he reigns in heaven triumphant,
Seated on his Father's throne;
Now he pleads for you, dear children,
If you to him will but come.

He will hear you though in heaven,
Even as in olden days;
For he turns away none empty,
That in faith unto him prays.
Bow before him with contrition,
You shall his forgiveness gain,
Then, at last, when time is ended,
With him you shall ever reign.

Berwick, Me. MRS. EDWARD A. LIBBY.

AUNT LINA'S SUNSHINE.

"And what is your name?" said I, as the child of the friend whom I had just come to visit passed before me.

"I'se Aunt Lina's Sunshine," was the pleasant answer of Louisa.

"That is a queer name," I said. "Why do they call you so?"

Shaking back her long ringlets, and looking up to me with her earnest, speaking eyes, she said:

"Aunt Lina is papa's sister; she is blind and cannot see anything; not the pretty flowers, nor the soft, white clouds, nor the little birds. She hears the birds sing, though; but she cannot see their pretty colors. She feels the warm sunshine, too, but she can't see how beautiful it makes the meadows look after the rain. But sometimes when she is sad and lonely she calls me to her, and I sit on my little stool by her side and say the pretty verses to her that I learn in the Sabbath school; and I have learned some hymns, too, and I repeat those to her, and then she calls me her sunshine. Don't you think it's very nice to be Aunt Lina's Sunshine?"

"Yes, indeed I do. You are a real little missionary," I said.

"No, I am not a missionary. I know who the missionaries are. They are people who go a great way off to the poor heathen that don't know anything about Jesus, and tell them about him. What made you say that I was a missionary?"

"Because missionaries do good, and you do good to Aunt Lina, don't you?"

"I don't tell her about Jesus, because she knows all about him;" and the child stopped and thought a moment, and then looked up and added, "No, I am not a missionary; I'se only Aunt Lina's Sunshine."

I kissed her cheek, white brow, but said no more to her. But although I was silent, I did not cease thinking of the little girl and her new name. I wondered how many of my acquaintances would have the name of "Sunshine" if in their homes. How many of them carry the light of love in their hearts by their quiet endeavors to make others happy. All have not an "Aunt Lina," blind in body and needing all the light the heart may be gladdened by the love of a little child, but many have a sick friend or acquaintance who by the sunshine of their presence may make the home brighter. With a cheerful look, making an otherwise dreary home bright and cheerful; and all have friends who are somewhat "sad and lonely," to whom a word of love or sympathy would be more precious than the sunshine.—Band of Hope Rev.

THE EVIL OF DISOBEDIENCE!

Frederic and Henry B—— were pious brothers, the children of kind and pious parents. Frederic, the oldest son, was a sharp, intelligent lad, while Henry, on the other hand, though not so quick as Frederic, was far from being a stupid boy. Although Frederic was clever, yet he was a bad boy. He was very disobedient, and you will hear how fearfully he was punished.

One morning, after school, Mrs. B—— said, "now, boys, you may go and play till dinner-time."

"Mamma," said Frederic, "what is there in that box on the high shelf in the cellar?"

"Nothing, my dear, that is in any way useful to yourself," replied Mrs. B——, "and be sure you do not touch it."

"Oh, no, mamma, we will not," said Frederic; and then both boys immediately scampered off to the garden. Marbles, hoop, and ball amused them for some time in the garden; but getting tired of these, they wandered forth from the garden.

Suddenly a thought struck Frederic, and he said; "Let's go and jump in the cellar." This proposal met with consent from cousin Henry, and in a few minutes the boys were engaged pulling off their coats previous to jumping.

"Look," said Frederic, "that is the box I was asking mamma about. Here goes," said he; placing a high stool under the shelf.

"Don't, Frederic, don't," said Henry; "you know mamma told us not to touch it."

"Well, I dare say there is no harm in it; we shall soon see." With this he got upon the stool, and soon his eyes were scanning the contents of the forbidden box. "There is nothing here to be afraid of," he replied, "only some rusty nails and a few empty bottles. Oh, here are one or two bottles labelled poison; but surely mamma doesn't think I am going to take poison, does she? As to this bottle, it is only full of water. I have a mind to break it," said he, carelessly tossing it up and catching it. Again and again the bottle was tossed up, sometimes narrowly escaping falling. Suddenly Frederic uttered a piercing shriek and jumped to the ground, scratching and tearing himself like a madman, and then, rolling on the ground, he cried piteously. Henry soon perceived that the cork had fallen from the bottle, and the contents had been thrown over the disobedient Frederic. His shrieks soon attracted his mother to the spot.

Mrs. —— was nearly frantic to see her son in such a state, and to think it was all owing to his disobedience. A doctor was soon on the spot. The bottle contained oil of vitriol. Poor Frederic was burnt nearly all over, the vitriol having run in the opening of his shirt at his breast, and thus over his body, bringing up blisters wherever it went. The doctor quickly bandaged up his wounds, and placed him in a bed; but judge of the mother's grief when she heard that it was impossible for her son to live more than two days. The poor boy lingered on in agonizing torture. Toward the end of the second day a great change came over him, and it was plain to every one that death was fast approaching.

A few minutes before he died, he cast a glance on all the persons assembled in the room, and then fixing them upon his mother, he said: "Mamma, forgive me." A few minutes afterward, he faintly pronounced the word "disobedience." Then followed a brief interval of silence, during which nothing could be heard but the hard breathing of the dying boy; a few minutes more, and Frederic B—— ceased to exist.

Three days after, this boy was committed to the earth, and never, never shall I forget that funeral.

THE STARVED DOGS.

A while ago a sportsman in England was suddenly called out of town on important business. Expecting to return in a few hours, he shut up his dogs in a room with his game. But instead of coming back in a little while, as he thought to do, he found it needful to go a long distance into the country. He forgot all about his poor dogs. On returning home several days after, he found them all dead. The game lay all around them, but the noble, faithful animals had starved to death rather than touch a single mouthful of their master's property.

The grief of their master was great, but none of his sorrow or reproaches could restore the emaciated creatures to life.

The faithfulness of dumb beasts sometimes puts our integrity to shame. My little friend, do you think you could have resisted such a temptation? Would you have starved to death with food before you, rather than steal? You are a great deal wiser than any dog. God has taught you much more clearly what right and wrong is. I hope you will listen to the faithful conscience within you, and always obey its voice.—S. A. A. in The Christian.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..........$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address.....$5.50
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address.....$10.00.
Same rate for any number under ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.

Over all business matters, write—Business.

Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.

All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.

When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, so they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

All orders for the paper, or other articles, should be written in a plain and neat hand, giving distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED, ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM;

A SEMI-MONTHLY PAPER

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

[illegible]

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 643. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 20.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon at
167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

TRUST IN GOD.

While the joys of earth are bright,
Dancing in unclouded light;
While our path is strewn with flowers,
And our hearts scarce heed the hours;
While but loving smiles we see,
Father! we will trust in thee.

While our friends their tribute pay,
Brightly cheering all our way,
While our hearth is richly blest
With the loved ones, dearest, best,
When we would the gladdest be,
Father! we will trust in thee.

Trust in thee! without thy care
Dare we hope to shun the snare
Sin has spread in Pleasure's halls,
Where innocence is lured and falls?
Oh, then let our motto be,
Father! now we trust in thee.

Selfish, cold must be that heart
Trusting self till sorrows smart;
Spending life for silly gain,
Till in love God sendeth rain;
Father! may we wiser be,
May we ever trust in thee.

Selected by Lucy R. Prettyplace.

For the World's Crisis.

THE WILLFUL KING OF DAN. 11: 36.

In order to determine what king is described by Dan. 11: 36, and onward, we must not only examine the connection, but take the general drift of the prophecy into the account.

The eleventh chapter of Daniel is a prophetic explanation of the vision recorded in chapter eight. This vision includes the Medo-Persian, Grecian, and Roman kingdoms. The Roman kingdom is represented by the "little horn," which came out of one of the four horns that symbolized the divided Grecian empire. These divisions, according to Josephus, were Asia, Babylon, Macedonia, and Egypt.

According to the vision, the "little horn" was to come out of one of these divisions, and wax exceeding great toward the south, and toward the east, and toward the pleasant land. This cannot, therefore, relate to Antiochus Epiphanes, for his kingdom did not come out of, but was one of the four divisions of the Grecian kingdom. Besides, he did not wax exceeding great, but was tributary to the Romans. Medo-Persia, according to the vision, was to become "great"; which proves that the power thus symbolized was to become greater than either Medo-Persia or Grecia.

Rome came out of the western or Macedonian division of the Grecian empire, and waxed exceeding great towards the south; for it conquered Africa, together with Egypt; and toward the east, for it subdued all Asia; and toward the west, for Europe itself came under the dominion of Rome.

That Rome came out of one of these divisions, is proved by the speech of Perseus, king of Macedonia, to his army, when about to make war with the Romans. "It remains, therefore, Macedonians," said he, in concluding, "only to act with the same courage your ancestors showed when, having conquered all Europe, they crossed into Asia, and set no other bounds to their conquests than those of the universe."—Rollin.

This shows that the Macedonians regarded Rome as originally belonging to the Macedonian kingdom. This, together with other peculiarities, which the vision ascribes to the "little horn," proves that Rome is the power symbolized thereby. He was to stand up against the prince of princes, which was fulfilled in the crucifixion of Christ, in the interest of Tiberius Cæsar, because he made himself king without his authority. The little horn was to prosper till the indignation was accomplished, and then to be broken without hands; clearly teaching his continuance till the end of the world, and his destruction independent of all human agency.

Now, then, since the little horn of chapter eight symbolizes the Roman power, and since the eleventh chapter is a prophetic exposition of that vision, it follows that the Roman power must be described in the eleventh chapter, since the angel declared that he would make known to Daniel what should befall his people "in the latter days"; and, therefore, during the supremacy of the Romans, which the little horn symbolized, commencing with Dan. 11: 6, we have a prophetic allusion to the marriage of Berenice, daughter of Ptolemy Philadelphus, with Antiochus Theos, king of the north, and death of all the parties named.

Vers. 7–9. The succession of Ptolemy Euergetes to the throne of Egypt, and his war with Seleucus Callinicus, the successor of Antiochus Theos.

Ver. 10. The sons of Callinicus make war against Ptolemy Philopater, the king of the south; that is, Egypt.

Vers. 11–12. Ptolemy Philopater defeats Antiochus the Great, the successor of Callinicus.

Vers. 13–19. Antiochus the Great makes war on Ptolemy Epiphanes, successor of Ptolemy Philopater, and overcomes him.

Ver. 20. Seleucus Philopater, successor to Antiochus the Great, stands up as "a raiser of taxes" to pay tribute to the Romans.

Some have endeavored to make this apply to Augustus Cæsar, to which there are serious objections. It was said of this "raiser of taxes" that "in a few days he should be destroyed"; whereas, Augustus Cæsar reigned fifty-seven years from his first association with Anthony, and forty-four years as sole monarch of the Roman empire. Besides, the angel is speaking of the kingdom of the north, and not of Rome, which was in the west.

Vers. 21–30. Antiochus Epiphanes succeeds Seleucus Philopater, as the king of the north, makes war on Ptolemy Philometer, but is finally forced to quit Egypt on demand of the Roman senate. The prophecy declared that the ships of Chittem should come against him, on his last attempt to invade Egypt. Chittem denotes the Macedonians, which at this time were under the dominion of the Romans. And the Roman consul sailed in a fleet of Macedonian ships, in order to put a stop to Antiochus' designs on Egypt, and forced him to relinquish any further attempt to conquer that country. With this ends the prophecy concerning Antiochus Epiphanes; for the next verse speaks of his successors. For the Septuagint translation of the next verse says that "his seed shall stand up, and shall pollute the sanctuary of strength," etc.

The Cottage Bible alludes to the fact that the Hebrew word translated "arm," also signifies "offspring." This being so, the Septuagint translators, knowing that "arms," in the literal acceptation of the term, could not "stand up," very properly translated it, "And his seed shall stand up"; that is, the seed, or successors, of Antiochus Epiphanes.

Now, since the thirty-first verse speaks of the successors of Antiochus, and since the Syrian succession is always called the "king of the north" in Daniel, it is clear that this power is not the power symbolized by the little horn; for the latter was to come out of one of the great divisions of the Grecian empire, as a smaller division contained in one of the four, and so could not denote the kingdom of Antiochus, which is here called the king of the north. And since the little horn was to take away the daily sacrifice, and since this little horn can not apply to any other but Rome, the agency of the successors of Antiochus, in taking away the daily sacrifice, can only apply to their agency in developing the apostasy which led to Roman supremacy, and to the final establishment of the Papal religion as the only legal religion of the world. And since the prophetic description of a regular succession ends with Antiochus, it is clear that "the king," spoken of afterwards, who was to "do according to his will," is to be understood of a lineal succession, and not of any one individual king.

And as the king spoken of answers to the power symbolized by the little horn, and since this can apply to none other than the Roman power, the lineal succession denotes the Papal succession. Wm. Hobbs.

For the World's Crisis.

NOW IT IS PAST.

It is a fact that the "vital point" in the '67 "time theory" is now past, and the Lord has not come. I do not feel like joining with the scoffing world in rejoicing over the disappointment of its advocates; but I do feel to lament the injury it has done the cause of Christ. It may be contended that no very strong faith has been shocked by the disappointment; but I reply that faith which might have been strong has been shocked materially. There are many sound christians whose minds could not comprehend the arguments, yet who placed such explicit confidence in their leaders that they firmly believed the "time theory" to be all sound, and that the Lord would surely come by the 20th of Nov. The faith of such—many of them, will be shocked; they begin to lose confidence in their leaders, and think if they have failed in this they may be mistaken in other things also. But the "vital point" is now past, and those who conscientiously did reject the arguments are not hurled into the vortex of perdition yet. And I have faith to believe that it is not policy to be too positive with regard to any fixed time for the advent of the Lord. It is evident that great events are just before us, and in the midst of them I confidently believe the Lord will come; but for me to say he is coming in '67, or '68, I can not do it, because I do not know it; and I always hate to tell a thing that I do not know. Neither do I like to stand upon platforms laid by other men without first satisfying myself with regard to their foundation; or quote other men's "quotations of history," etc., without first examining the history myself. Daniel was informed that "the wise should understand"; but if I do not understand the '67 theory, I may be as wise as those that did understand it and got disappointed. And the reason why I did not understand it, is not because I did not investigate; by no means; but because I could not find a plank in the platform wide enough for faith to stand upon, nor a handle for faith to hold on to.

I am of the faith myself that before the Lord comes "the time" will be known by the the church, and all true christians will be looking for the return of the Bridegroom; but I as firmly believe that when the time is known, the church will all be agreed, and not one looking for the advent at one time, and another at another. No doubt but there are just as wise men in the advocacy of the '68 theory as in that of the '67, and yet if the time has come when "the wise shall understand," why do they not understand alike?

When I say that I reject the '67 time theory, I do not wish to be understood as saying that I reject all the arguments; no, no; some of the arguments are undoubtedly sound; and others, if tried by the "law of symbols," no doubt would appear more like "symbolic absurdities" than like "sound arguments."

But the theory as a whole I do reject; I have rejected from the beginning; other and abler pens have given some of the reasons why I rejected it, and time has proved me wise in rejecting it.

By the way, however, I have heard it remarked that the contest would be between the two theories—'67 and '68; that one or the other must be correct; and this remark has been made by one who is thoroughly versed in history, and perfectly conversant with prophecy. If this be so, then as the '67 time theory has failed, the '68 arguments must be correct. If this should not be the case, however, let us not be disheartened, but "hold fast the confidence of our faith firm unto the end." "If the vision tarry, wait for it," for "yet a little while and He who shall come wil come, and will not tarry." Amen.

J. W. Taylor.

GOSPEL TESTS.

Many a man is reputed rich, who is, in reality, poor. He does a large business, but it is upon borrowed capital. So, too, many have a reputation for piety, who are utterly destitute of saving grace. There is no doubt upon this point; for the Savior has told us that this is the case. He says he will, at the last day, say to many who expected to be saved, "I never knew you." But why will there be so great and so general a disappointment? Why will so many fail of their dearest, long cherished hopes? Why so sad a waking up from the pleasing dreams of illusion to dreadful, ever-biding realities?

One reason, doubtless, is, that false standards of piety are so prevalent. Practically, the people are taught by those in whom they have confidence that they will gain heaven on much easier terms than those which the gospel imposes. Faith is made to act as a substitute for obedience to the commandments of God. The preaching to which they listen assumes that they are christians. It is sometimes hinted that they are not as devoted as they ought to be, but it is taken for granted that they are in the way to Heaven. What are the grounds on which this assumption is based? Simply these: They lead outwardly moral lives, belong to the church, and contribute their proportion for its support. They have not the marks of a new creature in Christ Jesus. They do not make his word their rule of action. They live as those live with whom they associate. Whatever commands of God they keep, they observe, not from principle, but because they would otherwise lose their standing in society. They call themselves the followers of Christ, whereas they are, in reality, the devotees of fashion;—of religious fashion, it may be, yet it is of no more authority than any other of the fashions of the age.

Beloved reader, is this your case? What can be more appropriate for the first of a new year than a searching, rigorous, self-examination, by that word by which we shall be judged at the last day?

Do you deny yourself for the sake of Jesus? Wherein? In what particular? Do you do it every day? Is your life one of self-denial, or one of self-gratification? Brother, can you live in the old but comfortable house, that you may have the more abundant means to devote for the advancement of the cause of God? Sister, you love a good religious meeting; can you deny yourself of the privilege of attending one, and for Jesus' sake, take care of the children of some weary, worn-out mother, that she may visit the sanctuary of God, from which domestic cares have so long detained her? Do you take up your cross daily? Do those duties which God requires though they may be ever so contrary to your material inclinations? Is your religion of the practical, every-day kind, which controls all your actions and all your words? Have you the Spirit of Christ? Some discharge their duties outwardly, but it is in a cold, Pharisaical, self-complacent spirit. They are building upon self, instead of Christ. There is too much human nature, and too little of the Divine about their religion to have it profit them in the day of judgment. "Examine yourselves whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves. Know ye not your own selves, how that Jesus Christ is in you except ye be reprobates?"—Earnest Christian.

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS SAY.

In the Quebec Chronicle for Jan. 17th, we find a leading editorial of three and a half columns on the political condition of the United States, from which we make the following extract:—Ed.

The political condition of the United States, at present, is one that excites the gravest alarm throughout the Union. It is no exaggeration to say, that the events now transpiring on the American side of the Line are watched by the people of Canada with a sorrowful interest, little less than that pervading the minds of our Republican neighbors themselves. The unfortunate condition to which their political, industrial and commercial affairs have been reduced bears melancholy testimony to the evils of civil war, and afford but too painful confirmation of the predictions often made before the termination of the fratricidal struggle—that with the cessation of the clash of arms and the horrors of war would arise new difficulties for the Northern States, problems infinitely harder to solve than those which fell to the settlement of the sword. It is matter of the deepest regret to all men living on this Northern Continent—to all friendly-disposed to the system of free government derived from our Anglo-Saxon forefathers, that the Constitution, under which our neighbors have grown to a mighty power threatens to go down amid the waves of sectional strife and political passion.

After three years' vain attempts to restore the Union, in fact as well as in name—after anxious and wearisome legislation, and no end of party and benevolent effort, by various Northern organizations, it is humiliating and disheartening to think that the restoration of the South is far from complete—is, in fact, arrested, with no certainty of a speedy accomplishment. The root of the evil lies in the United States form of government, and the readiness with which the national constitution can be violated by the different departments of the governing body. Those who condemned infractions of the constitution during the war, when "necessity" was constantly pleaded as their sufficient justification, now behold the realization of their predictions as to the repetition of such acts, when no such excuse could be pleaded. The barriers and safeguards of that instrument thrown down, on any pretense, open the way to innumerable inroads upon the great charter of the national rights and liberties. Unfortunately, the decline of the national respect for the constitution has been rapid of late years, the war itself creating circumstances and emergencies which contributed materially to destroy the little regard still entertained for it in the minds of the majority of the Republican party. Furthermore, patriotism has come to be less a motive and an object with the bulk of the people than party, which for years has been gradually monopolizing the public homage. All things are sacrificed before this shrine, in many cases even right and justice.

Now, however adapted to political calm the United States constitution may have been, it was not found suited to the altered circumstances of the republic, and the changed tone of public feeling growing out of the civil war. The bulk of the people of the North, at the end of the war, partly to punish the rebel South, to reward the negroes and rectify their wrongs, and to preclude the possibility of future secessions, demanded a plan of reconstruction which overstept the limits of the constitution. A radical congress looked only to the will of the people, as the supreme authority and justification for its acts. It was unfortunate for the South that at the outset it did not accept the constitutional amendment, and comparatively mild conditions prescribed for its re-admission to the Union; and it was unfortunate that the President and Congress became involved in bitter quarrels, which had for effect the encouragement of the South to hold on, expecting better terms, and the exasperation of the radical majority in Congress against both the President and the Rebel States. Mr. Johnson's exhibition of democratic sympathies but inflamed the quarrel, which ultimately carried both parties to extremes, and produced dead locks and delays and difficulties as to the work of reconstruction, of incalculable mischief to the nation, and the outcome of which may be revolution. * * *

No wonder the Union is in a fever of excitement, and that men's minds are harrassed by the gravest apprehensions of coming disasters. What will the President do? is the anxious question which was past from mouth to mouth during the last few days. Upon his moderation and wisdom, or upon his obstinacy and folly depend the most momentous issues for the United States. Finally, commercially, politically, the Union is at this moment in the gravest straits; let us hope the crisis will quickly pass away, and that the Republic will soon emerge from the present threatening gloom of revolution, with brighter prospects of internal peace and harmony, and a more widespread prosperity than ever dawned upon her before.

For the World's Crisis.

THE WAY TO BE HAPPY.

Have something to do; something to love; something to hope for. A desire to be happy exists in human nature, and all make more or less effort to acquire happiness; yet but few are happy, or succeed in gaining lasting pleasure. True happiness is not to be had for money, neither is the possession of it accidental. True happiness is identical and alike in all its relations to the happy possessor.

Happiness is sought in a variety of ways, but found only in doing duty. Have something to do; be determined to get a livelihood by honest industry. Idleness is corrosive; it eats like a canker both health and pleasure. Industry is the road to usefulness, and usefulness to happiness.

Mental labor should not be overlooked. Mental labor! exclaims one, I did not know that the mind could work. I never thought editors, preachers, teachers, students, etc., ever worked. Professor Houghton, of Dublin, has been investigating the relative wear of intellectual and physical labors. By a series of carefully conducted chemical experiments he has proved that two hours of intellectual effort are as wearing to the system as a whole day of physical labor.

Have something to love; something worthy of love, then love it with true and lasting affection. The mind needs something that is reciprocal, that it may open its innermost chambers to with perfect trust and confidence. The soul if left alone may prey upon itself to its ruin. It is better to be alone than in bad company, for then evil influences are increased by the ratio of associates. Love must begin at home among brothers and sisters, children and parents; it is innate in the heart, the great binding chain of society. Without it there could be no friendship, and the purpose of God in creating intelligent beings would be lost. Cultivate an affectionate disposition; it will pay, for when we love others we love ourselves. Fill the mind so full with love that there will be no place for hate.

Have something to hope for. Without something to hope for life is a burden too great to be borne. To hope and expect are seated deep in human nature. If it was not for hope, our caskets would take wings and fly away; yes, the heart would break, and, if we knew the future, discouragements too great to be borne would arise.

Now if we do our duty we have much to hope for, and if we fail to do duty we have all to dread. Hope is life, and as long as we live we hope to a certain extent.

Hope amounts to more than a desire; it approximates to an expectation. The pleasure that arises from a hope and anticipation of future enjoyment is often greater than the realization of the expected enjoyment.

Hope is the couterpart of work and love—the key to the soul. Work, love, and hope. Work for God, love God, and hope for salvation through the extended mercy of God by his Son, Jesus Christ. Which will you do? idle, hate, and fear, or work, love, and hope?

A. L. Adams.

SELF-DENIAL.

To deny self, is pre-eminently a christian duty. This is seen from the word of God. "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." Herein we see the principles of a christian's life.

1. There must be, according to the established relation existing between God the Creator, and man the created, a voluntary yielding, or an entire surrendering of all that appertains directly or indirectly to him, in this present life. And, connected with this, there will be a sincere desire to be a meek and humble disciple of the Master.

2. He must deny himself. That is, renounce most perseveringly, all self dependence and all selfish pursuits. For our ugly self is bitterly opposed to God; therefore opposed to real happiness. "For, to be carnally minded, is (spiritual) death."

3. Whoever will thus accept and embrace the conditions which God has appointed, and is willing to bear the troubles and difficulties consequent upon the christian warfare, let him also take up his cross daily.

4. He must emulate the example of Jesus, in doing and in suffering all in the spirit of him who really loved his enemies, and always did good, both to the souls and bodies of all, and even to those who despitefully used him. "Let him follow me." The doctrine of self-denial, it will be observed, enters very largely into the above principles. For the very instant that an individual yields himself to be the Lord's wholly, that very moment he denies self. Self seeks and desires to have its own way, which is always counter to God's way. The term cross implies denial; because everything, which is opposite to our wills, may justly be termed a cross. To bring ourselves (by the help of grace,) into a state of entire subjection, both as it refers to our internal and external life, so that in all things and under all circumstances we can say, "thy will be done," implies accurate and constant self-denial. Therefore, to deny self, is pre-eminently a christian's duty; and one that enters into all the walks of life.

Self-denial must be exercised in regard to every forbidden indulgence, how pleasant soever, or seemingly profitable. This sentiment is taught by the words of Jesus, "If thy right hand offend thee cut it off;" i. e., if thou hast a cherished habit, which has in any degree caused you to stumble, or to be irregular in your enjoyment, or vacillating in your purposes in the christian course; pluck it out and cast it from thee. If thy right hand—any employment which leads you into sin, cannot be carried on to the glory of God and the good of mankind, break with it at once, how lucrative soever it may be; treat it as a deadly enemy, for certainly such it is.

We are to deny self in every forbidden indulgence. And is it not a fact, that we are prone to squander the golden moments of probation in inactivity and idleness? Even when the fields are ripe to the harvest? The exhortation is, "redeem the time;" "work while the day lasts." "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do it with thy might," i. e., steadily improve every present moment, by laboring in the vineyard of the Lord. The discipline makes an inquiry, "Why are we not more knowing?" The answer given is, "Because we are idle." The first rule to a certain degree is forgotten, which is, "Be diligent." * * * *

Reader, dost thou need to reform in this matter? begin the work now: you will find that self will enters largely into the struggle; but self must be promptly met, and always denied. Give "all diligence," so you may "add to your faith, virtue; and to your virtue, knowledge."—Ex.

For the World's Crisis.

WHAT IS TRUTH?

This question of our Savior by Pilate, who did not wait for a reply, is fully answered in the inspired word, to a few passages of which we will briefly refer on various points.

Is it not truth that there shall in no wise enter into the New Jerusalem "any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie"? Is not every sin defiling? Is it not sin to indulge in or allow any thing contrary to the plain teachings of the New Testament, or to deny what is there expressly taught?

Is not covetousness, which is idolatry, defiling? and does not the inspired word declare no covetous man shall inherit the kingdom of God? Are not jesting and joking, forbidden in God's word, also defiling? Is not all idle or vain conversation, which even many professors of religion indulge in, also defiling? Is not the wearing of gold, or pearls, braided hair, or costly array, contrary to the plain teachings of God's word, and consequently defiling? Is not indulging in the fashionable extravagance of the day, either in dress or equipages, fine or needless furniture, or fine houses, also contrary to the teachings of the New Testament, and defiling?

Is not laying up for ourselves earthly treasures, or the desire of riches, or love of money, also forbidden, and also defiling? If we withhold our substance from our poor brethren, or shall fail to entirely consecrate all to the Lord as he shall see fit or best to direct to his own glory, then are we not doing contrary to Scripture teachings in these matters, and are thereby defiled?

Are we not to deny ourselves, and take up our cross daily, that is, to deny ungodliness and worldly lusts, according to Scripture? And if we do not, do we not commit sin, and thereby are defiled? Are not the inordinate indulgence of our appetites in over eating or drinking, or needless extravagant expenditure to pamper or gratify the same, accounted in the Scripture as gluttony and drunkenness, and consequently defiling?

Are not all useless, filthy indulgences, such as tobacco, snuff, opium, etc., to gratify a perverted appetite, entirely contrary to the instructions of holy writ, and also defiling? Are we not to present our bodies a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable unto God, which is our reasonable service? Are we not to cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, as the Bible instructs? And if we do not do thus, as directed, are we not defiled? Furthermore, are not many of the sectarian and religious institutions of the present day abominations, and defiling?

Are not the honors, pleasures and fashions, as well as wars, political strifes and contentions of this world (in which so many professing christians engage at the present day), all contrary to the plain commands of God's word, and, as a matter of course, defiling? Are not the various pursuits and callings of the present day, in which many professors of religion engage, which the world highly esteem, considered abominations in the sight of God, and defiling?

Are not the Lord's people to keep out of the current of worldly affairs? By inspiration they are told to love not the world, nor the things in the world; to come out from among them and be separate; who are considered as strangers and pilgrims, seeking a better country, whose bodies are the temple of the Holy Ghost. Now if they do contrary to these instructions, will they not be defiled? Evil speaking, or evil thinking,—are not these contrary to the instructions of the inspired word, and, if indulged in, are they not defiling? If we lack that charity, or love, which the inspired word instructs us in regard to having, are we not defiled?

Again, if we have "left our first love," does not the voice of inspiration declare of such, "thou art fallen"? Are not such defiled? Or if found in that lukewarm state spoken of by the "faithful and true witness," in which position we fear the mass of the churches are blindly flattering and indulging themselves at the present day, are not they consequently defiled? Are not those who do not heed this gospel admonition, "Watch ye, therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man," and are not some who profess to be looking for the coming of Jesus, as well as the great mass of the churches, entirely neglecting this admonition, and consequently are defiled?

Dearly beloved, the day of destinies will soon, very soon, be past. Let us, therefore, cheerfully discharge every christian duty, and by watchfulness, prayer, and fasting and faithfulness in all things, with supreme love to our heavenly Father, and by his Spirit abiding with us, we may know we are adopted sons and daughters, and by patient continuance in well doing, we shall be kept undefiled, be established unblamable in holiness, and ready to be called to the marriage supper of the Lamb.

Dear brethren and sisters, do not fail to be fully prepared and in readiness. We may look for that day now at any time. Praise the Lord. Rejoicing will come then.

Marion, N. Y. S. L. Manley.

SHORT SERMON ON LONG ONES.

My friends, I have forty reasons against long sermons; but, for the sake of brevity, I shall omit all but two.

1st. Long sermons seldom effect the object of preaching—the design of the preacher, is to convince, instruct, and persuade.

Now, to convince, it is not necessary to dig a channel to the understanding as long as the Erie canal—and, generally, two good reasons clearly presented, and powerfully urged, will produce more conviction than twenty. To instruct—neither a whole system of theology, nor a world of illustration, nor a vocabulary of words, are necessary. Such surfeiting the mind rejects. To impress, it is not necessary to thunder long and loud—the oak is riven by a single stroke of lightning—and to persuade, the man that cannot be moved in half an hour, will not be teased into submission in an hour and a half. So that all beyond a sermon is lost, and worse than lost; the lover of truth leaves the house of God with a weary body, a jaded mind, and a heavy heart, not because the preaching was not evangelical, or was inappropriate, but because of its unreasonable length.

2d. Long sermons drive not a few from the house of God. How often is the excuse made—"I would attend church, but—but—who can endure an endless sermon."

Such an apology may indeed arise from an aversion of the heart to truth, but let the cause be removed, and this excuse at least will die.

Two Remarks:—1st. We see one reason why some ministers are so unsuccessful in their preaching. Were they to condense their thoughts, and urge them home briefly, vividly, and fervently, with the blessing of God, glorious results would follow.

2nd. Let not ministers complain that hearers sleep, nor of inattention, when they take the very way to produce it.—Lutheran Observer.

☞ Nature bids me love myself, and hate all that hurt me; reason bids me love my friends, and hate those who envy me; religion bids me love all and hate none. Nature showeth care, reason, wit, religion, love. Nature may induce me, reason persuade me, but religion shall rule me. I will hearken to nature in much, to reason in more, to religion in all.—Warwick.

For the World's Crisis.

"WHERE NO WOOD IS, THE FIRE GOETH OUT."

REVIVALS HINDERED; THE WORK OF GRACE.

"Turn you at my reproof."—Prov. 1: 23.

Revivals hindered! when? how?

1. Neglecting to enforce proper discipline. Achans are in the camp; cannot Israel move a step? "A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump."

2. Variances in the church unreconciled. "If ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another."

3. Neglect of suitable confession and restitution.

4. Neglect of fasting and humiliation.

5. Long prayers and exhortations, without any point, pith, soul, or special aim.

6. A few principal members occupying most of the time in prayer and conference meetings, while others are silent, or not called upon. Ruinous!

7. For some brother to rise in the meeting and say, "There is a lion in the way, a lion!" Awful!

8. Not praying to the point, fervently, in faith, in the Holy Spirit, perseveringly, like Jacob saying, "I will not let thee go."

9. Neglecting to bring all the tithes into the store-house.

10. Preaching without the Holy Spirit, point, pith, condensation, practical application, and not making every one feel "Thou art the man."

11. Preaching three long sermons on the Sabbath to one congregation.

12. Reading sermons instead of preaching them.

13. Preaching on popular subjects, merely to excite public attention, without special aim at holiness of heart and life, or the conviction and conversion of sinners. Quite common.

14. The life, out of the pulpit, not corresponding with the life in the pulpit. Alas, how frequent!

15. Preaching to sinners over the heads of lukewarm, worldly-minded, covetous church members! Horrible!

16. Neglecting to break up the fallow ground thoroughly, remove every stumbling-block, and elevate the church to a holy standard.

17. Not making every church member feel that he has something to do.

18. Not removing every drone from the hive.

19. Neglect of faithful and continued pastoral and church visitations.

20. Preachers carrying on other kinds of business, and not giving their whole time, talents and soul to the work.

21. Want of union—united and hearty co-operation between the church and the minister.

22. Narcotic poisons, tobacco, opium, etc., though their power to excite the baser passions may not equal that of alcohol, yet their sedative effects, in destroying the sensibilities, as effectually incapacitates its victim for spiritual exercises. Though those under the influence of narcotics, or of alcohol, may appear to themselves and others quite devotional,—may write, preach, pray and exhort, it is all spurious; the offering of strange fire! God abhors it.

23. Another stumbling block or hindrance to revivals and the onward movement of salvation is—the light, popular readings, works of fiction, novels, romances, fashion-plate magazines, and comicals! These are the most potent engines the devil ever planted upon the earth to undermine the principles of virtue, and subvert the morality of the Bible. They drive the individuals from the sanctuary, close the Bible, alienate the heart from God, and plunge the soul into temporal ruin and eternal death.

24. Again; one great and special hindrance to revivals in our cities is, worldly and carnal excitements—"picnic religion," sitting down to eat and drink, and "rising up to play."

Is money to be raised for church debts, church building, or repairing? for a Sabbath School or a missionary enterprise? for the increase of the minister's salary? Is money wanted to relieve the poor, or for any benevolent operation? What now? How is this money to be forthcoming? In a sober, rational, gospel way? Nay, a feast is prepared, a soiree introduced, a fancy fair, a picnic, a concert or exhibition of some kind, a donation, tea or strawberry party, a sleigh-ride, oyster supper, a tin or gold wedding, something to inflame the passions, excite and enlarge the appetite, produce a little fun or vulgar merriment. These are stratagems of Satan, death, double death to serious thought and reflection. O what a curse, what a curse! "Awake! awake! arise, put on strength, O Zion."

"How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of sleep?"

"Ye that make mention of the Lord, keep not silence, and give him no rest, till he establish, and till he make Jerusalem a praise in all the earth."

"Awake, thou that sleepest, arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light." "Cast ye up, cast ye up, prepare the way, take up the stumbling-blocks out of the way."

"Wake, thou that sleepest; [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]"

"Break up your fallow ground, and sow not among thorns." "Set up the standard toward Zion."

Whatever is done by a church, or by a portion of the members for it, should be so done as neither to sacrifice nor to obscure that which distinguishes the church from the world. How totally [illegible] to meet this requirement, we need not stay to depict. They are scenes of worldliness and levity, in which men can trace nothing that distinguishes the church from the world. "Be not conformed." D. F. Newton.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Jan. 29, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ CASH RECEIPTS.

Our subscribers in Massachusetts and Maine will find their credit of money received for the Crisis on the strip pasted on their paper, which shows the date to which their subscription pays, instead of the No., as formerly acknowledged. Others will be sent likewise as fast as we get each State so arranged. So you can look at the date on your paper, and see if it is changed after sending us money.

QUEBEC.

Our meetings in Quebec have produced a great commotion in the theological waters, and brought to the surface some unpleasant sights. Where many supposed all was nice rock bottom, they now find only a mass of mud and filth, which had produced an abundance of poisonous weeds, scripturally known by the name of "fables," which were to be sought by many "in the last days." We have never been in any other place where these fables had taken so deep root, and received so little disturbance as in Quebec. Nearly all the leading powers of the city seemed to have taken one common root from the same stagnant pool, whose great reservoir is on the seven-hilled city. Those who receive their doctrine from the church of Rome hold a large proportion of the wealth, power and influence in the city; and are very jealous of any one who dares to cross their path. He who does it is at once a marked man; and all his movements and words are closely inspected, reported and criticised. Surrounded as he is by walls, soldiers and cannon, he may easily imagine himself a stranger in a strange land; and recall to mind the days when good men were shut in prisons to starve, because they dare expose the fables and corruptions that brooded under the hypocrite's cloak, by the civil and ecclesiastical arm. We have seen what we called bigotry, in other places; but in Quebec we find the genuine article, unadulterated with the spirit of toleration. Yet, notwithstanding all this, the Lord has raised up some noble souls here, who love his word and appearing, and are willing to share in the reproaches of Christ, be despised and rejected from society, that they may at last be counted worthy of everlasting life.

Our audiences have been large, but sometimes quite disorderly. The feeling against us has been so strong, that quite a number who were anxious to attend the meetings, dare not come, because of their fear of violence from the enemies of the cross of Christ. Our hall will seat about four hundred; but it is said we have had in it eight hundred. The aisles, platforms, window-sills, were all full; and, notwithstanding the cold weather, the doors were opened, and many listened outside; while many others were obliged to go away. In this crowd were a number of the most noted wicked men in the city of Quebec, who are a terror even to the police. In the early part of the meeting on Friday evening, Jan. 17th, these daring fellows made some disturbance, but at length became more or less interested to hear what we had to say on the final destiny of those who obey not the gospel of God, and they listened attentively. We felt most sensibly that the Lord was our helper. The presence and conduct of these well-known bravos caused considerable fear in some hearts; especially the ladies. At the beginning of the meeting one daring fellow, who began to mock at us, was taken out by the police; but after the crowd got in, and the band of organised wicked ones, the police were powerless before them, and allowed them to do as they pleased. Kind words spoken to them from the desk served to disarm them, and to prevent them from doing any violence or making much disturbance after the first fifteen minutes of the meeting till the close of the sermon. We then gave permission to ask questions, as previously announced, when several were asked by different individuals. During this time, some of those who neither fear God nor man, became noisy and saucy, and finally succeeded in breaking up the meeting, and closed it by a fiendish hurrah. We learned, however, that a number of respectable people became satisfied that our preaching was in harmony with the Bible, and felt anxious to hear more on the subject.

Saturday evening, we could not have the hall, but we had one of the most interesting Bible classes at Bro. David Lawson's, we ever enjoyed. We have a good home at Bro. L's, who is an intelligent christian, who frequently addresses the church on the Sabbath. We think the Lord will call him to devote his time to the preaching of the gospel of the kingdom.

Sabbath, Jan. 19th, was a good day in the Lord. We had a love-feast at 9-30, preaching at 10½ A. M., 2½ and 6½ P. M., and sacrament at 6 in the evening. The afternoon and evening audiences were large, attentive, orderly and intelligent. The truth was well received, and we had good evidence that the Lord was raising up some warm friends in Quebec. The police stood at the door and prevented the "roughs" from coming in, and when meeting was over escorted us to our home, as they did also on Friday evening. They showed us much kindness, although they were opposed to us in faith.

Monday evening, 20th, an attempt was made to keep out those who had a disposition to disturb the meeting, but they were finally let in, on condition that they should manifest good behavior. Some of them failed to observe good order; and after the audience had borne with their misconduct for a while, they rose up almost en masse and cried "Put them out!" whereupon they left in haste. We then went on with our meeting, and had a most excellent one. The Spirit of the Lord was with us in power. Several of those who were ordered out came back and listened attentively. We felt great liberty in preaching the word of life. It was our purpose to have left for the States Monday, Jan. 20th, but the interest is such that we feel it duty to remain the most of this week. We learn that Mr. Phillips, with whom we expected to have had a discussion, is to issue this week on Thursday, a pamphlet entitled:—"Short Work with Miles Grant and the Adventists." We hope to receive a copy in season to review it before leaving the city.

Tuesday, Jan. 21st. There is a rumor in the city to-day that the "roughs" are to greet us to-night with a warm reception. It is said they are coming all organized, with a determination to have things their own way. Our trust is in the Lord, who does not suffer us to fear or tremble at the threats of his enemies. The chief of police has just sent a messenger to inquire what time our meeting is to begin this evening, as he intends to send a body of the "Harbor Police," the most effective in the city, to protect us. Some of our Brn. and Srs. will not dare to go to meeting this evening. We shall calmly wait the issue.

THE QUEBEC DISCUSSION.

The public mind is quite stirred in Quebec, relative to our proposed discussion with Mr. Phillips. The opposition has lost ground in consequence of the course pursued, and is trying to secure it again by the following, which appeared in the Quebec Chronicle, Jan. 15th:—

(To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle.)

SIR,—In an advertisement in your issue of this morning, under the heading of "Religious Discussion," I am accused of bringing on a Mr. Miles Grant, from Boston, and then refusing to meet him.

The facts are these:—Some months ago, I was challenged to meet Mr. Grant by several of his followers, who believe in the annihilation of the wicked, soul and body, after the day of resurrection, and signed a paper to that effect. It was understood on both sides that a probable contingency might prevent the discussion.

That contingency has been realized by the Bishop of Quebec requesting me not to meet Mr. Grant, on the ground that such encounter would be dissonant to the character of a Minister of Christ.

I have deferred to courteous request what I should not have yielded either to Episcopal judgment or authority.

Mr. Grant was coming to Quebec, even if I had not engaged to meet him. He makes annually money-making tours. I have before me, in his journal, the World's Crisis, a programme of his tour from Boston to Montreal, and so on to Quebec.

It will be seen then that the disappointment to Mr. Grant's followers is not so much the result of refusal on my part, as prevention on the part of my Superior and Diocesan.

As a free agent, I am still willing, with permission, to meet Mr. Grant; for I do not think it would be difficult to prove to the intelligent community of Quebec how unworthy of sympathy and support is that man who would destroy all social and moral obligations by endeavoring to prove that man has no more soul than a dog, not so many lives as a cat, no more brains than a calf, consequently no better than a sheep, and that he is born an animal, lives like a brute, and dies like a beast. I wish his followers joy with such opinions. Mr. Grant's whole reasoning is based on a false construction of terms in the Hebrew and Greek language, of which he is woefully ignorant.

SAMUEL HENRY PHILLIPS,
Assistant Minister, Chapel of the Holy Trinity, Quebec.
Quebec, 14th Jany., 1868.

The next day the following appeared in the Chronicle, giving a correct version of the case:—

(To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle.)

SIR,—With your permission, I wish to lay before the public a few facts having reference to the religious discussion advertised in your journal, that the public, with both sides of the question before them, may judge correctly. The following letter will speak for itself:—

35 Urvile Street, Oct. 3d, 1867.

DEAR SIR,—Should I receive from Mr. Grant, personally, an invitation to meet him in discussion, I shall be willing to accept the same. The latter end of November would suit me best. Faithfully yours,
S. H. PHILLIPS.
David Lawson, No. 7, John Street.

Elder Grant accordingly sent the required invitation, at the same time requesting Mr. Davidson and myself to act for him. After submitting several questions for discussion, the subjoined was selected, and the following agreement entered into:

"Do the Scriptures teach, that after the judgment the wicked will be punished with eternal death, and cease to exist as conscious beings?"

The above question is hereby agreed to be discussed on the second Monday of January, 1868, between the Rev. S. H. Phillips and Miles Grant, of Boston, the discussion to extend over five evenings, of two hours' session, and speeches to occupy twenty minutes.

This agreement was signed by Thos. Davidson and David Lawson, acting for Elder Grant, and by the Rev. S. H. Phillips, C. E. K., in the month of September, 1867. On the occasion of our first visit to Mr. Phillips, he very courteously spoke of Elder Grant as a cunning Yankee, who made it his business to get up these discussions for the purpose of making money. I am surprised and hurt to find him renew the offensive charge, when he can have no means of knowing whether it be true or not. Mr. Phillips knows this at least, that Elder Grant was to receive nothing from this discussion, save his fare to Quebec and home again, and the whole proceeds were to be given to the Protestant Home. Towards the end of December, Mr. Davidson and myself waited on Mr. Phillips to get him to appoint some one to act with us as a committee of Management. At that time, he informed us that he had been requested by several clergymen of this city not to meet Mr. Grant. We reminded him of the agreement he had signed, which we had forwarded to Mr. Grant, and showed him in the World's Crisis (Mr. Grant's paper) the appointment for the discussion, and also Mr. Grant's purpose to stop at several places on the way. Mr. Phillips promised to see the Bishop, who was then expected home, and then he would communicate his final decision. Some few days after we saw Mr. Phillips again, when he informed us he would meet Mr. Grant according to agreement, but would take no responsibility with regard to procuring a Hall, &c., &c., which he would leave entirely in our hands. We then tried to hire the Lecture Hall, but failing in that, we had to take the Temperance Hall, and on Wednesday morning the first advertisement appeared. About ten o'clock of the same day, I received the following note:

DEAR SIR,—Cannot meet Mr. Grant in the Temperance Hall, as it will not afford suitable accommodation for my friends. Truly yours, S. H. PHILLIPS.
Wednesday morning.

That same day, Mr. Phillips read to me a letter, which he had received from the Bishop, requesting him not to discuss so grave a question in public, as he thought it would result in no good. Mr. Phillips informed me his mind was not fully made up yet; but he promised to let me know next day. I saw Mr. Phillips the next day, when he informed me he had decided not to meet Mr. Grant. I remonstrated with him for leading us to incur expenses, and bringing Elder Grant so far, to no purpose. Mr. Phillips said we had better say nothing about the expenses, or it would be worse for us. These then are the facts, and we submit them to the public. I think, from the tenor of Bishop Williams' letter, he was not aware that Mr. Phillips had made a written agreement, or he would not have requested that gentleman to break it. As it is, it is still possible to carry out the agreement, if the Bishop will grant permission. Perhaps, after all, Mr. Phillips, in searching the good Old Book, came across something different from that which he was looking for, and shrewdly suspects that there is just as much authority for believing in "the immortality of the soul" and the eternity of evil, as he has for assigning a plurality of "lives" to a "cat."

Mr. Grant had no intention of visiting Canada, till the arrangements for the discussion were made. As for making money, I can confidently say, that if Mr. Grant is not rewarded in the "world to come," his is a wretched business, financially, indeed.

DAVID LAWSON.

PREPARATIONS FOR WAR.

The preparations for war that are now being made in the world are truly alarming. And yet the cry of "peace and safety" is heard from the very ones who are preparing for war upon a gigantic scale; and many professed watchmen on the walls of Zion repeat the cry of "peace and safety." This is one of the last-day signs. It is well known that Napoleon III. is noted for his talk about peace, especially when he intends to make any new preparations for war. This has been emphatically true for the past year, during the progress of his great Exposition. That unparalleled world's fair served to blind the other nations, and keep them off their guard, while Napoleon was laying plans to get prepared for war in advance of all other nations. An article has just been passed in the French Corps Legislatif, obliging every Frenchman to "serve in the National Guard." A telegram from Paris, Jan. 10th, says:—

"An amendment for exempting the infirm from the operation of the article was introduced, but was opposed by Rouher. During the debate which preceded the final action of the Corps upon the bill, M. Rouher said this article will startle attentive ears abroad, and will inspire the army which precedes the National Guard to the battle field."

We may expect to hear of startling events before many months are passed.

BOND OF UNION.

"The Church Union," a large weekly, published in New York and Brooklyn, is taking a bold stand in favor of church union, in opposition to the sectarian spirit that has caused such a multitude of denominations and church dissensions. The conductors of the Union seem to be well convinced that it is not for the glory of the Lord that the different professed members of Christ's body should be contending against one another, when he prayed that they might "be one," "even as" he and the Father "are one." We are glad to see any movement in that direction.

The following stands at the head of the editorial column of "The Church Union:"—

BOND OF UNION.

"We, the undersigned, believers in the doctrines of the Holy Scriptures as set forth in the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds, do hereby pledge ourselves to secure, under God, an open communion, and the reception of one evangelical ministry, by the interchange of pulpits, thus to make visible the unity of the church. And we furthermore solemnly pledge ourselves to stand by each other in securing these ends.

PAPAL TROOPS.

An important movement is now on foot to save the Pope from ruin; and that is the enlistment of troops in Canada, and the various countries of Europe, for the Papal service. This movement indicates a time of trouble and terrible conflict, as drawing near. The Montreal Witness takes up the subject and says:—

"We venture again respectfully to ask our authorities, and especially the representative of the Queen, what steps are being taken with respect to the public and ostentatiously avowed enlistments for the Papal service which are going on upon a large scale in Lower Canada, at the instigation of the authorities of the Church of Rome?

When attempts were made in the quietest way to enlist men here for the American army, justice was Argus-eyed and Briareus-handed. Every tavern and barber's shop was watched; and if any one was detected in the attempt, he was convicted, often upon the most flimsy and doubtful evidence, and subjected by our French-Canadian judges to the severest punishments. One poor colored man, against whom there was no reliable evidence, was virtually sentenced to imprisonment for life, inasmuch as the fine of forty pounds sterling, imposed upon him (besides a long term of imprisonment,) could never be paid.

Now, we may well ask, What is the difference, in point of turpitude, in enlisting for the American or for the Papal service? We can perceive none, unless it be that the war in which the Union was engaged was for freedom and justice, whilst that in which the Pope is engaged is in behalf of mediæval injustice and oppression.

Will not a government which acts so inconsistently as ours is in this matter doing, cover itself with well merited reproach? Is British honor to be thus trifled with? Is the representative of the British Crown among us a substantial power, or to be the mere servant of the French-Canadian political leader, who is the servant of the Bishops, who are the servants of the Pope? If this is the case, he is a great deal better entitled to the application servus servorum than even the Pope himself.

When shall we see a manly, straightforward executive government in Canada, instead of one which is ready at any time, in humble submission, to drag itself through the dirt to serve alternately the Pope, Louis Napoleon, and the Grand Trunk?

"CHRISTIAN SPIRITUALISM."

While the spirits and Spiritualists deny every cardinal doctrine of the Bible, and that Jesus is our Savior, at the same time some of them seem anxious to appropriate the word Christian to their system. This is the policy of Satan, who is determined, if possible, to substitute his great antichristian system of Spiritualism for the holy religion of Jesus; and from present prospects, there is good reason to believe that he will secure the mass of nominal professors of religion, and all the non-religious portion of the world. His vast success for the past few years, and the hundreds of millions of his subjects, give him and his followers great boldness.

In the Banner of Light, Dec. 28th, 1867, under the head of "Christian Spiritualism," we find the following:—

"The simple fact that a few, or even many men in days gone by, who have had vice and iniquity in their hearts, have taken the name of christian upon themselves, is no reason why we, living in this enlightened nineteenth century, should be ashamed to assume the name of Him whose footsteps we are in our daily lives practically following. History bears record of no man whose daily life was so well worthy of imitation; and no faith, creed, religion or philosophy was ever in such perfect harmony with the life and teachings of Christ as what is termed modern Spiritualism.

It is true, our ancestors have brought shame and disgrace upon his name, have crucified him afresh, and set at naught his shame, yet this is no reason why we should be ashamed to 'own him before men,' and with unwavering fidelity adhere to and proclaim the glorious light and truth, as set forth by him by both precept and example, but rather let us conduct ourselves in such a manner that church christians will be ashamed of their profession, and seek for new light and soul-food in the beautiful truths of Spiritualism or the enlightened views of Christianity. The principles which Christ advocated, were in no identical respect different from those displayed by Spiritualism; consequently, Christian and Spiritualist are one and the same, inseparable. If we are a Christian, we are a Spiritualist; if we are one, we are the other. Perhaps it is unnecessary to use both terms at once, yet I should hardly know, all things considered, which should be dropped."

On the foregoing, the editor of the Banner remarks as follows:—

"Jesus of Nazareth, begotten like other men, (infinite, unchanging law, spanning all ages and worlds,) was anointed of angels to do a commissioned work, as was Confucius the moralist, and Plato the reasoner. * * * The term 'Christian' pales into Egyptian midnight before that of man, true, harmonial man! And 'Christian' tacked to Spiritualism, is only comparable to a blotch upon the face of beauty, a sloughing scab upon the fair goddess of spiritual liberty."

READ THIS.

The following wise words are worthy of the deep experience of the man who uttered them, and should be treasured up by all. How many divisions that have occurred among the followers of Jesus, would have been prevented if they had only followed such advice as the following from John Wesley:—

"We may die without the knowledge of many truths, and be carried to Abraham's bosom; . . . but if we die without love, what will knowledge avail us? Just as much as it avails the devil and his angels. I will not quarrel with you about any opinion; only see that your hearts be right toward God—that you love the Lord Jesus Christ—that you love your neighbor—walk as your Master walked, and I desire no more. I am sick of opinions; I am weary to hear them—my soul loathes their frothy food. Give me a humble lover of God and man—a man full of mercy and good fruits—a man laying himself out in the work of faith, the patience of hope, the labor of love. Let my soul be with such christians, wheresoever they are, and whatsoever opinions they may hold. 'He that doeth the will of my Father in heaven, the same is my brother, and my sister, and my mother.'"

SWEDENBORGIANISM.

Many are not aware that Swedenborgianism is only a branch of Spiritualism, adapted to those who are specially fond of the ideal and mystical; such as love to revel in fiction, fancy, the poetical, marvelous, sublime, ethereal, visionary, while floating in imagination above every thing of a material and earthly nature. This system can never become popular, because it cannot be comprehended by the common people, sufficiently to produce faith in its theories. It is a system which neutralizes the teachings of Jesus, and experimental religion, as surely as the more common form of Spiritualism. It destroys confidence in the Bible, and substitutes a false system of salvation taught nowhere in the Scriptures; while at the same time it claims to be the only right way, unknown till Swedenborg appeared to explain it. It is astonishing to see the efforts made by the enemies of the cross of Christ to get up some plan of salvation different from the one taught so plainly in the Bible. The natural man is ready to try all ways but the right one. He does not like to go by the way of the Cross.

We presume it is not generally known that Swedenborg rejected from his canon of the Scriptures some of the most important books in our Bible, especially the writings of Paul. We will let him speak for himself, as follows:

"The books of the word are all those which have the internal sense; but those which have not the internal sense are not the word. The books of the word in the Old Testament are the five books of Moses, the book of Joshua, the book of Judges, the two books of Samuel, the books of Kings, the Psalms of David, the prophets Isaiah, Jeremiah, the Lamentations, Ezekiel, Daniel, Hosea, Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Micah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi; and in the New Testament, the four Evangelists, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John and the Revelations. This list excludes Ruth, Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, Job, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and the Song of Solomon, in the Old Testament; and the Acts, Paul's fourteen epistles, the epistle of James, the two epistles of Peter, the three epistles of John, and the epistle of Jude in the New Testament.

The above citation may be found in a note appended to the 66th section of Swedenborg's "Heavenly Doctrine."

It is one peculiar trait of Spiritualism in all its phases to reject a portion, or all of the Bible, as being the result of divine inspiration. As soon as the demons can persuade us to reject certain important parts of the Scriptures, they have greatly weakened our faith in the remainder; and have moved us to where we are ready to take what they offer as a substitute; and thus be led on step by step till we are fully joined to their antichristian system. Our safety consists in letting the whole thing alone. We cannot be too careful to keep in "the old paths." We are now amid the perils of the last days, when we need to watch and pray continually.

THE DAVENPORT BROTHERS.

These wonderful mediums are astonishing the great men of Europe. The following report of their success is from one of our exchanges:—

"By correspondence dated Vienna, Austria, Oct. 17th, we learn that these world-famed mediums were to leave that city the next day for France. Their visit to the 'Court of the Russias,' as among nobles and crowned heads in other portions of Europe, was a complete success. Multitudes honor them for their tangible demonstrations of immortality."

A VALUABLE WORK.

We have just received and examined a valuable work, issued by Dr. E. P. Miller, 15 Laight Street, New York City, which should be read by every body. It is entitled "ABUSES OF THE SEXUAL FUNCTIONS." We most heartily recommend it to our readers as a work containing important information for all classes. Every young man and woman, and every married man and woman, should read it. A vast amount of suffering, as well as physical, mental, social and moral ruin, would be prevented if all were acquainted with the facts contained in the work, and would follow its excellent advice. We think every one who gets the book would not be without it for ten times its cost; and many had better give a thousand dollars for it, rather than be without a knowledge of its valuable contents.

For sale at the Crisis office. Price, paper 75 cts.; muslin $1.00; tinted $1 25; which we will send, postage free, on receipt of the price.

For the World's Crisis.

OUR CAMP-GROUND.

The building committee find it necessary to engage most of the lumber this winter, on account of getting it some twenty per cent cheaper, sending our bills to lumber men instead of getting it at the lumber yards. The tent poles must be had this winter, as the kind we want grow in swamps, and must be got out when the swamps are frozen over. We have engaged them.

We make a statement of these facts, that the friends may understand subscriptions will be needed earlier, to make this saving. Some had as soon pay now as to wait for weeks.

We make these suggestions as your agents. All business men will understand.

There is a great amount of labor and perplexity involved in fitting up such a ground, and putting it in such order as the place and cause demand. It is our continental meeting, for the whole "body," by vote, and we mean to act in concert with that body; and therefore appeal to it for help and advice. Our Treasurer, Bro. Adams, has not the funds on hand to pay for what we have already engaged.

Now, brethren, the facts are before you. Will you send in your donations, such as can, to him, that our hands may not be tied, and we be unable to take the advantage of prices as above stated?

HIRAM MUNGER,
For the Building Committee.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office.

NEW TRACT.

"THAT MAN OF SIN." By Eld. O. R. Fassett.

The above is the title of a new tract just published by the W. A. C. P. Association, to which is added "The Only Hope," and "The True and Only Hope of the Church." An interesting and valuable tract. Price 5 cents single, postage 2 cents; 50 cents per dozen, postage 6 cents.

For the World's Crisis.

"THE FIRST DAY SABBATH."

Prejudice is giving way before the light of truth. My new work, with the title at the head of this article, is gaining favor with the people, as the following testimonials will show:

Eld. Miles Grant says:—"Bro. T. M. Preble's new and interesting work on the Sabbath . . . . all should read who think the seventh-day Sabbath should be kept by Christians.—World's Crisis.

Elder J. V. Himes says:—"The most complete defense of the Christian Sabbath ever offered to the public. It will fill a space long vacant in our literature." T. M. PREBLE.
Lynn, Mass.

The above work is for sale at this office, and also by the author at Lynn. pp. 471, price $1.50.

For the World's Crisis.

"THE GLAD TIDINGS."

We wish to inform our brethren and friends that the "Glad Tidings" is in the hands of the printer, and will be issued as soon as possible. All who desire specimen copies before subscribing, please send in immediately. Single copies, postpaid, 10 cts. If we had the means to do so, we should be glad to distribute a large number gratis.

Address WM. H. SPENCER, Brockport, N.Y.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, on Wilbraham Camp-ground, Friday, August 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments..................$235.84

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments..................$1.00

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments..................$3620.22
W. Mosher (pledge paid)..................5.00
Mrs. D. A. Bean (pledge paid)..................5.00
S. D. Berrey ".................. 10.00
J. Couch "..................25.00
Abner Hardy..................1.00
Rachel H. Evans (part pay't of pledge)..................10.00

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments..................$126.37

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING FUND.

Previous acknowledgments..................$571.44
W. Mosher (payment of pledge)..................5.00
D. J. Elsworth " "..................5.00

For the World's Crisis.

MORE ABOUT FREE BOOK DISTRIBUTION.

BRO. GRANT:—I have omitted to notice in our papers what has been sent me to pay for works given out larger than tracts, and only written to each one to let them know it was received; but as I purpose continuing the same work another year, should time continue, and give my plan a full trial, it will be duty to let brethren know the amount I have received, and the number of works given out, also where and how distributed.

In January, 1867, I noticed that I had four thousand of my tracts I wished to give out, and soon after proposed to give out "Death not Life" the same as tracts. Up to January 18th, 1867, brethren have contributed as follows: as some have sent twice in the time, I will so state it:

G W Place, Ill., $2, G L Brewster, Conn., $2, S P Clark, R. I., $10 and $2, M Whicker, N. Y., $1, Bro. and Sr. Newton, Mass., $5 and $10, N W Wait, N. Y., $40 and $40, Dr. P B Wait, O., $1, H. A. Chittenden $2, Abr. Ogsberry, Ill., $5, Sr. Mallory, Wis., $3 and $25, Zader, Wis., $5 and $1, J Eaton, O., $3, C M Shepard, Wis., $5, Dr. Trever & Sons, N. Y., $6, Dr. Ralph, New York City, $5, W Edgerton, New York, $1 and $2, Bro. J M Stetler, Pa., $10 and $10, Brn. at Arcade, N. Y., $3, Eld. King, O., $7, S Bean, Ill., $1, R Willard, N. J., $3, J F Busch, Pa., $5, J W Whitman, Mich., $1, Lockport Brn., $3, Brn. at Warsaw, N. Y., $4, Wm. Watson, Ill., $10, Wm. Cummings, Ill., $2, L Stocking, Ill., $5, Wilson, Ill., $2, Moses Smith, Ill., $10.

Given in Buffalo. Sr. Allen $4, E Lamarsh $5, Bro. Squires $4, Bro. Shaw $5, Dr. Green $1, and wife $1, D N Clark $2, Bro. Cummings $2, Bro. Montgomery $1, Dunbar $5; making $282 00.

I have sold at cost, to Eld. Himes $26, to A. C. P. Society, $25; to Bro. Hull, Ia., $10; to Bro. Peppel, Ia., $4; burned on R. R. and paid for by Exp. Co., $10. Sold at retail about $35—$110. Got pay in all, $392.00.

I have given out twenty-nine hundred "Death not Life" (one hundred of the three thousand on hand), at $12 per one hundred—$324; four hundred "Pauline," $26, "Six Sermons" and "Bible vs. Tradition" $10; "Spiritualism and Tracts" $6; my own tracts, four thousand, at one cent, $40,—in all $406, leaving a balance of $14 unpaid. This statement cannot be far from right, as I aim to put all on book, except what I retail. I have also paid out some $15 for postage and expressage.

The works have been spread by sending and taking them to general meetings, to be divided among preachers and brethren, to take into their fields of labor; and by request I have sent forty-five packages of six to twelve by mail, and paid the postage; also twelve packages of twenty-five to fifty to churches. About seven hundred have been spread in Buffalo and this county, and have produced effects enough to enrage the Baptist Association and ministers against me and Eld. Colegrove; which however does not trouble us, only as we grieve for and pity their blindness and bigotry, and will lead to do more instead of less to spread light. I know of the works going into eighteen States and C. W., within the year.

As my health forbids traveling and selling a general assortment of works as heretofore, I have obtained but very little to live on the past year. But my "bread and water will be sure,"—not because I have means in hand, but because God has promised it. Isa. 33:16.

As my Father still blesses me with a strong desire to spread his truth while life and time last, I am decided to print and give out my work the present year, and also to procure "Pauline Theology" to go with them; yet believing my Master will move his children to contribute to this object, as well as to the many others now presented. I know I have "not labored in vain," by the many letters of encouragement I have lately received, and by what I have seen and heard. Is not an object which aims to affect all Christendom of more importance than local ones? And as to aiding the poor, though a duty, yet all sects are interested in that, while none but Advent brethren are ready and striving to root up errors which we know are undermining the very foundation of christianity, by driving to Universalism, Spiritualism, and infidelity. As our God has of late blessed our efforts with glorious revivals, should we not "bestir ourselves," as David did when he heard "the sound . . . in the mulberry trees"? 2 Sam. 5:23.

And now, who will further aid me in this work? Bro. Hastings offers to print me one thousand "Pauline Theology" to send out with mine, for $55—five and a half cts. per copy, charging no profits. As paper has fallen some, I can now print one thousand of "Death not Life" for $100,—ten cents per copy. Who among our able brethren and sisters desires the joy of preaching by proxy, by pledging $55, to send out one thousand of "Pauline," that powerful and successful preacher? Who wishes to pay $100 to have one thousand of "Death not Life" spread in eighteen or twenty-five States,—equal to sending out ten thousand sermons on our views? Or who will pay $50, for five hundred? or $25, for two hundred and fifty? Smaller sums count up as they have the past year, and for each dollar ten will be sent out. Where different pamphlets are in a neighborhood they are preserved, lent, and exchanged, as tracts seldom are. I want to print and get "Pauline" soon; and as a friend who loves the cause offers to lend me the money to do so, till summer or fall, those who may wish to aid and have not the means at present can send a pledge to pay at a future day.

There is no limit to giving out books to advantage, and we have only begun to supply our country. I could send out ten thousand as well as one thousand, and ministers and brethren would rejoice to spread them; and with warm hearts thank the donors, and Him who moved them to give.

I have just had printed fifty-seven hundred of my six tracts, half of which the A. C. P. Society are to take at cost, and the rest I shall give out with the larger works. Some tracts are useful where there are larger works or preaching to back them up. But we have preaching in only a small part of our land, and there many get the truth by books, and there we should try to send them. That christian has not "the full mind of Christ" who only strives to be a blessing to his friends and his own neighborhood. In this matter we have all too much selfishness. True, it is a wise Providence which leads to care first for our "own household."

Surely the striking signs of Christ's soon coming to "reckon with his stewards," should remind us of using our earthly means for his glory while we may do so. When he comes the time ends to "gain other five or ten pounds." The precious promise yet stands sure—"they who turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever and ever." We are learning by a happy experience that showing men they are not immortal, but under sentence of eternal death, does "turn many to righteousness." Thanks be to our God for the encouragement of the past year.

Buffalo, Jan. 21, 1867. J. BLAIN.

For the World's Crisis.

MINNESOTA QUAR. MEETING.

The second quarterly meeting for this present conference year was held at Elliota, Dec. 27th, 1867, and was opened by a discourse by Bro. Corliss, from 1 Pet. 1:3; after which a goodly number testified to the truth and of their hope of life when the Life-giver shall come. Saturday, at nine o'clock A. M., conference met for business. Eld. G. W. Miller presided. Eld. T. K. Allen was elected Secretary. On motion, the Christian Advent church at Hesper, Iowa, was received into the conference, and the Secretary was instructed to insert upon the minutes that that was an exception to the general rule of receiving churches out of the State; but that that church being on the border, isolated and destitute of ministerial labor, was received under the circumstances. Elds. Bursell, Elliot and Allen were appointed a committee to form one or more circuits in this part of the State, and solicit ministerial labor for the same. On motion, Brn. Miller, Elliot and Bursell were appointed to arrange the preaching during the conference. Bro. Wilcox was received as a member of this conference. Bro. Corliss was licensed to exercise his gifts in a public capacity. Adjourned.

Afternoon, at two o'clock, preaching by Bro. Allen on the nature and destiny of man, after which a number of testimonies were given. Conference met immediately after for business pursuant to adjournment. There was considerable conversation on topics relative to the interests of the cause, but there being no motion before the house, it was adjourned to meet at the call of the chair. Preaching in the evening by Eld. Miller, from Isa. 8:17, after which there were many flaming testimonies, and the shout of a king in the camp. Some were convicted and rose for prayer.

Sunday morning, love-feast at nine o'clock; many testified and praised God aloud; after which Eld. Rathburn, of Ill., preached from these words: "Those things that are written belong to us and our children." It was preached in demonstration of the Spirit and with power, and the hearty amen and hallelujah were heard at intervals through the congregation. It was remarked by some present, who had been in the habit of attending the Wilbraham campmeeting, that this meeting was equal to anything they had seen there. Afternoon, at two o'clock, preaching by Elder Ramer, from these words: "God so loved the world." It was delivered with much feeling and power, after which conference met for business. Committee on circuits reported the following plan of appointments for one circuit, viz., Lenora, Nickols, Riceford, Bellville, Hesper, Elliota, Burr, Oak, and Preston; which was adopted. Adjourned.

Preaching in the evening by Elder Miller, after which the Lord's Supper was commemorated by probably no less than fifty believers.

Conference met for business, Dec. 30th, at two o'clock. Bro. Ramer presided. Prayer by Brn. Allen and Mitson. On motion, the conference took into consideration the difficulties existing between Eld. Mitson and Bro. Gorwood Bursell; the latter not being present, Bro. Mitson was kindly advised to obey our Savior's command, viz., "If thy brother trespass," etc. Brn. Gilbert and Rathburn were solicited to accompany him. Adjourned.

Jan. 1st. Conference met at ten o'clock, Bro. Ramer in the chair, and read Acts 15th, which was followed by prayer. Bro. Mitson reported that the difficulty that had existed between him and Bro. Gorwood Bursell was adjusted, and both parties reconciled.

The committee on circuits reported that they had procured Elders Allen, Ramer and Bursell to supply the above appointments with preaching once in four weeks, requesting the preaching brethren living in the neighborhood of the above churches to supply as much as possible the demand for the intermediate Sundays; which was accepted, and the Secretary was instructed to publish the plan of appointments in the Crisis and Voice.

Bro. W. J. Bursell, in behalf of the Canton church, entered a complaint against Bro. J. W. Elliot for dividing the above church and organizing the Elliota church. Bro. Elliot in reply admitted the fact, and gave as a reason for so doing that many if not most all of the members of that church had given up water baptism, and that he felt it his duty to separate and form a new church. The conference investigated the case, when it was ascertained by members of the Canton church that there were but two members in that church who believe that water baptism is not essential to salvation, all the other members either have been baptized or are ready to obey that command as soon as opportunity offers; which resulted in the following resolution:

Resolved, That this conference, having investigated the cause of division in the Canton church, there is found to be no longer any cause for a separation, the apparent cause of difficulty and division having been removed and obviated, we kindly advise the two churches to unite and consider themselves one as heretofore.

On motion, adjourned to meet at Ottawa, Friday, March 6th, and continue over the following Sunday. THOS. K. ALLEN, Sec'y.

"Voice" please copy.

For the World's Crisis.

FOR DEBT ON ME. MISSION TENT.

H. A. Arnold, $2.00; H——, $5.00; M. J. Howland, $2.00; Mrs. L. Curtis, $1.00; Mrs. G. L. Stanwood, $1.00; Dr. H. B. Eaton, $5.00; Mrs. S. J. Wetherell, $2.00; Mrs. J. Stubbs, $1.00; John Staples, $5.00; T. Bonney, $2.00; D. B. Bonney, $1.00; Eld. T. Smith, $2.00; Joseph Turner, $5.00; Petros, $2. I. C. WELLCOME, Treasurer.

Correspondence.

From Bro. B. Spaulding.

BRO. GRANT:—I am at home, disabled by age and infirmities from laboring in the good cause. I do not forget the cause I have so much loved and labored for. My mind remains firm in the blessed truths and doctrines of the Bible, and though my memory fails me very much, I can remember Bible truth; yes, and my good and hospitable brethren and sisters, whom I still love for the truth's sake.

Let me pen a few ideas on the Restitution. In the beginning God made man in his own image, intelligent, holy, capable of loving, serving, and enjoying him; he was not afraid of his King, but walked and talked with him. The earth was made and pronounced good. It brought forth fruit bountifully for man and beast; no briers, thorns or evil weeds infested the ground; no sickness, sorrow or pain afflicted man; no frosts, blights or insects destroyed the fruits of the earth. Thus were our first parents placed in these happy circumstances.

But, alas! man sinned. God gave him a law to try him; it was simple, not hard to obey, but he broke it, and, alas for the consequences! The penalty for breaking the law was death. And Adam and Eve having eaten of the forbidden tree at the suggestion of Satan, God proceeds to pronounce the sentence of death upon them. "Because thou hast done this, cursed be the ground for thy sake. Briers and thorns shall it bring forth to thee, and thou shalt eat thy bread in the sweat of thy face, until thou return to the earth; . . . dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." Six thousand years have nearly passed, and the curse and death still remain in the earth.

But oh! the richness of God's mercy to sinful man. He devised a plan whereby his law could be honored, his justice satisfied, and yet the sinner be saved. None but a God could have devised it. None but a God-man could have executed it. The Savior now is promised, and the promises keep growing brighter and brighter until the time arrives that he should come, and in Bethlehem of Judea an infant is born. The angels proclaim to the shepherds the good news, and they seek for and find the promised one, and worshiping him present gold, frankincense and myrrh. The infant grows, is obedient to his parents, lives a holy life, obeys the law perfectly, just as Adam should have done; then he stepped into the place of the sinner, and died upon the cross, the just for the unjust. He suffered the penalty due to the sinner.

And now salvation is promised, not through the law, but on condition of repentance for sin, and faith in the Mediator provided. This work Jesus undertook and began eighteen hundred years ago. He lived, obeyed the law, and died; was resurrected from the grave, an example of what the resurrection of man will be; and after giving many infallible proofs of his resurrection, he ascended to his Father, where he now sits as a Mediator between God and man, to plead our cause. Yes, and has promised to come again to resurrect and restore man to the favor of God.

This is what fills our hearts with joy and gratitude. We see the prophecies fulfilled literally down to the time of his coming; therefore our minds seem to centre on this great event. In the past we see all has been literally fulfilled; we expect the remaining prophecies will be just as literally fulfilled; that he will come a personal Jesus, that he will raise the sleeping dead, change the living righteous into a state of immortality, and establish his kingdom on the earth, making Mount Zion the seat of his government, from whence his law will go forth, and the word of God from Jerusalem.

Then will they beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks. Then shall all nations serve him, for the nation that will not serve him shall be utterly destroyed.

The restitution of the earth is also a part of Jesus' great work of redemption; it is his purchased possession; it will be restored to its primitive state of beauty and fertility. The tree will yield its fruit, the field its increase, the desert blossom as the rose; then will the cedar the fir and pine wave their stately tops; there will be all trees for meat (food), and what is best of all, there will be the tree of life, to which the righteous will have free access; and they will eat of its twelve kinds of fruit, and become immortal.

The curse will be taken off, and there will be no frosts, blights, or devouring insects, to destroy the fruit; no sickness, sorrow, pain, or death, to man. The animals will become deathless, living on herbage; the wolf and lamb will dwell and feed together, and the lion eat straw like the ox; the cow and bear feed side by side, while the calf and cub will be playing together.

Then cometh the end, the end of the times of restitution, when Jesus has finished the work of redemption, and he will give up the restored kingdom to his Father, having resurrected the wicked, and the great burning day having burned them up, root and branch, death the last enemy being destroyed. Then will he be subject to his Father. Then will the saints sing the song of victory. Then will begin the everlasting age. And may I be found worthy to be there to meet my brethren and see Jesus, free from the infirmities of age, and join in singing, Worthy the Lamb who died. Truly yours,

Chelmsford, Mass. B. SPAULDING.

From Bro. J. G. Hook.

BRO. GRANT:—I expected ere this to have been far away in the sunny South; but here I am, in this great, wicked city, laboring for the perishing; expect soon to go on.

I find the same effect produced here as in other places, as the result of preaching the gospel. Sinners are being converted, backsliders are coming home to Father's house; the saints are comforted, quickened, united and strengthened. We have had two precious seasons at the baptismal waters, and expect another next Sunday. I never saw greater manifestations of the divine power at baptism than last Sunday. Not only were the candidates baptized with water (which is a figure of the resurrection), but with the Holy Spirit; for the power of the Highest rested upon his people.

Last Sunday, among others who were baptized was Sr. Sallie Lambert of Philadelphia. Although she has been in her Master's service for years, and has labored five years in the missionary cause, not till now could she see her way clear to follow her Lord in this precious ordinance. Those who witnessed the scene will never forget it. The Spirit could not be seen as when Jesus came up out of the water, but its effects were. I was reminded of the transfiguration scene.

You that have tried to get along with sprinkling, and others that have been waiting to grow better first, and see if you can serve God while neglecting to do his commandments, just halt no longer, but arise, and be baptized, and wash away your sins. Those who believe Peter's preaching on the day of Pentecost, cried out, "What shall we do?" the answer was, "Repent, and be baptized, for the remission of sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." Let all mind the Lord Jesus, the Captain of our salvation.

Bro. O. D. Woodruff, of Southington, Ct., is here laboring with me to good effect. Your Bro. in the field, JOHN G. HOOK.

New York, Jan. 20th.

From Bro. H. Pratt.

BRO. GRANT:—Yesterday was another great day in Rochester. We are more than astonished at the wonderful works of God in this city. Some rose for prayers just as soon as the meeting was opened in the evening. One man about thirty says, "I have been seeking Jesus for three days; do pray for me." The congregation seem all on the anxious seat. I know of no church in New England among us that can count any such numbers. We have about one hundred in our Bible class, and such a growing interest I never witnessed in all my experience. I hope you will take my place here while I go home a few weeks.

I was in Fairport two evenings in the Congregational church, before a crowded house, with some thirty of our Rochester singers, and the effect was salutary. H. PRATT.

Rochester, Jan. 20th.

From Sr. A. E. Smith.

BRO. GRANT:—I want to say a word to the brethren and sisters who are interested in sending barrels and boxes to our mission. I shall be at home by the 28th of this month, the Lord willing, and open all letters, and all barrels and boxes, and acknowledge all through the Crisis. I have been away laboring since the 7th of this month, but am now on my way home. I came away from New York to rest, but have not found the resting place yet, and guess I shall not till Jesus comes. The Lord is with us. Pray for us, that our visit may be for the glory of God and the salvation of souls. Yours in Christ,

Portsmouth, Jan. 21st. ANNA E. SMITH.

THE POPE'S ALLOCUTION.

The Pope feels that his position is indeed critical; yet he is hoping that deliverance may come from some source. His prospect is a gloomy one. When speaking on the Pope's condition, the London Times says:—

"Does the Pope want men? Roman Catholic parents send their only born sons; men of very noble birth shed their blood like the Maccabees. Does His Holiness require money? The faithful of both sexes come to his relief with their 'mites,' mites which within the last three months, as we are told, amount to 3,000,000f. for France alone, and to 40,000*l*. for poverty-stricken Ireland. With such a tide of prosperity in his favor it would seem as if the Pope ought to be joyous and thankful; it would seem, above all things, as if he could afford to be magnanimous. But his wrath waxes within him with every show of what he calls Divine favor. His enemy is no longer 'Sub-Alpine' King. The present designation is 'Satan with his sons and satellites;' the charge against them is 'their fury let loose in the most horrible manner against our divine religion.' The Pope is determined to make of the cause of the Temporal Power the cause of Heaven; to see in M. Thiers, M. Rouher, and Emperor Napoleon the instruments of the inscrutable will of the All-wise.

We wish we could attribute such outpouring to the promptings of an earnest conviction; but we hardly think that even the Pope can deceive himself on that score. Surely he must have read what arguments led M. Thiers to constitute himself a champion of the Papacy. Surely he cannot have forgotten how much more of the Papal edifice was demolished by the Emperor Napoleon in 1859 than is propped up by him in 1867. If it is by God's will that the French now garrison Rome, by whose will was it that they drove the Austrian garrisons from Bologna and Ravenna after the victory of Solferino? The God who now gives is the one who then took away. The author of today's hallowed deed is the sharer of the sacrilege of eight years ago. He who is now the guardian angel of the Vatican was till yesterday the ally and accomplice of Satan, his sons and satellites. Has the Pope no curses except for the vexed and tormented population of most unhappy Italy?' The Italians see their dead volunteers strewing the hillside at Mentana. They hear M. Rouher's inexorable "Never; they are concerned at the threat of combined hostilities of the Catholic world.

Their motto, however, is still that of Galileo—"It moves, though!" The world advances, and the absurdity and wickedness of priestly rule appear daily more manifest.

"It is vainly, we think, that the Pope would anathematise the impiety of the Italians by contrasting it with the enthusiastic zeal of all other Catholic nations. Such as the Italians are, they were made by the Pope and by his priests. If forty-five archbishops, a hundred and ninety-eight bishops, with so many thousands of their regular and clerical clergy, have failed to impress the people of the Italian kingdom with the doctrine that 'the kingdom of Christ's Vicar is of this world,' it must be that the doctrine seems very hard to digest to those who are to make the experiment in their own persons. The Pope declares himself greatly moved by the affection and submission of which the Romans have given proof in recent occurrences. But can he explain how it is that these same Romans seemed so glad to be rid of him in 1849? Can he tell us how it happened that the Legations so readily fell off from his allegiance as soon as they were relieved from the pressure of Austrian force? Can he account for the fact that nine out of ten of the Garibaldians who so lately were in arms against him were natives of those very provinces of Umbria and the Marches, which were only lost to him at Castelfidardo? We do not know whether by 'Satan, his sons and satellites,' who, as the Pope says, 'vex and torment the population of most unhappy Italy,' we are to understand Victor Emmanuel, his Cabinet, and Parliament; but, so far as this latter is concerned, it is a sufficiently striking fact that out of four hundred representatives of the nation, discordant as they mostly are on other points, two only, Count di Costigliole and Baron D'Ondes Reggio, refused to join the common vote claiming Rome as the capital of Italy, and were ready to acknowledge the pretensions of the Catholic world upon that city."

Obituaries.

PIPER. Died in Guilford, Oct. 16th, 1867, Charles Henry Franklin, youngest son of Samuel Piper, aged twenty-seven years and eleven months.

He left a wife and two children, parents and brothers, to mourn; but they mourn not without hope, for they believe he died in the Lord, and will come up in the first resurrection. May they all be ready to meet him. Sermon by J. Couch, from Job 14: 14.

SEARLES. Died in Rochester, Dec. 6th, 1867, Edward D. Searles, husband of our much esteemed Sister Searles, aged fifty-six.

May He who cares for the sparrows comfort the widow. H. PRATT.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

FLORENCE, Jan. 21. According to a statement made by the government, the measures taken to prevent and put a stop to the late invasion of the States of the Church by the Garibaldians have added eighteen millions of livres to the expenditures during the past year.

Prime Minister Menabrea has addressed a sharp note to the Spanish Government. It was called forth by the speech of Queen Isabella, at the opening of the Cortes, in which it was announced that Spain was ready to interfere for the defense of the Papal States. Menabrea informs the Spanish Cabinet that Italy will not admit the intervention in her affairs of any foreign powers save France, in whose case such intervention is only allowed by special treaty stipulations.

PARIS, Jan. 21. The Moniteur publishes a letter from South America which says the communications of President Lopez at Humista are secure, and the attempt to take that fortification by siege is hopeless. The cholera had broken out in Buenos Ayres, and specie payment had been suspended in Montevideo. These internal difficulties, the writer thinks, will prevent a vigorous prosecution of the war against Paraguay on the part of Brazil and Uruguay.

PARIS, Jan. 24 A Republican paper was put into circulation here to-day, but the copies were immediately seized by the police.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 27. At the termination of the discussion in the Rigsdag yesterday on the transfer of the Danish West India Islands to the United States, the President said he could not leave the subject without a tribute to the loyalty and consideration shown by the American Government, qualities so worthy of a mighty people.

VIENNA, Jan. 24. His Imperial Highness, the Archduke Alorecht, in command of the Austrian army, has been ordered to prepare, and make ready to take the field.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 24. The Journal of St. Petersburgh, official organ of the Government, has an article in reply to the assertions made by some of the Paris newspapers, relative to the attitude and intentions of the imperial government, particularly toward the East. The Journal says that the Empire of Russia is great, powerful and strong. In its resources it is equal to France. At the same time it is neither her wish, nor perhaps her policy, to seek to extend her frontiers, but on the contrary, to endeavor to maintain peace, so as to ensure a continuance of progress. She bears no ill will or hate to the other powers of Europe, but does not wish to see any one of them claim particular preponderance in the influencing of its affairs, nor will Russia allow others to arrogate such a position. The article concludes with the assertion, that whatever power precipitates war in Europe, just now, will insure for itself and deserve the execration of history in the future.

LONDON, Jan. 24. A dispatch from Madrid, dated to-day, says that news has been received there from the provinces of Arragon and Cataloma, that a speedy rising was anticipated in favor of the eldest son of Don Juan. The widow of Don Carlos had sent forty million reals to aid the insurrection.

MADRID, Jan. 24. The Minister of War has ordered fifty thousand American breech-loading rifles.

LONDON, Jan. 24. Rumors have reached here from Lisbon that the Duke of Saldanaha is contemplating a "coup d' etat."

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 25. All the city journals are out this morning with editorial articles and comments on the political situation in Europe and the condition of affairs in the East. The writers advocate the maintenance of peace with great unanimity. The Borsea Zeitung makes an appeal to the Russian Government, as a strong and influential power, to immediately take initiative steps for a general disarmament, as her example in this direction would be almost certainly adopted and carried out by her neighbors.

DOMESTIC.

New York, Jan. 22. The following cable special in regard to Mr. Train is published:

London, Jan. 21—10.15 P. M. The causes leading to Geo. F. Train's arrest are these: An Englishman named Gee, a fellow passenger of Mr. Train, informed the officers on the tug which boarded the Scotia at Queenstown, that Train had said he came to Ireland for the purpose of organizing the Fenians and commencing a fight. Mr. Train was arrested upon this information. Gee denied that he had given such information when he was in court. Mr. Eastman, United States Consul at Queenstown, was exceedingly active in Mr. Train's behalf. Mr. Adams, United States Minister here at once saw Lord Stanley, who, on his representation, ordered the release of Mr. Train.

Lord Stanley disavowed the act on the part of the Government, and stated that the local authorities were solely responsible for it. Mr. Adams' prompt action secured Mr. Train's speedy release.

New York, Jan. 25. A communication from Col. Willard, of Gen. Canby's staff, and in charge of the Bureau of Civil Affairs in Charleston, is published. It states in substance that crime in the States of South and North Carolina is no greater than the courts are able to attend to; that life and property are as secure as in the Northern States; and that there are no indications of the truth of the reports that a war of races is probable.

Havana, Jan. Jan. 25. Advices from Hayti are to the 8th inst. President Salnave was absent at Cape Haytien with a large force, but was demanding reinforcements.

At Aux Cayes disaffection reigned among the people. The cause was that a large body of young aristocrats had been enlisted into the advance guard, and that a terrific fight had been announced as having taken place on the frontiers. The losses were immense on both sides, causing great mourning among the best families of the capital. The stores were closed and business was suspended. Meanwhile Salnave demands more conscripts.

☞ The London Review says that at this time there is no country, no matter how embarrassed or how poor, in which there is so much pressing and painful poverty, so much vice, so much misery as in England. Yet England is the richest country on the globe.

☞ A Parisian left direction before his death that a copy of one of the morning papers should be placed on his tomb every day. The eccentric request is duly carried out, and there on his grave may be seen a heap of musty old papers.

STATE CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.—The following is a list of the topics to be discussed at the Christian Convention to be held in this city this week:

What are the obstacles in the way of a revival of religion?

How can the gospel be carried to neighborhoods remote from churches?

What are the best methods for organizing and developing the christian activity of the entire membership of a church?

How can the personal and social study of God's word be made more universal?

How can the Sunday school exercises be so modified as to secure greater co-operation and a more general interest on the part of pastor, church and congregation?

Why do so many churches fail to reach the poor?

How can our devotional meetings be made more interesting and profitable?

How can the influence of christian homes be increased?

How can the unity of Christ's followers be better manifested to the world?

FAMINE IN EUROPE.—There is great distress among the poorer classes in Russia, owing to bad harvests, and the government has had to make liberal appropriations to supply the peasantry with subsistence. Of the sufferings of the Swedish Norlanders late descriptions have been given. In France, in several places, there is great lack of breadstuffs, and according to accounts from Algeria (one of the French African colonies) a hundred thousand people have died within eight months from starvation. In eastern Prussia there has been much destitution, and although contributions to alleviate have been numerous, they have been quite insufficient. It will require at least seven months, with the assurance of liberal harvests at the end of that period, to relieve the above peoples from the evils of famine. In London and all the principal towns in Great Britain, poverty is very extreme. A great many skilled laborers who were kept employed during the American war have been thrown idle, and the sufferings of these men and their families are described to be lamentable.

☞ On the 4th of January the eruption of Mount Vesuvius assumed alarming proportions. An immense current of lava had overflowed the cone, and was skirting the hill on the west and northwest, and approaching the valley of Cercola. Constant shocks and loud reports were occurring. Great panic prevailed in the villages on the slopes of Vesuvius.

☞ In the Congregational society of Pittsfield, Mass., it has been a custom for fifty years to hold a "sunrise prayer meeting" on the first day of the year. The present pastor, Rev. John Todd, says of this meeting: "I esteem it one of the brightest jewels Pittsfield has ever won, and hope it may be continued as long as her hills shall surround her valleys."

☞ In the little village of Pembroke, during the progress of a protracted meeting, one hopeful and exceedingly liberal convert prayed in behalf of the many who had ranged themselves on the "anxious seat," that the Lord would "convert them at once." "Come down now, Lord—right off; right down through the roof; I'll pay for the shingles!"

☞ A correspondent traveling in Utah says that the waters of the Great Salt Lake rose last year three feet above their former level, and are still slowly but surely rising. The lake drains an immense district, and has no visible outlet.

☞ Huge icicles and mountains of solid ice have formed at the foot of Niagara Falls from the constant accretions of spray, forming a beautiful sight. An ice bridge has also formed below the falls, and hundreds of people have passed over.

☞ Friday, the 17th, was the anniversary of the great snow storm of 1867—when a depth of nearly two feet fell in this vicinity.

☞ Over nineteen millions of letters and newspapers were delivered by the Post Office carriers of New York during a year ending with last November.

☞ Work on the Cologne Cathedral, suspended three centuries ago, will be resumed next spring.

New York, Jan. 18. John Jacob Astor died yesterday, aged sixty-five.

Married.

At the house of John F. Wescott, Butler, N. Y., December, 1867, by Eld. B. P. Stevens, WILLIAM BARNARD and ANNAH HILL, both of Butler, N. Y.

In Gerry, Chautauqua Co., N. Y., Jan. 14th, 1868, at the residence of the bride, by Elder C. W. Low, Mr. JAMES HEATH and Miss LEPHA ANN PRATT, both of Gerry.

In Kennebunk, Jan. 18th 1868, by Eld. W. H. Mitchell, SAMUEL W. BROWN and MARCELLA R. MERRILL, both of Kennebunk.

Notices.

Conference at Westfield.

Our next quarterly conference will be held at Westfield, Mass., commencing Feb. 5th, at 7 P. M., and continue through the week, and over the Sabbath. Come, brethren and sisters, let us go up to Westfield and do what we can for the Lord's cause. The people need and want the truth that God has commissioned us to preach. Can we be justified in letting worldly business keep us at home? We want the small gifts to work in this place, and this conference will give all a chance to work where there is an interest to hear. Come, one and all that can, to work for the Lord.

Per order, J. HEMENWAY.

Dedication.

The new Advent Chapel in Bridgewater, Vermont, will be dedicated on Saturday, Feb. 1st, 1868, at 11 o'clock A. M. Preaching again in the evening and over Sunday. Dedication sermon by Dr. G. W. Stetson, of Rutland. All that can are respectfully invited to come in the name of the Lord, looking for a pentecostal season. By request of the brethren, STEPHEN BARROWS.

Conference.

The Lord will, the first quarterly session of the New Hampshire State Conference for 1868 will be held at Wakefield, (Spinney meeting-house,) to commence Thursday evening, Jan. 30th, 1868, and hold over the following Lord's day. It is hoped that our preaching brethren will make a special effort to attend this meeting. An invitation is extended to all to come to the feast.

T. W. PIPER, for Com.

Notice.

My tracts are now completed, which include all the testimony of the Bible relative to the second coming of Christ. Price $3.00 per hundred; 50 cts. per dozen; 5 cts. single copy. Orders sent to ALLEN DAMON, Fairhaven, Mass.

Notice.

There will be meetings at Union Hall, Westminster Street, (rear of 1st Universalist Church), Providence, R. I., regularly every first day of the week, as long as the Lord will.

WM. H. DOUGHTY, for the Church.

Conference.

The Maine Quarterly Conference will be held at Friendship, Me., Feb. 6th, to commence at 6 o'clock in the evening, and hold over Sunday. Brethren and sisters, with ministers, are invited.

S. K. PARTRIDGE.

Notice.

Advent meetings are held every Sunday in North Adams, Mass., on Center Street, corner of Lincoln Street. Preaching brethren are invited to give us a call. Inquire for Isaac Blanchard, Jr., Eagle Street.

Notice.

I would say to our preaching brethren, when they send an appointment to Richmond, it is necessary they should define the place, as we hold two meetings in town; one at the Reed meeting-house, which has continued since 1843, the other is held at the village. Please state for which place the appointment is intended. In behalf of the brethren. FREDERIC BATES, JR.

Notice.

Preachers are requested to correspond with one of the committee before sending appointments to Worcester, viz., M. M. Blackmer, N. Lasell, Wm. F. Collier. Per order of the church, Worcester, Jan., 1868.

Notice.

Preaching brethren intending to visit Lewiston, Me., before sending their appointments, will please consult the committee through Albert Burgess, corresponding secretary, to save confusion.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION,

No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.

ANNA E. SMITH, Superintendent and Manager.

MEETINGS.

Sunday School 10 o'clock every Sunday.
Love Feast 2 o'clock every Sunday.
Preaching 7 o'clock Sunday evenings.
Meetings every evening during the week.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.

Joseph W. White........Sunday, Feb. 2d
A. Simpson........Sundays, Feb. 9th and 16th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)

A. Simpson........Sunday, Feb. 2d
J. T. Dixon........Sundays, Feb. 9th and 16th

SOUTH BOSTON, (Union Hall, Broadway.)

J. M. Mahlig........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Enoch Merrill........Sunday, Feb. 9th

Portsmouth, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 2d
MILES GRANT.

Westfield, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 2d
A. M. HIGGINS.

Danielsonville, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 2d
H. F. CARPENTER.

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)

J. T. Dixon........Sunday, Feb. 2d

Portsmouth, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 9th
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Hartford........Sunday, Feb. 2d
New Britain........Sunday, Feb. 9th
West Abington, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 16th
New York, (Cooper Institute)........Sunday, Feb. 23d
24th Street in the evening. W. S. CAMPBELL.

PORTLAND, ME.

Clarkson Goud........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Luther Boutell........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Sr. A. E. Smith........Feb. 16th, 17th, and 18th
Wm. H. Mitchell........Sunday, Feb. 23d

Haverhill, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 2d
A. P. MOORE.

Pittsfield, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Sugar Hill........Sunday, Feb. 9th
J. COUCH.

New Haven, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Westfield Conference........Feb. 6th and 7th
Guilford, Ct., Saturday evening, Feb. 8th, and over Sunday, the 9th, and until Friday, the 13th.
The brethren are invited from adjoining towns to come and help in this protracted meeting.
HIRAM MUNGER.

Dover, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Rochester, (New Chapel), evenings........Feb. 4th and 5th
East Rochester........evenings, Feb. 6th and 7th
Farmington........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Alton Corner........evening, Feb. 11th
West Alton........evenings, Feb. 13th and 14th
Lake Village........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Meredith Village........evenings, Feb. 18th and 19th
Moultonboro (Hodgdon school-house), evenings, Feb. 20th and 21st.
Tuftonboro, (Melvin Village)........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Expect Bro. John Langley to be with me at Alton Corner, and onward. H. M. BRYANT.

Center Harbor, N. H........Friday evening, Feb. 7th and over the following Sunday. W. H. MCDANIEL.

Lake Village........Sunday, Feb. 2d
C. W. SARGENT.

Newport, or South Sunapee, (as Bro. Barton may appoint), Saturday evening, Feb. 1st, and over Sunday.
F. S. RANSOM.

Massena, N. Y., (as brethren may arrange), Sundays, Feb. 9th and 16th. W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Scitico........Sunday, Feb. 2d
The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered.
North Somers, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 16th
L. F. MOORE.

Corinna, Me., (meeting-house)........Sunday, Feb. 2d
I. DAMMAN.

Haverhill, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 9th
B. WOODSIDE.

Frankfort Mills........Feb. 15th
Bangor........Feb. 22d
South Sangerville........Feb. 29th
I. K. LOMBARD.

Northwood Narrows........Lord's day, Feb. 2d
SUBJECT.—The glorious appearing of Christ this year reduced almost to absolute certainty.
WILLIAM C. THURMAN.

North Norway........Sunday, Feb. 2d
J. WHITMAN.

Wilmot Flat, N. H., Wednesday evening, Jan. 29th, and over Sunday, Feb. 9th, except Sunday, Feb. 2d.
J. PINKHAM.
J. H. F. VARNEY.

Lake Village, (North Church)........Sunday, Feb. 9th
T. W. PIPER.

Pleasant Valley, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 9th
SETH WOODRUFF.

Newport, Northville, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 2d
A. MURRAY TRIPP.

Knowlesville, Orleans Co., N. Y........Sunday, Feb. 2d through the week, and over the following Sunday.
C. W. LOW.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Wm. Stuart........Sunday, Feb. 9th
H. F. Carpenter........Sundays, Feb. 16th and 23d

Dansville, N. Y........Feb. 6th
Rogersville, N. Y........Feb. 13th
Stop one week in each place. J. K. BELLOWS.

BRISTOL, BT.

Sr. M. L. Durand........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Wm. J. Ripley........Sunday, Feb. 16th

Parsonsfield, Me........Sunday, Feb. 2d
WM. H. SHAW.

Suncook........Sunday, Feb. 2d
T. T. FARRELL.

Windsorville, Conn., (as Bro. St. Clair may arrange), Thursday evening, Jan. 30th, and over Sunday.
S. C. HANCOCK.

Lunenburg Corner, Vt., (Town Hall), Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, and over Sunday. A. GORDON.

Concord, N. H., (Centre St. Church), Sunday, Feb. 2d
JOHN H. EVANS.

Wallingford Farms, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 2d
New Haven, Ct., (Day's Hall)........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Hartford, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 23d
B. HITCHCOCK.

Tuftonboro, (Melvin Village)........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Dover, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 16th
WM. BODGE.

New Preston........evening, Jan. 29th and over the following Sunday.
West Haven........evening, Feb. 4th
Wallingford, (as Bro. Ives may arrange), evening, Feb. 5th.
Middletown, (if desired)........evening, Feb. 7th
Yalesville........Sunday, Feb 9th
Buckland, (as Bro. Grant may arrange), evening, Feb. 11th.
Square Pond........Sunday, Feb. 16th
C. H. SWEET.

New Bedford, Mass........through February
A. ROSS.

New Britain........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Springfield, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Middletown........Sunday, Feb. 16th
New Britain........Sunday, Feb. 23d
WM. STUART.

Brimfield, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 2d
West Stafford, Ct........Sunday, Feb. 9th
RUFUS BAKER.

Whitefield........Sunday, Feb. 2d
NATHAN WHEELER.

WORCESTER, MASS.

S. W. Thurber........Sunday, Feb. 2d and through the month.

CONCORD, N. H.
(Corner of Green and Center Streets.)

J. A. Cleaveland........Sundays, Feb. 2d and 9th

Lenora and Nichols, Minn........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Elliota and Burr Oak........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Preston........Sunday, Feb. 23d
P. RAMER.

Lenora and Nichols, Minn........March 1st
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper........March 8th
Elliota and Burr Oak........March 15th
Preston........March 22d
W. J. BURRELL.

Lanesville, (as Bro. Marsh may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 2d.
Brookfield, Ct., (as Sr. C. Barnes may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 9th.
Will Bro. James Squires be so kind as to meet me at the Westfield station, when the 12 o'clock train from Springfield arrives on Friday?
If any of these appointments conflict with others, brethren interested will please drop me a line to that effect, as soon as they see this notice. Direct to H. Rockwell, care of H. H. Dickinson, 44 Windsor Street, Hartford, Ct. H. ROCKWELL.

SQUARE POND, CT.

F. S. Butler........Sunday, Feb. 2d

Plymouth, Mass........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Stoneham........Sunday, Feb. 9th
J. S. WHITE.

Upper Pittsburgh, N. H........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Coatibook, (Kinney school-house)........Sunday, Feb. 9th
D. N. CHADSEY.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.
Meetings are held at the Advent Hall, Curtis' Block, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Entrance, third door from the east end of the bridge, Main St.

Lockport, N. Y........Sunday, Feb. 2d
Youngstown, N. Y., Niag. Co., (where Bro. Tryon may appoint), Sunday, Feb. 9th. E. CERTON.

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ CORRESPONDENTS SHOULD, AND OUGHT TO KNOW, THAT WE CANNOT DISCONTINUE OR SEND THEIR ORDERS, UNLESS THEY GIVE US THE POST OFFICE AND STATE IN PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ WHO sends us $1.50 from Worcester, Mass., and does not sign his name?

☞ R. S. JENNINGS—Money all right.

☞ O. A. LADD—Money received.

☞ J. HUDSON—All right.

☞ J. E. SCRIBNER writes to have his paper discontinued. Where does he live?

☞ B. P. STEVENS—Money received. All right.

☞ JOHN R. BOYNTON'S P. O. address is Smithfield, Isle of Wight County, Virginia.

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

The present No. of the Crisis is 642. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid.

If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to, is less than the present No., the difference shows for how many weeks you owe. For every week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the product (which will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness) deduct four cents for every dollar, and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each—T Wentworth 630, N Potter 647, C Cheney 663, J Dick 631, J Fisher 643, J Lading 667, D B Salter 656.

$1.25 each—W S Huntley 665, J Colby 668, S Brown 668, J C Ackerman 659, W. S. Darling 668, S M Lum 637, J McKeene 668, S Smith 668, E Williams 661, P E Hardy 656, M Kenyon 660, C Bitgood 660, E Potter 668, T Fraser 665, S T Tanner 668, E D Hansom 648, M Hansom 648.

$2.00 each—W. Emmons 684, W. Kidney 584, M. J. Stearns 653, G H Bundy 676, J Wise 683.

$2.50 each—J. L. Wiggin 695, N. Collins 692, S. A. Dunham 691, W A Bevin 691, S A McFadden 690, H Crippin 692, J W Finn 689, S Cooper 695, E L Burnap 682, G Simmons 694, A Bickford 684, L Tiffany 686, E Watkins 694, S M Smally 691, O Stone 669, P Cannon 713, N N Thompson 686, W D Hunt 687, L B Potter 687, B M Felton 649, I R Johnson 653, J Warner 704, L Johnson 691, S. Valentine 694, A T StClair 679, M Coy 681.

Various Sums—M. A. Belding 60c. 649; J Lewis 50c, 646; E P Tryon $2.63, 690; J A McKay $2.38, 692; J H Mundy $4.60, 657; C M Andrews $2.30, 670; H B Dunlap $1.30, 656; M. P. Pattee $1.50, 670; H. W. French $3.75, 641; L. Newton $3.00, 674; W. Cook $1.30, 66c; J I Cox $4.40, 643; O A Ladd $4.00 668; J Vermilya 50c, 652; B Kipling $1.31, 653; J S Beman $3.00, 698; R H Duming 62c, 610.

FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.

S A Dunham $1.00, F A Baker $1.10, J. V. Himes $10.00; N Potter $30c, S A Seaman $1.00, S Smith 88c, J P Thing $1.10, S Sterling 65c, G E Round 35c, O Stone 80c, E H Eggleston $3.00, O W Fisher 45c, J M Drill $1.00, W L Churchill 40c, J B Reynolds 60c, G H Bundy $3.65, E G Kimball 60c, T T Farrell 35c, R Andrews $3.70. L. Perkins $1.00, A. Phillips $1.00, A. Cressey $4.75. J I Cox 60c, B Taylor $2.50, R H Duming 38c, E Edwards 95c, D Mosher 35c, H A Williams 40c.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

W A Fenn, L F Moore, E L Barton, A M Haight, S M S Haynes, J W Taylor, H F Carpenter, I K Lombard, F S Ainsworth, I I Leslie, E M King, L H Little, E S Moulton, T K Allen, F L Wright, C Greene, N D Babcock, J E Clark, I C Wellcome, J G Hook, J Blain, H Pratt, W F Schwilk, M R Phetteplace, H E F Stone, L B Weaver, B P Manning, T Wheeler, A T Rice.

ADDRESS OF PREACHING BRETHREN.

C. E. Piper—41 Grove Street, Boston, Mass.
C. Goodrich—69 Marion Street, East Boston, Mass.
J. S. White—98 Decatur Street, East Boston, Mass.
Enoch Morrill—No. 69 Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown, Mass.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford, Mass.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls, Mass.
L. Boutell—Salem, Mass.
H. Pratt—Springfield, Mass., 57 Cedar St.
P. S. Butler, Collins Depot, Mass.
E. Owen—Springfield, Mass., No. 64 Walnut Street.
Alvah Bean—Lowell, Mass.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana, Mass.
Allen Damman—Fairhaven, Mass.
C. H. Sweet—Millville, Mass.
J. W. Brittan—Westboro, Mass.
S. Anderson—Warren, Mass.
Rufus Baker—Warren, Mass.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer, Mass.
W. E. Hathaway—North Carver, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Lynn, Mass.
S. S. Brazee—Cold Spring, Mass.
N. J. Streeter—Southbridge, Mass.
S. W. Thurber—85 Church Street, Lowell, Mass.
C. H. Leverton—Surry, Hancock Co., Me.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills, Me.
J. C. Wheeler—Carthage, Me.
F. A. Baker—Levant, Me.
H. S. Mitchell—Cushing, Me.
I. K. Lombard—Machiasport, Me.
J. Carr—South Albion, Me.
Israel Damman—Corinna, Me.
B. P. Manning—Goffstown, N. H.
J. G. Smith—New Durham, N. H.
C. C. Stevens—Exeter, N. H.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia, N. H.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth, N. H.
J. Couch—Concord, N. H.
A. W. Sibley—Lincoln, N. H.
A. Simpson—Concord, N. H.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village, N. H.
Z. Ford—Concord, N. H.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426 Concord, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover, N. H.
Wm. H. McDaniels—Fisherville, N. H.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff, N. H.
J. B. Cook—Poultney, Vt.
G. W. Stetson—Rutland, Vt.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford, Vt.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
D. N. Chadsey—Canaan, Vt.
J. A. Cleaveland—South Royalton, Vt.
Wm. H. Fisher—Windsor, Ct., care of S. Cooper.
H. F. Carpenter—Danielsonville, Ct.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville, Ct.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford, Ct.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville, Ct.
T. S. Canfield—Bantam Falls, Ct.
B. St. John—Wolcottville, Ct.
Dr. Samuel Wellis Treat—Middlebury, Ct.
S. B. Munn—Waterbury, Ct.
Ira Wyman—Warehousepoint, Ct.
Wm. J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley, Ct.
L. F. Moore—Somersville, Ct.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted, Ct.
S. Woodruff—Unionville, Ct.
Geo. A. Cole—Phenix, R. I.
J. K. Bellows—19 Orchard Street, New York City.
Wm. A. Fenn—Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester, N. Y.
Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
S. P. Babcock—Malaga, New Jersey.
J. W. Taylor—Chatham Valley, Tioga Co., Pa.
F. H. Burbank—Dorcas Mission, 708 Lombard street, Philadelphia, Pa.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.
Dr. I. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis, Tenn.
Wm. Deverell—Keswick, C. W.
Wm. M. Ingham—Clementsport, N. S.
H. K. Flagg—Advent Christian Hall 1136, No. 5th Street, St. Louis, Mo.
H. Rockwell—Lenox, Ashtabula Co., Ohio.
L. C. McKinstry—Norwalk, Ohio.
B. Wm. Wilkins—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634 care of I. I. Leslie.
Daniel Reed—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634; care of I. I. Leslie.
Eld. G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co., Ind.
P. W. Hough—West Salem, Wis.
George Thompson—Attica, Green Co., Wis.
Eld. A. F. Dugger—Simpson, Iowa.
Peter S. W. Deyo—Strawberry Point, Clayton Co., Iowa.
O. R. Fassett—Minneapolis, Minn.
Philip Ramer—Winona, Minn.
J. Wilbur—Box 882 Janesville, Wis.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cents per copy additional, when sent by mail.

New Music.

"'Tis the very same Jesus" (Separate sheets, at 5c.), Calvary, Over There, I shall Rest, The Shining Land, New Year's Chime, Hallelujah, "Say, Brother, shall we meet?" "The Little Grave," "We shall walk through the Valley in Peace." All on one sheet, at 20c. For sale at this office.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

Spiritualism Unveiled.
What is Man?
The Soul—What is it?
The Spirit—What is it?
The Rich Man and Lazarus.

All the above works, in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings, and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsey. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Predictions fulfilled, and his Kingdom near. By I. C. Wellcome. 25c; by mail, 27c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 1, By S. S. Brewer. 7c; by mail, 8c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 3, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD, and Signs of the Times. By S. S. Brewer. 18c; by mail, 20c.

THESSALONICA; or, The Model Church. By H. L. Hastings. 25c.

SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsay, D. D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 60c.

THE SEVEN SEALS. Exposition of Rev. vi. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church. By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE DAYS WE LIVE IN; The Lord soon to come. By S. S. Brewer. 10c; by mail, 12c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M. Preble. 18c; by mail, 15c.

THE SLAYING OF THE WITNESSES. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3c; by mail, 5c.

THE GREAT IMAGE soon to be dashed to pieces. By S. S. Brewer. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE TWO ADAMS. By T. M. Preble. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures. Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, etc. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. 20c; by mail, 22c.

RETRIBUTION; or, The Doom of the Ungodly. By H. L. Hastings. 20c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 28c.

PAULINE THEOLOGY; or, The Christian Doctrine of Future Punishment, as taught in the Epistles of Paul. H. L. H. 10c.

GLAD TIDINGS; or, The End of Woe and Sin by the Destruction of the Wicked. (Three chapters from "Death not Life.") By J. Blain. 8c; by mail, 10c.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 6c; by mail, 8c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 3c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 3c; by mail, 4c.

SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.

REV JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 3c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.25; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables Price, by mail, 40 cents.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

"THE JUBILEE SONGSTER." A choice collection of original and selected Hymns. A pamphlet edition of ninety-eight hymns. By S. S. Brewer. By mail, 15c. single copy; $1.50 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 23c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 15 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postage, 5c. on every three copies.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.26c. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By F. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 3c. single, postpaid.

COOKERY or How to prepare food from Grain, Fruits and Vegetables. By F. W. Hurd, M. D. 15c; by mail, 17c.

VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook and Wm. H. Brinkerhoff. 10c.

THE SABBATH, and its Relation to Man. By mail 3 cts.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. 3c. single; 5c. by mail.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 20c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

RAHAB THE HARLOT. The Scarlet Line the token of Safety; or, the fall of Jericho a type of the fall of the "cities of the nations." By Wm. Shepherd. 10c. postpaid; 85c. a dozen.

CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; a Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Worship. 80c; by mail, 86c.

PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 6c; by mail, 8c.

THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT—Superiority of the New. By A. W. Sibley. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY, or, the Sealed Book of Daniel Opened. $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; or, a Dissertation on the Evidences of Christianity. 25c; by mail, 30c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?—a tract on War. By I. C. Wellcome. 10c.

THE PROPHETIC TIME QUESTION; or, Bible Time Examined. By Wm. Sheldon. 27c.

CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c.

NON-RESISTANCE. By W. C. Thurman. 20c; by mail, 25c.

DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c.

THE DAY AND THE HOUR: a Lecture. By Joseph A. Seiss, D. D. [illegible]

"OUR LOSS IN ADAM, OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.

"THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley. 5c. single copy by mail; 30c. per dozen.

"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 25c. per 100 copies.

"GOLDEN MOMENTS." A four-page tract. By mail, 25c. per 100 copies.

"THE PENALTY OF SIN." By O. R. Fassett. By mail, single copy, 5c.; 40c. per dozen.

AMERICA IN PROPHECY; an Exposition of Isaiah XVIII. By O. R. Fassett. 8c; by mail, 10c.

For the World's Crisis.

OH COME, MY DEAR SAVIOR.

AIR.—"Come this way, my Father."

I remember a "star" which once guided the way
Of the "wise men" to where the sweet Bethl'em babe lay,
'Twas the star of bright hope in old Israel's dark sky
To tell that Messiah their Deliv'rer was nigh,
To say, Come, oh "wise men," come straight to me,
I will guide to the place where the babe you will see.

I remember how, led by that star's cheering ray,
They soon came to the place where the dear infant lay;
How they gave to him gold and frankincense, and then
Bowed and worshiped and honored the great Savior of men.
Oh wise men, your wisdom taught you that he
Whom you worshiped, the hope of his people must be.

I remember that child grew in wisdom and love,
Till God's pure bright spirit, dovelike, came from above,
Making people to know his anointing from heaven,
That to him David's throne forever was given.
Oh Israel, behold him, let your people rejoice,
As you hear from the cloud the heavenly voice.

I remember how mountains and cold midnight air
Oft witnessed the fervor of his strong matchless prayer,
How he homeless wandered, he the rejected King,
That he all his people to his kingdom might bring.
Come follow him, wand'rer, his footprints see,
This life of privation he has endured for thee.

I remember how thorns at the last crowned his brow,
How beneath the rough cross the sufferer did bow,
How he yielded his life as an off'ring for me,
How he poured out his blood so abundant and free.
Come, gaze on him, sinner, thy Savior see,
Here bleeding and dying he is waiting for thee.

He was laid in the tomb, but he saw no decay,
Though the stone had been sealed, angels rolled it away;
In the shades of the morn, o'er the darkness had fled,
He arose from the tomb, he arose from the dead.
Then, oh my dear Savior, didst conquer the grave,
The Lion of Judah, the Almighty to save.

He ascended to plead, but he's coming again,
"This very same Jesus," "on the earth" he will reign;
Oh! how sweet to my heart is the thought of that day,
And oft for his coming and his kingdom I pray.
Oh come, my dear Savior, come back to me,
Thy lone bride is waiting, she is longing for thee.

He has promised to come, and the day draweth nigh,
When his "sign," like the "star," shall be seen in the sky;
The "scepter," the King's sign, it shall tell he will reign,
In the Eden restored, when his foes are all slain.
Oh come, my dear Savior, come back to me,
Thy lone bride is waiting, she is longing for thee.

Attended by angels, amid bright golden clouds,
He will come, and dead saints will leave their damp shrouds,
And be caught up to meet him in chorus to sing,
All glory to Jesus, our bless'd conquering King.
Oh, come, my dear Savior, come back to me,
Thy lone bride is waiting, she is longing for thee.

L. C. McKINSTRY.

For the World's Crisis.

THE FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT.—No. 6.

"The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law."—GAL. 5: 22.

GOODNESS.

There is much dispute about perfection. When one came to Jesus and asked him what he should do to inherit eternal life, Jesus said, "Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God"; and many use this text to prove that no one can be good, that is, holy; but that Jesus did not mean this is evident, for he mentioned the commandments—Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Honor thy father and thy mother, and Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself; and when the man said he had kept them from his youth up, Jesus replied, "If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast and give to the poor"; thus showing that when we have no idol between us and the Lord, but are entirely consecrated, we are perfect.

This young man felt a lack of something. Although he had kept the letter of the law perfectly, he had not the evidence of his acceptance with God; and he asked Jesus what he should do to inherit eternal life; and when Jesus told him to sell his possessions and give to the poor, he went away sorrowful, for his treasure was below and his heart also. Many are like this young man; they keep the law outwardly, but the law is not written by the Spirit of God in their hearts, and their works of righteousness are but as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal.

Jesus says, "Be ye perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." A perfect man is not a perfect God, any more than a perfect apple is a perfect planet; but a man can be as perfect in his sphere as God is in his. He cannot be perfect in wisdom; that is not one of his attributes; nor in power; but he can be free from sin. No matter how wicked a man has been, when he is forgiven his sins are washed away; for when God forgives sin he remembers it no more against us; he is as pure as if he had never sinned.

A piece of white cloth may be dipped in mud until you cannot tell the original color of the cloth; but after it is washed and thoroughly cleansed, it is as white as ever before. A child is innocent before it is old enough to know right from wrong; but if, after years spent in sin, the man repents and seeks forgiveness, the blood of Jesus Christ cleanses from all sin, and in the sight of God he is as pure as he was before he wandered in the broad way; and as long as the Holy Spirit abides in his heart he is perfect, for "the fruit of the Spirit is . . . goodness."

A good apple is a sound apple. A good man is one who is sound in principle, honest, upright, honorable; one who is as honest in little things as in large ones, with pennies as with dollars. A good man will no sooner cheat a man out of ten cents, than he will out of a thousand dollars. When selling an article he tells its poor as well as its good qualities. If he owes anything, he will deny himself of everything unnecessary until that debt is paid. If he borrows an umbrella or a newspaper, he returns it in as good condition as it was when he borrowed it. He does not sell chalk for flour, or color his winter butter with carrots. He is not amiable when strangers are present, and unkind and disagreeable when alone with his family. He treats his children as human beings, and his wife and mother and servants with respect.

Some honorable men are so from self-respect. Some are kind and honest from natural benevolence. They will not injure any one because they dislike to see any one suffer. Others are honest because they fear the speech of people. They wish to be respected by their fellow men, and take that way to gain their respect; but if they could commit a crime and know no one would know of it, they would. But a man without natural goodness, or regard for the opinions of others, will, if he is a child of God, keep the commandments—Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not steal, Honor thy father and thy mother, and Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself, and have no idols.

Some apples are fair and beautiful, and appear to be sound, but when we cut them we find the core rotten; and some men are outwardly good while circumstances alone prevent them from doing evil; but religion reaches the heart and purifies the motives. He who has the law written upon his heart, has no need of the Mosaic law. He keeps the commandments from love to God and love to his fellow men. He not only is kind to his enemies, but he loves them. Some will not themselves hurt an enemy, but if harm happens to him through another, they rejoice; but he who has the spirit of Christ wishes nothing but blessings upon his foes. He not only does not steal, but does not covet. He not only commits no murder, but hates no man. He does not lust after evil things, but every thought is brought into captivity to the obedience of Christ.

O how blessed it is to live thus free from sin, free from condemnation! for "there is no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus; who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." "To be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." "So, then, they that are in the flesh cannot please God." "If we live after the flesh, we shall die; but if we through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, we shall live. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God"; and "the Spirit itself beareth witness with our Spirit that we are the children of God; and if children, then heirs; heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ"; and "the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed in us."

East Killingly, Ct. S. K. PAINE.

For the World's Crisis.

REPORT OF THE R. I. AND E. CT. QUAR. CONF., NO. SCITUATE, R. I.

Each succeeding conference is more and more abundant in blessing. How precious to attend them; how pleasant to report them; and best of all every church finds it profitable to invite them.

In spite of storm on Wednesday, Jan. 1st, a goodly number gathered at the appointed time, and a joyous season of social worship gave evidence of better things to come. Bro. E. Bellows preached in the evening, and his voice is always welcome to the conference.

Thursday, 9 A. M. Another social season of interest. 2 P. M. After prayer and the acceptance of the minutes of last conference, the Treasurer reported past collections all expended in tracts and a balance due the treasury of fifty-three cents. This report accepted. On motion it was voted, To purchase of the Clerk certain tracts and pamphlets offered at 75 per cent of cost; viz., $1.50.

The church at Thompson, Ct., raised up last fall under the old tent, with seventeen members, sustaining three prayer meetings a week, asked admission to conference and was accepted.

Report of churches: Lafayette, R. I., by Bro. Thomas.—A few serving God. Foster, R. I., by Bro. Durfee.—Very low. Danielsonville, Ct., by Bro. Shumway.—Not quite salvation enough to go through bad weather. A watch meeting of unusual interest, giving promise of future good. Gloucester, R. I., by Bro. Keach.—Strong in the Lord. Interest enough to meet for prayer and praise in bad weather. Clark's Mills, R. I.—In a distracted condition. Rockland, R. I.—Thirty-six in number—two added—three dismissed since last conference—some waiting to be baptized.

The church at North Scituate, R. I., asked admission to conference, and was accepted. Reported by Bro. Knight.—Whole number eighty-two. In good condition. The Lord is with us. Twenty-one children have their prayer meetings regularly, and have done much good. A Band of Hope indeed! Abington, Ct., by the Clerk.—Enjoying an interesting state of prosperity. Eleven baptized and admitted to church since the last conference, and others waiting to be baptized.

Report of preachers: Reports were given in from Brn. E. Bellows, J. J. Northrup, M. R. Phetteplace, D. O. Hopkins, J. W. Thomas, Knight, Collins, A. Durfee, Sister Crumb, the Clerk, and also from Bro. Eldridge. From these reports it was evident that an unusual spirit of labor rested upon the watchmen. Labor had not been in vain. Nearly all had seen sinners converted to God, and felt encouraged to enlarge their sphere of usefulness by more wide-spread and earnest efforts for perishing souls.

Thursday evening, Bro. A. Durfee spoke upon the love of God to sinful man. The word was not without effect. Many confessed a blessing through it. Friday, 9 A. M. After prayer, Brn. Phetteplace, Northrup, Thomas, Knight, and Shumway were appointed a committee to hear the report of the investigating committee on the case of Eld. Geo. Champlin, condemned by council at Vernon, Vt.

Brn. E. Bellows and M. R. Phetteplace were appointed to visit the church at Clark's Mills, to cheer, strengthen and rebuild, as God may help, and also to bear a letter from us of rebuke and exhortation. This committee were requested to visit Foster also, if possible.

To correct misunderstanding, inquiries were made concerning the large tent, whether it was to return from the South in the spring, and who owned it, as some thought it had been given to the Conference. These inquiries soon elicited the fact that the tent was given to Bro. E. Bellows, and that Bro. Reed in taking it South had given Bro. B. means to secure another tent as large as the first. A motion that the Conference provide a tent of its own was lost, as there seemed to be no demand. Adjourned till four A. M.

Freedmen's Mission. The Treasurer reported two dollars in the treasury, after sending appropriations to various missions. An interesting letter was read from Bro. H. K. Flagg, St. Louis, Mo.

On motion it was voted, To appropriate funds raised at this conference for missionary purposes, as Brn. E. Bellows, H. F. Carpenter and N. Shumway may deem best. Adjourned.

Friday, 2 P. M. Preaching by the Clerk. In the social meeting which followed, three came forward for prayers, while others were much moved. One soon found peace in believing and joy in the Holy Ghost. A collection was taken up for missionary purposes.

4 P. M. Conference listened to Report of Ministerial Committee:

To the R. I. and E. Ct. Conference in special session assembled. Your committee at earliest opportunity met, organized, and after hearing the report of your former committee of investigation in the case of Eld. George Champlin, we unanimously agreed in submitting to you the following

PREAMBLE AND RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas Eld. Geo. Champlain, a member of this Conference, and a former co-laborer with us, with whom we have taken sweet counsel in the work of God, has had charges preferred against him by the church in Vernon, Vt., for crimes there committed, and has therefore been condemned by a ministerial committee, and has never relented, confessed, or shown due penitence for that crime; and whereas the committee appointed by this conference has failed to reconcile him to said council and vice versa, therefore

Resolved, that with tearful sadness we are compelled from evidence of unconfessed crime, and hereby do withdraw from him the hand of christian fellowship until he gives evidence of contrition and repentance.

Resolved, that his name be striken from the roll of this conference.

The committee's report on ministerial standing was accepted, and the Preamble and Resolutions adopted; whereupon the conference adjourned to meet at East Gloucester, April 1st, 1868.

Friday evening. Sister Crumb spoke to a densely packed house, from these words—"When I see the blood I will pass over you." Ex. 12: 13. The meeting was most blessed and powerfully solemn. It was sad to part after such happy greetings, such refreshing fellowship in the joyous worship of God. We hope to meet again.

H. F. CARPENTER, Clerk.

For the World's Crisis.

"THE MARK OF THE HIGH CALLING."

With earnest desire and unceasing prayer let us strive to please our divine Master in all things. It is our fixed purpose to obey him, following in his footsteps who said, "I do always those things that please him."

We are not required to do this without help, but abundant grace is bestowed to help our infirmities. We feel our weakness, and our need of help to put on the whole armor, and to "fight the good fight of faith, and lay hold on eternal life."

We freely confess our shortcomings, and are assured that it is not in us but in the Lord that we have righteousness and strength. He will give grace and glory. No good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly.

Let us have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. If in time past we have not come up to the mark, let the time past suffice for such poor service, and from henceforth let us "deal justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with God." Are we now free in Christ?

Then let us "stand fast" in that liberty. Are we troubled by the assaults of the enemy? The Lord is our refuge and deliverer, "a very present help in every time of need." He is able to keep the great adversary away from us, and I fully believe he is willing to do this in answer to prayer. And "whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected; hereby know we that we are in him." SUSAN S. CHAMBERLAIN.

Sutton, Mass.

For the World's Crisis.

THE MEMPHIS MISSION.

Jan. 11, 1868. Since my last, dated the 1st, there have been some dark and cloudy days here. The storm of snow which came on the last day of December was succeeded by a few days of warm weather, which took the snow all away, and we went to work again upon the chapel. We worked three days, when again it began to grow cold, and a storm of rain came on which froze as it fell, covering the ground and everything with a coat of ice. This has lasted until to-day, when the clouds have again left the sky, and the sun and south wind have unbound the fettered earth.

The sleet and cold have prevented us from shingling the roof of our chapel as we expected this week; but we trust that next week it will be warm, so that we can go on with the work.

Our hearts have been both cheered and made sad during those cold and stormy days. They have been made sad in witnessing the want and suffering all around us, and gladdened by having it within our power to administer to the necessities of those who were perishing. How many blessings we have asked upon those who have sent us the means to help these poor ones! While we have taken some of these children of want who have come to us to the market house, and filled their arms with good things, or taken them ourselves to their cabins, we have thanked God for such kind hearts at home.

O how this religion tells upon this people, and all around here. They are strangers to such a christianity as ours. Singing and praying has been all the religion of this people, if we except what they call preaching. They say if there are any who live their religion it is we. Our example in laboring, giving and living, is having its effect; and every day we notice the influence upon this people for good. Never was there a people that made more progress in light and knowledge than this, at the present time.

Still there are those who hold back and wish to remain in the darkness of slave times. One part of our work is to press them on and into the light and truth. They naturally desire to settle down, and continue to go on morally, religiously and physically, as they have been. This makes the work harder than it otherwise would be. It is harder for us than for other missionaries here, because we are in advance of all others in light and progress. We have a message to proclaim which no other class of light-givers have; and it being new and contrary to the preconceived opinions of all, our work is greater and more difficult to accomplish. Other teachers and missionaries have no such opposition and obstacles to meet and surmount as do we. Their work is light when compared with ours.

But God is with us and is strong, and so we go on and are blest in our work. As the winter advances, and the cold weather continues, the condition of the poor grows more sad, and their destitution increases. This is owing chiefly to the falling off of business and the demand for laborers. All the lumber mills, where many of the colored men have been employed, have stopped on account of the cold weather, or lack of business; and thus many families are left without any means of support except what the women can get by washing, and this now is very poorly paid for, on account of the scarcity of money and the many who are driven to do something else.

We are doing all we can with the means sent us. And we thank again those who have so kindly responded to our call for help.

To-day we have received seven barrels of vegetables from brethren in Bristol, R. I., all unfrozen, and in a good condition. These were forwarded by Bro. Gideon Gray, and consisted of four barrels of potatoes, one of carrots, one of onions, and one of turnips. Also three barrels of clothing, two from the North Church, Lake Village, N. H., and the other from Bro. J. L. Hastings and friends, Needham, Mass. On these ten barrels we paid $31.05 freight.

We have also received the following additional donations: L. A. Waterhouse, South Poland, Me., $5.00. From a brother and sister in Mass., $2.00; Eliza Hastings, Needham, Mass., $4.00. From a friend in Vermont, by the hand of M. A. D., $1.00. One who says, "Read Matt. 6: 1-4," $5.00. "Hope," $2.00. I. L. LESLIE.

For the World's Crisis.

BOOK NOTICES.

"Give attendance to reading."

THE PLAN OF REDEMPTION. BY WELLCOME AND GOUD.

This work must recommend itself, or work its way silently on until some of "the chiefs" criticise it, and acknowledge its arguments and conclusions correct, or try their efforts to refute them. We have several D. D.'s and other scholars investigating it. It gives Bible light on the design of God in the creation of man and the world, man's nature, sin, its effects, death, the atonement, Adam's probation, why all the race must come up from the grave, why all die, how we gain eternal life, the nature and design of the old covenant, also of the new, the nature of the new birth, and of the book of life, who are blotted out, the second death, scriptural predestination, the nature of Christ, and his death, its benefits, the restitution and glorification of the earth, the judgment, the kingdom of God, the New Jerusalem, and much more. The first thousand mostly sold in a few weeks. It is highly estimated by the simple, but I wait to hear from those who may "grapple" and chafe over it. Its mission is scarcely under way. Many of its thoughts are new, and will cause some struggling and revolution. Call for it.

Neatly bound in cloth, $1.25. Sold at the Crisis office.

THESSALONICA, THE MODEL CHURCH, WITH REASONS FOR MY HOPE, AND SPIRITUALISM. By H. L. Hastings and Dr. Ramsay.

Those who wish to have their minds thoroughly impressed with the nature of the gospel hope, as preached by Paul, and of its radical effects on those who believed it in apostolic times, cannot fail to be gratified by reading the above work. If any wish a valuable work to lend or give to friends or neighbors, to show the difference between ancient gospel faith and hope, and modern superstitions and vain traditions, here they have it. If any wish to know what the rapping spirits are, how they became demons, how they came on earth, and their history in the past ages among the heathen nations, here they find it. If any desire to see the Bible hope of the children of God in all ages graphically displayed and applied, brought together and exemplified, forcibly and clearly, they have it here. It is worth more than a piano, or organ.

Sold at the Crisis office. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

THE LAST DAY TOKENS. No. 1, 2, 3. By S. S. Brewer.

The modern modes of reading and applying the Scriptures, by which they are made to speak any and every thing except the truth, should lead us to take heed how we read, and learn care in applying Scripture. These tokens carefully trace the mode of fulfillment of Old Testament Scriptures, as recorded in the New, thus showing the basis on which prophecy stands; then the fulfillment of prophecy is traced in the language of history to the present time, with cuts of various signs in the sun, moon, stars, and in the heavens, showing conclusively that Jesus is soon coming. These are very valuable pamphlets.

Sold at the Crisis office. Paper, in sets, 55 cents. I. C. WELLCOME.

Richmond, Me.

For the World's Crisis.

OUR CONFERENCE.

To the churches in Mass. scattered abroad: Beloved in the Lord:—Are you aware if our conference ever becomes an efficient institution it must be the embodiment of the church's wishes? must be conversant with the church's interests? must be adapted to the church's necessities? must be an organization of the churches? And how can it become such unless you feel sufficiently interested in it to choose your delegates who may represent your interests and send them to Westfield Feb. 6th? one from every band of believers in the State who meet regularly for worship, and one additional for every twenty-five members?

Will you attend to the matter at once? Let there be a full delegation, and the condition of the cause fully represented.

The brethren in Westfield propose to provide for all who may attend.

May the Spirit of God direct us in all our deliberations, that good may result and souls be saved through Jesus' name.

Brethren, pray for us. E. OWEN.

THAT DOLLAR.

What dollar? Why the dollar which you spent the other day for one quart. Can you tell us how much you accomplished with it in the way of doing good?

Have you received any real good yourself? Did any one receive a real benefit from it? Are there no bruised faces, no skinned noses—no blood-shot eyes—no inflamed stomachs—no dull headaches?

Was not the wife's heart broken when she saw her husband reeling in the street? Were not the children frightened when they heard you raving and blaspheming?

Do you know that one of your sons is following your example, and is even now almost a proverbial drunkard?

When I rebuked him not long since for his disorderly conduct he simply replied, "talk to the old man about it; he is to blame."

At a party a few evenings since, I saw your daughter, M——, all alone. Her face was deathly pale, as she sat in one corner of the parlor, with her eyes steadfastly fixed upon the gaudy tapestry of a window on her right.

The hour was one of sweet repast to many. The voice of merry laughter and of sweet song rang through the spacious hall. Bright eyes sparkled with intelligence, and loving faces teemed with hope. But there sat Mattie, who appeared as cold and as motionless as the statue of Minerva, and seemed to be buried in her own sad and sorrowful reflections. Twice did I approach her with words of cheer—but all in vain! At the request of a generous hearted lady, I made a third and final attempt to rouse her from her mental stupor, by asking her this question:—"Miss Mattie what can I say or do to make you happy?" Casting her eyes in mine, and giving me a look of sorrow, which I shall never forget, she said in a tremulous voice—"talk to my father and brother Joe."

My sympathies were so much awakened in behalf of the poor suffering girl that the unbidden tear came in my eye, and placing my hand in one of her's, I said with all my heart, "I will do what I can."

From that moment she appeared more cheerful; but on parting with her for the evening, her last words were, "don't forget your promise,"—thus showing that the burden of her heart was not removed, but simply lightened by the expression of sympathy and hope. And now, dear father, a fortnight having passed away, I appeal to you through the columns of the Kentucky Baptist, in behalf of your own dear offspring—your loving companion—never to spend another dollar for drink. I entreat you by all that is good on earth, or in heaven, by all that is terrible in the drunkard's hell, not to spend "that dollar" for that which will banish peace and sunshine forever from your own bosom, and the bosom of your family.—Ky. Baptist.

For the World's Crisis.

LONG AGO.

Sitting in the gath'ring twilight,
List'ning to the river's flow,
Still my thoughts keep turning backward
To the days of long ago.

Then, as now, the flaming maples
Held their crimson arms on high,
And I saw the gay witch-hazels
Gleaming in their golden dye.

All the wealth of corn was garnered,
And the purple grapes were press'd,
And the land, from vale to upland,
A tired laborer, lay at rest.

Where the red-leaved vines were climbing,
Where the blue, fringed gentians wave,
On that mild October morning
We stood by a narrow grave.

Fallen leaves around us rustled,
Rain clouds gathered in the West,
As we gazed within the coffin
Where the weary had found rest.

On her breast lay, meekly folded,
Hands that toiled through many years,
And the lids shut closely over
Eyes that oft were dim with tears.

On her brow gray hairs were parted,
And the pulseless heart was still,
Feeling neither joy nor sorrow,
Knowing neither good nor ill.

Lowly in the grave we laid her,
Earth to earth, and dust to dust,
Knowing well that we should meet her
When the trumpet calls the just.

When the angel-band descendeth,
When earth's weary years are o'er,
She will dwell 'mid endless pleasures,
Ne'er to weep or slumber more.

Soon our King, Priest, and Creator,
Rending heaven, shall come down;
Those who love not his appearing,
Cannot hope to wear a crown.

But the watchers, worn and weary,
Then shall raise exultant cheers;
'Tis our GOD! we've waited for him,
Through the long and weary years.

In that hour of joy, triumphant,
We shall surely see and know
Those who dropp'd life's heavy burden,
In the days of long ago.

MRS. C. A. KNOWLES.

Peace Dale, R. I., Oct. 20, 1867.

For the World's Crisis.

TRIALS WHILE WE WAIT FOR CHRIST.

It will not all be sunshine while we are waiting for our Master's return. Some will "draw back," and God will have no pleasure in them. Some will repudiate the prophetic measurements of the Bible, to the great joy of Satan.

But none of these things can move the prophetic student. "All Asia" once forsook Paul, but the cause was just as valuable and precious as when many were in sympathy with it. A multitude of Jesus' disciples, who had long hung on his words with breathless attention, once forsook him, "and walked no more with him;" but the precious cause was not diminished in value by this departure. John became acquainted with a class in his day, of whom he could say, "They went out from us, because they were not of us."

If all these things were to be acted over in our history, while we are waiting for the coming King, the cause of truth would still be God's own cause. If men swerve from the truth, truth is truth still: and though we may regret such apostasies, they should never shake our confidence in Heaven's programme.

Trials of this nature should only lead us to cling more firmly to the prophetic word which marked out the first Advent with precision, and now points to the second mission of the great Messiah. WM. SHELDON.

For the World's Crisis.

THE WORK ONWARD.

BRO. GRANT:—I feel that in the dispensation of God's providence and grace, there are indications of great good. The Spirit of the Lord seems to be moving upon the hearts of the people. I have been preaching the gospel of the kingdom of late to quite large and attentive congregations, who seemed to have ears to hear, and eyes to see, and hearts to understand and appreciate the truth. I have just returned from Darien, N. Y., where I left Bro. Newell to labor a few weeks with that people, who, I understand, has been doing a good work in other parts of the gospel field. God has blessed his labors. There are some, at least in our own society, who begin to feel that earth and heaven are worth but little without the indwelling of a living Christ in the heart; and that a living Christ is worth but little without a 'living faith in him; and that a living faith will die, unless sustained by life-giving works.

I hope that all the dear brethren, of the one faith and hope, will live very near the consecrated cross, and be found ready to meet their Lord at his coming. C. W. LOW.

Fredonia, N. Y., Jan. 20th, 1868.

NOVEL CELEBRATION.—The Second Baptist Church of Newport, R. I., recently celebrated a "Love-feast," after the manner of the Agapæ as practiced by the early christian church, at which nearly one thousand persons were present. The church was very richly ornamented with evergreens, shields bearing mottoes, symbols, etc.; and long tables were spread laden with refreshments. The pastor of the church, Rev. Charles Howard Malcom, assisted by six other clergymen, representing different denominations, conducted services of worship; after which liberal gifts were distributed to the poor and to the children of the church, and the congregation partook of the social repast. In an address delivered by Mr. Malcom he plead for a warmer social life in the churches, and urged the restoration of the observance of the Agapæ, as tending to promote fraternity and mutual fellowship.—Journal.

☞ Professor Palmieri of Naples, who is making a rigid scientific investigation into the phenomena accompanying the eruption of Vesuvius, states that he has never seen the magnetic needle so frequently and so seriously disturbed as it is at present, and that the seismograph records at least ten distinct earthquake shocks daily.

☞ The oldest inhabitant of Quebec asserts this to be the coldest winter in his memory; not so much from the occasional state of the thermometer as the steady average degree of cold.

MANNER OF PREACHING.—A lady, recently in giving her views of the preaching of a minister, to whom she had listened several times, said: "I thought it was the business of the minister to feed the sheep. This man don't feed us; he only throws clubs and stones at us, and sends us bleating and hungry home." Many a one might gather a useful hint from this as to the proper mode of dealing with the flock of Christ. Harshness, severity, fault-finding accomplish but little good in the family, the church, or the world. True, it is the pastor's duty to admonish and rebuke, to correct error and reform sin; but always in the spirit of the Master. A scolding minister never yet succeeded in anything, but in scattering the flock and weakening his hold upon the affections of his people. There is a magazine of power in an affectionate spirit and kind words.

☞ The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well, without a share of fame. If it comes at all, it will come because it is deserved, not because it is sought after. It is an indiscreet and troublesome ambition which cares so much about fame, about what the world says of us; to be always looking in the face of others for approval; to be always anxious about the effect of what we do or say; to be always shouting, to hear the echoes of our own voices.

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—Paul.

SUNLIGHT.

It seems to me that those whose minds are enlightened on the beneficial effects which this agency exerts upon us healthwise, have no reasonable excuse under ordinary circumstances for putting themselves upon so small an allowance of this heaven-given blessing as thousands and millions do.

The sun, the great luminary of the world, daily circles the earth with its life and light giving rays. It has its seasons for visiting all nations, so that all may say in the language of inspiration, "Truly the light is sweet, and a pleasant thing it is for the eyes to behold the sun." Its beams are flung upon the most towering mountains, and stretch across the most distant plains. The opening leaf, the budding and blooming flower, the ripening fruit and golden harvest, and tender spire of grass, all feel its genial rays. The moon and twinkling star send forth their milder rays of light, borrowed of the sun, to cheer and bless the inhabitants of earth, so that when the sable curtain of night is dropped around us, all may thank God that he has pinned it with the stars of heaven.

What reason, then, can we assign for shutting ourselves away from the sunlight as we often do? We know that vegetation cannot thrive, or attain to a healthy, vigorous condition, without it. And were we as anxious for its cheering and life-imparting rays as the almost instinctive flower or plant, which always inclines toward the sun, how much more healthful and hardy would be our condition.

Says an able writer, "The operation of light on the animal organism has always been recognized as urging to exercise, and increasing the activity of both the bodily and mental powers, while its absence or privation disposes to indolence and obesity."

We say, then, give us the light of the sun, the pure, cheering rays of heavenly light. Let it come into your kitchens, sitting-rooms, and parlors. It may fade your carpets a little, and change the color of the paint in the rooms, but it will do you a thousand times more good than it can do harm to these.

Let it shine in beauty and power into your sleeping-rooms. Do not shut it out. It is your friend. It comes to do you good. And let us have it in our meeting-houses. Let all look light, cheerful, pleasant and heavenly there.

Yea, and let us all prepare for that world of light and glory, where the light of the sun shall be seven-fold, as the light of seven days. Isa. 30: 26.—Health Reformer.

DRUGS.

"For men are brought to worse distresses
By taking physic than diseases;
And therefore commonly recover
As soon as doctors give them over."

The above was written a great while ago, and proves that even then a mind here and there perceived the pernicious effects of drugs. Serious doubts of their utility in any case, have prevailed more extensively than is now generally known. Jefferson, Franklin, and other progressive minds, in the past, have seen that the creation of a new sickness was a desperate way to cure an old one. Hence they disputed that,

"Wounds by wider wounds are heal'd,
And poisons by themselves expell'd."

Such an absurd theory is now being rigidly examined and most hopefully rejected. Like will not cure like, no more than can two wrongs make one right. To emerge from evil of any kind, is not to repeat it, but to cease it. The poor inebriate has never risen above the horrid results of drunkenness by repeating his doses, either in the form of liquor or drugs, but by discarding at once each and every part of them as ruinous poisons. The same, and for the same reason is true of the patient sinking under a complication of disease and drugs. As Butler has it—he can only recover, as the doctor gives him over.

The proposition that in no case should one aiming to escape from evil, repeat the evil, is too clear to argue. The attempt to prove that a repetition of any old injury, or the infliction of a new one, must always make the case worse instead of better, is little less than an effort to demonstrate a self-evident proposition. The truth in hand is intuitive and therefore needs no proof. As Dr. Breckenridge once said that he who can't see the wrongs of slavery has simply no moral sense, so may we affirm of this truth. Poison can no more cure poison, than crime can cure crime. Evil spirits never have been, nor ever can be, cast out by Beelzebub the prince of devils. The laws of God's universe are too consistent and too firmly established ever to admit of conviction. Bad causes are invariably followed by bad effects. He who spoke as did never any man before, has said, "A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit."

A notion prevails in the administration of drugs, as false as the system is ruinous; viz., that the medicine somehow acts on the disease. The drug is inorganic and can therefore act on nothing. The living system acts on it, and expels it as far as it can be expelled. Disease itself is but the wise effort of the body to right itself and overcome the injuries inflicted. Drugs can do no more than repeat the injury. They invariably make a well man sick; how then can they make a sick man well? All they ever do or can do, is to tax the system more or less heavily in the ratio of their poisonous qualities and the amount taken, to expel them and then repair their injuries, so that nothing is more manifest than their evil effects. They come in the nature and in the form of a foe. Not a friendly indication about them. They disgust the eye, the smell and the taste. They sicken the poor patient even before he forces them down his throat. Then, he not infrequently vomits them up. If by any possibility they are kept on his stomach and diffused through the system, there is just so much the more irreparable damage done. Hence in cases of recovery, the patient has to struggle through life, under injuries from poisonous remedies, ten-fold worse than the disease they were given to cure.

Readers have seen, it may be felt—the ruinous effects of calomel. Mouths in too many cases have been eaten up by it; and in consequence the whole system shattered.

One thing in view of all this, it would seem can be, ought to be, and will be done. Poisonous drugs can be let alone. Eight out of the ten commandments are negative. A thousand times better do nothing, than something wrong. Nature is certain to do, and do right if let alone. Dr. Hall once offered to pay New York one hundred thousand dollars if she would close every drug store, and save thereby fifty per cent. of the lives annually lost.—Laws of Life.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

The gospel is an effectual remedy for sin, but only when applied. The soul that yearns to be delivered from the bondage of sin turns as with unerring instinct to the cross. So abstinence has this high pre-eminence, that the drunkard's wife hails it as the dawn of a better future; and the father of a drunken son lifts up his hands in thanksgiving to God when that son is won to abstinence, and every reformed man has it as anchor of his soul, and the drunkard knows that without it there is for him no hope.

Lately a dying inebriate gave impressive testimony. Back in better days his anxious mother plead with him to sign the pledge. But he refused. At length dying of delirium tremens, he was found crawling about on hands and knees, reaching out on this hand and that, and calling in pleading tones "find me that pledge, find me that pledge."

Alas! for him it was too late—but for tens of thousands, following him to ruin, it is not yet too late—they may find the pledge, and with it temporal salvation, and the possibility of eternal life.

It is settled that total abstinence is favorable to health, longevity, industry, thrift, domestic happiness, intelligence, morality and religion.

It is settled that total abstinence men, other things being equal, are the most reliable civil and military officers, the best parents and the most exemplary christians.

Everybody knows that total abstinence is an effectual remedy for personal intemperance and hence to a candid mind, Father Matthew's logic is irresistible: "Total abstinence is evidently the lever by which great good could be effected; it therefore becomes the duty of all to assist in working that lever."—Temp. Journal.

TREATMENT OF CONSUMPTION.

It seems at first sight as superfluous to state that in a disease of debility like consumption, patients should breathe pure air, as that they should have good nourishing food, but it is not so. Theoretically, the value of pure air is accepted; but practically it is universally neglected. Healthful respiration has yet to be applied not only to every-day life, but in the treatment of disease. In ill health, and particularly diseases of the respiratory organs, the dictates of science and common sense are grossly outraged. If those persons who have consumption, or who have an inclination to it, would spend an hour every day in breathing pure air to the fullest extent to which their lungs are capable of taking it in, they would do more to prevent and cure this disease than it is possible to do by medication.—Ex.

OVEREATING.

Some people seem to entertain the idea that the more they eat, the stronger they will grow. Such need to be informed of the fact that, besides not half digesting the food with which they cram themselves, they impose an additional burden on the vital powers to dispose of that which the stomach, in its overworked condition, cannot take care of, and thus more vitality is expended than is obtained from the additional meal.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..............$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address......$5.60
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00.
Same rate for any number under ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give DISTINCTLY and PLAINLY the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM;

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS:

Payable always in advance.

[illegible]

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 644. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 21.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon at
167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,
TREASURER AND BUSINESS AGENT.

☞ The CRISIS is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

THE ADVENT.

Jesus comes!
The dread Arch-angel's trumpet sounds,
And He who bowed 'neath death and frowns,
Now comes bedecked with "many crowns."

At His voice
The mountains fall, the isles are fled,
The mighty millions of the dead
Arise from grave and coral bed.

Judgment comes!
The orbs and planets roll in fire,
And all God's enemies expire
Beneath the lightning of his ire.

Sin-cursed earth,
That then has groaned six thousand years,
Neath curses, burdens, blood and tears,
Puts on the youth of endless years.

Conflicts end;
The weary, tempted, sad, opprest,
Who have their pilgrimage confess'd,
Now end their toils in endless rest.

Shout for joy!
Shout His praise who praises gave,
Shout thy triumph o'er the grave,
Shout His matchless power to save.

Sinner, where,
Dread thought! will you be found,
When the Arch-angels' trump shall sound,
And Jesus comes with glory crowned?

Seek his face!
Fly, O fly to his embrace,
And seek a peaceful hiding-place
In the pavilion of his grace.

Chepachet, R. I. M. R. PHETTEPLACE.

WHO KINDLETH THE FIRE?

BY REV. THEO. L. CUYLER.

One article in the Mosaic law—given from heaven—is this. "If fire break out and catch in thorns, so that the stacks of corn or the standing corn be consumed therewith, he that kindled the fire shall surely make restitution." This statute had a peculiar necessity in such a hot, dry country as Palestine, where there was a peculiar danger from accidental conflagrations. If a man burned over his stubble-field, it was necessary, before the dry grass was lighted, to see that the wind was in the right quarter, and every precaution taken that the flames should not kindle upon the property of a neighbor. If any farmer neglected to take these precautions, and the swift-footed flames went careering through vineyards, and orchards, and stacks of barley, then he who kindled the fire was required to pay for the damage produced by his own carelessness.

The sound principle that underlies this law is that men must suffer for the evil they do through thoughtless recklessness, as well as for what they do with malicious intent. Men are to be held accountable, not only for the injuries which they wilfully perpetrate, but for the injuries which they occasion to others through wanton carelessness or even thoughtless indifference. The person who set his neighbor's barley-stacks on fire was required to make restitution, although he did not intend to burn him out. The responsibility comes back on him who kindled the flames. Let us apply the principle of this divine enactment to our own times, and point out the moral dangers of playing with fire. Perhaps we may discover that some very respectable people are often very destructive incendiaries.

1. If I invite a group of young men in my house to surround a card-table I may simply design to furnish them an hour's amusement. But perhaps a lust for gambling may lie latent in some young man's breast, and I may quicken it into life by my offer of a temptation. There is fire in that pack of cards! And I deliberately place that fire amid the inflammable passions of that youthful breast. On me rests the consequences of the act, as well as upon him whom I lead into temptation. The motive does not alter the result by one iota.

"For evil is wrought by want of thought,
As well as by want of heart."

2. Among social virtues none is more popular than that of hospitality. When bountifully practiced toward the needy, it rises to the dignity of a christian grace. And ordinary hospitalities may be set to the credit of a generous spirit. But here is the master or mistress of a house who spread their table with a lavish provision for the entertainment of their evening guests. Among the abundant viands of that table the lady of the house places the choicest brands of Madeira wine, and on a sideboard she sets out a huge bowl of inviting punch. And among the invited guests of the evening comes a man who has promised the wife of his early love that he will never again yield to his awful appetite and turn their sweet home into a hell. He sees the tempter in that accursed punch-bowl, and is pressed very courteously to "take a glass." The fire "catches in the dry thorns" in an instant. He drinks. He goes reeling into his own door that night, and his whole household is in a flame of excitement, and terror, and agony, and shame. Now who kindled that fire? Let her who put that bottle to her neighbor's lips make answer! According to the Jewish law, the incendiary was required to pay the damages of the conflagration. But what "restitution" can be made for a ruined character, a desolated home, or a broken heart? If my house and its contents are destroyed by fire, the insurance company may restore my pecuniary loss. But they cannot replace the precious keepsakes and the relics of the loved and lost which my dwelling contained. To-day there are thousands of human houses in New York and Brooklyn that are on fire! In these burning bodies of our fellow-men are precious things beyond the wealth of Ophir—hopes, talents, faculties, and affections. * * * *

Who kindled those fires? We answer that every one who tempts another to the social glass is a partner in producing the conflagration. Who feed the fires? Unquestionably the venders of strong drink, who, for lucre's sake, deal out the liquid flames of perdition. The proprietors of the 10,000 drinking-saloons in our twin cities do not aim to kill their fellow-men. But they do kill them, whatever be their secret motives in pursuing their abominable traffic. At the bar of God they will be held responsible. And let me inquire just here whether those christian citizens who do not even lift a finger to sustain the law which banks the grogseller's fires during God's own Sabbath are not themselves partially guilty for some of the consequences of the wide-spread conflagration?

3. The artillery of this divine law against incendiarism has a wide range. It is pointed against that social nuisance, the slanderer. "Behold how great a matter his little fire kindleth!" The utterance of evil reports may be well likened to playing with fire. For there is but spark required to set a whole neighborhood in a blaze; and when the flame gets under way it is beyond all human control. No matter that the spark may have been lighted without malicious motive. The ugly scorch upon the commercial integrity of the merchant, or upon the good name of the christian minister, or upon the reputation of the young maiden, may not have been the prompting of willful malignity. But the scorch is there; and somebody struck the spark.

A careless word sometimes makes irremediable mischief. I have read that a foolish young English clerk—fond of practical jokes—once said to a friend, "Have you heard that E—— and Co., the bankers, have stopped payment?" He merely meant that the banking-house had, as usual, closed up for the night. But he amused himself by seeing how he had startled his friend. He did not stop to explain his real meaning. His friend mentioned the alarming report to another; the rumor spread. Next day there was a "run upon the bank," and Messrs. E——& Co., were obliged to suspend payment! The silly youth did not mean to burn down the commercial credit of a prosperous house; he only meant to amuse himself by playing with fire. And a kindred mischief to his is perpetrated by every one who retails contemptible gossip, or gives birth to a scurrilous slander. "An abomination to the Lord is the false witness who speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren."

4. This law against incendiarism applies to every utterance of spiritual error and infidelity. He who utters a devilish suggestion to corrupt the innocence of chastity sets fire to a passion, and becomes the incendiary of a soul. He who scatters a pernicious literature comes under the same condemnation. He who sows skepticism, by tongue or pen, sets fire to the "standing corn" of righteous opinion. Beware how you play with the sparks of falsehood! Beware how you play with the fire of wicked suggestion, that may kindle a blaze of sin in another's heart! Beware how you fling an infidel thought among the growing barley of a young and sensitive mind! For in the day of final reckoning you will be called up to answer to the question, Who kindled the fire?—The Independent.

For the World's Crisis.

SHAKING OF THE POWERS OF HEAVEN.

"And the powers of the heavens shall be shaken."—MATT. 24: 29.

Various conflicting opinions exist concerning what is meant by the shaking of the powers of heaven,—some interpreting it figuratively, and others literally. A literal interpretation is requisite, because it occurs in the Savior's prediction of literal events—"There shall not be left one stone upon another"—literal stones—"false Christs"—literal—"wars and rumors of wars," "kingdoms shall rise against kingdoms"—literal—"Shall kill you, and ye shall be hated of all nations," etc. Indeed, the whole catalogue, from beginning to end, is a catalogue of literal events; then why should the shaking of the powers of heaven be an exception? After he had foretold events to be witnessed on earth, among men, he proceeded to give signs in the sun, moon, and stars, all of which were to be literal: then he adds, "The powers of the heavens shall be shaken." That this prediction is to receive a literal fulfillment is further evident from the following consideration: the Revelator gives, under the sixth seal, the same signs in the heavens that Christ does, but where Christ says, "The powers of the heavens shall be shaken." John affirms, "The heaven departed as a scroll." Rev. 6: 14.

1. Christ and John agree that there should be a sign in the sun.

2. Christ and John agree that there should be a sign in the moon.

3. Christ and John agree that there should be a sign in the stars.

4. Christ then mentions the shaking of the powers of heaven, while John speaks of the departing of the heaven; hence, it is plain to be seen that the "shaking" referred to ends in the passing away of the heaven. This same shaking is referred to by Paul, in speaking of the terrific scene on Sinai, when the earth trembled under the voice of God; "Whose voice then shook the earth; but now he hath promised, saying, Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven . . . signifieth the removing of those things that are shaken." Heb. 12: 26.

Beneath the mighty blast of the trump of God, not only will the earth tremble, but also the atmospheric heavens will be shaken, and "pass away with a great noise." The shaking mentioned by Paul must be literal, because the phrase "once more" requires this exposition—the first shaking on Sinai being literal; the "once more" must also be literal; and this "once more" is not confined to a future shaking of the earth, but "also heaven." Was the past shaking of the earth literal? Yes. When it is shaken "once more" will it not be a literal shaking? Yes. And if heaven also is then shaken, will it not be a literal shaking of heaven? Certainly. Then we have a literal shaking of the powers of the atmospheric heavens predicted, synchronizing with the Savior's prediction. The component elements of the atmospheric heavens will be disarranged, or the powers of the heavens be disorganized—that combination which holds them in a state of order. W. SHELDON.

OUR WHEREABOUTS.

By request I write an article for the Herald on Chronology, touching a few important points. As Bro. Bliss has said in the preface of his work on this subject:

"If Chronology is 'the soul of history, it is equally so of prophecy. Without it the Scriptures would lose much of their harmony and beauty. It is carefully interwoven into the sacred text, and gives the order and dependence of the several parts on each other. The Chronology of the Bible is as important in its place, as any other subject of revelation."

To this sentiment my heart responds, "Amen." Although the chronology of the Bible in all its parts, may be somewhat intricate; yet there is much that is plain and easy to be comprehended. We propose to examine a few points of this character.

In Dan. 9: 25, we read, "Know, therefore, and understand, that from the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem, unto Messiah the Prince, shall be seven weeks and threescore and two weeks." As it is generally conceded that these "weeks" form a period of 483 years, we will not stop to give the reasons for such a conclusion, but will endeavor to determine the date from which they are to be reckoned. The heavenly instructor says to Daniel: "From the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem." The question naturally arises, what commandment is referred to? and where is it spoken of? I know of but one such, and that is recorded in Isaiah 44: 24 to 28, and 45: 13, "Thus saith the Lord, thy Redeemer. . . . that saith of Cyrus, He is my shepherd, and shall perform all my pleasure; even saying to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be built; and to the temple, Thy foundations shall be laid. . . . I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways: he shall build my city and he shall let go my captives, not for price nor reward, saith the Lord of hosts." In 2 Chron. 36: 22, 23; Ezra 1: 1, 2, we read, "Now in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, (that the word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled,) the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it also in writing, saying, Thus saith Cyrus king of Persia, The Lord God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he hath charged me to build him an house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah." Let the reader peruse the rest of the first chapter of Ezra. I think these Scripture quotations should settle the point that Cyrus was the individual that God chose as the instrument in his hands to restore the captive Jews from Babylon, to Jerusalem. Let it be distinctly understood that this commandment was given at the proper time, which was at the termination of the 70 years' captivity. Jer. 29: 11. As corroborative evidence that Cyrus was the agent in the hand of God of this restoration, Josephus says:

"In the first year of the reign of Cyrus, which was the seventieth from the day that our people were removed out of their own land into Babylon, God commiserated the captivity and calamity of these poor people, according as he had foretold to them by Jeremiah the prophet; . . . that he would restore them again to the land of their fathers, and they should build their temple, and enjoy their ancient prosperity, and these things did God afford them; for he stirred up the mind of Cyrus, and made him write this throughout all Asia:" "Cyrus also sent an epistle to the governors that were in Syria, . . . 'I have given leave to as many of the Jews that dwell in my country as please to return to their own country, and to rebuild their city and to build the temple of God at Jerusalem, on the same place where it was before.'"—Anti B. XI ch. I.

I have only given a few extracts from Josephus; but enough to show that he regarded "king Cyrus" as the person divinely appointed to give the commandment to restore the Jews from their captivity in Babylon, at the expiration of the 70 years. Now it being true, that Cyrus issued the commandment for the restoration of the captive Jews from Babylon and for the rebuilding of their city, Jerusalem; it follows as a fixed fact, that the 69 weeks of Dan. 9: 25, commence in the first year of his reign. This point being established beyond all successful contradiction, we proceed to show where the 69 weeks terminated. Gabriel says they extend "unto the Messiah the Prince;" the same as saying, "unto Christ," as in Matt. 1: 17 . . . "from the carrying away into Babylon unto Christ," etc., therefore we see it is unto his birth. The apostle Paul, in Gal. 4: 4, makes this evident; hear him: "But when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law." If "out of the mouth of two or three witnesses every word shall be established," we think this settles the point, that "unto Christ," is unto his birth, therefore 69 weeks, (equivalent to 483 years,) is the period of time that did elapse from the first year of the reign of Cyrus king of Persia to the birth of Christ. I think we have now proved from incontrovertible facts of history and the word of God, that Cyrus was the divinely appointed person to release the Jews from their captivity in Babylon, and restore them to Jerusalem; and from this period the 483 years of Dan. 9: 25 date, and terminate at the birth of Christ. Now as there is the best of evidence, (which we have not space to give,) which proves Christ to have been born in the 5th year before our A. D., it follows that 488 years elapsed from the first of Cyrus down to our A. D. I know this may be regarded by some as being untenable gronnd not having many great names (from a human stand point,) to defend it. But, nevertheless, I regard it as the only tenable position we can take, and one that will produce harmony and consistency in Bible chronology, and restore order, where heretofore there has been confusion, by reason of following what is called the "Canon of Ptolomy," rather than the word of God.

We will now see how the position we have taken, agrees with other points in Bible chronology. In the first chapter of Ezekiel we read, "Now it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I was among the captives by the river of Chebar, that the heavens were opened, and I saw a vision of God. In the fifth day of the month, which was the fifth year of king Jehoiachin's captivity." Here we have a "thirtieth year" brought to notice. It does not state what, or where, this "thirtieth year" dates from; but simply says, "It came to pass in the "thirtieth year." Now is there any clue to determine when, and from what event this point is to be dated? I think it is from the last Jubilee and this is the opinion of eminent Jewish authors, such as R. Joseph Kimchi, Jarchi, and Abendana. This "thirtieth year," let it be remembered, was in the fifth year of king Jehoiachin's captivity;" which was the 13th year of Nebuchadnazzar, and the fifth year of Zedekiah, king of Judah; therefore it could not be legitimately connected with any king's reign. Christian commentators as well as Jewish writers are puzzled in reference to its application, and give various conjectures as to its meaning.

As the cycle of 7 years, and 49 years, were important periods in Jewish history after they entered the land of Canaan, and which the Jews were required to observe by the Law of Moses, it is reasonable to suppose that from jubilee to jubilee they would date their time; at least it would be one method of reckoning time. We can see no reasonable application of this "thirtieth year" only as referring to the last jubilee. We learn from Ezekiel 1: 1, 2, that this "thirtieth year" synchronizes with the 5th year of the Jewish captivity. As we have proved that the "captivity" terminated in the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, and his first year dates 488 years before our A. D., then the commencement of the "captivity" must have been 70 years previous to B. C. 488, which would be in 558 B. C. Then the 5th year of the "captivity" which Ezekiel says was the 'thirtieth" and which we understand to be from the last jubilee, would in 553 B. C. or before our A. D.

Having proved that this "thirtieth year" in the jubilee cycle synchronizes with the year 553 before our A. D., all we have now to do is to prove when the first jubilee was kept, in order to make apparent this application of this "thirtieth year." When the children of Israel came out of the land of Egypt, they came to the wilderness of Sinai in the third month of the first year; the Lord gave the law from Mount Sinai to Moses, which required the observance of the Sabbatical year and the year of Jubilee. In Lev. 25: 9, we read:

"And the Lord spake unto Moses in Mount Sinai, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land which I give unto you, then shall the land keep a Sabbath unto the Lord. Six years thou shalt sow thy field. . . . But in the seventh year shall be a Sabbath for the Lord. . . And thou shalt number seven Sabbaths of years unto thee, seven times seven years, and the space of the seven Sabbaths of years shall be unto thee forty and nine years. Then shalt thou cause the trumpet of the jubilee to sound, on the tenth day of the seventh month."

In Exod. 16: 1, we learn "that the children of Israel came into the wilderness of Sin on the fifteenth day of the second month, after their departure out of the land of Egypt." It is evident from reading the 16th chapter of Exodus, that this 15th day was on Saturday; and according to W. C. Thurman, it is astronomically proven to have heen on Saturday in B. C. 1611, and that there are only two years on which the 15th day of the second month occurred on Saturday, in a period of 441 years, commencing in B. C. 1856,—one in B. C. 1611, the other in B. C. 1415. This period of 441 years runs through the limits of the dispute among chronologists, and as B. C. 1415 is too short, and B. C. 1856 too long, it proves B. C. 1611 to be the year that the Hebrews left the land of Egypt; and as the Israelites were forty years in the wilderness, and Joshua led them over Jordan, the ninth year of his leadership would make 49 years from the giving of the law by Moses in B. C. 1611; thus these 49 years would bring us to B. C. 1563, which would be where the first jubilee would fall. In the law the Jews were required to return, every man to his possessions, on this jubilee year. Thus we find Joshua calling upon them to return to the land of their possessions. Josh. 22: 4.

Having found the year on which the first jubilee fell, we proceed to test the application of the "thirtieth year," given in Ezk. 1: 1, to the jubilee. We have proved this "thirtieth year" to have been in B. C. 553, in the fifth year of the captivity in Babylon. Now we wish to find out how many years there were from where the first jubilee fell, in 1563, B. C., down to the fifth year of "king Jehoiachin's captivity" in B. C. 553. Take 553 from 1563, it leaves 1010 years for the period of time that intervened. Now divide these 1010 years by 49 years—the jubilee cycle—and we have 20 jubilees and 30 years remainder, or the "thirtieth year" in the cycle to another jubilee. Thus proving B. C. 1563 as the proper date for the first jubilee; and the year A. D. 1868 a jubilee year according to this arrangement; when we may expect the type to reach the antitype, in the eternal redemption of the purchased possession, commencing in the gathering of the "hosts of God's elect, from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other," when they will be "caught up in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air," preparatory to the cleansing of the territory, by gathering out of it "all things that offend, and them that do iniquity," and casting them into the furnace of fire, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth—an awful condition to be in, and there is only a step before it will be reached by this ungodly and unbelieving world.

As additional proof that this "thirtieth year" was the thirtieth in the jubilee cycle, we read in Ezekiel 40: 1,—"In the five and twentieth year of our captivity, in the beginning of the year, in the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after that the city was smitten." The point to be specially noticed here is, what year but a jubilee year ever began on the tenth day of the month. Dr. Gill, in his commentary on this verse says, "This, according to the Talmudists, was the year of the jubilee." Says the Duke of Manchester, "Jarchi challenges, What year begins on the tenth of the month but that of the jubilee?" This is from eminent Jewish authority, and the Duke of Manchester adds, "For this the Jewish interpreter has scriptural warrant." So if the twenty-fifth of Jehoiachin's captivity was a jubilee, the fifth was the "thirtieth year" from the jubilee preceding. Thus we see these points mutually confirm each other.

We regard the period of the "captivity," its commencement, and termination, as very important to a correct understanding of chronological dates as given us in the Bible. It is evident, by comparing Jer. 25: 11, 12, with Jer. 29: 1–10, that the "service" to the king of Babylon of 70 years, is distinct from the 70 years' captivity,—the "service" commencing 3 years previous to the captivity, in the 8th year of Jehoiakim king of Judah, and the fifth year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. But the "captivity" dates from the 11th year of Jehoiakim, and the 8th of Nebuchadnezzar; for it was when Jehoiachin, the son of Jehoiakim was on the throne (being placed there by Nebuchadnezzar, to fill up the remainder of the year, for which Jehoiakim had "bought his peace with money" of the king of Babylon, according to Josephus, B. 10, ch. 6, Sec. 1), that Nebuchadnezzar "carried away all Jerusalem, and all the princes, and all the mighty men of valor, even ten thousand captives, and all the craftsmen and smiths; none remained save the poorest sort of the people of the land. 2 Kings 24: 8–16. Thus we see that the period of 70 years that the Jews were to serve the king of Babylon dates from the 8th year of Jehoiakim, in B. C. 561, and ends at the death of Belshazzar, B. C. 491 (Jer. 25: 11, 12; Dan. 5: 30, 31); but the "captivity" dates from the 11th year of Jehoiakim, B. C. 558, and ends in the first of Cyrus, king of Persia, in B. C. 488.

There is much more evidence on these points that might be given, but it must be omitted for want of space. I would refer the reader who wishes to investigate the subject further to W. C. Thurman's work—"The Sealed Book of Daniel Opened," pp. 97–108. In Heb. 10: 1, we read that the law had "a shadow of good things to come," and as the "shadow" must reach to the substance, so the type of the jubilee must reach the antitype; and we think it will be in accordance with the time in the type, which was on the tenth day of the seventh month. Therefore I expect that on the tenth day of the seventh month A. D. 1868, will commence the great antitypical Jubilee. "Amen, even so, come, Lord Jesus."

Newton, Mass. L. T. CUNNINGHAM.
—Advent Herald.

For the World's Crisis.

BE READY.

"Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh."—MATT. 24: 44.

Many people tell us that it will be many years before Jesus Christ will return to earth again personally; thus signifying their willingness to disobey the above passage of holy writ,—the words of Jesus himself. Many and wide are the speculations concerning his second advent, both in regard to the time and manner of his coming. In this chapter, he is giving his disciples a chain of events and signs which should precede his second coming. In the first place he foretold to them the overthrow of the temple: "Not one stone should be left upon another." After they had departed from the city to the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to him privately, to inquire concerning these things, and to know the sign of his coming, and of the end of the world. He gives them the signs and events both in regard to the destruction of Jerusalem, and end of the world. But says no man knoweth the day nor the hour; thus giving them an admonition to be on the watch. And again he says, "Watch therefore, for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come. But know this, that if the good man of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his hour to be broken up. Therefore, be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh." Now if that good time is coming, that we hear so much about, why watch? Why strive to be ready? Why look out for the signs and events now? Why be ready for the coming of the Son of man? Let Jesus answer: The wheat and tares shall grow together till the harvest; and the harvest is the end of the world. Then we need not look for that good time till after the Master returns. Thus we have the reasons for being ready.

When we look into the history of the past, we see that most of the signs and events spoken of in this (24th) chapter, are in the past; consequently, we are in the time when we should be ready, watching and waiting for the Master's return. But being ready does not imply that we can put it off to some future day. But one thing is made sure: when ye see these things come to pass, then know "that it is near even at the door"; not a thousand years hence, but right at the door; God has got a people down here in these last days that are striving to be ready. They love Jesus, and love the idea that he is soon to redeem them from the power of the enemy. Yes, coming to take his ransomed ones home. O, then let us be ready to hail him with joy. Let us heed the admonitions given us to watch and be ready to go in to the marriage supper of the Lamb.

But what of those who are not ready? As a snare will he come upon them. He will come in an hour when they think not. Let us have on the wedding garment, and be found among them that shall be giving meat in due season. N. B. MCMURPHY.

Gilmanton, N. H.

For the World's Crisis.

FACTS, DUTIES, AND REWARDS.

Doubtless many of our brethren and sisters and families of the household of faith (if facts were made known) would be found in circumstances of trial, suffering and want, who are too reserved, or timid, or retiring, to let their wants be known; and had we some faithful Jobs to search out all cases, facts would be developed that would cause benevolent souls not only to sympathize, but promptly to act in this matter. Paul says, "Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular." "And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it"; and "that the members should have the same care one for another." Now, if our brethren who have the means should respond to these sentiments, and through our papers, or some other way, request or invite these members "of the household of faith," who are in low circumstances, or enduring privations, to let their wants be made known, and then act as the gospel requires in these matters, then they would be entitled to the rewards which are promised, which are of no trifling consideration. Says the apostle, "And let us not be weary in well doing; for in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

The reward comes in connection with "well doing." What is well doing? "As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." Christ will say to such, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Now shall any of us lose, or forfeit this reward in the day of Jesus which is just at hand? The truly wise will not. Those who have a living, active, practical faith, whose faith and works are of this character, will receive the reward, even eternal life in the kingdom.

Marion, N. Y. S. L. MANLEY.

For the World's Crisis.

"BEWARE OF OFFENCES."

"Whoso shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged around his neck, and that he were drowned in the depths of the sea."

These are the Savior's words, and they are not without meaning. The good shepherd has a tender care over the lambs of the flock; hence the injunction to Peter, "Feed my lambs." The convert has many trials to endure which those more advanced in the divine life do not have to encounter; and they need advice and encouragement from older christians; and they naturally expect sympathy from God's children.

Satan is never willing to lose any from his ranks, and he will try in every way to destroy those who are trying to serve God, if he can; he will tempt and try them in every conceivable manner, and if in an unguarded moment they are led into temptation, and step aside from the narrow way, how is it with some professing christians? do they speak kindly to the erring one, and with words of love and kind entreaty seek to bring him back to the fold of Christ? Or rather do we hear some say, "I knew they would backslide. I did not expect they would hold out." And by sour looks and harsh treatment they get discouraged, and are soon back in the world; and they will rise up in judgment against some one, who might have been instrumental in winning them back to Christ, if that one had possessed the spirit of Jesus whom they profess to love.

Is not this the truth? Are there not scores to-day in the broad road that leads to death, who might have been ornaments in the church of God, if when in the hour of temptation and trial some one had spoken kindly instead of reproaching and discouraging them? God help us to be very careful how we treat his little ones, and not expect a young convert can understand the way as well as those who have been serving God for years.

We shall soon have to give an account to God for all we have done, whether it be good or evil. Then let us not judge one another, nor put a stumbling-block in our brother's way; but "be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

And to the little ones, who are halting by the way, I would say, Do not be discouraged; live near to Jesus; he has said in his word and for your encouragement, if you are faithful to him, he will give you eternal life, "and my Father which gave them unto me is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand."

O! it is blessed to feel that we have a Savior who is "touched with the feeling of our infirmities"; one who "was tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin." We need not fear what man may say about us, if we have the blest assurance that we are of God's little ones. Then do not be discouraged. Pray much. Keep the good Spirit, and when reviled, revile not again; and when friends forsake you, God will be your friend; Jesus and angels will be your friends; and you will have friends that will be friends in deed and in truth, if you leave all for Jesus' sake, and in the world to come eternal life. Hide in Christ, and when persecution comes you will be safe, and you can

"Smile at Satan's rage,
And face a frowning world."

Goffstown, N. H. JENNIE E. WHIPPLE.

For the World's Crisis.

FORGIVING INJURIES.

The disposition of the natural heart is to render evil for evil. The character of Satan is to render evil for good, but to render good for evil is God-like. The great principle of Christianity is love that knoweth no revenge, that "worketh no ill to his neighbor." Says Christ, "If ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you; but if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your heavenly Father forgive your trespasses."—Matt. 6: 14, 15. This is plain language, and easy to understand.

To secure the blessing of God, is to receive from him the forgiveness of our sins; but this we need never expect so long as we retain in our hearts a spirit of malice or revenge towards others. To cherish in our hearts an unforgiving spirit towards others, gives strong proof that we have never relented towards God. Christ has taught us to pray the Father to "forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us"; therefore to pray after this manner, and at the same time not to freely and fully forgive others, is in fact to pray that God would not forgive us.

This is a solemn truth which we need to consider, lest with feelings of resentment in our hearts toward others, our prayers bring upon us greater condemnation. How important to forgive if we would be forgiven. "If ye forgive men their trespasses," the wrongs and injuries they have done you, and hold no malice or revenge toward them, "your heavenly Father will forgive your trespasses." Even among Christ's disciples occasions of difference will arise, hence we need to be placable, ready to "forgive one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven us."

We, as professed christians, are under the most serious obligation to forgive injuries; it is the command of the Lord (Mark 11: 25–26) not only to forgive for once, or "seven times," but, if need be, "until seventy times seven." Matt. 18: 22. Another reason of our obligation to forgive injuries is the example of God's forgiving mercy (which we should always imitate), as shown in the parable of the unmerciful servant. "I forgave thee all that debt, because thou desiredst me; shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellow servant, even as I had pity on thee?" Matt. 18: 32, 33.

Again, our obligation arises from the consideration of our own liability to be at fault, and to need forgiveness ourselves, as the apostle says, "If a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted."—Gal. 6: 1. Being thus obligated, may we in earnest prayer seek God's Spirit to help, that we may be enabled when persecuted to bless, when injured to forgive.

O brother! sister! remember the time you were first made happy through God's forgiving love and mercy; when your sins were all freely forgiven you; then, under the influence of God's Holy Spirit, you felt no hardness; no malice or revenge towards any; how freely, how gladly, you then could forgive even your worst enemies. Can you now? do you now? should we not continue in love, become more and more like Christ? more humble, more ready to forgive, to bear and forbear? Resenting an injury never removes it, but to forgive will cure it.

There is a power in forgiving love; it is a mighty weapon of defence against all malice, and every injury that may be inflicted upon us. Says the apostle James, "Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned; behold the Judge standeth before the door." Does the thought of near redemption gladden our hearts? then let us heed the admonition, "Grudge not." Time is short; we have but a moment to prepare for the kingdom.

May the Spirit of Christ dwell richly in our hearts, yea, the spirit of forgiving love; and as the apostle says, "Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice; and be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."—Eph. 4: 31, 32.

"When we think how much our Father
Has forgiven and does forgive,
Brethren, we should learn the rather
Free from wrath and strife to live;
Far removing
All that might offend or grieve."

So. Norwalk, Ct. F. S. AINSWORTH.

☞ Man, without a knowledge of the Holy Scriptures, is a soldier without weapons, a horse without a bridle, a ship without a rudder, a writer without a pen, and a bird without wings.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Feb. 5, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.00 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, i.e. the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which gives the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount at the office, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get the money.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ CASH RECEIPTS.

Our subscribers in Massachusetts and Maine will find their credit of money received for the Crisis on the strip pasted on their paper, which shows the date to which their subscription pays, instead of the No., as formerly acknowledged. Others will be sent likewise as fast as we get each State so arranged. So you can look at the date on your paper, and see if it is changed after sending us money.

MEETINGS IN BOSTON.

Our meetings at the corner of Causeway and Lowell streets, in Boston, are excellent. Bro. S. W. Thurber has been here for some two weeks, and quite a number are seeking the Lord, while the saints are rejoicing in hope of soon seeing our coming King. Bro. T. is an earnest laborer in the vineyard of the Lord.

MEETINGS IN QUEBEC.

In our last report we came to Tuesday evening, Jan. 21st, with a strong prospect that we should have a stormy time from the Catholic power. During the day (21st,) we learned they were determined to break up our meetings. Is was currently reported that one hundred men were coming, all organized, armed, and prepared for the worst. This was communicated to the Mayor of Quebec, who happens this year to be a Protestant; and he instructed the Chief of police to send his best men to protect our meetings, being determined that we should have the right of free speech while we remained in the city. We had a prayer-meeting appointed at 7 o'clock, and preaching at 7½. We arrived at the hall about 6.45, and found a strong body of noble police stationed at the door to keep out any "roughs" who might come to disturb the meeting. When we got inside, we found another body of police. Soon our hall was full, and the audience was the most intelligent of any tha' we had ever met in Quebec. They came to hear us speak on the meaning of the word soul. The meeting was a most happy success, without one particle of disturbance. It was as solemn as a funeral. The Lord gave us a great victory. We felt like giving much credit to the Mayor and Chief of police for their timely aid in favor of free speech. We trust the door now opened will not be shut again. The prospect for good looks more encouraging than at any time in the past. It has required a hard and persevering struggle to get a stand-point where we could be free to preach the whole word of the Lord, but we feel it is gained at last; and that the powers of darkness must now give back before the advancing light and truth of the Lord.

From that time our meetings continued to increase in interest until their close, which was on Friday evening, Jan. 24th. In our audiences might be seen ministers, lawyers, members of the city government, and other intelligent men and women, who listened with deep attention, and were astonished at the simplicity of the truth as presented. We heard of several who were defending our positions as both scriptural and reasonable; while they expressed much surprise that they had never seen the truth before. They now can see that the popular doctrine of the immortality of the soul is only a fable; and without any foundation in the word of the Lord.

Learning the result of our meetings, of course, the popular clergy, who had called us all sorts of names but good ones, felt very much stirred up to make an effort to put us down if possible. The day before we left, we clipped the following from the Quebec Gazette:—

"ELDER GRANT'S GOSPEL ANOTHER GOSPEL.

Discourses, illustrative and in proof of the above, will be delivered by the Rev. O. H. DAVIS, in the WESLEYAN CHURCH of this city, as follows:—

On Sabbath Evening, Jan. 26th. Subject:—"The Souls of the Martyred Dead; Where are they?"

On Sabbath evening, Feb. 2nd. Subject:—"The ultimate doom and destiny of the finally impenitent and wicked: Will they be annihilated?"

On Sabbath evening, Feb. 9th. Subject:—"The Second Coming of the Son of Man: Will it be to reign personally on the earth antecedent to the Millenium? or, to the Execution of Final and Eternal Judgment?"

On Sabbath evening, Feb. 16th. Subject:—"The Signs of the Times; or, what are we to expect?"

Service each evening to commence at half-past 6 o'clock.

P. S.—The public are respectfully informed that a series of Special Religious Services will be held every night of the week in the basement of the church, during the delivery of the above Discourses.

Quebec, Jan. 25, 1868."

The following also appeared in the Quebec Daily Chronicle:—

(To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle.)

SIR,—As one of the congregation attending the Chapel of the Holy Trinity, I feel constrained to express my approbation of the sermon delivered in that Chapel on Sunday evening. The preacher was the Rev. S. H. Phillips, the assistant minister, and a more masterly production on a confessedly difficult subject "What is Man," I have never heard. It is a subject of regret to me, and I believe to many others in this city, that circumstances prevented his meeting to discuss the matter with Mr. Grant—I fear however that there is no prospect of a public discussion. I am informed that the Rev. Gentleman will, D. V., continue this interesting subject on Sunday evening next, and I strenuously advise all who hold the opinions of Mr. Grant to attend.

I am, Sir, yours, JUSTICE.

Quebec, Jan. 20th, 1868.

(To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle.)

SIR,—Is it not deplorable that while a gentleman lecturing in the Temperance Hall, on the most solemn subjects, that he should be subject to the grossest insults, and the whole meeting disturbed, by a gang of rowdies of the lowest grade, who come there for the purpose of creating disturbance and uproar, as has occurred on two occasions; first on Friday evening last, and on Monday evening. Sir, it is really too bad that Mr. Grant, the gentleman referred to above, and those who come to hear him, cannot be permitted to conduct their meetings in peace. It is true the police have been appealed to, but their presence seem not to have the desired effect of keeping quietness.

These meetings are free and open to the public, and the public have a right to be protected from any annoyance, by the guardians of the peace.

Yours, truly, AN EYE-WITNESS.

Quebec, Jan. 21st, 1868.

(To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle.)

SIR,—On behalf of Elder Grant, and the Christians in Quebec, called Adventists, I beg leave to thank the city authorities for the pains they have taken to preserve the right of free speech in this community. Whatever may be thought of our doctrinal views (and we are willing to have them tested by the Word of God) or however much in error people may consider us, let them respect a right which belongs to all living under British constitutional law. Elder Grant's meetings have been attended by some of our most respectable and intelligent citizens, and many have expressed their astonishment that the odious name of "Infidel" should have been cast at so able a champion of God's truth. And it is the custom of Elder Grant to invite any one to put questions touching the subject, at the close of each lecture, surely here is a good opportunity to apply a searching test to the doctrines propounded by Elder Grant. Why is it that none of those able men (to whom has been committed the defense of the truth) do not avail themselves of such an opportunity? Let them answer.

With reference to the advice of one signing himself "Justice," I pledge the whole of Mr. Grant's (so-styled "followers,") though they claim to follow Christ only, to attend lectures on these controverted subjects, to be delivered by the Rev. S. H. Phillips, or any other Minister of God's Word, who will give us the same privilege of asking questions, touching the subject, at the close of each lecture.

Let truth and error grapple, and have no fears for the consequences, like one who is INTERESTED.

Quebec, Jan. 24th, 1868.

The prospect is now more encouraging in Quebec than at any former period. Quite a number are waiting for an opportunity to be buried with Christ in baptism, which could not well be attended to at this season of the year, as the St. Lawrence is hemmed in by ice banks from twelve to fifteen feet high. Those who have embraced the blessed hope in Quebec are in earnest, and resolved to let their l'ght shine, whether it cause good or evil report.

We left Saturday morning (Jan. 25th,) and had a good meeting at Danville that evening and the next day. Several requested prayers. We had a heart-cheering visit at Bro. Porter's pilgrim home. Our meetings there closed with an interesting communion season; when between sixty and seventy gathered around the table of the Lord. When Jesus comes, we shall expect to see a good representation from Dansville.

We arrived home in safety Tuesday evening. Thank the Lord.

SHORT WORK.

It is well known to our readers that we went to Quebec, in January, to attend a discussion with Mr. S. H. Phillips, an Episcopalian minister, who has expressed himself better prepared to meet us than any other man, in consequence of his superior scholarship; but after our arrival he refused to engage in the discussion; but issued a four-paged tract, with the following heading: "SHORT WORK WITH ELDER MILES GRANT, THE ANNIHILATIONIST."

We had the pleasure of reviewing this remarkable tract the evening of the day it was issued (Jan. 23d), before a large audience of intelligent people. The following is the tract, with our notes of review interspersed:

"Mr. Miles Grant, in his Tract, 'The Spirit in Man,' (Old Testament), writes as follows: 'There are four words in the Bible which are rendered spirit in our translation, to wit: 'ruach' and 'n'shamah' in the Old Testament, and 'pneuma' and phantasma' in the New. 'N'shamah,' in the Old Testament, is rendered spirit twice; and 'phantasma,' in the New Testament, is also rendered spirit twice. All other examples in the Old Testament are from 'RUACH,' and in the New Testament from 'pneuma.'"

'And on page 20, after a useless dissertation on the Hebrew word 'ruach,' he writes: 'We now pass to the examination of 'pneuma,' the corresponding word in the New Testament.'

Without noticing the strange jumble of 'ruach, 'n'shamah,' 'pneuma,' and 'phantasma,' which at once betrays his utter ignorance of their positive uses and signification, I direct the attention of all, and more particularly of the Hebrew and Greek scholar, to the analysis of the two words:—

Hebrew—Ruach, spirit. Greek—Pneuma, spirit.

Mr. Grant calls them corresponding or synonymous words. If so, and if, for example illustrative, 'ruach' meant animal, 'pneuma' would signify animal; instead of which, if I translated 'pneuma' dog, because dog is an animal, and hence assumed that all animals are dogs, I should commit a great blunder, betray great ignorance, and merit the application of the tawse.*

This is precisely the mistake which Mr. Grant commits, 'abinitio.'† Hence, all his arguments about 'ruach,' 'nephesh chaiyah,' 'n'shamah,' 'pneuma,' etc., go for nothing, presenting a heap of confused rubbish.

'Ruach' is a generic term, and comprises all spirit; but 'pneuma' is a specific word, confined to divine influence. Hence, every 'pneuma' is a 'ruach;' but every 'ruach' is not a 'pneuma;' just as every 'dog' is an 'animal;' but every 'animal' is not a 'dog.' The Annihilationist would prove too much—every animal, even man himself, a dog. Very complimentary, indeed, to Mr. Grant's followers!"

* A leather strap cut into strings as an instrument to whip children, and used in Canada.

† From the beginning.

We will pause here a moment to consider the foregoing. The learned author of the tract says "ruach is a generic term, and comprises all spirit." We will turn to a few examples of the use of ruach. It is rendered breath twenty-eight times. The following are examples:—"And, behold, I, even I, do bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh wherein is the breath (ruach) of life, from under heaven; and every thing that is in the earth shall die."—Gen. 6: 17. If "ruach . . . comprises all spirit," it follows that "all flesh," including every animal that was destroyed by the flood had this spirit (ruach); hence if it represents something in man that lives independent of the physical organism, the same is true of the beasts. We read again, "And they went in unto Noah into the ark two and two of all flesh, wherein is the breath (ruach) of life. Gen. 7: 15. If that spirit was the real animal, and lives on by itself, as an entity, why cause the animals to go into the ark to keep them alive? The wise man says, "That which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them; as the one dieth so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath (ruach.) Eccl. 3: 19. These scriptures show that ruach is a term expressing what is common to all men and animals; hence, if it is an immortal spirit in the one, it must be in the other; but if it is such a spirit as claimed by the author of the tract, why does not the Bible say so in some passage?

Let us look at other examples of the use of ruach. "The Lord brought an east wind (ruach) upon the land all that day, and all that night, and when it was morning, the east wind (ruach) brought the locusts."—Ex. 10: 13. Was it an east spirit that brought the locusts? "And the Lord turned a mighty strong west wind (ruach,) which took away the locusts." Ex. 10: 19. "The heaven was black with clouds and wind (ruach,) and there was a great rain."—1 Kings 18: 45. Was it a west spirit that took away the locusts, and were "the heavens black with clouds and spirit? "He that observeth the wind (ruach) shall not sow?

We find the word ruach is rendered wind ninety-five times. This is the word employed to represent "the breath of life" in the nostrils of man and beast; and never represents an intelligent being tha' goes out of man at death. It is also used to denote a state of mind, or feeling: as "a haughty spirit," proud in spirit." It likewise represents a being. God is a spirit." Angels are "ministering spirits." Demons, the fallen angels, are called "unclean spirits." Whenever the word is used to represent a being, it indicates a personality. The same word is used to denote the Holy Spirit, "which proceedeth from the Father." John 15: 36. Whenever the word ruach is applied to man or beasts, representing something naturally in them, it never signifies an intelligent being that will continue to live when the men or beasts are dead; but means "the breath of life" in their nostrils; and without this breath of life no man or animal can live. Job says, "The spirit (ruach) of God is in my nostrils." Job. 27: 3. Says David, "Thou hidest thy face, they are troubled; thou takest away their breath (ruach,) they die and return to their dust." Ps. 104: 29. Again he says of man, "His breath (ruach) goeth forth, he returneth to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish."—Ps. 146: 4. Thus the whole Bible harmonizes with the view that ruach, when it is used to represent a spirit in man, means simply "the breath of life" "in his nostrils;" and we find no proof in the Scriptures that any other spirit leaves man at death.

We come next to the assertion of the learned author of the tract, that "pneuma is a specific word, confined to Divine influence." Let us put this declaration by the side of some passages of Scripture. "Blessed are the poor in spirit (pneuma.) Matt. 5: 3. Did the Savior mean, "Blessed are the poor" in "Divine influence"? which would mean having but little of the Lord's Spirit? All can see at once, that the word pneuma in this passage has no reference whatever to "Divine influence," but refers to the man's state of mind as opposed to a proud and haughty spirit. "They brought unto him many that were possessed with devils; and he cast out the spirits (pneumata) with his word."—Matt. 8: 16. Does this passage mean that Jesus cast out the "Divine influence" in those persons? When he had called unto him his disciples, he gave them power against unclean spirits (pneumaton), to cast them out." Matt. 10: 1. Did Jesus give his disciples "power against unclean" "Divine influence"? Thus we see, that the learned author's assertion, that "pneuma is a specific word, confined to Divine influence," is an unscriptural doctrine, "presenting a heap of confused rubbish." We now return him our compliments on this point, and proceed to examine others.

We find him saying next:—

"Man's nature comprises body, soul, and spirit.—(Gen. 2: 7; 1 Thess. 5: 23.) With regard to body, there is no doubt. Few distinguish accurately between 'spirit' and 'soul.'—(Heb. 4: 12.) In the New Testament, Greek words always correspond to Hebrew ones in the Old, though frequently confounded in the Septuagint.

The proper terms for 'spirit' and 'soul' are:

	GENERIC. Hebrew.	SPECIFIC. Greek.
Ruach	OLD. TEST.	NEW TEST.
	N'Shamah.	Pneuma, the spirit, rational or immortal soul.
	Nephesh.	Psuke, the soul, animal life."

When he says, "Man's nature comprises body, soul and spirit,—Gen. 2: 7; 1 Thess. 5: 23," it should be observed that the nature of a man is not a man, any more than the nature of a horse is something distinct from the horse that lives as a horse after his death. In the account of the creation of man, recorded in Gen. 2: 7, we read, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." There is not a word in this account of man's creation about "spirit," except what is contained in the words "breathed into his nostrils the breath of life." But this "breath of life" is common to all living creatures on our planet; as saith the wise man, when speaking of man and beast: "That which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them; as the one dieth, so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath."—Eccl. 3: 19.

The passage in 1 Thess. 5: 23 reads as follows: "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly. And I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." Some render it, "May all your bodily parts be preserved blameless." Others render it, "May every part of you be preserved blameless." Others, "May your whole spirit and life be preserved blameless." It is not a whole spirit, and a whole soul, and a whole body, that are to be preserved blameless, distinct from each other, as so many beings; but the whole man should be thus preserved in his spirit; that is, in all his feelings, desires, appetites, imaginations, or in all his bodily parts; so that his whole soul, or life, shall be consecrated entirely to the Lord.

The passage in Heb. 4: 12, with its context, reads as follows: "Let us labor therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall after the same example of unbelief. For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." Wakefield renders the word "soul," "life." Thompson renders it "animal life." The Emphatic Diaglott renders it, "even to a separation of life and breath." We see nothing in either of these passages to prove that man has an immortal soul or spirit, or that he will be alive when he is dead.

Mr. Phillips very correctly remarks, "In the New Testament, Greek words always correspond to Hebrew ones in the Old." Yet he took occasion to say of ruach and pneuma, when analyzing these words, that ruach, in the Hebrew, and pneuma in the Greek, represented spirit; and then immediately said, "Mr. Grant calls them corresponding or synonymous words," and then endeavors to show that this is as great a "blunder" as to assume "that all animals are dogs," because a "dog is an animal." All who have examined the subject carefully must admit that pneuma in the Greek is the corresponding word for ruach in the Hebrew. Both are used to represent the air we breathe, a state of mind, the Holy Spirit, and the angels.

When he assumes that ruach represents the same as nephesh, we think the proof will be wanting; for, although ruach occurs in the Hebrew scriptures four hundred times, it is not once rendered soul. Again, the word nephesh is found in the Hebrew Bible seven hundred and fifty-two times, and is not rendered spirit once; hence they are not used interchangeably. He speaks correctly when he says psukee signifies "the soul, animal life." But when he says that pneuma represents the "rational or immortal soul," we are disposed to call for the proof. Let us examine a few passages, and see if they will bear such a construction. "Blessed are the poor in the "rational, immortal soul." Matt. 5: 3. "They brought unto him many that were possessed with devils; and he cast out the "rational or immortal soul" "with his word."—Matt. 8: 16. "Let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and" from the "rational or immortal soul." 2 Cor. 7: 1. "And, behold, there was a woman which had a "rational or immortal soul" "of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself."—Luke 13: 11. "The wind (pneuma)—the "rational or immortal soul"—bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh and whither it goeth."—John 3: 8. Do these passages prove that pneuma signifies a "rational or immortal soul"? The fact is, there are no words in the Bible applied to man that signify any such thing; and he who expects to find them will search in vain. Let us look at a few other passages. "As it is written, God hath given them the" "rational or immortal soul" "of slumber."—Rom. 11: 8. "Ye have not received the" "rational or immortal soul" "of bondage again to fear."—Rom. 8: 15. "Restore such an one in the" "rational or immortal soul" "of meekness."—Gal. 6: 1. These examples must suffice to show that pneuma is not "confined to Divine influence," and does not signify a "rational or immortal soul."

We advance to the next paragraph:

"'N'Shamah' is never applied to animals, not even Gen. 7: 22, quoted by Mr. Grant, who wilfully omits or overlooks the concurrent word 'ruach,' of which 'n'shamah' fixes the meaning and application. The expression is 'N'Shamah-Ruach'—'The Spirit Soul.' The Seventy, in translating Isaiah 32: 5, render 'n'shamah' the rational soul by 'pnoe,' a blast of wind, and 'ruach,' the generic word for spirit, by 'pneuma,' the specific word, limited to divine natures and influences—the latter, the very mistake committed by Mr. Grant. The proper signification of 'ruach' and 'n'shamah' is beautifully illustrated in Isa. 57: 16. 'The spirit ('ruach,' the animated frame common to every animal) should fail before me, and the souls ('n'shamah,' the rational souls limited to man) which I have made.' In Job, we have another illustration of the word—'N'Shamah Shaddai,' the breath of the Almighty, certainly not imparted or applied to animals."

'N'shah-mah occurs twenty four times in the Hebrew scriptures, and is usually rendered breath, breathe, breathed, or breathing. It is first used in Gen. 2: 7. "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath (n'shah-mah) of life, and man became a living soul." The learned author of the tract says, "n'shah-mah is never applied to animals." The second passage where the word occurs is in Gen. 7: 22, which with its context reads as follows: "And all flesh died that moved upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beast, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man; all in whose nostrils was the breath (n'shah-mah) of life, of all that was in the dry land, died." We need not stop to tell the reader that n'shah-mah applies here to all that were destroyed by the flood.

It is true that in the original Hebrew the words n'shah-mah and ruach are coupled together, and would read "the breath of the spirit of life." The ruach, or air, is the spirit of life; and when it is employed in breathing it is properly called "the breath," or breathing of the ruach—spirit of life, or "breath of life." The term "Spirit Soul" cannot be made out from n'shah-mah ruach. Ruach is not once rendered soul in all of its four hundred passages. We think it a little singular that "the seventy" should render n'shah-mah by pnoe, a blast of wind," if they had understood it to mean "the rational soul," as claimed by the learned author of the tracts.

In the next paragraph we find the following:

"As to English, Mr. Grant is also ignorant of the rule, 'Terminus ad quem,'* which limits the signification of such words as 'ever,' 'everlasting,' 'eternal, unquenchable,' etc. For example, the expression, 'O King, live forever,' referring to time, is limited to time; but 'Thy throne, O God, is established for ever,' applying to eternity, is limitless. Unquenchable fire on earth may burn out of itself; unquenchable fire in hell is in eternity, and never goes out. Life eternal in eternity never ends; eternal or everlasting punishment (see Matt. 25) being also in eternity, never ends.

Eternal punishment, then, in eternity, is eternal pain, or it ceases to be punishment; for there can be no punishment where there is neither feeling nor suffering.

If a man is condemned to be hanged or beheaded, the punishment ends when life ceases to exist. If he die between sentence and execution, he escapes punishment; for, what use would it be to hang a dead man, unconscious of suffering? It is absurd to say that punishment is not ended when the infliction of it ceases."

We have yet to learn that a "rule" in Latin can be expressed without a verb. Will the author of the tract, entitled "Short work with Eld. Miles Grant," please inform our ignorance relative to "the rule, 'Terminus ad quem,' which limits the signification of such words as 'ever,' 'everlasting,' 'eternal,' 'unquenchable,' etc?"

As the author of the tract admits that an "unquenchable fire on earth may burn out of itself;" and as the Bible teaches that the wicked are to be punished "upon the earth," he concedes all that we claim for the destruction of the wicked; for "the saints of the Most High shall take . . . the kingdom under the whole heaven;" or, as expressed by Jesus, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit earth." When the saints take the earth, then the wicked will have been burnt up root and branch by the "unquenchable fire," which will burn out of itself" when the objects to be burnt are all consumed.

There is no doubt but that the punishment of the wicked is eternal, but what is it according to the Scriptures? If it were "pain," then the sinner must live eternally in order to feel it; but if it is DEATH, as declared in the Bible, then the sinner must die "the second death," and remain dead eternally. If the punishment is death, as the word of the Lord repeatedly affirms, then it begins at the point where it may be truly said of the sinner he is dead; and the punishment would continue till he came to life again; and if he never lives again, then his punishment would be eternal. Not eternal pain, but eternal death, which is the greatest of all punishments. As the righteous receive an infinite gain when they obtain eternal life; so the wicked sustain an infinite loss when they lose it.

The following are the concluding remarks in the learned tract:

"Mr. Grant is not acquainted with the first principles of argument, or logical deduction. He starts wrong, and consequently arrives at a point very far from truth.

He is also singularly unfortunate in his use of the words 'perish.' 'die,' etc. To perish or die, is simply the separation of constituent parts. There are very few simple bodies. Man, in the highest sense, is not man, if either spirit or soul or body is taken away. If the higher parts, spirit and soul, be removed, there remains not a dead man, but the dead, or, rather, lifeless body of what had been a man. Pure spirit furnishes a good illustration:—It is formed of carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen. Remove the hydrogen and oxygen, no longer does spirit remain: but the result is carbon. Remove spirit and soul from man, an inert mass of earthy matter remains, and not a man, whilst spirit and soul still exist and return to God, who gave them.

Soul and spirit are man's likeness to God. The spirit is to the soul, what the soul is to the body. In soul and spirit consits man's likeness to God, giving intelligence to man, whereas, the brute is possessed of instinct only. The breath of the Almighty, the 'N'Shamah Shaddai' only giveth understanding. Animals are 'Nephesh Chaiyah' from regular natural causes. Man became 'Nephesh Chaiyah' by the inspiration of the Almighty.

The Apostle writes, 'Now to the King eternal, invisible, immortal.' Man was made like God in spirit, for God is a spirit; therefore, man's spirit is eternal, immortal, invisible to human eye. Mr. Grant being convicted of ignorance of Hebrew and Greek terms, and the meaning of English words, the argument for 'Man all Mortal,' etc. built on ignorant assumption, fails; and his whole theory, baseless as to foundation, totters, falls, and crumbles into ruins.

He may be popular among the uneducated. The scholar at once sees that an ignorant man may be very successful while disputing with ignorant people. Like Goldsmith's village schoolmaster—

'In arguing, all admire his wond'rous skill;
For, even though vanquished, he will argue still.'"

Our author assumes that "soul and spirit are man's likeness to God. . . . Man was made like God in spirit, for God is a spirit; therefore, man's spirit is eternal, immortal, invisible to human eye." All that is lacking in relation to the foregoing is the proof. If it were true that man's spirit is eternal," and in this consists his "likeness to God;" it would follow that, as he had no recollection of what took place before his birth, he will know nothing after the death of his physical organism, till he is raised again from the dead; consequently his existence as a "spirit" was without intelligence. According to the Scriptures, man had no existence till he was formed upon the earth. We much prefer the Bible account of man's origin, to that of Plato, who taught that the soul of man is eternal, immortal, invisible to human eye. If the learned author of the tract assumes that as man was made in the "likeness" of God, he must be immortal, because immortality is an attribute of his Creator; then why not also assume that man is omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent, because the one who made him possesses these attributes? It will be seen by all that his argument to prove man immortal "fails, and his whole theory, baseless as to foundation, totters, falls, and crumbles into ruins.

We hope our learned friend will take time to re-examine the Bible on the nature of man, which is truly, as said by the Bishop of Quebec, "a very grave subject." It is possible that he may find his views more at variance with the teaching of the Scriptures on the immortality of the soul, than his quotation from Goldsmith differs from the following original lines:—

"In arguing too, the Parson owned his skill;
"For, e'en though vanquished, he could argue still."

* "The time to which."

CONDITION OF CANADA.

A writer in the St. Hyacinth Journal, when describing the condition of Lower Canada, very truly says:—

"French Canada sleeps a deep sleep; taxes increase; industry withers; commerce declines; misery squats on her hearth; her children, driven away by hunger, leave her by thousands. The people open their eyes, and ask why? The priest replies, "All right, (C'est bien), and the people go to sleep again."

There is a very great contrast between Lower Canada and the States. The priests bear rule, whether the people love to have it so or not. Enterprise is crushed out, the people are kept in ignorance, and heavily taxed to support mammoth Papal institutions, under the control of "Greedy dogs which can never have enough, and they are shepherds that cannot understand; they all look to their own way, every one for his gain from his own quarter. Come ye, say they, I will fetch wine, and we will fill ourselves with strong drink, and to-morrow shall be as this day, and much more abundant."—Isa. 56: 11–12. We think this prophecy contains a graphic description of the professed "watchmen" who say "All right." Had the prophet been describing the very men who control ecclesiastical matters in Montreal, Quebec, and other places in Lower Canada, he could not have made a more life-like picture than the one just noticed. It surpises us that the people will submit to it so patiently.

PROPHETIC CHART.

This Chart is now ready for sale. It is a large, illustrative Chart of the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation, with the arrangement of chronology in harmony with W. C. Thurman, giving the chronology of the world, showing the 6000 years will terminate in 1875. Also giving the Jubilee arrangement, briefly showing that the great Jubilee will fall in A. D. 1868. It brings out conspicuously the great Image of Daniel 2nd chapter; also the Beasts of Daniel 7th and 8th, with the leopard beast and scarlet-colored beast of Rev. 13th and 17th chapters, with a description of the great red dragon of Rev. 12th chapter, all in large size, making it a grand thing in aiding preachers, or any one, in understanding prophecy. The size will be about six feet square, mounted, for the use of churches, or for traveling preachers.

Send in your orders immediately. Price, $10.00. For sale at this office.

A VALUABLE WORK.

We have just received and examined a valuable work, issued by Dr. E. P. Miller, 15 Laight Street, New York City, which should be read by every body. It is entitled "ABUSES OF THE SEXUAL FUNCTIONS." We most heartily recommend it to our readers as a work containing important information for all classes. Every young man and woman, and every married man and woman, should read it.

For sale at the Crisis office. Price, paper 75 cts.; muslin $1.00; tinted $1 25; which we will send, postage free, on receipt of the price.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office.

NEW TRACT.

"THAT MAN OF SIN." By Eld. O. R. Fassett.

The above is the title of a new tract just published by the W. A. C. P. Association, to which is added "The Only Hope," and "The True and Only Hope of the Church." An interesting and valuable tract. Price 5 cents single, postage 2 cents; 50 cents per dozen, postage 6 cents.

For the World's Crisis.

RESPONSES TO THE CALL.

Bro. S. P. Clark, of Richmond, R. I., has contributed $9.50, and A. D. L., of Hartford, $2.00, in response to our call for $60.00, making $33.50 now subscribed. If you will furnish the means, we can now obtain good sheeting at eleven cents per yard, and prints for eight cents. "He that soweth bountifully, shall reap bountifully."

M. R. & L. E. PIERPETPLACE.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, on Wilbraham Camp-ground, Friday, August 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments	$285.64
S. B. Colton	1.25
Rufus Pike	5.00
Miles Grant (received for tracts)	6.03
John F. Linville	20.00

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	91.00
Rufus Pike	5.00
Mrs. M. Percival	1.25
John F. Linvill	10.00

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$3716.32
John F. Linvill	60.00
G. E. Hooper	1.00
B. R. Fellows	65.00

EUROPEAN MISSION

Previous acknowledgments	$126.37
D. Miner (for the personal benefit of M. C. C., to enable him to take his papers from Post Office)	5.00
P. W. Higgins	5.00
Rufus Pike	15.00
W. A. H. (Pilgrim)	4.20
John F. Linvill	10.00
J. M. Stetler	10.00
A Friend	1.00
C. B. Keech	.15

For the World's Crisis.

HEALING OF THE SICK.

"Is any sick among you? Let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord; and the prayer of faith shall save the sick; and the Lord shall raise him up."

I believe it. Blessed be the name of the Lord. We have had a trial of that faith in my family, at my home in Charlestown. My wife was taken sick, last September, with the lung fever, and was very sick for nine days; the fever left her very low and weak, but she was able to go into the country, and was gone about two weeks, and returned back to Charlestown, and was again taken down with wha' they called the asthma, lung and liver complaint, with a very severe cough, with great distress in breathing the most part of the time. We tried every kind of medicine for these diseases recommended by many medical men; but all did her no good, but seemed to sink her lower and lower, weaker and weaker, till she was not able to sit up but a very little.

Finally, after all help from man and medicine had failed, we were obliged to trust wholly in the Lord for help; and a week ago last Sabbath (Jan. 19th), we sent for the elders of the church to come. Brn. Thurber, Johnson and Adams came over to the house Sunday noon, and prayed and anointed according to the word of the Lord, and the Lord heard and answered before our eyes, for she immediately arose up and said she felt well, and praised the Lord for what he had done for her. Then she gave us a lesson in the unknown tongue, the substance of which was that we must give God all the glory; and we did have a blessed good time in giving him the glory. She then dressed herself, and went over to Boston with us in the afternoon, and had to walk some distance to take the cars. She attended meeting at the Lowell Street Chapel, and arose and testified to a full congregation what God had done in her behalf. The brethren and sisters assembled with full hearts and loud voises gave God all glory. She returned after meeting feeling well, and had one of the best night's rest that she ever had in her life, and has continued to gain strength of body every day since, and yesterday (Sunday) again went over to Boston to meeting.

And now I would say to the brethren and sisters that lie sick, take the word fully for the man of your counsel. Trust wholly in the Lord, in faith believing, and you may be healed and raised in like manner. I am satisfied that we are in the last and morning watch. May we all keep the faith, and keep His word strictly, and he has promised to keep us from the hour of temptation, which was to come on the whole world to try them.

From your brother expecting to see the Lord soon, A. BAYLES.

Charlestown, Mass., Jan. 27th, 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

THE DORCAS MISSION.

Receipts. For my personal use, from friends in Elliot, Me., through Sr. Athorne, $10.00; from friends in Castleton, Vt., $8.63; Joseph T. Howland, New York, $5.00; friends in Holden, Mass., $2.00; Bro. Charles Dixon's family, Elliot, Me., $3.25; "A friend of the cause of the blessed Savior," Boston, Mass., $1.00; J. C. Baston, E. Boston, $5.00; M. Sunderland, Fairmount, $5 00; Wm. J. Huggins, Vineland, N. J., $5.70; J. S. Alexander, Sandy Hill, N. Y., $2.00; and the following donations from friends in this city: Jay Cooke, $10 00; Adaline Sager, $10.00; M. Baird, $10.00; W. Sellers, $5.00; George Watson, $5.00.

A half barrel of clothing from friends in Lowell; a barrel of potatoes from Bro. Gresty, Winslow, N. J., and a pair of pet chickens from his little daughter Lizzie; two barrels of clothing from friends in Salem, Mass.,—in one a bag with fifty cents in it, the savings of a little girl given to the mission (God bless her), and a pair of slippers made by Bro. Boutell's own hands for myself; the Lord be with him. From friends in Danielsonville, a barrel containing a box of excellent soap, some beans, clothing, etc.; a barrel of clothing from Lewiston, Me.; a barrel from friends in Elliot, Me., containing clothing, two quilts, a tack or comfortable, several lots of beans, dried apples, herbs, etc.; from friends in New Bedford, a box containing clothing, two quilts, and a lot of new under-garments for children; from friends in Castleton, Vt., a box containing a new quilt from Sr. Mathewson and her S. S. class, seven new calico dresses, about twenty-two yards of calico, quite a number of yards of fine cotton cloth, and four new aprons made by Lillie Smead, Lizzie Robinson, Hattie Everson, and Jessie Hawkins,—the two latter are eleven and eight years of age; finally, three firkins of trout, from Mrs. Sager of this city. To all these friends we say, May the Lord of heaven bless you in basket and in store, and enrich you in spiritual knowledge. You have been instrumental in the Lord's hands of doing us much good. Now we desire your prayers that we may be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Yours in Christ,

Phila., Pa. F. H. BURNHAM.

Correspondence.

From Bro. L. S. Smith.

Bro. Grant:—Our meeting commenced, according to appointment, Wednesday evening, Nov. 20th, and continued over the following Sunday. Brn. H. B. Sevey and I. C. Wellcome were with us at the commencement of our meeting, and remained with us until the close. We were comforted and strengthened by their faithful labors. Bro. A. H. Walker, L. Rhodes, and H. D. Reed, were with us during a part of the meeting, to help publish the glad tidings of the coming kingdom of our Lord. The meeting was truly a profitable season to the brethren and sisters. The good cementing Spirit of the Lord was with us, and union prevailed throughout the meeting. The truth was spoken to the people, and we believe it will prove a savor of life unto life, or a savor of death unto death to some.

The word preached was meat in due season. We hope and trust that it will be the means of bringing some into the liberty of the gospel. We rejoice to know that the Lord is still at work, and that some are falling in love with the truth. Our hearts are made glad by the addition of one to our little company since the meeting. May the good work go on, and more be led to see the truth and embrace it.

West Gardiner, Me. Levi S. Smith.

From Bro. H. Pratt.

Bro. Grant:—The cause in Rochester is still more interesting. Every night finds some new inquirers. Eight last night started in the heavenly journey. I was informed that one of the most eminent preachers of this city, in his prayer Sunday morning, thanked God that so many of the members of his church were "watching for the coming of Christ." I doubt whether Corinthian Hall would hold the whole number that have been converted and reclaimed since the tent came to Rochester. Some have taken tracts and gone to Virginia and North Carolina, through Bro. Sidney Hall's liberality; some into the interior of the State. Some are scouring the Canadas with the truth, like fire shut up in their bones; others to Pennsylvania,—one goes to-day, who came to this place to spend the winter, but having received the truth, she hastens to bear the glad tidings to friends at home. And beside the many that are covering their light with a bushel, and the many that are letting it shine in the churches, we have between two and three hundred that are pouring on oil to the big fire, which is radiating its warming and healing influence to whosoever will receive it.

"Amazing grace" is seen and felt; the "unspeakable" joy is manifest; and the tears and smiles and looks all say, "I love Jesus; he's my Savior." Even Methodists, who used to be called "Crazy Methodists," are afraid that their children are becoming crazy, not because we are noisy, or unduly excited, but because it is the Bible, the whole Bible, and, glory to God, nothing but the Bible. H. Pratt.

From Bro. B. P. Manning.

Bro. Grant:—I wish to say a few words to the dear children of the Lord. My dear brethren and sisters in Christ, I thought I would let you know that I am trying to serve the good Lord, and to be ready to meet him when he comes. Brethren and sisters, I do believe, if ever there was a time to trust in the Lord with all the heart and soul, might, mind and strength, and love our neighbor as ourselves, it is this time in which we now live. My dear brethren and sisters, I think Jesus will come this year and receive all of the dear saints to himself. How I love to be with the children of God, and try to comfort them in this time of trial.

As it regards my health, it is no better at this time than it was last summer. I have to stay at home at present, but hope to be able to get out, if I should live till Spring. How glad I should be to have some of the dear children come and meet with us and stop awhile. I cannot travel on my feet to meet with them, but it does rejoice my poor heart when I see some of the children come into my poor house; notwithstanding I can say with the poet—

> "No foot of land do I possess,
> No cottage in this wilderness";

yet I feel that I shall have a blessed home in a little while, and live forevermore.

O how I love Jesus. I long to see him and be made like him. Bless his dear name. I shall see him as he is soon. I long to have a letter from some of the children. You do not know how it rejoices my poor heart to hear from any of God's saints. Remember me at the throne of grace. Beloved brethren, is it not time to wake up to the subject of the coming of the Lord? May God have mercy on the watchmen. O my brethren and sisters, trust in the Lord till he comes. Thy brother in Christ, B. P. Manning.

Goffstown, N. H.

From Bro. J. Maxim.

Bro. Grant:—By the politeness of a friend, I have been recently favored with the reading of your excellent paper, "The World's Crisis"; and I must say that many of the doctrines as advocated in that paper fully meet my approbation. I have for many years past believed that God will finally destroy the devil and his works, and make an end of sin and suffering; that the end of the wicked shall be cut off; that their place shall not be, and that they shall be destroyed, root and branch.

I was brought up a Calvinist; but on a careful examination of that system I found it not only cruel, but making "our Father in heaven" a partial being. I then entered into the other extreme, viz., "ultra Universalism." After a few years' experience in the advocacy of that system, and finding it rather set aside the necessity of faith and repentance as the only conditions of salvation, I then sought for truth in the more plausible doctrine of Restorationism; but having so much difficulty in reconciling it with Scripture, and being so full of uncertainty, and so "far off," it did not give me the satisfaction I needed. I then entered in with the Christian Baptists, and subsequently attended with the Methodists. But those sects still held and advocated the doctrine of endless misery. I could fellowship them, but not their creed; for I thought it as comfortable to be cast into an endless hell under the Calvinistic theory as under the Methodist; yea, rather more consoling, as the former made my destiny the absolute decree of God, while the latter leaves me the bitter pang of reflecting how that I might have escaped the fiery doom. Either system appears to me to rob God of that fatherly love and infinite goodness which the Scriptures everywhere attribute to him.

But the Crisis seems to advocate doctrines of truth and common sense, and which everywhere accord with Scripture, reason, and the best desires of the regenerated heart.

Life and death are set before us. We have moral power to choose between them. If we repent, believe, and obey the gospel, we shall live, shall have eternal life, and a part in the first resurrection, on whom the second death shall have no power; but if not, we must suffer the pains of the second death; for "the soul that sinneth, it shall die," "when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God, and obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ; who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power."

In conclusion, I say with the poet—

> "If I am right, thy grace impart
> Still in the right to stay;
> If I am wrong, O! teach my heart
> To find that better way."

So. Carver, Mass. J. Maxim.

From Bro. O. Ryder.

Dear Brn. and Srs. in Christ:—How good it is to have a medium, like the Crisis, through which we can talk to each other of our glorious hope, which is so soon to be realized. Blessed hope! I long to see the blessed Savior, who has made such a great sacrifice for us, and is so soon coming to finish up the work of redemption. I think we have good reason to look for the return of the Nobleman to take possession of the kingdom this year. Let us see to it that we are not overcharged with the cares of this world, and so that day overtake us unawares; but, denying ourselves of all ungodliness and worldly lusts, let us live soberly, righteously and godly in this present evil world, that we may be found of Him in peace when he comes.

Your brother, waiting for the consolation of Israel, Otis Ryder.

Baraboo, Sauk Co., Wis.

Married.

In Auburn, Me., at the bride's residence, Dec. 25th, by Eld. J. Albert Libby, Bro. Albert H. Walker, of Tuftonboro, N. H., and Sister Arabine Wright.

Also in West Poland, Me., Jan. 18th, Bro. Edwin A. Libby, of Lynn, Mass., and Sister Sarah O. Jordan, of Poland.

Obituaries.

Steinbeck. Fell asleep in Jesus, on Tuesday, Dec 10th, 1867, at the house of J. L. Boyd, Philadelphia, Mrs. Mary E. Steinbeck, formerly of Groton, Mass., aged thirty-four years.

Though hers was not a long life, our beloved Sister had seen many, and some of them, very painful vicissitudes.

In the year 1853, she went with her father and other members of his family to Palestine, Syria, where, for five years, they labored for the benefit of the Jews and other natives of the land. Here she was married to Frederick G. Steinbeck, a German missionary, became the mother of two children, a girl and boy, and lived most happily with her beloved companion until Jan. 12th, 1858, when a party of Arabs attacked and plundered her father's house, where they also lived, beating her father, brutally outraging her mother and herself, and murdering her husband, making her a widow, and her children fatherless.

Soon after this, leaving her dear husband sleeping on Mt. Hope, near Jaffa, she returned with the family to their native town. At first by teaching, afterward as professional nurse, and aided by kind friends, she obtained a livelihood for herself and little ones, till Nov. 1864, when her health failed. Her physician recommended a warmer climate than New England, and to our mutual gratification, she became an inmate of our family.

But though the less rigorous climate of this pleasant city benefitted her, and doubtless prolonged her valuable life, the shock which her system received at the fearful tragedy in Palestine made it impossible for her to regain health, and though not suffering acutely until within the last six months of her life, she was always weary, and never entirely free from pain. Still she never murmured. Sometimes she would say,—"Lizzie, the Lord has led me in a very strange and trying way; but I trust that his purpose of good will be accomplished in it."

Her greatest trial was in her separation from her children, for whose sake she wanted to live and to labor; but she said she "had given them into the special care of her Father years ago; that she believed he had accepted the gift, and that they will be partakers of eternal life in the resurrection." He had "raised up friends and taken care of them thus far, and she could trust him still."

Her faith in the near coming of the Savior to raise up those who sleep in him, and her hope of life only through him, were beautifully blest with love for all who love him; exemplifying in her life the command "that he who loveth God love his brother also."

It was my blessed privilege, after enjoying her society for nearly three years, to be also her nurse in the last three months, in which she was mostly confined to her bed; to witness her unvarying patience in severest pain, her complete resignation to the will of God; to hear from her lips the frequent assurance of perfect trust in Jesus, and unclouded hope of life by a resurrection "when He who is our life shall appear;" then, at the last, to support the loved one in my arms as, after hours of intense suffering, she yielded to the dominion of death; yet in Jesus slept.

She is gone from our family circle. We miss her gentle, loving voice, her ever ready word of encouragement or advice; but we "sorrow not as those without hope," for we expect soon to meet her "where there will be no more death."

Philadelphia, Jan. 1868. Lizzie C. M. Boyd.

Crocker. Died at Machiasport, Me., Bro. Timothy T. Crocker, son of Benjamin and Temperance Crocker, aged twenty-nine years.

He died with a firm trust in his Savior, and was reconciled to the will of his heavenly Father. His bodily sufferings were great, but his mind was calm. The Savior's sweet voice had reached him in his pain, tossed as it were upon the waves of affliction and distress, saying, "It is I, be not afraid." We shall miss our brother at the Lord's table, the prayer room, and at the fireside; but we trust in the promises of God, that as he raised up his Son, he will by the same power raise up also all those that sleep in Jesus, to dwell in immortal glory.

> Let this sweet thought dry up each tear,
> While bending o'er his silent clay;
> Let not one gloomy doubt or fear
> Distress thy bleeding hearts to-day.
>
> His sleep is sweet, he knows no pain;
> The sting of death for him is o'er;
> Sweet shall he sleep, till once again
> He'll wake to life forevermore.

Henry C. Ames.

Thompson. Died in Meredith, N. H., Dec. 25th, 1867, Sister Lucinda Thompson, wife of Bro. J. Thompson, aged sixty-three years.

Sister T. embraced the Savior by faith in early life; she also most gladly received the Advent message early in its proclamation, and continued to live a devoted christian life, looking for the speedy return of her Master, and the establishment of his glorious kingdom, unto the day of her death. She left a husband and children to mourn the loss of a most dutiful, kind, and affectionate wife and mother; but they mourn not as those who have no hope, expecting soon to meet her again when all the dead in Christ shall be awakened to glory. J. Couch.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

London, Jan. 29. Additional particulars of the assault on the Martello Tower at Duncannon on Monday night have been received. After receiving the first fire of the garrison the attacking party retired, but did not leave the field. They waited until their numbers were largely increased from the crowds who seemed to be near at hand, and again advanced upon the tower, beginning a general discharge of firearms, by which one of the garrison was wounded. When the assailants had almost reached the foot of the tower the troops again fired, and two men were seen to fall. The crowd then fell back and disappeared in the darkness. The two men who were shot were carried off by their companions, and it is not known whether they were wounded or killed. The affair has caused great excitement in Wexford county. No arrests have yet been made, but the Government is using every method to discover the leaders of the assault.

Paris, Jan. 29. The bill for the reorganization of the army having passed the Corps Legislatif, came before the Senate this week and gave rise to an interesting discussion. M. Michel Chevalier, in a powerful speech, opposed the bill. He took strong grounds in favor of peace for France, and on these grounds argued against the measure. He said France should maintain close relations with the neighboring European powers, all of whom should unite to resist the Empire of Russia and Republican America, nations which, in the extraordinary growth of their territory, power and ambition, threatened to overshadow the world.

Marshal Neil, speaking for the Government, supported the bill. He replied to the arguments addressed against the bill by M. Chevalier, declaring the grounds on which they rested untenable. As for the fears expressed by M. Chevalier in regard to Russia, they were absurd. Such reviews were refuted by every event in Europe since the war in the Crimea. The debate ended yesterday evening, when the vote was taken and the bill passed.

London, Jan. 29. The internal condition of Italy is becoming critical. Fears are entertained that a coup d' etat is contemplated at Florence. It is believed at Paris that the relations between the French and Italian governments are not so cordial as they have been.

Paris, Jan. 29. It is now considered certain that the General Council of the Roman Catholic Church, preparations for calling which were some time ago by Pope Pius IX confided to a special commission of seven cardinals, will assemble at Rome in November next.

Florence, Jan. 29. The Unita Catolica newspaper says that a special agent of the President of the United States has arrived at Rome on a select mission to the Pope, and that he will be supported by Admiral Farragut, whose fleet is hourly expected at Naples, and whose arrival in Rome is looked for at an early day. No information is given as to the character or object of the mission upon which the American agent has been sent.

Naples, Jan. 29. Via London, Jan. 29. The eruption of Mount Vesuvius, which has continued with greater or less intensity since its occurrence in the past year, has culminated, if I may so term it, in an unusual and very fatal catastrophe. Yesterday evening the side of Mount Vesuvius lying right opposite to the gate of Castello Nuovo, one of the fortifications of this city, situated between the Royal Palace and the sea, fell, tumbling outward. The detached portion buried several houses built in the vicinity and overwhelmed carriages and other conveyances passing on the highway at the moment. The scene is melancholy and full of ruin. The road running in the neighborhood of the volcano is filled with rocks and earth which but lately formed part of the mountain. This extraordinary event has also been attended with considerable loss of life, but the number of persons killed has not yet been ascertained.

DOMESTIC.

New York, Feb. 1. The World's Washington special states:

The tergiversation of Secretary Seward is of avail no more. Another and higher authority has determined upon the course which is to be pursued in respect to the claims of the United States Government upon Great Britain. I am authorized to state most confidently and decisively that the legitimate demands which have been too meekly urged by the Secretary of State upon the British Cabinet are to be enforced at whatever hazard. The new British Minister, Mr. Thornton, will probably be presented to President Johnson on Tuesday next. Although the addresses that are to be exchanged between the President and Minister Thornton may be guarded and serene, the fact yet remains that a speedy and satisfactory response must be made by the British Government to the ultimatum of the Executive of the United States, or else a declaration of war against Great Britain must inevitably ensue.

The Tribune's special says, on the same subject: All negotiations for a settlement of the Alabama claims having been closed by correspondence between our Government and that of Great Britain, the matter stands as though nothing had been done by either Government tending to an adjustment. There is authority for saying that these claims will at once be pushed to a finality with vigor, and that the government will demand immediate reparation for the wrongs suffered by our citizens at the hands of the Alabama and other vessels fitted out in England under like circumstances during the rebellion.

Great Feat in Telegraphy—Ten Thousand Miles in Three Minutes.

The weather Friday night being unusually favorable for telegraphing, an experiment was made, according to previous arrangements, by connecting the lines through from Valencia, Ireland, to San Francisco, California, direct, a distance of between five and six thousand miles. A message was sent through and an answer received at the place whence it was dispatched in three minutes. This is the greatest feat in telegraphy ever accomplished.

The Emperor Napoleon and the Ticket-collector.—A man, who is still a stout and good servant of the company in whose employ he has been for some thirty years, was on duty one night on the platform where he is still stationed, when the London train came in. Among the passengers was one gentleman who missed his footing at the carriage door just as the train was about to start, and fell between the platform and the wheels. At that instant the train moved on. Another moment and all would have been over; but a strong hand seized him, and twitched him on the platform; so, with no more injury than a fright and a shaking, the passenger went his way. Had that ticket-collector not been there, or had he been less ready, the history of the world would have read no man can say how differently; for the traveler was Louis Napoleon.—Cassell's Magazine.

Couldn't Help it.—In a certain town on the Penobscot river lived two worthy men, neighbors and friends; but they could never agree on political questions. In dispute one day, one of the disputants lost temper and called the other "liar," "fool," "knave," and so on. This was his weakness. He easily lost self-control; then was very abusive; and then repented. On the occasion referred to, he was so chagrined at the exhibition he had made of passion, that he soon called upon his neighbor, penitent and purposing an apology. We give, in substance, the apology:

"I am ashamed of myself for being so abusive in my talk to you. To think I should call a neighbor and friend 'liar,' 'fool,' and 'knave.' I am sorry, and have come to apologize. Forgive me. I know not how it is, that, in my talk with you, I lose my temper. But the fact is, you always talk so much like a jackass,—I can't help it!"

☞ There is a great destitution for pastors for the Baptist churches in Vermont. Seventeen churches, most of which have houses of worship and comfortable parsonages, are now in want of ministers.

☞ Those who pretend to know say there is more dissipation in Washington this winter than at any time since the war.

☞ Last Sunday in one of the New York fashionable churches, in which the "holy opera" is the style, an apparently young and timid girl supplied the place of the regular prima donna, who was absent. Her refined face and modest demeanor attracted admiration, and much sympathy for her was expressed by the congregation on their way home, on account of her timidity and embarrassment, as evinced by the trembling of her voice. It has since transpired that the demure young girl was one of the performers of the Black Crook.

☞ Two of our city churches have delighted our citizens with well managed and very entertaining musical and dramatic performances, the pecuniary results of which, we understand, have been highly gratifying. Now that the pulpit and the stage have joined hands so cordially, if some one of the remaining churches would procure the "Black Crook" we think it would have an immense run, and turn a large amount of secular change into pious or benevolent channels.

☞ The famine in the northern part of Sweden, in a province called Norland, has now reached its climax. The sufferings of its people, with their dwellings surrounded, in midwinter, by snow from ten to twenty feet deep, are so great, according to official reports, that immediate relief is needed to prevent the whole number of these sufferers—over 300,000 souls—from dying of starvation.

☞ There are now twenty-five Protestant missionary societies that are laboring in India. Of these, three are organized in Scotland, eight in England, one in Ireland, four on the continent of Europe, and nine in America. These societies maintain about 550 missionaries, and expend annually in that country not far from $1,250,000.

☞ It is a singular fact, that the Emperor Napoleon III., in his youthful days, fought against the temporal power of the Pope, which he is now doing his utmost to maintain. He and his brother were actively concerned in the revolutionary movement of 1831; a movement which might perhaps have succeeded but for the intervention of France and Austria.

Notices.

Conference at Springfield.

The Bethel Church in Springfield will hold a special Conference in their Chapel, Vernon street, commencing Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, and holding over the following Lord's day. The object will be to awaken an increased interest in this city on the subject of the speedy coming of our Lord, and to seek a deeper work of grace in the church in preparation for his coming. Preaching brethren will be present to hold forth the word of life, and we cordially invite our brethren and sisters in the vicinity to "come up with us to the help of the Lord."

This Conference is intended solely for spiritual labor and improvement, and in no way to interfere with the work of the State Conference.

In behalf of the Com., R. E. Ladd.

Conference at Westfield.

Our next quarterly conference will be held at Westfield, Mass., commencing Feb. 5th, at 7 P. M., and continue through the week, and over the Sabbath. Come, brethren and sisters, let us go up to Westfield and do what we can for the Lord's cause. The people need and want the truth that God has commissioned us to preach. Can we be justified in letting worldly business keep us at home? We want the small gifts to work in this place, and this conference will give all a chance to work where there is an interest to hear. Come, one and all that can, to work for the Lord.

Per order, J. Hemenway.

Conference.

The Eastern Conference will be held at Frankfort Mills, N. H., commencing at six o'clock P. M., Thursday, March 5th, to continue over the following Sabbath. Brethren from abroad are invited to attend and labor for the Lord.

L. French, Clerk of Conference.

Discussion at Wilmot Flat, N. H.

If the Lord will, there will be a discussion between the Rev. Mr. Roberts, of the M. E. Church, and J. H. F. Varney, to commence Thursday, Feb. 6th, at one o'clock P. M. Subject: Sleep of the dead. J. Pinkham.

Notice.

We would say that as the churches of Wallingford and Yalesville have become united as one church, we would request the preaching brethren to correspond with the following brethren previous to publishing their appointment for either place.

W. W. Ives, Wallingford.
H. H. Mix, Yalesville.

Change of Address.

Our business connection with "Austin, Hurd & Co., and "F. Wilson Hurd & Co.," having been dissolved, our friends will hereafter please address us,—Box 382 Dansville, Livingston Co., N. Y., and not "Our Home," as formerly.

F. Wilson Hurd, M. D.
Mrs. Hannah J. Hurd.

Conference.

The Maine Quarterly Conference will be held at Friendship, Me., Feb. 6th, to commence at 6 o'clock in the evening, and hold over Sunday. Brethren and sisters, with ministers, are invited.

S. K. Partridge.

Notice.

I will be at Friendship conference, also at Stark, to attend the dedication of their meeting-house, as requested, if the Lord will. I. C. Wellcome.

Notice.

Before sending their appointments to Richmond Village, Me., the preaching brethren are requested to consult the committee, to save confusion.

Per order of Committee, S. Brown.

Notice.

Preachers are requested to correspond with H. C. Aborn, Clerk, before sending appointments to Square Pond, Conn.

Notice.

My tracts are now completed, which include all the testimony of the Bible relative to the second coming of Christ. Price $3.00 per hundred; 50 cts. per dozen, 5 cts. single copy. Orders sent to Allen Damon, Fairhaven, Mass.

Notice.

I would say to our preaching brethren, when they send an appointment to Richmond, it is necessary they should define the place, as we hold two meetings in town; one at the Reed meeting-house, which has continued since 1843, the other is held at the village. Please state for which place the appointment is intended. In behalf of the brethren. Frederic Bates, Jr.

Notice.

There will be meetings at Union Hall, Westminster Street, (rear of 1st Universalist Church), Providence, R. I., regularly every first day of the week, as long as the Lord will.

Wm. H. Doughty, for the Church.

Notice.

Advent meetings are held every Sunday in North Adams, Mass., on Center Street, corner of Lincoln Street. Preaching brethren are invited to give us a call. Inquire for Isaac Blanchard, Jr., Eagle Street.

Notice.

Preachers are requested to correspond with one of the committee before sending appointments to Worcester, viz., M. M. Blackmer, N. Lazell, Wm. F. Collier. Per order of the church, Worcester, Jan., 1868.

Notice.

Preaching brethren intending to visit Lewiston, Me., before sending their appointments, will please consult the committee through Albert Burgess, corresponding secretary, to save confusion.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION,
No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.
Anna E. Smith, Superintendent and Manager.
Meetings.
Sunday School 10 o'clock every Sunday.
Love Feast 2 o'clock every Sunday.
Preaching 7 o'clock Sunday evenings.
Meetings every evening during the week.

THE CHRISTIAN. 60 CENTS!!

A large, live, 8 page monthly religious and family paper, containing facts, incidents, tales, sketches, music, poetry, true stories, pictures, reading for young, old, saints, sinners, one and all. No sectarianism, controversy, politics, puffs, pills, or patent medicines. 60 cts. a year; 10 copies $5. For Sunday Schools, 10 copies $4. Send 10 cts. for three specimens before you forget it. Vol. 3 begins Jan., '68. 1000 pages new, live tracts, for $1. Address H. L. Hastings, Tract Repository, 19 Lindall Street, Boston, Mass.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching Brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as Tuesday Morning, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston, corner of Causeway and Lowell Streets. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.
A. Simpson..........Sundays, Feb. 9th and 16th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)
J. T. Dixon..........Sundays, Feb. 9th and 16th

South Boston, (Union Hall, Broadway.)
Geo. A. Brown..........Thursday evening, Feb. 6th

Portsmouth, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Lowell, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Joseph W. White.

Meredith Village..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
A. Murray Thipp.

Bristol, Ct..........Sunday, March 1st
Southington..........Sunday, March 8th
New Haven, (Day's Hall)..........Sunday, March 15th
L. B. Potter.

Newfane, (Whitakerville), Vt..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Isaac Blanchard.
Gilbert Mayhew.

Guilford, Conn., Feb. 8th, and onward as the Lord shall direct, in compliance with request.
Wm. A. & M. L. Durand.

Pleasant Valley, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
New Britain, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Prospect, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
New Haven, (Day's Hall)..........Sunday, March 1st
Seth Woodruff.

New Britain..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
E. Owen.

Woodhull, Steuben Co., N. Y., Feb. 28th, and continue each evening and Sundays for ten days, embracing two Sundays.
C. F. Sweet.

Roxbury, (as Sr. Susan E. Teeple may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 9th, and until Saturday, the 15th, if desired.
Morris, Ct., as (Bro. I. Curtis and Glover may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 16th, and until Saturday, 22d, if desired.
Middletown..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
H. Rockwell.

Northfield, Ct..........Feb. 5th
Morris, Ct..........Feb. 6th
Thomaston, Ct..........Feb. 7th
Southington, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Guilford, Ct..........Feb. 10th
Rocky Brook, R. I..........Feb. 11th
West Abington, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
New Bedford..........Feb. 18th
Acushnet..........Feb. 19th
Fair Haven..........Feb. 20th
New York, (Cooper Institute)..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
24th Street in the evening. W. S. Campbell.

South Adams, Mass..........evening, Feb. 8th
North Adams..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Savoy..........Feb. 16th and 23d
Rufus Baker.

Lynn, Mass..........through the month of February
T. M. Preble.

Vernon, Vt., Saturday evening, Feb. 8th, and over Sunday. Will Bro. Kendall meet me at Vernon depot, Saturday afternoon? Mary C. Whitaker.

Warren Summit..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Haverhill Corner..........evening, Feb. 11th
North Haverhill, (Sr. Glazier's)..........Feb. 12th
North Benton, (East school-house)..........Feb. 13th and over the following Sabbath.
East Landaff, (where the brethren may appoint), evenings, Feb. 19th and 20th.
Sugar Hill..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
John Knowles.

Middletown, Ct., (if desired)..........evening, Feb. 7th
Yalesville..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Pleasant Valley..........evening, Feb. 14th
and over the following Sunday.
Buckland, (as Bro. Grant may arrange), evening, Feb. 18th.
Square Pond..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
C. H. Sweet.

Danielsonville, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Miles Grant.

Abington, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
H. F. Carpenter.

Brimfield, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Charlton, Dresser Hill, at Bro. Seavey's, evenings, Feb. 19th and 20th. Bro. H. Stone's, evening, Feb. 21st. At school-house, Feb. 23d.
Geo. A. Streeter.

River Point..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
M. R. Prettyplace.

Warner, N. H., (Waterloo school-house), Sunday, Feb. 16th.
Manchester, N. H..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 18th
Simeon Roby.

Keene, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
J. S. White.

Dover, N. H., Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Feb. 18th and 19th.
Barrington, N. H..........Friday evening, Feb. 21st
and over the following Sunday.
If this appointment is agreeable to Bro. Preston, will he please write me at Dover, N. H., care of Henry Glidden, where and when he will meet me?
Alton Corner, N. H., Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Feb. 25th and 26th.
Concord, N. H..........Sunday, March 1st
A. Simpson.

Portland, Me.
Luther Boutell..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Sr. A. E. Smith..........Feb. 16th, 17th, and 18th
Wm. H. Mitchell..........Sunday, Feb. 23d

Sugar Hill..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
J. Couch.

Guilford, Ct., Saturday evening, Feb. 8th, and over Sunday, the 9th, and until Friday, the 13th.
The brethren are invited from adjoining towns to come and help in this protracted meeting.
Hiram Munger.

Farmington..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Alton Corner..........evening, Feb. 11th
West Alton..........evenings, Feb. 13th and 14th
Lake Village..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Meredith Village..........evenings, Feb. 18th and 19th
Moultonboro (Hodgdon school-house), evenings, Feb. 20th and 21st.
Tuftonboro, (Melvin Village)..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Expect Bro. John Langley to be with me at Alton Corner, and onward. H. M. Bryant.

Center Harbor, N. H..........Friday evening, Feb. 7th and over the following Sunday. W. H. McDaniel.

Rochester, N. Y.
Meetings are held at the Advent Hall, Curtis' Block, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Entrance, third door from the east end of the bridge, Main St.

Youngstown, N. Y., Niag. Co., (where Bro. Tryon may appoint), Sunday, Feb. 9th. E. Cotton.

New Haven, Ct., (Day's Hall)..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Hartford, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
B. Hitchcock.

Tuftonboro, (Melvin Village)..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Dover, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Wm. Bodge.

Lunenburg Corner, Vt., (Town Hall), Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, and over Sunday. A. Gordon.

Dansville, N. Y..........Feb. 6th
Rogersville, N. Y..........Feb. 13th
Stop one week in each place. J. K. Bellows.

Bristol, Vt.
Wm. J. Ripley..........Sunday, Feb. 16th

Springfield, Mass.
Wm. Stuart..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
H. F. Carpenter..........Sundays, Feb. 16th and 23d

Lake Village, (North Church)..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
T. W. Piper.

Massena, N. Y., (as brethren may arrange), Sundays, Feb. 9th and 16th. W. W. Sutherland.

North Somers, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
L. F. Moore.

Haverhill, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
B. Woodside.

Frankfort Mills..........Feb. 15th
Bangor..........Feb. 23d
South Sangerville..........Feb. 29th
I. E. Lombard.

Riceford, Bellville and Hesper..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Elliota and Burr Oak..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Preston..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
P. Ramer.

Lenora and Nickols, Minn..........March 1st
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper..........March 8th
Elliota and Burr Oak..........March 15th
Preston..........March 22d
W. J. Burrell.

Worcester, Mass.
S. W. Thurber..........through the month of Feb.

Concord, N. H.
(Corner of Green and Center Streets.)
J. A. Cleaveland..........Sundays, Feb. 9th

New Bedford, Mass..........through February
A. Ross.

Springfield, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Middletown..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
New Britain..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Wm. Stuart.

West Stafford, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
Rufus Baker.

Coaticook, (Kenney school-house)..........Sunday, Feb. 9th
D. N. Chadsey.

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ Correspondents should, and ought to know, that we cannot [illegible] their orders, unless they give, in the Post Office and State in plain letters.

☞ F. B. ANDREW—Money received.

☞ MRS. M. A. HARRIS—Money received. We are waiting for "Tokens."

☞ W. VREELAND—We credit you $2.50.

☞ WM. C. FORD—All right. Money received.

☞ LOUISA BARKER—Money received.

☞ A. MARCY—Money received.

☞ M. SUMNER—All right.

☞ BRO. A. SIMPSON wishes to say to the church in Danville, P. Q., that he will not be able to be there in Feb. as proposed.

☞ A. C. GEER—Letter received.

☞ Will D. T. Rogel please give us his P. O. address?

☞ L. WHEELER—Money received.

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

The present No. of the Crisis is 644. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid. If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to, is less than the present No., the difference shows for how many weeks you owe. For every week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the product (which will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness) deduct four cents for every dollar, and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each—J W Findley 648, F S Storrs 654, G F D Rice 668.

$1.25 each—O. B. Crandall 690, O Colvin 665, R R Tyrrell 647, W C Sweet 665, D Titus 668, G Lawrence 657, W Vreeland 676, W D Munson 669, O A Vanantwerp 630; L A Waters 634.

$2.00 each—E A Moore 684, P Alling 683, A Fenn 645, F J Mansfield 668, A Adams 682.

$2.50 each—B N Smith 693, E Hood 691, F A Sherman 691, D D Cole 693, A Heiss 693, J C Rogers 690, L A Waters 686, D W Lamb 653, J Little 656, M Metcalf 657.

Various Sums—D Mizzell 90c, 640; G Durkee $2.00, 636; A Thatcher $1.50, 657; W Keene $3.00, 640; H Hiscock 75c, 658.

FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.

G S Peterson $5.88, M Bullard 50c, A Boynton $1.00, G W Maker 35c, S B Colton $1.75, J J Sullivan $1.00, I K Lombard $1.25, M L Thayer $1.50, C Palmer 50c, R C Russell $1.50, R B Scott 60c, J G Putnam 50c, J F Funk $2.00, G B Macumber $1.00, E Ludden, 35c, M Percival $2.55, J B Chamberlain $1.00, W Payne 75c, D W Lamb 50c, W. Lee $24.10, M. A. Harris 45c, S Wheelock $10.00, D T Ross $6.00, W D Johnson 60c, C E Gilbert 60c, C A Miller $1.41, A B Sage 45c, C Stone 50c, E D Renff $1.25, D M Leavitt $2.00, M E Davis 25c, N B McMurphy 45c, N D Wright 30c, H Adams $3.50, H L Woodard 40c.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

J B Cook, C H Hurd, H A King, E G Leaser, F C Northrup, M B, S K Paine, O Ryder, S, J Blain, R Burnside, C N Harvey, F H Burbank, B Waterhouse, G A Streeter, J E Wells, F Coghill, G F Morse, J Daley, C F Sweet, B St John, L F Sweet, L F Cole, F C Northrup, C Greene, Geo Needham, T H Ford, J Elkins, A E Smith, Bemis, D F Newton, J Taylor, E C M Boyd, J E Whipple, H Pratt, F J Mansfield.

ADDRESS OF PREACHING BRETHREN.

C. E. Piper—41 Grove Street, Boston, Mass.
C. Goodrich—69 Marion Street, East Boston, Mass.
J. S. White—98 Decatur Street, East Boston, Mass.
Enoch Morrill—No. 69 Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown, Mass.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford, Mass.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls, Mass.
L. Boutell—Salem, Mass.
H. Pratt—Springfield, Mass., 57 Cedar St.
P. S. Butler, Collins Depot, Mass.
E. Owen—Springfield, Mass., No. 64 Walnut Street.
Alvah Bean—Lowell, Mass.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana, Mass.
Allen Dammah—Fairhaven, Mass.
C. H. Sweet—Millville, Mass.
J. W. Brittan—Westboro, Mass.
S. Anderson—Warren, Mass.
Rufus Baker—Warren, Mass.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer, Mass.
W. R. Hathaway—North Carver, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Lynn, Mass.
S. S. Brasee—Cold Spring, Mass.
N. J. Streeter—Southbridge, Mass.
S. W. Thurber—85 Church Street, Lowell, Mass.
C. H. Leverton—Surry, Hancock Co., Me.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills, Me.
J. C. Wheeler—Carthage, Me.
F. A. Baker—Levant, Me.
H. S. Mitchell—Cushing, Me.
I. K. Lombard—Machiasport, Me.
J. Carr—South Albion, Me.
Irrael Damman—Corinna, Me.
B. P. Manning—Goffstown, N. H.
J. G. Smith—New Durham, N. H.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia, N. H.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth, N. H.
J. Couch—Concord, N. H.
A. W. Sibley—Lincoln, N. H.
A. Simpson—Concord, N. H.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village, N. H.
Z. Ford—Concord, N. H.
C. W. Sargent—Box 425 Concord, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover, N. H.
Wm. H. McDaniels—Fisherville, N. H.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff, N. H.
J. B. Cook—Poultney, Vt.
G. W. Stetson—Rutland, Vt.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford, Vt.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
D. N. Chadsey—Canaan, Vt.
J. A. Cleaveland—South Royalton, Vt.
Wm. H. Fisher—Windsor, Ct., care of S. Cooper.
H. F. Carpenter—Danielsonville, Ct.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville, Ct.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford, Ct.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville, Ct.
T. S. Canfield—Bantam Falls, Ct.
B. St. John—Wolcottville, Ct.
Dr. Samuel Wellis Treat—Middlebury, Ct.
S. B. Munn—Waterbury, Ct.
Ira Wyman—Warehousepoint, Ct.
Wm. J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley, Ct.
L. F. Moore—Somersville, Ct.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted Ct.
S. Woodruff—Unionville, Ct.
Geo. A. Cole—Phenix, R. I.
J. K. Bellows—19 Orchard Street, New York City.
Wm. A. Fenn—Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester, N. Y.
Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
S. P. Babcock—Malaga, New Jersey.
J. W. Taylor—Chatham Valley, Tioga Co., Pa.
F. H. Burbank—Dorcas Mission, 705 Lombard street, Philadelphia, Pa.
John T. Oagley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.
A. N. Seymour—Fremont, Mich.
J. M. Snook—Romeo, Mich.
J. R. Preston—Lapeer, Mich.
Wm. McCulloch—New Rutland, Ill.
George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co., Ill.
O. D. Gibson—Amboy, Ill.
F. Burr—New Rutland, Ill.
Dr. I. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis, Tenn.
Wm. Deverell—Keswick, C. W.
Wm. M. Ingham—Clemenspert, N. S.
H. K. Flagg—Advent Christian Hall 1136, No. 5th Street, St. Louis, Mo.
H. Rockwell—Lenox, Ashtabula Co., Ohio
L. C. McKinstry—Norwalk, Ohio.
B. Wm. Wilkins—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634 care of I. I. Leslie.
Daniel Reed—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634, care of I. L. Leslie.
Eld. G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co., Ind.
P. W. Hough—West Salem, Wis.
George Thompson—Attica, Green Co., Wis.
Eld. A. F. Dugger—Simpson, Iowa.
Peter S. W. Deyo—Strawberry Point, Clayton Co., Iowa.
O. R. Fassett—Minneapolis, Minn.
Philip Ramer—Winona, Minn.
J. Wilbur—Box 882 Janesville, Wis.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

Spiritualism Unveiled.
What is Man?
The Soul—What is it?
The Spirit—What is it?
The Rich Man and Lazarus.

All the above works, in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to Miles Grant, Boston, Mass.

New Music.

"'Tis the very same Jesus" (separate sheets, at 5c.) Calvary, Over There, I shall Rest, The Shining Land, New Year's Chime, Hallelujah, "Say, Brother, shall we meet?" "The Little Grave," "We shall walk through the Valley in Peace." All on one sheet, at 20c. For sale at this office.

Fables of Infidelity in Tract Form.

Sent postpaid, as follows:

1.	I don't believe in Religion..........	12 pp., 3c.
2.	Did the World make itself?..........	16 pp., 4c.
3.	Is God Everybody, and Everybody God?	16 pp., 4c.
4.	Have we any need of the Bible?..........	24 pp., 4c.
5.	Who wrote the New Testament?..........	16 pp., 4c.
6.	Is the Gospel Fact or Fable?..........	16 pp., 4c.
7.	Can we believe Christ and his Apostles?	16 pp., 4c.
8.	Prophecy..........	32 pp., 5c.
9.	Moses and the Prophets..........	32 pp., 5c.
10.	Infidelity among the Stars..........	32 pp., 5c.
11.	Daylight before Sunrise..........	24 pp., 5c.
12.	Telescopic Views of Scripture..........	32 pp., 5c.
13.	Science, or Faith?..........	32 pp., 5c.

For the Set, (making 304 pp.)..........50c. postpaid.
Address all orders to Miles Grant, Boston, Mass.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE
Advent Christian Publication Society,
No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.50.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings, and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsey. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Prediction detailed, and His Kingdom near. By I. C. Wellcome. 25c; by mail, 27c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 1, By S. S. Brewer. 7c; by mail, 9c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 22c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 3, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 22c.

THESSALONICA; or, The Model Church. By H. L. Hastings. 25c.

SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsey, D. D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE SEVEN SEALS. Exposition of Rev. vi. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail 9c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church. By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE DAYS WE LIVE IN: The Lord soon to come. By S. S. Brewer. 10c; by mail, 12c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures. Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, etc. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. 20c; by mail, 22c.

RETRIBUTION; or, The Doom of the Ungodly. By H. L. Hastings. 20c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 28c.

PAULINE THEOLOGY; or, The Christian Doctrine of Future Punishment, as taught in the Epistles of Paul. H. L. H. 10c.

GLAD TIDINGS; or, The End of Woe and Sin by the Destruction of the Wicked. (Three chapters from "Death not Life.") By J. Blain. 8c; by mail, 10c.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 6c; by mail, 8c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.

SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.

REV JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 3c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 12 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postage, 8c. on every three copies.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 40c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, [illegible] By P. A. Smith. [illegible]

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. [illegible]

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. [illegible]

COOKERY [illegible]

VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook [illegible]

THE SABBATH, and its Relation to Man. By M. Baxter. [illegible]

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. [illegible]

BLIND [illegible]

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. [illegible]

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. [illegible]

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, [illegible]

THE LIFE OF TRUST. [illegible]

RAHAB THE HARLOT. [illegible]

CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES [illegible]

THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; [illegible]

PREMATURE DECAY [illegible]

THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT [illegible]

THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY; [illegible]

THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; [illegible]

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT? [illegible]

CHLOE LANKTON; [illegible]

NON-RESISTANCE. By W. C. Thurman. [illegible]

DIPHTHERIA: [illegible]

THE DAY AND THE HOUR: [illegible]

"OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." [illegible]

THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe? [illegible]

"ONE MORE [illegible]"

"GOLDEN [illegible]"

"THE PENALTY OF SIN." [illegible]

AMERICA [illegible] XVIII. [illegible]

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now [illegible] new Hymn [illegible] prices: [illegible]

JESUS WEPT.

Jesus wept! those tears are over,
But his heart is still the same;
Kinsman, Friend, and Elder Brother,
Is his everlasting name.
Savior, who can love like thee,
Gracious One of Bethany?

When the pangs of trial seize us,
When the waves of sorrow roll,
I will lay my head on Jesus,
Pillow of the troubled soul.
Surely none can feel like thee,
Weeping One of Bethany!

Jesus wept! and still in glory
He can mark each mourner's tear,
Living to retrace the story
Of the hearts he solaced here.
Lord, if I am called to die,
Let me think of Bethany!

Jesus wept! that tear of sorrow
Is a legacy of love;
Yesterday, to-day, to-morrow,
He the same shall ever prove.
Thou art all in all to me,
Living One of Bethany!

For the World's Crisis.

PROGRESS OF OUR AGE.

The Christian Advocate of Jan. 9th, 1868, in a leader on "Past and Future," says:—"The year 1867 has been, perhaps, more than usually devoid of strange events. We see no cause for dismay. The outlook into the future is altogether hopeful. The world is moving forward toward the Millennium; but there is much yet between us and that great consummation." No wonder the people are blind to the signs of the times, when their leaders can write like the above, lulling the church and world to sleep; when, if the author had been fully awake, he must know that facts are against him; for there never has been a year like 1867 in the commission of all kinds of deviltry, and also for its many earthquakes. Since November last there have been, since the St. Thomas affair, over one thousand shocks, and the papers are teeming with the deluge of crime. Yet the Christian Advocate can "see no cause for dismay"; the future is altogether "hopeful" for "the Millennium"! The only truthful remark it made is, "But there is much yet between us and that great consummation."

Theological papers are generally reticent on the matter. I took up the Independent, the other day, and after looking over its contents, I was not surprised that people are not more spiritual. In this one solitary paper I found about fifty-six novels advertised, including Dickens.' Found a hundred and fifty popular other things advertised, including "Banner of Light," the Spiritualist, infidel paper; also the New York Ledger, the novel paper, the paper that Beecher fits so well in,—so he says himself. This same paper contained about seventeen comic sayings, etc. Here is No. 1: "What is the difference between a Barber and a Mother? The one has razors to shave, and the other has shavers to raise." No. 2: "Do you like cod-fish balls, Mr. Wiggins? Mr. Wiggins hesitatingly replied, "I really don't know, Miss; I don't recollect attending one." Now after you have deducted all of the above from one paper, how much religious reading must there be left? Precious little, I tell you; for out of sixty-two columns, I found only about eight or nine filled with religious reading. I think if Paul filled the editorial chair, you would not find sixty-two columns to the world and nine to the church only. But such is our boasted christianity. Yet if you stand up in bold defense of pure christianity, the coming of Christ, with practical holiness, you are ridiculed, or, as my opponent in public debate told me in Town Hall last week, that "the Second Advent doctrine was a miserable doctrine; and that Christ would never come again."

MODERN CHURCHES. The Boston Herald, of Jan. 2nd, says:—"A Methodist church is finishing at Washington, D. C., costing $200,000. Pews are made in it for the President, etc. Windows to be memorial, or historical, commemorating great men, and great events of the age. Altar and pulpit from cedar and fir wood, brought from Mount Lebanon." The Herald, of Jan. 25th, also says: "The Methodists have dedicated the most magnificent church, probably in the world, at Wilmington, Del. Bishops Scott, Ames, and Simpson, were present." The Earnest Christian, on such matters, says, and with all the truth on its side;—"There is a great rage for fine church edifices. . . . Buildings that are large enough, for which a house of worship is intended, are sold for breweries, or some other base purpose. The arguments used for such a course are, 'If we do not have a fine church, the rich will leave us.' Suppose the rich do leave you; they left the Savior when he was upon earth. Where there is one soul saved in the costly church, there are ten in the plain one. Where rich men are necessary to a church, they will control it. Said a wealthy rumseller to the presiding Elder, 'If you do not send us Dr. S., we will close the church.' The old Methodist discipline wisely said: 'Let all our houses of worship be built plain and decent, with free seats.' When any church cannot get along without rich men, farewell to the gospel in its purity. 'I am so thankful,' said a Presbyterian minister of the city of New York, in our presence, 'that I have the privilege of preaching to a congregation composed of the poor, for they will let me preach the truth.' The poor are effectually shut out of costly churches."

INTEMPERANCE. The Portland Press, of Jan. 2nd, 1868, in a letter from England, says: "To be drunk three days out of seven is the normal condition of an immense number of Englishmen, and of more English women, than an American has any idea of." Of crime in Boston, for 1867, the Press says:—"The total number of cases disposed of in municipal court during the past year, 1867, was 13,895, an increase of 1219 over 1866."

The Herald for Jan. 3d, 1868, says of "The morals of Chicago": "The rapid increase of divorce cases (the Post of Jan. 3d says, that two hundred cases were granted in 1867,) is an alarming feature of our society, which is affecting all classes of society. Mistress-keeping is as much in vogue with our rich men as it is in Paris. It is the ton; and it is done openly. It is estimated that there are eight hundred houses of prostitution in the city, and thirty-five hundred courtesans. Where the end will be it is difficult to determine." A Louisville paper publishes an appeal from the Grand Jury in that city, addressed to the Legislature of Kentucky. In this document, we find an appalling revelation of the iniquities of Louisville. Open vice and adultery are the rule, and not the exception. Gambling is an open trade, and the worst places are licensed. Murders, arson and robbery are of daily occurrence. In short, there is no end to the depravity that is flouted in the face of day. This serious document is signed by Claudius Duvall, foreman, and all the members of the Grand Jury. Perhaps the Legislature will change the name of Louisville to Sodom."

EARTHQUAKES. The Boston Journal of Jan. 2nd, on the moral effect of earthquakes, quoting from the Ogdensburg Journal, says of the earthquake shocks, "The more we hear of the impressions of Wednesday morn, the more we appreciate its awful grandeur. Very many pious people supposed that the 'judgment day' had actually arrived, and remained in a state of almost suspended animation for several seconds, expecting to hear the 'last trumpet' sound. In the third ward, a dancing party suddenly broke up, and departed for home and places to pray. Very few in looking over the records of their deeds, which always pass so rapidly in moments of such fearful suspense, were satisfied with the balance sheet."

"PREPARE WAR." The Herald of Jan. 25th, 1868, just received, contains foreign news by cable, of Jan. 24th, from St. Petersburg. The Boersen Zeitung calls attention to the fact that the new French Army Bill increases the power of Louis Napoleon, and is sure to prompt him to assume a higher stand, and a bolder tone in regard to European politics. A Paris telegram of the 24th ult., from La Patrie, says: "Every power in Europe is entirely engaged in arming itself, as if for anticipated war." Yet in all this the Christian Advocate writer sees everything "hopeful" for the Millennium. Yet the Revelator says that it indicates "the time of the dead that they should be judged." JOHN TAYLOR.

New Sharon, Me.

For the World's Crisis.

FORMER AND RECENT REVIVALS.

DEAR READER:—If ever we needed such revivals as they had in former days, we need them now in this crisis of time; for instead of the people growing better, as a general thing, they are growing "worse and worse." In ancient times, revivals caused people to rejoice in the Lord. When the disciples of our Master went forth to preach the gospel, the people rejoiced and were glad. When there was a revival in a certain city, we are informed by the inspired penman that "there was great joy in that city." Is such the case in modern times? No; in their general sway they are like cisterns that hold no waters of divine grace. They deliver not the soul from the bondage of sin, nor give a foretaste of heaven. Then there is good reason in this crisis of time why we should desire a revival of pure and undefiled religion; that those our fellow men who are out of the ark of safety, and who are led captive by the adversary of souls at his will, may be delivered from the bondage of error, superstition and sin, and admitted into the glorious liberty of the children of God. "O Lord, revive thy work."

When we look about us, and see so many of our fellow mortals groping in darkness, strangers to God, ignorant of his character, his will, and his love; we cannot suppress our desires for a revival of that religion which is pure and undefiled; which works by love and purifies the heart. There is great need of a revival of this kind of religion in this trying and heart-rending day of confusion. We need it that neighborhoods and communities may be bound together by the ties of affection and love; that we may be led to love our neighbors as we do ourselves; that we may be led to love God more and better, and to live in obedience to his requirements; that we may have more zeal in the cause of love and righteousness; that we may be strengthened against sin and temptation, and enabled to overcome the world, the flesh, and the deceitful works of darkness. We want to see the professed followers of our Master more zealous in the cause in which they profess to be engaged; we want to see more working, acting, praying christians; we desire to see them live and act in such a way as will give them a foretaste of heaven. We wish to see them live in such a way as will prove the sincerity of their professions. We want to see them practice the principles of the gospel, so that the unbeliever may be led to banish his doubts, the deluded his fears, and the sinner his sins; that all may be brought to a knowledge of the truth, and finally be prepared for the joys of heaven, where there is no sorrow, pain, or woe.

In closing this subject, let me make a few remarks which I think may not be amiss. There are, no doubt, many at the present day, who profess to be disciples of Christ, who have need of regeneration, who are praised and puffed up, who are far from being like Him who took little children in his arms and blessed them. Such should become meek and lowly, like their Master; they should become humble, penitent, and teachable, like little children. By so doing, they may enter that kingdom which is everlasting. Let us then strive to be like Him who humbled himself and became obedient unto the death of the cross, for our good, for our redemption, and for our salvation. May we keep his examples ever before us, and follow them; and in due time we shall reap our reward,—everlasting life, and partake of the joys of eternal bliss. God grant that we may all be true, loyal, and faithful subjects of the great King, and eventually be permitted to sit down in the everlasting kingdom of rest in the world to come.

Fisherville, N. H. JOHN ELKINS.

THE GOSPEL OF WORK.

The latest gospel in this world is work. Know thy work, and do it. Know what thou canst work at, and work at it like a Hercules. Blessed is he who has found his work. Let him ask no other blessedness. He has a work and life purpose; he has found it and will follow it. Every noble work is at first impossible. In very truth for every noble work the possibilities lie diffused through immensity, inarticulate, undiscoverable except to faith. Like Gideon thou shalt spread out thy fleece at the door of thy tent, and see if under the wide arch of Heaven there be any bounteous moisture or none. Thy heart and life purpose shall be as a miraculous Gideon-fleece spread out in silent appeal to Heaven, and from the kind immensities, what from the poor unkind localities and town and country parishes, there never could blessed dew-moisture to suffice thee shall have fallen. All true work is sacred. In all true work were it but hand-craft, there is something of divineness.

Labor, wide as the earth, has its summit in Heaven. Sweat of the brow, and up from that to sweat of the brain, sweat of the heart, which includes all Kelper calculations, Newton meditations, all sciences, all spoken epics, all acted heroisms, and martyrdoms, up to that bloody sweat which men have called divine. O, brother, if this is not worship, the more pity for worship, for this is the noblest thing under God's sky.—Home Guardian.

For the World's Crisis.

THE MEMPHIS MISSION.

Jan. 17. A pleasant day, and the snow and ice are yielding to the warm rays of the sun. Our work on the Chapel, which has been suspended for more than a week, was this morning recommenced. Four men, besides Bro. Reed and myself, are at work, and we hope in a few days to have the outside finished. Had the weather continued warm and pleasant until now, the house would have been nearly completed. The severity of the winter here has greatly affected business and outdoor work. This people cannot work in the cold, nor do the whites here exhibit much enterprise when the thermometer gets below freezing point. All is still here in a snow-storm, or when it is not thawing. When we ourselves could have worked on the building, no one could be obtained to do so. So all has had to lie still until the "weather broke."

Bro. Himes is not with us now. He left us more than a week ago for Randolph, in this state, which is up the river from here about one hundred miles. He went to preach the glad tidings in the "regions beyond." We are anxiously looking for his return, and trust he will soon be with us again to help establish fully the work here begun.

Our school is not now in session. To reduce our expenses and enable me to devote my time as much as possible to the building of the chapel, we gave up the place we have hired so long and stopped the school. We now hold our meetings in the house in which we live. Sabbath evenings we have two meetings—one about a mile distant, and thus divide our surplus of help, and have all hear that we can. Our meetings of late have been most blessed—better than ever before. There is an increasing interest manifested in the message we are proclaiming. The ear is fully open to hear, and the heart is more deeply affected by the word of God than ever I have before witnessed among this people.

18th. Another sunny day, but still the air is sharp and chilly. We are making another great soup. The beef for it cost one dollar. The vegetables sent to us from Bristol, R. I., come into use now; and with many thanks to God and the dear friends there we deal them out to the hungry. Yesterday I bought a barrel of meal to give out ourselves, instead of buying in small quantities at the grocery, as the poor call for it. Something is saved by purchasing in large quantities; and thus more can be given. But it is seldom that we have funds on hand to buy thus; so we have to purchase at retail prices.

We have now in our family three orphan girls, who have no place to live. We are hoping to find places for two of them, the other will remain to assist Sr. Northrup in the duties of the mission family. It is very difficult here now to find homes or places for the poor and friendless colored children; so we must provide as well as we can for those who are left on our hands. We are making the best use possible of the means and clothing sent us for distribution. We can give only to those who are really suffering for the necessaries of life. We give no money, but purchase all that we give which is not sent us. We give to none without protesting against their using stimulants; and are trying to get all to leave off the use of tobacco, snuff, coffee, and the general use of sugar. We positively refuse to give to those who drink whiskey, or are in the habit of spending their money for ardent spirits of any kind. We exact a pledge of many to whom we give, of habits of temperance; and it is generally understood that none who are not trying to be temperate will be the recipients of our bounty. The past week has been one of special labor and trial; our situation is a very trying one. Our house is constantly thronged with those who hear we have to give; and with the comparative little we have, and the many who come to be helped, it is very difficult to give satisfaction, and make all feel that they are treated equally well. Many of those who are less needy think they ought to receive as much as others, and often complain, and say we are partial. We give as privately as possible, but it is impossible to give and not have them tell each other what they receive.

Then there are other difficulties in all the work which only those who are here know. It is a burden bearing position, and requires great strength of mind as well as body, to bear up and maintain at all times an even condition of spirit. But the trial and labor is not long, and so we can afford to suffer more, and work the harder while they last.

Sunday, 19th. Prayer meeting in the morning from seven to nine, Sunday School from ten until two P. M. Preaching from two to four, and at seven in the evening. The day has been cloudy, with indications of rain. The frozen ground and ice have yielded sufficiently to make the traveling muddy and bad for many of our poor ones here who have not shoes sufficiently whole to keep their feet dry. But notwithstanding this, we had quite a full Sunday School, and meeting. Two hundred and thirty-six verses from the Bible were recited, an increase over last week of fifty-one. One scholar, a girl of thirteen years of age, learned during the week and recited to-day fifty-six verses. It is quite certain she will obtain the first prize. Her mother, a woman of about forty years, recited the next highest number, twenty-six. Another, an orphan girl, who lives with us, recited thirty; all of which she learned during the week. Twenty was her number last week. There is great interest in this exercise; and if the weather and traveling were favorable, or the people had proper shoes, there would be a much larger attendance, and consequently many more verses learned. We are laboring under great disadvantages now, but hope soon to be better provided for, and be able to enlarge the ground of our labor.

Since my last journal, I have received the following donations in money, with the statement that the clothing is on the way: Bro. R. E. and Sr. R. G. Ladd, Springfield, Mass., $5.00, and one barrel of clothing. From Bro. Geo. T. Adams, $22.00, which came from the Christian church in Castleton, Vt., through Bro. C. S. Sherman. Two "aged ladies," $2.00. From the family of N. D. Wight and Sr. C. Boynton, Bond's Village, Mass., $3.00, and a barrel of clothing. From Srs. Hewitt and Thayer, and others in Seneca Falls, N. Y., $2.00, and two barrels of clothing. Emma L. Higgins, Worcester, Mass.* "A Bro. in Christ," East Boston, Mass., $3.00.

I. I. LESLIE.

* No amount specified.—ED.

For the World's Crisis.

HYMN.

Bright the hours, faith attending,
When our Lord in love we greet,
Sweet the time, his grace descending,
While, like Mary at his feet,
We wait and worship and rejoice
In love divine, our happy choice.

Raise high our thoughts, our voices raise,
With feelings bowed before the throne,
"His name," indeed, "above his praise,"
Yet loving, looks upon our own.
Such condescension, all divine,
May this experience be mine!

Philad. CHS. GREENE.

For the World's Crisis.

"BONDS AND AFFLICTIONS ABIDE ME."

There is no tutor under which we are schooled whose lessons are so indelibly fixed on the mind and heart as experience, especially when applied in the form of reverses and afflictions.

We often have presented to our sight objects of sympathy which are, perhaps, viewed with indifference, simply because the quivering chord of suffering in them meets with no response, from the remembrance of a like affliction endured by ourselves.

It is the scarred hand that winds the soothing bandage around the burnt finger with gentlest touch; and the bowed form, whose frame has been racked with pain, that can so adjust that pillow, and smooth that bed, that the sufferer looks up with astonished satisfaction.

It is that cottage whose inmates have passed through the furnace of affliction, that you approach with fullest confidence that your call for help will meet with a hearty response.

Theory makes a gentleman scholar; but experience alone can develope a practical man.

A naturally sympathetic heart, whose covering is the picture of health, may think to feel for others' woes; but, alas! when experience instructs such a heart, it learns for the first time how to feel for the afflicted.

I feel entitled to the liberty of making the above observations from recent experience, having witnessed the sufferings of my wife for the last eight weeks, whose sickness has required watchers every night. I have learned the worth of some things which were not appreciated before. Yet she is the pupil, still in the furnace.

O for grace that we may feel that our light afflictions will work out for us a "far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." True, it is the bitter that makes the sweet desirable. The Lord is good in this our affliction. He knoweth our needs, and each want is supplied. Little did I think my winter's work would be what it is. Thus the Lord has suffered it to be, and I must submit. There has some good come out of it to me, which I hope may be sanctified to the good of others.

WM. A. FENN.

P. S.—Let the above serve as an an explanation to my friends who have called for my labors without receiving a response.

W. A. F.

TROUBLE FROM WITHIN.

The passionate, ill natured man lives always in stormy weather, even though it be the quiet of dew-fall around him; always wronged always hurt, always complaining of some enemy. He has no conception that this enemy is in his own bosom, in the sourness, the ungoverned irritability, the habitual ill nature of his own bad spirit and character. I speak not here of some single burst of passion, into which a man of amiable temper may for once be betrayed; but I speak more especially of angry characters, always brewing in some tempest of violated feeling. They have a great many enemies, are unaccountably ill-treated, and cannot understand why it is. They have no suspicion that they see and suffer bad things because they are bad, that being ill-natured is about the same thing as receiving ill-treatment, and that all the enemies they suffer from are snugly closeted in their own evil temper.

The same is true of fretful persons—men and women that wear away fast and die, because they have worried life completely out. Nothing goes right; husband, or wife, or child, or customer, or sermon. They are pricked and stung at every motion they make, and wonder why it is that others are permitted to float along so peacefully, and they never suffered to have a moment's peace in their lives. And the very simple reason is, that life is a field of nettles to them, because their worrying tempers are pricking out through the tender skin of their uneasiness. Why, if they were set down in paradise, carrying their bad mind with them, they would fret at the good angels, and the climate, and the color even of the roses.—Dr. Bushnell.

WORKING CHEAP.—"What does Satan pay you for swearing?" asked a gentleman.—"He don't pay me anything," was the reply. "Well, you work cheap; to lay aside the character of a gentleman; to inflict so much pain on your friends and civil people; to suffer; and lastly to risk losing your own precious soul, and all for nothing. You certainly do work cheap—very cheap indeed.

☞ The influence of the press is rapidly increasing in Pagan lands. A missionary at Kolapoor, India, writes that in 1866 he circulated 4610 volumes of the publications of the American Tract Society of this city. He says that the number of Hindoo readers shows a remarkable increase from year to year.

☞ If we would stand, Christ must be our foundation; if we would be safe, Christ must be our sanctuary.

LETTERS FOR THE PEOPLE.

BRO. GRANT:—The following appeared in the Rochester Express, in answer to the article I sent you, signed "A Servant of the Lord Jesus Christ," headed "Letters from the people."

MESSRS. EDITORS:—In your issue of Dec. 30th, I find myself with others accused again not only of being "revisers of the divine word," but, "insidious, subtle," and "bold blasphemers of that word." The apology for this language is, "that the children of God in this city be not deceived and led away by these specious and cunning devices of the adversary." I shall think myself happy if permitted through your columns to speak for myself, "touching all the things whereof I am accused of the Jews."

First—as "revisers of the divine word." Who revised Eccl. 12: 7, so as to read soul for the Hebrew word ruach, never once rendered soul in our English version? Who has revised Acts 4: 12, and left out the only (onoma) name by which we can be saved? Who revises Titus 2: 13, to make God and our Savior one person, and then accuses us as "pretended revisers?" Consistency, thou art a jewel!

Their principal teacher publicly declared that the word "immortal" occurs but once in the scriptures and is applied to God, and never to Jesus Christ. Does the writer attempt to show that it occurs more than once? No. He boasts of going even "further than these learned men, and says that the word 'immortal' does not occur at all in the 'scripthres,' and is not applied even to God." Then our English version is not the "Scriptures," and where, then, is our fault? Did the writer suppose that we should find our English word "immortal" in the Greek text? Not certainly for revising, but for not revising. But as teachers "if they have any knowledge of the Greek language, they know that their statement that the word 'immortal' occurs but once to be in every respect false." Did King James' translators understand the Greek? Do Prof. Whiting, McKnight and other translators "have any knowledge of the Greek," and did they know when they translated the Greek word apthartos "immortal," in 1st Tim. 1: 17, that it is in every respect false? Why has this "servant of the Lord Jesus Christ," as he styles himself, suffered such things from such men so long, and now anathematizes us who simply quote their words? Ah! we should have known them false. A writer who signs himself F. W. H., believes that the letter of the Scriptures "killeth," and like an honest man has fled from it altogether, and will have no more to do with "textual quibling," and so gives his own opinion in his own language, But this writer, while he repudiates the English text as the "Scriptures," has fled to the Greek, and no doubt seems formidable to many in his Grecian fort, which has so often proved a refuge from pursuit for the "clerical order. Permit us therefore, to "feel" of him somewhat in his new entrenchment, and see whether he has "stove pipe" or cannon.

He says that the word translated immortal in 1 Tim. 1: 17, is the Greek word apthartos, and only once rendered "immortal." Then it does occur once? That is just what we preach. Where is the "blasphemy?" It should not have been rendered immortal at all, he says. Is not the Greek word athanasia correctly translated "immortality?" This he admits. Then, when I read 1 Tim. 6: 16, Who only hath "immortality," (athanasia) and applied to the same being that it is called eternal, and "immortal" from apthartos, elsewhere rendered incorruptible, shall I say that the translators knew it was false in every respect? Here, then, is one word that is correctly rendered immortal. "Who only hath immortality." If this be spoken of the Son, then the Father is wanting. If it be of the Father, then the Son is dependent. Here are facts. Let us test them. In 1 Tim. 1: 17, we read of a "king" eternal, immortal, invisible, called the only wise God. In 1 Tim. 6: 15, we read that Christ "in his times will show the blessed and only Potentate (dunastees) the King of kings and Lord of lords," and will show "who only hath immortality," whom no man hath seen or can see. Here in both texts there is brought to view, 1st a being that is called a King; this is applied to Father and Son. 2d. An eternal, immortal and an invisible being. Does the eternal and immortal belong to Christ? What is immortality? "The quality of never ceasing to live." Did Christ die? "I am he that liveth and was dead!" Rev. 1: 18. "Unto him that loved us and washed us in his own blood." Rev. 1: 5. Then the Son (whyos) was not "immortal," and the declaration, who only hath immortality, belongeth to "the all-wise God." Does the invisible and unseen belong to the Father or Son? "No man hath seen the Father at any time." John 1: 18. "Ye have neither heard his voice nor seen his shape." John 5: 37. Who saith this? "The only begotten Son [whyos] which is in the bosom of the Father." Then the invisible, unseen belongeth not to Him that saith, "handle me and see," but to Him "who only hath immortality, whom no man hath seen or can see."

But is the Father ever called "the King"? Yes, "the King invisible." The word King is first applied to God, as Cruden says. Ps. 44: 4, Isa. 43: 15. Is God ever called "the Savior" of saviors and the God of gods? It is he that raiseth up Saviors to his people. Judges 3: 9. He raised up a Savior for us; blessed be his name forever. He raised him up from death; therefore our Savior was not immortal. Acts 13: 23. "Of this man's seed hath God, according to his promise, raised unto Israel a Savior, Jesus;" they procured his death; they took him down from the tree and laid him in a sepulchre. "But God raised him from the dead." Acts 13: 30. But is not salvation the peculiar work of the Lord Jesus Christ, and of him alone?" No. The Father so loved the world as to give his Son to die to save, "that whosoever believeth might not perish," and raised him from the dead for this purpose. The Father had "immortality;" the Son was made a little lower than the angels for the suffering of death, that he might taste death for every man. Heb. 2: 9, 10.

So the Father gave him another life, and hence he is "alive forevermore," "death hath no more dominion over him." So he saith, "As the Father hath life in himself, so hath he given unto the Son to have life in himself." John 5: 26. "By this statement," says the writer, "they boldly and blasphemously deny the co-equality, co-existence and co-eternity of the Son with the Father." Whoever charged him with making himself equal with God but the Jews? Neither the English nor Greek Scriptures assert it of Christ. And himself saith, "My Father is greater (mizon) than I. Mizon, the Greek word rendered here "greater," is rendered "greater" and "greatest" forty-two times, once "more," and once "elder." Which will you have it, "greater" or "elder?" Either incurs the imputation of "bold and blasphemous" with the writer. Who charged our blessed Savior with "blasphemy" because he said, "I am the Son of God"? Jews! Who will call us "bold blasphemers" when we repeat our adorable Lord's word? Let the curious answer. "But they boldly and blasphemously deny his co-existence with the Father." Co-existence is defined, "to exist at the same time." If the writer means that the Son has existed all the time that the Father has, then the Son is again "blasphemous," for he says, "I am he that was dead, and am alive again," unless it can be shown that the Father was dead at the same time. Then how could the Father raise up the Son if he was dead himself? Lastly, his co-eternity with the Father is "boldly and blasphemously" denied. To make men believe that God, the Father, has begotten a Son as old as himself, may do or be suffered in the dark ages of Papal rule, but will not go down with unprejudiced thinkers in the nineteenth century, when he declares himself to be "the beginning of the (krisis) creation of God." Rev. iii: 14. Thus "the Christ" "boldly," and as the writer says, "blasphemously," denies his co-equality, co-eternity and co-existence with the Father. I am happy to stand up (and be reproached) for Jesus. How true the saying, "The servant is not above his master;" and how blessed the promise, "If we suffer with him we shall reign with him."

"I stand upon His precious word,
My soul rejoiceth free;
The glorious light the gospel gives,
Is light that shines for me.
I'll suffer now, I'll triumph then,
I'll die for Jesus here;
In that bright world I'll live again,
A conqueror's crown to wear."

Rochester, Jan. 3, 1868. H. PRATT.

THE UNSEARCHABLE WORK.

When our wickedness had reached its height, and it had been clearly shown that its reward—punishment and death—was impending over us; and when the time had come, before appointed of God, for manifesting his kindness and power, how the one love of God, did not thrust us away, with hatred,; but took upon himself the burden of our iniquities.

For what else could cover our sins but his righteousness? By what other one was it possible that we, the wicked and ungodly, could be justified than by the only Son of God? O, what a sweet exchange! O, unsearchable work! O benefits surpassing all expectation! that the wickedness of many should be hid in a single righteous One, and that the righteous one should justify many transgressors!—Anonymous Epistle to Diognetus, written early in the second century.

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

THE FIRST LESSON.

The first lesson a child is to learn is to obey. It is the duty of parents, and particularly of the mother, to teach their little ones this lesson. The happiness and good of the child require it; and nothing so much promotes the comfort of the parents. Therefore it is the duty of the parent to secure obedience from his children; and, if he does not do it, he will have to answer to God for his neglect and sin.

Obedience to parents is the law of God, who thought it a matter of sufficient importance to make it one of the ten commandments, which he wrote with his own fingers upon the tables of stone. "Honor thy father and thy mother" is God's word; and to this command he added a promise, "that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." This is the only command which has a promise added to it.

Now, if this is his law for children, is it not just as much his will that parents should secure this obedience; that they should teach it to their children, and train them into it?

When shall the parent begin to teach this great lesson? Just as soon as the child knows any thing. The mother must not let the child have its own way until it is four or five years old, and then try to make it obedient; it will be too late then. She must not wait even until the babe can talk and walk; it will be hard work then. No; she must begin with the tiny babe in her arms. An infant three months old will know its mother from a stranger; it will notice when it is to have its food, and will be quite wise in many things; and then is the time to begin to make it obey. Says a wise mother, "My baby, only three months old, knew, when I held up my finger and put on a grave look, that such was the language of reproof, though I did not speak a word. If a child wanted any thing not within its reach, and cried if it was not given immediately, it certainly never got it then, and was made to understand this; so that it soon learned it was useless to cry. By a constant, gentle drilling, I found it easy to bring my children to obedience, which made us all comfortable and happy." A home can never be a happy one which is ruled by turbulent, willful children. No; the parents are to be the rulers, and the children ever under the quiet law of obedience.

God meant children to be thus a restraint to the parent, and a help in doing right.

THE WRONG SIDE OF STAR.

I have heard an amusing story of a raw Irish sailor, who was called to the ship's wheel, one night, to steer the vessel.

The captain was intending to take a little rest. As the green sailor might not be able to understand steering by the compass, he pointed out to him the north star, and told him to steer towards that; and not to take his eyes off from it, and to keep the ship headed towards it all the time.

"Never you fear," said the confident sailor, "I'll keep one eye on the little darling and steer right into her."

With some anxiety the captain left his man, with his eye fastened upon the star, as if he never meant to look upon anything else, and went down to his berth.

"O, ye purty little thing, you needn't keep winking out of your bright eye to me, for I shan't let ye out of my sight for a minit," said the proud Irishman, as he grasped the wheel, and turned the ship until it lay exactly under the ray of the star.

All went on well for some time; Patrick talking to his "little hearty," as he affectionately called the star, and keeping his eye steadily upon this beautiful lighthouse in the sky.

But by and by Patrick grew weary at his post. Every now and then he nodded over the wheel, and when he recovered he would find his star at a considerable distance either to his right or left. Finally he entirely lost himself in sleep, and had quite a nap before he awaked. In the meantime, the wind had changed and freshened, and the ship, having no hindrance from the rudder had fairly swung around, and was flying away towards the Southern Cross instead of the North Star.

At length our Irish friend is roused by the flapping of the sails. Rubbing his eyes, he peers into the heavens for his "bright particular star." Of course it was nowhere to be seen in the direction they were then sailing.

Turning round, in his confusion, and looking behind him, sure enough, there it was, blazing away as brightly as ever!

Down into the cabin he hurried: "Captain, captain!" he shouted, at the top of his voice. "Come right up here, this present minit."

"What's the matter now?" said the captain, leaping from his berth.

"Why, ye jest see," said Patrick, "that I've sailed intirely by my star, and ye will have to pick me out another."

The star was all right, but the poor sailor was turned around himself, and moving in the wrong direction.

I am acquainted with many young people who have sailed beyond their star. I know a young man with religious parents, who has himself united with the church, and has been aided by his friends to secure a good education. He entered college. Soon he fell into bad company; and in thoughtless hours he took his eye off from the star of Bethlehem towards which he had been sailing. He does not seem to be aware of it himself; he is certainly asleep as to eternal things, and is flying along like the wind in the opposite direction. The star is still shining behind him. I wonder if he ever turn around to look upon it!

There go a company of lads into a billiard saloon, laughing as they go. They are members of a Sabbath school, and, on Sunday, the star that hung over the place where Jesus was, sheds its light upon them. But I am sure they leave it behind them as they close the door of that saloon upon themselves. God have mercy upon them! and grant that they may find its hallowed light again before the night of death settles down upon them!

When I see young people sailing or walking for pleasure on the Sabbath, while others are gathering in the house of God, I cannot help feeling and saying to myself, "those mistaken young people have passed beyond their star; and a fearful voyage must be before them, without one cheering ray of light."

GOOD AND BAD APPLES.

One day Robert's father saw him playing with some boys who were rude and unmannerly. He had observed for some time a change for the worse in his son; and now he knew the cause. He was very sorry; but he said nothing to Robert at the time.

In the evening, he brought from the garden six beautiful rosy-cheeked apples, put them on a plate, and presented them to Robert. He was much pleased at his father's kindness, and thanked him. "You must lay them aside for a few days, that they may become mellow," said the father; and Robert cheerfully placed the plate with the apples in his mother's store-room.

Just as he was putting them aside, his father laid on the plate a seventh apple, which was quite rotten, and desired him to allow it to remain there.

"But, father," said Robert, "the rotten apple will spoil all the others."

"Do you think so? Why should not the fresh apples rather make the rotten one fresh?" said his father. And with these words he shut the door of the room.

Eight days afterward, he asked his son to open the door, and take out the apples. But what a sight presented itself! The six apples, which had been so sound and rosy-cheeked, were now quite rotten, and spread a bad smell through the room.

"O papa!" cried he, "did I not tell you that the rotten apple would spoil the good ones? yet you did not listen to me."

"My boy, said the father, "have I not told you often that the company of bad children will make you bad? Yet you do not listen to me. See in the condition of the apples that which will happen to you if you keep company with wicked boys."

Robert did not forget the lesson. When any of his former playfellows asked him to join in their sports, he thought of the rotten apples, and kept himself apart from them.

LOVING JESUS BEST.

"Mother," said little Hugh, coming in from an evening prayer meeting, where he had met the Savior, and held in his little heart sweet communion with him,—"mother, would it hurt your feelings if I should love Christ more than I love you?"

"No, my son!" replied the trembling mother, as she hardly dared to think she had heard aright,—"no! Jesus has done a great deal more for you than any mother has done, or can do, for her dearest child."

Looking up into her face earnestly, Hugh said,—

"I asked you first because I do, mother."

How many mothers would be willing to have their "feelings hurt" in this way? Then let them pray for the Spirit; for it is the Holy Spirit alone that can unlock the heart of even a little child, and open it to such love. We may instruct them in the most blessed truths; but the Spirit must "take of these truths, and show them unto them." The disciples, on their way to Emmaus, talked with Jesus himself; but until their eyes were opened, they "knew not that it was Jesus." The Spirit can open the eyes of the blind, unstop deaf ears, and make the dumb to sing; even more, it can call the dead to life. And this Spirit comes in answer to prayer. If you would have your child love Christ more than he loves you, pray that the Spirit may show Christ to him, not as "a root out of a dry ground," but as the "chiefest among ten thousand, the one altogether lovely."—Child at Home.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance...............$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address.........$5.50
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00.
Same rate for any number under ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give DISTINCTLY and PLAINLY the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO, AT THE SAME OFFICE,
Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM;
An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,
FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.
TERMS:
Payable always in advance.

[illegible]

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 645. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 22.

The World's Crisis AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon at
167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

BLESSINGS.

O the many, many blessings
  Thickly showered round life's way;
Priceless joys in Christ possessing,
  Countless mercies day by day.
On my loving Savior casting
  All my burdens, weight of woes;
He who gives life everlasting
  Bids me in his love repose.

Warmly sweet the sun is shining,
  Clouds are scattering o'er my head;—
Darkest cloud hath silver lining,
  Paths of peace my footsteps tread.
In my soul's deep inmost dwelling,
  Hope sits smiling at the door;
There love's grateful tide is swelling,
  Flooding all its threshold o'er.

Faith unfolds her radiant pinion,
  Plumes her wing for higher flight;
Tells us soon Christ's blest dominion
  Shall dispel dark sorrow's night;
Points to what the prophets, sages,
  Have in by-gone days foretold;
Read me inspiration's pages
  By the light she doth unfold.

While we con prophetic story,
  All our soul exulting sings,
Jesus comes to reign in glory,
  Lord of lords, and King of kings!

Perth Amboy, N. J. ANNA E. McELLISTER.

For the World's Crisis.

THE 2300 DAYS.

WHERE DO THEY BEGIN?

Says Daniel, "I saw in a vision, and it came to pass, when I saw, that I was at Shushan, in the palace, which is in the province of Elam. I saw the ram pushing . . . so that no beasts [or what would be a more proper translation, so that no living] might stand before him." Dan. 8: 2, 4. The "living" (Hebrew *ghahy) that the ram pushed against were Daniel's people, the Jews. For the instruction given to Daniel by Gabriel was, "Now I am come to make thee understand what shall befall thy people in the latter days; Dan. 10: 14. After the time had been given to Daniel, from the pushing of the ram, to the cleansing of the sanctuary (Dan. 8: 14), the command came forth (v. 16), "Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision. And he said, Behold, I will make thee know what shall be in the last end of the indignation; for at the time appointed the end shall be. . . . The ram which thou sawest, having two horns, are the kings of Media and Persia." Then the time commenced some where in the Medo-Persian kingdom. But it could not have been during the reign of Cyrus, for he never pushed against Daniel's people; but he befriended them by causing them to return to their own land. "Thus saith the Lord to his anointed, to Cyrus, I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways; he shall build my city, and he shall let go my captives, not for price, nor reward, saith the Lord of hosts."—Isa. 45: 1, 13.

If the time had begun in the first year of Cyrus, the sanctuary would have been cleansed in A. D. 1812. For the Bible makes his first year, 488, before the Christian Era. Neither could it have been while Cambyses, Darius, or Xerxes, were on the throne; for the sanctuary is still trodden down by the Gentiles. Luke 21: 24. Neither could it have been in the first year of Artaxerxes, the fifth king of Persia; for I can prove from the Bible that his reign commenced in the B. C. 438. Therefore the 2300 days would have ended in A. D. 1862. The pushing of the ram was after the conquest of Babylon. That pushing was not against the governments of earth, but against Daniel's people, that no living might stand before him. After Gabriel had explained to Daniel the three kingdoms, Grecia, Persia, and Rome, Daniel fainted and was sick certain days. Dan. 8: 20–27. Now the angel had to leave Daniel, for he could not instruct a man that was faint. After Daniel had recovered, he set his face unto the Lord God, to seek by prayer and supplications with fasting. Dan. 9: 3. And while he was engaged in prayer (vers. 21–23), "even the man Gabriel," whom he "had seen in the vision at the beginning" touched him and said, "O Daniel, I am now come forth to give thee skill and understanding. At the beginning of thy supplications the commandment came forth, and I am come to show thee. . . Therefore understand the matter, and consider the vision." What commandment? The one given to Gabriel, Dan. 8: 16.

What vision is he to understand? The one given him as recorded in the eighth chapter; for there is no vision in the ninth chapter. What did Gabriel come back for the second time? To make Daniel understand the time, which he failed to make him understand (when he explained to him the three kingdoms), in consequence of his fainting. Did Gabriel give the key, in the ninth chapter, that unlocks the 2300 days? He did, in the twenty-fourth verse; for Daniel says in the last verse of the eighth chapter, he did not understand the vision; but in the first verse of the tenth chapter he did.

No one has ever been able to give the beginning or ending of the 2300 days, till since the light has shone upon the seventy weeks. For while we ended them at the crucifixion, we were all in the dark on that point. "Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city, ... and to seal up the vision and prophecy."—Dan. 9: 24. To seal, is to shut up and make fast. So by the fulfillment of the seventy weeks, the vision of the eighth and the prophecy of the ninth chapters of Daniel should be confirmed, and the measure of time sealed, a day for a year.

Mr. Shimeall says on the word "determined" (Dan. 9: 24), it occurs but once in the Hebrew Scriptures; and signifies to cut off. Rabbinical usage assigns to it but one signification; that of cutting off. In the Chaldeo Rabbinic Dictionary of Stockius, the word chathak is defined 'cut off.' Profs. Bush, Whiting, Fulsom, Saixas, Wolfe of Asia, all say the same. Dr. Wilson of Cincinnati, who is high authority in the Presbyterian church, in a discourse on the cleansing of the sanctuary says:—"I undertake to show that Daniel's seventy weeks are the beginning or first part of the 2300 days allotted for the cleansing of the sanctuary."

Now all can see if the seventy weeks had ended with the death of Christ, the 2300 days must have ended in 1840; for it can be proved beyond all cavil that Christ expired on the cross Thursday afternoon, April 6th, which fell on the fourteenth of the Jewish first month, in A. D. 30. And in 1810 years from his death, the vision would have ended, as shown above. The seventy weeks were cut off from the 2300 days, upon Daniel's people and the holy city.

I think Christ referred to the seventy weeks in Luke 19: 44: "Because thou knewest not the time of thy visitation," the only time given in the Old Testament to the destruction of Jerusalem. Josephus says the war broke out on Jerusalem in the twelfth year of Nero. Dion Cassius says Nero began to reign Oct. 14th, A. D. 53. Add twelve to fifty-three, and you have A. D. 65; just where the seventy weeks ended, and the very year that the war broke out on Jerusalem. The eastern gate of the inner court of the temple, which was of brass, and vastly heavy, and had been with difficulty shut by twenty men, opened of its own accord about the sixth hour of the night, by which the men of learning understood that the security of their holy house was dissolved of its own accord; that the signal foreshadowed the desolation that was coming upon them. Wars, b. 6, c. 5, s. 3. This was in the first month of A. D. 65. The same year Sextius Gallus, president of Syria, with a powerful army marched against Jerusalem, which he might have taken, but without any reason he raised the siege and departed. And many of the Jews quitted the city like a sinking ship.

Now run back from the first month in A. D. 65, where the seventy weeks ended, and you will reach the first month in the year B. C. 426; and counting 2300 years, you will find the same point of time in A. D. 1875. Now take the seventy weeks (490 years), which ended in A. D. 65, out of 2300 years, and you have 1810 years; add 1810 years to 65, and you have A. D. 1875 for the cleansing of the sanctuary.

We will now bring on to the stand an eye witness, one who was at the seat of government in the Persian empire, and saw what Daniel saw in vision, when the ram pushed, in Shushan the palace. And this eye witness will tell us the very people the ram pushed against in the Persian empire.

Esther 1: 1, 2,—"Now it came to pass in the days of Ahasuerus (this Ahasuerus which reigned from India even unto Ethiopia, over an hundred and seven and twenty provinces), that in those days, when the king Ahasuerus sat on the throne of his kingdom, which was in Shushan the palace." The Septuagint render, instead of Ahasuerus, Artaxerxes, in every place where it occurs in the book of Esther. Josephus, Prideaux, Dr. Hales, Dr. Clarke, and a host of biblical scholars, say that Ahasuerus, the husband of Esther, is Artaxerxes. Esther says (3: 7–15), "In the first month, in the twelfth year of the king, Haman cast Pur, for a lucky day to slay the Jews. Then were the king's scribes called on the thirteenth day of the first month, and there was written according to all that Haman had commanded unto the king's lieutenants. And the letters were sent by posts into all the king's provinces, to destroy, to kill, and to cause to perish, all Jews, both young and old, little children and women, in one day. The posts went out, being hastened by the king's commandment, and the decree was given in Shushan the palace." Esther says the decree to destroy the Jews was given in Shushan the palace. Daniel says that the pushing of the ram, that no living might stand before him, was in Shushan the palace. Shushan was the capital of Elam, and was built on the river Ulai; and Elam is in Persia.

We now turn to Dan. 7: 5,—"And behold another beast . . . like to a bear, . . . and it had three ribs in the mouth of it, between the teeth of it, and they said thus unto it, Arise, devour much flesh." The bear is Media and Persia. The ribs are no part of the bear. They said to the bear, "Arise, devour much flesh." It may be asked, Can ribs talk? No; but the people that the ribs represented did talk; but they cannot talk now, for there is not one of that nation alive on the face of the earth. For God had said, "Thou shalt blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven; thou shalt not forget it."—Deut. 25: 19. Dr. Gill says the three ribs represent Haman and his family, the remnant of the Amalekites. I believe it; for we read in Esther 3: 8, 9,—"And Haman said unto king Ahasuerus, There is a certain people scattered abroad and dispersed among the people in all the provinces in thy kingdom, and their laws are diverse from all people, neither keep they the king's laws; therefore it is not for the king's profit to suffer them. If it please the king, let it be written that they may be destroyed. And when the news reached Mordecai and Esther, that the Jewish nation were to be destroyed by the king's decree, Esther appointed a fast, that all the Jews should fast three days. And I will go in unto the king, which is not according to the law; and if I perish, I perish."—Esther 4: 16. Her whole nation, the Jews, were soon to be cut off; and she risked her own life in going in before the king while he sat on the throne. But she obtained favor in his sight, and touched the sceptre, which was an omen of good. And thus God used her and Mordecai as instruments for saving the Jewish nation.

From the time the letters were sent by posts into all the king's provinces, to destroy, to kill, and to cause to perish, all Jews, both young and old, little children and women in one day; and in just 490 years from the time the posts went forth, to a day, the gate of the inner court of the temple opened of its own accord. And Esther says that Haman and his ten sons were hanged on the gallows that he prepared for Mordecai; which put an end to the Amalekites. And the word of the Lord was fulfilled, for his word is truth. Then we see, according to Dan. 8: 4, that Artaxerxes did according to his will, in that he slew them not, after he discovered his mistake; for he made a law that they should stand in their own defence, and they were saved as a nation 490 years till the war broke out on Jerusalem, and there they lost their political power.

In the siege that lasted one week (seven years) from A. D. 65 to 72 (Dan. 9: 27), there were 1,100,000 perished, and 97,000 sold into captivity. In the midst of the week, the Roman prince caused the sacrifice to cease. And now Titus gave orders to his soldiers that were with him to dig up the foundation of the tower of Antonia, and make him a ready passage for his army to come up; for he had been informed that on that very day, which was the seventeenth day of Panemus (Tamuz), the sacrifice called the daily sacrifice had failed, and that the people were grievously troubled at it. Wars, b. 6, c. 2, s. 1.

Artaxerxes became great (Dan. 8: 4) in the eyes of the Jews, for they celebrate the day of their deliverance as a memorial of this day. Now I will prove by three writers in the Bible that the twelfth year of Artaxerxes, the year that he signed the decree, was in the year B. C. 426. Daniel informs us that, from the completion of the walls that were built in troublous times (by the commandment of Cyrus), there should be sixty-two weeks, after which shall Messiah be cut off. The Messiah was cut off the fourteenth day of the first month, A. D. 30. In sixty-two weeks there are 434 years. Now commence in A. D. 29, for they only run fourteen days into A. D. 30 (which answers to the expression "after threescore and two weeks"), and run back 434 years, and we reach B. C. 406. And Nehemiah says the wall was finished in the twenty-fifth day of the month Elul, in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes. Neh. 5: 14; 6: 15.

I have proved by Daniel and Nehemiah that the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes is in the year B. C. 406. Now turn to Esther 3: 7, and you will see that the decree was signed in the first month of the twelfth year of the king. From the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes we shall have to run back twenty years to reach his twelfth year. Add twenty to 406, and we have B. C. 426 for the commencement of the 2300 days.

So we think it is fairly proved from the Bible that the sanctuary will be cleansed in 1875. We believe the Savior will appear in the clouds of heaven before that time, to take the saints to himself; for the first resurrection will take place before the sanctuary is cleansed. Christ's appearing in the clouds is one thing, and his coming to the earth with all the saints is quite another. I may at some future time give the Bible view of the sanctuary to be cleansed, and also the Chronology of the Bible.

A. SIMPSON.

* The Hebrew word ghahy, rendered beasts in Daniel 8: 4, occurs 509 times, and is rendered "living," "life," "lifetime," "liveth," etc., 412, and might be thus rendered, and make sense in the other passages. It is the word rendered "living" in Gen. 2: 7—"Man became a living soul." The same word is rendered living in Num. 16: 28.—"He stood between the dead and the living." The following are a few among many similar examples:—"The living God." Deut. 5: 26. "His kindness to the living." Ruth 2: 20. "The living is my son." 1 Kings 3: 22. "Neither is it found in the land of the living." Job 28: 13. "The living, the living, he shall praise thee, as I do this day."—Isa. 38: 19. —ED.

For the World's Crisis.

"LET YOUR WOMEN KEEP SILENCE IN THE CHURCHES."—
1 Cor. 14: 34.

Peter cautions us in reading Paul's epistles by saying that he has written "some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do the other scriptures, unto their own destruction." Hence it becomes us carefully to examine this text, before we decide as to Paul's meaning, lest we "wrest" this scripture to our "own destruction" by forbidding women from doing that which our God has so positively commanded them to do. Paul has certainly forbidden women from speaking in the churches. There is no evading this. Therefore it only remains to inquire whether he intended to forbid their preaching the gospel; or whether he only meant to forbid their speaking in "the church" when assembled in church capacity to transact church business.

Now whether Paul really intended to forbid women from preaching or not, it is certain that all that he mentions is their speaking "in the church." Therefore, if he meant no more than just what he said, he did not forbid their preaching the gospel, which Christ commanded to be preached, not in the churches, but in "all the world." The reader will now discover that the difficulty is not in what Paul said, but in the erroneous and modern idea of calling a house "the church"; for when we call to mind that the church is neither the house nor a congregation of people, but only those christians called the body of Christ (Col. 1: 24), the difficulty is removed; for Paul forbids a woman's speaking neither in a house, nor to a number of persons, but only "in the church." And since Christ has given that "authority to his servants" (Mark 13: 34), when thus assembled, with which a woman can share no part without usurping that "authority over the man" which the law and the gospel so positively forbid (1 Tim. 2: 12), Paul may well have said, when alluding to this kind of speaking, "Let your women keep silence in the churches."

But how can this "silence in the churches," when thus assembled in a church capacity, conflict with the commission to all baptized believers to preach, not in the churches, but "in all the world"? Paul informs us what kind of speaking it was to which he had reference, by telling us that it was that which violates the "command to be under obedience, as also saith the law" (1 Cor. 14: 34); which law requires that the man "shall rule over" woman. Gen. 3: 16. For if she be allowed a voice "in the church," or the privilege of casting a vote, the law of God is broken, for then the woman would rule over the man; which, says Paul, "I suffer not." But for a woman, with a heart all melted down with love, to call sinners to repentance, or admonish christians to faithfulness, can do violence to no law.

The speaking to which Paul has reference was that concerning which it is a shame for a woman to ask a question "in the church" (1 Cor. 14: 35). Hence, if it be not improper for a woman to ask the question, "What shall I do to be saved?" in that church which Christ has commissioned to "teach all nations," it is certain that this is not the kind of speaking to which the apostle had reference.

But is it not a shame for a woman in a church meeting to ask a question, when by so doing she puts in force that church authority which rules over the man?

Once, in a church meeting in Illinois, I heard this question put to a man: "Will you abide by the decision of the annual, or council meeting?" His answer was, "So far as it does not conflict with the gospel"; which I thought was as much as any man could do, without making that body superior to the authority of Christ. But a woman, forgetting the commandment of the Lord—"Let your women keep silence in the churches," spoke up, saying, "He must take that back"; which the church, being influenced by her, required him to do; hence in this case, at least, it was an everlasting "shame for a woman to speak in the church"; for she, in this case, did not only rule over the man, but caused him to dishonor Christ, by acknowledging the counsels of men as of higher authority than that of the word of God.

That the reader may know for a certainty that Paul only intended to forbid a woman thus "to usurp authority over the man," we will now show that no man, with due reverence for the Bible, can believe that he intended to forbid a woman from preaching the gospel of Christ. This is made clear by noticing that the speaking to which Paul had reference was that which "is not permitted"; or to take the more literal reading of the Greek, "it has not been permitted to them." 1 Cor. 14: 34. It will now be discovered that if we can find a single case in which a woman was ever "permitted," in a public congregation, to preach the gospel, or speak on spiritual things, we will have proved that this is not the kind of speaking to which he referred. We find a woman preaching the gospel even in the temple at Jerusalem, the metropolis of the world, and that not to ordinary persons like us, but to God's peculiar people,—to "all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem" (Luke 2: 38); therefore, no man can charge Paul with having forbidden women from preaching or speaking on spiritual things, without charging him with having told an untruth. Indeed, so far from women being forbidden to preach the gospel, the Lord has honored Mary so much as to give her sermon a place in the book of God, by which she has been enabled to preach, not to that people only, but to all the world. Luke 1: 47–55.

But in allusion to the speaking of women in a church capacity, Paul could well say, "it has not been permitted"; for even to the present day the nations of the world will not suffer women to have a controlling voice in their government, as much as to cast a vote at the polls. To say that Paul did not allow women to prophesy, is to make him clash and conflict with himself. For he had even said in the same chapter, to "THE WHOLE CHURCH . . . YE MAY ALL PROPHESY." 1 Cor. 14: 23–31. The whole church includes both men and women. And now, since he himself has given us the definition of the word prophesy, there can be no doubt as to his meaning; and the definition which he gives is this: "one* that prophesieth speaketh unto men to edification and exhortation and comfort," and "one that prophesieth edifieth the church." 1 Cor. 14: 3, 4.

Now, according to Paul's own definition of the term prophecy, can his meaning be more or less than this: "Ye may all," both men and women, "speak unto men to edification and exhortation and comfort," by thus speaking to them "in the church." Then how could he in the next breath have forbidden this? Notice that it is impossible that Paul could have excluded women when he said, "Ye may all prophesy"; for he had in the same epistle even prescribed the covering which women must have when they prophesy. In that age a woman might appear unveiled in a congregation of women; but it was considered a shame for a woman to appear in a congregation of men without her veil; therefore, when prophesying, that is (to use Paul's definition of the term), when she "speaketh unto men to edification and exhortation and comfort," she must be covered.

To the church of Philippi Paul says, "Help those women which labored with me in the gospel" (Phil. 4: 3); and could he have forbidden the Corinthian sisters from preaching that gospel which he did not only allow the Philippian sisters to preach, but even allowed them to have the honor of laboring with him in doing so? To prove that Paul only intended to forbid women from speaking when the church had assembled to transact business, we may now show that women are as positively commanded to preach the gospel as are men.

The truth of the matter is, that women have the honor of being the first ever commissioned to preach the glorious gospel of the resurrection of Christ. Luke 24: 4–9. Indeed, no man on earth can boast of such an honor as this; for they not only preached the gospel "to all the rest," that is, to that church, which was "a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation," but even to the apostles themselves, "as they mourned and wept." Mark 16: 10. It now being certain that women are authorized by the authorities of heaven to preach, it only remains to know whether men have the same privilege.

By reference to Mark 16: 15, we find that on the evening of the same day there was a commission given to men. This commission was given to all of "the disciples," who were at that time "assembled" (John 20: 19), both men and women. To the apostles "and them that were assembled with them," both men and women, Christ said, "Ye are my witnesses of these things" (Luke 24: 33, 48). But the apostles having all forsaken Christ and fled, of all the witnesses present the women were the best; for they did not only remain to witness "where he was laid" (Mark 15: 47), but were the first at the sepulchre to witness his resurrection; and having this evidence twelve hours before the apostles, the women had the honor of being even their witnesses. These women "followed Jesus from Galilee." Matt. 27: 55. And Paul declares that those "who came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem are his witnesses unto the people." Acts 13: 31.

And who can be better qualified to preach the gospel than those who witnessed the resurrection? These witnesses were required to "tarry in the city of Jerusalem until ye be endowed with power from on high." Luke 24: 49. And those who did thus tarry there were both men and women. Acts 1: 14. And now "they," that is they all, both men and women, "were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance" (Acts 2: 4); for, saith the Lord, "I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy." Acts 2: 17.

From this it would appear that the daughters have the same privilege with the sons. Therefore Paul has well said, "Ye may all prophesy," that is, "in the church" speak "unto men to edification and exhortation and comfort." But the women are permitted "in the church" to speak "unto men to edification." It would appear that they were not allowed to prophesy in the way of teaching men something which they may have claimed to have received as a revelation from God to them. For Paul did not suffer a woman thus "to teach nor to usurp authority over the man," even in a private manner. 1 Tim. 2: 12.

Paul could not here have meant to forbid her teaching what she had learned of him and the other apostles. For the women had the right to teach their children (1 Tim. 5: 10), and "they may teach the young women" (Tit. 2: 3, 4), or their own husbands (1 Cor. 7: 16); indeed, Priscilla, one of Paul's disciples, even instructed Apollos in "the way of God more perfectly." Acts 17: 26.

That all baptized believers, both men and women, are commanded to preach the gospel, is clear from the following: On the evening after the resurrection our Lord commanded his disciples to "go into all the world and preach the gospel." This, then, was one of those commandments given, as all admit, at least to the apostles. And now, sometime which could not have been short of eight days after (John 20: 26), Christ commanded them to teach all baptized believers "to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." Matt. 24: 20. Therefore the apostles were here under as much obligation to teach all baptized believers to preach the gospel as any other commandment that had been given them. Hence the baptized believers "were all scattered abroad," and "went everywhere preaching the word." Acts 8: 14.

The church had the right to elect its bishops and officers; as Matthias was elected to his "bishopric" (Acts 1: 20), and the apostles "ordained elders in every city." Titus 1: 6. But since all baptized believers are, by the authority of Christ himself, commissioned to preach the gospel, Paul could well say, "I conferred not with flesh and blood," but went immediately to preaching the gospel. Gal. 1: 16. Apollos, as it would appear, commenced preaching the gospel before he had seen but two members of the church. Acts 18: 28. And the eunuch had never seen but one of Christ's disciples before he commenced preaching the gospel in Ethiopia, where it is said he planted a large church.

But Paul foretold that "the time will come when men will not endure sound doctrine, but after their own lust shall they heap to themselves teachers." 2 Tim. 4: 3. These teachers are generally more zealous for the doctrine of the church that sends them to preach, than for the word of God; and being servants of men, they preach when the church puts them in the ministry, and stop when it takes them out. They go when and where money calls them, and refuse to go where they can get no pay.

WM. C. THURMAN.

* The word "he," as three times used in the two verses, is not in the original; hence Paul's definition is, "one that prophesieth edifieth the church."

For the World's Crisis.

BIBLE CHRONOLOGY MADE PLAIN
ACCORDING TO
THE HEBREW TEXT.

The chronology of the world from Adam to the flood, amounts to sixteen hundred and fifty-six years; as may be seen in Gen. 5th chapter, commencing with the age of Adam, when Seth was born; and thus down to Noah, who was six hundred years old when the flood came; Gen. 7: 6. These periods added together make 1656. The flood was upon the earth one year, as may be learned from Gen. 8: 13.

It was two years after the flood that Shem begat Arphaxad. The chronology of the periods from Shem to the death of Terah, the father of Abraham, (including the two years Shem lived after the flood, before he begat Arphaxad), as may be seen in Gen. 2: 10–32, amounts to four hundred and twenty-seven years.

According to the testimony of Stephen (Acts 7: 4), Abraham left Haran after the death of his father Terah. The flood ended on the twenty-seventh day of the second month of the civil year. Gen. 8: 14. The same as the twenty-seventh day of the eighth month of the sacred year.

As Abraham was seventy-five years old when he departed from Haran, (Gen. 12: 4), and married Hagar ten years after reaching Canaan (Gen. 16: 3), Hagar bearing him a son when he was eighty-six years old (Gen. 16: 16); this proves that Abraham reached Canaan in three or four months after leaving Haran, after the death of his father Terah.

Paul says (Gal. 3: 17), that "the law" was four hundred and thirty years after the promise that God made to Abraham. We also learn from Ex. 12: 41, that the four hundred and thirty years ended on the fifteenth day of the month Abib, the first month of the sacred year, when all the hosts of the Lord went out of the land of Egypt. The law was given on the third month of the same year.

The next period is the wandering of the Israelites in the wilderness, forty years. Num. 14: 33.

Then Joshua led the people after the death of Moses, according to Jos. b. 5, c. 1, s. 29, twenty-five years.

After the death of Joshua, the Israelites were in a state of anarchy for eighteen years Jos. b. 6, c. 5, s. 4.

Then commenced the period called the Judges, which was intermixed with servitudes. The first servitude was by the hand of Chushan-rishathan, king of Mesopotamia, eight years. Jud. 3: 8.

Then the Israelites were delivered by Othniel, and the land had rest forty years. Jud. 3: 11.

The second servitude was by the hand of Eglon, king of Moab, eighteen years. Jud. 3: 14.

Then they were delivered by Ehud, the son of Gera, a Benjamite, and the land had rest eighty years. Jud. 3: 30.

Third servitude, by Jabin, king of Canaan, twenty years. Jud. 4: 3.

They were delivered by Deborah, a prophetess, and the land had rest forty years. Jud. 5: 31.

Fourth servitude by Midian, seven years. Jud. 6: 1.

They were delivered by Gideon, and the land had rest forty years. Jud. 8: 28.

After this, Abimelech reigned three years. Jud. 9: 40.

After Abimelech, Tola judged Israel twenty-three years. Jud. 10: 2.

After Tola, Jair, a Gedealite, judged Israel twenty-two years. Jud. 10: 3.

Fifth servitude, by the Philistines and Ammonites, eighteen years. Jud. 10: 8.

Then they were delivered by Jephthah, who judged Israel six years. Jud. 12: 7.

After this, Ibzan judged them seven years. Jud. 12: 9.

Then Eglon judged Israel ten years. Jud. 12: 11.

After Eglon, Abdon judged Israel eight years. Jud. 12: 14.

Sixth servitude, by the Philistines, forty years. Jud. 13: 1.

After this, Eli judged Israel forty years. 1 Sam. 4: 18.

Seventh servitude by the Philistines twenty years. 1 Sam. 7: 2.

It will be seen that, by adding these periods of time (from the servitude of Chushan-rishathain) together, we have just four hundred and fifty years; the same number that Paul gives for the Judges. Acts 13: 20. This proves that Paul reckoned these periods from the same point that we have. Josephus is very express in stating the time for Joshua and the anarchy, and also the time of Samuel. He says (Ant. b. 6, c. 13, s. 5), "Now he governed and presided over the people alone, after the death of Eli the high priest, twelve years."

From this point commence the kings of Israel and Judah. Saul was the first king. He reigned forty years. Acts 13: 21.

Then David reigned forty years. 2 Sam. 5: 4.

After David, Solomon reigned forty years. 1 Kings 11: 42.

Then Rehoboam reigned seventeen years. 1 Kings 14: 21.

Then Abijam reigned three years. 1 Kings 15: 12.

Then Asa reigned forty-one years. 1 Kings 15: 9, 10.

Then Jehoshaphat reigned twenty-five years. 1 Kings 22: 41, 42.

Jehozam, son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, reigned eight years in Jerusalem. 2 Kings 8: 17. Three years he reigned in consort with his father; as will appear by comparing 2 Kings 3: 1, with 2 Kings 8: 16. If Jehoram (or Joram, as the names are indiscriminately called), son of Ahab, king of Israel, began his reign in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, the fifth of Joram's, would synchronise with the twenty-third of Jehoshaphat. This is the period where Jehoram, son of Jehoshaphat, began to reign in consort with his father. Therefore his sole reign was five years.

Ahaziah began to reign in the eleventh year of Joram, king of Israel, 2 Kings 9: 29. As he reigned one year in Jerusalem, it must have been in consort with his father Jehoram; for Jehoram, king of Judah, began to reign in the fifth of Joram, king of Israel (2 Kings 8: 16), and Joram, king of Israel, and Ahaziah, king of Judah, both died the same year by the hand of Jehu. 2 Kings 9: 24, 27. And as Joram, king of Israel, reigned twelve years (2 Kings 3: 1), and Jehoram, king of Judah, began his reign in the fifth of Joram, king of Israel (2 Kings 8: 16), and reigned eight years, it follows that Jehoram and his son Ahaziah, kings of Judah, and Joram, king of Israel, all died the same year. These facts may be seen by comparing 2 Kings 3: 1, 2 Kings 8: 16, and 9: 24, 27, with 2 Chron. 21: 20. It must be borne in mind that these kings, Jehoram of Israel, and Jehoram of Judah, are of the same name, and sometimes the same king's name is spelled differently, thereby causing confusion, unless we discriminate when the Scriptures are read.

In the seventh year of Jehu, king of Israel, Jehoash, king of Judah, began to reign. Seven years from Ahaziah's death. 2 Kings 12: 1. Jehoash reigned forty years in Jerusalem. 2 Kings 12: 1.

Amaziah began his reign in the second year of Joash, king of Israel. 2 Kings 14: 1. And as Joash, king of Israel, commenced his reign in the thirty-seventh year of Joash, king of Judah. 2 Kings 13: 10. And as Joash, king of Judah, reigned forty years, it is evident that Amaziah reigned two years in consort with his father Joash; therefore his sole reign would be twenty-seven years.

An interval of twelve years took place between the reign of Amaziah, and his son Azariah (or Uzziah), for in the fifteenth year of Amaziah, the father of Azariah, Jeroboam, king of Israel, began to reign (2 Kings 14: 23); and in the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam, Azariah, the son of Amaziah, began to reign. The difference of time between the fifteenth of Jeroboam and the twenty-seventh, is twelve years; therefore twelve years elapsed from the time that Amaziah fled to Lachish (2 Chron. 25: 27), before his son Azariah began to reign.

Azariah (or Uzziah) reigned fifty-two years. 2 Kings 15: 1, 2. Jotham reigned sixteen years. 2 Kings 15: 33. Ahaz reigned sixteen years; but one year in consort with his father Jotham; for Jotham began to reign in the second year of Pekah, king of Israel, and Ahaz began to reign in the seventeenth year of Pekah; making Ahaz's sole reign but fifteen years. Compare 2 Kings 16: 1, 2, with 2 Kings 15: 32. Hezekiah reigned twenty-nine years. 2 Kings 18: 1, 2. Manasseh reigned fifty-five years. 2 Kings 21: 1, and 2 Chron. 33: 1. Amon reigned two years. 2 Kings 21: 19, and 2 Chron. 33: 21. Josiah reigned thirty-one years. 2 Kings 22: 1, and 2 Chron. 34: 1. Jehoahaz reigned three months. 2 Kings 23: 31, and 2 Chron. 36: 2. Jehoiakim reigned eleven years. 2 Kings 23: 36, and 2 Chron. 36: 5. Jehoiachin reigned three months and ten days. 2 Chron. 36: 9. We here add one year for the odd months that have not been recorded.

We have now come to the seventy years captivity. 2 Chron. 36: 21. At the termination of the seventy years captivity, is the point to commence the sixty-nine weeks (or four hundred and eighty-three years) of Dan. 9: 25 and 2 Chron. 36: 22, 23, in the going forth of the commandment by Cyrus, king of Persia, unto the birth of Christ. These four hundred and eighty-three years give us an inspired chain of chronology, from creation to the birth of Christ, with the exception of the periods for Joshua, the Anarchy, and Samuel. These are all given by Josephus, as we have shown; and that he is right in the length of those periods, is proved by the Jubilee arrangement, commencing the first Jubilee in the ninth year of Joshua, where it must fall, according to the "law" of Moses. In B. C. 1611 Moses received the law, in which the Jubilee arrangement is given, from which to the ninth of Joshua there were forty-nine years; in B. C. 1563. This is the period for the first Jubilee, and as we have the best of evidence that the twelfth of Solomon, and the eighteenth of Josiah, and the twenty-fifth of Jehoiachin's captivity were Jubilee years, they all fall in exact harmony with our "Bible Chronology made Plain."

From what we have proved from the foregoing, all may see that we have no need of what is called "The Canon of Ptolemy," to fill up the links in the chain from the captivity to the birth of Christ, for they are filled by the four hundred and eighty-three years of Dan. 9: 25.

As Christ was born in the fifth year before our A. D., as is easily proved, we have this period to add, to bring the time to A. D., making the chronology of the world from creation to A. D. 4126 years. So that 1874 added will complete the 6000 years. Amen.

L. T. CUNNINGHAM.

P. S. I think we have just as strong argument to prove that Christ will come this year, as we have that the six thousand years terminate in 1875. L. T. C.

THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL. Preach the gospel to every creature; that is, go tell every man, without exception, whatsoever his sins be, whatsoever his rebellions be—go and tell him these glad tidings, that if he will come in, Jesus will accept him, his sins shall be forgiven him, and he shall be saved. [illegible]

☞ Much is being now said concerning the christian uses of tobacco. As for us, we do not get beyond this term. Fancy reading a new version of the Bible; "Take up thy cross, and cigar, and follow me!"

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Feb. 12, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ CASH RECEIPTS.

Our subscribers in Massachusetts and Maine will find their credit of money received for the Crisis on the strip pasted on their paper, which shows the date to which their subscription pays, instead of the No., as formerly acknowledged. Others will be sent likewise as fast as we get each State so arranged. So you can look at the date on your paper, and see if it is changed after sending us money.

OUR MISSIONARIES.

We have reason to praise the Lord for sending out such faithful men and women as are now at work in Memphis, Tenn., St. Louis, Mo., New York, Philadelphia, Jacksonville, Flo., and in Italy. Let us all do what we can to sustain them. Money invested there will produce great profits. It will not canker nor rust; cannot be stolen by thieves; and garments sent will be safe from the attack of moths. We hope all who can will aid in this noble work, and thus lay up something for "the world to come." If our readers could but spend one hour with the missionaries in visiting the sad scenes of destitution which they see daily, and see how much good might be done with a little means, we think they would send a shower of blessings to cheer those desolated homes and heavy hearts. Let us remember the saying of Jesus, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

THE ITALIAN MISSION.

We hope our readers will not forget the Italian Mission. Bro. Czechowski is doing a good work there, which but very few could accomplish. He is in earnest, and enduring many privations for the sake of scattering the light in those dark regions, where there are but very few to bestow upon him their sympathies, and lend him a helping hand. The people among whom he labors are mostly very poor. Bro. C. has taken his life in his hand, and gone forth among them to proclaim the glad tidings of the speedy coming of the Son of man, and other great truths connected with the subject. Bro. C. needs help. Shall he have it? Are there not some who can give him a liberal donation that will make his saddened heart rejoice? Now is the time. Think it over, and do as you will wish you had done when the Lord comes.

TAKING AWAY HER DOMINION.

It is very evident that Daniel's prophecy relative to the "Little Horn," is having its fulfillment. The last item in the prophecy concerning the "Little Horn," is as follows: "They shall take away his dominion, to consume and destroy it unto the end."—Dan. 7: 26. The next verse says, "And the kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey him." Thus the context of verse twenty-six shows, that the taking away of the "dominion" of the power represented by the Little Horn, is the last event before the setting up of the kingdom of God. The inquiry arises, Who are represented by the pronoun they, who "shall take away his dominion?" If we turn to Rev. 17: 12–17, we find that the word "they" stands for the "ten horns" upon the scarlet-colored beast, that carries the woman, which became "drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus." These ten horns represent the powers who "shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire; for God hath put in their hearts to fulfill his will."

We think there can be no doubt but that the "Little Horn" of Daniel and the scarlet-colored beast, with its rider, represent the same power—Rome in its Papal form. A short time before the saints shall take the kingdom, the ten horns are to hate the woman, and their hatred will lead them to take away her dominion. This work is already about accomplished. It began with the war of 1859, when Napoleon assisted the Italians to drive Austria out of Italy, with the exception of the north-east corner, where a new kingdom was formed, called Venetia, thus making just ten divisions in Italy, as follows:—(1) Sardinia, (2) Lombardy, (3) Parma, (4) Modena, (5) Tuscany, (6) San Marino, (7) Naples, (8) Venetia, (9) Illyria, (10) States of the church. These occupy the territory, or "dominion" of the Roman woman, known as the "Patrimony of St. Peter." This "dominion" is now nearly all taken away from the "Little Horn," by those very horns that formerly loved and supported the woman, or church at Rome. Their hatred of her is great, and they are determined to have the last vestige of her dominion, and are only prevented by Napoleon from doing it at once.

The London Spectator thus comments on the "Last defeat of Rome:"

"Another and terrible blow has this week fallen upon the Papacy, a blow which will affect its authority more directly than the series of reverses which have followed the great defeat at Sadowa. Since that battle Venetia has been liberated, and the last hope of regaining power in Italy finally swept away. The Polish Church has been virtually released from Papal authority, the clerical party has been utterly overthrown in Mexico, Church property has been sequestrated throughout Italy, and Ultramontanism has been expelled from the kingdom of Hungary. The Concordat which had been restored there while the Hapsburgs were absolute, required the sanction of the Diet, and with the revival of constitutional life it silently disappeared. In less than twelve months the Papacy has lost control of three great kingdoms, a province nearly as large as a kingdom, and property which in Italy, Mexico and Poland must be worth at the very least £100,000,000 sterling, and might twenty years hence have been valued at thrice that sum. It is a frightful list of misfortunes, yet it is doubtful whether the whole together will be so bitterly felt in Rome as the decision of the 26th of July, when the Austrian Reichsrath, by a vote of 130 to 25, solemnly decreed that the Concordat should cease to exist. A great and stately kingdom, within which there is no spiritual dissent and can therefore be no spiritual harshness; in which the Church, being invested with all rights, can show herself careless of all privileges; in which bishops, receiving abundantly of both respect and cash, need exact nothing—this is the true Roman ideal, and it is fast passing beyond hope. With the Lutherans rising daily higher, Spanish America fallen or falling away, whole Catholic races asserting the right of private judgment upon sacraments, a Mussulman sovereign received by all Europe, an indifferentist Republic growing steadily into a terror to the world, Italian troops steadily drawing in towards St. Peter's itself, where half the Bishops of Christendom in conclave are declaring the Papacy divine, the Vatican must perceive that it is gazing into a somewhat hopeless world."

"WHAT IS TO COME NEXT?"

The above inquiry is becoming quite common in society. The feeling of "perplexity" is rapidly increasing in the minds of the people. They are well satisfied that great and startling events are at hand; but are very much perplexed to know what they are. As they neglect the study of the prophecies, they are all in the dark as to the nature of coming events; and are led to adopt very wild and speculative notions, which are directly opposed to the word of the Lord. None but those who hear or read the prophetic word of the Bible can have a correct idea of "what is to come next."

The following is the leading editorial article in the Minneapolis Tribune, Dec. 29th, 1867; and expresses the pervading feeling in the civilized world at the present time:—

"Our dispatches yesterday brought us accounts of a shipwreck and the loss of four hundred lives. Scarce a day passes but the telegraph or the mail bring their chapters of accidents, murder, and every description or crime; of wars and rumors of wars; of revolutions, plots and conspiracies; of famine and desolation; and in the physical world of mighty upheavings of which language fails to furnish an adequate description. The elements seem to vie with each other as to which can do most violence or lash itself to greatest fury—and in the rivalry of earth, air, water and fire, the old earth is racked and shaken until it seems as if it would be torn from its moorings in the heavens and hurled incontinently through space. Nor do these fearful disturbances among the forces of nature stop with inanimate matter. They permeate the dominion of man, and are exciting peoples and individuals to eccentric courses. Even the inventions of science—the elemental forces which men have tamed and applied to their use, partaking of the irregularity of the times, break beyond the bounds set for their action, plunge madly from the control of governing causes, and bring ruin, death and destruction upon those of whom they were wont to be their tractable servants.

And why not? The men of science tell us that the earth and all that therein is, is composed of matter, and that all particles of matter, when reduced to their ultimate atoms, are precisely alike. Those which enter into the composition of earth, water and air, are identical with the component parts of the flesh and blood of the human body, and the timber and iron which make our ships, and railways, and cars, and engines—and, we are also to suppose, of the subtle fibres which compose the brains, and nerves, and passions of mankind. Why, then, should not the same causes that influence matter to produce an eruption of Vesuvius; an earthquake at Caracas; a hurricane at St. Thomas; a cyclone on the Gulf coast, or a flood in Louisiana, also influence matter to produce revolutions and wars in Hayti and South America; brigandage in Mexico; Fenian plots in England; railroad accidents at Angola and elsewhere; shipwrecks at sea; starvation in India and Norway; the quicksand of passion, hatred and idleness in the south that results in famine and wretchedness; financial and business disturbance and depression, and the whole startling array of crime and suffering that crowd the columns of every newspaper, and show that the machinery of this immense sphere is fearfully out of gear? All, crowding and overlapping each other in a single period of time, must be traceable to a common cause, and that cause a mysterious power beyond the human ken.

Let not the gentle reader suppose that we are endeavoring to excite undue alarm. The facts to which we allude are patent to all careful readers of the daily papers. Others besides us have noticed the universal prevalence—the deluge, we might say—of accident and crime. One of our exchanges in a distant part of the country tells us that the telegraph wires bend under a weigh of woe; that the old earth quivers with throbs of agony from the center to the pole; cities are shaken down, countries are engulfed, fair domains are overflowed with red hot lava; wife is arrayed against husband, mother against child, son against father; a hectacomb is sacrificed on one railway, half as many on another, and on still another the width of a hair stands between a thousand and sudden death; that in social life newspapers are smutched all over with reports of divorce and separation trials, of infidelity and disgrace, of gigantic crimes undertaken, half accomplished or completed.

This is a fearful record. Verily these be strange times, and in reflecting upon them, the eternal why? stares us in the face. Why are these things thus? What do they portend? What is to come next? Really, we don't know, and we question if anybody else does. It may be the voice of providence, speaking in tones of prophetic warning to the guilty inhabitants of earth. At any rate, we deem it prudent to repeat our advice given a short time ago, that all take heed to the error of their ways, and prepare themselves to ride securely amid the wreck of a ruined world when the seven vials of wrath shall be poured out, and there shall be voices, and thunders, and lightnings, and a great earthquake; when the islands and mountains shall disappear, and the last great hail storm shall fall out of the heavens upon men."

"ORDER OF ETERNAL PROGRESS."

The above heading is a peculiar one, unlike any other we ever saw. The following from the Banner of Light, Nov. 23d, 1867, will explain the above heading:—

"We learn from Philadelphia that the Committee appointed at the Cleveland National Convention of Spiritualists, to consider the project of a Secret Society, etc., in response to a call from the Chairman, (M. M. Dyott,) met again in the city of Philadelphia, Nov. 4th, for the purpose of perfecting the organization of said Society. The Committee, and others favorable to the idea, were in session three days, and, after due deliberation, inaugurated a Secret Society, to be known as the "Order of Eternal Progress."

After the adoption of the Constitution and By-Laws, the following named persons were elected as officers for the first term:

Supreme Director—M. B. Dyott, Philadelphia. Box 684.

Supreme Directress—Mary I. Dyott, Philadelphia.

Supreme Vice-Director—Col. D. M. Fox, Lyons, Mich.

Supreme Directress—Mary F. Davis, Orange, N. J.

Supreme Recording Secretary—Henry T. Child, M. D., 634 Race street, Philadelphia.

Supreme Corresponding Secretary—Miss Sue G. Osborn, 917 Arch street, Philadelphia.

Supreme Treasurer—F. B. J. Read, New Jersey.

Supreme Marshal—John Mayhew, Box 607, Washington, D. C.

Supreme Guardian—Mr. E. W. Capron, Williamsport, Pa.

Supreme Sentinel—George Ballinger, Philadelphia.

The work and forms of the Order were then considered and adopted. A Constisution for 'Subordinate Sanctuaries' was prepared and and adopted, and a Charter granted to 'Aurora Sanctuary, No. 1, of Philadelphia.'

Those wishing further information concerning the above Society, can address either of the Secretaries."

It is well known to those who are familiar with the history of the past, that secret societies, when composed of large numbers, have great power to control political, social and religious matters. We are well satisfied that the "ORDER OF ETERNAL PROGRESS" will become a great power in the earth. It is one of Satan's cunning plans to secure power against christianity, and to overthrow whatever stands in its way. While the world is actually growing more wicked every day, and will to the end of the present dispensation; the deceiver is endeavoring to make people believe the opposite; and that a happy state of things will be brought about by the "ORDER OF ETERNAL PROGRESS."

No scheme of the Jesuites was ever more directly opposed to the cause of Christ than this secret society of Spiritualists, which began at the last National Convention, held in Cleveland last Sept. In that Convention, Mr. Dyott, the chairman of the committee appointed to prepare a plan for a "secret society," remarked that "Nine tenths of all the male Spiritualists in the world are Masons and Odd Fellows." He also said, as reported in the Banner of Light, Nov. 23d, 1867, that it is the purpose of Spiritualism, aided by the "ORDER OF ETERNAL PROGRESS," to take measures to "become a world-wide organization, spreading its branches over the empire of the earth, and become a power in our land, rearing its majestic temples in every city and town." This language expresses what the spirits purpose to do. They will not rest till the power is in their hands. They intend to govern the world in their own way, and overturn all that is in harmony with Christ. This is the time for the lovers of Jesus to be brave for their divine Master.

For the World's Crisis.

NOTES, QUERIES AND OBJECTIONS.

BY REV. A. A. PHELPS.

12. You rely upon several passages containing the terms "destroy" and "destruction," to prove the final extinction of ungodly men. Such are the following: "All the wicked will he destroy."—Ps. 145: 20. "Fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell."—Matt. 10: 28. "Broad is the way that leadeth to destruction."—Matt. 7: 13. "Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction.—2 Thess. 1: 9.

The same Greek word (apollumi) is also rendered "perish," "perdition," and "lose." Hence you claim several texts containing these terms, as teaching the same doctrine of extinction. The following are samples: "As many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law."—Rom. 2: 12. "He that findeth his life shall lose it."—Matt. 10: 39. "We are not of them who draw back unto perdition."—Heb. 10: 39.

While these terms are sometimes used to designate physical ruin or death, it will not be denied that they are often used in a widely different sense. God said to his ancient people: "O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself; but in me is thy help."—Hos. 13: 9. Certainly Israel was not extinct. "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge."—Hos. 4: 6. Job said: "He hath destroyed me on every side." "The heart of the king shall perish."—Jer. 4: 9. "The valley shall perish, and the plain shall be destroyed."—Jer. 48: 8. The prodigal son was "lost," though neither dead nor annihilated. Christ came to "seek and to save that which was lost." These and many other passages prove that the terms under consideration are used in a more general sense than you seem disposed to admit. The genuine meaning of them is ruin—of various kinds—sometimes referring to the demolition of a city, or the taking of physical life; but also applied to the devastation of a land—the miserable condition of its inhabitants—the humiliation of a living monarch—the downfall of a haughty sinner. What authority have you for restricting these terms, in the case of the sinner's doom, to mean extinction of being?

REPLY BY THE EDITOR.

The passage referred to in Hosea 13: 9 is very often quoted to show that "destroy" does not signify to bring to an end: "O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself; but in me is thine help." It is argued that after they are destroyed, they may still obtain "help" from the Lord; consequently, they may be "destroyed" and still be alive. This is considered the strong proof text on this point. A few facts may throw light on this subject. The Hebrew word rendered "destroyed," in Hos. 13: 9, is shah-ghath, and defined as follows: "corrupt, to be corrupt, to be corrupted." Let us examine the first three passages in the Bible where this word occurs: "The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence. And God looked upon the earth, and behold it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth."—Gen. 6: 11–12. The word is used in the same sense in Hosea 13: 9,—"O Israel, thou hast corrupted thyself; but in me is thine help." Notwithstanding Israel had become corrupted, yet there was help in the Lord. Thus the text in Hosea, which our opponents have used so much to prove that one may be destroyed and still be alive, falls powerless before the light of truth.

Very frequently we find words used in the Bible, as in other books, in a prolepetical sense; that is, anticipating what is to come. When the children of Israel were about to leave Egypt, it is said in Ex. 12: 33, "The Egyptians were urgent upon the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste; for they said, We be all dead men," meaning we shall die if we do not get rid of the children of Israel. In Gen. 20: 3. we read, "God came to Abimelech in a dream by night, and said to him, Behold, thou art but a dead man, for the woman which thou hast taken; for she is a man's wife." It is often said, when one has taken a dose of poison, "He is a dead man," by which it is meant, he is sure to die. This mode of speech is common. Thus it might be said of Israel at times when their conduct was such as to make it necessary for the Lord to bring destruction upon them. When it was decided to visit them in judgment, as in the case of Korah and his company, it was proper to say, using the prolepsis, (that is, speaking by anticipation,) they have destroyed themselves. In such cases, the destruction, or death mentioned, is literal, and not a figure of speech. The Lord is simply speaking of future events as though they were present. Paul says in Rom. 4: 17, "God . . . calleth those things which be not as though they were."

When it was said the prodigal son was "lost," the father supposed he was dead; but when he saw him coming home, he said: "This my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found." Luke 15: 24. Before the son appeared, his father spoke of him as being dead, or destroyed; but when he saw him, he reverses his language, and puts "alive" in the place of "dead;" and "found" in the place of lost." He was "found" "alive," instead of "dead," or destroyed as his father supposed.

There are thirty-eight words in the Hebrew Testament and eleven in the Greek, which are rendered destroy, destroyed, destruction, etc., but not one of these words is defined to mean suffering. Why, then shall we say when these words apply to the future punishment of the wicked, they signify torment in unending existence? Let us look at a few examples where the word destroy occurs. "And the Lord said, I will destroy man, whom I have created, from the face of the earth; both man and beast, and the creeping thing. and the fowls of the air."—Gen. 6: 7. "And every living substance was destroyed which was upon the face of the ground, both man and cattle, and the creeping things, and the fowl of the heaven; and they were destroyed from the earth; and Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark." Gen. 7: 23. Will any one say that when those beasts, creeping things, fowls, and men were destroyed" by the flood, that they all "remained alive?" The Scriptures affirm that "Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark." Those in the ark were there on purpose to keep them alive; then it follows that those who were destroyed were not alive after the destruction had taken place. "The Lord preserveth all them that love him; but all the wicked will he destroy."—Ps. 145: 20. The Septuagint reads, "But all sinners he will utterly destroy."

2300 DAYS.—We commend to our readers Bro. Simpson's article on the 2300 days. Let all examine it carefully. We think it is the true position on that subject.

☞ In Bro. Wm. Hobb's article of Jan. 29, third paragraph, eleventh line, after word "great," Grecia "very great," while the little horn was to become "exceeding great," etc.

TENDENCY OF SWEDENBORGIANISM.

A Congregationalist gives some reasons why "all Protestants should read and circulate the writings of Swedenborg." Among others is the following:—

"They will prevent any intelligent person from becoming a Mormon, or a Millerite, or 'Second Advent;' and these 'no-souled fanatics' are even now breaking up churches at a fearful rate, and teaching, among other blasphemous dogmas, that the breath of God, as breathed into Adam, and the breath of Jesus, as breathed upon his disciples after his resurrection, when he said 'Receive ye the Holy Ghost,' was nothing but common air—the same as the breath of natural men and of beasts; and that when a person stops breathing the soul dies, and is buried with the body. These poor deluded creatures are filling insane asylums; and I am informed that two-thirds of the inmates of the asylum at Concord, N. H., were, at one time, of this class."

We do not doubt the conclusion of the "Congregationalist," that those who become Swedenborgians will not be likely to embrace the "blessed hope" of the literal coming of Christ, the resurrection of the dead, and the coming kingdom. Swedenborgianism, as has been frequently shown, is only refined Spiritualism; and is well calculated to prevent the spread of christianity, and destroy confidence in the Bible; for Swedenborg, like other Spiritualists, rejected quite a portion of the Bible, and then endeavored to turn the rest into Spiritual mysticism, which none could understand.

For the World's Crisis.

ORDINATION.

At Lowell Street Chapel, Thursday evening, Feb. 6th, Bro. Benjamin Woodside was ordained to the work of the gospel ministry. Sermon by Bro. Joseph W. White; Prayer, by Bro. Enoch Morrill; Charge, by Bro. J. T. Dixon; Right hand of fellowship, by Joseph W. White. J. W. WHITE.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, on Wilbraham Camp-ground, Friday, August 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments	$317.32
L. M. Richardson	1.00
J. C. Young	2.40

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	108.55
L. M. Richardson	1.50

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$3842.23
Amasa Morse	5.00
Advent Church, Thomaston, Ct., for Memphis Mission, by D. S. Cables,	15.00
J. L. Witherell	1.00
M. Russell	5.00
S. P. S. Brown	3.75

One barrel clothing from friends at Carver, Mass., with $3.00, by L. Beanson. Second barrel of clothing from friends at Lowell, Mass., with $3.00, by S. W. Thurber. One barrel clothing from Stewartstown, with $2.00, by Emery Baker. One barrel from Bradford, N. H., with $1.75, by John F. Davis. One barrel, collected by O. D. Eastman, with $5.00. One package clothing, with $1.00, from G. E. Foster. One package from S. Allen. One package from Sarah Barbadoes.—All for the poor of Memphis Mission.

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments	$176.70
Geo. W. Johnson	3.00
Sarah	2.00
J. L. Witherell	1.00
H. F. Robbins	1.00
M. F. Howard	1.00

PROPHETIC CHART.

This Chart is now ready for sale. It is a large, illustrative Chart of the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation, with the arrangement of chronology in harmony with W. C. Thurman, giving the chronology of the world, showing the 6000 years will terminate in 1875. Also giving the Jubilee arrangement, briefly showing that the great Jubilee will fall in A. D. 1868. It brings out conspicuously the great Image of Daniel 2nd chapter; also the Beasts of Daniel 7th and 8th, with the leopard beast and scarlet-colored beast of Rev. 13th and 17th chapters, with a description of the great red dragon of Rev. 12th chapter, all in large size, making it a grand thing in aiding preachers, or any one, in understanding prophecy. The size will be about six feet square, mounted, for the use of churches, or for traveling preachers.

Send in your orders immediately. Price, $10.00. For sale at this office.

A VALUABLE WORK.

We have just received and examined a valuable work, issued by Dr. E. P. Miller, 15 Laight Street, New York City, which should be read by every body. It is entitled "ABUSES OF THE SEXUAL FUNCTIONS." We most heartily recommend it to our readers as a work containing important information for all classes. Every young man and woman, and every married man and woman, should read it.

For sale at the Crisis office. Price, paper 75 cts.; muslin $1.00; tinted $1 25; which we will send, postage free, on receipt of the price.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office.

The Young Pilgrim for Feb. 1 and 15.

The number for February 1st contains, "The Children of the Kingdom," a very interesting story about two young pilgrims, and their trials and persecutions, and the good results of their christian course; a beautiful piece of poetry, "In a few days more, we shall meet on the shore"; "A New Year's Wish," which will do all the young pilgrims good to read; "The Reindeer," with a cut; "Sunday Schools and their Fruits," or churches that have had their origin in a Sunday School; "The Best Liquor," and "Why don't you Swear," for the Band of Hope children; a column of good reading for the Wee Ones; and a very interesting "Love Feast" of letters from the young pilgrims; Bible Questions, Enigmas, etc.

The Young Pilgrim for Feb. 15th contains "The King's Army," a continuation of the story about "The Children of the Kingdom," giving more of the trials and persecutions of the two young pilgrims of Jesus, Paul and Ruth"; "The Books of Olden Time," with two illustrations; "How we may be like Jesus"; "How we may help one another"; "The First Lesson in Gambling"; "Bishop Soule on Dancing"; a word "From the Memphis Mission"; "Zion's Pilgrim," poetry; "The Influence of Bad Companions"; "Snowballing," with an illustration; "Excellencies of the Sabbath School"; a column of Young Pilgrim Letters; a column for the Wee Ones; a beautiful piece of poetry about "The Snow Storm"; with Bible Questions, Enigmas, etc.

Now is a good time to subscribe for the Young Pilgrim for 1868. Several hundred new subscribers have already been added to our list since the first of January, and we shall be glad to receive several hundred more. See terms on last page. W. B. H.

For the World's Crisis.

"ADMONITION."—2nd Edition.

The 5000 copies of this sharp reproof of "lovers of pleasure," in church fairs, levees, and other church gambling, are gone, and another edition of 5000 is published. The first were sold too low to cover expenses. We put the second a little higher. It is doing the best work in admonishing weak christians and serious-minded persons, who are drifting into these snares of the devil, of anything we have yet seen. Let them go on the wings of the wind. They cost but a trifle—$1.00 per 100 copies, or 20 cts. a dozen, postpaid. Address (with cash) I. C. WELLCOME, Yarmouth, Me.

For the World's Crisis.

ARE YOU ON THE ROCK?

A man who builds his house on an insecure foundation may not rest comfortably a single night. The structure may be beautiful in all its apartments, and admired by all who see it; yet this one defect or oversight renders it comparatively of little value. No man would invest much capital in it, for fear of utter ruin. But suppose the house less handsome, being founded on a rock will increase its value and give both durability and security.

So you may be in your profession of Christ: outside handsome and attractive, having all the appliances of a real christian, while you are utterly destitute of his Spirit. Men may admire your strict profession, and extol you as godly and pious; but all this human flattery can not for a moment give you security, while you must be conscious that you are building on the sand. You may really utter some awful truths, under which God's enemies tremble; and yet you may love the praise of men more than the praise of God. There may be a thirst for human applause while your lips are uttering God's praise.

You may preach Christ as the elect and precious corner-stone, and yet not have him in your building. You may denounce human honor, and yet when you do not receive it feel mortified and discouraged. To be counted "the filth and offscouring of the world" is a lesson that has never entered your experience. You may never have been in much sympathy with the "Man of sorrow."

Have you been trying to make Jesus fashionable? You can not separate the cross and the crucified. There must be harmony in the two. "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." Unless you make the Bible your guide, and build your hope of eternal life on the merits of Jesus exclusively, God will show to an assembled world your foolishness. How dare you trust in uncertain things? If you are a member of a formal or fashionable church, God will not excuse you if you are quiet and do as the rest, but cry aloud and spare not, and show the people their sins.

Perhaps God has come nearer to you than others; he may have spoken to you to sound the alarm. Remember your only help comes from God. It is your duty to dig through the surface, sand, gravel, and clay, until you strike the Rock. It may cost you your good name, or your friends, perhaps father or mother, brother or sister; and suppose it does? are you not infinitely better off? You shall receive an "hundred fold, and shall inherit everlasting life." Men may separate you from their company, but even then you are exchanging only the evil for the good, the earthly for the heavenly. O, look well to your foundation. If your fat salary blinds your eyes to the truth, better starve. They may shut their pulpits against you; even then you are to rejoice for Christ's sake. It is far better to have the woes of man, than the curse of God. Let it never be said of you, "They did not confess Him for fear, lest they should be put out of the synagogue; for they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God."

O, dear pilgrim, while passing along, let not earthly things blind your eyes. Many look well on the surface, but are inwardly full of rottenness and dead men's bones.

O how many love a name in the church, and glory in it; and a blind zeal for sectarianism makes them compass sea and land to spread the form of our church; while over the door might be written, "The glory is departed." In this ungodly age, when but few are found willing to stand up for Jesus, what better course can be taken than the precept of Paul to Timothy, "Keep thyself pure."

This ground-work is the essential element in our christian experience. The man who discovers that his title for a certain piece of land is disputed, how quickly he runs to search the records; and how much more, dear brother, should we seek in God's book to be sure we have no disputed claim. "Let no man take thy crown."

To what painful operations a man will submit to have a dangerous limb amputated, to save life; and yet we see thousands lame, maimed, and dangerously diseased, but refusing the cure from heaven. Better lose one of your feet, or hands, than be cast into hell-fire with both. Do not take another uncertain step. Let God's lamp shine on your path. Pray Him to open your heart and create it anew in Christ Jesus.

You are and have been getting ready to die. Stop! Get ready for the judgment. Nothing will support you but this Rock. When the judgment fires are kindled you will see all other support will fail you. When time shall be no longer, you then will wish for this.

Be wise, take thought, act for eternity, flee every evil work; let your feet press the eternal Rock. Stand on it, walk on it, rejoice on it, glory in it; if you do this, you will see no failure; but if you delay, at the Judgment you can not get on it. If you are not careful, the Rock will fall on you and grind you to powder. S. KELLY.

Port Colden, N. J.

For the World's Crisis.

WHO IS THE OPPRESSOR?

You may learn who it is by reading the thirty-fourth chapter of Ezekiel. I hope all who feel much interested in the subject of this letter, will take the Bible and read the whole chapter. False priests, who eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and rob the flock, and clothe themselves with the wool: they seek not to restore the lost, or to heal the sick, or strengthen the weak, or bind up that which is broken, but trample upon them, and rule them with force and cruelty. Who will apply the reproof found in this chapter, and fearlessly rebuke the "idol shepherds" of the present day? I can hardly expect at this time to do more than suggest a few trains of thought, which others may follow out according to their ability.

Some of these wicked shepherds are to be found in the pulpits of popular churches, prophesying smooth things to the rich, while the poor are virtually crowded out of their select assemblies. They thrust with side and with shoulder, and push all the diseased with their horns, and scatter them abroad.

Perhaps it is natural for the strong to oppress the weak, but it certainly is not Christian. Christ came to heal the sick, seek the lost, feed the hungry, and preach the glad tidings of salvation to the poor. And he commissioned his followers to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, "and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt and the blind." But these cannot pay the ten or fifteen thousand dollar salaries, and as much more for pew rent, and the salary of the opera troupe called the choir. This class of poor out-casts are not invited to unite with the popular churches. Yet what saith the Master to those who call the poor to the gospel feast? "Thou shalt be blessed: for they cannot recompense thee; for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just."

When a preacher can have his choice between preaching to the poor without pay, or preaching to the rich in a grand edifice, splendidly equipped, for a salary of ten thousand dollars a year, which will he choose? We know the choice of our Master; when all the kingdoms of the world were offered, he spurned the offer, and went on his mission to the poor, and persevered, even when he had not where to lay his head. Follower of Jesus, minister of the gospel, are you ready and willing to follow in his steps?

One thought more and I close. We are told now that "it is a sin to be sick." It cannot be the choice of any one to be sick. All alike desire to be well and strong. And all will be soon, praise the Lord. Let the man that is without sin cast the first stone. I boldly retort upon those mighty ones that stand up in the pride of their power, that they are equally guilty with those they despise; only for the present more fortunate. "With the same judgment that ye judge, ye shall be judged." F. H. C.

Sutton, Mass.

For the World's Crisis.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Mrs. C. B. Turner acknowledges the following donations: William Morrell, New London, $4.00; Hiram Austin, $5.00; C. M. Jewett, Philadelphia, $5.00; "a friend to the cause of the blessed Savior," $1.00; I. Whittaker, $1.00; M. Smith, $1.00; M. S. Ichtenthaler, $1.00; Sister Hathaway, Woodhull, $1.00; from a poor preacher, Silas P. Whitney, Ohio, $5.00.

Dear friends: with heartfelt thanks I acknowledge your kindness and liberality, made manifest in this hour of deep affliction and bereavement. You have administered to my necessities after a godly sort. May you in return receive a good measure, pressed down, and running over. Language fails to express my gratitude for so many kind, sympathizing friends. To God be all the glory. I deeply mourn the loss of an affectionate companion. Pray for me. I need your sympathies in this sad affliction. I rejoice that the long, dark night of weeping is almost over. Praise God, we are nearing home. Omens are thickening on every hand that proclaim the near approach of our Life-giver. With a heart all aglow with the love of God, I can respond "Amen, even so, come, Lord Jesus." My longing heart is there, and soon the long-expected day will come, when I hope to be there. From your sister in tribulation, MRS. C. B. TURNER.

Syracuse, N. Y.

For the World's Crisis.

"MODERN DELUSION."

BRO. GRANT:—You will see by the following from the Union and Advertiser of this city, under the above head, that we are getting our advertising free. After showing the advantage of such a call for the church by following the directions of the Master, "Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely; rejoice, and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in heaven," we gave opportunity for conference, and the Master's advice for rejoicing was carried out to perfection.

One gentleman, a stranger, says, "I find more christianity in this meeting than in all the newspapers ever published." One deaf brother spoke for twenty minutes with an inspiration that touched all hearts. He said, though he could not hear one word that was said in the meeting, he could hear the voice of Jesus, and read the rejoicing of our hearts upon our shining faces. Six or more started for the kingdom; and so we go on above all storms of ridicule, contempt, and slander, rejoicing in Him who makes us more than conquerors in this blessed warfare.

Would men turn, and read, and learn that the doctrine of the mortality of Christ and the soul were the doctrines of the Christian martyrs, I think they would be a little more careful about the cry of heresy, unless they had great sympathy for the scarlet woman upon the "seven hilled" city of Rome.

Rochester. H. PRATT.

MODERN DELUSION.

As the world becomes older—as civilization progresses—as the light of christianity spreads—as liberal views in religious matters begin to be more generally entertained—and sects are more fraternal and friendly in their intercourse—it really seems that delusion does not give up its hold upon the minds of men, and people who claim to be intelligent will run after every itinerant preacher who comes along and avows some ideas that, though not new, are different from the popular theology of the day. The small halls about this city are often occupied by this class of preachers or prophets, for they really are looked upon in the latter light by many of their followers; and when halls cannot be obtained, to give novelty to the exhibition, tents are pitched in vacant lots and by-places.

It matters not how absurd or extravagant the doctrines may be that these preachers advance, they will be swallowed by men and women who will follow them night after night to listen, until they become fit only for a lunatic asylum. If a Mormon Saint were to come to Rochester and adopt the same means to insinuate himself into the good will of those peculiar people who are ready for such imposters, they would be quite as ready to adopt his ideas as they are those of others no less worthy of their confidence.

There has been for some time past a man named Pratt preaching to a gathering of people in a room in the Curtiss Block, on Main street, over the billiard rooms. This man, we understand, preaches that the soul dies with the body—that Christ was wholly mortal, and died body and soul upon the cross. A congregation—or church as it is called, is organized—and at times a table is spread at which all take seats to partake of the sacrament. The progress of this "church" is reported through a small periodical published somewhere at the east, and the man who runs the concern here writes marvellous stories about Rochester in his correspondence.

At a recent meeting of the singular people who have given themselves up to the guidance of this man Pratt, he called them to account for belonging to various associations and societies other than the 'church' that he had organized. He was particularly severe upon the Temperance societies, and then followed up with condemnation of Masons, Odd Fellows, etc. We are told that there were among the congregation some who were connected with all the organizations named and they attempted to put in a defence of their course, but were put down by Pratt, who would listen to nothing of the kind. Nothing was right that did not meet his approval.

We understand very well that the class of persons engaged in this kind of business desire to be denounced and seek notoriety in that way, and it does not do to gratify them too much or too often. But it is due to some persons who are not suitable candidates for the Insane Asylum to inform them how they are looked upon by their fellow-citizens and advise them to save themselves ere it is too late. The regular church organizations of our city offer the seeker for religious light and truth the most ample field for inquiry, and such had better seek it among them and save their brains, their character and their pecuniary substance wasted upon these irresponsible itinerant pedlars of absurd theories, which have been advanced over and over again in the last few centuries and as often thoroughly refuted, if they did not fall by the neglect and contempt of intelligent theologists."

For the World's Crisis.

THE DORCAS MISSION.

E. J. Ripley, $1.00; B. R. Fellows, for personal use, $5.00; Louisa Barber, $1.00; I. T. Howland, for the mission $5.00, and for personal use $2.00; friends in Lowell, $3.50; this sum was sent many weeks ago, and was about two months in reaching us. From W. Killingly, $1.00; friends in Kennebunkport, $10.00; Sr. Cole, ditto, the widow's mite, $1.00; a lender to the Lord in New York, $5.00; Sr. Ladd, $5.00; Frank Fielden, $5.00; Sr. Barnes, $1.00; William Simes, $5.00; Mrs. S. T. Palmer, $1.00; a sister in Hartford, $1.00; friends in Bristol, Conn, $6.00; F. B. Jones, $3.00; Mrs. E. D. Randolph, New York, $5.00.

Received a barrel of clothing from friends in Kennebunkport; a half barrel from Sr. Ladd of Springfield; from Haddonfield, 5 lbs. of lump butter, and chickens; from friends in Bristol, Conn., a barrel containing six new quilts, an apron made by Clarissa Bradley, a lot of beans and nuts. These friends have also made me presents of under-clothing.

May the grace of our Lord abide with the donors. We thank them for their kindness towards. We have thirty-six children under our care at the present time. The Lord is working mightily in our midst. About one quarter of our Sunday School have professed to be converted within the last three weeks. As far as I can learn, fifty boys and girls are now rejoicing. We hold children's meetings every afternoon, and have held them nearly a month. We had prayed for this work for a long time, and now we see this glorious result. Many more of the children are seeking Christ. Am up to my eyes in cares and labors, but loving the work. Pray for your aff. Bro. in Christ, F. H. BURBANK.

708 Lombard St.

Correspondence.

From Sr. A. E. Smith.

DEAR BRN. AND SRS.:—I have just arrived home safe and well. Thank the Lord; he has watched over me all the way, and brought me safe back to my field of labor. Though I have labored hard while I was away, I feel much better than when I left home. Thank the Lord. I find lots of barrels and letters to open, and answer, which I shall do as fast as possible. You must remember, friends, that it takes some time to open and enter in the book eighty-five letters and twenty-one barrels, and see where and who they came from. Besides, I have received three letters from our missionaries in Va., asking for help and clothing, which we shall send immediately. They are doing a great work, and must be sustained. I would say to those that have written to me, Bro. John R. Boynton's address is Smithfield, Va. All you wish to send to that address he will get.

I will answer another question to those that have written to me about books. You can send any kind. We can use all either here, at Hackensack, or in Va. We shall repack and send this week eight or ten barrels of clothing and books to Mother Howard, with more laborers to teach and to preach. One word more. I want to say to the brethren East, I shall be under the necessity of withdrawing all my appointments for February and the first of March. My hands, head and heart are full at home, and I cannot leave for some time.

Now, friends, just wait, and I will put all in the Crisis as early as possible. Still pray for us. ANNA E. SMITH.

No. 14 Laurens St., N. Y. City.

From Bro. H. Pratt.

BRO. GRANT:—Still they come, and without any undue excitement they yield to the melting influence of simple truth. Strangers come in and catch the hallowed flame, and like Samson's foxes (Judg. 15: 5) are spreading the fire in new places, to the wonder of the Philistines who inquire, "Who hath done this!" Calls for help come in from all directions. We have three prayer meetings a week in private houses, and three at the Hall.

Yesterday was a day of special interest. Eleven adults, mostly heads of families, went down into the cold, liquid grave, while some thousand people stood gazing at the wondrous scene. Blessed influence!

"O how happy are they Who their Savior obey."

These lines were fully realized by the smiling candidates. The afternoon was a precious time while we talked about, "How are the dead raised? and with what BODY do they come?" In the evening we spread the long table again, and the multitude from two to three feet deep gathered round, and a multitude gazed with tearful eyes upon that most impressive scene. The vacant chair at the head, the broken bread and the cup, told more than words the object of the sacrament. We felt in our hearts to exclaim—

"O what hath Jesus bought for me!"
"Amazing grace! how sweet the sound."

Many, who do not identify themselves with us, aided much for our comfort and convenience at the water, and one family on the island gave the candidates a warm reception as they passed up from the water. Says Paul, "All things are yours"; but never did we so fully realize it as now. God has called men of all professions that are necessary to our aid—carpenters, masons, doctors, tailors, merchants, dress-makers, etc., etc.; and last, not least, policemen, one of which renders us much aid in the crowd at the water and elsewhere. He makes our comfort a speciality. God help him to take the badge of Christ fully.

Twelve weeks next Sabbath since I left home, and never have I seen an ocean steamer plough the waves more firmly than I have seen the cause of truth move through these western waters. Here, where it took three years to educate my son in modern theology, I have in three months seen hundreds rooted, grounded, and established in the truth of God, with a foundation as solid as the rock bottom of the Genesee river. To Him be all the glory forever. H. PRATT.

From Bro. T. H. Ford.

BRO. GRANT:—Knowing that yourself and readers of the Crisis are interested in the great work of saving souls, I would therefore say that some two months ago, our dearly loved Bro. and Sr. Brewer spent two Sabbaths and the intervening week with the Bethel church in this place, and labored effectually; not only to the comfort and edification of the saints, but sinners were made to feel the power of truth, and acknowledge the certainty of the soon coming judgment. Two young men and their wives, one a backslider, came out and decided to be christians. It would gladden your hearts to hear their intelligent confessions of truth; though heretofore they had stood side by side with the scoffers of Jesus' soon coming; but now it is their sweet theme. Since Bro. B.'s visit, there has been a perceptible increase of interest until some three weeks since, when Bro. J. T. Dixon came among us; since which time the interest has increased more and more; and I am happy to say that there are some living epistles whose lives give evidence of the great change the Lord has wrought in them through his faithful, interesting, and instructive ministrations.

Jan. 14th, Sr. Anna E. Smith commenced a series of meetings, which continued some six days. Many brethren and sisters from the adjacent towns and vicinity came in with us, and were much cheered and strengthened, and we were made to feel more in earnest for ourselves and others in the great preparation work for the reckoning day, so close at hand.

The constant attendance and hearty co-operation of many of our brethren and sisters of the Centre St. church added greatly to the interest. Some of their children started in earnest to serve the Lord. May he give them their dear ones to walk with them in the narrow way.

We would also say that we believe the Lord gave our Sr. Smith special favor in the sight of the people, and wisdom to select from the great store-house portions of truth suited to the condition and wants of the people in this place. Good, solid, old-fashioned, practical truth was made prominent in all the preaching. We thought surely this is that quoted by Peter, Acts 2: 17–18,—"I will pour out of my Spirit . . . on my servants and on my handmaidens, . . . and they shall prophesy"; which is to testify. We had some manifestation of the Holy Spirit in our social meetings, such as is not often witnessed in these days of declension and spiritual dearth. Some twenty-six requested the prayers of christians, and there were some thorough conversions.

We sincerely hope that the seed sown at this meeting has fallen into good and honest hearts, and will bring forth fruit to perfection. The coming day will alone reveal how much good has been accomplished. T. H. FORD.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 30th, 1868.

From Bro. C. H. Hurd.

BRO. GRANT:—Knowing that the hearts of the dear saints scattered over the old earth are always rejoiced to hear of the prosperity of the cause of our blessed Redeemer, I embrace this opportunity to inform you that the Lord is wonderfully blessing the people in the little isolated town of Madison, N. H. Nearly a score have been forward for prayers; the most of whom have found the Savior to be precious. Praise his holy name.

Sunday, Jan. 19th, Bro. T. W. Piper, under whose labors the Lord has worked to the salvation of many precious ones, had the happy privilege of planting eight lovely youth in the likeness of Christ's death and resurrection, in the cold waters of a mountain brook, near the base of the famous Chocorua Peak. Others will probably go forward soon. When Bro. Piper began this series of meetings in Madison, several weeks ago, there had been no Advent meetings there for a long time, although there were several Advent families living in the place and vicinity. God is graciously smiling upon them now, and giving them their children to go with them. All feel to praise God for what he has done in Madison.

Brethren and sisters, remember them in your prayers, that they may have grace to endure to the end. They are not as highly favored with preaching as are some of you. I would also say that the little church at Parsonsfield, Me., which has been struggling for light and life for three years past, holding regular prayer meetings once and twice a week, when often not more than six were in attendance, have at last been refreshed, as a reward for their constancy. Four have been hopefully converted, and others have been forward for prayers, and one or two reclaimed. Bless the Lord. CHAS. H. HURD.

Freedom, N. H., Jan. 27th, 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

AND STILL THEY COME.

BRO. GRANT:—I feel it a duty to cheer and encourage our scattered and persecuted brethren by sometimes sending to our papers extracts from the many letters I receive in relation to our doctrines. Good news, even from a far country, is like cold water to a thirsty soul. The following is from a Methodist brother and a young lawyer by profession. He writes in Jan., 1868:

"Dear Bro. Blain:—I have read your work "Death not Life," and so nearly do your sentiments accord with my own, that I seem to be acquainted with you. . . . For a few months past I have done little more than study the Bible, and the doctrines of the Second Adventists, which for the most part I find to be the doctrines of the Bible and early Christians. Of all the works I have read, none have given me the pleasure and benefit that your work has given me. I write you this letter mostly for the reason that you may know that one man at least thoroughly appreciates your able and convincing argument, showing the Bible teaches that the wicked will be destroyed, and not that they will suffer endless torment. I heartily and entirely agree with you, that not men nor demons ever invented a more God-dishonoring doctrine than this of endless misery. Your review of Dr. Beecher's "Conflict of Ages," is admirable. . . . If I was rich, I would like to scatter one million of them in the U. S. . . . I have already delivered one public lecture on the rewards of the righteous and the punishment of the wicked; and Providence permitting, I will continue to let the gospel truth shine on this question, and do all that lies in my power to vindicate the attributes of my Creator, as being those of mercy, love, pity, holiness, justice, and not of revenge, vindictiveness and hatred. I never really believed the doctrine of ceaseless agony, yet I gave a sort of passive or negative assent, because the M. E. church to which I belonged taught that the human soul was immortal, and so must live forever, either in pleasure or pain. I called it a mystery and let it pass. . . . Your work was given me by Bro. ——, to whom you sent some for free distribution. Enclosed find $1, for which send me what you can afford of your work, and I will distribute them. With sentiments of esteem, I am very truly and fraternally yours."

Bro. J. W. Cragg, of Warsaw, N. Y., is lecturing some on our views, and thinks God has called him to prepare for preaching the gospel. I have visited him twice, and believe he should obey the call. Thus they come. Amen. J. BLAIN.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 31st, 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

A RESOLUTION.

AGE TO COME OR IN THE PAST.

At a regular meeting of the Advent Christian Church of Norwalk, O., held on the evening of the 1st inst., the following resolution was passed without a dissenting vote; viz:—"That we fellowship all who maintain christian character as the only test, without reference to their views as to the age to come or in the past; and that this has ever been our position, and that this be published in the Crisis." P. ALLING, Secretary.

Norwalk, O., Feb. 6th, 1868.

Obituaries.

LEATHE. Died at South Reading, Mass., Jan. 27th, Bro. William T. Leathe, aged fifty years and nine months.

Bro. Leathe was converted under the labors of Bro. Miller, about the year 1841, and continued to live a devoted christian until his death. The coming of the Savior was his constant theme, and his great object was to have men see and embrace the truth, and prepare for the judgment. His heart and house were ever open to receive the servants of Christ, and warm hearts and willing hands made them feel that they were in a pilgrim's home. But he sleeps in Jesus, and awaits the voice of the archangel's trump to raise him from the sleep of death to a glorious and immortal life.

He leaves a wife and children to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate husband and father; but they mourn not as those that have no hope. Funeral sermon by the writer, from Psalms 17: 15. JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Died in Falmouth, Me., Jan. 28th, 1868, little Winthrop B., only son of Horace A. and Lizzie M. Farwell, of Cumberland, aged fourteen months.

Our fairest flowers fade away,
We lay them in the tomb,
But hope bids us rejoice that they
In paradise shall bloom.

Yes, when our loving Savior comes,
And death yields up its prey,
We'll meet those darling little ones
In realms of endless day.

R. R. YORK.

SHATTON. Died in Athol, Jan. 28th, of diphtheria, Fanny T. Shatton, daughter of Henry and Fanny M. Shatton, aged six years and five months.

Little Fanny sleeps in Jesus, and with her parents we mourn her absence; but we rejoice that death must soon yield up its precious treasure to the King of kings. J. HEMENWAY.

Married.

In Surry, Me., Jan. 31st, 1868, by Eld. C. H. Leverton, Mr. EUGENE B. TREWORGY and Miss JULIA A. MILLIKEN, both of Surry.

Feb. 4th, 1868, by Elder Rufus Wendell, at the residence of the bride's father, in New Haven, Ct., Mr. JAMES ALLING, of West Haven, and Miss ADDIE E. DENNY, daughter of Geo. W. Denny.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

PARIS, Feb. 6. It is said that the Emperor Napoleon has accepted an invitation from the Sultan of Turkey to visit Constantinople next summer.

VIENNA, Feb. 6. The Vienna Debatte, a semi-official journal, asserts that the Czar Alexander, acting upon the suggestions of Prussia, has protested with other European powers against the extensive armament going on in the principal city of Servia. The same paper says the recent appearance of a number of armed bands in the Province of Bulgaria is calling attention to affairs on the Danube, and adds, that the Prince Metternich, the Austrian Am. at Paris, has been instructed by his Government to press upon the Marquis De Moustier, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, the immediate consideration of the subject.

LISBON, Feb. 6. The King and Queen of Portugal and their suite, while returning from a hunting party near Brazes, were fired upon from the roadside. The guard returned the fire, killing some of the assassins and wounding others. The Royal party then rode rapidly into town.
The King and Queen are unhurt.

FLORENCE, Feb. 4. Garibaldi has written an eloquent and enthusiastic letter to Admiral Farragut, in which he congratulates the United States on encouraging, by the presence of an American fleet, the national aspirations of Italy.

CORK, Feb. 4. One of the gates of this city was undermined last night and blown up. At the same time all the telegraph lines leading into the city were cut. The prompt action of the police prevented any further demonstrations.

VIENNA, Feb. 4. It is reported that Pope Pius IX is willing to resume negotiations with the Imperial Government for a revision of the Concordat.

PARIS, Feb. 8. The diplomatic relations existing between the Emperor Napoleon and the Pope have suddenly assumed much color. The aspect of the correspondence between Paris and Rome is regarded as of a far less cordial character on the part of the Emperor than even a week ago. It is said that the cause of this unlooked for change in the imperial policy is the fact that His Majesty has become convinced of the existence of Bourbon intrigues against his throne, and that these intrigues are for the most part hatched in Rome, and radiate from the Eternal City to the great encouragement of the legitimist party in France and other countries of Europe. As a set off to this state of affairs Napoleon has renewed with King Victor Emanuel his friendly tone and assurances toward United Italy, and has just forwarded a special order to his representative, the French Minister in Florence, to that effect, and also enjoining him to shape his diplomacy with that object.

MADRID, Feb. 8. None of the troops raised in Spain for the service of the Pope will go to Rome, as Her Majesty has received an official dispatch from Paris stating that Emperor Napoleon flatly objects to such interference. It is pretty certain, therefore, that the Hispano-Papal armed Contingents, for which some recruitments have been made here, will be at once disbanded, and that the Queen will be obliged to revoke her military warrant issued in support of the Chair of St. Peter.

DOMESTIC.

THE EMPRESS CARLOTTA.—About a fortnight ago, according to a Brussels paper, Carlotta, the wife of the late Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, was informed of his death and the manner in which it was accomplished. Her first movement was to utter a cry of anguish, immediately followed by tears; but her firmness soon returned, when she observed that she had long expected that a great calamity had taken place; and then (woman like) gave orders that proper mourning dresses be provided her. So far the cruel trial of her feelings had not—the report says—injured her health.

A REMARKABLE OLD COUPLE.—There is now living in the town of Bridgewater, Vt., a noteworthy pair, Daniel Lake and his wife Susan. Both are nearly eighty-five years of age, and are now in the sixty-third year of their married life, and enjoy excellent health, keeping house alone, where they have made it their home for more than half a century. They seem like a young married couple; a cross word never passed between them; and they declare that they never enjoyed life better than they do at the present time. Mr. Lake is a farmer, and as a notable instance of his physical strength and activity, he in his fiftieth year mowed an acre of grass with a scythe and snath—mowing machines not being then invented—in fifty-six minutes, the only man known to have cut an acre in less than an hour.

☞ Rev. Laban Clark is now the senior member of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America. He is about ninety years of age, having been sixty-seven years in the ministry. He commenced preaching on what was called the Brandon circuit, which included the whole of Rutland county, Vermont.

☞ Austria is preparing her budget. She is going to spend 80,000,000 florins on fortifications and breech-loading rifles.

☞ A new sect, terming themselves "Non-fighting Men," have appeared among the sailors of the British navy. Some of the ten years' men of this sect, on claiming their discharge, were asked why they wished to leave the service, and replied, "For the love of the Lord and liberty."

☞ An American missionary has recently, most unexpectedly, encountered a Mohammedan community in one of the interior provinces of China. It is estimated that one-third of the population of the province are followers of the False Prophet.

☞ Very sad accounts are received of the famine in Finland. The peasants in that country are reduced to such extremities that they think themselves happy if they can procure loaves composed, in equal portions, of sawdust, moss and a coarse rye flour. Many have obtained permission from the Government to emigrate.

☞ From Salt Lake papers we learn that the whole country has been deluged with rain storms unparalleled in its history. Wheat sown on the 20th of September was ten inches in hight on the 24th ult.

☞ In Japan, one of the leading men has in course of erection at Yokohama a steam power loom factory for the manufacture of cotton piece goods.

☞ A Russian lady, Mme. Sousloff, has obtained a diploma as Doctor of Medicine in the University of Zurich.

☞ The population of Concord, N. H., is thought to be about 13,000.

Notices.

Vermont State and Rutland Quarterly Conference.

Whereas, we having been frequently importuned, by letters from different parts of the State, and also personally solicited by numerous brethren, who are "looking for that blessed hope, and love the appearing of Jesus," to set a time, and call a meeting in Rutland, as the most central and accessible place, for the purpose of organizing a State Conference, to promote the cause of our Master, the spread of the gospel "in the regions beyond," to obtain a more perfect system of mutual co-operation in this good work; to have a better knowledge of each other, and thereby increase the bond of peace, the oneness of the Spirit, and our fraternal regard for each other in the love of Jesus; and whereas, the S. A. Church in Rutland having set apart the entire present month for a special effort; and whereas our own quarterly conference comes on the 29th of February and 1st of March, therefore,

NOTICE is hereby given that February 27th, 28th and 29th are appointed for said time and opportunity of meeting to organize, as may then be deemed expedient. Our chapel, as also our hearts and homes, will be open to receive all that may desire to come, but beyond that we shall not be able to do or go. We would be pleased to have as many as can remain over Sunday, and participate in the exercises, and partake of the Lord's Supper with us. Sister adjacent churches are cordially invited. Christian character the only test of fellowship. By request,
G. W. STETSON, Pastor.

N. B. Those churches which believe in and are looking for the personal appearing of the Lord Jesus Christ, will please appoint delegates and furnish credentials. Preaching brethren are such ex officio. G. W. S.

Conference at Springfield.

The Bethel Church in Springfield will hold a special Conference in their Chapel, Vernon street, commencing Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, and holding over the following Lord's day. The object will be to awaken an increased interest in this city on the subject of the speedy coming of our Lord, and to seek a deeper work of grace in the church in preparation for his coming. Preaching brethren will be present to hold forth the word of life, and we cordially invite our brethren and sisters in the vicinity to "come up with us to the help of the Lord."

This Conference is intended solely for spiritual labor and improvement, and in no way to interfere with the work of the State Conference.
In behalf of the Com., R. E. LADD.

Northern Ohio Conference.

There will be a Conference of the churches in Northern Ohio, at Norwalk, to commence on Saturday, at 10½ o'clock, Feb. 29th, and continue over the Sabbath. Sister churches are requested to send as large delegations as possible, and all who are interested in the great truth of the speedy coming of Christ, and kindred doctrines advocated by us as a people, are affectionately invited to attend.

In behalf of the Advent Christian Church of Norwalk, O. P. ALLING, Secretary.

Notice.

There will be a meeting Sunday, Feb. 16th, at the dwelling of William Eden, in Buxton, York County, Maine. Brn. William H. Mitchell and B. S. Emery are expected to be present to preach the word. Come one and all.
WILLIAM EDEN.

Conference.

The Eastern Conference will be held at Frankfort Mills, N. H., commencing at six o'clock P. M., Thursday, March 5th, to continue over the following Sabbath. Brethren from abroad are invited to attend and labor for the Lord.
L. FRENCH, Clerk of Conference.

Discussion at Wilmot Flat, N. H.

If the Lord will, there will be a discussion between the Rev. Mr. Roberts, of the M. E. Church, and J. H. F. Yarney, to commence Thursday, Feb. 6th, at one o'clock P. M. Subject: Sleep of the dead. J. PINKHAM.

Notice.

We would say that as the churches of Wallingford and Yalesville have become united as one church, we would request the preaching brethren to correspond with the following brethren previous to publishing their appointment for either place.
W. W. IVES, Wallingford.
H. H. MIX, Yalesville.

Change of Address.

Our business connection with "Austin, Hurd & Co., and "F. Wilson Hurd & Co.," having been dissolved, our friends will hereafter please address us,—Box 382 Dansville, Livingston Co., N. Y., and not "Our Home," as formerly.
F. WILSON HURD, M. D.
MRS. HANNAH J. HURD.

Notice.

There will be meetings at Union Hall, Westminster Street, (rear of 1st Universalist Church). Providence, R. I., regularly every first day of the week, as long as the Lord will.
WM. H. DOUGHTY, for the Church.

Notice.

Advent meetings are held every Sunday in North Adams, Mass., on Center Street, corner of Lincoln Street. Preaching brethren are invited to give us a call. Inquire for Isaac Blanchard, Jr., Eagle Street.

Notice.

My tracts are now completed, which include all the testimony of the Bible relative to the second coming of Christ. Price $3.00 per hundred; 50 cts. per dozen, 5 cts. single copy. Orders sent to ALLEN DAMON, Fairhaven, Mass.

To the Preaching Brethren.

I would say to our preaching brethren, when they send an appointment to Richmond, it is necessary they should define the place, as we hold two meetings in town; one at the Reed meeting-house, which has continued since 1843, the other is held at the village. Please state for which place the appointment is intended. In behalf of the brethren. FREDERIC BATES, JR.

Preachers are requested to correspond with one of the committee before sending appointments to Worcester, viz., M. M. Blackmer, N. Lazell, Wm. F. Collier. Per order of the church, Worcester, Jan., 1868.

Before sending their appointments to Richmond Village, Me., the preaching brethren are requested to consult the committee, to save confusion.
Per order of Committee, S. BROWN.

Preaching brethren intending to visit Lewiston, Me., before sending their appointments, will please consult the committee through Albert Burgess, corresponding secretary, to save confusion.

Preachers are requested to correspond with H. C. Aborn, Clerk, before sending appointments to Square Pond, Conn.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION,
No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.

ANNA E. SMITH, Superintendent and Manager.

MEETINGS.
Sunday School 10 o'clock every Sunday.
Love Feast 2 o'clock every Sunday.
Preaching 7 o'clock Sunday evenings.
Meetings every evening during the week.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.
A. Simpson..........Sunday, Feb. 16th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)
J. T. Dixon..........Sunday, Feb. 16th

SOUTH BOSTON, (Union Hall, Broadway.)
J. M. Mubllg..........Sunday, Feb. 16th

Keene, N. H., Wednesday evening, Feb. 12th, every evening during the week, and over the Sabbath.
MILES GRANT.

CONCORD, N. H.
(Corner of Green and Center Streets.)
B. Woodside..........Sundays, Feb. 16th and 23d

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)
J. G. Smith and D. M. Leavitt..........Thursday evening, Feb. 13th, and over the following Sunday.
A. Simpson..........Sunday, March 1st
I. K. Lombard..........Sunday, March 29th

Manchester, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
GEO. A. BROWN.

Plymouth, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
M. BATCHELOR.

Hoosick..........Friday, Feb. 14th and over Sunday.
E. MCCULLOCK.

Northwood Narrows..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
C. W. SARGENT.

Waterbury, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Groton, Vt., (Geo. Ricker school-house), Saturday evening, Feb. 22d, and onward as long as the interest demands.
T. R. LANG, JR.

Loudon Ridge..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
New Durham Ridge..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
S. S. MOONEY.

Auburn, N. Y., (in the vicinity)..........Feb. 20th and onward.
SR. E. S. JENNINGS.

Millport, Chemung Co., N. Y., (as Bro. Saml. Cole and others may arrange), Thursday evening Feb. 20th, and over the following Sunday.
J. K. BELLOWS.
D. COGSWELL.

Woodstock Valley..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
L. B. POTTER.

Bow Centre, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Z. FORD.

Suncook, N. H..........Feb. 15th and over the following Sunday.
W. H. MCDANIELS.

Pleasant Valley..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
H. BEACH.

Granby, Conn..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
S. M. & H. R. TATRO.

Alton, (Loon Cove)..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Meredith, (Dolloff school-house)..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
N. GLIDDEN.

Lowell, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

Bristol, Ct..........Sunday, March 1st
Southington..........Sunday, March 8th
New Haven, (Day's Hall)..........Sunday, March 15th
I. B. POTTER.

New Britain, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Prospect, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
New Haven, (Day's Hall)..........Sunday, March 1st
SETH WOODRUFF.

Woodhull, Steuben Co., N. Y., Feb. 28th, and continue each evening and Sundays for ten days, embracing two Sundays.
C. F. SWEET.

Morris, Ct., as (Bro. I. Curtis and Glover may arrange), Sunday, Feb. 16th, and until Saturday, 22d, if desired.
Middletown..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
H. ROCKWELL.

West Abington, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
New Bedford..........Feb. 18th
Acushnet..........Feb. 19th
Fair Haven..........Feb. 20th
New York, (Cooper Institute)..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
24th Street in the evening. W. S. CAMPBELL.

Savoy..........Feb. 16th and 23d
RUFUS BAKER.

Lynn, Mass..........through the month of February
T. M. PREBLE.

North Benton, (East school-house)..........Feb. 13th and over the following Sabbath.
East Landaff, (where the brethren may appoint), evenings, Feb. 19th and 20th.
Sugar Hill..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
JOHN KNOWLES.

Pleasant Valley..........evening, Feb. 14th and over the following Sunday.
Buckland, (as Bro. Grant may arrange), evening, Feb. 18th.
Square Pond..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
C. H. SWEET.

Brimfield, Mass..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Charlton, Dresser Hill, at Bro. Seavey's, evenings, Feb. 19th and 20th. Bro. H. Stone's, evening, Feb. 21st. At school-house, Feb. 23d.
GEO. A. STREETER.

Warner, N. H., (Waterloo school-house), Sunday, Feb. 16th.
Manchester, N. H..........Tuesday evening, Feb. 18th
SIMEON ROBY.

Dover, N. H., Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Feb. 18th and 19th.
Barrington, N. H..........Friday evening, Feb. 21st and over the following Sunday.
If this appointment is agreeable to Bro. Preston, will he please write me at Dover, N. H., care of Henry Glidden, where and when he will meet me?
Alton Corner, N. H., Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Feb. 25th and 26th.
Concord, N. H..........Sunday, March 1st
A. SIMPSON.

PORTLAND, ME.
Wm. H. Mitchell..........Sunday, Feb. 23d

Lake Village..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Meredith Village..........evenings, Feb. 18th and 19th
Moultonboro (Hodgdon school-house), evenings, Feb. 20th and 21st.
Tuftonboro, (Melvin Village)..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Expect Bro. John Langley to be with me at Alton Corner, and onward.
H. M. BRYANT.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.
Meetings are held at the Advent Hall, Curtis' Block, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Entrance, third door from the east end of the bridge, Main St.

Hartford, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
B. HITCHCOCK.

Dover, N. H..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
WM. BODGE.

Lunenburg Corner, Vt., (Town Hall), Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, and over Sunday. A. GORDON.

BRISTOL, BT.
Wm. J. Ripley..........Sunday, Feb. 16th

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
H. F. Carpenter..........Sundays, Feb. 16th and 23d

Massena, N. Y., (as brethren may arrange), Sundays, Feb. 16th. W. W. SUTHERLAND.

Frankfort Mills..........Feb. 16th
Bangor..........Feb. 22d
South Sangerville..........Feb. 29th
I. K. LOMBARD.

North Somers, Ct..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
L. F. MOORE.

Elliota and Burr Oak..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
Preston..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
P. RAMER.

Lenora and Nickols, Minn..........March 1st
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper..........March 8th
Elliota and Burr Oak..........March 15th
Preston..........March 22d
W. J. BURRELL.

WORCESTER, MASS.
S. W. Thurber..........through the month of Feb.

New Bedford, Mass..........through February
A. ROSS.

Middletown..........Sunday, Feb. 16th
New Britain..........Sunday, Feb. 23d
WM. STUART.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

Spiritualism Unveiled.
What is Man?
The Soul—What is it?
The Spirit—What is it?
The Rich Man and Lazarus.

All the above works, in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ CORRESPONDENTS SHOULD KNOW, THAT WE CANNOT DISCONTINUE OR SEND THEIR ORDERS, UNLESS THEY GIVE US THE POST OFFICE AND STATE IN PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ E. P. STREETER—The money was credited.
☞ B. R. CLARK—Money received.
☞ MRS. LYDIA PIERCE—Money received.
☞ B. W. BERRY sends $1.00 for Hannah Berry. Will he please give her P. O. address?
☞ MRS. M. C. SNELL—Look at the date on your paper.
☞ MRS. M. HAYFORD—We are out of "Powers of the Air." Will send as soon as we can get them.
☞ C. M. CURRIER—Money received.
☞ H. P. BRADLEY—Money received.
☞ G. S. AUSTIN—Money received.
☞ B. ANDREW—You have paid to 647.
☞ C. F. SWEET—We have not seen it.
☞ Correspondents will please observe the notice of CASH RECEIPTS in another column.

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

The present No. of the Crisis is 645. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid.

If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to, is less than the present No., the difference shows for how many weeks you owe.

For every week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the product (which will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness) deduct four cents for every dollar, and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each—D Lillie 664, H S Hough 644, M A Pribble 542.

$1.25 each—S C Stevens 663, J Stevens 660, G Russell 669, L Houriet 669, C L Trast 670, N R Sage 670, M Hinkley 670, J R Wheeler 670.

$2.00 each—M. C. Denman 658, W. H. Wiley 666, S Cooper 678.

$2.50 each—S. Woodruff 676, L. Spencer 694, L. A. Rose 665, S Griffin 687, W Gilman 646, D Shaw 680, A A. Reynolds 680, W. Perkins 700, J. S. Heath 665, J Thomas 695, J C Young 684, J. Douglas 690, Mrs. D. Miller 713, J Toppin 696, H M Sells 697, C M Mathews 636, V B Gates 674.

Various Sums.—P J Pilcher $4.00, 700; A Yates 23c, 673; T. Cowan $1.65, 678; P. White $1.65, 678; J. K. Clark $2.64, 698; A. McGinnis $1.64, 693; D. Lawson $2.64, 699; J Elliot $2.64, 676; T D Field $1.32, 679; N Wark $3.00, 646; E Luce $3.00, 636; E D Lyon 60c, 655; E W Waters 75c, 600; W C Reve $5.00, 679; A H Steele $6.00, 676; M. Wilson $6.00, 679; J. T. Porter 50c, 607; M. Tupper 50c, 632; W. F. Carpenter $5.00, 723; J. M. Motts $4.20, 684; R. M. Sayles 55c, 614; J Roberts $3.00, 673; D. C. Corwin $1.70, 640; J. Hall $2.05, 670.

FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.

P J Pilcher $1.00, J Porter $4.50, A Yale $1.75, H Vandry 75c, E F Young 75c, J V Himes $20.00, J L Doon 50c, C Haley 75c, W T Doremus $5.00, G P Cottrill 35c, M. G. Schrock $1.25, H. Bailey $3.00, B. F. Greenman 75c, P. Tandy $1.05, O Proctor $2.25, J C Libby $5.00, E Luce $1.66, F H Safford 50c, J G Munsey $4.25, L. Greenleaf 75c, C. W. White $1.00, N B Crowell $1.15, R E Ladd $3.50, J. Claflin $1.05, R. Brooks $1.25, W D Cook $1.00, W S Reynolds $1.40, E D Lyon $2.10, J Hayford $1.50, F S Ainsworth $1.25, A H Steele $3.00, H Wilber $1.15, J C Young 45c, S L Wise $1.00, J W Bentley 50c, A Wyeth 75c, C C Winn $1.00, D B Closman 50c, C D Hibbard 75c, M G Day 30c, J. M. Mott 80c, R Allen $6.00, J. Lyle $1.00, S Mitchell $1.00, J Roberts $1.00, G. P. Knight $1.25, J F Linville 50c, B W Hansom 75c, J D Jones $1.00, C D Wallace 50c, E Orton $1.15, V B Gates $1.50, D C Corwin $2.05.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.

BY MAIL—Wm. D. Hunt, R. Andrews, Churchill, Jane Thomas, Mrs. R H Dunning, John T Carlton, H Adams, S E Andrews, Mrs. C E Gilbert, C A Miller, A B Sage, C Stone, J Pitcher, R. S. Johnson, Mrs. E D Reniff, M E Davis, N B McMurphy, A L Rice, N D Wright, E F Young, L D Sophia, I L Doane, E Haley Jr, E P Cottrell, A F Choats, H Bailey, B F Greenman, P Tandy, E Luce, J J Sullivan, S B Cotton, M Croft, John Lee, C H N Merriman, M A Harris, S Crispin, John Pool, Wm. Ashdown, W E Benham, Mrs. Oberlander, I R Johnston, J K Lombard, Geo. P Miles, G P Macomber, E W Orton, V B Gates, J Lyle, S Mitchell, J Roberts, G P Wright, D C Corwin, J F Linville, B W Huson, J. C. Jones, S. A. Noble, C W Wallace, J F Randlett, W. D. Johnston, H. Adams, A Ordway, A Yale, H Vandry, S. J. Parsons, Saml. Pollansbee, S Bulmer, Geo. A Correll, Ann Spencer, Wm. Lemon, David Austin. O. F. S., Eld. E Steele, Mrs. H Stowell, A. H. Steele, L. B. Arnold, S Claflin, H Wilbur, J C Young, S L Wise, J W Bently, L J Quimby, A Wyeth, C C Winn, L Greenleaf, N B Crowd, C R White, D B Closman, John M Matts, C D Hibbard, J E Baldwin, A Post, D E Lyons, C M Prentess, M L Barnard, John Cunningham, V Seymour, R Harrington, J C Gardner, J E Morse, S A Titus, M. J. Brooks, H Bailey, E D Harris, G. G. Lavengood, S A Titus, M J Brooks, H Baily, E D Harris, H F Rollins, N Scott, Eld. J Bower, S Mitchell, L Storer, Wm. Wright, Mrs C B Turner, D L Allen, A Morse, S Searle, R R Kent, Benj. Sweet, C S Bourne, C Murphy, Eld. Wm. Sweet, Jacob Hall, A B Reed, N S Ketchum, Miss Jane Cheney.

BY EXPRESS—S A Piper, B C Simonds, L Greenleaf, Geo. A Streeter, Allen Robert, Orlando Proctor, Geo. E Brown, James Irons, C C Ramsey, Doromus S Wheelock.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

T M Preble, S Cooper, A E Smith, P. Alling, J W White, J Elkins, J Douglass, M R Phetteplace, S L Manley, J G Hook, H Metheny, C Greene, H Munger, D Lawson, T Wheeler, H Pratt, T K Allen, A Wells, W C Thurman, A E McEllister, J Stone, C R White, T H Chamberlain, R Geyer, A W Seymour, L Kelly, R Lanning, E Doolittle, D D Reed, I F Cutts, Mrs. C B Turner.

ADDRESS OF PREACHING BRETHREN.

C. E. Piper—41 Grove Street, Boston, Mass.
C. Goodrich—69 Marion Street, East Boston, Mass.
J. S. White—98 Decatur Street, East Boston, Mass.
Enoch Morrill—No. 69 Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown, Mass.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford, Mass.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls, Mass.
L. Boutell—Salem, Mass.
H. Pratt—Springfield, Mass., 57 Cedar St.
P. S. Butler, Collins Depot, Mass.
E. Owen—Springfield, Mass., No. 64 Walnut Street.
Alvah Bean—Lowell, Mass.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana, Mass.
Allen Damman—Fairhaven, Mass.
C. H. Sweet—Millville, Mass.
J. W. Brittan.—Westboro, Mass.
S. Anderson.—Warren, Mass.
Rufus Baker—Warren, Mass.
Dr. A. M. Higgins.—Palmer, Mass.
W. E. Hathaway—North Carver, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Lynn, Mass.
S. S. Brazee—Cold Spring, Mass.
N. J. Streeter—Southbridge, Mass.
S. W. Thurber—85 Church Street, Lowell, Mass.
C. H. Leverton—Surry, Hancock Co., Me.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills, Me.
J. C. Wheeler—Carthage, Me.
F. A. Baker—Levant, Me.
H. S. Mitchell.—Cushing, Me.
J. Carr—South Albion, Me.
Israel Damman—Corinna, Me.
B. P. Manning—Goffstown, N. H.
J. G. Smith—New Durham, N. H.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia, N. H.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth, N. H.
J. Couch—Concord, N. H.
A. W. Sibley—Lincoln, N. H.
A. Simpson—Concord, N. H.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village, N. H.
Z. Ford—Concord, N. H.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426 Concord, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover, N. H.
Wm. H. McDaniels—Fisherville, N. H.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff, N. H.
J. B. Cook—Poultney, Vt.
G. W. Stetson—Rutland, Vt.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford, Vt.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
D. N. Chadsey—Canaan, Vt.
J. A. Cleaveland—South Royalton, Vt.
Wm. H. Fisher—Windsor, Ct., care of S. Cooper.
H. F. Carpenter—Danielsonville, Ct.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville, Ct.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford, Ct.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville, Ct.
T. S. Canfield—Bantam Falls, Ct.
B. St. John—Wolcottville, Ct.
Dr. Samuel Wells Treat—Middlebury, Ct.
S. B. Munn—Waterbury, Ct.
Ira Wyman—Warehousepoint, Ct.
Wm. J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley, Ct.
L. F. Moore—Somersville, Ct.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted Ct.
S. Woodruff—Unionville, Ct.
Geo. A. Cole—Phenix, R. I.
J. K. Bellows—19 Orchard Street, New York City.
Wm. A. Fenn—Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester, N. Y.
Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
S. P. Babcock—Malaga, New Jersey.
J. W. Taylor—Chatham Valley, Tioga Co., Pa.
F. H. Burbank—Dorcas Mission, 708 Lombard street, Philadelphia, Pa.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.
A. N. Seymour—Fremont, Mich.
J. M. Snook—Romeo, Mich.
J. R. Preston—Lapeer, Mich.
Wm. McCulloch—New Rutland, Ill.
George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co., Ill.
O. D. Gibson—Amboy, Ill.
F. Burr—New Rutland, Ill.
Dr. L. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis, Tenn.
Wm. Deverell—Keswick, C. W.
Wm. M. Ingham—Clemensport, N. S.
H. K. Flagg—Advent Christian Hall 1136, No. 5th Street, St. Louis, Mo.
H. Rockwell—Lenox, Ashtabula Co., Ohio
L. C. McKinstry—Norwalk, Ohio.
B. Wm. Wilkins—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634 care of I. L Leslie.
Daniel Reed—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634, care of I. L. Leslie.
Eld. G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co., Ind.
P. W. Hough—West Salem, Wis.
George Thompson—Attica, Green Co., Wis.

New Music.

"'Tis the very same Jesus" (separate sheets, at 5c.), Calvary, Over There, I shall Rest, The Shining Land, New Year's Chimes, Hallelujah, "Say, Brother, shall we meet?" "The Little Grave," "We shall walk through the Valley in Peace." All on one sheet, at 20c. For sale at this office.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE
Advent Christian Publication Society,
No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.50.
THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsey. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Predictions fulfilled, and the Kingdom near. By J. C. Wellcome. 25c; by mail, 27c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 1, By S. S. Brewer. 7c; by mail, 8c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 3, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.
THESSALONICA; or, The Model Church. By H. L. Hastings. 20c.
SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsay, D.D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE SEVEN SEALS. Exposition of Rev. vi. By S. S. Brewer. 5c; by mail, 10c.
LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church. By H. L. Hastings. 25c.
THE DAYS WE LIVE IN; The Lord soon to come. By S. S. Brewer. 10c; by mail, 12c.
THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 5c; by mail, 10c.
THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures. Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, etc. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. 35c; by mail, 40c.
RETRIBUTION; or, The Doom of the Ungodly. By H. L. Hastings. 20c.
DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.
PAULINE THEOLOGY; or, The Christian Doctrine of Future Punishment, as taught in the Epistles of Paul. H. L. H. 10c.
GLAD TIDINGS; or, The End of Woe and Sin by the Destruction of the Wicked. (Three chapters from "Death not Life.") By J. Blain. 8c; by mail, 10c.
WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 6c; by mail, 7c.
THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 6c; by mail, 7c.
THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 6c; by mail, 7c.
RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 6c; by mail, 7c.
ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 6c; by mail, 8c.
ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 6c; by mail, 6c.
THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 3c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 3c; by mail, 4c.
SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 2c.
REV JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 2c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.00; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 35c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.
THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents.
UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.
"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.
THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.
THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.
LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00, postpaid.
THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 15 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postpaid, 8c. on every three copies.
THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.
CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.
EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.
HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.
STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.
COOKERY: or How to prepare food from Grain, Fruits and Vegetables. By F. W. Hurd, M. D. 15c; by mail, 17c.
VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook and Wm. H. Brinkerhoff. 10c.
THE SABBATH, and its Relation to Man. By mail 3 cts.
SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. 3c. single; 5c. by mail.
BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.
CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.
BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.
DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
RAHAB THE HARLOT. The Scarlet Line the token of Safety; or, the fall of Jericho a type of the fall of the "cities of the nations." By Wm. Shepherd. 10c., postpaid; 35c. a dozen.
CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; a Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Worship. 50c; by mail, 60c.
PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 6c; by mail, 8c.
THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT—Superiority of the New. By A. W. Sibley. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY, or, the Sealed Book of Daniel Opened. $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; or, a Dissertation on the Evidences of Christianity. 50c; by mail, 59c.
SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?—a tract on War. By I. C. Wellcome. 10c.
CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c.
NON-RESISTANCE. By W. C. Thurman. 20c; by mail, 24c.
DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 15c; by mail, 17c.
THE DAY AND THE HOUR: a Lecture, by Joseph A. Seiss, D. D. 15c.
"OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy; by mail; 40c. per dozen.
"THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley. 3c. single copy by mail; 30c. per dozen.
"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"GOLDEN MOMENTS." A four-page tract. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"THE PENALTY OF SIN." By O. R. Fassett. By mail, single copy, 4c.; per dozen, 40c.
AMERICA IN PROPHECY; an Exposition of Isaiah XVIII. By O. R. Fassett. 6c; by mail, 10c.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—
Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.
Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.
Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.
☞ Postage 18 cents per copy additional, when sent by mail.

For the World's Crisis.

INVITATION.

The joyful notes of gospel grace
Are sounding through the world;
For every soul of Adam's race
The banner's still unfurled.

Then, ye despairing sinners, come
And trust his sacred word;
No longer wander from your home,
But come and serve the Lord.

With love so great he will receive
Poor sin-sick souls alway;
Your wants, if felt, he will relieve
If you will only pray.

Then don't delay, but now repent,
Lest mercy's door be closed,
While you—the harvest past lament—
Stand at the door refused.

O! don't refuse to yield your heart,
He's knocking at your door;
For soon you'll hear the sound depart!
And will your doom deplore.

Then fly! O fly to his dear arms,
No longer dare delay;
Behold his all inviting charms—
How can you stay away?

He shed his precious blood, and died
Upon the rugged tree;
O, hasten to the Crucified—
From sin he'll set you free.

With saints and angels you shall live
Beyond this world of strife;
A crown of glory he will give,
And everlasting life.

Then come, O sinner, quickly come,
And take the gospel train;
It's running to our Eden home,
Where we shall ever reign.

Peru, Ind. H. H. Hall.

For the World's Crisis.

THE MEMPHIS MISSION.

Jan. 16. There were not more than fifteen or twenty out to our sisters' prayer and conference meeting last evening, but we had a good time notwithstanding. Thank God for these meetings, and that he gave grace and patience to persevere through obstacles that seemed almost insurmountable up to the present time. I think all who have attended have made decided improvement in the divine life, and that we are growing together in grace and in the knowledge of the truth. I have made it a point to read and quote largely from the Scriptures of truth, and conducted all the exercises with reference to the rules there laid down; and I think the Lord has blessed the means to help bring them up out of many unscriptural habits of conducting worship. Praise His name.

The day has been cool and pleasant. Have been very busy all day; no time to read, write, or visit. Made a large quantity of soup and sent out to a number of families. There were also several who came in and ate at our table. There are six of us now; the three orphan girls, Bro.'s L. and R. and myself. Our Father only knows how we are to support the expense, but so long as it seems to be duty, we can do no better than to "go forward."

This was our regular Thursday evening meeting. Was prevented from an early attendance. When I went in found Bro. Leslie reading letters from the north, and extracts from the papers, illustrative of the present state of society in general, and more particularly of the destitution that exists in many places; and especially in some parts of the south.. There are but few among our church members who can read intelligently, and these few read but little beside their Bible and hymn book. Hence the importance of suitable hymn books, which all do not possess; so that these things were new to most persons present, and proved, with the few judicious remarks that followed from Bro. Leslie and Reed, effectual to the "stirring up of their minds."

And truly it was a stirring up, such as I think I never witnessed here before. I have seen more shaking hands (these people are great for shaking hands when they get happy,) and heard more shouting, but never such a "breaking up of the fountains of the great deep;" such a welling up of the springs of truth from the fountain of God's word. The faces of our preaching brethren fairly glowed with the appreciation of the state of the case. This is what we have earnestly longed and prayed for, even a deeper work of grace plowing deep down into the very centre of their being. Our God has heard our prayer, and will bless us yet more abundantly. I feel, I almost know he will.

There is a strong disposition on the part of these people to effervescence, particularly in their religious exercises. A large proportion of their religious principles seem to work off in the shape of good feelings, usually expressed by singing, shouting, shaking of hands, and various pantomimic gestures.

This disposition on their part troubled Brn. Himes, Reed and Leslie. They do not relish surface work, and so they set themselves to "plowing deep," as they express it; i.e., to bring out God's great truths, and set them home to the hearts of the people in their own peculiar and forcible manner. They labor earnestly to impress upon the mind that pure and undefiled religion which works by love and purifies the heart; and that this purity and truthfulness of heart is not only the foundation principle of all righteousness, but the pervading element of saving faith; that, in fact, there is no salvation without it. These things the people are obliged to acknowledge as the whole counsel of God.

Our people have just received a letter from Bro. Wilkins, who is now in Lagrange, Tenn. He is full of hope, and speaks very confidently of the good that can be accomplished in that place. Bro. Himes also writes encouragingly from Osceola, Ark.

It seems to be the ambition of Bro. Himes and the other brethren to have a central light here, that will radiate to the "regions beyond." To this end they labor, and are, we trust, beginning to see the fruit of their labors. Bro. Reed is full of hope and buoyancy, and just ready to "go up," as he says. He says the fog and darkness are all clearing away, and we are coming out into the light and liberty of the gospel. Praise the Lord. Surely the "Lord is good to Israel, and to such as are of a clean heart."

We have great reason to rejoice in the manifestations of his presence vouchsafed this evening. How I wish all our brethren and sisters could have seen our little deacon Williford, when the fire began to burn. The Lord was with him as a "mighty and terrible one," while he pleaded with sinners as one who must give account for souls; and reproved and rebuked the saints, and exhorted all to flee the wrath just impending. We could but look on in astonishment and exclaim, "This is the Lord's doing, and marvelous in our eyes." One year ago this man was without God and hope in the world, and imputes his conversion to Bro. Leslie's faithful labors.

Friday morning, Jan. 17.—Clear, cold, and beautiful. Something like the bracing air of more northern climes. Our Mission family are well, and rejoicing in the prospect before us. I have never seen the brethren so confident of the future prosperity. For myself, I feel to call upon my soul and all within me to rejoice in view of this heart-work that is going on in our midst.

This necessity for truth in the inward parts, clean hands, and a godly conversation among God's own dear ones, has lain as a heavy burden upon my heart all summer. Many and bitter have been the tears shed and groans uttered in view of this necessity, and my incapacity to impress its importance upon all concerned. Had not God himself been the strength of my heart, I should, most certainly, have sunk beneath the burden. The mountain weight lifted from my shoulders by the coming of the brethren cannot easily be imagined. I did not myself readily realize it, and the conviction only comes home to me as I find myself gradually straightening up into something like shape again. No wonder, then, that the least intimation of discouragement on their part sinks with leaden weight into my being; and that I can rejoice, with all my heart, when good things are spoken of the people of our God.

Sat., Jan. 18.—Very busy all day entertaining those who came, and sending out soup to those who need. Writing and visiting the sick seemed out of the question.

Sun., Jan. 19.—Had a full Sunday school in spite of the inclemency of the weather. Over two hundred and thirty verses were recited, committed the last week. Bro. Miller, a colored Baptist preacher from South Memphis, discoursed to us this afternoon. He seemed to have the unction of the Spirit, and spoke home to the hearts of the people, though not without a touch of African gesticulation. I think the root of the matter is in him, and that he is fast coming into the light and the truth.

In the evening Bro. Mead, a dear good brother, formerly a Methodist preacher, gave us a short practical sermon on the christian race. The subject seemed well understood and appreciated, and was taken up in different forms by those who followed in exhortation. Among others, Deacon Williford brought an offering good and acceptable, and I trust of a sweet savor before God. I believe the Lord hath spoken good concerning this man, and that he is rapidly coming into the light and liberty of the gospel and truth. God alone knows the good that might result from his labors, if he would but give himself up as clay in the hands of the potter, to be moulded into God's own will. But this cannot be done without denying one's self of every ungodly lust, even those considered harmless by common vessels. O that we might all righteously consider the glory that might accrue to those who, by patient continuance in the furnace, come out "vessels unto honor."

Mon., Jan. 20*th*.—This living in public, sometimes becomes exceedingly irksome. No wonder the whole soul sometimes cries out for —"a lodge in some vast wilderness."

Well, if time should continue, and the Lord will, we shall soon have all needed privacy. But even here we are not without doubt and and forebodings. Bro. Reed, who is greatly interested in the building of the chapel, is in the crucible of doubt with respect to a certain draft he has been expecting for weeks; money which he intended to loan the society for the purpose of finishing the building. He has some reason to apprehend that it is lost on the way. We trust the Lord may soon bring him forth from this trial, without even the smell of fire on his garments.

Bro. Leslie is having his trials also. Sin and ingratitude are stalking all abroad in the land. Well, even these are numbered among the "all things;" so let us trust God and take courage.

Tuesday 21*st*.—The snow that fell yesterday was all carried away by the rain last evening, and the frost of last night has covered the ground with ice, over which the sun of to-day seems to exercise no very ameliorating influence. Those who have plenty of wood and whole clothes to wear, may consider themselves fortunate at this time. Many around us are lacking in these comforts, and our sympathies are often aroused for poor women and children, who are brought to this state of destitution through no fault of their own.

Much of my time is occupied in distributing to the necessities of the hungry and naked. But our means are rapidly diminishing, and our labors in this direction must soon cease, unless we have a new supply. I pray our Father to open the hearts of his children very wide; for there is large need here. Once a day we make soup for all who wish it, and if we know of needy families who cannot come for it, we send it to them.

Wish I had time to speak of some of the hard cases who have received relief from the barrels lately received from the North. When I get more time to write, I will try to record more such cases, together with accompanying circumstances. This, I believe, cannot fail to be interesting to friends who send.

The hearts of some of our friends have been deeply tried within a few days by the unfaithfulness of some who have more recently joined the church. There are always those who follow religion for the loaves and fishes. Happy that church where such members are not in the majority. Is it not from thence that wars and fightings come, and every evil work? May the Lord send help and strength from the sanctuary, and bring the wicked devices of the wicked to nought. But we have no real cause for fear. Even Judas could not have betrayed his Lord unless it had been "written of him." He maketh the "wrath of man to praise him, and the remainder thereof he will restrain."

While I am writing, the Tuesday evening meeting is going on. I improve the opportunity of being left alone (a luxury we seldom enjoy), to catch up with my Journal. If I may judge by the sounds proceeding thence, it is a live meeting. Bro. Reed, now coming in, says, "A shout went up in the camp to-night." He also adds, "Bro. Leslie (who, by the way, has been fast locked in the castle of 'Giant Despair' for the last few days) has gotten a complete victory." Now that the meeting is closed, the people come crowding in like a flock of children just let out from school. They wish to bid me good night, and give some account of the meeting. They thank the Lord for sending us down with the light and the truth. They thought they had light before, but now they find they knew nothing at all. They not only bless the Lord for the light given, but they are "bent, bound, and determined," as they say, to go on growing in grace and in the knowledge of the truth.

They look upon Bro. Reed as something more than a man, and profess to be able to almost see the glory in his countenance. He seems to possess the peculiar faculty of commanding, not only the minds of the people, but their hearts also; and so they rattle on until my pen fails to jot down a tithe of all the ideas brought out; and amid a multitude of "good nights" and "God bless yous," they leave us once more to ourselves. We will sincerely thank God for the good already done, and keep begging for more. Lord, keep us humble and obedient; then shall we truly honor thee.

Wednesday, Jan. 22*nd*. Had quite a thunder storm this afternoon. Have made no fire in the meeting-room, as the prospect is that no one will come out to attend our "Sisters' meeting." The rain continues with occasional flashes of lightning, and peals of thunder. The streets are being flooded with water, and the few who come in are laden with thick clay, of a kind, I believe, peculiar to this part of the country, and in no wise held ornamental by the lovers of cleanliness.

No one comes to attend our meeting, and we are alone. The Dr., however, seems to have no reprieve. Sickness and suffering keep him going here and there, in spite of rain and mud. Fortunate for him that he has that pair of India-rubber boots, and still more fortunate that he has that love for souls that sweetens the most ungrateful tasks and lightens all labor. When reminded he should be more cautious (as he has enemies who have made bitter threats), his only reply is something to this effect: "The Lord is my keeper; he will not suffer any thing to harm me." We hope our friends in the North will not fail to remember him and all others who go through perils for the sake of Christ's little ones; and in all their approaches to the King of kings; and especially when Jesus is near to them. We all need a large measure of "that wisdom that is from above"; and hope you will not forget us in your prayers.

No additional news from Bro. Himes, except from a man who has just come down the river, and who says he heard him preach on Island No. 34 the Sunday previous. He seems to have taken his life in his hand, going out thus alone; but the living God is his refuge. Why should we fear for him? Looking at the subject humanly, we have some reason for apprehension, for we seem to have arrived at that point in the history of this part of the world, when blood breaketh out and toucheth blood. Robbing, stabbing and shooting seem to be of daily, and more especially of nightly, occurrence. Bro. R. says if this is not the place where Satan's seat is, he does not know where it can be found; but, he adds, this is an additional reason why we should be here. He says, "I am just where I want to be; the harder the gale, the better it suits me."

He wishes me to mention in this connection a circumstance that occurred yesterday, in which he was an actor. I had stepped out on the front porch, when looking in the direction of the next house on the left hand side, I saw the man of the house (who, though a freedman, has as white a skin and as blue eyes as you often see), standing at his door, surrounded by his family and friends, who were evidently trying to dissuade him from some violent measure. He seemed himself to be raging like a caged lion, and held his gun in a way that indicated a disposition to make an effectual use of it. He also made many and bitter threats, the drift of which seemed to be death and destruction to somebody.

The object of these threats and denunciations seemed to be a white man, a grocer, who stood at the corner of his own grocery just across the way, with a loaded pistol in his hand, pointed towards the freedman. I saw no time was to be lost; blood was about to be shed; so I stepped to the door and spoke to Bro. R., who happened to be the only one in the room. He saw at a glance how the matter stood, and calling to the freedman (who professes to be a christian), he bade him put up his gun, adding,

"'The weapons of our warfare are not carnal'; and retaliation is no part of the character of the christian." This only made the man the more furious. Indeed, the two men seemed like beasts of pray, thirsting for each other's blood.

Seeing the case a desperate one, Bro. R. applied a desperate remedy. He told them both they were cowards; that none but cowards would shoot or threaten to do so. Then turning to the freedman he said:

"You have no more religion than the devil. What!" said he, "kneel down and pray for sinners, and then get up and shoot a man? The devil himself could do all this. You are a hypocrite, and nothing but a hypocrite."

This arrested his attention, and, as Bro. R. expressed it, he "doused his colors," and went into the house.

Towards evening the white man came over to make acknowledgments to Bro. R., and express gratitude for his interference; saying he had no doubt blood would otherwise have been shed. He expressed contrition for his fault. Cool after-thought had not only convinced him of the dangers he had passed through (the freedman is an excellent shot, and is noted for taking down game; and he has also the reputation of killing two men in time of peace), but aroused a sense of obligation to Bro. R. which he was not slow to acknowledge. He cordially invited him to his home, and otherwise treated him like a gentleman.

F. C. Northrup.

For the World's Crisis.

JOURNAL.

THE DORCAS MISSION.

Extracts from my journal, commencing July 1, 1867. Commenced the day with less than fifty cents in the treasury. A small sum of money brought in in the course of the day.

July 2. Our gas and post office bills were sent in yesterday, but no money has yet (four o'clock P. M.) been received. Thirty-two persons in the family. The Lord has supplied our wants thus far, and, by his grace, I will trust him unto the end. I pray that my strength may not fail. Not a penny in the treasury at this time. Our extremity is the Lord's opportunity. May we wait patiently and see the salvation of the Lord.

Five o'clock P. M. The Lord be praised for his goodness, and for his wonderful works towards me. Have just received $31.00 for the Home, and $40.00 to give gospel feasts to the poor. Truly the Lord's opportunity is in our extremity. I cannot but love God and his dear Son, but I am ashamed of myself that I am so weak and sinful.

July 3. To-day paid our bills, and also the rent of hall, in all amounting to $21.80. Paid also to the cook $2.00, and $2.50 to the seamstress. After purchasing breakfast and dinner, had ten cents remaining in the treasury.

July 4. Received more money to-day, a sufficient sum to supply our needs. At half-past seven this morning had on hand half a peck of potatoes, two loaves of bread, and seven cents. With the money bought lard to fry the potatoes in. Soon after eight, a brother called, and before leaving gave me fifty cents. He knew nothing of our circumstances, but the Lord's hand thus brought deliverance. Bought eleven loaves of bread with that money. Praise the name of the Lord that we have enough food for our breakfast: thirteen loaves of bread, a half peck of fried potatoes, and a plenty of sweet water.

After breakfast, nothing on hand for dinner, and no human prospect of anything. Whilst making a call, received $2.00 from a brother in Christ who knew nothing of our situation. (If he reads this paragraph, he will see how the Lord made him a blessing to us on that day.) Truly the ways of the Lord are wonderful. Had bread and milk for dinner. All the children were contented with their fare, which added much to my enjoyment.

July 5. At quarter past eight in the morning, have neither money nor provisions (excepting the money sent to give gospel feasts to the poor.) * * * * Thirty-two persons are waiting for their breakfast, which, if we have at the usual season, will be eaten at nine o'clock. I pray the Lord to send us abundant deliverance at this time. * * * * At nine o'clock had a special season of prayer with the matron and missionary. Whilst on my knees I felt impressed to use the $40.00 right away. Immediately we bought bread, buns, butter, milk, etc., and gathered in from our neighborhood twenty-five poor children, and fed them with our children who belonged to the poor around us. In the afternoon, thirty children outside the Home were gathered in, and ate with our little ones. Mutton, potatoes and bread constituted the bill of fare.

July 6. Another gospel feast this fornoon, when thirty children outside the Home were fed. In the afternoon twenty poor men and women were gathered in and fed. Thus we were led of the Lord in our time of great need. Eighty-five children and twenty men and women, all poor, besides our own family of children, were thus fed during the last two days.

July 7. During the day we received means enough to procure our supper. For breakfast had what was left of the gospel feast.

July 8. Last evening received a gold dollar and a dollar in postal currency. Had bread and molasses for breakfast, and bread and milk for dinner.

July 12. Have received day by day enough for our daily wants, since the last date.

July 13. The Lord sent no $5.00 to-day. Had bread and molasses for breakfast. For dinner, crackers and milk. In the evening bought hominy for Sunday's dinner, and meal, flour, and molasses for breakfast. The total amount left in our treasury after thus supplying our wants for the morrow, is six cents. We feel grateful to the Lord for his mercies. Now it is my prayer that the Lord may supply means abundantly to meet our pressing wants. The rent of the cook's room comes due on the 15th, and other expenses will have to be met before long. * * * * I pray for Jesus' sake that the Lord may send the needed help soon. May he help me to rely on the promises of the word continually.

July 14. Bought a loaf of bread this morning, which left one cent in the treasury. Had food for the day of what was left over yesterday. In the evening received thirty-six cents.

Yours in Christ, F. H. Burbank.

For the World's Crisis.

REPORT OF THE FIFTH MAINE MINISTERIAL CONFERENCE.

The fifth Maine Second Advent Ministerial Conference convened at Lewiston, Wednes. Jan. 22d, 1868, at nine o'clock A. M. Meeting called to order by Bro. I. C. Wellcome, and as the President and Secretary were not present, choice was made of Bro. N. G. Reed President pro tem., and L. F. Cole, Sec. pro tem. Prayer was then offered by Bro. C. Goud. The report of the last meeting being called for, was read by the Secretary and accepted by the Conference. Moved and carried that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to arrange and present business for the Conference.. Brn. C. Goud, I. C. Wellcome, R. R. York, were accordingly appointed. The committee retired, and after consultation presented an order of business.

Art. 1. Voted, to invite all ministers present to become members of this Conference who are not members, and wish to become such, and take action to receive the same.

On investigation it was found there were present Brn. Jesse Gay, Thomas Rines, and L. F. Cole, who signified their desire to become members. The Constitution was then read by Bro. Wellcome, and some remarks were made with regard to the necessary qualifications of preachers, and Brn. Gay, Rines, and Cole were separately accepted members of the Conference. Voted, that the ministers in this State in fellowship with the Conference be invited to signify their desire to become members by writing to the Secretary the coming year.

Art. 2. Voted, that the fellowship and unity of members be examined by the President. It was found there was full fellowship with all present, and marked harmony in feeling; also with all the members of the Conference, as far as could be ascertained.

Art. 3. Voted, that we mutually examine any Bible question that members may wish to present, touching our duty or doctrine.

Bro. R. R. York introduced the question: Is it consistent with the profession of ministers to engage in secular employments? arguing its necessity in certain cases, and followed in his remarks by Brn. Wellcome, Thomas Smith, and A. H. Walker, when the question was adjourned till afternoon.

Wednesday, two o'clock P. M. After prayer by Bro. Wellcome, the question before the morning meeting was resumed, and candidly discussed, the following Scriptures being brought forward, viz., Acts 18: 1–3, 1 Cor. 9: 3–11, 2 Cor. 12: 12–13, 2 Thess. 3: 7–15, 1 Thess. 2: 9, 1 Tim. 5: 17–18. After a very thorough examination it was

Resolved, That while the Scriptures clearly teach that it is the duty of the church to sustain the Christian ministry, yet they justify the ministry in laboring to sustain themselves, if necessary, and in certain cases to afford an example to the indolent, and also so as not to be a burden to the church.

Several questions were presented and examined, among which were the following: Is it justifiable to close a meeting with a benediction without a preceding prayer? What is the scriptural course to pursue in organizing churches? Is there need of a record of the action to constitute an organization? These questions were fully discussed with kind feeling and with a good degree of harmony. Adjourned.

Wednesday evening, half past six o'clock. Social meeting. Interesting season of prayer and conference, after which we listened to a sermon by Bro. Jesse Gay, from Mark 9: 50, on the prominent importance of grace in salvation.

Thursday, nine A. M. Prayer by Bro. Haggett. The following article was then taken up, and after some remarks was laid on the table: Is our course of action, as ministers, now pursued, such as will best promote the unity and growth of the church, and members of Christ's body, and the salvation of sinners?

The Report of the Tract Agent being called for, the Treasurer submitted the following

TRACT REPORT.

Dear Brethren: It is with feelings of sorrow that our report of the tract enterprise in Maine reveals so much indifference in this department of christian labor.

The whole amount of cost of tracts distributed in 1867, ...	$82.86
Of this amount one brother has distributed $67.50, and all the others $5.36.
Balance in treasury last year, . .	$18.59
Total receipts in 1867, . . .	$44.00
Making a total of	$62.59
Balance due the treasury, . .	$20.27

Of the $44.00 contributed, one of our ministers gave $25.00; two brethren gave $10.00 of the balance, while all others gave $9.00 to the tract cause.

(Signed) I. C. Wellcome, Treas.

After some remarks on the tract cause it was Resolved, That we recommend to all the Advent preachers in this State, who are in harmony with us, to endeavor to raise the sum of $10.00 each the ensuing year, for the benefit of the tract cause in this State; the same or whatever amount may be raised to be deposited in the hands of the tract agent from which amount the sum of $20.27, now due the agent of last year, be drawn to pay that deficiency. Bro. J. A. Libby was then chosen Tract Agent for the ensuing year.

Voted, that the executive board continue to occupy the same position, as they have the past year, in relation to the tract cause. The report of the Tent mission was called for, and the following was submitted:

Report of the Maine Mission Tent Committee.

Dear Brethren: We beg leave at this time to report to you our labors and success in performing the duties imposed on us by your Conference at its last session.

1st. We had a circular tent made of Methuen duck, which with its fixtures cost	$396.78
Discount on State Bank money contributed	.45
Express charges on money sent . .	.85
Express on tent from Boston to Mechanic's Falls	3.00
	$401.08
2. We bought an express wagon for	50.00
Paid repairs on the wagon . . .	2.00
	$453.08
3. We also bought a small boarding tent, ...	$25.00
Total expense	478.08
To meet this expense, we have received by subscriptions and contributions ($117.00 of it, being more than one fourth of all, contributed by our ministers.)	406.50
Yet due the treasury on tents and wagon	$71.58

The tent is fifty feet in diameter, and when well seated, accommodates eight hundred persons. It was pitched first is Casco, and the mission work commenced under it, July 4th, which was continued without abatement, under the general management of I. C. Wellcome, assisted by other ministers, fifteen weeks, in various towns and cities, viz., Casco, Harrison, Buckfield, Winthrop, Rockport, Belfast, Liberty, Pittsfield, Clinton, and Farmington. Eight of the above towns are new fields as respects the Advent message, in which it could not be expected the mission would be self-sustaining, although the interest to hear became great, and we trust much good was done in the Lord. Some perishing sinners were converted in nearly every place, while wanderers were brought back to Christ, and many were instructed in the gospel of the kingdom. Many new doors have been opened in and about every town we entered, for the truth to be preached. We employed Bro. D. W. Griffin and horse, to convey and manage the tent at $36.00 per month. In most new places we were obliged to hire board for ourselves and horses, or buy food for that purpose, until the people became interested in our mission, when they would often care for our wants as they had opportunity.

But with this outlay, and the necessary utensils as an outfit for our tents, our expenses were much more than they would have been in old fields, where there are brethren who furnish all.

The expenses, embracing hired man and horse, board, traveling expenses, ground and lumber rents, utensils, straw, oil, allowed preachers, etc.,	$356.95
To meet these expenses we have received contributions at each meeting place, and from individuals, by mail and otherwise, ...	$309.02
Leaving a balance due on expenses,	47.93
To this add the amount due for cost of tents, etc., ...	71.58
And there is due the treasury, . .	$119.51

By this exhibit it will be seen that we have raised for the tent mission $715.52, and expended $835.03. Thus by the most strict economy and constant labor, in conveying the tents, in trucking lumber, erecting seats, and in watching the tent ourselves, we have been enabled to perform a large amount of mission work with very little expense, although the preachers ought to have received much more than they did to enable them to support their families.

We now have a good tent ready for future service, also a second hand boarding tent. Our wagon will need repairs, or to be exchanged for a better one. With this experience in tent mission work, attended by such prosperous results, and the conviction that those who have contributed to furnish this tent are not poorer, but richer in blessings, and ready to do more of the same work, we would recommend that the Conference take into consideration the propriety of adopting measures to pay the small amount due the treasury, and also to construct another tent, to engage in the work of supplying the people of Maine with the Bread of Life, what little time remains before the Lord comes.

All of which is respectfully submitted, with the desire to be discharged.

(Signed) I. C. Wellcome, Treas.
In behalf of the Committee.

The above report was accepted by the Conference, when it adjourned till P. M.

Thursday, half past one o'clock P. M. Prayer by Bro. York. After some remarks on the tent mission it was Resolved, That we heartily approve of the course pursued by the managers of the tent interest. Resolved, That we assume the debt due the committee in furnishing and running said tent. Voted, That there be five brethren appointed as a committee to take charge of the tent enterprise the ensuing year. Voted, That there be a nominating committee of three. Brn. H. S. Mitchell, J. A. Libby, and E. M. Haggett, were accordingly chosen.

While this committee were in consultation, a committee of three were chosen to confer with those recommended for ordination. Brn. I. C. Wellcome, R. R. York, C. Goud, Com.

The Lewiston church requested counsel from the Conference in regard to their present church relations, whereupon Bro. R. R. York was chosen to confer with them.

The nominating committee reported the following names as tent committee: Brn. R. R. York, W. H. Mitchell, J. A. Libby, F. A. Baker, S. K. Partridge. Report accepted.—Voted, That there be two added to the committee. Brn. C. Goud and E. M. Haggett were accordingly added. Resolved, that we issue a call through the press to the brethren and sisters of Maine, to assist in liquidating the present debt of the tent mission; the tent committee to issue said call.—Voted, that the tent committee be empowered to negotiate with the eastern brethren in regard to purchasing their interest in the present tent, and to do the same, or to see what measures they will take towards procuring another tent.—Voted, that the following named brethren be the officers of the Conference for the coming year: Brn. N. G. Reed, President; R. R. York, Vice President and Treasurer; L. F. Cole, Secretary.—Voted, That the committee chosen to give letters of recommendation be continued in their position.

The brethren deeply regret that some of the absent members failed to report themselves by letter to the Conference, as the constitution requires. Adjourned.

Thursday Eve., half past six o'clock, met for social worship, a very interesting occasion, with great harmony; then preaching by Bro. H. B. Seavey. Text, Rev. 22: 12. Then followed the ordination of Brn. Gay and A. H. Walker. Prayer by Bro. J. A. Libby. Charge by Bro. I. C. Wellcome. Right hand of fellowship by Bro. E. M. Haggett.

Friday, nine A. M. Prayer by Bro. J. A. Libby. The article that was laid on the table was resumed, and the following was submitted: Whereas, there are men traveling and preaching among us who do not sustain a good moral character, and for whom we have no fellowship as christian ministers, therefore;

Resolved, that in our travels and labors we will not give them countenance, nor bid them God speed, nor can we consistently preach and labor with those churches and societies who persist in giving them countenance, or employing them as christian ministers.

Resolved, That it is the duty of our brethren to endeavor to ascertain the standing of men who offer themselves as Advent ministers.

Voted, That we cordially extend the thanks of the Conference to the brethren and sisters of Lewiston and Auburn for their kindness and hospitality manifested during this session. Voted, that this report be sent to the World's Crisis and Voice of the West for publication.

Ordained ministers present, I. C. Wellcome, R. R. York, C. Goud, J. A. Libby, S. Smith, E. M. Haggett, N. G. Reed, H. S. Mitchell, H. B. Seavey, Jesse Gay, A. H. Walker. Unordained, S. Rines, L. F. Cole. Adjourned sine die. Respectfully submitted.

L. F. Cole, Sec.

Voice of the West please copy.

☞ There would be a great deal more harmony in this life, if every one would try to make themselves more agreeable to each other in conversation, in manners, in dealings, in morality, in religion, and in all deeds.

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—Paul.

MOTHERS AND TEMPERANCE.

A mother sends us the following:

"I do not think there is a woman in the land whose cheek would not flush with anger and indignation, if you should even hint to her that she was deliberately laying a groundwork of habit which would end in making a drunkard of her boys. She would vehemently deny the fact, and gather her darlings to her bosom, with a shudder at the bare possibility of their meeting such a fate.

"Every mother knows, from the sermons and books and essays upon the subject that have flooded the land, but more still from her own instincts and heart-beats, that no one in all the world has such an influence as she has over the future men and women—now the little, confiding child on her breast.

"I wonder if she thinks of the still stronger power she holds for weal or woe over her unborn babe. I wonder if she goes back further still, even ere she marries the man who is to be the father of her children, considers well what sort of a bias he will give their natures, and what kind of example he will set before them; whether he is of strong appetites and weak in self-government or not; whether they can live in such harmony that their children will be always carried on the strength of love and wisdom through all the temptations of youth, feeling that home is both harbor and anchor during every storm. Does she realize that the food she prepares to eat—if rich, heavily spiced and salted—gives them an appetite for stimulating things; that the domestic wines, which she manufactures as innocently as she does her jellies and cakes, give her children their first taste for something stronger than water to drink?

"Does she ever think that the ale and porter which her physician advises her to use freely while nursing her children, are nursed into their stomachs, carried into their blood and brains, and thus—the last thing she would dream of—their taste is forming for them, and the natural, instinctive dislike of a child for liquor taken away?

"Does she know that the bourbon and brandy, a few teaspoonfuls a day for strength and medicine before the birth of the child, all through the early intimacy of child and mother, has its influence and effect, until, when the temptation comes for him to drink for the pleasure of it, her warning, 'My child do not touch the cup,' loses its force; for against it rise his strong appetites, and the remembrance that he had seen her take of the same?

"There is one thing I think mothers should teach their children from the first dawning of evil in their nature, and that is self-control. I have heard a young man full of goodness and talent say: 'I have a liking for the taste of liquor, and when I see it I have not the power to refuse the temptation.' Is it all his own fault? Can we raise our children weakly, and then conscientiously tell them to be strong? Teach them to govern their little passions and tempers and appetites, and they will be strong enough for great ones by and by.

"If every mother would be convinced of the importance of all these seemingly little matters, and faithfully abide by her convictions of right and wrong in regard to them, would not the coming generation see much fewer weak men struggling hopelessly against their appetites and sinking into drunkards' graves!"

—Journal of Physical Culture.

FRUIT AS AN ARTICLE OF DIET.

The value of good fruit as an article of food cannot be over-rated, yet it is not generally justly appreciated, nor understood. It is considered as a luxury, and is only eaten between meals, or after a hearty meal of meats and vegetables, and then only because there is room for a little more. Too frequently the nutritious qualities of the fruit are destroyed by being stewed, and a quantity of sugar and spice added.

The sun is really the best cook for most, if not all kinds of fruit. Nature understands her business, and the appetites and instincts of children are almost universally pure, and they always choose uncooked fruits, as do those nations whom we—in our self-assumed arrogance—call uncivilized. The inhabitants of the tropic isles subsist almost entirely upon fruits, eating them just as they are plucked from the trees or vines; and where, beneath the sun, do we find such healthy people as they?

During the late war, when our soldiers ate all the peaches, apples, pears, berries and melons they could lay their eager hands upon, they were speedily cured of fevers, dysenteries, and even chronic diarrhea, the surgeons to the contrary, notwithstanding.

There is great prejudice in the minds of many persons against the free use of fruit, supposing it to be a fruit-ful source of worms and summer complaints in children. To be convinced of their fatal error, they have only to see children in the country, where they have an abundance of fruit. They eat it before breakfast and after breakfast, before dinner and after dinner, at all hours of the day, and not unfrequently munch apples or pears after they are in bed. City children suffer from eating unripe fruits in large quantities, or, from eating to excess one day, and having none for a week after.

Chicago, Ill. Mrs. G. R. Lampson.

REMARKS.

There are many good things in the above article, yet there are some points that might lead to extremes, and perhaps error in regard to using fruit.

We do not think that cooking fruit, of itself, injures it, especially for some persons; too much sugar, and spices of all kinds, unfit it for use. Yet, for most persons, good, ripe fruit in its natural state is the best.

That children in the country who use fruit at pleasure are much more healthy than are those in the city who are deprived of it, or use it as above mentioned, is true; yet those in the country might be a great deal better off if they would eat fruit only at meal-time, making it a part of the meal.—Ed. Health Reformer.

RAIN.

Dr. Trench, the Medical Officer of Health for Liverpool, has satisfied himself by a series of careful observations extending over a number of years, that there is an inverse ratio between the amount of rain and the amount of mortality from infantile summer diarrhea. To the same effect are the tables given by Mr. Macpherson illustrating the relation of moisture to the mortality from cholera in Calcutta. According to these tables, the least mortality from cholera in Calcutta occurs in the months of July, August, and September, which are emphatically the wet months.

No doubt but rain is a great cleanser, taking out impurities from the air; it also washes away an immense amount of filth from the streets and gutters of large cities; it lays the dust which would otherwise irritate the air passages. Sunshine, however, is equally important. In seasons when the rain is too abundant, vegetables are insipid and watery, and less wholesome than when there is plenty of sun to ripen and perfect them. By proper care of the body and strict cleanliness, the seasons, whether wet or dry, need not very perceptibly affect the amount of sickness. It is principally our bad habits and filth that make some years more unhealthy than others.—Ex.

Tea and Coffee.—There are several facts relative to the use of tea and coffee, which may be brought as reasons why they should not be used.

First, They contain no nutriment, consequently they are poisonous and highly injurious; and being generally taken into the stomach hot, they debilitate the stomach, effect the nervous system, and engender disease; numbness, palsy, sick headache, congestion of the brain, palpitation of the heart, apoplexy, and many other evils, which it will take long months and perhaps years to efface.

Second. They stimulate the system to undue action, thus causing an unnecessary wear and tear of the vital powers. They give strength to the body just in the same way that the whip and spur strengthen a jaded horse.

How to get up Refreshed.—Every person who toils daily upon a farm in warm weather should be careful to practise a system of ablution at the close of each day's labor. Sometimes he may be so exhausted as to render this anything but an inviting performance; yet by its omission he loses much of the refreshment which the hours of repose are designed to impart. Cleanliness of person is essential to sound and refreshing slumber; hence the labor of keeping one's person clean is amply repaid by the elasticity which follows from nightly ablutions before retiring to rest. These are especially requisite during the haying and harvesting season, when profuse perspiration is a certain concomitant of hard and protracted labor.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..............$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address.......$5.60
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00.
Same rate for any number under ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's name, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
Private Letters.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,

Semi-monthly,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM;

An Illustrated Sunday-School Paper,

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS:

Payable always in advance.

[illegible]

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 646. | BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1868. | VOL. XXVI.—NO. 23.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS,
M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN,
D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE C. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

MY FATHER'S AT THE HELM.

A lonely pilgrim here I roam;
No land do I possess,
But soon the glory-light of home
My weary soul shall bless.
It matters not where I may roam,
Where'er the clime or realm;
There's One shall guide me safely home,
My Father's at the helm.

My fragile bark is rudely tossed
On life's dark troubled sea;
But chart and compass are not lost,
The Pilot cares for me.
Though rude, tempestuous winds may blow,
My bark to overwhelm,
I have no fears, for well I know
My Father's at the helm.

Soon, soon I'll gain the blissful land,
Where pain nor grief are known;
My name is written in his hand,
Who sits upon the throne.
Our elder Brother reigns a king
In that immortal realm;
So 'mid life's storm I joyful sing,
My Father's at the helm.

Perth Amboy, N. J. ANNA E. McELLISTER.

For the World's Crisis.

THE FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT.—No. 7.

"The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law."—GAL. 5: 22.

FAITH.

The first three fruits of the Spirit increase the happiness of him who possesses them, and lighten his path along the narrow way. The next three affect his deportment, and make him a better man; and the last are inseparable from his labor as a christian. Faith precedes, meekness follows, and temperance attends all his work for the Lord that the Spirit directs. A person can work and toil and weep until he wears his life away; but unless he has faith, and the Holy Spirit attends the word spoken, no fruits will follow his labor. Such laborers, however, are few, for it generally takes some faith to inspire a man so that he will work.

We are saved by grace, through faith. I remember when I was first convicted by the Spirit of sin, of righteousness, and of a judgment, I knew that I was a sinner, and that none but the holy would be in the kingdom; and I wanted to be there. I resolved that I would sin no more, but be good all the time, hoping thus to obtain eternal life. But before I had tried long, I found out that I could not overcome the hourly temptations I was subject to; that my heart was evil; that in me was no good thing; and that I could not change my heart. My past sins rose like a mountain before me, and whichever way I turned, all was darkness and horror. O how I longed for light! how I hungered and thirsted after righteousness! and Jesus when on earth pronounced a blessing on those who hunger and thirst after righteousness. His promises are as sure now as they were eighteen hundred years ago. He showed me that though I could not merit salvation, though I could not earn a crown of life, my sins could be forgiven for his sake, and through his blood, not my works of righteousness, I could be free from sin in the sight of God; and I believed.

When the sinner seeking for salvation realizes that he does not deserve forgiveness; that if he is saved it will be because God is good, not because he is good; that if he receives a crown of life it will be a gift from God; he is then half saved; for then all he has to do is to believe. The thought of such grace is overwhelming; but he reads, "Jesus came into the world to save sinners"; that he "came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance"; and again, "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life"; and he believes. He believes God will forgive him, because he has promised; he believes God does forgive him, that he has forgiven him. His load of sin is gone.

He is saved from the consequence of past sin by faith. When he is free from sin, he wants to keep free. He thinks of the times when he tried to be good in his own strength, and remembers his struggles and failures; but he is not discouraged. He reads that "God is a present help in every time of need"; that "his strength is made perfect in weakness"; that he will not suffer any one to be tempted above that they are able to bear, but with the temptation will provide a way of escape; and he believes, and receives grace to help in every time of need, in answer to the prayer of faith; and he is "kept by the power of God, through faith, unto salvation."

We are saved entirely through faith; saved from condemnation for past sin; saved from the power of sin in the present—from committing sin daily; and saved when Jesus shall come, from the second death. Saved by grace, through faith. We do not read of a good act Abraham ever did; but it is written, "Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him for righteousness."

No one can be free from sin without the aid of the Holy Spirit; and many knowing this have toiled and mourned and tried to work out their salvation and become fit to receive the Holy Spirit; who, had they trusted in the offering of Christ, would have witnessed with their spirits that they were the children of God. Paul, writing to the Galatians, said, "How received we the Spirit? by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith? Are ye so foolish? having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made perfect by the flesh?"

Faith is a gift of God. No one can obtain faith for themselves; it is a fruit of the Holy Spirit. Still no one can justify himself in sin by saying he cannot manufacture faith; for the same Spirit that convicts of sin will, if it is followed, bring forth faith unto salvation.

Faith brings the love, the joy, the peace, which the christian enjoys. He believes that God is love, and God's love awakens in him all the love he is capable of. He believes that soon Jesus his best friend will come and raise the dead, and change the living to immortality. "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen"; and he so firmly believes these truths that they are like realities to him; and this faith brings joy and peace. Whatever trouble comes upon him, sickness, poverty, loss of friends, or woe worse than death, he feels that God suffered it to happen for his good, and this faith buoys him up so the waves cannot overflow him.

"Faith without works is dead." James says, "Show me thy faith without thy works, and I will show you my faith by my works."

If a man tells me he believes the Lord will come during 1868, and commences building him a house that will last a hundred years, I think he is either a hypocrite, or lacks judgment. If a woman tells me she loves the Lord with all her heart, and her neighbor as herself, and I see her pay three dollars for a pretty feather, I think she never was converted, or has fallen from grace.

If a person really believes that within a few years at the longest probation will end, the earth be melted, and the works that are therein burned up, will he spend hundreds of dollars in making this short life as pleasant as possible, while the servants of God have so little time and means to spend in spreading the tidings of salvation? Money is needed to further the cause of Christ in all directions; and those who love the Lord more than the world, and his cause more than their own pleasure, will, if they have money, use it for God's glory instead of their own selfish comfort.

The closer we follow the leadings of the Spirit, the stronger our faith grows. Many a man has been called by God to leave his pleasant home, his wife and children, and go about proclaiming salvation through Christ to a dying world; and obeyed, trusting that God would provide for him and his all that was necessary; and God has, in answer to his faith, taken care of those left behind in most wonderful ways. Sometimes the last pint of meal and last potato would be eaten, but before another meal was needed provision would come from a source unlooked for. But all have not this faith, because all are not guided entirely by the Spirit. It is not necessary for a child of God to tell his wants to every body in order to have them supplied. His Father can take care of him as well, if no one knows his condition, as he can if it is published all over the world.

"Trust in the Lord and do good, and thou shalt dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed." Why should the child of the King of kings fear? "The cattle upon a thousand hills are his," and "like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him."

We are to walk by faith, not by sight. Sometimes the Lord lets his children walk in darkness to try them, that they may know what it is to lean wholly upon Him, and become patient and submissive. There is nothing that draws a christian nearer God, than having every earthly support taken away. Some have said the brightest hour of their lives was when they saw nothing in this world to lean upon, and trusted fully in God. Then is the time when our Father shows his face.

"Without faith it is impossible to please God." It is mockery to ask God for that which we do not expect to receive. "If any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him. But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering, for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, driven with the wind and tossed. For let not that man think that he shall receive anything of the Lord."—James 1: 5-7.

"The just shall live by faith." Live free from sin in this world, and eternally in the world to come. Daily faith is needed. Not only faith while in prayer-meeting, and when all goes well, but all the time. When walking in light or in darkness, in sickness or in health, in poverty or in wealth; when we are strong, and when we are weak; when we have joy, and when we have sorrow; when we are in company, and when we are alone; faith that in every time of need takes hold of the promises of God and calls the blessing down; and such faith we shall have if we walk in the Spirit; faith that will save us from sin here, and from death in the day of judgment.

No. Scituate, R. I. S. K. PAINE.

☞ The symptoms of spiritual decline are like those which attend the decay of bodily health. It generally commences with the loss of appetite, and a disrelish for spiritual food, prayer, reading the Scriptures and devotional books. Whenever you perceive these symptoms, be alarmed, for your spiritual health is in danger. Apply immediately to the great Physician for a cure.

☞ When the soul is cast upon God, the Lord is with the soul in the trial, and the mind is kept perfectly calm. The spirit of love, the spirit of Christ is there: if thinking of myself, that is the spirit of selfishness.

LOUIS NAPOLEON.

The following article is from the January number of "The Signs of our Times," a monthly published in London, Eng. It is from the pen of Dr. W. Megnell Whittemore, Rector of St. James, Duke's Place, London. His object is to show that Napoleon III. is represented by the last head of the Leopard beast of Rev. 13th, and the scarlet-colored beast of the 17th chapters of Revelation.—ED.

In the thirteenth chapter of Revelation, St. John, standing upon the sea-shore, beholds a wild animal ascending out of the sea, "having seven heads and ten horns." The horns are crowned, and the heads are circled by the diadems of blasphemous assumptions. This singular creature in its general configuration resembles a leopard, but its feet are those of a bear, and it has a lion's mouth. If we regard its resemblance to a leopard as indicating a warlike, ferocious character, this idea will be confirmed by the seeming incongruities of a lion's mouth and a bear's feet—bears fighting with their feet, and lions with their mouths.

This fierce animal becomes the vicegerent of the dragon, and quickly places himself in open and fearful antagonism to God, and all that belongs to God. His career, however, is not unchecked. One of his heads receives a severe stroke by a sword, and apparently dies. Yet it has what seems a miraculous recovery; it again lives, and thus excites the astonishment of the world. He goes on with accelerated triumph over all the world, and over the saints of God, and is, for forty-two prophetical months, allowed to establish his despotism.

Yet, for a time, his progress seems a prodigy of lawless wickedness. And a coadjutor arises. A false prophet becomes his guide; and by a strange legerdemain beguiles the inhabitants of the earth not only into constant marvelings, but also into blind obedience. The tyranny is represented as so complete that the wild-beast's mark in the hand or on the forehead—a common practice amongst the heathen to indicate the worship of a particular deity—is indispensable to liberty of commerce.

The season of retribution gradually approaches; not without its warnings and earnests. One plague descends upon the marked worshipers of the wild-beast; another, upon his seat. The result is darkness and anguish. Yet there is no repentance. The wild-beast even makes one of a fearful triumvirate whose evil counsels gather the nations to battle against the Lamb.

A few words describe the issue of this conflict: "And the wild-beast was taken, and with him the false prophet . . . . these both were cast alive into a lake of fire, burning with brimstone." Rev. 19: 19.

It is clear that the wild-beast must refer to some temporal kingdom. The very word "beast," meaning properly "wild-beast," points to something earthly, sensual, non-spiritual. But this is yet more evident if we turn to the seventeenth chapter. In the seventeenth chapter the same wild animal is introduced, with the remarkable addition of a woman seated upon him. The angel there explains the seven heads to mean seven hills. These seven hills indicate an earthly or temporal power.

But what earthly power? Can there be a doubt? Ask anybody what empire is designated by the phrase, "the seven-hilled power;" and he most assuredly will reply, The Roman. The wild-beast represents, therefore, the secular Roman Empire. We say the secular, because we are precluded, by the character of the symbol, from attributing to it any religious or ecclesiastical aspect.

The seven heads, the angelic expositor also asserts, are seven kings; the seven kings indicate polities or governments . . . .

The conditions or qualifications of the new or seventh sovereignty are these:—

1. It is to arise about the period—a little before, or a little after—when the sixth head falls. We cannot suppose the wild-beast to exist without a head, and its new head must have come when the other falls.

2. The seventh head is to "continue a short space;" the political headship, therefore, which it typifies, must have the character of brief existence. Rev. 17: 10.

3. This head is mortally wounded by the stroke of a sword. The new sovereignty, therefore, will be one which sustains such an external assault as apparently destroys its power, and causes, so it may be styled, its political death. Rev. 13: 3.

4. The slain head revives, by the marvelous healing of its mortal wound. The government of which it is the symbol must be one which, although destroyed, again recovers its power, and returns to its former dominant position.

5. It seems to resemble an eighth head, but is really the seventh, under a new phase of existence which leaves its identity untouched. And so the political power which it foreshadows must have, at its resuscitation, a certain newness of life, which gives it a fresh aspect; and yet it must be in such connection with its former constitution as to make it the same dynasty restored. Rev. 17: 11.

6. The wild-beast, at its revival of life, is to ascend out of the sea, or abyss—synonymous terms which symbolise a nation in a disturbed state, through foreign, or intestine tumult. The seventh power must, accordingly, arise out of the raging winds of a tumultuous people.

Nowhere can we find these conditions observed, or these qualifications furnished, except in the FRENCH EMPERORSHIP, as founded by Napoleon Buonaparte, in the year 1804.

1stly. In 1805, he became King of Italy; and, subsequently to the abdication of Francis, it was decreed that the States held by the Pope should be united to the French Empire, that the Imperial Prince should be called King of Rome, and that the Emperors should be crowned at St. Peter's as well as at Notre Dame. The power of Napoleon rapidly extended, directly or indirectly, over the Western Empire. It was distinct in its official designation from the preceding heads; its decree affirmed that the city of Rome should be called the second city of the Empire, thus depriving it of its metropolitan dignity, although claiming its possession. Yet it was a Roman head. Its special military ensign was the Roman eagle; its representative attempted the revival in himself of the characteristics of Augustus Cæsar, Justinian, and Charlemagne; its manners and pretensions were assimilated to those of ancient Rome; the descent of Buonaparte was traced to some of the Paleologi who had taken refuge in Corsica; and the seven-hilled city was not only actually in his possession, but was officially annexed to his dominions. As the seventh head he towered majestically and terribly over the Latin Empire.

2dly. Then the French Emperor continued only a short space. His formidable dominion ended in June, 1815, after a brief existence of eleven years.

3dly. And it was destroyed by the stroke of a foreign sword. It seemed a mortal wound. Who that saw the fallen Emperor pacing, like a shackled tiger, the prison-ground of St. Helena, could have conjectured the restoration of his dynasty? The Empire seemed broken up forever.

But it was conjectured. In 1828, the Rev. G. S. Faber published his "Sacred Calendar," in which he plainly asserted the revival of the French Emperorship, as demanded by prophecy. He then wrote these words—"It cannot but follow, from the very terms of the prophecy, that in the person of some or other successful adventurer, the Francic Emperorship will be revived while the re-animated wild-beast is emerging from the agitated abyss of some tremendous political revolution."

This is a remarkable instance of clear penetration into the meaning of prophecy. At the time Mr. Faber wrote, there was no probability of a restoration of the French Emperorship. Yet prophecy said that the slain head would revive, and so this sagacious student of the Apocalypse asserted the revival of that political power which expired at Waterloo.

We have this advantage in taking Mr. Faber's views, as stated by him in 1828, that they cannot be suspected of being biassed by the present actual restoration of the French Emperorship. This is, obviously, a strong confirmation of his interpretation of the seventh head.

4thly. The seventh head has now reappeared. The "successful adventurer" has effected a seeming miracle; he has resuscitated the dead Emperorship. In some respects he is an eighth head: he succeeds to the restored Empire by successful military efforts, and may well claim to originate a dynasty.

5thly. Yet he does not really constitute a new head. The instincts of the present Empire are those of the former. The whole soul of the present Emperor is absorbed by one thought, and all his energies are concentrated on the outward embodiment of that thought—Identity with Napoleon Buonaparte. Had Louis Napoleon been a student of prophecy, and conjectured, from the visions of St. John, his destiny, he could not have set to work more zealously than he has done, to accomplish that destiny and to identify himself with the slain seventh head. The eagle has been restored to the French banners; and a French army is actually master of the Roman city. Napoleon the Third preserves under that very title the Imperial legitimacy, and proves that the Empire of Napoleon the First has risen again into marvellous vitality and power.

6thly. The only other point of analogy we have to notice, is that between the rising from the sea and the rising of the French Emperorship from the troubled waters of revolutionary strife. This was seen in the fearful commotions out of which Buonaparte arose to despotic rule; and the convulsions of all the Continent—beginning with France—during the eventful year 1848, suitably heralded the new rise of the Emperorship; which, moreover, did literally emerge out of popular disturbances and revolutionary massacres.

And now, it may be asked, for what purpose have we placed these prophetical interpretations before you? Why have we thought it desirable, and even necessary, to occupy the quiet hours of a Sabbath evening with this array of historical facts? Most assuredly it has not been to gratify your curiosity; nor to display the preacher's ingenuity in solving the enigmas of St. John. This would have been a waste of your time, and a degradation of our own high office.

But we stand on the walls of Zion as spiritual watchmen. To us comes the question, "Watchman, what of the night?" And it is our bounden duty to answer that question; to cry to the slumberers in Zion, "The night is far spent, the day is at hand;" and to whisper to the mourners in Zion, "Lift up your heads, for behold! your redemption draweth nigh!"

We believe that awfully important events are to be transacted subsequently to the reappearance of the seventh head of the wild-beast; that if the present French Emperor be this restored head, these events are even now coming to pass, and may be said to already cast their shadows before; and that, standing as each one of us does on the verge of a terrible futurity, we ought to discern the signs of the times, and prepare to take our part in the approaching struggle.

Why, then, has vitality been restored to the deceased Roman Empire, and to its slain seventh head?

Because this empire—as the mystic wild-beast—is to originate a gigantic confederacy against the gospel of Christ, and is to ally popery, infidelity, and despotism against the true disciples of Jesus.

When the sixth vial is poured out (Rev. 17. 13,) three unclean spirits issue from the mouths of the dragon, the wild-beast, and the false prophet, and, moving amongst the kings, excite them to an unholy alliance and to an impious war. Their success is exhibited in the gathering of the kings to "the battle of the great day of God Almighty." In other words, the renovated Roman Empire, in conjunction with the Papacy, and under the influence of Satan, will employ such demon-like influences in continental kingdoms, that a fierce war will arise, directed against the Church of Christ. This, commonly called the "war of opinion," will be the final struggle between the wild-beast and the Lamb; will take place after the outpouring of the seventh vial, and will end in the complete and supernatural discomfiture of the enemies of Christ.

When the seventh vial sheds its portion of wrath, there will be political confusions, general anarchy, the overthrow of the Roman Empire, the destruction of papal Rome, an irruption from Russia, the conversion of the Jews, and the battle of Armageddon. When will these events occur? Probably very soon.

"COME, LORD JESUS."

Come, thou all-powerful Conqueror, quickly come!
Hasten to leave awhile thy Father's home;
Return, all nations and all hearts to shake,
Thine own supreme authority to take;
The last great prophecies of time fulfill,
And finish all thy righteous Father's will.

Come, thou dear Bridegroom, to thy waiting bride,
Let her deep longings now be satisfied!
End all her mourning with thy joyous rest—
Proclaim the royal feast—call every guest;
Bid the eternal harmonies begin,
Rejoicing o'er the death of woe and sin.

Come to thy people's rescue, glorious King!
With thine own arm help and salvation bring;
Thine eye shall strike confusion on their foes,
But smile on them with victory and repose;
Reign thou triumphant o'er the earth below,
Whereon or thrones are set, or nations bow.

Come, mighty Renovator! Let thy voice
Once more command creation to rejoice;
With heavenly fires destroy, consume, refine,
Till the restored earth with beauty shine,
Prepared a blessed dwelling-place to be,
Where thy redeemed shall walk in light with thee!

—Prophetic Times.

For the World's Crisis.

TIME, TIME.

I have formerly been quite decided and unqualified in my devotion to "time preaching," time movements," etc. I still believe that the true time is in the Bible, and will be understood and preached by believers generally before the Lord comes; but I confess that from further observation and experience in noting the operation of these things, I am forced to distinguish between the abuse and proper use of time as revealed in the Bible. I see no reason why I should justify and commend a false time argument because I believe the Bible presents the true one.

In an article on "Definite Time and its Dangers," about three years since, I urged that the greatest danger attending definite time was "the danger of making God's time too indefinite." The danger I then alluded to was that of making the plain declarations of the word of God too indefinite and difficult to learn with certainty what the Divine mind meant to convey. But I now see that in our zeal to shun this extreme, we are liable to fall into another; that of making these declarations of the word in relation to definite time so pliable as to sustain every time argument we may choose to preach. If it is dangerous to make these faithful testimonies mean no time or nothing, it is equally dangerous to make them mean all time or every-year time. If the Bible proved everything, it would be worthless to prove anything. So if it points to every year, it does not decide in favor of any year.

To say that these time arguments have been sustained by sound reasoning and just conclusions, would be as bold and presumptuous as to say that there had been no disappointments in relation to them. To charge the fault with the word of God would be to insult Jehovah. To admit that it lies with those who have preached and believed them (where it belongs) involves the humiliating confession that we have shown more zeal than discrimination in preaching time. It is better to have a zeal for time than against it, perhaps, though we have nothing but zeal. But zeal unmixed with prudence will ruin any cause, provided it has the reins.

When time arguments become habitually erroneous (and such has been the case among us), the fault must be either in the evidence used or in the understanding of those who use it, provided they are honest, which, generally, I do not doubt.

As our conclusions on time are proved constantly untrue, the minds of people must become correspondingly incredulous, either as to the Bible testimony on prophecy, or to our understanding of it. We may not hope for infallibility, it is true, but so much assurance in an error; so much dogmatism after the repetition of so many blunders on the same point; so much censoriousness in view of past mistakes, as we very often see in connection with time, show a wrong spirit, an ill-regulated zeal, and a need of more discrimination in the matter; and, most of all, more humility, and of that holiness "without which no man shall see the Lord."

I can but think that the preaching of the truth, even in the spirit of error, must in most cases prove a misfortune to the cause of truth. How much more the preaching of error in its own spirit as a substitute for truth. We claim that the good intentions of those who preach the popular errors cannot make those errors a blessing to the believers. But, are Advent errors any better than Orthodox errors? Are errors on time any better than errors on other points?

But it may be asked, Has not the blessing of God attended those time movements in the past, especially the "44" movement? Yes, indeed it did, abundantly; and it equally attended the labors of the early Methodists and Freewill Baptists, although they preached what we regard pernicious errors on rewards and punishments, and other points. In their case we say, in harmony with the words of Christ, "sanctify them through thy truth," that it was the truth they preached that sanctified them, and not the error. Shall we not judge ourselves by the same rule? If we do, we must say, as in their case, God blesses the truth we preach and not the error, whether in a time movement or in any other effort.

I think it must be manifest to all that in the leading time movements among us, '44, '54, and '67, each successive one has been attended with less divine power and love, and heavenly fruits. But the most lamentable feature of all, since it is a fruitful source of this degeneracy, is, that time movements are fed with little else than time preaching, and that this has dwindled down to mere dry theorizing, attended with more strife than heavenly zeal, more dogmatism than "meekness of wisdom," and more censoriousness than the love of God.

Time preachers now-a-days seldom preach on practical things, and during a time movement confine themselves almost wholly to the time argument. Some say they cannot live without time, and hence preach only when they have time, and then nothing but time. They sometimes say that their calling is to preach on the prophecies and not upon practical subjects.

I seriously doubt whether God calls any man to preach, with the understanding that he is to leave out or neglect practical religion. If with a free utterance in telling men what to believe, he cannot tell them how to live, he betrays a fearful lack. It is a lamentable fact that most Advent preachers are better qualified to tell people what to believe than how to live, and are more at home in preaching than in praying. Those who think they are called to preach "the truth" rather than practical christianity, should not forget that such are the ministers of the truth rather than the ministers of Christ.

How different it was in the '44 movement. Then, with scarcely an exception, those who preached time preached practical things with it. And what is of the utmost importance in the case, they were men "full of faith and the Holy Ghost." With the zeal and ardor of conviction they showed the meekness and gentleness of Christ. They spent five hours in prayer, where our preachers now spend one hour. Their faithfulness, too, in warning and entreating against sin was according to the same measure. In their faithfulness they could not bear to see "even the garment spotted by the flesh."

A flock guarded by such faithful watch-care, and thus constantly fed with spiritual food, could but thrive and grow in grace. And having everywhere and abundantly "fathers and mothers in Israel," who could take the seeker by the hand and lead him to Christ, and there nourish and strengthen him after he was in Christ, they could but show to the world the unsearchable riches of Christ. They were a praying band, too. They prayed often and everywhere, for themselves and their enemies, in secret and in public. And they watched as well as prayed over their words and secret thoughts, as well as their belief and outward acts.

When such a people believe time, although in error as to the particular point of expectation, they have truth enough besides to feed and thrive on. If we have not gospel enough to enable us to live holy without time, we are poor indeed; yes, "wretched and miserable," and are not fit to be entrusted with time, true or false. May God give us wisdom enough to discern His time, and keep us from our own, and until we get His, may he give us grace enough to live without time, and preach something that we need all the time; and then when we have this time, to offer it will prove a joy and crown to ourselves, and an everlasting blessing to others.

So. Exeter, Maine. I. K. LOMBARD.

For the World's Crisis.

CONTENTMENT.

"Godliness with contentment is great gain."—1 TIM. 6: 6.

Sometimes the term "godliness" more immediately refers to that particular part of religion which concerns our duty to God; but here we regard it as including the whole of genuine religion; consisting of doctrines, duties, and privileges. They who make christianity a trade, will never find themselves to be gainers by it in the end; but all who closely attend to it as a calling, will find it a most beneficial one. Many who are strangers to godliness hope to make a gain of it; but all who are acquainted with it know from experience that "godliness with contentment is great gain." "A little that a righteous man hath is better than the riches of many wicked."—Ps. 37: 16. Godliness and contentment are constant companions; for true contentment grows out of real godliness; and that is the christian's wealth while in this world. Prov. 16: 16. It is the wisdom of God to give to men not all alike, but what seemeth good; and it is the wisdom of man to be content with what he receives; and it is "godliness," which itself is gain, that makes a man content in every situation. Phil. 4: 11. A holy man has a heart happy in itself; bliss in his bosom; counts enough, wealth; envies none their lot; his wishes are few, and easy to be obtained; his power bounds his will; care he has none; doing well is his treasure; grace is his health; and changes in providence make no change in him; for though he stays in the world, he lives far above it. Ps. 73: 25. The only true way to gain is to become a christian; and the christian's gain is godliness, which far exceeds all worldly gain; and godliness being accompanied with contentment makes it "great gain." Phil. 3: 7, 8. Past things can never be recalled, and future things are in the hand of God; let us, therefore, be content with the things we have. Heb. 13: 5.

Consider, 1st, what good things of this life you have. Be they little, or much, do you deserve them? Lam. 3: 22. Consider, 2nd, what spiritual blessings you have. You have the unchanging love of God fixed upon you. Jer. 31: 3. You have the life, death, and intercession of the Son of God for your righteousness, sanctification, and redemption. 1 Cor. 1: 30. You have the Holy Spirit of God for your Guide and Comforter. John 14: 16-26.—Selected by F. S. Ainsworth.

THE YEAR 1868.

Another year, with its untold joys, cares and sorrows, has dawned upon us. What a volume of thought rushes into the reflecting mind on surveying the past. What thoughts of duties unperformed, of hours misspent, or of injuries inflicted or received crowd upon us. Happy he who, in place of such a record, can look back to years spent in usefulness and profit; who can count the fruit of his labors in behalf of the truth. Such an one can rejoice with his whole soul, in view of the glory in store for him. His heart has been set to perform the commandments of the Lord, and he can exclaim with the Psalmist, "O how love I thy law; it is my meditation all the day." "I have refrained my feet from every evil way, that I might keep thy word."

Politically speaking, there is every indication that the year upon which we have just entered will be fraught with results of the greatest import to every waiting disciple of Christ. We are no alarmist, nor would we wish to beget false expectations in the breast of any one, yet we feel safe in saying that it is our opinion that the student of prophecy will witness this year the working out of events that will cast much light on the prophetic word. When was there a time so pregnant with evil forebodings, amongst all nations as the present? When such agitation and preparation as now? Look everywhere and we see the passions of men aroused, and their minds greatly agitated in their endeavors to solve the political difficulties that vex them. Witness the conflict in England between Fenianism and Reform with Aristocracy, or the constant agitation in Germany in their efforts to bring about a unity between the Northern and Southern districts. See the great concessions Austria is compelled to make in order to conciliate, for the time being, her thousands of dissatisfied subjects. Or take a look at Italy with her millions of impulsive people, all afire with a desire for the abolition of Papal rule and the establishment of Rome as their capital. See the state of affairs in the dominions of Turkey—her bloody deeds amongst her Cretan subjects and their indomitable resistance to all efforts at subjugation. Look at Russia or France, and what mighty preparations we behold for the issues of war. Money is poured out with lavish hand for implements of death, and the ingenuity of man is taxed for the invention of some new weapon which shall prove still more destructive than any yet known. Other countries of Europe are all alive with preparation, and some are at their wit's end how to suppress threatened revolution in their midst. China is still engaged with her internal war; South America with unabated zeal carries on the long and bloody conflict that has raged so long, whilst Mexico, with her hands red with the blood of her terrible struggle, is far from being at rest. In this country it is impossible to tell what an hour may bring forth. Although the great bone of contention, slavery, has been removed, yet we see a spirit of bitterness rankling in the breasts of the vanquished, and a constant agitation of the public mind which is fraught with anything but good. It is in keeping, however, with the general strife now going on in political circles everywhere.

Do not we see, as it were, an answer being given to the proclamation of the Spirit as sent through Joel, saying, "Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles, prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near, let them come up. Beat your ploughshares into swords, and your pruning hooks into spears. Let the weak say, I am strong."

The war element is rampant. The ambition of men for greater power and fame is leading them on step by step towards the pit of destruction, for it is the inevitable destiny of all such aspirants to be overthrown with a mighty overthrow by the coming King. God has granted him "the nations as an inheritance and the uttermost parts of the earth as a possession;" Psa. 2: consequently it is only a question of time as to the accomplishment of His will concerning them. When the time comes for the assumption, the Spirit says he will "break them with a rod of iron and dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel." What a humiliating spectacle that will be for those kings whose imaginations have become lifted up on account of the many victories that are inscribed on their blood-stained banners. But come it will, as truly as God has spoken it. But what are the signs that shall precede this victory of victories? "There shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars, and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity, the sea and the waves roaring, men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth, for the powers of heaven shall be shaken, and then shall they see the Son of Man coming in a cloud, with power and great glory. And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh." Matt. 24: 25-28.

—Herald of the Kingdom.

☞ The saints are sustained by the Spirit under their weaknesses; supported by Him under their troubles; recovered by Him when they are under spiritual decay; assisted by Him in all their conflicts with their spiritual enemies, till they enter the kingdom of eternal rest.

☞ Leisure is time for doing something useful; this leisure the diligent man will obtain, but the lazy man never; so that, as poor Richard says, a life of leisure and a life of laziness are two different things.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, Feb. 19, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ CASH RECEIPTS.

Our subscribers in Massachusetts and Maine will find their credit of money received for the Crisis on the strip pasted on their paper, which shows the date to which their subscription pays, instead of the No., as formerly acknowledged. Others will be sent likewise as fast as we get each State so arranged. So you can look at the date on your paper, and see if it is changed after sending us money.

GENERAL CONFERENCE.

There will be a General Conference of believers in the speedy coming of the blessed Savior, held in Boston, at the Lowell Street Chapel, commencing the Tuesday before the annual State Fast (March 31st or April 7th.) Particulars hereafter.

DISCUSSION IN EAST DOUGLAS.

We have just closed a very interesting discussion in East Douglas, Mass. That pleasant village, on the Air Line R. R. from Boston to Southbridge, is noted for the Douglas Axe Factory, where they make some 1200 axes in a day, which are said to be of superior quality. We found there one of the brightest little churches we have ever seen. There has been but very little preaching in the place on the points of doctrine for which we are distinguished as a people; but they keep up regular meetings, and all work; and as a result, have kept growing up into Christ, their living head. It was a feast to be with them in their prayer meetings. We had the sacrament of the Lord's Supper one evening. It was a heavenly season. About twenty were present. It was a melting time. Tears flowed most freely, while they thought of the sufferings of Jesus, and his great love for us. We were gathered around a table with a vacant seat at its head. It seemed almost as though we were actually waiting for Jesus to come in and fill the vacant chair. We think the scene will never be forgotten by those present.

We took up our pen to write a few words about a discussion held in East Douglas, evenings of Feb. 3d to 8th inclusive, with Dr. Morran, a Scotch Presbyterian. He is a popular lecturer on scientifical subjects; and is considered a very able man. He is a ready speaker, and possesses a superior memory. Were he on the side of truth he would be fully competent to defend it before any audience; but it is hard to make error stand up before the word of the Lord, and give successful combat. The debate was held in the Congregational meeting-house. Large, intelligent, and attentive audiences were present, including several ministers, and other professional men. The first three evenings were spent in discussing the immortality of the soul; and the last three, the punishment of the wicked. The Dr. has discussed with Spiritualists, and he found he was using their arguments in this discussion to sustain his own position. He was reminded of this fact by a prominent Spiritualist.

He compared the human body—the real man—to "old boots and shoes"—"the old shanty," which would never be raised up. He stated that the clergy do not now believe in the resurrection of the body that dies; but that a spiritual body is raised. We showed him that this view is the same as the one held by the Spiritualists, and completely overthrows the doctrine of the resurrection of the dead, and is a flat denial of the word of the Lord. He then called on the Congregational minister, in whose house we were holding the discussion, to state his view of the subject, when he rose up and endorsed what the Dr. had said. The Dr. admitted that forty years ago, the evangelical ministers believed and taught the resurrection of the body, but they did not now believe that the flesh and bones put into the grave would ever be raised from the dead. Hence it appears that nominal christendom is fast drifting into Spiritualism, and denying the cardinal doctrines of the Bible. What next? All this is but the legitimate fruit of a belief in the immortality of the soul. For if the real man does not die, he cannot be raised from the dead. Paul says, "If there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen." "Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." Thus it will be seen that whoever denies the resurrection of the dead takes away all hope of a future life through Christ. This is just what Spiritualism does.

We were very much pleased with the results of the discussion. Our Brn. and Srs. rejoiced greatly; and felt much firmer than ever before. The Lord stood by us in power to assist in the defense of the truth, and many had their eyes opened to see the simplicity of Bible teaching, and the wide difference between the Scriptures and the fables of these last days.

The following are some of the unproved assertions of the Dr.: "The spirit is what constitutes the identity." "Moses went to God when he died." "There is an immortal principle in man." "The spiritual man never dies." "There is no resurrection of the body." "Man has a never-dying spirit." "The immaterial entity constitutes the real man." "The material man is not accountable." "The beings in heaven are not material." "The wicked are to be eternally tormented." "The souls of the wicked go to the Devil, and he sends them out as his messengers."

The following are some of the Dr's admissions:—"No natural eye ever saw a spirit." "Jesus brought immortality to light." "Angels are organized beings." "The Devil employs fallen angels to do his work." The spirits occupy the upper air." "There are a multitude of fallen angels." "God is a person." "The brain is the organ of mentality." "Animals have minds." "Animals have a spirit," etc.

We think many saw that popular theology is quite far removed from common sense, philosophy, sound reason and the Bible. But as the truth is unpopular, most seem to prefer the popular side, if it be one of error It is astonishing to see how tenaciously men will hold on to the opinions of their fathers, however absurd they may be. With them the Bible is second-rate evidence, and must be twisted to harmonize with the opinions of some noted commentator, or philosopher. Socrates, Plato, and other heathen writers are quoted to prove the immortality of the soul while the Bible is silent on the subject; and most plainly teaches that the only hope of a future life for man, after death, rests in the literal resurrection of the dead.

Let us all hold fast to the plain teaching of the Scriptures on this important subject, and patiently wait for the coming One, who will raise the dead, and set up an everlasting kingdom "under the whole heaven."

DANIELSONVILLE.

We spent Feb. 9th at Danielsonville, Ct., with the church which enjoys the faithful pastoral labors of Bro. H. F. Carpenter. We found a growing interest in religious matters, and a disposition to occupy higher ground, and be prepared for the second coming of our Savior. They have a neat chapel, and the church is composed of those who can give a Bible reason of their hope. Death and removals have caused many sad hours to the surviving members, but they feel resolved to endure to the end.

For the World's Crisis.

NOTES, QUERIES AND OBJECTIONS.

BY REV. A. A. PHELPS.

13. "Consume"—"devour." Some six or eight passages in which these words occur, are materialized into extinction. Such are: "They that forsake the Lord shall be consumed."—Isa. 1: 28. "A certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries."—Heb. 10: 27.

Cannot a living man, in Scripture imagery, be devoured or consumed, without the destruction of his conscious being? Read a few passages and see. In describing his physical endurances, Jacob says: "In the day the drought consumed me, and the frost by night." Gen. 31: 40. Hear David: "Mine eye is consumed with grief, yea, my soul and my belly.... My strength faileth because of iniquity, and my bones are consumed."—Ps. 31: 9, 10. We also read of christians warned not "to bite and devour one another"; of men who "devour widows' houses," etc. Are you quite sure that sinners will be finally consumed and devoured in the sense of being utterly exterminated?

REPLY BY THE EDITOR.

In Ps. 37: 20, we read as follows:—"The wicked shall perish, and the enemies of the Lord shall be as the fat of lambs; they shall consume, into smoke shall they consume away." When a body is consumed away into smoke, can we be justified in saying it is not consumed at all? Dr. Clarke says of this passage: "If we follow the Hebrew, it signifies that they shall consume as the fat of lambs. That is, as the fat of lambs is wholly consumed in the sacrifice by the fire of the altar, so shall they consume away by the fire of God's wrath."

We would not assume that consume is always used in a literal sense, meaning to burn up with fire. When we say his hope is consumed, we do not mean it has been put into literal fire and burned up, but that it is destroyed as truly as a literal object in a literal fire. Admitting that the wicked are to be actually and utterly burned up, we do not see how it could be more fully and plainly expressed than it is now in the Bible. The destruction of the wicked by fire is declared as positively as the salvation of the righteous. We are told that "Sodom and Gomorrha" were turned "into ashes," and made "an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly." 2 Pet. 2: 6. As truly, then, as Sodom was destroyed by literal fire and brimstone, the wicked will be finally consumed in a similar manner. In Matt. 3: 12, we read, "He will . . . gather his wheat into the garner; but will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire." With this corresponds the prophet Malachi, 4: 1. "Behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble; and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch." Said Jesus: "As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world." Shall we dispute him and say it shall not be so? Will it do to say that all these positive declarations are only figures? Then why not say the promise of eternal life to the righteous is only a figure? We do not see how the one can be said to be figurative and not the other. If they were literally burned up, like the Sodomites, then they would be destroyed—be dead,—extinct, as the Bible declares.

Again, if the wicked are not to be literally consumed, but are to live forever; then sin can never be "finished" as declared by the apostle, who says, "Sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death." Jas. 1: 15. As "the wages of sin is death," it follows that the wicked must be destroyed in some way; and as the way is distinctly and repeatedly declared to be by burning "them up" in Gehenna fire, as the Sodomites were burnt up; we can see no reason for disbelieving that the fire that will destroy the wicked will be as literal as the one that destroyed the cities of the plain in the days of Lot; and the wicked will be as truly burnt up as were the Sodomites. Then the works of the devil will be destroyed and sin will be finished." The hour is rapidly approaching. Let us all be holy and escape "the second death."

PUBLIC MORALS.

The moral condition of society is in a sad condition, and continually declining. The time has come when business men find that all is uncertain. They can not trust the promises of their associates in trade; for if they do, in a short time they may find that the one they trusted has departed with a large amount of funds not his own. The clerk in whom you have put the utmost confidence may at the same time be daily filling his pockets with money, and forging notes in your name. The spirit of covetousness, that was to "characterize "the last days," is now so prevalent and strong, that all possible means are employed to obtain riches. Thus it must be a short time before the end of this dispensation. Unconverted men see the sign, but do not know its meaning, because they neglect the study of the prophetic Scriptures. They describe the present moral condition of the world to be just as the Bible says it will be near the time of the end. Says the editor of the New York Herald, when speaking of the moral condition of the world, and the public sentiment in relation to wicked men:—

"A successful ruffian is a hero; a defeated ruffian only a villain. Murders, licentiousness, crimes of every magnitude, have disgraced this city during the last few years beyond former ages, or almost every other country. In such a state of society, virtue is a disgrace; innocence is called folly; purity of character deemed poorness of spirit; honesty put down with a 'ha!' and a man of integrity called a 'damned fool.' A grasping avarice, a rapacious selfishness, the most hardened inhumanity, appear only to reach and enjoy respectability."

When shall we have a better state of things? Not till Jesus comes. Till then the wicked will continue to do wickedly with increased zeal. Scoffers are growing bold against the Lord, his word, and his children. It is thought to be manly to stand up against the inspiration of the Scriptures. Young men at twenty are more out-spoken against the word of the Lord now, than the old infidel twenty-five years ago. Infidelity now embraces the mass of young and middle-aged men, and the believers in the Bible are the exceptions. What a sad state of things is now prevailing. We may well pray, "Let thy kingdom come."

MASSACHUSETTS CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.

An interesting convention of the members of four evangelical denominations was held at Tremont Temple, in Boston, Jan. 29th and 30th. Various questions of practical importance were discussed. Among others the following:

"What are the best methods for organizing and developing the christian activity of the entire membership of a church?"

On this subject, Mr. Rowland, of the Springfield Street church, made some sensible remarks. He said, "that the prayer meetings needed to be enlivened; there was too much speaking in one vein by the deacons and elders of the church, which made the younger people afraid to speak."

Another subject was the following:—"How can the personal and social study of God's word be made more universal?"

The following are some of the remarks of Dr. Nicholson, of Boston, as reported in the Boston Journal:—

He said that the study of God's word was not merely to read it, but to appreciate it. The grand obstacle in the way of the proper study of the Scriptures was, that the mind was hampered and bandaged by tradition whenever it attempted to search out the truths of the Bible. People were afraid to draw the plain meaning of the doctrines of the Bible by this weight of tradition, which sheared it of half its efficacy. People tried to make the Bible fit to the principles laid down by this or that tradition, and thus fell into an inextricable maze of difficulty. He instanced passages, the common translation of which illustrated the baneful influence of traditionalism. It was the business of christians to get rid of these bugbears, for they totally perverted what the Bible said. He commented strongly on the practice of applying certain parts of the Old Testament—the sixtieth chapter of Isaiah for instance—to the christian religion, whereas; in his opinion, they did not in the least concern it. God asked us in studying his word to look at the word itself, and not be mystified by the traditional accretions of ages. The expressions of the Bible should be judged by the laws of language, and it would be found that they explained themselves. To promote the study of the Scriptures among the laity the clergy should study them properly themselves, which he feared many of them did not. They should expound the Scriptures in their sermons more than they did.

A hymn was then sung, after which Dr. Kirk continued to debate the subject discussed by Dr. Nicholson, having deferred the lecture which he had been previously announced to give. He said that he totally agreed with the general sentiments advanced by Dr. Nicholson and thanked him for giving utterance to them. There was not half reverence enough for the Bible, even among the ministry. He believed that our colleges were trammelled by tradition and there must be an entire revolution in their course of studies. He believed in theology, but there was something higher than theology. We had only skimmed the surface of the Bible as yet, and we sadly needed exegesis. A lawyer would not dare to go before the public with as slight knowledge of his books as ministers had of the Bible when they ventured to expound its truths. We wanted more of the truths of the Bible preached and less of man's talk.

The discussion of the following question, brought out some excellent remarks:—"Why do so many churches fail to reach the poor?" The Journal gives the following report of the discussion of this subject:

Rev. S. F. Upham of Boston opened the discussion. He said it was a lamentable fact that many churches did fail to reach the poor. Costly temples were built and learned ministers settled over them, but how few of the poor, to whom Christ preached, are found in those magnificent edifices! One reason of this was that too many christians overlooked the fact that the gospel was intended for the masses. It was said of Christ that the common people heard him gladly. Wherever he found humanity, to humanity he preached the gospel. He said to his disciples, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." It was the fact that in two many of our churches a corrupt aristocracy had crept in. It was a shame that we should ever have occasion to talk about aristocratic and fashionable churches, and about still other churches, "for the poor." "No free seats" in a church meant that no one could worship in that church unless he was worth one thousand dollars. The arrangements for sittings in our churches were such as to shut the poor out of them. He believed the pew system was a device of the devil. (Applause and amen.) What was meaner still was for some great fashionable church to go off and build an ecclesiastical poor-house. All class distinctions should be put away in the house of God.

Rev. Mr. Waldron of Weymouth said that if the poor came to many churches, they were sent off into back seats in the galleries and were treated with the utmost coldness. Churches should be as free as air. He knew of many hard working and christian men who were deterred from coming to church by the high rent of pews. He believed the time was coming when great christian victories would be won by means of free churches.

Rev. Mr. Longley of Fitchburg said that the whole of these discussions tended to the point, "We must have a heart for our work." The reason why the churches did not reach the poor was that churches were not socially homes for the poor, were not financially places of worship for the poor, and the rich men did not go out and gather the poor into their churches. A poor man could not go into a Boston church and take a seat at random He denounced the practice of selling and renting pews. To the shame of a church in the vicinity of Boston it was boasted that since they had got a new minister their pews were at a premium. The gospel ought to be free to all."

It is a favorable symptom to find the churches working upon these important subjects, and looking at them in the true light, as presented in the Scriptures. Something must be done to reach the common people soon, or they will be beyond the reach of popular christianity. They are already disgusted with the manner in which the professed worship of the Lord is conducted in many churches. There must either be a coming up on to higher ground, or a sinking to rise no more. Time will soon determine which course will be pursued. This is an hour of great peril in the history of Protestantism. It is to be feared that already there is written upon its walls—"Mene, mene; tekel, upharsin."

CHOICE BITS.

Since we left Quebec, we have received the following choice bits from the Chronicle and Quiver, published in that city. The one headed "Severe" is from the Chronicle.

The following are Elder Grant's grandiloquent and eloquently logical and theological arguments on the soul of man, after he has breathed his last sigh in this world of sighs:—

Firstly, my friends, in ancient times man had a soul, but in these days of progress and wonderful inventions, of wooden nutmegs and petroleum prize companies, the Elders have succeeded in changing it to a Connecticut thinking machine. [N. B.—Agents can make from one to ten dollars a day at it.]

2d. When a man dies he is dead.

3d. And if the circumstances under which he dies do not prevent it, of course he must be buried.

4. Then, it consequently follows that he shall lie in the grave, which must be gravely admitted by both elders and youngsters.

5th. His spirit remains in his body, and both remain in the grave, which is a logical and incontrovertible refutation of the old Hebrew lines—

'How long I'd been dead, the Lord knows,
I couldn't believe I was living, sure,
I awoke with a cramp in my toes,
And found they were tied with a ribbon sure.'"

"At a collection in the Temperance Hall the other night, Miles Grant said: 'My dear friends, let me caution those of you who put in buttons not to break off the eye. It spoils them for use, and they will not pass among the Yankees for coin.'"

"My friends, I must now conclude for the present, as the frigid temperature of the season has caused my spirit to sink. To-night I will consult a potent spirit, by far my elder in existence, and which will raise my spirit and enable it to grapple with the subject of the body. This spirit in the bottle will enable me, on a future occasion, to give some more forcible explanations on the spirit in the body. With a spiritual feeling, I will spiritedly bid you all good night, my friends of spirit. Glory be to John De Kuyper."

"SEVERE. The Montreal Telegraph, which seems to have lately taken a most fatherly interest in all Quebec local affairs, gets off the following shot at Quebec audiences:—'The lectures of Elder Grant at the Temperance Hall, Quebec, against the eternity of punishment, have been disturbed by gangs of rowdies representing different religious beliefs; and it is to be regretted that there is reason to believe these attempts to proscribe free speech are made by persons professing to belong to Protestant churches, irritated at the suggestion of their being deprived of the possibility of eternal damnation."

For the World's Crisis.

LETTER FROM ROCHESTER.

My dear Brethren in Christ:—The harvest is great in this part of God's vineyard, and the laborers are few. Many are famishing for the truth in the State of New York.

God in his good providence has done a mighty work in Rochester, through two of his faithful servants—Brn. Grant and Pratt, for which we give God all the glory. Their labors of love in the Lord have been crowned with great success in winning many souls to Christ, all of whom, I trust, will be stars in the crown of their rejoicing in the kingdom of glory.

Notwithstanding all the opposing elements of the enemy, the truth of God has run and been glorified. The Lord's name be praised.

Almost constant inquiry is made for tracts on the prophecies. Will some preaching Bro. devote a little time to writing some tracts on the prophecies. If we cannot be supplied with preachers, in the name of the Lord I do entreat you to supply us with tracts on these subjects. God bless you all. Amen. Your Bro. in Christ, J. NARAMORE.

☞ Prayer does not consist in gifted expressions and a volubility of speech, but in a brokenness of heart.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, on Wilbraham Camp-ground, Friday, August 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments	321.22
T. J. Philbrook	1.75
Wm. Nichols	5.00
J. C. Atkins	2.00
All Andrews	1.00

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	110.05
L. M. Richardson	1.50
Wm. Nelegan	1.00
D. H. Hatch	2.50

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$3872.67
Opher Haynes (part payment pledge)	10.00
Geo. Humphrey	5.00
Loring Morse (Memphis Mission)	3.33
J. M. M. Gernerd	1.00
J. Mayell	5.00
H. Cadey	2.50
J. F. Oyer	3.00
J. Clothey	1.00

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments	$184.70
Faith	5.00
Mrs. D. Jewell	5.00
"An aged pilgrim"	5.00
J. M. M. Gernerd	.50
C. S. Sherman	20.00
E. Williams	2.50

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$500.44
Joseph Gresty	2.50
Sidney Hall (balance of pledge paid)	25.00
Samuel Cooper	5.00

TO THE MISSIONARIES.

BRO. GRANT:—Please say through the Crisis, to Brn. H. K. Flagg, P. A. Smith, and Czechowski, that I have sent them the great "Prophetic Chart," to be used for the glory of God in presenting the evidence of the speedy coming of our King. Hope they will accept and use them to the best advantage possible, for the time is short. I send two Charts to Bro. Czechowski.

Yours in Christ, L. T. CUNNINGHAM.

Newton Upper Falls, Mass.

TWO LIVE BOOKS.

We have just received two books that are full of living christianity. They are entitled, "Glimpses of Life in Soul Saving," and "Arrows from my quiver." They are written by James Caughey, and published by W. C. Palmer, Jun., No. 24, Bible House, New York. Probably there is not another man living who has been instrumental in leading as many sinners to Christ as Bro. Caughey. He is a Methodist preacher, who has preached extensively in Europe and America. These books give interesting accounts of his labors.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office.

PROPHETIC CHART.

This Chart is now ready for sale. It is a large, illustrative Chart of the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation, with the arrangement of chronology in harmony with W. C. Thurman, giving the chronology of the world, showing the 6000 years will terminate in 1875. Also giving the Jubilee arrangement, briefly showing that the great Jubilee will fall in A. D. 1868. It brings out conspicuously the great Image of Daniel 2nd chapter; also the Beasts of Daniel 7th and 8th, with the leopard beast and scarlet-colored beast of Rev. 13th and 17th chapters, with a description of the great red dragon of Rev. 12th chapter, all in large size, making it a grand thing in aiding preachers, or any one, in understanding prophecy. The size will be about six feet square, mounted, for the use of churches, or for traveling preachers.

Send in your orders immediately. Price, $10.00. For sale at this office.

NEW TRACT.

"THAT MAN OF SIN." By Eld. O. R. Fassett.

The above is the title of a new tract just published by the W. A. C. P. Association, to which is added "The Only Hope," and "The True and Only Hope of the Church." An interesting and valuable tract. Price 5 cents single, postage 2 cents; 50 cents per dozen, postage 6 cents.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR;

Or, Spiritualism: What it is, and what it is not. By one who has had much painful experience during a period of over four years.

For sale at this office. Price, cloth $1.25 by mail; paper $1.00.

"THE FIRST DAY SABBATH."

Those who wish a thorough work on the Sabbath question, will do well to get Bro. T. M. Preble's work, entitled, "The First Day Sabbath." For sale at this office. Price $1.50, postage 20 cents.

Stories for Young Pilgrims.—Vol. II.

Another neat little volume of 200 pages, with 12 illustrations, has been issued by the Advent Christian Publication Society, and is for sale at this office for 80 cents postpaid. A good book for your Sunday School library. Send for one.

☞ The object of recreation is to soften and refine; not to render ferocious, as is the case with amusements that brutalize.

For the World's Crisis.

"STAR OF HOPE" MISSION.

RECEIPTS. S. F. S. Brown, Chicopee, $5.00. Foster, R. I., $2.00. For rent, from "Consolation of Israel," Birmingham, Mich., $2.00. George W. Smith, Waterbury, Conn., $3.00. For rent, from John R. Allen, Coventry, R. I., $2.00. Amander Mosher, Pawling, N. Y., $2.00. I. W. Lake, Smithfield, R. I., $1.00. "A pilgrim," North Carver, Mass., $2.00. D. W. W., Kennebunkport, $3.00, also $5.00, with no name. Bro. D. I. Elsworth, Windsor, Conn., $5.50. L. L. Whitehall, Canaan, Me., $1.00. "A lender to the Lord," New York city, $5.00. Charlestown, Ms., $2.00. New Brighton, $1.50. W. R. Stetson, No. Pomfret, Vt., $5.00. G. F. D. Riese, Wisconsin, $1.00. M. Ogsberry, Young America, $2.00. Susan, 75 cents. E. Y. Jennings, So. Butler, N. Y., $3.00. Abington, Ct., $5.00. One barrel, James Whitmer, Bondsville, $2.00. Bro. C. Calyrom, Sardinia, N. Y., $2.00. M. L. Bergoins, Boston Landing, $5.00. "The name of Jesus," Charlestown, Mass., $1.00. Rye, N. H., $2 00. Mary R. Howland, Topsham, Maine, $2.00. I. S. Alexander, Sandy Hill, $2.00. The Crisis office, $10.00. Jane Thomas, Washington, D. C., $5.00. B. B. Fellows, Castle Rock, Me., $10.00. Collins Depot, Mass., $5.00. Sarah L. Wise, Collinsville, Conn., $1.00. Lavinia Baker, Riecpoint, R. I., $1.00. Mrs. Jane Danforth, Massena, N. Y., $2.00; also an envelope, without paper, with $1.00. The friends in Holden, Mass., $2.00. Sisters Pierce and Hagard, New Britain, for rent, each $1.00. Charles Burt, New Britain, for rent, $2.00. A letter saying "two dollars enclosed," from Mrs. D. S. Green, Margretta, Wis.; but no money in the letter; it was sealed with flour paste. M. H. Chase, Waterbury, Ct., $3.00, for rent. John Hull, a check for $10.00, to pay the freight on two barrels, cost $4.25, the rest for mission work. One barrel from Sister B. Mathewson, Castleton, Vt.; cake all right. E. C. Smith, Waterbury, Vt., $3.00. R. B. Decan, Northfield, Minn., $1.00. Friends in Southington, Conn., by the hand of O. D. Woodruff, $9.50, and $5.00 from Henry Hart, the same from Sister Brown of East Kingston. $1.00 and a barrel from Abby G. Sawyer, of the same place. Two barrels and $1.10, from A. Bennett, Danielsonville, Ct. One barrel from the sisters at Waltham, Vt. A barrel of good things from Sr. D. D. Chaffee, South Wilbraham. One barrel of provision from Newark, N. J. One barrel shipped from Norwich; no name. One barrel of provision and books from Batavia. The Lord bless those who sent it.

Two barrels from Hoosick Falls. One barrel from P. Safford, Exeter, N. H., of clothing, sweet meats, and groceries, a sweet letter from the little ones, and twenty cents from little Willy. God bless the whole family. A box of books from a Sister of New Bedford, Mass. A small box from George Adams, Waterbury, Conn. A barrel from Pleasant Valley, Conn., also two barrels, one from North Springfield, the other from South Springfield, of clothing and groceries, from E. Hull. A box and barrel from South Butler, with three chickens, and a roll of butter, flour, and a handsome quilt for my own use. Thank you, sisters; may the Lord bless the hands that sent it, and the one who gave the material to make it. Two barrels from Worcester, of clothing, and twenty-five new hats, given by some good storekeeper in Worcester; may the Lord bless him in business, that he may have four-fold. A half-barrel of books, tracts, and clothing; $3.00 to pay freight on one barrel of books, papers, and clothing, by A. P. Morrell, Wolcott; $5.00 from G. H. Bundy, Lakeville, Ct.; one barrel from Rutland, Vt.; one barrel of books and clothing, and $1.50 to pay the freight, from Rocky Brook. From somebody, I know not who, but the Lord knows, a bundle of dry goods, containing two pieces of calico, and one piece of unbleached muslin; many thanks to the donor. $9.75 from Worcester Sabbath School. From the friends of Pembroke, by the hands of Sister Saulpaugh, $5.10; a sister in Barry, Ill., $2.00; a half-barrel from Southington; $5.00 from E. W. and M. D. Smith, Tamrock, Will county, Ill. "A sympathizing friend," $2.00; Bro. Burch, Phenix, R. I., $10.00; $1.00 from little Cora Manchester, West Winsted, Ct., and 50 cents from her mother to pay freight on a small box. A nice lot of books and papers from the friends at Kingston, by Sr. Abby Wood, of N. H. $2.00 to pay freight on one barrel from Bristol, Vt., W. Y. Howden. Esther Tuttle, Rye, N. H., $2.00.

Thus we see the hand of the Lord in all things. I would like to return thanks to the many friends that have so nobly helped us in our work. When barrels used to come, they were filled with clothing; but now we have so many mouths to feed, the barrels come filled with food as well as raiment. Brethren and sisters, may the good Lord bless you all. I have been just as busy as a bee since I came home, opening barrels and letters. No time to write a word.

Some write, "How is Mother Howard?" Well, I shall tell you just as briefly as possible. She is well, and doing well. The poor missionaries that are sent down are doing a great and good work. The Freedmen's Bureau have withdrawn their support from her, so she comes under our missionary arrangements of New York. To-day I send two more missionaries, a young man and his sister, and seventeen barrels of clothing. I have picked the best out of twenty-seven barrels, and filled thirteen barrels with clothing, two barrels with school books, one barrel with bedding, for the sister that is going South, and a barrel of provisions. You that send things to me must not be hurt if I send them again where the Lord hath need of them. I would just say here to the Concord friends, you know it was my intention to take the collection given me there to fit up my Dispensary and circulating library; but I shall have to use it to send the missionaries and pay freight to Va., and I thank God that I have it to send. Now I want to ask the prayers of all the readers of the Crisis for those two dear ones going away from us. They have been brought into the light in this mission, and they are very dear to me. My children are well scattered about the world, but some are black and some white; and not forgetting my Indian babies. I have ascertained since my last that there is a steamer leaves Boston for Norfolk, but I cannot tell anything about it. You will have to ascertain through Bro. Hastings. We now have six missionaries in Va., and all are working without any salary. What do you say, sisters, for a barrel of new clothes for the laborers? There are five brothers and one sister working for Jesus, and they must eat and be clothed. Shall it be done?

There was one barrel came for Mother Howard, which I shall send with the rest. I would like all of our missionaries to attend the Springfield campmeeting, and they must have clothes to wear. There is plenty of time to get things ready for them.

Our mission here is doing well. O how the Lord is compelling the people to come in, that his table may be furnished with guests. Our mission at Hackensack is also doing well. The Sabbath School and day school are doing nicely, but we change our missionaries there the first of March. The Doctor withdraws his support from there at that time, removes Sister Williams, and puts her to work in New York; so I shall have to shoulder the expense of the missionary that goes there; but the Lord is rich. Bless his holy name. I think the Lord is working things all right. Just pray for me, that I may stand still and see his salvation.

Came to-day a small box from Sr. Manchester; also one barrel from the friends in Providence, R. I., by C. A. Phillips; also $5.00 from Monroe Russell, Waterbury, Ct. Your sister in the highways and hedges,

ANNA E. SMITH.

No. 14 Laurens St., N. Y. City.

For the World's Crisis.

THE MAINE MISSION TENT ENTERPRISE.

TO ALL INTERESTED IN THE ADVENT CAUSE IN MAINE.

Dear Friends:—At our Ministerial Conference recently held in Lewiston, Brn. W. H. Mitchell, Jas. A. Libby, F. A. Baker, S. K. Partridge, C. Goud, E. M. Haggett, and the undersigned, were chosen a committee to take the oversight of the tent, and issue a call for funds to pay up the tent debt, and help forward tent operations as soon as the weather is suitable. Many if not all of you know that the tent enterprise was very successful last year, during the few months it was in use. Much prejudice was removed; many heard the gospel of the kingdom who had not heard before; a goodly number were converted, and the hearts of many of the little flock cheered up. We need about one hundred and twenty dollars to pay the tent debt. We also want to keep the tent moving where most needed, the present year, if the Lord will. But nothing can be done without funds. Who will help in this good work? Come, all who can to our need. "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." We ought to have one or two more tents in the field in this State, as soon as the cold weather is over. Those best acquainted think that more good can be accomplished by well conducted tent meetings, than can be done in any other way with the same amount of labor and expense. Let us all work together earnestly and harmoniously in the good cause, till the Master comes to give us the great reward.

All remittances made to either of the committee will be promptly acknowledged, by letter or otherwise, and prudently used for the objects herein named. Let your prayers ever accompany your gifts, and we may hope for blessed results. Per order,

R. R. YORK, Treasurer.

Yarmouth, Me., Feb., 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

THE CAUSE IN HEBRON, N. Y.

BRO. GRANT:—Those who have been acquainted with the church in this place know the condition they have been in for severa years, scattered and torn by wolves in sheep's clothing who came to be their shepherds. Receiving an invitation at Wilbrahrm to visit this church and talk with them about Jesus and the resurrection, I felt it duty to do so. God was with us at the beginning, and poured out his Spirit. The seed falling on good ground began to sprout. The dear ones felt encouraged and repaired the chapel. As soon as it was ready we commenced meetings. I tried to get help, but could not; and so have done the best I could alone, for three weeks. By the blessing of the good Lord, the cold have been warmed, and the scattered gathered home to the fold. How many have been brought into the light of the blessed truth from other churches I cannot say; but they came for miles all around, from all churches, to hear the word, and they are searching the Scriptures to see whether the things preached are so. Forty have started in the way to the better land, seven whole families among the number. I baptized seven in one family, young men and young women. It was a glorious sight.

The work still goes on. More are coming. I am home a few days to see my family, but shall return so as to commence meetings again next Lord's day. Expect Bro. S. G. Mathewson will go with me.

To the praise of God I must say that while I was laboring for the salvation of others, I asked the Lord to remember my son at home. When I came home I found him in the love of God. Glory be to his blessed name! While we labor for others' good, God will remember us. JAS. FERRISS.

Sandy Hill, N. Y., Jan. 22.

For the World's Crisis.

REPORT OF THE CONN. SEC. ADV. CHRIS. CONFERENCE.

Met at New Haven, Jan. 8th. Preaching by Sister A. E. Smith. Jan. 9th, met at nine o'clock. Reading of the word, and prayer by Brn. W. S. Campbell, B. Hitchcock, and H. Rockwell. Bro. St. John being absent, Bro. L. F. Moore was appointed Secretary pro tem. Brn. Hitchcock, W. J. Ripley, and Dunham were appointed a committee on ordination. Bro. H. Rockwell gave a report of his labors. Bro. Corbin reported N. Britain church to be in an encouraging condition. Brn. Tibbals and Grant reported Wrightsville flourishing, and interest on the increase; house of worship too small; are building a larger one. The labors of Brn. Ripley and St. John have been blessed.

Bro. Stickney reported Winsted.—Once a large church, but has dwindled down to about twelve or fifteen. No public meetings. The church gave a very cordial invitation to the preachers to come and preach to them. Bro. E. M. Ripley, Pleasant Valley.—No regular preaching. Bro. Berkley, Prospect.—Good condition; some good soldiers there. Bro. Stowe, Bridgeport.—Some interest manifested. Bro. Denny, New Haven.—Had stood still for five years, till last spring; began to move; unity existed; some conversions; backsliders were reclaimed. Bro. J. Curtis, Morris.—Rather a falling away from the faith. Some division. A few left that stick to the stuff, and hold regular meetings, work together well, and love the appearing of our Lord. Prayer meeting and preaching in the evening.

Jan. 10th, half past nine A. M. Prayer by

Bro. O. D. Woodruff, Durand, and Rockwell. Bro. Bassett, Greenfield Hill, and Bro. Brown, Fairfield, gave their report. Bro. O. D. Woodruff, Southington.—Three arose for prayers last meeting. Division was started, but has stopped. Also reports his own labors. Has been to Michigan twelve days; left twenty believers. Bro. Dudley reported Wallingford and Yalesville.—Some division, but more encouraging now. Bro. Owen wanted to know the cause of the division. Brn. Owen, Dudley, G. L. White, Campbell, Hitchcock, Morgan, Durand, St. John, and others, reported of one J. S. Speights, at Southington, Wallingford, Yalesville, Bristol, Thomaston, and other places,—a kind of Mormon,—a convert of "the other Adams," teaching similar doctrines, etc., who has caused divisions in all of these places. Brn. Ira Morgan, B. Hitchcock, and Durand, were appointed a committee to report a resolution on his case, and reported the following:

Resolved, That the Conference admonish the churches to beware of a certain man by the name of J. S. Speights, inasmuch as he teaches doctrines contrary to the word of God, and causes divisions and distraction in the churches wherever he goes.

The report ordered to be published in the Crisis.

Two P. M. Preaching by L. F. Moore, followed by St. John, Owen, Father Allen, Morgan, Sr. Anna Smith, and H. Rockwell. At seven P. M., preaching by H. Munger. After preaching, Brn. S. W. Treat and L. F. Moore were set apart to the work of the gospel ministry, by the laying on of hands. Prayer of consecration, by Bro. A. Steele. Charge, by W. S. Campbell. Right hand of fellowship, B. St. John.

Jan. 11th, nine A. M. Prayer by H. Munger, who reported the general condition of the work at large, also gave us some good suggestions on ordinations. Thought we ought to be careful. Brn. S. Robinson and L. Butler, Guilford, report an organized church of twenty-three members; fifteen baptized since last spring; talk of putting up a church. Bro. S. Hall, Hartford, reports some division in the past on the "time" question, but the good are getting together again. Prospect is good for the future. Expect to see the end of the race. Bro. S. W. Treat, Waterbury, reports the want of good preachers to visit them. W. S. Campbell reported the condition of several churches. Bro. L. Allen, Chicopee Falls, Ms. Good ear to hear; have preaching by different brethren; expect to get a larger hall. Sister A. E. Smith reported her mission.—Five hundred have been fed at the mission. Six hundred families have been helped at their homes. This is the only mission in all the city of New York for colored people. Bro. Wise reported Collinsville.—Have been neglected by the preachers.

Two P. M. Preaching by Bro. I. Morgan, followed by Brn. Allen, Treat, Phelps, and Bassett, Sisters A. E. Smith, Durand, and Bolles. The missionary work committee reported as follows:—G. W. Denney of New Haven, Walter Stickney of Winsted, and H. H. Corbin of New Britain, to act as a standing missionary committee for this conference. Voted, that G. W. Denney be Treasurer of our mission fund. Voted, that this committee be instructed to employ our Bro. I. B. Potter, or some other efficient minister of the gospel, as our missionary for this State. Voted, that the committee instruct our missionary to draw on the Treasurer of the missionary fund five dollars per week, to be expended in new fields. Voted, that our missionary be instructed to report progress in such new fields of labor and its results through the committee, or personally, to each quarterly conference. Voted, that the committee prepare a printed circular, and cause it to be sent to all the churches in this State, calling their attention to this new field of labor, and solicit monthly donations for missionary labor in this State.

Seven P. M. Prayer and conference meeting. Seven and a half, preaching by W. S. Campbell. Collection for our State mission, $8.37. New Britain church sent $7.00. $5.00 from Bro. J. Hall, Scitico.

Sunday morning, love feast. Thirty-five spoke of the goodness of the Lord to them. It was a love feast indeed. Eleven A. M., preaching by H. Munger. Prayer meeting at one o'clock. Two P. M., preaching by Sister A. E. Smith, on the "great supper." Collected for the "Star of Hope Mission," $40.00. At seven P. M., prayer meeting, followed by preaching by W. S. Campbell. Lord's Supper immediately after. Eighty sat down to the table. How we longed to see the vacant chair filled by Him who said, "I will not eat thereof until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God."

This was the best conference that we ever attended. Every prayer and conference meeting was good. A perfect union prevailed from the beginning to the end of the conference. The only complaint heard was, the meeting was too short. May God bless the noble hearts in New Haven. Seventeen churches were represented by delegates. Fifteen preachers were present. B. St. John, Sec.

Correspondence.

From Bro. D. D. Rood.

Bro. Grant:—We are hard at work trying to save some. This is the hardest place I ever was in; but the Lord is with us in our hottest battles, and the powers of darkness have to give way before God's eternal truth, and sinners are being converted. They thank God we ever came down here to open their blind eyes to the blessed truth of Christ's soon coming. This is the place to try men's souls, and a place for us who are not afraid to suffer or to die for Christ, if need be. I think our lives may be called before we get through; if so, Amen. We are determined not to shun to declare the whole counsel of God, let the case go as it may.

Bro. Himes has been up the river, about eighty miles, to preach the gospel. While there, and the truth taking hold, a planter and a young man came to the house with revolvers, and asked him what he was there for preaching to his negroes? They told him to leave at once and be off. This was about ten o'clock at night; so he had to leave and get away the best he could, to save his life. But, thank God, his preaching was not in vain. The truth took deep hold. A Baptist preacher saw the truth of Christ's soon coming, from the Bible. He says he saw it a year ago by the Spirit. Now he saw it in the Bible, when Bro. Himes was preaching. The young preacher came home with Bro. H., and a smarter and more devoted man you never saw. He is going through the South proclaiming Christ's soon coming. He is a light in a dark place. As soon as we get the house done, I shall travel with him. He is the man we want at this time. God means this truth shall be preached all over the South, and by his help we mean to do it.

I see some of our brethren are opposed to our building a house to live and preach in. There are plenty of huts all around us, but no place in which to hold meetings; but we shall soon have a house to hold all that will come. If you were here, you would see the need of a place to worship God in, or leave the field. Some of my preaching brethren told me that we ought to take a cracker and a piece of codfish in our hand, and go through the South and preach. Let us see them come and do it. Oh no, they will not come, they had rather stay at home among good friends, and have an easy time. Well, God bless them. We will take care of our souls as well as we can, and when we can do no better we will go through the land and preach this blessed truth, if we starve to death. We are determined to suffer the fate of the ship. Glory to God for ever for his great love. If we suffer with him, we shall also reign with him.

We see the fruits of Bro. Leslie's labor. I talk with a great many of the freedmen. They tell me they were converted under Bro. L.'s preaching. He is one of the most faithful men I ever saw. God bless his faithful servants. The truth is taking a deep hold on the hearts of the people. There never was such a waking up on God's eternal truth in these regions before. They have to acknowledge it is the Bible. Some get mad, and some are glad; some say we ought to be killed for coming down here to preach to the negro. We tell them salvation is for all; we came down to preach the gospel to all, both white and black. Come, and go with us, and we will do you good. We mean to be faithful to God, and to our trust. Yours in the blessed hope. D. D. Reed.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 3d, 1868.

From Bro. J. G. Hook.

Bro. Grant:—Since I wrote on the 5th inst., I have been confined to the house, and most of the time to my bed, with a severe carbuncle boil, and threatened with fever; but by the timely use of "Dr. Pierce's Restorative Bitters," and the blessing of the good Lord, I escaped the fever. I had my boil lanced Saturday the 8th, and am now recovering. Hope to be able to preach Sunday next. I ask the prayers of the brethren, that I may do and suffer my Master's will. Probably I shall remain here for a short time, until I regain some strength. Those who can favor me with a letter, will please address me at Philadelphia, Penn., care of F. H. Burbank, No. 708 Lombard St. This will be my address until further notice. Your Bro., looking for rest,

Phila., Pa., Feb. 4th. John G. Hook.

Married.

In New Durham, N. H., Feb. 9th, 1868, by Eld. H. M. Bryant, at the residence of Mr. John Elkins, Mr. Horace P. Doody and Miss Abbie M. Huckins, both of New Durham.

Obituaries.

Chase. Fell asleep in Christ, at Medford, Mass., Nov. 29th, 186[illegible], Carlton C. Chase, aged sixty-four years, eleven months and twenty-seven days.

Bro. Chase was long a believer in Christ, and through much suffering and affliction he waited for the consolation of Israel. His last years were full of pain and trial, but his end was in faith and hope and peace. His friends who survive have everlasting consolation, and a good hope through grace of meeting him in the everlasting kingdom of our God. May the Father of the fatherless and the Judge of widows be with them even to the end. H. L. H.

Morgan. Fell asleep in Jesus, Jan. 21st, 1868, Addie P., eldest daughter of Bro. and Sister J. H. Morgan, of Sutton, N. H., aged twenty-five years and five months.

Over ten years of close intimacy with the deceased and her family, coupled with her dying request that I perform this last sad service for my friend, induces me to pen a few lines in memory of one, whom to know, and be capable of appreciating, was to love.

Nature had endowed Addie with more than average mental capacities; but while yet in her youth, ere they had reached their full development, consumption, with a sly and stealthy step, began to "hunt for the precious life." But it was not her mental endowments which formed her chief excellence. Mere wealth of intellect can never so endear its possessor to the hearts of friends. A fine sense of honor, a clear, intuitive perception of right, and a heart full of tenderest sympathy for every form of suffering, these were the qualities which left her with few equals, and certainly without a superior within the wide circle of my acquaintance. In vain the sophist spun his misty web, thinking thereby to obscure the path of justice or of right. Thinner than gossamer it seemed to her clear and moral vision, and her penetrating glance dispersed at once its thousand bewildering subtilties.

Addie was an uncompromising friend of right. The stern old maxim, "Let justice be done though the heavens fall," would have found an answering chord in her heart; and as it seems to be a law of mind that our abhorrence of evil is in exact proportion to our appreciation of the good, she became the sworn foe of wrong and oppression, in all its forms and phases, as a matter of necessity. Seldom or never did she commit the grave error so common in our day, that of judging of the character of an action by the social position of the actor; consequently she had no honeyed words with which to gloss over vice in high places. She judged by a purer standard, and the higher the station occupied, the more sternly was its occupant held to that standard; on the principle that our responsibilities always keep pace with our facilities for knowing the good and the right way.

But while these noble traits of character commanded our admiration, it was her outgushing sympathy for the countless miseries of suffering humanity, that most effectually won our hearts. Such sympathy the veriest beggar, old, ragged, and forlorn, shared equally with the less revolting forms of woe; and never did she appear more lovely than when with moistened eye she strove to wipe the tear from sorrow's cheek, or pluck the cruel thorns from misfortune's pillow. With a mind and heart thus constituted, it is not strange that the great truths which distinguish us as a people should early have engaged her attention. Her father, in his letter announcing her death, says: "Addie embraced Christ at twelve years of age, when she thought as a child and understood as a child; but the knowledge and judgment of riper years imparted strength and symmetry to her faith and hope." To be once rationally convinced of a truth, amounted with her to a life-long conviction.

For nearly eight years, if my memory serves me, the disease which ended her frail existence was slowly but surely dragging her to the tomb. Many times during those long years of wasting and decay, it was my privilege to be with her, but for an account of the closing scene, I am indebted to the letter referred to. From it I learn that her last hours were full of suffering, and also of consolation. With pressed and difficult breathing, swollen feet, sore mouth, and a raging thirst, for five consecutive days her emaciated form was supported in the arms of friends. But her trust in Christ was firm and abiding; and amid her sufferings she would bless the Lord, and triumphantly exclaim, "The blood of Jesus Christ has washed me clean; bless his holy name!" "Her countenance" (writes her stricken parent) "continually bore the expression of suffering, appearing almost unnatural, until about the last half hour, when we laid her back on her pillow; the rest was as calm and peaceful as an infant going to sleep. Her distorted countenance changed to a sweet smile, which, sat serene upon her lovely face, and told us Judah's lion had wrenched the prey from the monster's grasp, and committed it to angel's keeping."

By her request, Elder J. Couch preached to a large assembly, from 1 Thess. 7: 13–17, her own selection. Thus pass the good and beautiful away.

We saw her slowly wasting day by day,—
Our Addie;
And knew ere long she'd pass from earth away;—
Our darling Addie!
We knew it, yet our hearts bleed none the less;
O, Addie!
We only felt the more the preciousness,
Our darling Addie!
Farewell! a crown of life is waiting thee,
Dear Addie!
We'll meet again, in immortality,
Our darling Addie!

Mrs. L. R. K. Bishop.

Hawkins. Died in Dover, Feb. 2d, of typhoid fever, Benjamin S., son of Bro. Smith and Sarah Hawkins, aged nineteen years and six months.

Benjamin was a young man of most excellent habits, but he never had made any public profession of religion; and yet, it was remarked at the funeral that he often put to shame professors of religion by his chaste conversation and upright walk before the world. While sick, he often prayed, and expressed a desire to live till Jesus came. He loved his appearing. The occasion was improved by the writer, and we endeavored to comfort the sorrowing ones by a discourse from 2 Tim. 4: 8. H. M. Bryant.

Light. Died in Michigan, Jan. 6th, 1868, Henry F. Light, of Hermon, Maine.

This dispensation of providence to the bereaved ones, seems all the more painful and afflictive because of its sudden occurrence. The deceased, with two younger brothers, was engaged in the lumbering business in Michigan, where he was unexpectedly smitten down by the falling of a limb while in the act of felling a tree. From thence he was conveyed to his home in Maine, where, amid a tearful scene, too heart-rending to describe, he was laid among the hills of the dead. The funeral was attended by the writer on the 26th of Jan., at No. Hermon. O! to be where—

"No tear shall ever fall, or heart be sad," is the prayer of waiting ones.

Israel Damman.

Houtz. Died at Vinton, Jan. 24th, 1868, of typhoid pneumonia, our beloved Sister, Lucy B. Houtz, wife of John C. Houtz, aged forty-one years, eight months, and nineteen days.

She endured her sufferings with christian fortitude and patience, falling asleep in Jesus without a struggle. She leaves a companion and an only daughter to mourn her loss; but they sorrow not as those who have no hope, believing that Jesus will bring her with him at his coming. May they be prepared to meet her at that day. The funeral services were held in the Baptist church. Sermon by Eld. O. E. Brown, from Rev. 14: 13. May the God of all consolation bless and sustain the bereaved, that their affliction may work out for them a "far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." O. E. Brown.

The Ottoman Empire.

☞ The following extracts are taken from a letter of "Carleton's," foreign correspondent of the Boston Journal:—

Constantinople, Jan. 8, 1868.

To the Editor of the Boston Journal:

Is it not singular that there should be an opinion prevalent among the Turks that the Empire is to end with the present Sultan? The signs of the times are in accordance with that belief. That the Empire is falling to pieces no one can doubt. It would go down in a day, were it not propped by outside powers. If England and France were to withdraw their support, it would go with a crash, like a ricketty old house in a whirlwind. How long can an empire stand which is a conglomeration of races, religions, and languages, to begin with, which feels scarcely a thrill of life from modern ideas; which has a government based on bribery; which advances its taxes fifty per cent. in a single year; handcuffs and imprisons all who do not pay on the appointed day; which opens no roads; has no great branches of industry; which has only a galvanized existence from its contact with western nations; which is over head and ears in debt; has always an exhausted treasury; which builds a new palace every year for the Sultan; keeps up a large standing army, and goes on adding useless ships to its navy; and which, besides all this, is being honey-combed by Russian emmissaries?

We might name many more reasons for believing that the Empire is on its last legs, and yet it may remain longer than we think possible, from the fact that the wisest statesman of Western Europe can see nothing desirable to take its place. There is no crystalizing force in the Empire. The Greeks, Armenians, Albanians, Bulgarians, and Wallachians, hate each other as cordially as they hate the Turks. England and France cannot consent that Russia should extend her power, and take in at one swoop fifteen millions of people, obtain control of the Bosphorus, make the Black Sea a Russian lake, and build up a navy to control the commerce of the Mediterranean. Nor can they consent to see the present civil and religious liberty of the Ottoman Empire swept away, and the despotism of Russia set up in its place. Protestantism is not permitted in the dominions of the Czar. The Turk tolerates all religions. You may believe what you like, worship as you please, provided you do not interfere with the Mussulman. What a contrast to Russia and Rome! The Pope drives the Protestant outside the walls of the city; if death comes, you can have no inscription upon your tomb-stone that you have hope of a better life; but the Turk will allow you to worship within a stone's throw of St. Sophia. The new English church in Pera is scarcely thirty feet distant from a Mosque.

But Russia is as barbarous as Rome. She rules with a rod of iron. She was kind to the United States during the war, and her sympathy was in strange contrast to that of England, but her kindness should not make us blind to her despotism. A few weeks since she drove thousands of poor creatures out of her lately acquired territory in Circassia. "Go north to Siberia, or South to Turkey, within ten days!" was the imperative order. Some obeyed; others delayed. The ten days expired, and Russian bayonets enforced the command. Here are thousands of homeless wanderers, who were received kindly by the Sultan. You meet them on the streets, dressed in sheep-skins with buffalo caps. They are in rags and shags. Some of them are men of noble bearing. Their crime was a disposition not to submit to Russian rule, hence a clean sweep of them out of the country. Russia undoubtedly is moving up the scale, but the Turks have good reason to stand in dread of a neighbor so unscrupulous, who waits impatiently the sick man's death.

Enlightenment of Turkey.

Under outside influences Turkey has made some progress. What has been done may be seen from the following statement, given me by Rev. Isaac Bliss, of the American Bible Society. Twenty years ago the American Board of Foreign Missions had five stations, and four churches with 116 members. In 1857 the mustard seed had become quite a tree, with 18 central stations, 37 out stations, 28 churches with 800 members, 51 preaching places, 50 schools with 1500 pupils.

Step over ten more years to the present hour, and you may count 22 central stations, 138 out stations, 152 preaching places, 56 churches with 2484 members. The congregations have an average attendance of nearly 11,000 persons. There are 175 schools with 55 hundred scholars, four theological seminaries and four female seminaries. This does not include Syria, and only embraces the work done by the American Board. About 30,000 copies of the Bible are sold per annum. It is estimated that not far from three hundred thousand Bibles are in use every day in the Turkish Empire. Mr. Bliss not long ago, in a journey through Eastern Turkey, passed twenty-three nights in the country, stopping with the peasants, and in twenty-one of the houses he found Bibles! In the town of Cessarea three native women, employed as Bible sellers, out of 860 families found the Bible in 763!

There is great desire among the people, old and young, to learn to read. There is no opposition to missionary effort, but on the contrary the people look upon the missionaries as their best friends. There is also a desire, especially among the young people, to acquire the English language. The old opposition, to the instruction of women has ceased, and now there is no obstacle in the way of their elevation. This is in Eastern Turkey, the oldest country of the world—the land of Mount Ararat, of Noah, and Abraham. After centuries of degradation, almost of oblivion, the light of christianity is dawning upon this region, bringing civilization in its train.

The Sultan.

Little can be expected from the present Sultan. He is an ignorant, passionate, stolid, low fellow, notwithstanding Victoria sent him the Order of the Garter last week. It is said that when he gets into a passion the furniture of his palace has to suffer. He throws whatever is at hand at the heads of his attendants, kicks over the marble tables, smashes the pier glasses, and works himself into a whirlwind of passion. How it dignifies the Garter to send it to such a man! The Sultan, I am informed, learned very little from his journey to Paris, but his ministers and attendants came back with new ideas, so that some good may result from the visit to the exhibition.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

London, Feb. 11. It is reported that the Pope has declined to enter into negotiations for the revision of the Austrian Concordat, and that Prussia has made advances for closer diplomatic relations with Rome.

Berlin, Feb. 11. Count Von Bismarck is sick and unable to leave Berlin to avail himself of his leave of absence.

No change in the Prussian Cabinet is proposed.

Copenhagen, Feb. 11. It is said that negotiations for a treaty between Denmark and Prussia for the settlement of questions in dispute between them have failed.

Cork, Feb. 11. Another attack was made upon the police in the streets yesterday by a mob, who pelted them with stones and brickbats. The police, who were armed with muskets, fixed bayonets and charged upon the crowd. A short and desperate fight followed, in which several of the rioters were bayoneted. The assailants then fled in all directions, leaving the wounded on the ground.

During the day an attempt was made to seize a well-known informer and lynch him, but the appearance of a police patrol prevented the outrage from being carried out.

Florence, Feb. 13. The press of Italy asserts that Admiral Farragut is charged with an important mission to Rome and Crete.

Lisbon, Feb. 13. It is officially stated that the Portuguese Government has authorized Edward Medlicott, a banker of Lisbon, and Thomas Rumball, engineer, of London, to lay a new telegraphic cable across the Atlantic. The Line is to be run from Falmouth, England, to Oporto, thence to the Azores, and from these islands to some point on the coast of the United States. The new cable is to be submerged on the Allan principle, and it is estimated that the total expense of the enterprise will not exceed £600,000 sterling.

It is reported that a great Pan-slavic conspiracy against the Austrian Empire has been discovered in Hungary.

DOMESTIC.

New York, Feb. 12. A special cable dispatch from Constantinople 9th, says: Official advices from the seat of war in Candia, dated on the 26th of January, have been received by the Cabinet of the Porte. The dispatches detail the movements of the Imperial troops and call attention to the fact that the United States war steamer Ticonderaga, mounting nine guns, and forming part of an American squadron, had arrived on the coast of Crete under special orders received from Admiral Farragut, in command of the American fleet in the European waters. It is also announced and believed in the political circles of Turkey that the remainder of the vessels of the United States fleet, under Admiral Farragut, will leave their present stations at an early day and sail for the Grecian Archipelago, where they will muster in force.

Kansas. A letter from Kansas claims that that State presents a strong contrast to the hard times that are afflicting the rest of the country. Work for all and food are abundant. In the city of Lawrence, numbering ten thousand souls, there is not a pauper, nor a man, woman or child suffering for the necessaries of life—and this in the face of the fact that there are hundreds of negroes who went there with nothing save the rags they wore, and the same immunity from want and destitution exists in all the towns of the State. The educational system of the State is represented as excellent. Three millions of acres of land have been devoted to the support of public schools, while several collegiate institutions possess large tracts of land, the sales of which will provide them with funds.

Notices.

Vermont State and Rutland Quarterly Conference.

Whereas, we having been frequently importuned, by letters from different parts of the State, and also personally solicited by numerous brethren, who are "looking for that blessed hope, and love the appearing of Jesus," to set a time, and call a meeting in Rutland, as the most central and accessible place, for the purpose of organizing a State Conference, to promote the cause of our Master, the spread of the gospel "in the regions beyond," to obtain a more perfect system of mutual co-operation in this good work; to have a better knowledge of each other, and thereby increase the bond of peace, the oneness of the Spirit, and our fraternal regard for each other in the love of Jesus; and whereas, the S. A. Church in Rutland having set apart the entire present month for a special effort; and whereas our own quarterly conference comes on the 29th of February and 1st of March, therefore,

Notice is hereby given that February 27th, 28th and 29th are appointed for said time and opportunity of meeting to organize, as may then be deemed expedient. Our chapel, as also our hearts and homes, will be open to receive all that may desire to come, but beyond that we shall not be able to do or go. We would be pleased to have as many as can remain over Sunday, and participate in the exercises, and partake of the Lord's Supper with us. Sister adjacent churches are cordially invited. Christian character the only test of fellowship. By request,

G. W. Stetson, Pastor.

N. B. Those churches which believe in and are looking for the personal appearing of the Lord Jesus Christ, will please appoint delegates and furnish credentials. Preaching brethren are such ex officio. G. W. S.

Conference at Springfield.

The Bethel Church in Springfield will hold a special Conference in their Chapel, Vernon street, commencing Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, and holding over the following Lord's day. The object will be to awaken an increased interest in this city on the subject of the speedy coming of our Lord, and to seek a deeper work of grace in the church in preparation for his coming. Preaching brethren will be present to hold forth the word of life, and we cordially invite our brethren and sisters in the vicinity to "come up with us to the help of the Lord."

This Conference is intended solely for spiritual labor and improvement, and in no way to interfere with the work of the State Conference.

In behalf of the Com., R. E. Ladd.

Protracted Meeting at New Preston, Ct.

If the Lord will, there will be a meeting held in Union Hall, New Preston, Ct., commencing Tuesday evening, Feb. 25th, and hold over the following Sunday, or as long as the Lord may direct.

Come, brethren and sisters, from every direction, as early in the week as you can, full of love to God and man, and faith toward God, prepared to claim his promise, and to labor for the Lord. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Bro. C. H. Sweet and others are expected to preach the word. May the Lord attend it with his Spirit and with power. In behalf of the saints,

H. J. Baldwin.

Conference.

There will be a conference held, the Lord willing, at East Sumner, Me., commencing Thursday evening, Feb. 27th, to continue over the following Sunday. Friends coming to the meeting, will call on Thos. Ranney and Eleazer Ellis. We hope many of the brethren and sisters will come in to help us. J. A. Libby.

Northern Ohio Conference.

There will be a Conference of the churches in Northern Ohio, at Norwalk, to commence on Saturday, at 10½ o'clock, Feb. 29th, and continue over the Sabbath. Sister churches are requested to send as large delegations as possible, and all who are interested in the great truth of the speedy coming of Christ, and kindred doctrines advocated by us as a people, are affectionately invited to attend.

In behalf of the Advent Christian Church of Norwalk, O. P. Alling, Secretary.

Notice.

I will send to any address, free of cost, tracts on the coming of the Lord, and other subjects.

Thomas J. Whitecar, No. 814 Swanson Street, Philadelphia, Penn.

Conference.

There will be a conference holden at Round Pond, Maine, in the Union Church, commencing Thursday, Feb. 27th, to continue over the following Sabbath. Brethren and sisters, with ministers, are invited. S. Harding.

Die Reichs-Posaune.—(Trumpet of the Kingdom.) The "Reichs-Posaune" and "Signs of Times" (XII. Volume) is a semi-monthly, religious, political and social paper. Its banner is the word of prophecy; its law the royal law of Scripture; its foundation the everlasting gospel; its tendency the building up of the spiritual temple, and the gathering of the people of God; and its price one dollar for one year. Published at Schenectady, N. Y., by W. F. Schwilk, Pastor and Editor.

Notice.

I will hold a series of meetings at Canaan, N. H., commencing evening, March 18th, and continue through the week, and over the following Sabbath, if the brethren wish to have me do so. Will Bro. J. B. Eastman let me know soon by letter. Direct to South Royalton, Vt. J. A. Cleaveland.

Change of Address.

Our business connection with "Austin, Hurd & Co., and "F. Wilson Hurd & Co.," having been dissolved, our friends will hereafter please address us,—Box 382 Dansville, Livingston Co., N. Y., and not "Our Home," as formerly.

F. Wilson Hurd, M. D.
Mrs. Hannah J. Hurd.

Notice.

The brethren in New York have opened a new place of meeting, corner of Grand and Allen Streets, every Sabbath forenoon and afternoon. We invite brethren from abroad who are in the city over the Sabbath, to meet with us.

H. Campbell.
H. Gibbs.

Conference.

The Eastern Conference will be held at Frankfort Mills, Me., commencing at six o'clock P. M., Thursday, March 5th, to continue over the following Sabbath. Brethren from abroad are invited to attend and labor for the Lord.

L. French, Clerk of Conference.

Notice.

I would inform my friends through "our paper" that I have moved into Lincolnville, Maine, and desire all letters directed accordingly.

Joel S. Richards.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as Tuesday Morning, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston, corner of Causeway and Lowell Streets. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.
M. Batchelor.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
H. Munger.........Tuesday evening, Feb. 25th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)
J. S. White.........Sunday, Feb. 23d

Concord, N. H., (at the Bethel.)
Wm. C. Thurman.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
A. Simpson.........Sunday, March 1st
I. K. Lombard.........Sunday, March 29th

Salem, Mass.........Sunday, Feb. 23d and March 1st. Joseph W. White.

New Durham Ridge, N. H.........Sunday, March 1st
South Reading, Mass.........Sunday, March 8th
Portsmouth, N. H.........Sunday, March 15th
Wm. C. Thurman.

Meredith, (Bro. P. Dolloff's).........March 5th
Dolloff school-house.........Sunday, March 8th and onward. Julia Buswell.

Philadelphia.........Sunday, March 1st
New Haven, Ct.........Sunday, March 8th
Guilford.........Sunday, March 15th
W. S. Campbell.

South Reading.........Sunday, March 1st
Enoch Morrill.

Rocky Brook, R. I.........Sunday, Feb. 23d and over March 1st. J. M. Muhlig.

Cheshire Street, Conn.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Wm. A. Durand.

Barnstead, (Clark's Corner).........Sunday, Feb. 23d
John Parsons.

Lincklaen, N. Y., (as Bro. F. Corker may arrange), Feb. 14th, and over two Sabbath.
A. H. Brown.

Lawrence, Mass., Advent Chapel.
H. L. Hastings.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
A. Ross.........Sundays, March 1st and 8th

Pittsfield, Me., (Brown school-house), Sunday, March 8th, and continue one week or more.
Northport, Me.........Sunday, March 22d and continue evenings through the week.
Jer. Carr.

Tunbridge, (Spring school-house).........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Whitefield, N. H.........Sundays, March 1st and 8th
Concord, N. H.........Sundays, April 5th and 12th
J. A. Cleaveland.

Square Pond, Ct.
P. S. Butler.........Sunday, March 1st
B. Hitchcock.........Sunday, March 8th
A. M. Higgins.........Sunday, March 22d

Manchester, N. H.........Tuesday evening, Feb. 25th
Simeon Roby.

Concord, N. H.
(Corner of Green and Center Streets.)
B. Woodside.........Sunday, Feb. 23d

Northwood Narrows.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
C. W. Sargent.

Waterbury, Ct.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Wm. J. Ripley.

Groton, Vt., (Geo. Ricker school-house), Saturday evening, Feb. 22d, and onward as long as the interest demands. T. E. Lang, Jr.

New Durham Ridge.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
S. S. Mooney.

Auburn, N. Y., (in the vicinity).........Feb. 20th and onward. Sr. E. S. Jennings.

Millport, Chemung Co., N. Y., (as Bro. Saml. Cole and others may arrange), Thursday evening, Feb. 20th, and over the following Sunday. J. K. Bellows.
D. Coogswell.

Pleasant Valley.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
H. Beach.

Granby, Conn.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
S. M. & H. R. Tatro.

Meredith, (Dolloff school-house).........Sunday, Feb. 23d
N. Glidden.

Woodstock Valley.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Bristol, Ct.........Sunday, March 1st
Southington.........Sunday, March 8th
New Haven, (Day's Hall).........Sunday, March 15th
I. B. Potter.

Prospect, Ct.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
New Haven, (Day's Hall).........Sunday, March 1st
Seth Woodruff.

Woodhull, Steuben Co., N. Y., Feb. 28th, and continue each evening and Sundays for ten days, embracing two Sundays. C. P. Sweet.

Middletown.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
H. Rockwell.

New York, (Cooper Institute).........Sunday, Feb. 23d
24th Street in the evening. W. S. Campbell.

Savoy.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Brimfield, Mass.........Sunday, March 1st
Rufus Baker.

Lynn, Mass.........through the month of February
T. M. Preble.

Sugar Hill.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
John Knowles.

Square Pond.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
C. H. Sweet.

Charlton, Dresser Hill, at Bro. Seavey's, evenings, Feb. 19th and 20th. Bro. H. Stone's, evening, Feb. 21st. At school-house, Feb. 23d.
Geo. A. Streeter.

Tuftonboro, (Melvin Village).........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Expect Bro. John Langley to be with me at Alton Corner, and onward. H. M. Bryant.

Warren Summit, N. H.........Friday evening, Feb. 21st
Haverhill, N. H., (where brethren may appoint), Sunday, Feb. 23d.
North Haverhill.........Tuesday evening, Feb. 25th
Bath, N. H.........Thursday evening, Feb. 27th
Sugar Hill, N. H.........Sunday, March 1st
A. Mussey Tripp.
N. B. My husband is traveling with me.

Waterhouse Point.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
L. F. Moore.

Yalesville, Ct.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Northfield, Ct., (where Bro. Humphreville may appoint) Sunday, March 1st. O. D. Woodruff.

Walbridge (communion).........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Westfield, Mass.........Sunday, March 8th
Woodstock Valley, Ct.........Sunday, March 15th
Abington, Ct.........Sunday, March 22d
P. E. Butler.

South Reading.........Wednesday evening, Feb. 26th
Lawrence.........Thursday evening, Feb. 27th
Manchester, N. H.........Friday, Feb. 28th
Concord, N. H.........Sundays, March 1st, 8th, and 15th
Will hold meetings between those Sabbaths week evenings in adjoining towns, if desired.
Hiram Munger.

Hartford.........Sunday, March 1st
New Britain.........Sunday, March 8th
Meriden.........Sunday, March 15th
New York, (Cooper Institute).........Sunday, March 22d
24th street in the evening. Wm. Stuart.

New Bedford.........Tuesday, Feb. 25th to March 8th
S. W. Thurber.

The Lord is blessing us in Worcester. Glory to his name forever. Amen. S. W. T.

Keene, N. H.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
H. F. Carpenter.

Springfield, Mass.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
H. Pratt.

Manchester, N. H.........Feb. 22d and over the Sabbath.
Merideth Neck, N. H.........Feb. 28th and over the Sabbath.
Moultonborough Neck, (school-house), March 2d and 3d
Center Harbor.........March 4th
Holderness, (True school-house).........March 7th and over the Sabbath. W. H. McDaniels.

Madison, N. H.........Thursday evening, Feb. 20th to labor in the vicinity one week, the Lord will.
Melvin Village.........Sunday, March 1st
Lowell, Mass.........Sundays, March 8th and 15th
T. W. Piper.

Lowell, Mass.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
South Sutton, N. H.........Friday evening, Feb. 28th and over Sunday.
Worcester, Mass.........Sundays, March 8th and 15th
J. Couch.

Pittsfield, N. H.........Thursday evening, Feb. 20th and hold over the following Sunday.
Meredith Village.........Tuesday evening, Feb. 25th
Holderness, (Carr school-house), Wednesday evening, Feb. 26th.
North Haverhill.........Thursday evening, Feb. 27th and over the following Sunday.
Parsonfield, (where Bro. John S. Moulton may appoint), Wednesday eve., March 4th, and over Sunday
Strafford, N. H., (where Bro. Preston may arrange), Thursday eve., March 12th, and over Sunday.
Chelsea, Mass.........Saturday evening, March 21st and over the two following Sundays. J. G. Smith.
D. M. Leavitt.

P. S. Please say in connection with the North Haverhill conference that Bro. O. D. Eastman is requested to be at that meeting. J. G. Smith.

New Haven.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Guilford.........Sunday, March 1st
E. Owen.

Rochester, N. Y.
Meetings are held at the Advent Hall, Curtis' Block, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Entrance, third door from the east end of the bridge, Main St.

Hartford, Ct.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
B. Hitchcock.

Alton Corner, N. H., Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Feb. 25th and 26th.
Concord, N. H.........Sunday, March 1st
A. Simpson.

Portland, Me.
Wm. H. Mitchell.........Sunday, Feb. 23d

South Sangerville.........Feb. 29th
I. K. Lombard.

Preston.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
P. Ramer.

Lenora and Nickols, Minn.........March 1st
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper.........March 8th
Elliota and Burr Oak.........March 15th
Preston.........March 22d
W. J. Bursell.

Worcester, Mass.
S. W. Thurber.........through the month of Feb.

New Bedford, Mass.........through February
A. Ross.

New Britain.........Sunday, Feb. 23d
Wm. Stuart.

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ Correspondents should know, that we cannot discontinue or send their orders, unless they give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in plain letters.

☞ C. STONE—The $2.50 should have been credited to C. M. Polley. It pays to No. 589.

☞ W. H. DOUGHTY—Money received.

☞ J. F. CATTS—Letter received. Will continue.

☞ S. HARPER—Money received. We are out of Pauline Theology. Will send soon as we get some.

☞ NANCY DOUD sends $1.25 for Crisis. Please give us your P. O. address.

☞ A. THATCHER—Received and acknowledged.

☞ J. H. LUTTENTON—Tracts were for free distribution.

☞ MRS. A. HEISS—We cannot furnish papers back to Jan. 1st.

☞ R. ATKINSON—Money not received. We credit you to 669.

☞ JOB CARD—Will send soon.

☞ IRA WYMAN—North Adams, Mass.

☞ M. EDGERTON—Money received. You are paid to 658. S. B. H. to 557.

☞ J. F. HORTON—Please observe notice of Cash Receipts in another column.

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

The present No. of the Crisis is 646. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid. If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to, is less than the present No., the difference shows for how many weeks you owe. For every week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the product (which will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness) deduct four cents for every dollar, and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each—W. J. Hoyt 628, M. Carpenter 656, S G Coon 661, Mrs. O. Young 689, J. Spackman 640, T E Metcalf 714.

$1.25 each—J C Wood 665, J G Tabor 671, J Erwin 637, T J Brown 671, J P Oyer 669, J Turpie 668, C J Chase 655, T J Howland 643, T J Howland 665, J G Kelley 678, B Ryder 671, A A Guild 668, R Punnell 671, K Ryan 669, C True 657.

$2.00 each—O Rider 648, H Graham 668, T H Jackson 656, M S Berean 610, N Goodell 594.

$2.50 each—J. Sanford 666, H. Brown 681, D. Platt 696, H H Tooker 632, R W Wilson 672, S N Williams 697, J Ellis 697, C. Green 700, W. Ashman 639, J M Stetler 691, Miss Thomas 683, A K Vaughan 697, E H Malone 697, J H Lang 691, J Gresty 649, G L Raymond 661, J Dent 703, J. S. Hartly 692, J. Fisher Jr. 697, B Bell 697, J Hunt 706, J Gilson 682, W Ralph 699, M A Williams 707, M. Dillon 697, G. Strong 697, A G Descent 585, R Eden 655, J F Adam 679.

Various Sums—A. Richards $7.18, L. K. Gaines $1.50, 677; A. Gillett $3.00, 667; C. Andrew 50c, 641; M Conner 50c, 641; W W Hall $3.00, 663; L Hamilton $1.50, 656; M A Flanders $6.00, 613; L Herrington 20c, 602; E Richards $13.00, 645; B F Lewis 66c, 660; J. B. Bostwick 67c, 660; W. Dickenson 67c, 860; J C Gardner $3.45, 694; E Clark $3.00, 652; N Pickell $1.50, 677.

FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.

J G Bush $1.50, S. T. Whitcomb $3.00, S. Harper $1.00, O H Simonds $4.50, M Smith 50c, H T Heart $1.00, Mrs. J Wheeler 75c, J Tracey $3.75, R Marting 50c, E S Smith 35c, E D Searls $1.10, A H Bassett 75c, T J Philbrick 75c, H H Tooker 60c, C F Sweet $1.75, R M Hurlbut 35c, W M Clark $1.00, C H Barrett 75c, C Lovis $1.00, T Smith $8.75, J B Smith $10.00, A Gillett $1.00, G W Hall 75c, J M Stetler $2.00, J McCammon $1.50, S Follinsbee 75c, J V Himes $200, G W Burnham $1 50, G Covill Jr. $1.00, A Spencer 75c, O F S 60c, G H Bundy $1.20, N R Gould $1.00, J C Gilman 75c, J Card 56c, G A Streeter $5.00, C F Higgins 75c, J M Glorfelty $1.25, D W Patterson $2.00, M A Elliot 75c, J G Kelley 75c, J Cunningham 35c, S A Titus 35c, H Bailey $1.50, G G Lavengood $1.10, A T Rice $1.87, W J Hewitt $1.15, J C Gardner 55c, B C Simonds $4.50, B Sweet 75c, E D Harris 75c, H F Rollins 55c, J Bower $3.00, L Storer 75c, W Wright $1.50, S A Piper $2.25, D L Allyn 75c, R B Reed 50c, A Raymond $1.00, C De Diable $1.00, A Morse $1.00, S S Searls 75c, C Murphy 50c, Mrs. C B Turner $1.41, C S Bourne $1.95.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.

By Mail—Geo A Barker, G L Hobart, C B Keech, A G Brown, M M Manning, L H Wilson, Thos Davis, Mrs H Pratt, R C Russell, James Underhill, Oliver Doe, Wm E Chase, J Chapman, G W McElroy, H S Utley, Thos J Williams, E W Matts, Wm Griswold, Louis Paquin, J N Robinson, Wm S Parker, G W Dacer, C L Deible, F Burnham, A Peavy, S Mitchell, J Whitcar, B D Wolcott, J P Kenkell, J Carpenter, H K Konkle, A L Carney, A Raymond, E J Lyon, J G Kelley, J M Glorfelty, C A Higgins, L H Week, J J Eley, D W Patterson, M A Elliot, R J Folsom, John Consdale, W H Whitman, S Wheeler, S N Cooper, S F Whitcomb, Geo W Burnham, M Smith, H T Hart, Jane Weller, James Tracy, Robt Martin, A A Adams, E S Smith, A H Barrett, H H Tooper, Thos J Philbrook, Dr W D Cook, E W Waters, J G Straffer, E W Patten, F H Bruce, Geo Phipps, J M Cameron, J M Stetler, W Wm Hall, Chas Lovis C Sebastain, A Gillett, J B Richardson, Chas H Barrett, Jacob Hedrich, Wm Baily, Wm Clark, R M Hurlburt, Thos Smith, C F Sweet, Geo Card.

By Express—I K Weaver, O H Simonds, C F Williams, Chas S Hall, M E Green.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

E S Willard, J Button, I I Leslie, G A Streeter, S F Rice, W C Thurman, J Naramore, C W Batchelder, M M Manning, D Eastman, L R K Bishop, J T Clarke, J Lamb, A H Brown, M D Wellcome, J Y C, I Allen, Wm Lee, F H Burbank, L T Cunningham, J O Houtz, R R York, C Greene, J H Dennis, I Damman, A L Adams, H S Mitchell, H Snyder, J E Clark, S B Colt, A D Flagg, L Mills, J P Fletcher, M McCulloch, A B Smith, W Raymond, A S Whitney, H Beach, L T Cunningham, G W Stetson, T J Whitecar.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.
THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Predictions fulfilled, and his Kingdom near. By I. C. Wellcome. 25c; by mail, 27c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 1, By S. S. Brewer 7c; by mail, 9c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 3, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.
THESSALONICA; or, The Model Church. By H. L. Hastings. 25c.
SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsay, D. D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE SEVEN SEALS. Exposition of Rev. vi. By S. S. Brewer. 8c; by mail, 10c.
LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church By H. L. Hastings. 10c.
THE DAYS WE LIVE IN; The Lord soon to come By S. S. Brewer. 10c; by mail, 12c.
THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim' Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures. Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, etc. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. 20c; by mail, 22c.
RETRIBUTION; or, The Doom of the Ungodly. By H. L. Hastings. 20c.
DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.
PAULINE THEOLOGY; or, The Christian Doctrine of Future Punishment, as taught in the Epistles of Paul. H. L. H. 10c.
GLAD TIDINGS; or, The End of Woe and Sin by the Destruction of the Wicked. (Three chapters from "Death not Life.") By J. Blain. 8c; by mail, 10c.
WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 6c; by mail, 8c.
ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.
THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.
SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.
REV JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 3c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.
THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables Price, by mail, 40 cents.
UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.
"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.
THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.
THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1,00; $10.00 per hundred.
HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.
LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.
THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 15 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postage, 8c. on every three copies.
THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.
CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.
EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.
HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.
STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.
COOKERY or How to prepare food from Grain, Fruits and Vegetables. By F. W. Hurd, M. D. 15c; by mail, 17c.
VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook and Wm. H. Brinkerhoff. 10c.
THE SABBATH, and its Relation to Man. By mail 3 cts.
SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. 3c. single; 5c. by mail.
BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.
CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc 5c; per dozen, 50c.
BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.
DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
RAHAB THE HARLOT. The Scarlet Line the token of Safety; or, the fall of Jericho a type of the fall of the "cities of the nations." By Wm. Shepherd. 10c., postpaid; 85c. a dozen.
CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; a Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Worship. 80c; by mail, 88c.
PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 6c; by mail, 8c.
THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT—Superiority of the New. By A. W. Sibley. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY, or, the Sealed Book of Daniel Opened. $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; or, a Dissertation on the Evidences of Christianity. 25c; by mail, 29c.
SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?—a tract on War. By I. C. Wellcome. 10c.
CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c.
NON-RESISTANCE. By W. C. Thurman. 20c; by mail, 24c.
DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c
THE DAY AND THE HOUR: a Lecture, by Joseph A. Seiss, D. D. 15c.
"OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.
"THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.
"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"GOLDEN MOMENTS." A four-page tract. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"THE PENALTY OF SIN." By O. R. Fassett. By mail, single copy, 5c.; 40c. per dozen.
AMERICA IN PROPHECY; an Exposition of Isaiah XVIII. By O. R. Fassett. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—
Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.
Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.
Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.
☞ Postage 15 cents per copy additional, when sent by mail.

For the World's Crisis.

WE SEEK A HOME.

Lonely in this night of sorrow,
Here we wander to and fro,
Griefs to meet with each to-morrow,
As life's pathway on we go.

Pleasant scenes around our pathway,
Loving faces by our side,
Meet we them upon our journey,
Yet we pass them on life's tide.

Peace and pleasure press around us,
Bidding us their joys to share;
And the siren song of gladness
Fain would lure us in its snare.

Yet the saddened heart is beating,
Earthly scenes to leave behind;
For we find them vain and fleeting,
And for lasting joys we pine.

Ah, our hearts are bowed with sorrow,
And the weary frame seeks rest;
Still no rest from earth we borrow,
For we seek it 'mong the blest.

Just beyond the tempest's fury,
Where the cloud no wrath contains,
There's the light of Eden's glory,
There's the "rest" that e'er "remains."

Weary pilgrim, cheer thee up, then,
Press thee on a "little while";
Soon the gates of glory'll open,
There you'll meet a Father's smile;

There thy rest will be eternal,
Weariness will never come,
And thy joy will be supernal,
For with Christ thou'lt be at home.

Smithfield, Va. S. M. S. HAYNES.

For the World's Crisis.

THOUGHTS ON A FEW THINGS.

THE THIEF ON THE CROSS.

After considering the different explanations of the real meaning of our Lord's language to the dying thief, I am quite clear that the simple and complete solution is found in the change of punctuation. And it may be well to recognize a fact which I think is perfectly incontrovertible, and which may be comprehensively expressed in a proposition, thus: Wherever the word "to-day," or its equivalent, follows immediately a declaration in the Bible, in the indicative mood, present tense, and first person singular, this word denoting present time is invariably connected directly with the verb of affirmation, and not with the subsequent clause. If this is not a rule absolutely infallible, the exception can be pointed out. At all events, it may be submitted for criticism. If this rule applies obviously to every other case in God's word, why should this one be excepted? The mis-punctuation has done the whole mischief. Nothing but prejudice or ignorance could prevent, one would think, a hearty acknowledgment of the real meaning of our blessed Lord.

THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

I have not read extensively on this subject, thus far, but am entirely satisfied with the application of this parable to the prophetic and historical relation of Jews and Gentiles, after the crucifixion of Christ and the destruction of Jerusalem. The case is clear, and the reasoning is conclusive. It is worth a mine of gold to know what Jesus truly meant—what great development in Jewish history was in the Savior's mind when he spoke, and of what events to come this parable was specifically a prophetic photograph. The misapplication of it has been monstrous. No mere human opinion, no strength of tradition, nor philosophical ingenuity, nor "circumstance" of learning, can contravene or overbear the simple truth. When the light of the Spirit shines on the mind, how impotent are the protests of hereditary opinion.

I merely introduced the subject for the purpose of a single reference; to wit, the rich man's allusion to the "five brethren"; the sympathy or alarm in the mind of this wicked dead man relative to his yet surviving kindred on earth. Since the parabolic rich man clearly denotes the two tribes, Judah and Benjamin, practically constituting Jewry in and after the time of our Savior; so, obviously, I mistrust, the five brethren denoted the remaining ten tribes of Israel, then and now dispersed, and denationalized, though extinct. As two tribes are discerned in one man, so the ten are seen in his five brothers. This preserves the symmetry of the narration. That Israel yet preserves some sort of existence, though depressed, concealed, and even abject, in the vast interior of Asia, is at least not a presumptuous conjecture (as, for example, take a recent report from Honan in China). In the early condition of suffering and affliction to which the Divine judgments reduced the two tribes (or the rich man), nothing would be more natural than (in the mournful retrospect of the past, and the bitter agonies of the present), an expression of solicitude regarding the fate of the ten tribes, whom they could scarcely conceive to be suffering the agonizing humiliation and shame which wrung from them the prayer that "Abraham their father" might avert so dire a catastrophe from their brethren. This, I conceive, is certainly the true explanation.

WHO ALONE HATH IMMORTALITY.

In a late number of the Morning Star, printed at Dover, N. H., I saw an article headed, "Infidelity of Modern Adventism." Between error and truth, and their votaries, we say frankly, Let our Father judge. So hard a charge as this caption expresses we can cheerfully endure. The arguments of the article do not seem of sufficient importance to merit much attention. I will only refer to one point, in which the writer alleges that the limitation of immortality to Christ as the King of kings and Lord of lords, when urged in negation of any immortality in the race of Adam, is too exclusive; and that the argument proves too much, by denying immortality to the Father. The answer to this is simple enough. Paul's charge to Timothy is to "keep this commandment, without spot, unrebukable, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ; which [appearing] in his times . . . the blessed and only Potentate" shall exhibit. Now, (1.) Is this Jesus Christ, who shall exhibit this epiphany or appearing? If so, then the meaning of the scripture is, we submit, that of all the entire membership of Adam's race, Jesus Christ alone has immortality. All other men are mortal. Christ is the Divine man, and therefore immortal. Such he is, as related to our race. He has ascended on high. He is robed in the splendors of a light inaccessible to mortal man (no soul of a dead man has gazed on the unclouded and perfect brightness, either). Christ has died for us, but henceforth he dieth no more. He has entered into his immortality, having risen from the dead. He alone of the myriads of Adam's sons has immortality now. Was not Jesus born to die? Was he not ordained to give his life for the world? Had he a human immortal soul? Where is the evidence of such an idea? His exhibitions of miraculous power and grace were through the divinity of his nature, and his relation to the Father. He is the first fruits of those who slept. He is now immortal in his human nature. Death hath no more dominion over him. We repeat, then, Is not he alone of all who ever took part of flesh and blood, now and absolutely, in his whole nature human and divine, immortal? The immortality of resurrected and translated saints is derived from Him.

But (2). This immortality is not here, we will suppose, unequivocally asserted of Jesus, though we know it is surely and eternally his now, and ever since he rose from the dead. This appearing the Potentate is to show. Who is the Potentate—King of kings, and Lord of lords? Christ, we think. But grant for the moment that it is the Father who will manifest Christ's epiphany in the same sense as where it is said, "God raised him from the dead." Then, we simply see in the Father alone an original, absolute, and unqualified immortality, or deathlessness. He could never die in eternity, past or to come. In either view, it is evident that man, a sinner, a son of Adam, an heir of physical death, has no immortality, not an iota of it, and never will, until he is raised from the dead.

PITIFUL LAODICEANISM OF OUR TIMES.

The contagious and competing zeal of church fairs is humiliating. And of course you may look for zeal in defending such inventions, among those who devise them. Question—Is sin justified by fervent zeal in a good cause? But what cause do you think is served by these foolish devices and forbidden fripperies? I am afraid it is not the cause of God, or of righteousness. How much is God glorified in the ardor and luxury of modern church ornamentation? Suppose the relief of some widows and children shivering in shanties, or starving in tenement lofts, were compared with the popular schemes of decorative elegance; which work would Jesus call most beautiful? Now, shall charity to the poor even be served by the same sharpness and unscrupulousness as befits the fallen and foul Beelzebub? Will it please God for the church to set a bait for a careless world, that by dainties, and lures for languishing appetite, and pretty opiates for conscience, and gas-lighted splendors of hired halls, and by tricks and tinselry, the church treasuries may be replenished? O, fie! O, folly! Fallen, compromised, dishonored mother of money-getting arts! Art thou the church of the glorious First-born from the dead? If Rome is Babylon, then what art thou? Will thy lofty spires, lodging a fortune in their aspiring masonry, save thee? Will thy stained and painted windows, thy finished frescoes, thy crimson cushions, thy proud and ponderous bells rolling metallic mammoths? Will thy sea-voiced organs? Will one or all thy lofty and costly treasures help thee one whit, when Jesus comes on his shining way to raise the dead and save his saints? O, silly Laodicea! Not all thy wealth and delicacy will be worth so much as the smallest thread in that day. Query, again: If Rome is Babylon, what art thou?

I will leave this subject with just referring to a significant fact related to me the other day. Not very far from here is a church, in which were, I think, two men holding a membership, which by some misconduct of theirs seemed likely to terminate abruptly. On hearing of the contemplated act of the church, a considerable number of persons, commonly known as "world's people," or "outsiders," met together for the purpose of protest, or perhaps a kind of so-called self-protection. In pursuance of the plan of the meeting, a resolution was introduced and adopted, expressing earnest and positive objection to the proposed action, as from the character of the men, the outside world could not afford to receive them back into their midst again!

Sardinia, N. Y. C. COLEGROVE.

For the World's Crisis.

MAN.

"Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was; and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it."—ECCL. 12:7.

This scripture is used very extensively by all believers in the doctrine of "natural immortality," regardless of its connection with other Scripture. By the class of people known as "Spiritualists," it is used with great dexterity against those known as "orthodox," most generally putting those of them not "posted" to silence, causing them to think a great deal upon the possibility of there being something in "Spiritualism" after all. As the text stands, it is a very powerful weapon in the hands of the spiritualists against popular theology; for this reason:

It is plainly asserted in the text that the spirit shall "return to God who gave it." Now as there is no distinction made between soul and spirit by orthodoxy (Paul says that they can be "divided asunder." Heb. 4: 12), we can use their term and say the soul returns to God. Then as there is no distinction made in the text relative to any difference in spirits, whether good or bad, but simply that the spirit returns, it emphatically states that all spirits, good or bad, return to God.

Having this settled, we turn to Ps. 16: 11, which reads thus: "Thou wilt show me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures forevermore." As there is no distinction made between good or bad souls, the inference is, Voltaire, Nero, Rosseau, Marat, Robespierre, Tom Paine, Capt. Kidd, and all the murderers, whoremongers, idolaters, and opposers of God and the gospel of his Son, that ever lived upon the face of the earth, are in the presence of God; and as there is "fulness of joy," all the above are experiencing it.

But, says one, God only keeps the spirit till the judgment day, and then we shall enjoy the full degree of happiness. Ah! that would do, provided it was not said, "In thy presence is fulness of joy." Now what can be had more than a fulness? I am sure more than that is superfluous; hence the spiritualists gain a victory over eternal torment.

By the orthodox it is used with seeming dexterity against those who believe that man is mortal. Their mode of arguing varies according to the necessities of the case; but I acknowledge that there seems to be a fixed principle among them not to depart from the teaching of "Holy Writ," and a most decided determination not to depart from the "standard works" of modern theology; but after all their suppositions and may-be's, the conclusion is that "they do not study the Bible to argue"; and this expression is made with so much of the spirit of triumph, that one not used to earnestly contending for the faith would feel he was really doing wrong.

Now we purpose to examine the text, in its connection with other scripture, or compare scripture with scripture, and learn what the dust and spirit are, from the word of God alone, throwing aside the "commandments of men" altogether; for, "let God be true," if it kills all our creeds beyond the possibility of a resurrection.

As the language of the text is applied to man, it will be necessary to examine the creation of man, in order to find of what material he is composed. This will be found in Gen. 2: 7, and reads thus: "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul." This text, if taken alone, and read properly, grammatically proves all that can be proved in relation to the creation of man. Let us examine it thoroughly as it stands, and see if it will agree with the text. "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground."

But it is said, "We have been taught that God formed a body to put man into, or, that the Lord God formed a house or tenement of clay, to be inhabited by a man, or soul." Very well, we cannot help what you have been taught. Moses has recorded what he received by Inspiration from God, and it reads that the "man was formed of the dust," and not a house to put him into. It may be possible that your teacher has read this passage wrong. May be he read it in some hymn book or catechism; and as hymn books and catechisms differ materially from God's Bible letter, let them alone, take the Bible, and believe and trust it.

We are aware that it is a hard matter for some people to trust God's word; but it is only because they look at it superficially, or glance over it hurriedly; to such let me say, should this article come under your sight, examine closely for yourself.

Man was formed of dust. He is pronounced to be a man, not a house. One text says that the dust returns to the earth as it was; therefore according to the "Word" man returns to the earth; and, as further proof, let me add what God said to Adam, the man, in Gen. 3: 19,—"In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." There is not the first solitary word or single letter here that speaks or even refers to a house or tenement, and it is nothing less than a wanton violation of the laws of language to say that God is speaking to any thing less than a conscious MAN, for the word "thou" is a personal pronoun, and means the man himself. If God called what he formed of dust, man, we as creatures dependent upon him for all we have and are ought willingly to believe him without a doubt.

Having established the first clause of our text, let us hasten to the last, which reads: "The spirit shall return unto God who gave it." It will be necessary to compare scripture a little upon this point, in order to get at its true meaning. Once more refer to Gen. 2: 7,—"And breathed into his [man's] nostrils the breath of life." Here we have all the addition ever made to man. If the modern theological position is correct, this clause of the seventh verse should read something like this: "And breathed into the house, or body, a living soul"; but God's Bible says that the breath of life was breathed into the man. So modern theology on this point, at least, is worthless to all "Bible christians." This act of breathing into the man's nostrils made the man, that was formed to live; or, to make it plainer, the dust formed into man with the breath of life, combined, made a "living soul." Then, according to the Bible, it requires both the so-called "house" and the "breath" to constitute a living soul.

"And MAN became a living soul." What was it that became a living soul? The "man." Let us believe it. Now for a strict construction of this language. "And man became [what?] a living soul." If he became a living soul, what was he before? He must have been a soul without life, in order to become a living soul. But how are you going to reconcile soul and spirit, so as to send the spirit back to God? (Just here let me say that the primary meaning of the word soul is person.)

As we have stated that all the addition made to man was the breath of life, it will be necessary to show that breath, or life, is in some way connected with spirit, and not that spirit is connected with immateriality. Let us compare scripture once more. Paul says, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness." 2 Tim. 3: 16. This being true, we will refer to Gen. 7: 22,—"All in whose nostrils was [margin] the breath of the spirit of life."

One word to those who would object to marginal readings. A short time ago a Baptist brother came along where I was holding forth the truth, and wished to present to the congregation the merits of the new translation of the New Testament, by the Amer. Bible Union. I consented. During his discourse he stated that marginal readings were preferable to the texts in many places, and always as good. We might present Dr. Clarke, but think this sufficient.

Now as we have a great history on a few pages in the book of Genesis, we must necessarily have recourse to all of it in order to make harmony. If it was simply, as God says, the breath of the spirit of life, which all received into their nostrils, it is very plain. Now the last clause of our text is fulfilled.

But one other idea. Modern theology (not the Bible) teaches that this spirit is conscious when it returns to God. We regard this as mere assertion, without the least possibility of proof. One thing is very certain, viz., If the spirit was unconscious before it came into man, it is absolutely certain that it will be unconscious when it returns to God. And as no man can prove either by eternal or internal evidence that he ever existed in a conscious state before, we shall be obliged to consider it mere assertion. Now, then, the man, or dust, returns to dust; and the spirit, or breath of the spirit of life, returns to God; and to fulfill the text, both must return precisely as they came.

With this Bible view, we can see the force of the Atonement, and the necessity of the return of our Lord, to bring about a resurrection.

It is almost here. Watch and pray, brethren and sisters; Jesus will soon come. Do not give up. Live holy lives. Put all your trust in Jesus. For he says, "Without me ye can do nothing." Cut yourselves loose from the world. Be consistent. Practice what you preach. Glory to God! it is almost morning. Toil a little longer. Soon all will be well. Hallelujah! Thy Bro. in hope, Somersville, Ct. L. F. MOORE.

☞ When any one does you an injury, endeavor to elevate your soul so high that his malice cannot reach you.

For the World's Crisis.

TO HON. LOUIS KOSSUTH.

Being glad to hear of this distinguished ex-dictator of Hungary, in Bro. Czechowski's last, I am prompted to pen a few lines that may reach him through Bro. C. and the Crisis.

Honored Sir:—Although I am an humble man to address you, I trust that I shall not be deemed presumptuous. As I have traced your history from the first of your public life; as I read your addresses, I have often wanted to give you a word of cheer. But that was too much for me to attempt during your tour through this country. Your heart seemed moved to feel the deepest heavings of distressed humanity throughout the world.

Your speech in Washington City filled the fewest lines, and yet it was the most effective, perhaps, in the series. Our congressmen were at ease, and would not be disturbed even by Hungary's distress. To allay all passion, to disarm all opposition, you told them thus: "I went to church last Sunday. I went to pray; and what is left to a poor man who cannot pray? I prayed Almighty God that he would raise up a power on earth to defend the rights of nations."

Your soul's yearnings gushed out all over them. Opposition was impossible.

In your address to mothers, in New York, you took your audience altogether captive, and assured them, however distasteful, "that there was no Christian government on earth"! Your basis was the Sermon on the Mount.

But to avoid verbiage, let me say that your heart's prayer, your assertion of that dreadful truth, is mine, to be fulfilled in the kingdom for which we pray—"Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven." The wickedness of the wicked will have come to an end, and the just be established in "the Restitution of all things spoken by all the prophets." Acts 3: 21: Ps. 7: 9; Matt. 6: 10.

"THE DESIRE OF NATIONS" cometh! Then the full measure of Divine good will be dispensed. "Wisdom and virtue will be the stability of His times, and strength of salvations." Isa. 32: 1; 33: 6; Ps. 72.

Respectfully yours, J. B. COOK.

Poultney, Vt., Jan. 27, 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

AN HONEST CONFESSION.

I once sat rather impatiently during the delivery of a discourse on Rev. 22: 9. The 8th and 9th verses read as follows:—"And I John saw these things, and heard them, and when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel which showed me these things. Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not; for I am thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book; worship God."

The speaker was very earnest, and made the assertion that "this text is positive proof that one of the prophets died, went to heaven, and returned to this earth again." At the close of the service, as the speaker came down from the pulpit, I met him and said,

"Bro. F., may not that person have been Elijah the prophet who was translated?"

He replied, "Perhaps you may creep out through Elijah."

"I can see no creeping in that," I replied.

His face assuming a healthy color, he said, "You have made an assertion, prove it."

"Why, no," said I, "I simply asked the question, May not that person have been Elijah? and you have admitted that, but you made the assertion that 'this text is positive proof that one of the prophets died, went to heaven, and returned to this earth again.'"

His face changing to a still deeper hue, he said, "I confess I am wrong."

I loved him for this rare exhibition of honesty in argument. Honesty is always commendable. There is no better way to get out of a corner, when driven there by argument, than by an honest confession. I could have accomplished nothing in this case by showing him that John said that the person was an angel, and that eminent scholars say that the words "the fellow servant" are understood, though omitted to avoid repetition; and if supplied, all is harmonious, and would read as follows: "Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not; for I am thy fellow servant, and (the fellow servant) of thy brethren the people, and (the fellow servant) of them who keep the sayings of this book; worship God."

Nevada, Ohio. H. A. KING.

THE NAME OF GOD IN FORTY-EIGHT LANGUAGES.

Hebrew—Elohim, or Eloah. Chaldaic—Elah. Assyrian—Ellah. Syriac, Turkish—Alah. Malay—Alla. Arabic—Allah. Language of the Magi—Orsi. Old Egyptian—Zent. Armorian—Tenti. Modern Egyptian—Tenn. Greek—Theos. Aeolian, Doric—Ilos: Latin, Deus: Low Latin, Diex. Celtic, Old Gallic—Dieu. French—Dieu. Spanish—Dios. Portuguese—Deos. Old German—Diet. Provencal—Dion. Low Breton—Done. Italian Dio. Irish—Die. Olala tongue—Deu. German and Swiss—Gott. Flemish—Goed. Dutch—Godt. English and Old Saxon—God. Teutonic—Goth. Danish and Swedish—Gut. Norwegian—Gud. Slavic—Buch. Polish—Bog. Polacca—Bung. Lapp—Jubinal. Finnish—Jumala. Runic—As. Pannonian—Istu. Tembloan—Fetiyo. Hindostanee—Rain. Caromdel—Brama. Tartar—Magatal. Persian—Sire. Chinese—Pussa. Japanese—Goergun. Madagascar—Tannan. Peruvian—Puchocamae. JOHN TAYLOR.

New Sharon, Me.

For the World's Crisis.

DON'T.

Dear brethren and sisters:—When you come together, to exhort each other, and comfort one another, don't abuse other people; don't talk about other folks; don't mention other churches.

If you have "the faith," show it, explain it, teach it, enforce it, be "rooted and grounded" in it.

If you have got a good hope in Christ, give your reasons for it; let others see it, feel it, partake of and rejoice in it.

If you have any charity, exercise it, make it manifest it; let it flow out, that others may feel it and be perfected in and by it.

If you have a "two-edged sword," use that, and let carnal weapons alone. If you have not learned the twelfth commandment, do try and commit it to memory as soon as possible, and then obey it; and if you have learned, don't forget to practise it.

If you have ever been made a partaker of that wisdom which is from above, pure, gentle, easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy, do let it be shown by the way in which you employ your tongue, and thus prove that "the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace by them that make peace."

If you feel sore because you were expelled, excised, cast off, on account of your honest convictions of truth, don't tell of it, lest those who cut you off rejoice over you, and think you want to come back again, or you would not complain so bitterly about it. Better heap coals of fire on their heads, by loving them to death.

Don't forget that honey catches more flies than vinegar, and that two wrongs never made one right.

Finally, don't forget the lesson: "Be wise as serpents, and harmless as doves." Talk your own faith—the faith of Jesus, and don't meddle with any other faith, peoples, sects, or denominations.

The result will be (1.) You will feel better, talk better, do better, be better; so will others; and you will accomplish vastly more for the cause of truth. (2.) You will invite men to come again. (3.) Your seed sown will fall on ground better prepared to receive it, and be more likely to germinate. (4), and lastly, you will have tested the value of the maxim found in the old Irish spelling-book—

"Be sure and let all other tongues alone, till you have thoroughly learned your own."

Rutland, Vt. G. W. STETSON.

CHILDREN GONE.

Sometimes when the day grows dusky,
And the stars begin to come,
When the children, from their playing,
Come singing and laughing home,
I think, with a sudden sorrow,
As they press through the open door,
Of the faces of the children
That we ne'er shall see any more;

Children in snow-white caskets,
Laid away to their rest,—
Their still hands lying folded
Over their pulseless breast!
Children who came and tarried
As only it were for a night,
And passed, at the break of the morning,
On a far journey out of sight,—

On a long and lonely journey,
Where we could not help or hold,
For we saw but the closing of eyelids,
The fading of locks of gold;
And knew how now was but silence
Where once had been prattle and song,
And only a chill and a shadow
Where was sunshine the whole day long.

Away from our care and caresses,
"God knows where they are," we say,
And we know that we tarry behind them
Only a little way;
For we, too, haste in our journey,
And we know it will not be long
Till we come to the City Eternal,
The rest and the rapture of song.

Yet oft, when the sun is setting
In unspeakable splendor of light,
Or the day grows dim and dusky,
And the shadows stretch into the night,
When the children, tired with their playing,
Come in through the open door,
I think of the dear, dear children,
Who never will come any more.

Selected by [illegible] B.

LETTERS FOR THE PEOPLE.

"THE SITUATION."

You will see by the following that the field is ours, the "Greek post" given up, the cannon spiked, and every day brings in prisoners of hope to the loyal camp; five last night. One was threatened by her father to be "cast out" from home, but prayer prevailed, father surrenders, and is being brought in. To the Lord be all the glory. Amen.

Rochester, Jan. 6th, 1868.

MESSRS. EDITORS: In a previous issue you say: "We have received a communication from a minister of the gospel, declining to have any discussion with Eld. Grant, or Pratt, on the terms of their challenge. The challenge is regarded as evasive of the question at issue, and such discussion, on the terms proposed, would be a recognition of the christian character of doctrines denying the deity of Christ."

Please say we have proposed to defend in discussion with any man, or men, the doctrines we preach, who will treat the subject candidly. Here are some of them: We believe that man is mortal, and must die; "that death is a cessation of life" entirely; that "the dead know not anything;" that "all the wicked will God destroy;" that "the meek will inherit the earth;" that "Jesus Christ is the Son of God;" that he was not as old as his Father, and that he told the truth when he said; "My Father is greater than I;" that he will soon come again to this earth, and establish his kingdom, which will stand forever. Is this evasive?"

We do not see how a discussion of these subjects should "involve a recognition of the christian character of the doctrines," unless the opposition should "accidentally" or otherwise, quote from the Scriptures; then, I think there would be danger of a recognition.

To avoid such risk and to cover retreat, a "flood" is "cast out," not of "water," but stuff of a quality which would lead some to question the purity of the fountain from which it came. Here it is—examine for yourselves: "Pretended revisers of the word of God;" "insidious;" "subtle;" "bold and blasphemous;" "specious and cunning adversaries, who know their statements to be in every respect false"; making "bold and wicked misrepresentations of the truth deliberately, and for the purpose of deceiving God's own dear children," and "should be shunned and denounced," etc. Can this come from "a minister of the gospel," or only from a self-styled "servant of the Lord Jesus Christ?" Let the candid reflect.

H. PRATT.

THE POWER OF THREE CIPHERS.—In the early days of the Theological Seminary at Alleghany, it was often in great need of money. The churches were not fully awake to the importance of the institution. The country was then comparatively poor; and its warmest friends were sometimes bowed down with trouble and fear. It is an instructive legend of that day, that once, in a time of extremity, the Rev. Dr. Francis Herron, President of the Board of Directors, the Rev. Dr. Elisha P. Swift, also a director, and the pious Rev. Joseph Patterson, met to devise some way of relief. With all their faith, the first-mentioned brethren were greatly dejected.

"We have no one to help us," said one of them.

"No one!" replied Mr. Patterson warmly: "why, I know of a thousand here." The two looked astonished. He continued: "Is not Dr. Herron a cipher? and is not Dr. Swift a cipher? and am not I a cipher? But Jesus Christ is surely One. And, if we put one before three ciphers, does it not make a thousand?

They took new courage, went to that One who is able to help, and did not pray in vain.

LAZINESS IN BIBLE READING.—The following confession and prayer, by Rev. Dr. Thomas Fuller, it is to be feared covers the case of many others besides himself: "Lord, I discover an arrant laziness in my soul. For when I am to read a chapter in the Bible, before I begin it, I look where it endeth; and if it endeth not on the same side I cannot keep my hand from turning over the leaf, to measure the length thereof on the other side; if it swell to many verses I begin to grudge. Surely my heart is not rightly affected. Were I truly hungry after heavenly food, I would not complain of meat. Scourge, Lord, this laziness of soul. Make the reading of thy word not a penance, but a pleasure upon me. Teach me, that as among heaps of gold, all equally pure, that is best which is the biggest, so I may esteem that chapter in thy word the best which is the longest."

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

For the "Children's Corner."

THE EARLY DEAD.

Died in Elliota, Minn., Jan. 16th, 1868, of lung fever, JOHN F. REMICK, adopted son of Bro. Levi and Sister Emeline Remick, aged nine years.

Bro. and Sr. R. moved to Elliota last November from Milwaukie. Shortly after their arrival little Johnny professed to find peace in believing on the Lord Jesus Christ. Two weeks after he was taken sick, which terminated in death. He felt conscious from the time he was taken sick that he would die. During his sickness he sent for all his little friends, and exhorted them to turn from their sins, and prepare for the coming kingdom. He warned all who came in his room, both old and young, professor and non-professor, to love Jesus and give all diligence to meet him in the new earth, and to keep their lamps trimmed and burning till the Bridegroom shall come. Just before he died, he requested his mother to sing—

"They closed the blinds around him,
And shut him up alone," etc.

After which he was heard to say, "No more sin, no more death." In a little while after, he was struck with death. Bro. Elliot on entering his room, and seeing little Johnny so happy, said, "I feel like shouting to see you so happy"; to which little Johnny replied, "I feel like shouting glory to God, too."

On one occasion he felt like talking to backsliders, and sent for some and exhorted them to return to their Father's house. On one occasion, his mother asked him if he would not like to get well? to which he replied, "I would rather die now; for if I should get well, I might become wicked and be lost." On the day of his death, he told his mother he was going to die that night. On that day, he continued to warn and exhort all who came in his room, until he became so weak that he had to rest at intervals to get strength, and when he could speak no longer, he would look, and his mother would speak for him. Just at this time, his mother said, "Johnny, Jesus will wake you up in the morning," alluding to a conversation that she had had with him a short time before, about his being in the grave unconscious; when he replied, That he would not care if Jesus would wake him up in the morning. He died soon after. He had for some time past considered himself a member of the "Try Company," and would not use tea or coffee, pork, etc. Two hours before he died he wanted to be baptized, as he had not been, his sickness coming so soon after his conversion.

His funeral took place on Sunday, Jan. 19th, when a discourse was preached by Eld. Rathbun, of Illinois, from the words, "Suffer little children," etc.

We have laid him away in deep sadness,
But not without hope in our breast;
For again we shall join him with gladness,
And enter the heavenly rest.

THOS. K. ALLEN.

Will the Herald of Life and Voice of the West please copy?

For the "Children's Corner."

THE SAME JESUS.

DEAR PILGRIMS:—The same Jesus that ye see taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go to heaven. Yes, the same Jesus is coming again; not a spiritual coming, a coming at death, but a real coming in the clouds of heaven; and we find in 1 Thess. 4; "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout; . . . wherefore comfort one another with these words." Again in Rev. 2: 7, "Behold he cometh with clouds, and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him; and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him." What can be plainer? This is pointud.

"I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not even as others which have no hope; for if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." We know, therefore, that the Scriptures plainly teach the coming of Christ, the resurrection of the dead, and the earth as the final abode of the saints.

Now we are nearing the coming of Christ and his kingdom that is to be set up; we are hastening to the great day, when we must give an account for the deeds done in the body.

When Christ was on earth he gave us certain signs which would precede his coming. We have seen these things fulfilled, and we may expect him at any moment. This is the time when we must watch and pray always, that we may escape all these things coming on the earth, and stand before the Son of man. This may be the last year upon which we have entered, or some of us may be laid in the grave; but let us make up our minds to serve the Lord, and strive to be overcomers, even as Jesus has overcome all things, and make straight paths for our feet, "lest that which is lame be turned out of the way." "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." Let us call upon the Lord daily to help us in these evil times, when, because iniquity abounds, the love of many waxes cold. We shall have to endure hardspiha, but the Lord will bring us off more than conquerors in the end if we trust in him. Let us put our trust in the Lord. "Let us go forth, therefore, unto him, without the camp, bearing his reproach;" for "here we have no continuing city, but we seek one to come." "Flee also youthful lusts: but follow righteousness, faith, charity," and call upon the Lord "out of a pure heart." May the Lord give us grace to walk worthy of the vocation wherewith we have been called, and save us in his kingdom. UNCLE FRED.

A BIBLE IN A LOG COTTAGE.

It was a dark and stormy night. The missionary's horse was tired, and he was wet and weary. For some time he had looked in vain for a cheering light in the lonely woods. At length he saw a faint glimmer through the trees. It came from a small log cottage. It did not promise much, but the missionary was glad of any shelter. But when he had fastened his horse, and gone into the cabin, he thought he had never seen so wretched a place. It was cold and dirty, and almost without furniture of any sort. In a corner of the room was a ragged bed, on which lay a pale little girl. The missionary pitied her, and drew near to the bed. He saw that the little girl's face was pale, and her hands thin. She was ill, and a great sufferer; yet the poor little thing was not impatient. She smiled with a smile that showed peace was in her heart, while her body was suffering with disease. From under her pillow peeped a little book. It was the New Testament. Some agent from the Bible Society had dropped it in that desolate place. The missionary asked the little girl,

"Can you read this?"

"Yes, sir."

"Can you understand it?"

"A great deal of it, sir. I see there how Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners. He said, 'Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of heaven.' And when I think of that, I am happy. And in the dark night, when I lie here and cannot sleep for pain, I think of my Savior and heaven, and he seems to be saying, 'Suffer that little child to come to me, and forbid her not.' I am soon going to be with him forever."

Thus that gift brought peace to the heart of the poor little sick girl—that peace which Jesus promised to his disciples when he said, "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you." John 14: 27.—Sel. by S. S. C.

For the "Children's Corner."

THE NEW EARTH.

Is there a land to us unknown,
Where sweetest plants forever grow,
And brightest flowers ever blow?
Oh yes, we call it heaven—
The fatherland.

What do Earth's changing blooms declare,
Its fairest colors aim to show?
Why, that the fairest ever glow
Unchanged in paradise—
The fatherland.

My young friends, let us live for this,
Be of that consecrated band,
Who, living for it, find "the pleasant land,"
"The land of rest, the saint's delight"—
The fatherland.

Philad., Dec. 22. CHS. GREENE.

THE BOY THAT WOULD NOT GO TO THE THEATRE.

"Georgie, Georgie," shouted a bright-eyed lad, some thirteen years old, "are you going to-night?"

"Going where?" asked his companion.

"Why, don't you know? Down to the theatre, to be sure. Come, come, there will be great doings, brother Willie says. The hall is crowded with people, lots of hacks are round the doors, bringing more visitors, the music is playing splendidly, and you must go. Come, run home and ask if you can't go with me."

There stood Fred, with cheeks like roses, eyes flashing, and his voice trembling with excitement. What cared he for the cold; let the silvery moon shine on; let the stars whisper in their quiet beauty of a better home, whose joys are more lasting than those of earth. He is full of wild thoughts of the gay ones in that crowded building.

"Come, Georgie, if you'll go, I'll wait for you," he cried. "There are great actors coming on the stage to-night, and there will be grand times."

But Georgie stood still unmoved by this wonderful intelligence. He was not much smaller than his friend, but to me his cool, "don't-intend-to-go" appearance made him far the manlier of the two.

"No!" said he, firmly; "father says they are bad places for boys to be in, and I shall not go."

Noble answer! Would it be yours? No doubt the performances in a theatre are very amusing, but will they do you any real good, or make you better men? Did you ever see a man who loved God and the Bible, or was pure in heart and life, visit the theatre? Think of the best man you ever knew of, or read of, and tell me, did he love a theatre?

THE GREATER FOOL.

I have read an old story of a lord who kept a jester in his house for his amusement, as was often the custom among great men of olden time.

To his jester the lord gave a curiously carved staff, which he was charged to keep until he should meet with one who was a greater fool than himself, when the jester should deliver it over to such an one.

A few years passed, and the lord fell very sick, so that it seemed quite likely he would die. His jester came to see him, and as he stood beside his bed, the lord told him he must shortly leave him.

"And whither art thou going, my lord?"

"To another world," was the reply.

"And when wilt thou return? within a month?"

"No," answered the lord.

"Within a year?"

"No."

"And when, then, my lord?"

"Never."

"Never? Then what provision hast thou made for thy journey whither thou goest?"

"None whatever."

"None at all? ah! here, take thy staff then," said the jester. "Going away never to return more, and no provision made for thine entertainment there! Take thy staff again, for surely I will never be guilty of such great folly as this."

We are none of us too young to die. Let us learn wisdom from the foolish lord, and see that our sins are forgiven, and our trust is on Jesus, and so whenever he shall call us to himself, we shall be ready to meet him in joy and peace.

"Better is a poor and wise child, than an old and foolish king."—The Christian.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance...............$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address.......$5.60
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address......$10.00.
Same rate for any number under ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.

PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.

☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.

☞ All persons writing to the office should give DISTINCTLY and PLAINLY the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM;

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS:

[illegible]

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 647. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 24.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS,
M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN,
D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

"ALL THINGS NEW."

"And He that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new."

There's shadow on earth's fairest light,
Of human guilt and human tears;
She gropes her way through realms of night,
That once sang with the spheres.
But not the sport of blinded chance,
The heavenly record standeth true;
She waits a full deliverance
When God makes all things new.

The world is old with centuries,
But not for these she bows her head,
Close to her heart the sorrow lies—
She holds so many dead!
Sad discords mingle in her song,
Tears fall upon her with the dew,
The whole creation groans;—how long
Ere all shall be made new?

Yet brightly on her smiles the sun,
A bounteous Heaven delights to bless;
O, what shall be that fairer one
Wherein dwells righteousness.
O happy world! O holy time!
When wrong shall die and strife shall cease,
And all the bells of heaven chime
With melodies of peace.

No place shall be in that new earth
For all that blights this universe;
No evil taint the second birth,
"There shall be no more curse."
Ye broken-hearted, cease your moans,
The day of promise dawns for you,
For He who sits upon the throne
Says, "I make all things new."

We mourn the dead, but they shall wake!
The lost, but they shall be restored!
O, well our human hearts might break
Without that sacred word!
Dim eyes look up, sad hearts rejoice,
Seeing God's bow of promise through,
At sound of that prophetic voice—
"I will make all things new."

How long? The ages falter, dumb,
As on the threshold of new birth;
The nations pray, "Thy kingdom come,
The new heavens and new earth";
Earth turning, turning, nears that day,
When all the angel-choirs anew
Shall sing, "Old things are passed away,
God hath made all things new."

Selected by J. Y. C.

For the World's Crisis.

THE VISION OF THE FOUR BEASTS.
Daniel Vii.

The subject of this chapter is essentially the same as that of chap. 2: 31–46. The latter regards the five monarchies from a political stand-point; the former contemplates them in a moral and religious aspect. The one looks at the outward features; the other at the inward nature. The one fixes our gaze upon a colossal image, as a symbolical embodiment of the world-power; the other presents to our view four fierce and sanguinary beasts, as fitting symbols to represent the character of the leading forms of that world-power—the main idea in the choice of those beasts as symbols being that all merely human governments are in their essence bestial, alienated from God, and "of the earth, earthy." Ps. 32: 9; 73: 22; 49: 20.

The chapter naturally divides itself into three parts—

I. The three kingdoms.

II. The fourth kingdom—its judgment and overthrow.

III. Christ's kingdom.

The great central thought, the culminating point in the vision, is the coming of Christ, the execution of judgment upon the last of the world-kingdoms, and the establishment of the kingdom of the saints.

I. The prophet sees four great beasts, representing a series of mighty monarchies, issuing from the sea. The sea is described as tossed with storms; an apt emblem of political troubles and agitation among the nations. Three of these powers are quickly passed over, their domination having merged into and become contracted in the fourth, which was to be of more lasting duration, and in some form to exist till Christ should come. Let us glance at (1) the first beast of the Babylonian empire, verse 4.

The lion—king of beasts—is the appropriate symbol of this, the king of empires; an empire lion-like in strength, ferocity, and courage. The beast is a monster; it has eagle's wings, indicative of the rapid and extensive conquests of Nebuchadnezzar and his predecessor sovereigns. These conquests were wide-spread and rapidly acquired. But Babylon ceased to be an aggressive power when Evil Merodach came to the throne. The cessation of conquest is represented by the plucking of the wings of the eagle. Under the successors of Nebuchadnezzar, the kingdom lost the lion-like element; represented in the figure by the rising up of the lion and its standing on its feet like a man and having a man's heart; i. e., having the weakness, gentleness, and pusillanimity of a man, instead of the strength, ferocity, and courage of a lion. The contrast is between man, as a man, and the fierce and untamed beast of the forest. The representation finds its fulfillment in the degenerate state of the empire after the death of Nebuchadnezzar.

(2.) The bear, or the Medo-Persian empire, verse 5.

The bear symbolizes the austere, cruel, and rapacious character of the Medes and Persians. Many of their kings, as Cambyses and Ochus, were notoriously cruel, and often involved their kindred and whole neighborhoods in destruction. The mad projects of Cambyses and Xerxes against the Ethiopians and Grecians resemble much the frequent ill-fated inroads of the bear. Its rising up with the ribs in its mouth is symbolical of a nation that had been some time at rest, but was now rising with the trophies of former conquests, and preparing itself for new victories. This was just previous to the conquest of Babylon, when the Persian nation was enjoying a season of profound peace. The three ribs are Media, Lydia, and Egypt, brought under the dominion of Cyrus. The command to "devour much flesh" is addressed to Cyrus, and is spoken with reference to Babylon, as if a mandate from heaven was urging the Persian monarch to its subjugation and overthrow.

(3.) The leopard, or the Macedonian empire, verse 6.

The four-headed leopard with the wings of a fowl is a fitting symbol of this empire. Let us consider the latter as embodied in its sovereign, Alexander. The leopard is distinguished for bloodthirstiness and cruelty; so was Alexander. The former is quick in its movements, and insidiously lies in wait for its prey, springing upon it unawares; thus was Alexander rapid in his conquests, and thus did he take his enemies by surprise. Such was the celerity of his movements, so rapid his marches, so wide-spread and numerous his victories, that wings were required to express this in the symbol, and accordingly the leopard appears with "four wings of a fowl"—two more than were seen on the less speedy, less daring Babylonish beast.

The four heads are the four divisions of Alexander's empire after his death, corresponding to the four generlas who were his heirs—Ptolemy, Cassander, Lysimachus, and Seleucus.

In the twelfth verse we have a final allusion to these beasts, where it is said that they had their dominion taken from them, though their lives were prolonged for a season and a time. The meaning is, that they were not made the subject of destroying judgments, as was the fourth beast. The nations referred to still had an existence, and were distinct and separate in their customs, institutions, and languages, but their power was taken away. The prophecy, therefore, may be looked upon as having its fulfillment at the present time. There may also be an intimation here that they will be spared for a season after the Lord shall come. Isa. 66: 19, 20; Isa. 60: 10.

II. The fourth beast; its judgment and overthrow. Verses 7–11.

The fourth beast was unlike all the rest, and unique in its kind. It is described as "dreadful, and terrible, and strong exceedingly." It had great iron teeth, etc. No better representation could have been found of the Roman government, its exceeding power, the terror inspired by its arms, and the manner in which it trampled down other nations and governments. On its head were ten horns; these, like the four heads of the preceding beast, were designed to represent a number of petty sovereignties, which were to arise out of this formidable Roman dynasty, and wield the power before wielded by it. A horn is an emblem of strength, and the idea seems to be apparent that the might of the fourth beast or kingdom is to be transferred to those ten powers or states. As we examine the history of the decline and fall of the Roman empire, we have no difficulty in finding the ten horns, viz., barbarian provinces of the dismembered empire. Sir Isaac Newton's classification is to me quite satisfactory.

1. The kingdom of the Vandals and Alans in Spain and Africa.
2. The kingdom of the Suevi in Spain.
3. " " " " Visigoths.
4. " " " " Alans in Gaul.
5. " " " " Burgundians.
6. " " " " Franks.
7. " " " " Britons.
8. " " " " Huns.
9. " " " " Lombards.
10. " " " " Ravenna.

The difficulty of attaining to perfect exactness is, that many of these powers arose and disappeared in great confusion. It is sufficient, as a fulfillment of the prophecy, that a number of contemporaneous kingdoms can be shown to have sprung up out of the old Roman dominion. Nor do I consider it an objection to this view that the Greek empire is omitted in the classification. I believe that there was never anything in the latter which possessed in a marked and striking degree the Roman character. The mind of the prophet was upon the seven-hilled city, the authority which emanated from it, and the dominion which was its intrinsic and peculiar possession.

That dominion did not properly extend beyond the Danube and the Rhine; for Rome cared little for the countries of eastern Europe, and her chief power and glory were centred about Italy. Nor do I believe that the legs of the image in chap. 2 necessarily represent the two divisions of the Roman empire—the eastern and the western. For the image to be complete must have been provided with two legs, and if the fact of the existence of two legs in the image proves the divided state of the empire, what is there in the representation that accords with the previous united state of the empire? If we accept this view, viz., that the divided state of the empire is taught in the two legs, then must half of the toes belong to the eastern empire, and we find ourselves entangled in the most inextricable confusion, in our attempts to interpret the prophecy, and are even driven to the most unsatisfactory, and I may well say most cheerless, conclusion of Tregelles, that the ten toes and ten horns have not yet made their appearance, and that Antichrist is yet to come. Adopting this view, all the unity and coherency of the two visions concerning the fourth monarchy (chaps. 2 and 7) will have disappeared. Adopting this view, I do not see in what respect it is right to say that the fourth monarchy now exists. But the fourth monarchy is to exist, and as a powerful organization, till "the thrones are cast down and the Ancient of Days shall sit." Therefore the former interpretation is doubtless the correct one.

(2.) Another interesting feature in the vision presents itself; i. e., "the springing up of the little horn"—v. 8. It came up after the other ten; i. e., in the dismembered state of the Roman empire, and in the midst of the others. Small at first, it soon attained to considerable size, and by it three of the others "were plucked up by the roots"; i. e., made to disappear. No better representation could have been given of the papal power, "antichrist" (see 1 John 2: 18), "mystery of iniquity" (2 Thess. 2: 7), "that wicked" "whom the Lord shall destroy with the brightness of his coming" (2 Thess. 2: 8). Although the "mystery of iniquity" had "begun to work" as early as the apostles' time (2 Thess. 2: 7), yet it was kept back ("let") by the pagan power, nor did it attain to its full development, till Rome was in the divided state before alluded to, and the Pope became possessed of temporal power.

This was about the year A. D. 752, when by virtue of the donation of Pepin of France, the Pope came into possession of the exarchate of Ravenna and the Pentapolis provinces bordering on the Adriatic, together with the Roman states, properly so called. About half a century later, Charlemagne bestowed on the Pope certain possessions which he had wrested from the Lombards. The three horns plucked up by the roots, then (three minor sovereignties occupying Roman ground), I understand to be the kingdom of Lombardy, the exarchate of Ravenna, and the dukedom of Rome. Although these are not all in the number of the ten before mentioned, yet they are parts of the old Roman empire, and are of equal importance with the ten before mentioned. I should not be disposed to look for exactness in the application of the number—ten. It is sufficient for the purpose if the dominion represented by the fourth beast can be shown to have merged into a number of petty sovereignties, ten, or more, and three among these became absorbed by a new power, coming up, not contemporaneous with but after the others, and which eventually became so great as to exercise "all the power of the first beast before him," and to cause "the earth and them that dwell therein to worship the first beast whose deadly wound was healed." Rev. 13: 12.

The power symbolized by the "little horn" was to be a blasphemous power—vers. 8, 11, 25. It was to be arrogant, proud, and domineering. All this has been fulfilled in the blasphemous pretensions of the church of Rome, and in the supremacy which it has in numerous instances claimed over the governments of this earth.

It was to be a persecuting power—vers. 21, 25. Witness the Inquisition, the persecutions against the Albigenses, Waldenses, followers of John Huss, the fires of Smithfield, the tortures of Goa, the massacres of St. Bartholomew's day, persecutions in the Low Countries, persecutions under Queen Mary, etc., etc.

It was to have the eyes of a man—verse 8. The church of Rome has been noted for its crafty policy, its far-reaching diplomacy, the shrewdness and sagacity with which it has managed its affairs. As "cunning as a Jesuit" has passed into proverb.

It would claim legislative power—verse 25. "Thinking to change times and laws." Rome has ever claimed such power. It has made the traditions of the church of equal authority with the laws of God. It has perverted the simplicity of gospel worship. It has set aside some of the commandments to suit its purposes,—e. g., the second and fourth. It has appointed saints' days without number, and has made those days "holy-days," whereas God has sanctified but one—the Sabbath. It has claimed absolute control over the whole matter of religion.

Let us consider in the next place the judgment—vers. 9–11, 26. There is much in this description that is highly figurative. I would not be disposed to take any part of that most sublime and poetical description in a literal sense. Some kind of a judgment is to be pronounced upon that great anti-christian power which has so long oppressed the world and afflicted the people of God. This judgment is to emanate from the Most High, for Christ is no where represented as acting as Judge in his own cause. The execution of this judgment is mentioned in verse 11;—the world, despotic power, is to be as thoroughly annihilated, as if, embodied in a terrible monster, it were to be "destroyed and given to the burning flame." Christ and his people are to participate in the administration of these judgments;—see v. 18 (the saints of the Most High shall take the kingdom), also Rev. 19: 11: 21. It is to be by destroying judgments, not by "gradual evangelization by grace"; it is by the sword that that system of abominations is to be overthrown. Rev. 13: 10. These are the important truths which I conceive are taught in verses 9–12, etc. The judgment and its execution are not to begin till the "time and times and dividing of a time" shall be completed. Ver. 25.

III. The coming of Christ and the establishment of his kingdom. Verses 13, 14, 18, 27. Ver. 13 is the first passage in the Bible where the coming of the Son of man in the clouds of heaven is mentioned. Glorious doctrine of Revelation! Grand central point in the history of human redemption! The creed of the philosopher, and the hope of the christian!

This is the only verse in the Old Testament where the phrase "Son of man" as applied to Christ is found. Our Savior adopts the appellation; it is in fact the favorite term by which he designates himself. The phrase expresses at the same time his humiliation and his exaltation,—friend, associate, Savior of lost humanity, Head of redeemed humanity! He is spoken of as "coming in the clouds of heaven." Our Savior, with his mind doubtless fixed on this passage, uses the same language with reference to his future personal coming. Matt. 24: 30; Matt. 26: 64; Mark 13: 26; 14: 62; Acts 1: 11. These passages are all to be taken in their literal sense, for if one is figurative, then are they all figurative, and we have no texts that teach Christ's future literal coming. Alas! for the perversity of mankind that they do not see this. We have no passages that speak of the coming of Christ in the clouds of heaven that are to be interpreted figuratively.

He is coming to set up his kingdom. This is another truth clearly brought out in the chapter: the kingdom of this world is to pass into the hands of Christ and the church. He is to reign on the throne of his father David, and of his kingdom there shall be no end. The world powers are to give place to the heavenly power; sin shall no more mar or desolate nature's fair domain, and the wilderness shall literally blossom as the rose!

"Rise, crowned with light, imperial Salem, rise,
Exalt thy towering head, and lift thine eyes;
See a lone race thy spacious courts adorn,
See future sons and daughters yet unborn,
Thy realm forever last, thy own Messiah reigns!"

Happy thought! if we are following the footsteps of Jesus, and living a life of faith and holiness, we are among the saints of the Most High to whom "the kingdom and dominion and greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven" shall be given. If we are not among the people of God, we shall either be swept away when those destroying judgments are poured out upon the world, or we shall fail to be partakers of the resurrection of the just. God forbid!

Review. A state of things is to exist as though a solemn judgment were to be pronounced upon that antichristian power symbolized by the fourth beast, in consequence of which judgment it is to be consigned to perdition. I say, as if, for no one will for a moment entertain the idea, that all of that vivid and impressive description in verses 9–15, is to be understood literally.

And yet, make all suitable allowance for Oriental hyperbolism; take away every sentence which is clearly and unmistakably figurative, and designed to make the subject more awfully impressive—such as verses 9–12; admitting the general truth there taught is that a judicial sentence was passed upon that system of corruption, and that its annihilation was thorough and final;—after all this, let it be granted that such lofty language is not without some definite meaning; that the grand, prophetic truth there embodied must find its fulfillment in something that is to take place soon after something else, and this something else is explained in verse 21st, in something, too, that is to take place in a comparatively short space of time, that very brevity finding its representation in the session of an ordinary court of justice, in something moreover that is to be ushered in by an event no less grand and sublime and awful than the coming of the Son of man in the clouds of heaven as mentioned in verse 13;—THAT, IN FACT, THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A LITERAL, VISIBLE, GLORIOUS, UNIVERSAL KINGDOM, IS THE CULMINATING POINT, THE MAGNIFICENT CENTRAL THOUGHT IN THIS VISION OF VISIONS! Can it be that all these superb prophetic descriptions which seem to contemplate events that crowd upon each other with amazing rapidity, as if some wide-spread and mighty domination were all at once to be put in check and called to an account and overthrow? Can it be, I repeat, that all these sublime predictions relate to events scattered over hundreds and perhaps thousands of years? for such a lapse of time would it require, evidently, to convert the world by the ordinary instrumentalities, were such a thing possible.

According to the best computations, the 1260 days must be nearly expired; the judgment spoken of, if its execution is only to be a moral one, ought to be already commenced; the saints ought to be beginning to take the kingdom. On the contrary, the true people of God are comparatively few; if we boast of what the gospel has done, Mahometans can boast of more for their Koran; the Papacy still rears its proud, insolent, dominating front every where around us (this article is written in Canada East), and there is reason to believe that the masses of even enlightened New England will sooner become Infidel than Christian. Can we expect for the whole world what has never yet been accomplished for a single city, or nation, or State, even under the most favorable circumstances,—complete and thorough evangelization?

What look we for but for the COMING OF THE SON OF MAN—so clearly set forth in this chapter that every unprejudiced mind must receive it as a truth there taught; in connection with which advent Antichrist is to be overthrown? No one without he had a theory to support would have been reduced to the extremity of asserting that the "one like to the Son of man," whom Daniel saw in his vision, is not coming at all, but only certain influences which are going slowly and silently but perseveringly to convert the world! Does it seem probable that the prophet would have used such phraseology if he designed simply to teach the latter doctrine? We are reminded of the havoc which certain modern theologians have made of Matt. 24: 29, 30, and similar passages.

Danville, C. E. * * *

☞ Afflictions are the same to the soul as the plough to the fallow ground, the pruning knife to the vine, and the furnace to the gold. As there is no prosperous state of life without its calamities, so there is no adversity without its benefits.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

WHAT IS MAN, WHAT IS SOUL, WHAT IS SPIRIT?

My attention has been called to several communications in the Express, and in the Union, in regard to the doctrines that have been taught in this city by a sect who call themselves "Advents." Some of these writers assert that they teach that the soul (man's soul) is his mind. This is a mistake, for they believe that every living thing is a soul. I do not believe that all who have listened to Elder Grant's preaching understood so. I certainly did not. I have listened with interest to their mode of expounding the Scriptures, and can say that any person with an unbiassed mind, and an honest purpose, cannot investigate this subject without being convinced that they (the Advents) make the Bible appear one harmonious chain, from Genesis to the Revelations. These great questions, "What is Man, what is soul, and what is Spirit?" cannot be fully answered in the small space that will be allotted to us here. Some theologians tell us that man is the immortal part, and that soul means man, and when we talk about man we mean that part that lives in the body, and that the body is nothing but the house for the man, or soul to live in. Now, how can we settle this matter? We think the Bible can give us some light on this subject; so what saith the book? We read in Gen. 1: 26, "And God said, let us make man in our image, after our likeness;" the next verse affirms that man was made in his (God's) own image and after his likeness; the 2d chapter, 7th verse, tells us how he made man, and what of. Please notice that it is man we are talking of. Now, God called this object that he had formed of the dust of the ground man—not a word about soul, as yet. Again, the Psalmist says that man eat angels' food—referring to the Jews, as they were in the wilderness. Did the soul, that immortal part that you call man, eat this manna?—or was it the body, the real man? Some of these writers say that this same soul or man that lives in the body will be the one that will be accountable in the day of judgment. In the beginning, we see what God called man. Now, we do not think he will call anything else man.

We read in Rev. 20, 13: "And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them; and they [the men] were judged every man according to their works." Not one word about soul here. Why is there not one word addressed to that immortal part that can exist independent of the body and which is accountable to God? You may say that I do not believe there is a soul; yes, I do. I believe that the soul exists in a tangible form, that it can be seen, felt, or that it is something that we may know about.

What is a soul? The Bible will tell us all about it. Gen. 2: 7. After God had made man, he breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul. This word soul is rendered from the Hebrew word nephesh. This same word nephesh is rendered creature, person, and life. It is also rendered in other ways, but this is sufficient for this purpose. You see here that it (nephesh) is applied to any creature or person that hath life. Now we will see what saith the word of God. In the first chapter, 20th verse, we find creature from the same word that soul is rendered from; in the thirtieth verse we read, "And to every beast of the field, and to every fowl of the air, and to everything that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is life (in the margin of the Bible it reads or living soul.) The next question: "What is the spirit?" This word is translated from the word ruach. This word also is translated many ways (about twenty), such as spirit, life, breath, air, wind, etc. Gen. ii. 7, "And breathed into his nostrils the breath of life." So we see here that breath caused him to live. In Eccl. 3: 19, we read that man hath no pre-eminence over the beast—that all have one breath—as one dieth so dieth the other. The 21st verse tells us that the man has a spirit, also the beast. Now, what conclusion can we draw from what has been said? It is this: man was made of the dust of the ground. After he was formed, God breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and then this man became a living soul. So we see it takes the life, or the spirit, or the breath, and the body to make the soul. God formed the body, or man after his own image, so that man is the only being of all God's creation, except angels, (that we know anything of) that is in the image of his Creator. He also gave him intellect, so that he might have dominion over every creeping thing. Taking these thoughts into consideration man is pre-eminently superior in every important way to the beast. In regard to immortality, what is it? We reply, eternal life. Christ said, I come to give my sheep eternal life. So we see that his sheep are the only ones that are to have eternal life in the world to come. And how are they to obtain this life? Paul says, by patience in well doing. And when are we to get it? He says, the trump shall sound and the dead in Christ shall rise. 1 Thess. 4: 16. Then the corruptible must put on incorruption, and the mortal must put on immortality. 1 Cor. 15: 53.

The apostle Paul, in reasoning upon this subject—how are the dead raised, and with what body do they come—says, "That which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or some other grain; but God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body." 1 Cor. 15: 35, 36, 37, 38. Paul takes this simple method to illustrate the subject of the resurrection. It is something that everybody is acquainted with. God's power cannot be limited in regard to the raising of the dead, no more than in raising grain.

My instruction has always led me to believe that the soul was immortal, but it was always a stumbling block to me. If we have immortality, why does the Apostle tell us to seek for it? But there are no obstacles in the way now. There is another thing I had forgotten to mention in its proper place. If the soul and spirit are one and the same thing, the soul can be located in man. Gen. 7. 22. "All in whose nostrils was the breath of life, of all that was in the dry land." Isa. 2. 22; "Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils." So if soul and spirit are the same thing, then the soul must be in the nostrils. We will leave the reader to read and judge for himself whether these are truths or not. J. E. W.

Rochester, N. Y.

For the World's Crisis.

SPECIAL LEADINGS OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

"So listen to the voice within,
That its last whisper may be heard;
For though it be a still small voice,
It speaks full many a word."

"But if ye be led by the Spirit, ye are not under the law."—Gal. 5: 18. "If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit."—Gal. 5: 25. Reader, are you led by the Holy Spirit in all you think, say, and do? Do you pray in the Spirit? pray as the Holy Spirit leads you? The prayers recorded in the Psalms and in other portions of the Bible, are dictated by the Holy Spirit. The prayers of Moses, Hezekiah, David and Solomon, were of the Holy Spirit's dictation.

Our prayers are not inspired in the same sense as the prayers of the holy men, who spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit; yet no one can pray acceptably, unless the Holy Spirit assists him. "Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities; for we know not what we should pray for as we ought; but the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us, with groanings which cannot be uttered." "And He that searcheth the hearts, knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because he maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God." Rom. 8: 26, 27.

As we cannot pray as we ought acceptably without the Holy Spirit's influence, neither can we preach as we ought without this Heavenly Guide, the Enlightener, Sanctifier, and Purifier. Preaching not influenced by the Holy One, is not the preaching demanded. God may bless his own word proceeding from unsanctified lips, as he has done more or less in all ages. But the preaching, to meet the wants of the age, the smiling approbation of Him who says, "Go preach my gospel," must be quick and powerful, sharper than any two-edged sword, proceed from holy hearts influenced by wisdom from on high.

Our witnessing for Jesus in meetings for religious worship, declaring what great things the Lord hath done for our souls, must proceed from the movings of the Holy Spirit, the source of light, life and power, else all our testimonies will be dry and formal, sparks of our own kindling. Our conversation at all times, to be profitable, edifying, administering grace to the hearers, must proceed from a heart influenced by the Infinite One, the Pure, the Holy, the ever Blessed.

Reader, do you, when about to open your lips, "lift your eyes to the hills, whence cometh your help," for wisdom to guide you in your conversation, in your family, in the social circle, around your table spread with heaven's bounties, morning, noon, and evening, at home and abroad, everywhere, that the words of your mouths and the meditations of your hearts may be acceptable to God, and a blessing to those who hear?

Were people generally thus influenced by the Holy Spirit, and would set a watch at the door of their lips, seldom if ever should we hear words to no profit, idle, insipid, commonplace chit-chat, foolish talking or jesting. "If a man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body."

Beloved, in your daily occupations, how is it? Are you led by the blessed Comforter and sure Guide? In all your business transactions in the market place. the mechanic's shop, behind the counter, at the clerk's desk, at the doctor's and lawyer's office, in buying and selling, in every thing pertaining to things secular or temporal, are you led by the Holy Spirit, the law and the testimony? In forming connections, matrimonial, or otherwise, are you governed or led entirely by this heavenly Dove, the Light and the Life? If not, where is safety, where is hope, salvation? Shipwreck is inevitable. How can two walk together except they agree? "A house divided against itself cannot stand." What communion can light have with darkness?

In selecting books and periodicals for your own and family reading, are you led by the Holy Spirit? If not, a curse is sure to follow, and not a blessing. In writing for the press, or epistles to your friends, is the Holy Spirit your guide? Is your pen made the pen of a ready writer by this holy leading? Again, in training your household, dear reader, is the Holy Spirit your leader? If so, your little ones will be all you can wish. "Olive plants around your table"—angels of mercy, sweet and lovely as heaven can make them; else wrath upon wrath!

"Christians, the task is left for you,
The voice of mercy calls 'Awake!'
Ten thousand ruined homes in woe,
Resound the words, 'Awake! awake!'"

Remarks. 1. We see from this subject why there is so little effectual, fervent, prevailing prayer, why there is so much prayer called prayer, that is not prayer.

"How many useless prayers we say,
Because our lives our prayers belie;
Because devotion dies away,
As on the air the echoes die."

2. We see why there is so much preaching that is superficial, soulless, powerless, without holy unction. Why there is so much of man's wisdom in sermonizing, and so little of Christ; so much of the dull, prosy reading, and mock gesticulation, and so little of the flint, fire and hammer of God's word, the thunderings and flashings of Sinai against all sin—sins popular and unpopular, sins of the flesh and of the spirit. Why there is so much of the man-fearing and time-serving, and so little of the crying aloud and sparing not. The Holy Spirit is not in it, the baptismal, pentecostal—the tongue of fire!

3. We perceive why so many of our publications are a curse instead of a blessing, full of froth and fiction, and so little of the solid, the pure, the soul-saving. Would editors advertise and puff novels, romances, silly nonsensical readings, the Godeys, Leslies, Harpers, Petersons, Ledgers, Mercurys, and foolish comicals, that are cursing the world, destroying the life and soul of gospel purity, if they were led by the Holy Spirit? Never. It is the work of Satan, not of the Holy Spirit's leadings.

4. Would writers for the religious press write as they do, with so little energy and soul-kindling, so little of the marrow and fatness of the gospel, and so much that is sickly, sentimental, common-place, if the Holy Spirit influenced them? "By their fruits ye shall know them."

5. In forming connections, firms for business transactions, and matrimonial alliances that lead to apostacy, the denying of the Lord Jesus, how is it? If the individuals thus uniting were solely under the blessed Holy Spirit, would they ever yield thus to Satan's temptations in these copartnerships?

6. If God's professed people were led by the Holy Spirit in their conversations, should we hear so many loose and unguarded expressions, so many trifling and nonsensical things flow from their lips; so much murmuring and complaining, bitter envyings and strife?" This wisdom surely is not from above, but from beneath, earthly, sensual and devilish.

7. If the Holy Spirit guided men in their secular business at all times, should we see so much cheating and defrauding—so many false weights and measures, so much vowing and paying not? Were the Holy Spirit to lead here, the Savior's golden rule would always be the rule. Every man would look not on his own things merely, but also on the things of others. Justice and judgment would sit on the throne of every heart.

8. We see why there is so much evil in the world, so many dry bones in the church, so many withered branches. "If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned." John 15: 6.

We see why so many children of pious parents, and of others, grow up in sin, conscience seared, harder than the nether mill stone, fuel for hell fire. Parents have not obeyed God in the leadings of the Holy Spirit, in training them "in the way they should go."

We see how the world is to be saved, made to blossom as the rose. We must pray in the Spirit, preach in the Spirit, exhort and testify in the Spirit, converse, read and write in the Spirit, train our households in the Spirit. The Holy Spirit must take the lead in our prayers, preaching, speaking, writing, singing, giving thanks—in all we think, say, or do, whether we eat, drink, or whatever our hands are engaged in, special reference must be had to the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

"Come, Holy Spirit, breathe that peace
Which flows from pardoned sin:
Then shall thy soul her conflict cease,
And find a heaven within."

11. We see, or ought to see, the only way to be led by the Spirit of God is to yield ourselves implicitly to his holy influences, have no wills of our own. The Holy Spirit's leadings is on one condition—entire consecration of all the powers of our being, spirit, soul, and body, to God's service.

12. Once more. No one is safe, or has a sure hope of heaven and of glory eternal, unless he is led by the Spirit, as indicated in this article. We are commanded to "be filled with the Spirit," and if we are filled with the Spirit, we shall surely be led by the Spirit "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." "If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." "This I say, then, walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh."—Gal. 5: 16. "If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit." "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness and goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law. And they that are Christ's have crucified the world with the affections and lusts." Gal. 5: 22–24.

13. Finally, we see the dangerous state of backsliders and apostates, the unregenerate and openly rebellious. Unconverted sinners are convicted by the Holy Spirit, meanwhile they resist his influences, saying, "Go thy way for this time," till given up to their own destruction. "Ye will not come unto me," says the Savior, "that ye may have life." The Holy Spirit being long resisted is grieved, takes his flight, and the wretched being is left to grope in darkness that can be felt, to treasure up "wrath against the day of wrath, and the revelation of the righteous judgment of God."—Rom. 2: 5.

Beware, sinner, beware how you slight these convictions; your soul's welfare hangs on a pivot. "Turn, turn, for why will you die?"

"Admit him ere his anger burn,
His feet, departed, ne'er return;
Admit him, or the hour's at hand
You'll at his door rejected stand."

D. F. Newton.

☞ The saints are sustained by the Spirit under their weaknesses; supported by him under their troubles; recovered by him when they are under spiritual decay; assisted by him in all their conflicts with their spiritual enemies, till they enter the kingdom of eternal rest.

☞ He who is cautious and prudent, is generally secure from many dangers to which others are exposed.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.
Boston, Wednesday, Feb. 26, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ ATTENTION! ATTENTION!!

Our subscribers in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, will find their credit of money received for the Crisis on the strip pasted on their paper, which shows the date to which their subscription pays, instead of the No., as formerly acknowledged. Others will be sent likewise as fast as we get each State so arranged. So you can look at the date on your paper, and see if it is changed after sending us money.

GENERAL CONFERENCE.

There will be a General Conference of believers in the speedy coming of the blessed Savior, held in Boston, at the Lowell Street Chapel, commencing the Tuesday before the annual State Fast (March 31st or April 7th.) Particulars hereafter.

DISCUSSION.

We are to have a discussion with a Spiritualist, in Stowe, Vt., to commence Tuesday evening, Feb. 25th, and continue some four or five evenings. The subject is as follows:—

"Resolved, That the phenomena of Spiritualism proceed from departed human spirits."

KEENE.

We spent Lord's day, Feb. 16th, in Keene, N. H., and found a good interest waking up in that place. Keene is one of the most pleasant inland towns in the country. A large number of wealthy men have settled there, and taken much pains to arrange pleasant homes. Drs. Walker and Darling are in earnest to get the truth before the people. They have made noble efforts, and they have not labored in vain. Spiritualism is spreading its blighting influence there, as in most other places; but many honest souls are inquiring for the "old paths."

BRO. THURMAN'S CHRONOLOGY.

Bro. B. Taylor wishes to know what we think of Bro. Thurman's chronology. We would say in few words, we think it the best and most reliable system now before the world. We do not indorse all his views of certain passages of Scripture; but in relation to his position on the 2300 days of Dan. 8: 14, the seventy weeks of Dan. 9: 24; sixty-nine weeks, sixty-two weeks, and one week of Dan. 9: 25–27, and his general chronology, showing the age of the world from creation, we can say without hesitation, we think there is no other system of chronology that will bear so close a criticism; and in which so few errors may be found. If he is not right, we confess that we have no clear light on the prophetic periods, and the age of the world.

We think his chronology of the world's history, as given by Bro. Cunningham, in the last Crisis, is the most reliable of any ever published.

Various efforts have been made to show errors in Bro. Thurman's chronology, relating to the periods named, but we think they have only served to show more clearly the strength of his position.

In relation to the shorter periods,—the 1260, 1290 and 1335 days—we cannot speak with the same degree of confidence. He may be right; but it has always seemed to us that the 1335 and 2300 days should end together. We do not now see any better place to begin the 1335 days and 1290, than the one taken by Bro. Thurman; but at present, we cannot venture full faith upon his view of the matter. Events, we think, will soon give us light on the subject. Those who are consecrated to the Lord, have nothing to fear. They may expect to understand in due season the time of the Lord's coming. When the true time is made known, we think the whole bride will understand it. We should now keep a close watch of events, and compare them carefully with the prophetic Scriptures. We must be very near the end of the present dispensation.

THE BLAME.

It is a mystery to many why all do not see the truth and embrace it as readily as the few who receive and rejoice in the light. Jesus answers the inquiry when he says: "This is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil."—John 3: 19. Light is within their reach, but they do not wish to receive its benefits. If any one will come to the honest decision, I will embrace the truth and obey it as fast as I see it; at the same time giving attention to the subject, so as to secure what information may be within his reach, he may expect to be guided into the light, and enjoy the approbation of the Most High. He need not worry about what he can't see nor comprehend, when he is willing and anxious to know the right way. Men are not condemned for the truth they have not seen; but for what they have seen and do see, and will not receive and obey.

We are much pleased with the following remark from Dr. Chalmers on this point. He says:—

"You are not to blame if you cannot find some valuable article, that you have lost in an apartment of the thickest darkness; but you are to blame if you might have opened the shutters, or lighted a candle, so as to have admitted enough of light for the discovery."

THE LORD'S PRAYER.

Mr. Frederick Gerhard, of New York, has just issued a beautiful engraving of the Lord's Prayer, twenty-four by thirty inches, on heavy white paper, with a tinted ground. It is an elegant ornament for the christian home. We think we have never seen one before so tastefully arranged. Those who wish for a copy can obtain it by addressing Frederick Gerhard, Box 4001, New York. Price $2.00, postage six cents for a single copy, and two cents more for each additional copy mailed in the same roll.

ABOUNDING WICKEDNESS.

It is truly alarming to see the rapid advance of the flood of wickedness that is sweeping through the world. Like the deluge of water in the days of Noah, it bids fair to cover all lands. Satan must be having his jubilee. Knowing his time is short, he is making his last great effort to drag men to ruin. While at the same time he has secured the aid of many, who are at ease in Zion, to cry "peace and safety," in order to keep the people quiet till snares are laid for their ruin.

The following from the New York correspondent of the Boston Journal dated Jan. 30th, 1868, shows the boldness and skill of some of Satan's friends in that Sodom-like city:—

CAR ROBBERIES AND HOW THEY ARE DONE.

While legitimate business is very dull, roguery is brisk. Car robbery is reduced to a system. Passengers on the midnight trains from the north or east are systematically assailed. The Albany trains, which get in about midnight, furnish a harvest for adroit rascals. Scarcely a night passes in which one or more persons are not robbed on the cars. It is believed that both the conductors and the drivers are in complicity with the robbers. The way it is done is this: A gentleman from the rural district arrives at Thirtieth street at midnight with a carpet bag in one hand and an umbrella in the other, he starts for the street cars to take him down town; both of his hands are occupied. As he steps on to the platform he finds a man filling the door; another steps up from the opposite side, and before he has time to think even, or to raise an alarm, the man in the door seizes him by the throat, the other relieves him of his watch, purse and jewelry, if he has any. The robbers escape. The whole thing occupies but an instant. The conductor is forward with the driver and relief is sought too late. Night after night this thing is repeated.

DISAPPEARANCE OF MEN AND WOMEN.

One of the alarming things of New York life is the numerous disappearance of women and men. The "personals" in the newspapers show this to some extent, but give a limited idea of the real facts. At the office of the Chief of Detectives a list is kept of the young and old who go out from home and are heard of no more. Some run away; some desert their families and are not tracked; many are enticed into gambling and other dens; many are murdered, and are buried in vaults or secret pits, or thrown overboard to float out to sea. The increasing number of these disappearances is very startling, and especially are they so in connection with the great number of persons out of employment. In the back part of Brooklyn highway robbery is becoming so common that farmers dare not go to market alone, and not only go in companies, but go armed. Travelling from Jerusalem to Jericho was never more perilous than is travelling from some parts of Long Island to this city.

YE SHALL NOT DIE.

We clipped the following paragraph from one of our exchanges. We think the writer was hardly aware of what he was saying. Truth will slip out occasionally, even from its enemies:—

"Ralph Waldo Emerson has been preaching on immortality, says the Transcript. So did the devil preach to Eve: 'Ye shall not surely die.'"

DEMONIACAL TEACHING.

The demons who are speaking and writing through their mediums deny that Jesus was ever raised from the deed. At the Banner of Light office, in Boston, the following question was put to the spirit speaking through their medium:—

Q.—Is not the resurrection of Jesus Christ as well authenticated, and by the same witnesses that confirm his death?

A.—No, absolutely no. We know by nature that if he ever lived he died. We know also by nature that if he ever died to the body, the body never was resurrected again."

AN IMPORTANT ADMISSION. In the Banner of Light, Feb. 22nd, 1868, we find the following question put to the spirit concerning their medium, and the spirit's answer:—

Q.—What is the difference, if any, between modern Spiritism and necromancy, sorcery, divination and witchcraft? Many Spiritualists maintain that there is none.

A.—And so do I—absolutely no difference. Necromancy is the science of talking with the dead. What is the science of modern Spiritualism aside from that? To learn of the dead. Necros, to learn; Manthano, the dead. The word comes from those two Greek words, and means simply to talk with the dead; nothing more. And all ancient arts of divination, when resolved to their primal source, when stripped of all their paraphernalia, if they were genuine at all, were genuine on the ground of talking with the dead. There is always a spurious article for every genuine one, and generally there is a greater amount of the spurious than the genuine; but there never was a counterfeit without a genuine."

We are glad to get this admission from the spirits that there is "no difference" "between modern Spiritualism and necromancy, sorcery, divination and witchcraft;" all of which are the works of demons, and most positively condemned in the Bible, as the works of lying, seducing spirits. Those who consult them for information must not expect any help from the Lord. When men prefer to go to lying spirits for light, they must expect to be led into darkness, and away from Christ and the way to life. We have now come to a period in the history of men, when a very large proportion of them have but little confidence in the Bible; hence are all ready to follow the "seducing spirits." This is one of the special signs of the last days.

For the World's Crisis.

NOTES, QUERIES AND OBJECTIONS.

BY REV. A. A. PHELPS.

14. Tear in pieces, break in pieces, grind to powder. "Now consider this, ye that forget God, lest I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver."—Ps. 50: 22. "The adversaries of the Lord shall be broken to pieces:"—1 Sam. 2: 10. "On whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder."—Matt. 21: 44. These texts are adduced to prove the literal extermination of the wicked. But is it supposable that the Almighty, like some hungry beast of prey, will literally "tear in pieces" the ungodly, or, like a falling avalanch, crush them into a shapeless mass? Do we not find these terms often used in a very different sense? It appears from the Scriptures that the righteous are always broken in pieces. Says Job, "How long will ye vex my soul, and break me in pieces with words?" The Psalmist declares: "They [the wicked] break in pieces thy people, O Lord, and afflict thine heritage." "To break one's bones" is a frequent expression for heavy affliction. If these terms are not to be applied literally to the righteous, why so apply them to the wicked?

REPLY BY THE EDITOR.

"These terms are" "applied literally to the righteous;" but the Scriptures do not say they shall perish eternally. When a sinner and a saint are burnt up, one is just as truly destroyed as the other. Both have perished alike. The great difference is this: The saint and the sinner die alike the first death, which is not the penalty for sin; with the exception of Adam's case; but the sinner is to die the "second death," which is eternal; and "the righteous" go "into life eternal." The righteous are destroyed at the first death as truly as the sinner; but they are all raised again; and after the judgment the wicked are punished with eternal death. They are to "be destroyed for ever." They "shall UTTERLY PERISH in their own corruption." 2 Pet. 2: 12.

DOUBLE THEORY.

What is the opinion of the Crisis on the book entitled "Coming Wonders," by Rev. Wm. Baxter, published at Lippincott & Co.'s, Philadelphia? Do you sustain its double theory of year-day and literal-day interpretations of the seals, trumpets, and vials, to begin seven years before the end, and between the two resurrections, and from the date that Napoleon, or the great apostate, makes a seven years covenant with the Jews? J. L.

Vineland, N. J.

We do not. Many able writers in Europe take the view of Mr. Baxter, and some in America, but we have not yet seen evidence sufficiently strong to cause us to adopt their views.

THE PAPAL ZOUAVES.

Of late there has been quite an effort made in different parts of the world to supply the Pope with troops sufficient to protect him from the hatred and rage of the Italians. The 19th inst. a body of these Zouaves left Montreal P. Q. A telegram from there says:—

There is intense excitement here over the departure of the Canadian Papal Zouaves for Rome. An immense audience was present at the special services held at Notre Dame cathedral last night, in connection with the event, and to-day over twenty thousand persons assembled at the station to see them off. Several persons were nearly crushed to death by the pressure of the crowd. The greatest excitement prevailed among the Roman Catholics.

THEOLOGY OF THE SPIRITS.

The following questions and answers were published in the Banner of Light, Nov. 30th, 1867. The "controlling spirit" was asked;—

Q. "Was there ever a period in the history of man when his soul was not an immortal entity?

A. The soul we believe to be co-existent with God, and therefore eternal. We believe it ever had an existence as a distinct entity, and we believe it will ever continue to have an existence, but that it will perpetually change its form of manifestations, so that while you recognize it by its external expressions, you will be apt to consider that it has changed states, it has lost its priority, but it is not so. It is the same yesterday, to-day and forever.

Q. If the Deity is an all-pervading uncreated intelligent essence, and human souls also uncreated intelligence, are not the two one and the same thing, or has God a separate and distinct personal existence?

A. Yes, God and the soul cannot be separated. We believe they are one and the same.

Satan seems extra anxious to make people hold on to a belief in the immortality of the soul, because his whole system of lies rests on that one doctrine which he taught Adam and Eve, when he said, "Ye shall not surely die." Thank the Lord, some are getting their eyes open to see that the Bible is all opposed to this great lie of the Devil.

THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE.

Apparently there is but little chance for the Ottoman empire to continue much longer; and the signs of its approaching end is one of the sure evidences that we are near the second coming of Christ. We do not see how any careful student of the prophecies of the Bible, and the history of the world, can doubt the inspiration of the Scriptures, or that our Lord is soon coming to set up his everlasting kingdom.

"Carleton," the foreign correspondent of the Boston Journal, is now in Turkey, and on Jan. 8th, 1868, dated a letter at Constantinople, in which he says:—

"Is it not singular that there should be an opinion prevalent among the Turks that the Empire is to end with the present Sultan? The signs of the times are in accordance with that belief. That the Empire is falling to pieces no one can doubt. It would go down in a day, were it not propped by outside powers. If England and France were to withdraw their support, it would go with a crash, like a ricketty old house in a whirlwind. . . .

The Turk tolerates all religions. You may believe what you like, worship as you please, provided you do not interfere with the Mussulman. What a contrast to Russia and Rome! The Pope drives the Protestant outside the walls of the city; if death comes, you can have no inscription upon your tomb-stone that you have hope of a better life; but the Turk will allow you to worship within a stone's throw of St. Sophia. The new English church in Pera is scarcely thirty feet distant from a Mosque. But Russia is as barbarous as Rome. She rules with a rod of iron."

ST. SOPHIA.

As St. Peter's at Rome is the grandest cathedral of the Romish church, so is St. Sophia the most esteemed by the Mussulmans. It stands on elevated land, and may be seen far up and down the Bosphorus. Obtaining a firman—that is, permission to visit it—we entered its portal, leaving our boots at the door. I shall give no figures of length, breadth or height, for statistics will convey no clear idea of its appearance; but you see a building with white walls, an immense central dome and a score or two of smaller domes, arranged as you might build a miniature mosk with a large bowl turned bottom up for the central dome, and teacups and saucers, also inverted, arranged around it. There are small windows high up the walls which admit light, and four tall minarets, like light houses, piercing the sky. It is the fast of Ramayan, which lasts one moon; nothing can be eaten or drank from sunrise till sunset. The follower of the Prophet may be ready to faint, or on the point of famishing, but to eat while the sun is above the horizon during Ramayan is to lose his soul, and he esteems his soul of far more value than do many residents of christian lands. It being Ramayan the place is especially holy, and we infidels had better take care lest we fan the dying embers of fanaticism by appearing inside the holy place.

We ascend first to the gallery and gaze upon the interior from a point high above the pavement. It is an immense area. The dome is supported by pillars of porphyry, serpentine and marble. Some of the pillars were brought from Ephesus, others from Egypt, others from Balbec. There are three thousand years of genius in those sculptured marbles. Incense to the gods—to Iris, Astarte, Jupiter and Diana—have been offered around those columns in heathen temples. Christians have kneeled at their base, and now before them hundreds of devotees are bumping their heads against the floor. So religion, in all ages, has had possession of the firmest convictions of man.

It would be a place for silent and profitable meditation upon man's moral nature, were it not for what is going on below us. There is a row of Mussulmen with their faces toward Mecca, bowing their heads. It is adoration and we will respect it; but just beyond them a fiery old Turk, flaming all over with red, is exhorting, doubling up his fists, shaking his head fiercely, shouting at the top of his voice, getting himself into a fever of excitement in his zeal. Farther out under the great dome are two groups, some exhorting, and others saying their prayers. Around the area are dervishes reading the Koran aloud. Aside from the few who are kneeling there is no more apparent reverence than there is in an American town meeting, when an exciting topic is up for discussion. The scene is very much like one I once witnessed in the "Coal hole" of the New York gold room, when gold was at 250 and on a rise. Boys are capering across the room having great glee upon the carpet, the entire area being spread with carpeting.

Descending from the gallery we pass the door and stand upon the floor. A half dozen American ladies and as many more gentlemen in Frank costume, in time of Ramayan, standing in the holy place, is sufficient to create a commotion. Old Turks halt in their prayers. Young Turks leave the exhorters and gather round us. Boys, who have not learned to be tolerant, who have heard from their mothers in the harem that an infidel is as bad as the devil, spit at us. If there were stones within reach, we should perhaps have them in our faces. A dervish leaps in front of us fierce and defiant. He has strong lungs and a loud voice. He pours out a torrent of words which we do not understand, but there is no mistaking his actions. We have got to get out—out—out! Suiting actions to words we are showed to the door, when a crowd of beggars hold out their hands for backscheesh.

STIRRING TIMES AT WASHINGTON.—Congress is very much aroused in relation to the conduct of the President; and there is a strong probability that he will be impeached at once.

CORRECTION.—Bro. Thomas Rines wishes to say that in the report of the fifth Me. Conf., held at Lewiston, he is put among the unordained ministers; whereas he was ordained by the F. W. Baptists, in 1849, at Augusta, Elders Dennis, Withey, and Samuel Hutchins, officiating.

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office.

PROPHETIC CHART.

This Chart is now ready for sale. It is a large, illustrative Chart of the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation, with the arrangement of chronology in harmony with W. C. Thurman, giving the chronology of the world, showing the 6000 years will terminate in 1875. Also giving the Jubilee arrangement, briefly showing that the great Jubilee will fall in A. D. 1868. It brings out conspicuously the great Image of Daniel 2nd chapter; also the Beasts of Daniel 7th and 8th, with the leopard beast and scarlet-colored beast of Rev. 13th and 17th chapters, with a description of the great red dragon of Rev. 12th chapter, all in large size, making it a grand thing in aiding preachers, or any one, in understanding prophecy. The size will be about six feet square, mounted, for the use of churches, or for traveling preachers.

Send in your orders immediately. Price, $10.00. For sale at this office.

THE POWERS OF THE AIR;

Or, Spiritualism: What it is, and what it is not. By one who has had much painful experience during a period of over four years.

For sale at this office. Price, cloth $1.25 by mail; paper $1.00.

"THE FIRST DAY SABBATH."

Those who wish a thorough work on the Sabbath question, will do well to get Bro. T. M. Preble's work, entitled, "The First Day Sabbath." For sale at this office. Price $1.50, postage 20 cents.

Stories for Young Pilgrims.—Vol. II. Another neat little volume of 200 pages, with 12 illustrations, has been issued by the Advent Christian Publication Society, and is for sale at this office for 80 cents postpaid. A good book for your Sunday School library. Send for one.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, on Wilbraham Camp-ground, Friday, August 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments	332.07
C. L. Burdick	1.00

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	113.55
C. L. Burdick	1.00

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$3903.50
D. Miner	5.00
Wm. Chamberlain	2.50
Geo. E. Hooper	1.00

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments	$222.70
C. L. Burdick	1.00
Wm. Chamberlain	2.50
E. E. Willey	1.00

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMPMEETING FUND.

Previous acknowledgments	$622.94
S. L. Saltonstall	5.00

For the World's Crisis.

RECEIPTS FOR MEMPHIS.

To Bro. Geo. T. Adams, Treasurer of the A. A. M. Society.

BRO. ADAMS:—I have received the following sums from friends to aid the poor of this Mission. You will please give credit for the same, and have the Board appropriate it to the poor of the Mission. I will see that it is faithfully done, and report to you duly.

A friend, $1.50. L. M. Chaffee, $5.00. A friend, $5.00. M. R. and L. R. Phetteplace, $20.00. Moses Smith, $20.00. Mrs. H. Lansing, $5.00. Mrs. A. Kingsley, 50 cts. H. Ingalls, $5.00. M. D. Wellcome, 50 cts.,—$62.50.

I do not pay out money, but buy meal and such things as the poor need, and then I know the gifts of friends will not be spent for tobacco or whiskey, or any useless or hurtful thing. We also provide food, soup, etc.

I wish publicly to thank those friends who have remembered the poor among the freedmen in this city and vicinity. I wish to add that the Mission Board have always done what they could for the poor, from the friends of the society. But the main object of their funds being to support missionaries and teachers, calls have been made on the benevolent to help the poor, and any monies sent to the Treasurer for this object will be so appropriated.

THANKS. THANKS.

The members of the Mission in Memphis join with the freedmen in giving thanks to their friends in the North for liberal contributions in money and clothing for the poor. Many barrels and boxes have been received, containing valuable articles for the relief of the needy.

I wish to say to the friends of the freedmen, that while the appeal from Memphis was promptly heeded, and the wants of the Mission supplied, St. Louis is not to be forgotten. In my late visit to St. Louis, I found they had been supplied only in part with clothing for the poor; and the attention of the friends of the freedmen is hereby called to the wants of this Mission. I will add, the Missions in St. Louis and Memphis are united in sympathy and work, and have no rival interest except to see which can do the most good to suffering humanity. We are one, and work together for the same great cause. Friends can send to either Mission they think best; but at present, as I said before, the Mission at St. Louis has need of garments, etc., for the poor.

Send to H. K. Flagg, 1136 No. Fifth St., St. Louis, Mo. And for Memphis Mission, send to Dr. I. I. Leslie, corner of 4th and Sufferan streets, North Memphis, Tenn.—☞ Send by freight—the Star Line. It will be safe, and they will get them in season, and it will save Express charges.

JOSHUA V. HIMES.

For the World's Crisis.

THE MEMPHIS MISSION.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—From the Advent church in Poultney, Vt., $11.50; also a barrel of valuable clothing by the sisters of the same church, through Mrs. J. B. Cook. From Srs. Hewitt and Thayer, and other dear friends at Seneca Falls, N. Y., $2.00, and two barrels of good clothing. Chas. Libbey, Whitefield, N. H., $3.00, and a barrel of good clothing from the friends there. "Try Company," (classes of Alice and Gertrude Sherman) Castleton, Vt., $2.00; G. P. Pearsons (for Sister Northrup), $5.00. Advent church in Worcester, Mass., $20.00, and two barrels of valuable clothing, through Lucy M. Stoddard. Christian church, Castleton, Vt. (through C. T. Sherman), $22.00. Two aged ladies, $2. Friends in Vershire, Vt., one barrel of clothing, and other good things, and $2.00. J. C. Newhouse, $5.00. Ladies in Mattapoisett, Mass. (through Mrs. J. E. Smith), $3.75, and a barrel of clothing. This barrel contained a package for old Sister Tenah, who gave all the money she had for the chapel. She is very thankful to the "nordern white folks." Friends in Springfield, Mass. (through Bro. and Sr. Ladd), $5.00, and a barrel of clothing. Wilson A. Thomas and Sylvia B. Thomas, Hinsdale, N. H., $4.00. Desire Thomas, $2.00; Abby M. S. Bement, $1.00, both of the above place. A. Hemenway, South Hope, Me., $2.00. Royal Polly, Massena, N. Y., $4.00. J. Hilliard, Ottawa, Illinois, $10.00. Elizabeth Treadwell, and others in No. Fairfield, Ohio, $4.00, and a barrel containing clothing, a large cheese, and many pounds of sausages. James Brown, Dansville, N. Y., $5.00. Emily L. Marsh, New Richmond, Pa., $5.00. Laura R. Gilman, Long Point, Ill., $5.35. Amanda Mosher, Pawling, N. Y., $2.00. From the church in Sumpter, Wis., through O. S. Knapp, one barrel of clothing, mostly new. Mrs. J. Danforth, Massena, N. Y., $2.00.

All the above barrels were filled with good articles, and many of them new. Some contained cloth which we shall have made here by the sisters in the church, for themselves, and others who need the garments. We all thank the givers, and pray that they may never be the poorer in this life, and rich in that which is to come. Should any who have sent money or goods not see them acknowledged, they will please write me in regard to the same.

Thus far, none of our church, Sabbath School, or congregation, have suffered much for the want of food or clothing; and we hope still to be able to provide for the destitute around us, until the winter is passed. The weather is still cold and dreary. This is the coldest winter ever known here. Our thanks daily go up to God for all we have received for these poor ones. Our meetings are good, and the Sabbath School is prospering. Pray for us.

I. I. LESLIE.

For the World's Crisis.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION.

RECEIPTS. Mrs. D. F. Green, Margretta, Wis., $2.00. One small box of books, from Illinois. Mrs. Davis, of Mott Haven, $1.00. George E. Round, of Coventry Centre, R. I., $1.50. A bundle of the Crisis, home-made cakes, and a few pieces of clothing. One barrel from Mary E. Judkin, of Byron, Me. Two barrels from Sr. E. A. Eggleston, Westfield, Mass. One barrel from Lynn, Mass., and $1.00 for freight. A half-barrel of hardware and cooking utensils from Southington, Conn. One box from Fisherville, N. H., and $2.00 in silver and pennies; no name. A small box of books, with 50c. to pay freight, from M. L. Smith, New Boston. $1.00 from Betsey Hill, Lynn, Mass., to pay freight. $1.00 from South Hadley Falls, Mass. One barrel from Portland, Me.

The Lord is still with us, and if those who sent the barrels of clothing were only here to see those who receive them, you would say the half has not been told you. Pen or paper can never give an idea; it must be seen to be understood. The tears of thankfulness tell the story.

This month we have had to pay, or help pay, a great many of our poor people's rent. They are all out of work, and the landlords will not wait an hour past the time for the money. So we have had to stand between the landlord and tenant, and nothing but paying down the rent will satisfy them. The Lord had sent us the means to pay our rent, and keep the table, and so I must do to the poor as the Lord does to me, bless his holy name, and trust him for our next month's rent; and I feel he will do it. I have had more expenses this month than usual. Have sent missionaries South, and have fed a larger number than usual, and a great deal of freight to pay, but the Lord has sent the means. Our expenses increase every week, but the Lord meets all demands, and I will still trust him, knowing he is rich and knows all our wants, and will supply them all. We take all to the Lord in prayer, and he hears and answers. Still pray for us.

We are clothing and feeding hundreds every week, and no doubt shall until the first of April; then they can get work and help themselves. O how we long for the country where there will be no poor, no suffering ones. Your sister in the highways and hedges,

ANNA E. SMITH.

No. 14 Laurens St., N. Y. City.

For the World's Crisis.

RUTLAND, VT.

Brethren and friends who are strangers in our city, and intend coming to our conference, on arrival will inquire for Stephen French,—store, on Merchant's Row, between Centre and West, east side, or Sylvester Henry, or Thomas George on Pine street, Committee on entertainment, who will assign them quarters during the meeting. Our chapel is situated on West St., N. W. corner of the Park, where our meetings are now in progress, with a prospect of a glorious good time. Bro. Jonas Wendell is with us, and we hope to see much fruit of our labor in the Lord. Hours of meeting during conference 10.30 A. M., 2 and 7 P. M.

G. W. STETSON.

For the World's Crisis.

"HIDDEN AND DIVINE LIFE."

BRO. GRANT:—I wish to call the attention of the readers of the Crisis to the tract recently published by Bro. Wm. Shepherd, of Newark, N. J., entitled the "Hidden or Divine Life." It treats upon a subject which I fear is too much overlooked by the Advent people as a body. Theory is all very good in its place; but theory alone will not save us. We must have an experimental knowledge of this hidden or inner life, imparted to us by the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, by faith, or all our head knowledge will be of no avail.

I have read the tract with great pleasure and profit, and would heartily recommend it to every Adventist in the land, believing it will greatly aid you in obtaining the experience necessary to insure your acceptance with God.

A. H. BROWN.

Rahway, N. J.

For the World's Crisis.

CONFERENCE IN MAINE.

The Maine North-west Quarterly Conference held its first session with the church at South Casco, Me., commencing Thursday evening, Jan. 2nd, and holding over the following Lord's day. Notwithstanding the weather was unfavorable, a goodly number were present. The brethren and sisters came from North Norway and other places, which contributed to make the meeting one of interest and profit. The ministering brethren present were—Jesse Gay, Jas. A. Libby, E. M. Haggett, I. C. Wellcome, L. F. Cole, J. Whitman. We found the brethren and friends in South Casco with hearts and doors open to receive us with welcome to their homes. Many thanks to them for this kindness. I pray God will give increase to the seed planted in Casco, that it may bring forth fruit to his glory.

J. WHITMAN, Sec.

For the World's Crisis.

REPORT OF MAINE QUAR. CONF., HELD AT FRIENDSHIP.

Thursday, Feb. 6th. Conference met at six P. M. Preaching by Bro. N. G. Reed, from Mark 16: 15.

Friday. An interesting prayer meeting at nine A. M.; after a short intermission, preaching by Bro. J. Carr, from Heb. 12: 1. Met at six P. M. Had a very interesting prayer meeting. The time filled up with prayer and exhortation. At half past seven, preaching by N. G. Reed, from 1 Cor. 15: 24.

Saturday. Prayer meeting at nine A. M. But few out, there being a snow storm, but a deep interest in the meeting, followed by preaching by J. Carr, from John 3: 5. After the service, met for business. President and Secretary being absent, chose Bro. J. Carr President pro tem, and Bro. H. S. Mitchell Secretary pro tem. Being the last quarter, chose officers for next year. For President, Jeremiah Partridge; for Secretary, S. K. Partridge. Voted, that the next quarterly meeting be held at the Trask meeting-house, Jefferson, in June; time left to the President.

Six P. M., prayer meeting, the house being full to overflowing; the whole time filled up; a deep interest manifested among the brethren. At half past seven, preaching by Bro. H. S. Mitchell, from Matt. 5: 48.

Sunday. Just before meeting time commenced snowing, which increased rapidly, yet at nine, the appointed hour, there was a respectable congregation to the love-feast; the time filled up, their being six prayers and between twenty and thirty exhortations. At half past ten, preaching by Bro. J. Somes, from 1 Thess. 5: 19, followed by preaching from N. G. Reed; text, "Behold I come as a thief." Immediately after service, administered the Lord's Supper. There was a general invitation given to all God's people. The day continued stormy, with snow and rain; yet in the evening there was a goodly number assembled, so that we had a profitable prayer meeting. At half past seven, preaching by Bro. J. Carr. After the close, the brethren and sisters concluded to continue the meeting. Committing all to Him who alone knows how to use the means to the most profit, we will strive to be in the way.

A. S. MITCHELL, Sec. pro tem.

For the World's Crisis.

WESTFIELD CONFERENCE.

The conference at Westfield, Mass., was a success. A good number were present, and better than all, the good Spirit of God was with us. The meetings have been continued through the present week. Much interest prevails here, and there have been several cases of hopeful conversions. Thank the good Lord. The meetings are to continue a while longer. Brn. Leverton, Teeple, Munger, and others, have been with us. Will give the conference report soon as opportunity is presented.

E. OWEN.

Westfield, Mass., Feb. 15th, 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

CONFERENCE AT WAKEFIELD.

Our quarterly conference at Wakefield, N. H., was truly a meeting of interest and profit; one where saints gained strength, wanderers returned home, and sinners came to Christ. Owing to the state of the roads, our meeting was not large at first; but during Saturday and Sunday a goodly number of the faithful came in from other towns, which added greatly to the interest of the meeting. God signally blessed his servants in preaching the word of life, and none of them, we think, felt a deeper interest in the welfare of all than our dear Bro. Spinney, who is a true friend to truth, and beloved by the saints in Wakefield.

The preaching brethren present were—J. Knowles, J. G. Smith, J. Spinney, D. F. Leavitt, D. M. Leavitt, and the writer. At the close of the P. M. service, Lord's day, the Lord's table was spread, and some seventy-five of the dear saints came around it in remembrance of their adorable Redeemer. They were sorrowful at the thought that it was their last here, but rejoiced that very soon it would be fulfilled anew in the eternal kingdom. At the close of the evening meeting the interest was such that Brn. Smith and D. F. Leavitt concluded to remain through the week. Bro. D. M. Leavitt also was with them the following Lord's day. The result was, that wanderers returned home, and some nine or ten of the dear youth started for the kingdom. To our heavenly Father be all the praise.

T. W. PIPER.

Correspondence.

From Bro. J. Kellaway.

DEAR BROTHER:—Though the broad Atlantic runs between us, yet do I feel one with you in the Lord Jesus. My heart is knit together in love with thine, and I bless my heavenly Father that I have those far away who love me with true heart fervently.

I know, I feel, I believe, my Redeemer to be nigh at hand. I believe a glorious morrow will expel night eternally from this land of the shadow of death; and the Spirit within me doth signify that my Beloved cometh, leaping on the mountains. No veil, no intervening object, shall then bide him from us; but we shall see in all his unclouded beauty Him whom our souls love—Jesus! Jesus!! Jesus!!! None but him will suit me; and when I see him as he is, I'll love him as I ought. I would hasten his coming by prayer, by yearning, and expectancy; and seek while I wander on earth "a little while" longer to bless some of those by whom I am surrounded, that I may have some pilgrim companions to meet Jesus with, when he comes to call me home. I exhort you, dear brother, to labor with redoubled vigor and earnestness for our one Master, no matter what the cost; for how blessed when the body is nearly worn out to exchange it for the new and shining robe of immortality. If some of the brethren would kindly write me, we would answer them through the "Crisis."

W. KELLAWAY.

26 St. Thomas St., Weymouth, England, Feb., 1868.

From Bro. Wm. Sweet.

BRO. GRANT:—I have been some six weeks in the vicinity of West Brome and Magog, holding a series of religious meetings, some of the time single handed in preaching the word, and some of the time aided by Bro. Marsh and Eld. J. Chapman, of Magog. He is a true yoke fellow in the gospel, and an energetic, devoted preacher. The meetings commenced in Brome, at the Jackson Sweet school-house, some six weeks since. We there had some excellent meetings, a number of wanderers returned home to God, and several sinners were professedly converted. Have immersed six happy converts since the work commenced; they all were strong in the Lord and not afraid to go into the cold water; and as they sank under the water their faces shone with the hope of the glory of God, and they rose with a shout of victory over death, the last enemy. The good seed is sown in many honest hearts that have not yet come out publicly, but will yet declare it to the world. The good work is still going on.

I then went to Stukely, twelve miles, and held a series of meetings four days. Some were reclaimed, and four were converted. By Eld. Chapman's request, I went to Magog, twenty miles, to hold a series of meetings in the school-house near him. The good spirit of revival had already commenced; the work went on; the meetings have been also held in the village, where a few have made a start. That is a hard place; truth is nearly rejected by the greater portion. One Catholic renounced his allegiance to the Pope and was immersed; others are shaken to the foundation of Popery. Some twenty-two in all have obeyed the command in the ordinance of baptism. A large number have lately come out eleven miles north-west of the village, who, I think, will go forward soon with Eld. Chapman in baptism.

The good work of reformation is going on more or less all the way for thirty-five miles from West Brome to Magog Lake. I have no doubt that at least in all one hundred have been converted to God's truth; the Macedonian cry is daily heard, "Come over and help us." I have commenced to preach the word in a school-district some thirteen miles west of Eld. Chapman's. I am trying to hold a series in this hard place. We hope to see good done yet. Several have made an effort to renew their covenant obligations to God, and with his saints. Some four have been hopefully converted to God in this place.

I attended two meetings with Elder C. P. Dow, from Stanbridge, at the Page school-house, some six miles south of the outlet of Magog Lake. The good work of revival is there in progress. Several came forward, and I think some have been converted and a number reclaimed. I have only rested some three evenings in nine weeks. I am willing to do all I can to advance the cause of God. Yours in hope, waiting, Wm. Sweet.

Russia, C. E., Jan. 16th, 1868.

From Bro. L. Mills.

Bro. Grant:—I would say to the friends of Jesus scattered about, that I still am a pilgrim and stranger, looking for the return of him who, when he went away said, "I will come again;" and feel a determination to continue a traveler in the narrow way until he comes whose right it is to reign.

There are a few in this place determined to conquer in Jesus' name, knowing that his grace is sufficient for them. These feel that they are of the "little flock" to whom Jesus says, "Fear not; . . . for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."

We were with the church in New Preston a few days the first of this month; found Bro. C. H. Sweet laboring with them; also met other pilgrims from abroad with whom we had associated and held sweet counsel in the past. We had some rich seasons together, for the Lord was with us by his Spirit, and the influence thereof is truly blessed, as all can testify who are led by it.

In one thing we were happily disappointed. We had heard that the church there were torn, divided, and in a distracted condition (which report was also in circlation to their hurt in other places;) but I could see no just reason for such a report. There were, it is true, differences of opinion, as in every church; but a spirit of christian charity and fellowship was manifested by the children, and a strong desire to live in peace and walk in newness of life seemed to be the main object of all who bore witness for Jesus. Feeling thankful for the privilege we had of meeting with them during this our warfare, we cherish the hope of meeting them again when our warfare is ended, and ended forever. Yours in hope, Lyman Mills.

Sharon, Ct., Feb. 11th.

From Bro. G. A. Streeter.

Bro. Grant:—I want to say a few words about our third quarterly conference, held in Westfield, Mass. It was proved that it is an institution that ought to be sustained, and I trust it will be. We had the good Spirit with us all the way through. Praise our God. There seemed to be but one opinion, and that was, to have all our deliberations, all our preaching, and exhorting, of that character that will lead men and women to repentance. Such was the course taken at W., knowing no name but Christian, believing that what Christ could fellowship we should; keeping the truth before the people in a clear, simple manner, and in so doing win some to the Savior. Our prayer-meetings were good and spirited. The love-feast Sunday morning occupied the forenoon. Ten came forward for prayers. In the P. M. we had the Supper. Some of other denominations ate with us. This was right. All that love God, and are his children, have a right to Father's table. I think the Brn. of W. will not be sorry they invited the conference there. O Brn., let us wake up to a united effort to save sinners, in the name of Jesus. The Master is soon coming. Are we doing all we can? Let us see to it. Forward, is the command. Thy Bro. in Christ, Geo. A. Streeter.

No. Dana, Feb. 14th, 1868.

From Bro. S. L. Walter.

Bro. Grant:—I came to this place on last Friday, and found Bro. Corkins, from Ottawa, Lassell Co., Ill. The Baptists had given him the use of their church, and he was proclaiming the soon coming of our Royal Majesty, and the establishing of the kingdom of God on this earth, never to be destroyed or left to others; and that man has not inherent immortality, but would get it at the resurrection, when death would be swallowed up in victory. He had a good hearing, and they kindly gave him the use of the house for four nights. They have baptized nineteen, and there are more to be baptized, as I have been informed. The church here is alive, and enjoying much of the presence of their Lord. Yours in hope of life when the Life-giver comes.

Samuel L. Walter.

Carlinsville, Feb. 10th, 1868.

Bro. Wm. D. Cook, Vineland, N. J., Feb. 8d, writes:—"I have always enjoyed the reading of the Crisis, and my spirit answers to yours in approbation of the tone and manner in which it is conducted. May the Master sustain you in your arduous and responsible work.

Since the partial restoration of my health, I have been doing what I could, through the establishment of a free Bible class, public discussions with the Spiritualists, and occasional lectures, to extend the knowledge and love of the truth; and I am encouraged to believe that quite a number have been emancipated from the bondage of infidelity and sectarianism, and others prevented from falling into that snare of the devil—Spiritualism, which here is disguised under the name of "Friends of Progress."

Vineland is a very stronghold of sectarianism and Spiritualism; but I do not despair of seeing the way open before a great while to invite Bro. Grant to come down and "speak" in this "valley of dry bones." Except my efforts, I have never heard of preaching or lectures in the place on the doctrines connected with the second advent; and yet it is said that we have a population of ten thousand, nearly all church and lecture-going people, and sifted in here from almost all parts of the world within six years.

The sale of intoxicating beverages is prohibited by law; but the hankering of a morbid appetite for excitement has substituted church fairs, festivals, theatricals, balls, and every conceivable device of the adversary, to keep off serious thought. At present we have the veteran phrenologist, O. S. Fowler, in the interest of the Spiritualists, demonstrating phrenologically the existence of a God, the immortality of the soul, and denying Christ."

From Bro. A. N. Seymour.

Bro. Grant:—We have just closed a meeting in Montpelier, Ohio, of some twelve days' continuance, where we were opposed by Mr. Shurtliff, a Spiritualist preacher, nearly the whole time, but the Lord gave us the victory, and many have already embraced the faith, and are rejoicing in hope of a glorious immortality beyond this vale of tears; and many more are investigating. This dear people are wide awake to know the truth, and do easily discriminate between truth and error, and between those who serve God in spirit and in truth, and those who do not. May the Lord guide them all into the faith and hope of the gospel, and into a full preparation to meet the King of glory, as he shall descend from heaven with all the holy angels. Two put on Christ in baptism, and we expect more soon. Your brother in hope, A. N. Seymour.

Reading, Mich., Feb. 12th, '68.

From Bro. J. Wendell.

Bro. Grant:—I commenced meetings here the last Sunday in December, and have continued until now. They have had a great deal of preaching here for years past, so I had the gleaning to do. The result so far has been glorious; some thirty have been converted to God. Yesterday we repaired to the river, and Bro. Stevens baptized thirteen happy souls; nearly as many more will go forward the next opportunity, which will probably be next Lord's day. We can see no place to close our series of meetings, as we have new ones forward every evening. Bro. Stetson has been with us some, and Bro. Cook spent two evenings with us.

Sandy Hill, Feb. 17. J. Wendell.

Eld. L. Kelly, Port Colder, N. J., writes: "Since I declared myself a disbeliever in eternal suffering, the Free Methodists rejected me wholly. I am now preaching more than ever. I have withdrawn from the F. Methodists. I can not hold to any church which preaches such doctrines. I am now alone. My heart is with the Advent people. I know they are on the side of truth. What shall I do? I am here alone in a dead, formal churchism."

Bro. O. Sherwin, Mendota, Ill., Jan. 15th, writes:—"I have determined to make a stand for Jesus here, and see the truth proclaimed to this wicked city. It is an important place, being the junction of the Illinois Central and C. B. and Q. R. R. I will have a place for the brethren to call very soon, if the Lord will. I shall devote every hour and every dollar to the blessed Jesus. I thing we shall have meetings here soon. Brn. F. Bun, D. S. Clark, and others, will help in the name of our Master. Dear brethren and sisters, pray for me, write me, and call when you can. Thy kingdom come."

Bro. A. Cressy, South Sutton, Mass., Jan. 15th, writes:—"The colored brother you baptized when you were here last fall, is still trying to live; and I am happy to say that he appears to have become a new creature indeed. We have been blessed with quite a reformation since you preached here. A dozen or more, we trust, have been truly converted to God, have become lovers of his word, turned from idols, and are now waiting for his Son from heaven. Please pray for us, that we may endure to the end, and be saved in the kingdom."

Married.

In Higginsville, N. Y., Jan. 25th, at the bride's residence, by Elder M. R. Miles, John H. Belcher and Miss Amanda Decker, both of Higginsville.

Obituaries.

Belcher. Died in Wrentham, Mass., Jan. 26th, Bro. Abner Belcher, aged seventy-three years.

Bro. Belcher for many years was a member of the Congregational church in that town; and for his very exemplary and devoted life he was an honor to himself and to the church. He was one of if not the first in that town who came out decidedly and boldly on the side of the oppressed in the great Anti-slavery movement. In this cause, he sympathized and co-operated with Mr. Garrison until the end was secured.

Bro. Belcher was in faith and practice what has been termed a non-resistant. For some thirty years he took no part in political strife, while he always advocated the right and opposed the wrong, both in church and state. His whole being was on the side of sound moral principle, in opposition to policy and conservatism. He was scripturally radical. He had no sentiment to conceal to accomplish an end. He was open-hearted, outspoken, so that every one knew where to find him. Still he was charitable, kind-hearted, and forgiving.

In the early part of the Second Advent movement, Bro. Belcher became interested in and heartily embraced the Bible doctrine of that subject. The coming of Christ, to raise the dead that shall have died in the faith, and to clothe the whole church with immortality, to set up his kingdom and to reign forever on the earth, and finally to destroy every thing that is opposed to God and the right, composed a subject in which his soul magnified the Lord. Probably but few men ever lived against whom so little could be said. The writer, who had been intimately acquainted with him for about thirty-five years, does not remember of hearing any thing more objectionable said of him, than that every body spoke well of him, referring to the words of the Savior, "Wo unto you when all men speak well of you." If our brother had enemies, he exemplified that Scripture, "When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh his enemies to be at peace with him."

Our brother died as he lived, calm and resigned, trusting in the Lord. He has left three daughters and one son. May the mantle of his religion rest on them and their children, and may they all greet him in the kingdom of our Lord and Savior.

By the special request of our brother and family, the funeral was attended by the writer in the Baptist church, with a large number to hear, from the passage in 1 Thess. 4: 18,—"Wherefore comfort one another with these words."

J. S. White.

Hawkins. Died in Dover, N. H., Feb. 2d, 1868, after a long and painful sickness, which he patiently bore with christian fortitude and resignation, Benjamin S. Hawkins, eldest son of Bro. Smith and Sister Sarah Hawkins, aged nineteen years and six months.

He was a young man of much promise; and early in life manifested a great regard for the wishes and welfare of his parents, and they more than realized their highest anticipation in their dutiful son, who was always willing and ready to help them in every time of need; and by his becoming deportment and habits, virtue and industry, he secured the confidence and esteem of many sincere friends.

When first taken sick, he had a presentiment that he should not survive his sickness, and sought the Savior in earnest prayer, and found pardon and peace, and desired to live only to serve God and do good, and see the Savior come in the clouds of heaven: but all resigned, he could say like his Master, "Not my will but thine O God be done," and thus peacefully fell asleep in Jesus, without ever uttering a murmuring word. His parents mourn their loss, but not as those without hope, believing they shall soon meet their dear son in the kingdom of eternal rest.

Funeral services were attended on the 5th inst., in the presence of a large and solemn audience, who listened with deep interest to a solemn and appropriate discourse by Bro. H. M. Bryant, from 2 Tim. 4: 8. By request, J. M. Hackett.

Hackett. Died in Dover, N. H., Jan. 27th, 1868, of consumption, Hazen L., son of Bro. and Sr. J. M. Hackett, aged twenty-one years and nine months.

Bro. H. left, with a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn his loss, the blessed assurance that he will have part in the first resurrection. The funeral services were conducted by the writer, and words of comfort spoken from Job 14: 14.

B. S. Emery.

Morse. Died in Jamestown, N. Y., Feb. 5th, 1868, Sister Hannah Morse, in the eighty-first year of her age.

She expected but a short sleep in the grave, and her hope was to receive immortality when Jesus comes. Louis Van Vleck.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

London, Feb. 19. Dispatches and letters from Lisbon represent that the political agitation in Portugal continues. The new Government is very unpopular, and tumults are reported in various parts of the country.

Private advices from Brazil state that a general conscription has been ordered by the Government to provide reinforcements for the army on the Rio Parana.

Berlin, Feb. 19. In the Prussian House of Deputies yesterday the Government was asked to explain why the United States Consul at Jerusalem was allowed to procure the arrest of one Meakus, a Jewish subject of Prussia, with whose ward, a young girl, the American Consul sought to elope; and why, after her guardian had been thrown into prison to facilitate the attempt, the Prussian Consul at Jerusalem refused his demand as a subject of the King of Prussia for protection. The case creates much feeling among the Jews, who regarded it as involving rights and principles similar to those violated in the Mortara affair at Rome, and represent that the outrage is an insult to Prussia. Baron Von Der Heydt, the Finance Minister, replied that the German Consul at Jerusalem was a Federal, not a Prussian representative, and that, consequently, the application for information must be made to the Chancellor of the North German Confederation.

Madrid, Feb. 18. Dispatches just received in this city from the Provinces convey the intelligence that the leaders of the Carlist party have effected a revolution against the authority of Queen Isabella in the North, and that their adherents have taken arms in considerable numbers in Navarre.

Vienna, Feb. 19. The members of the Royal family of Hanover and a number of their adherents now in this city met at a private banquet this week, at which King George was present. It is reported that in a speech on the occasion he assured the company that he would soon return home and resume his seat on the throne of Hanover in spite of Prussia.

Montreal, Feb. 19. There is intense excitement here over the departure of the Canadian Papal Zouaves for Rome. An immense audience was present at the special services held at Notre Dame cathedral last night, in connection with the event, and to-day over twenty thousand persons assembled at the station to see them off. Several persons were nearly crushed to death by the pressure of the crowd. The greatest excitement prevailed among the Roman Catholics.

Paris, Feb. 21. The Patrie of to-day, speaking under reserve, says it has reason to believe that the Emperor of Russia is massing troops near the Danube.

La France, in its issue of this morning, asserts that Chevalier de Nigra, the Italian Minister to Paris, has pledged Italy to the faithful observance of the September convention as it stands, and also to the payment of the principal and interest of her share of the old debts of the States of the Church which were annexed to that kingdom.

DOMESTIC.

New York, Feb. 20. A Washington special says the House Committee of claims have agreed to report a bill making an award of the $100,000 reward offered for the capture of Jefferson Davis.

Havana, Feb. 19. Advices from Nassau to the 13th have been received. A meeting of blacks had been held there; the speakers openly criticised the Government for its inability to extricate the colony from the difficulties caused by lavish expenditures, extravagant measures etc. The whites are thoroughly loyal to the British Crown, but are uneasy in regard to the disposition of the negroes.

Washington, Feb. 18. Dates from Crete to January 20 represent the prospects of the Turks there as more gloomy than ever. They have been defeated in several engagements of late, with severe losses. The Mussulman population are becoming more and more discontented, and the troops have shown such a mutinous disposition that they were obliged, on one occasion, to be led back to headquarters. Sawas Pasha has utterly failed of getting even into the outer verge of his pachalic Sphakia, having twice been driven back with his troops in disorderly flight.

The Sultan's Grand Vizier's mission to Crete is a failure, and the island is now in a more successful state of revolution than ever. Arms and provisions continue to be sent into Crete from all quarters for the relief of Cretan warriors. The women and children continue to flee from the island to Greece. On the 24th of January the Russian corvette landed 1400 women and children from Crete at Pireaus. The total number of Cretan non-combatants in Greece at present is estimated at 63,000.

The Provisional Government has again appealed to the Christian Powers to send ships for the conveyance of Cretan families to Greece, and it has also protested against the cruelty perpetrated by the Sultan's mercenaries.

A Paris correspondent says: "It is reported that Russia is in treaty with the Government of the United States for another purchase of vessels of war, and a Russian agent is said to be now in New York to ascertain what facilities there may be for collecting in America a fleet of transports."

Meriden, Conn., Feb. 20. Mr. Stephen Ives, proprietor of the Meriden House, in whose hotel Mr. Frederick Douglass was called a "nigger," and from whose public table Mr. Douglass was ejected, this morning brutally assaulted Capt. Riggs, editor of the Meriden Record, for commenting upon the affair. Much excitement prevails here, and popular indignation is aroused against Ives, who has been arrested and held to answer both in civil and criminal actions.

Items.

☞ On the 29th December a most singular phenomenon was witnessed at Copiapo, which a journal of that place describes as follows:

"At about 5 P. M., owing to the light clouds which covered the sky like a broad curtain of gauze, there appeared two rainbows surrounding the sun. Towards the west was a third rainbow, in a direction opposite to the other two. Soon after, the orb of day was reflected with such intensity from the northern and southern extremities of the central bow, as almost to induce the belief that there were three suns placed in a straight line and equidistant from one another. The brightness of the apparent suns was so intense as to dazzle the eyes of the beholders. Alternately losing and recovering their brightness, the two apparent suns remained visible until sunset, by which time the rainbow had disappeared."

☞ Workmen are engaged this week in putting over cables for the new suspension bridge at Niagara Falls. The ice-bridge, instead of being a formidable rival, is a most valuable aid in the work. A path was smoothed over the ice last week, and on Monday last the wire cable was thrown across from the Canada side.

☞ A belief is prevalent among the Turks that the Empire is to end with the present Sultan. And the Chinamen have a prophecy in circulation that Tartar rule is to end in the Celestial Empire with the present occupant of the throne.

Fifty-five persons lost their lives by "the land-slide at Vesuvius," as it is called. "See Naples, and die!" was something more than a figurative expression in their case.

☞ Prince Napoleon has received permission to travel, from his gracious cousin. This is interpreted to mean that the two Napoleons—the genuine one and the Dutch article—cannot agree in regard to political matters.

☞ When the wind went down after the late storm in England nineteen vessels attempted to go to sea from a Welsh river. Each vessel had its pilot; but when they came to the bar, after every great wave that rolled in, they thumped upon the sands, were whirled about, rolled over and helplessly wrecked. Of all the pilots and crews, only about one-third escaped.

☞ There were 926,000 paupers, in round numbers, in receipt of relief on the 1st of July last in all England and Wales, or 44,000 more than at the same time in 1866.

☞ At St. Johnsbury, Vt., since the first of December there have been thirty-nine days in which the mercury was below zero; and in nine of the first twelve days of February the mercury went below zero. On Saturday morning, the 8th, it was thirty-seven degrees below.

☞ A "house on runners" passed through Grand Rapids, Mich., a few days since, in which was a stove, a table, a bed, and other necessary articles of furniture, the house affording accommodations to a family who were bound for a point one hundred miles north in the pine woods.

☞ Queen Victoria is an indefatigable knitter. And so all the English ladies are learning to make their lord's stockings and their own.

☞ During the past year, seven men and one woman were hanged in Pennsylvania for murder.

☞ Kentucky is making maple sugar plentifully.

Notices.

Vermont State and Rutland Quarterly Conference.

Whereas, we having been frequently importuned, by letters from different parts of the State, and also personally solicited by numerous brethren, who are "looking for that blessed hope, and love the appearing of Jesus," to set a time, and call a meeting in Rutland, as the most central and accessible place, for the purpose of organizing a State Conference, to promote the cause of our Master, the spread of the gospel "in the regions beyond," to obtain a more perfect system of mutual co-operation in this good work; to have a better knowledge of each other, and thereby increase the bond of peace, the oneness of the Spirit, and our fraternal regard for each other in the love of Jesus; and whereas, the S. A. Church in Rutland having set apart the entire present month for a special effort; and whereas our own quarterly conference comes on the 29th of February and 1st of March, therefore,

Notice is hereby given that February 27th, 28th and 29th are appointed for said time and opportunity of meeting to organize, as may then be deemed expedient. Our chapel, as also our hearts and homes, will be open to receive all that may desire to come, but beyond that we shall not be able to do or go. We would be pleased to have as many as can remain over Sunday, and participate in the exercises, and partake of the Lord's Supper with us. Sister adjacent churches are cordially invited. Christian character the only test of fellowship. By request,

G. W. Stetson, Pastor.

N. B. Those churches which believe in and are looking for the personal appearing of the Lord Jesus Christ, will please appoint delegates and furnish credentials. Preaching brethren are such ex officio. G. W. S.

Protracted Meeting at New Preston, Ct.

If the Lord will, there will be a meeting held in Union Hall, New Preston, Ct., commencing Tuesday evening, Feb. 25th, and hold over the following Sunday, or as long as the Lord may direct.

Come, brethren and sisters, from every direction, as early in the week as you can, full of love to God and man, and faith toward God, prepared to claim his promise, and to labor for the Lord. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Bro. C. H. Sweet and others are expected to preach the word. May the Lord attend it with his Spirit and with power. In behalf of the saints,

H. J. Baldwin.

Conference.

There will be a conference held, the Lord willing, at East Sumner, Me., commencing Thursday evening, Feb. 27th, to continue over the following Sunday. Friends coming to the meeting, will call on Thos. Ranney and Eleazer Ellis. We hope many of the brethren and sisters will come in to help us. J. A. Libby.

Northern Ohio Conference.

There will be a Conference of the churches in Northern Ohio, at Norwalk, to commence on Saturday, at 10½ o'clock, Feb. 29th, and continue over the Sabbath. Sister churches are requested to send as large delegations as possible, and all who are interested in the great truth of the speedy coming of Christ, and kindred doctrines advocated by us as a people, are affectionately invited to attend.

In behalf of the Advent Christian Church of Norwalk, O. P. Alling, Secretary.

Notice.

I will hold a series of meetings at Canaan, N. H., commencing evening, March 18th, and continue through the week, and over the following Sabbath, if the brethren wish to have me do so. Will Bro. J. B. Eastman let me know soon by letter. Direct to South Royalton, Vt. J. A. Cleaveland.

Conference.

There will be a conference holden at Round Pond, Maine, in the Union Church, commencing Thursday, Feb. 27th, to continue over the following Sabbath. Brethren and sisters, with ministers, are invited. S. Harding.

Conference.

The Eastern Conference will be held at Frankfort Mills, Me., commencing at six o'clock P. M., Thursday, March 5th, to continue over the following Sabbath. Brethren from abroad are invited to attend and labor for the Lord.

L. French, Clerk of Conference.

Minnesota Quarterly Meeting.

The third quarterly meeting of the Minnesota conference will be held, Providence permitting, at Ottawa, Friday, March 6th, 1868, and continue over the following Sunday.

Thos. K. Allen, Secretary.

Please Observe This!

Any one having borrowed books of Bro. C. B. Turner, will please return them to his wife. There are many books missing; Murdock's Translation of the Syriac, for one. Who has it? Please direct that and all others to Mrs. C. B. Turner, No. 1 Baldwin Street, Syracuse, N. Y.

A. P. Moore.

Notice.

Advent meetings are held every Sunday in Jersey City, on Newark Avenue, corner of Warren Street. Inquire for A. D. Flagg, 329 South Fifth Street.

Notice.

Preaching brethren are requested to make no appointments for Guilford until they find out whether they conflict with others.

S. Robinson, Cor. Sec.

Maine Mission Tent Debt.

Received since last report, of Eld. I. Damman $10; a friend, $5; pledge, $2. I. C. Wellcome.

Die Reich-Posaune.—(Trumpet of the Kingdom.)

The "Reichs-Posaune" and "Signs of Times" (XII. Volume) is a semi-monthly, religious, political and social paper. Its banner is the word of prophecy; its law the royal law of Scripture; its foundation the everlasting gospel; its tendency the building up of the spiritual temple, and the gathering of the people of God; and its price one dollar for one year. Published at Schenectady, N. Y., by W. F. Schwilk, Pastor and Editor.

Change of Address.

Our business connection with "Austin, Hurd & Co., and "F. Wilson Hurd & Co.," having been dissolved, our friends will hereafter please address us,—Box 382 Dansville, Livingston Co., N. Y., and not "Our Home," as formerly.

F. Wilson Hurd, M. D.
Mrs. Hannah J. Hurd.

Notice.

I will send to any address, free of cost, tracts on the coming of the Lord, and other subjects.
Thomas J. Whitecar, No. 814 Swanson Street, Philadelphia, Penn.

Maine Second Advent Tract Society.

Wm. H. Mitchell, R. R. York, S. K. Partridge, } Executive Board.
I. C. Wellcome, Treasurer and Business Agent.

It is desired that all orders for tracts and books for distribution by this Society be addressed to the Agent I. C. Wellcome, Yarmouth, Me., who will supply them as fast as the means are furnished.

All our ministers will receive subscriptions for the Tract Fund, and they purpose to raise $200, or more, for free distribution in Maine for 1867.

I. C. Wellcome, Agent.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION,
No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.
Anna E. Smith, Superintendent and Manager.
MEETINGS.
Sunday School 10 o'clock every Sunday.
Love Feast 3 o'clock every Sunday.
Preaching 7 o'clock Sunday evenings.
Meetings every evening during the week.

Elder Thomas Smith, No. 7 Fourth Street, Bangor, Maine, keeps for sale English Bibles and Testaments, American Bible Union Testaments, H. F. Hill's "Saint's Inheritance, or World to Come," with the general variety of Tracts issued by the A. C. P. Society, Boston, Mass.

Advent meetings are held every Sunday in North Adams, Mass., on Center Street, corner of Lincoln Street. Preaching brethren are invited to give us a call. Inquire for Isaac Blanchard, Jr., Eagle Street.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as Tuesday Morning, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston, corner of Causeway and Lowell Streets. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.
L. Boutell .... Sunday, March 1st
M. Batchelor .... Sunday, March 8th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)
J. S. White .... Sunday, March 1st

Waterbury Centre, Vt., Advent Church, Sun. March 1st
Westerly, R. I., (Armory Hall), Tuesday evening, March 3d, every evening through the week, and over the following Sabbath. Miles Grant.

Keene, N. H. .... } Sunday, March 1st
Abington, Ct .... }
H. F. Carpenter.
A. M. Higgins.

Biddeford, Me.
H. L. Hastings .... Friday evening, Feb. 28th and over Sunday, March 1st.
B. S. Emery .... Sunday, March 8th
T. E. Lang, Jr. .... Sunday, March 15th through the week, and over Sunday, the 22d.
Wm. H. Mitchel .... Sunday, April 5th
B. S. Emery .... Sunday, April 12th

Richmond, Me., (Clark's Hall.)
Augustus Durfee .... Sunday, March 29th

Portland, Me. .... Sunday, March 1st
Lewiston .... Sunday, March 8th
C. Goud.

Sugar Hill, N. H. .... Sunday, March 8th
N. Wheeler.

Pascoag, R. I. .... Sunday, March 8th and longer if thought best. B. Roberts.

West Abington, Mass .... Sunday, March 1st
Plymouth .... Sunday, March 8th
Haverhill .... Sunday, March 15th
B. Woodside.

Knowlesville .... Sunday, March 1st, 2 P. M.
J. H. Luttenton.

Lawrence .... Sundays, March 1st and 8th
Clinton, Mass .... Monday evening, March 9th
South Ashburnham .... Tuesday evening, March 10th
West Northfield, (as Bro. Merrill may arrange), Sunday, March 15th.
Sringfield .... March 17th and 18th
Warehouse Point, Ct. .... Thursday evening, March 19th
New Britain .... Friday evening, March 20th and over the following Lord's day.
Bristol .... evening, March 23d
Pleasant Valley .... evening, March 24th
Southington .... evening, March 25th
Cheshire Street .... evening, March 26th
Yalesille .... evening, March 27th
Hartford .... Sunday, March 29th
A. Ross.

Corinna, (meeting-house) .... Sunday, March 1st
Bangor, (Music Hall) .... Sunday, March 8th
Israel Damman.

Scitico, Ct. .... Sundays, March 1st and 29th
Square Pond, Ct. .... Sunday, March 15th
North Somers, Ct .... Sunday, March 22d
L. F. Moore.

Locustville, March 13th, at 7 P. M., and over the following Sunday, as Bro. O. B. Wilmot may appoint.
Steam Hollow .... Tuesday evening, March 17th
Scranton City, Pa., (as brethren may appoint), Sundays, March 22d and 29th. C. F. Sweet.

Clark's Mills, R. I. .... Sunday, March 1st
J. T. Dixon.

Auburn, N. H., (Fox school-house), every Sunday in March. Caleb Richardson.

Meredith, (Dolloff school-house) ... Sunday, March 8th
Z. Ford.

Guilford, Conn .... Sunday, March 8th
W. A. and M. L. Durand.

East Canaan, N. H., evening, March 18th, and continue through the week, and over the following Sunday.
J. A. Cleaveland.

Concord, N. H., (at the Bethel.)
A. Simpson .... Sunday, March 1st
I. K. Lombard .... Sunday, March 29th
S. S. Brewer .... Sundays, March 8th and 15th

New Durham Ridge, N. H. .... Sunday, March 1st
South Reading, Mass .... Sunday, March 8th
Portsmouth, N. H .... Sunday, March 15th
Wm. C. Thurman.

Meredith, (Bro. P. Dolloff's) .... March 5th
Dolloff school-house .... Sunday, March 8th and onward. Julia Buswell.

Bristol, Ct. .... Sunday, March 1st
Southington .... Sunday, March 8th
New Haven, (Day's Hall) .... Sunday, March 15th
I. B. Potter.

Philadelphia .... Sunday, March 1st
New Haven, Ct. .... Sunday, March 8th
Guilford .... Sunday, March 15th
W. S. Campbell.

South Reading .... Sunday, March 1st
Enoch Morrill.

Lawrence, Mass., Advent Chapel.
A. Ross .... Sundays, March 1st and 8th

Pittsfield, Me., (Brown school-house), Sunday, March 8th, and continue one week or more.
Northport, Me. .... Sunday, March 22d and continue evenings through the week.
Jer. Carr.

Whitefield, N. H. .... Sundays, March 1st and 8th
Concord, N. H. .... Sundays, April 5th and 12th
J. A. Cleaveland.

Square Pond, Ct.
P. S. Butler .... Sunday, March 1st
B. Hitchcock .... Sunday, March 8th
A. M. Higgins .... Sunday, March 22d

Brimfield, Mass .... Sunday, March 1st
Rufus Baker.

Sugar Hill, N. H. .... Sunday, March 1st
A. Mussey Tripp.
N. B. My husband is traveling with me.

Northfield, Ct., (where Bro. Humphreville may appoint) Sunday, March 1st. O. D. Woodruff.

Westfield, Mass .... Sunday, March 8th
Woodstock Valley, Ct. .... Sunday, March 15th
Abington, Ct. .... Sunday, March 22d
P. S. Butler.

Concord, N. H. .... Sundays, March 1st, 8th, and 15th
Will hold meetings between those Sabbaths week evenings in adjoining towns, if desired.
Hiram Munger.

Hartford .... Sunday, March 1st
New Britain .... Sunday, March 8th
Meriden .... Sunday, March 15th
New York, (Cooper Institute) .... Sunday, March 22d
24th street in the evening. Wm. Stuart.

Moultonborough Neck, (school-house), March 2d and 3d
Center Harbor .... March 4th
Holderness, (True school-house) .... March 7th and over the Sabbath. W. H. McDaniels.

Melvin Village .... Sunday, March 1st
Lowell, Mass .... Sundays, March 8th and 15th
T. W. Piper.

South Sutton, N. H. .... Friday evening, Feb. 28th and over Sunday.
Worcester, Mass .... Sundays, March 8th and 15th
J. Couch.

North Haverhill .... Thursday evening, Feb. 27th and over the following Sunday.
Parsonfield, (where Bro. John S. Moulton may appoint), Wednesday eve., March 4th, and over Sunday
Strafford, N. H., (where Bro. Preston may arrange), Thursday eve., March 12th, and over Sunday.
Chelsea, Mass .... Saturday evening, March 21st and over the two following Sundays. J. G. Smith.
D. M. Leavitt.

Guilford .... Sunday, March 1st
H. Owen.

Rochester, N. Y.
Meetings are held at the Advent Hall, Curtis' Block, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Entrance, third door from the east end of the bridge, Main St.

Concord, N. H. .... Sunday, March 1st
A. Simpson.

Lenora and Nichols, Minn. .... March 1st
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper .... March 8th
Elliota and Burr Oak .... March 15th
Preston .... March 22d
W. J. Bussell.

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ Correspondents should know, that we cannot discontinue or send their orders, unless they give us the POST OFFICE and STATE in plain letters.

☞ Those that have sent us money, and fail to see it credited this week, will please be patient. A pressure of work has prevented the acknowledgment of much money received.

☞ JACOB HALL—Money received.

☞ J. GRESTY—Received.

☞ ELIZA MERRICK sends us $2.00. Please give us your P. O. address.

☞ O. BENNETT—Your credit is correct on your paper.

☞ A. THACHER—Received and acknowledged.

☞ T. GORDAN—Money credited. Look on your paper.

☞ D. SHAW—Money received.

☞ A. D. FLAGG—Money received.

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

The present No. of the Crisis is 646. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid.

If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to, is less than the present No., the difference shows for how many weeks you owe.

For every week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the product (which will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness) deduct four cents for every dollar, and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each—D. Wolcott 660, C. W. Learner 686, H. Rowell 659.

$1.25 each—J W Barnhill 671, H Lapham 671, Wm. Cook 671, J Royal 671, D McGarity 671, S D Gage 645.

$2.00 each—H O Billings 629, J Mowder 666.

$2.50 each—E S Tickner 697, O. S. Knapp 671, E S Barber 669, T Yager 636.

Various Sums.—J. Pell $5 00, 609; W. Keene 75c, 655; J Underhill $2.65, 711; W S Cummings $5.00, 664.

FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.

J P Hunkle $2.05, S Mitchel $1.50, J Whitecar $6.50, A A Peary 75c, F. Burnham $1.00, D. Wolcott $1.00, E. Barrows $1.50, J. V. Himes $138.90, W F Church $1.00, A K Burgess $2.50, S Taylor $1.00, D Stoddard $1.00, D Ellenwood $1.00, A B Reed $1.50, L Paquin 75c, W Griswold 75c, E W Matts $1.00, T J Williams $1.00, H S Utley $1.40, B G Westgate 35c, H Campbell $2.50, O Dore $1.00, R C Russell $1.50, H Pratt $1.00, T Yager 60c, J Underhill 35c, H P Chase $1.50.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

C F Sweet, J Blain, J Wendell, S L Walter, A N Seymour, E Owen, J B Waite, K N Chaffee, J R Cooper, J Wendell, J W Thomas, H S Paine, W Kellaway, Esq., C. Greene, J T Walsh, E A Stowe, R E Ladd, G Dillabaugh, P A Smith, B S Emery, L L Guynap, L Reimer, J White.

ADDRESS OF PREACHING BRETHREN.

C. E. Piper—41 Grove Street, Boston, Mass.
C. Goodrich—69 Marion Street, East Boston, Mass.
J. S. White—98 Decatur Street, East Boston, Mass.
Enoch Morrill—No. 69 Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown, Mass.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford, Mass.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls, Mass.
L. Boutell—Salem, Mass.
H. Pratt—Springfield, Mass., 57 Cedar St.
P. S. Butler, Collins Depot, Mass.
E. Owen—Springfield, Mass., No. 64 Walnut Street.
Alvah Bean—Lowell, Mass.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana, Mass.
Allen Damman—Fairhaven, Mass.
C. H. Sweet—Millville, Mass.
J. W. Brittan.—Westboro, Mass.
S. Anderson.—Warren, Mass.
Rufus Baker—Warren, Mass.
Dr. A. M. Higgins.—Palmer, Mass.
W. E. Hathaway—North Carver, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Lynn, Mass.
S. S. Brazee—Cold Spring, Mass.
N. J. Streeter—Southbridge, Mass.
S. W. Thurber—85 Church Street, Lowell, Mass.
C. H. Leverton—Surry, Hancock Co., Me.
N. P. Nason—Weeks Mills, Me.
J. C. Wheeler—Carthage, Me.
F. A. Baker—Levant, Me.
H. S. Mitchell.—Cushing, Me.
J. Carr—South Albion, Me.
Israel Damman—Corinna, Me.
B. P. Manning—Goffstown, N. H.
J. G. Smith—New Durham, N. H.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia, N. H.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth, N. H.
J. Couch—Concord, N. H.
A. W. Sibley—Lincoln, N. H.
A. Simpson—Concord, N. H.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village, N. H.
Z. Ford—Concord, N. H.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426 Concord, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover, N. H.
Wm. H. McDaniels—Fisherville, N. H.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff, N. H.
J. B. Cook—Poultney, Vt.
G. W. Stetson—Rutland, Vt.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford, Vt.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
D. N. Chadsey.—Canaan, Vt.
J. A. Cleaveland—South Royalton, Vt.
Wm. H. Fisher—Windsor, Ct., care of S. Cooper.
H. F. Carpenter—Danielsonville, Ct.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville, Ct.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford, Ct.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville, Ct.
T. S. Canfield—Bantam Falls, Ct.
B. St. John—Wolcottville, Ct.
Dr. Samuel Wellis Treat—Middlebury, Ct.
S. B. Munn.—Waterbury, Ct.
Ira Wyman—Warehousepoint, Ct.
Wm. J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley, Ct.
L. F. Moore—Somersville, Ct.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted Ct.
S. Woodruff—Unionville, Ct.
C. H. Williams—West Martinsburg, N. Y.
Geo. A. Cole—Phenix, R. I.
J. K. Bellows—19 Orchard Street, New York City.
Wm. A. Fenn—Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester, N. Y.
Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
S. P. Babcock—Malaga, New Jersey.
A. D. Flagg—No. 329 South 5th St., Jersey City, N. J.
J. W. Taylor—Chatham Valley, Tioga Co., Pa.
F. H. Burbank—Dorcas Mission, 708 Lombard street, Philadelphia, Pa.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.
A. N. Seymour—Fremont, Mich.
J. M. Snook—Romeo, Mich.
J. R. Preston—Lapeer, Mich.
Wm. McCulloch—New Rutland, Ill.
George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co., Ill.
O. D. Gibson—Amboy, Ill.
F. Burr.—New Rutland, Ill.
Dr. I. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis, Tenn.
Wm. Deverell—Keswick, C. W.
Wm. M. Ingham—Clemensport, N. S.
H. K. Flagg—Advent Christian Hall 1136, No. 5th Street, St. Louis, Mo.
L. C. McKinstry—Norwalk, Ohio.
B. Wm. Wilkins—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634 care of I. I. Leslie.
Daniel Reed—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634, care of I. I. Leslie.
Eld. G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co., Ind.
P. W. Hough—West Salem, Wis.
George Thompson—Attica, Green Co., Wis.
Eld. A. P. Dugger—Simpson, Iowa.
Peter S. W. Deyo—Strawberry Point, Clayton Co., Iowa.
O. R. Fassett—Minneapolis, Minn.
Philip Ramer—Winona, Minn.
J. Wilbur—Box 382 Janesville, Wis.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cents per copy additional, when sent by mail.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

Spiritualism Unveiled.
What is Man?
The Soul—What is it?
The Spirit—What is it?
The Rich Man and Lazarus.

All the above works, in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to Miles Grant, Boston, Mass.

New Music.

"Tis the very same Jesus" (separate sheets, at 5c.), Calvary, Over There, I shall Rest, The Shining Land, New Year's Chime, Hallelujah, "Say, Brother, shall we meet?" "The Little Grave," "We shall walk through the Valley in Peace." All on one sheet, at 20c. For sale at this office.

LEAFLETS FOR LETTERS.

1. Home .... 16 pp.
2. Life Insurance .... 10 pp.
3. Lost! Lost! .... 8 pp.
4. Brother, shall we meet? .... 8 pp.
5. About God (for children) .... 4 pp.
6. Worth Knowing .... 4 pp.
7. Peace in Christ .... 4 pp.
8. Now .... 4 pp.

The above practical tracts, envelope size, will be sent, postpaid—
One set (64 pp.) .... 6c.
1200 pp. $1.00
1800 pp. (by express, not prepaid) $1.00
Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE
Advent Christian Publication Society,
No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.
THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsay. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Predictions fulfilled, and his Kingdom near. By I. C. Wellcome. 25c; by mail, 27c.
THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.
SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsay, D. D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church. By H. L. Hastings. 10c.
THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures. Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.
STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.
DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 29c.
WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross, etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.
ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 6c; by mail, 8c.
ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.
THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 200 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.
BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 2c; by mail, 4c.
SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.
REV JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 3c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo. Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.
THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables. Price, by mail, 40 cents.
UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c. single by mail. 50c. per dozen.
"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.
THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.
THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.
SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.
CHRIST OUR LIFE. The Scriptural Argument for Immortality through Christ alone. By C. F. Hudson. Paper covers 45c. by mail.
HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.
LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.
FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.
THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 15 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postage, 8c. on every three copies.
THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.
CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.
EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.
HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.
STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.
THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 5c.
THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M. Preble. 13c; by mail, 15c.
HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.
VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook and Wm. H. Brinkerhoff. 10c.
THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.
SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. 3c. single; 5c. by mail.
BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.50 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.
CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.
BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.
DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
RAHAB THE HARLOT. The Scarlet Line the token of Safety; or, the fall of Jericho a type of the fall of the "cities of the nations." By Wm. Shepherd. 10c., postpaid; 85c. a dozen.
CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.
THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; a Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Worship. 80c; by mail, 88c.
PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 6c; by mail, 8c.
THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT—Superiority of the New. By A. W. Sibley. 8c; by mail, 10c.
THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY, or, the Sealed Book of Daniel Opened. $1.50; by mail, $1.75.
THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; or, a Dissertation on the Evidences of Christianity. 25c; by mail, 29c.
SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?—a tract on War. By I. C. Wellcome. 10c.
CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c.
DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c.
THE DAY AND THE HOUR: a Lecture, by Joseph A. Seiss, D. D. 15c.
"OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.
"THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley. 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.
"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"GOLDEN MOMENTS." A four-page tract. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.
"THE PENALTY OF SIN." By O. R. Fassett. By mail, single copy, 5c.; 40c. per dozen.
AMERICA IN PROPHECY; an Exposition of Isaiah XVIII. By O. R. Fassett. 8c; by mail, 10c.

Fables of Infidelity in Tract Form.

Sent postpaid, as follows:

1. I don't believe in Religion .... 12 pp., 3c.
2. Did the World make itself? .... 16 pp., 4c.
3. Is God Everybody, and Everybody God? 16 pp., 4c.
4. Have we any need of the Bible? .... 24 pp., 4c.
5. Who wrote the New Testament? .... 16 pp., 4c.
6. Is the Gospel Fact or Fable? .... 16 pp., 4c.
7. Can we believe Christ and his Apostles? 16 pp. 4c.
8. Prophecy .... 32 pp., 5c.
9. Moses and the Prophets .... 32 pp., 5c.
10. Infidelity among the Stars .... 28 pp., 5c.
11. Daylight before Sunrise .... pp., 5c.
12. Telescopic Views of Scripture .... 32 pp.
13. Science, or Faith? ....

For the Set, (making 304 pp.) ....
Address all orders to Miles Gra[illegible]

For the World's Crisis.

CONSOLATION.

"Let not your hearts be troubled."—St. John 14: 1.

Let not your hearts be troubled, sad,
Ye who in God believe;
For Christ your ransom all has paid,
He will your souls retrieve;

And in his Father's house above,
A mansion he'll prepare;
And when his work in heaven is done,
We'll meet him in the air.

Even as he left this earth before,
So shall he come again;
And with him bring your great reward,
And you with him shall reign.

Yes, he who once our earth did tread,
Who once our sorrows bore,
Who bowed for us his sacred head,
Shall come to earth once more.

Then shall the righteous dead awake
From their long, dreamless sleep;
The slumbering ones shall all come forth
From out the mighty deep.

Then we, who have his word obeyed,
Shall have abundant peace;
And through eternity our songs
Of praise shall never cease.

O, let us all new courage take;
Christ is our righteousness;
Trusting in Him, our pilgrimage
Soon, soon shall end in bliss.

Berwick, Me. Mrs. Emily E. Libby.

For the World's Crisis.

THE NIGHT OF WEEPING AND THE MORN OF JOY.

Ever since man fell, earth has been reeling beneath countless burdens of sin, wearied and oppressed by contending forces of evil, struggling and groaning beneath the crushing weight of the curse, for her march of six thousand years has been dark and wrathful, her long night has been wrapt in profoundest gloom, save one star, whose bright radiance fell on her midway career. It was the star of Bethlehem. She sees no longer the beneficent smile of her Creator, as when he pronounced her very good; she feels no longer the refreshing cool of the tree of life's shade, or listens to the ripple of life's waters in the garden of God. Her mountain tops, whose stately grandeur once lifted nature's anthem song of praise to God, are now wrapt in the white shrouds of winter's death. Her peaceful vales and quiet plains, once Eden sunlit, teeming with perennial verdure, unblighted by frost and unchilled by storms, now wither beneath autumnal blasts. O Eden! thou sweet abode of God's newly created pair, how little remains to remind us thou wast once uncursed.

It is true the same golden sun beams down his prolific radiance, and the same stars sparkle sublimely on the canopy of night, else little or nothing remains unchanged as it was when Paradise was located in "holy wisdom's chosen place." Since that time earth's worldwide misery may be summed up in two words—"man sinned." Then ceased the Creator's approving smile. Then sin's flood-gates were first opened which has deluged earth with depth and misery. Then the heart-aches and sorrows of six thousand years commenced their long reign. Then commenced earth's long, dark, storm-beclouded night of weeping.

Since that time sin has infected earth, air, sea, and man's nature physically, morally, intellectually, and socially. Since that, what scenes of crime, rapine, pollution, degradation, anarchy, murder and violence have arisen before the Creator's omnipotent gaze. Since that, what groans, sighs, agonies, mournings and cries have come to the ear of an all-knowing God.

Hark! what sounds do I hear? Amid the cannon's flash, sabre stroke and deadly charge, I hear the battle cry of thousands rushing to mortal combat. Amid the cries of the wounded, the groans of the dying, and the distorted features of the dead, I see other thousands weltering in their gore, their putrefying carcasses lying unburied upon the battle-field. Those sickening groans from earth's pandemonium I hear responded to by agonizing cries from a thousand widowed hearts and orphaned ones. At midnight's hour, in street and mansion, I see the flash of the assassin's weapon, and the gleam of the deadly knife. In yonder hovel, shadowed by the mansions of the rich, I see a dying mother surrounded by her starving children. From brothel, alehouse and gambling saloon, I see streams of rotting poison and liquid death, sin of every degree, and crime of every grade. The stream of time runs red with blood. The dark watches of earth's long night have heard the sentinel cry, "all wrong." And the few who have dared to stand for the right and obey God, have been stoned, sawn asunder, tempted, slain with the sword. "They wandered about in sheep skins and goat skins, being destitute, afflicted, tormented." Their ashes have been strewn upon all Roman waters, and their blood reddened the soil of every Roman nation.

Oh! what a sea of tears has flowed over green graves, death-bed scenes, broken hearts, blighted hopes, fleeted joys, faded pleasures, deserted firesides, slander's poison and death's sting, and uncatalogued miseries unnumbered and untold.

O sin! why did an all-wise God permit thy flood-gates to be opened, and thy devastating floods to flow? Yet has the Almighty done righteously, and mercy has triumphed in justice, else earth's long night would have ended in the shadowless gloom of the grave, without a promise of morning's dawn.

But, hark again! What do I hear? 'Tis the archangel's voice. He rides forth to conquest and victory, he comes down heaven's pathway of light; angelic convoys attend him. He speaks.

That voice pierces the lowest grave. The dead awake. The earth above them cleaves in twain. They come to life. The sleepers in coral beds, beneath ocean's tidal flow, hear and come forth. The sweet singer of Israel awakes in the likeness of his God, and is satisfied. Job's set time is come and he is remembered. Abraham and Sarah awake from the cave of Machpelah; and Isaac and Jacob come forth heirs with him of the same promise. What a shout comes up from the nations of the saved. Their toil is over, they sweetly rest, their sighs have ceased, their sadness ended, their tears all shed, their weeping all over, the wicked perished, and the last enemy, death, is destroyed.

Earth's night has ended, her morn has come, her sorrow is over, her groans are ceased, and her throes have brought forth deliverance. The morning of the saint has come, for the "Sun of Righteousness shall arise with healing in his wings."

M. R. Pheteplace.

E. Gloucester, R. I.

Method is the very hinge of business; [illegible] no method without punctuality.

COMPLAINING CHRISTIANS.

This is a contradiction in terms; what! a child of God, a follower of Christ, complain? Yet it is sadly true that a large proportion of christians, church members at least, are to be classed under this head. They are no doubt guiltless of the intention to complain, but have fallen into the habit of thinking that matters never go quite right with them, and the fault is to be attributed to somebody else: As a French writer said of Dr. Johnson, they have an excess of the essence of but—a studied detraction from the merits of everything and everybody mentioned in their hearing. The reason is, these persons never have brought themselves up to the use of that sweet phrase "I thank you;" and it is to be noticed that such rarely thank "Our heavenly Father;" their addresses to Him are a kind of general statement of affairs, with a small sprinkling of petitions; forgetting the most beautiful and important injunction, "in everything give thanks." God is often obliged to deprive them of their blessings in order to remind them of the possession. In their affliction they may seek Him gratefully. A great sufferer once said to her physician that her prayers were little else than thanksgiving. Said he, "that is the highest form of prayer." But these complainers always find something wrong; if not, they are always expecting something will be wrong. They are able to go to church; instead of thanking God for that, "the church was so hot, shut up all the week, it might be opened Saturday night to get cool." "It seems to me the singing grows worse and worse every Sabbath; what is to be done?" I should think the preacher might have a little more life and animation; he has all the week to prepare himself."

They will thank God perhaps for some great blessing, overlooking the tender mercies "new every morning, and repeated every moment;" they will thank Him for the outpouring of the Spirit, but forget to thank him for the precious class or prayer meeting, where one and another tenderly speak of God's love, of their joy in the present, and their hopes of the future, and where the weary soul finds rest and strength. They will thank him for restoration from severe illness, forgetting the daily health and strength, the refreshing sleep, unbroken by wakefulness and suffering. When in sickness and distress they will thank him for the friend who has ministered to them from their abundance, forgetting the loving, patient ones, who in tireless sympathy have supplied the thousand wants of the sick-room.

A complaining, ungrateful christian! what a misnomer! We who are redeemed with the precious blood of the Lamb, who through him are made worthy to be "partakers of the glory that shall be revealed," who have given ourselves to One able and engaged to make all things work together for our good, "should rejoice evermore," should call upon all that is within us to "give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good; for his mercy endureth forever." There is nothing so trying to an earthly benefactor as ingratitude, what must it be to Him who "giveth liberally and upbraideth not?" There is never an hour in our lives but we have something to be thankful for; if for nothing else, "at least it may be said, because the way is short, I thank thee, God." And until christians can find it in their hearts to pray this prayer,

"Give me a calm and thankful heart,
From every murmur free,"

God might in justice withhold his choicest blessings, for he loves a grateful receiver; and though "he is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we can ask or think," he "will be inquired of by the house of Israel to do this thing for them." "I will go and return to my place till they acknowledge their offence and seek my face." Let us, in the spirit which our heavenly Master inculcated when he said, "were there not ten cleansed, but where are the nine?" ever return to give Him thanks, and cherish in our hearts a sense of deep thankfulness for every blessing. Nothing will so sweetly help us to bear patiently all the lesser ills of life, looking unto Him who is "our exceeding great reward;" then we shall not "despise the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when we are rebuked of him;" and when we come to our Marahs, the Lord will show us a tree which shall make the bitter waters sweet; then shall we say, "the cup which my Father giveth me shall I not drink it?" "It is the Lord, let him do what seemeth him good."—Zion's Herald.

For the World's Crisis.

WHAT NEXT?

Why will people be so led astray by their ministers? There is a wise preacher in ——, who a few Sundays since gave his congregation a treat from a text found in Dan. 2: 44, stating that this kingdom was set up in the days of Constantine. It is strange that professed teachers will condescend to such expositions of Scripture, and throw dust in the eyes of their hearers, to prevent their seeing the dispensational and prophetic signs of that very kingdom now about to be set up. His knowledge purports to have come from the "Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge," page 410, which says Constantine was born A. D. 274, and became Emperor in 306, founded Constantinople A. D. 330. In his campaign in Italy, he pretended to see a sign of the cross in the heavens. This species of Oracle power, or Spiritualism, with which all the kings of the earth have been deceived, or led to bloodshed, was his God at this time; and he authorized the sign of the cross from that pretended vision. The only kingdom he could have set up was the uniting of the eastern and western empires of Rome A. D. 325, and in a short time, the historian says, his kingdom was full of confusion, and was converted into the kingdom of the world. He died A. D. 337. The king died, and the kingdom was rent and left to another people, exactly the reverse of what Scripture and history say.

What wonderful knowledge comes through college! Now, if the kingdom of his text was set up here, it was the Catholic church consolidated; and this preacher is left out, or never got into the kingdom of God or Catholic church. I wonder if he professes to be Protestant? The kingdom of God that was to stand forever, and the king to live forever, is Christ's. Wise and good men, such as Luther, Adam Clarke, John Wesley, and a host of others, would have blushed had they heard that sermon in ——.

Another pretended wise minister said, a short time ago, that he could explode the "Millerite" kingdom yet to come, for it was set up at the destruction of Jerusalem. One of his congregation, who believes the Bible instead of tradition that makes void the word of God, said it was the Roman army under Titus that did that work, not Christ. It really seems that the popular ministers of this day had rather go back into heathenish darkness, than study to get the light designed for this generation. Such strange expositions have a tendency to make unbelievers in God's word. No wonder one half of the people neglect attending church anywhere. If the Catholic church is the kingdom, let us all go back and mend up the breach our fathers made in coming out and protesting against it. Such nonsense ought to be as publicly reproved as it was delivered.

To the common people of common sense. Can you be so duped, when you have access to your Bibles and history? which, if you will read you will know better, and save a great priest tax. As a Bible reader and believer, I feel indignant at the unjust and ignorant course the popular ministers take to put down the truth. By so doing, they pervert the Scriptures and history, and also the exposition of the fathers and founders of every evangelical church in the world. It is a species of the old mother of harlots to keep the people in ignorance, that they may rule them more easily. If the people are willing to be so deceived by their priests, they have taken the first step back toward the old Catholic church, and never again ought to oppose Catholicism.

Respectfully submitted to the candid readers and common people. Hiram Munger.

Chicopee Falls, Jan. 25th, 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

THE ORNAMENT OF GREAT PRICE.

In all the sixty-six books of the Bible; in all the one thousand one hundred and eighty-nine chapters of the Bible; in all the forty thousand two hundred and sixty-four verses of the Bible; in all the seven hundred and seventy-three thousand six hundred and ninety-seven words of the Bible; in all its three millions five hundred and fifty-six thousand six hundred and eighty letters, there is but one ornament named as of great price to the female character. As there is but one pearl of great price revealed in these sacred pages, so there is but one ornament there revealed as worthy the pursuit and possession of the female who would please God.

As the one pearl is to be obtained by the sacrifice of every thing else, so this ornament can only be won by its fair pursuer at the sacrifice of all else. But, as the merchant-man in pursuit of goodly pearls, when he had found the pearl of great price sold all that he had and bought it, possessed all in this pearl, so does she who, in the pursuit of goodly ornaments, when she finds this ornament, sells all that she has to obtain it, possesses all in it. How much is spent for ornaments that are not once named in this holy book as of any value! How much is spent for ornaments that are forbidden by its precepts, yea, that are said to be abomination in the sight of the God of the Bible.

But what is this Bible ornament? Is it that "outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel," the one thing sought after by the world? From the general rush for these things by christian nations with an open Bible, we would suppose them the very things well pleasing to God; but how are we surprised to find it the very reverse of this mighty tide from God.

Here we are again reminded of the great truth that God looks on the heart, while man looks on the outward appearance; that that which is of great price in the sight of God begins at the heart, the hidden man of the heart, and works outward, reforming the whole being, preparing it for his final stroke in the resurrection—immortality. The adversary in the garden began at the heart, so the Physician that is in Gilead there first applies his balm.

A spirit of insubordination to God was first insinuated into woman to cause her to think some other than God's way would secure to her and her companion the greatest amount of happiness. Hence, "being deceived," to please her eyes, her taste, her desire to become wise, she ventured her own judgment against the express command of her Creator, and fell under his ban. Now to remove this spirit of insubordination, and to implant in her a right spirit, is to bring her back to God. This is the work of "the repairer of the breach"—the Lord Jesus Christ, the second Adam.

Therefore, that which alone can make woman well pleasing in the sight of God, is to restore to her that which she lost in the fall, namely, a spirit of submission to God; hence the ornament of great price for woman is "A meek and quiet spirit." This she lost in Eden with Adam the first. This she must regain in Adam the second, or she will never see Paradise restored.

Happy are we for the many proofs of the restoring power of grace to woman in her deep fall. The sacred page, and the page of faithful biography give noble instances of this. Even in our own short pilgrimage we have been cheered by marked examples of this holy ornament. Two of the most eminent of these have "fought a good fight," have finished their course, "have kept the faith," and are awaiting their crown with all those who "love His appearing."

The first, our beloved Sister Johnson of Cincinnati, whose sweet face, the very mould of meekness and quietude, is so indelibly stamped upon our memory that we thank God upon every remembrance of her. What a proof of the moulding power of mind upon the outward man. It even extended itself to the countenance of her venerable husband, as we then verily believed, and as was proven, after other influences surrounded him. As we contrast her meek and quiet face with many women of her age of an opposite spirit, we are astonished to learn that the countenance is such a true index to the spirit that rules within. Not surer does the hand upon the face of the clock point the hour, than does the face of the individual portray the ruling spirit: An open epistle, known and read of all men.

The other example of blessed memory is our late Sister Susan Wade, of Indiana. Her daughter, a middle-aged woman, once remarked,

"I never saw my mother out of patience."

What a testimony! Earthly greatness sinks into nothingness beside it! "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he who taketh a city."

Should your eye only rest upon the silk bonnet of a decade of years, and upon the whole contour of dress, you would not suppose that earthly glory was eclipsed there; but thus is true glory hidden now! By and by, the vail that covers it will be rent, and the covering be removed, when He shall "swallow up death in victory; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall be taken away from off all the earth; for the Lord hath spoken it." Amen. The Lord hasten it in its time, is the prayer of your sister.

Haddonfield, N. J. E. S. Willard.

For the World's Crisis.

A BIRTH-DAY MEDITATION.

I have this day entered the ninety-second year of my age, and for these four years past I have written an article each year to lay before the public for their consideration. Here let me say, in all these former years I have experienced many things, both of a temporal and spiritual nature, as they have taken place here in this lower world, and in all my experience I have found but very few among the many who have paid but little attention to a future world, in securing their soul's salvation. This ought not so to be; we should be looking forward and preparing to meet our Judge when he shall call for us to give up our accounts; for according to the prophecies laid down in the scriptures of truth, and the signs they give us, the day is fast hastening when every one of us shall be judged according to his works.

Now the question arises what shall we do to secure ourselves from all those impending dangers that beset us? I will answer in the words of the Psalmist: "Commune with your own heart." Communion with self is one of the most profitable exercises of a christian. By it he is enabled to learn the greatest lesson ever learned by man. Without it man may strive in vain to be a christian. He may assume the name, but the character he cannot. Still, comparatively speaking, but few take a single step in this path.

According to my observation in my pilgrimage state, the most part of men are always ready to commune with their secular interests. The merchant will sit down at night and make a calculation of his profits through the day. The mechanic makes a calculation upon the nett proceeds of a certain time, and the farmer will make his calculation upon the growth of his stock. But seldom do men before retiring for the night sit themselves down and converse with their own hearts, to see if they have a conscience void of offence toward God and man. Therefore, instead of conversing with his own heart, he is sewing fig leaves together with which to hide his own imbecility, without as much as making a single effort to heal his moral maladies. Before he can heal these, he must learn that his moral nature is diseased. This can be done by no other means than by looking into his own heart, and holding communion with it.

Self-examination increases happiness, and decreases misery. This proposition is self-evident. Virtue and happiness, vice and misery, are inseperably connected; consequently as such an examination tends to virtue it must increase it, and thereby increase the effect which is ever produced by the cause.

Dear reader, if we have not as yet considered the dealings of God with us, and kept his commandments, it is high time that we should be about it; for the day is fast hastening when we shall be called to the judgment-seat of Christ, there to answer for the deeds done in the body, whether they be good or whether they be bad. Let us serve God with upright hearts and keep his commandments, and all will be well with us. Then we shall hear these words pronounced unto us, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Fisherville, N. H. John Elkins.

For the World's Crisis.

A LETTER.

Washington, Jan. 7th, 1868.

Dear Bro. Grant:—During the recent visit of the Rev. Newman Hall, of England, to our city, I attended most of the meetings at which he preached, and was delighted with the spirit of earnest piety, as well as of devotion to the cause of christian liberty and human elevation which he exhibited. As in his last discourse, however, on "The Transfiguration," he advanced the idea that that event was intended to typify the heavenly state to which the righteous were admitted at death, I thought proper to address him the following letter, the next day, together with a few of our tracts.

M. H. T.

LETTER TO REV. NEWMAN HALL.

Rev. and Dear Sir:—I trust you will excuse the presumption of an entire stranger in addressing a letter to you, as my admiration for the noble stand you have taken in favor of civil and religious liberty must be my apology. Having been from my earliest years a "Garrison Abolitionist," I can, of course, sympathize most heartily with your views in respect to the rights of the colored race; but it is not of this I would speak. I desire, individually, to thank you for the earnest words of exhortation to holiness and entire consecration to Christ, to which it was my privilege to listen three times on the Sabbath, as well as last evening, in Georgetown.

I have for some years been identified with the believers in the pre-millennial advent of our Savior, who like your distinguished fellow citizen and co-laborer, Dr. Cumming, regard that event as near at hand; but I feel that I have been sadly lacking in that warmth of devotion and aggressive individual piety so necessary to keep ourselves "unspotted from the world," and to secure the salvation of others. I am most grateful for the faithfulness with which you have enforced these points, and should I never have another opportunity of hearing you discourse on spiritual things here, God grant that we may meet in his everlasting kingdom,—in the "new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness."

With regard to the subject of your discourse last evening,—the state of the dead—candor compels me to add, at the risk of falling in your good opinion, and being considered perhaps unorthodox, that I, in common with a large proportion of the Second Adventists in this country, am compelled to differ from the view advanced by you (the popular one), and —believing as we do that the dead "know not anything," but are unconscious until the morning of the resurrection—to regard the scene of the Transfiguration to be what Christ himself termed it, simply "a vision" (Matt. 17: 9) of the two great classes, "the quick and the dead," which shall constitute the subjects of Christ's kingdom, when he shall come in the clouds of heaven to set it up, and reign on the throne of his father David. It appears to us that the doctrine commonly taught—that our deceased friends are not only conscious of every thing occurring here, but perhaps hovering around us in spirit—is the prolific parent of modern Spiritualism, which has proved so subversive of true piety, and been the ruin of so many souls.

I do not, by any means, suppose that these views, or the arguments by which they are supported, are entirely new to you; yet I venture to enclose several tracts on this and the kindred subjects of future punishment—from the erroneous teachings on which, and the instinctive rejection of them by thinking men, have sprung the various forms of Universalism (as in the case of Mr. Horace Greeley, as stated in his autobiography, now publishing in the New York Ledger, q. v.),—with a request that you will at least look them over, and see if there is not sufficient proof adduced from Scripture to justify a prayerful reconsideration of your views on these subjects, the latter of which is treated of more at length by your countryman, Rev. Mr. Dobney, whose work you may have seen.

I remain, dear sir, in hope of eternal life, your sincere friend and admirer,

Clericus.

WE'RE MARCHING ON TO CANAAN'S LAND.

BY S. S. BREWER.

Tune.—"We're marching down to Dixie's Land."

The christians sing a jubal song,
All o'er the land, all o'er the land;
They know their journey is not long,
They soon shall wear a crown.
All praise to Christ, our coming King,
In peace to reign, in peace to reign;
We then shall make the kingdom ring
When He, our King, is crowned.

Chorus.—We're marching on to Canaan's land,
To that bright land, that sunny land,
And soon we'll see supreme and grand,
The King in beauty crowned.

O watchman, blow your trumpet loud
Throughout the land, now fearless stand;
Alarm the gay and giddy crowd,
The judgment day draws near.
Probation's sun is sinking fast,
O sinner, fear, the end is near,
The day of grace will soon be past,
The doom of earth draws near.

Come, soldiers, now in faith be strong,
For Jesus stand, a fearless band;
The conflict's fierce, 't will not be long,
You're fighting for a crown.
Our warfare soon will all be o'er,
Press for that land, soon we shall stand,
Immortal on that sunny shore,
And wear a conqueror's crown.

The martyrs there all clad in white,
Triumphant band, in that blest land,
Transcendent shine in glorious light,
For suffering with their Lord.
O Jesus, grant me grace, I pray,
By faith to stand, and gain that land;
And sing thy praise in endless day,
Forever with the Lord.

Selected by M. E. Clark.

SUPPORTING THE GOSPEL.

You cannot keep bees on corn, or horses on honey. Everything must have food adapted to its nature. Temperance is not sustained by stills and groggeries, nor morality by splendid brothels and gilded gambling hells. Such a pretext is too preposterous to be made. But how is it with the sacred cause of religion? Is the gospel of Jesus Christ—acknowledged even by infidels to be the purest system of religion ever taught among mankind—sustained by carnal pleasures and sensual enjoyments? by appeals to woman's vanity and man's vices? Is the religion which has God for its author, and salvation for its object, supported by fairs and festivals, and feasts and lotteries—entertainments adapted to the tastes of the most abandoned? Does the body of Christ grow and flourish on such food as this? Not by any means! Whatever it is that thrives by such measures as these, it is not the gospel of Christ. Money secured in this way is money obtained under false pretences. The whole proceeding is a pious fraud. The English Parliament, in the days of Charles, levied troops in the name of the king, for the purpose of dethroning him. So these contrivances for raising money, by appeals to pride and the love of pleasure, under the pretense of supporting the gospel, are, in reality, so many conspiracies against christianity itself.

They are becoming so common that it is the duty of every friend of the gospel to speak out in unmistakable tones against these sacrilegious abominations. Last summer, while attending camp-meetings in Illinois, we saw in the depot a flaming hand-bill, announcing that a so-called orthodox church in that place would give an excursion to Rock Island, where a fair was being held. As an inducement for everybody to go, it was stated that the excursion would be on the last day of the fair, when the celebrated horse, Dexter, would be made to exhibit his speed in trotting! Think of it! The saints of Jesus Christ getting up an excursion to a horse race!

A notice has just been sent us, of an entertainment adapted to the winter season, gotten up professedly for the benefit of the church. The brother sending it, says, "This is the way we get money for preachers out here." It reads as follows:

Rev'd Mr.: —— Dear Sir: An entertainment will be given in McLean, on Thursday evening, the 19th of December, 1867, for the benefit of the——church.

Oysters, and everything eatable, will be served.

Good music will be discoursed, and speeches made by eminent men.

The speeches and music at the church, and supper at the Kellogg Hall—for all of which one dollar will be charged for adult persons, and fifty cents for children under 12 years.

If good cheer, good music, eloquent speeches, and plenty to eat, served with smiling faces and delicate hands, can entertain you, come, and bring all connected with you.

Publishing Com.

McLean, Ill., Dec.,

A highly respectable correspondent from Brighton, Ill., writes us: "The——church are having a fair and festival here. The worst kind of gambling is going on. One doll, which cost them about five dollars, was run up to near fifty. One man puts his daughter's name down seventy times at ten cents a time, but after all lost his money and the doll. Their preacher made a wooden elephant, which his members rode around the hall two at a time, at twenty cents a pair. After they got through with it, one of the stewards of the church bought it for ten dollars."

What would John Wesley and John Knox think of such proceedings in churches professing to believe the doctrines which they taught?

We know that there are many members of the churches, who are opposed to such desecrations of the cause of God. We exhort all such to give them no countenance, even by silence, as you would retain His favor. He that hath my word let him speak my word faithfully. "What is the chaff to the wheat?" saith the Lord.—Earnest Christian.

Toothache.—At a meeting of the London Medical Society, Dr. Blake, a distinguished practitioner, said that he was able to cure the most desperate case of toothache, unless the disease was connected with rheumatism, by the application of the following remedy: Alum, reduced to an impalpable powder, two drachms; and nitrous spirits of ether, seven drachms; mix and apply to the tooth.

SAVING FAITH.

"If I only had more faith," said a young and widowed mother, as she petted and caressed the child in her arms.

"What do you understand by faith?" was asked?

A "certain confidence in my own spiritual condition—a surety such as I hear others speak of" was quickly answered.

"Your child has the faith that you need," was the reply.

"How so?" asked the mother.

"Your child trusts you, loves you, obeys you."

"Oh yes; pet clings to me; I'm all she has you know," and a shower of kisses rained over the baby's face.

"That's it," exclaimed the aged christian—"that's the faith that gives assurance. This clinging faith in Christ. He must be all to love, to trust, to cling to." Reader, have you this clinging faith?—S. S. Times.

Hygiene.

"This is for your health."—Paul.

HEALTHFUL OBSERVANCES.

1. To eat when you do not feel like it is brutal—nay, this is a slander on the lower animals; they do not so debase themselves.

2. Do not enter a sick chamber on an empty stomach, nor remain as a watcher or nurse until you feel almost exhausted, nor sit between the patient and the fire, nor in the direction of a current of air from the patient toward yourself, nor eat or drink anything after being in a sick room until you have rinsed your mouth thoroughly.

3. Do not sleep in any garment worn during the day.

4. Most grown persons are unable to sleep soundly and refreshingly, over seven hours in summer, and eight in winter; any attempt to force more sleep on the system by a nap in the daytime, or a "second" nap in the morning, renders the whole of the sleep disturbed and imperfect.

5. Some of the most painful "stomach-aches" are occasioned by indigestion; this generates wind, and hence distention. It is often promptly remedied by kneading the abdomen with the ball of the hand, from one side to another, from the lower edge of the ribs downward, because the accumulated air is forced away.

6. When you return to your house from a long walk or other exhaustive exercise, go to the fire or warm room, and do not remove a single article of clothing until you have taken a cup or more of some kind of hot drink.

8. In going into a colder atmosphere keep the mouth closed, and walk with a rapidity sufficient to keep off a feeling of chilliness.

8. Two pair of thin stockings will keep the feet warmer than one pair of greater thickness than both.

9. The "night sweats" of disease come on towards daylight; their deathly clamminess and coldness is greatly modified by sleeping in a single, loose, long woolen shirt.

10. The man or woman who drinks a cup of strong tea or coffee or other stimulant in order to aid in the better performance of any work or duty, public or private, is a fool, because it is to the body and brain an expenditure of what it has not yet got—it is using power in advance, and this can never be done, even once, with impunity.

11. The less a man drinks of anything in hot weather the better, for the more we drink the more we want to drink, until even ice-water palls and becomes of a metallic taste; hence the longer you can put off drinking cold water on the morning of a hot day, the better you will feel at night.

12. Drinking largely at meals, even of cold water or simple teas, is a mere habit, and is always hurtful. No one should drink at any one meal more than a quarter of a pint of any liquor, even of cold water, for it always retards, impairs, and interferes with a healthful digestion.

13. If you sleep at all in the daytime it will interfere with the soundness of your sleep at night, much less if the nap be taken in the forenoon.

14. A short nap in the daytime may be necessary to some. Let it not exceed ten minutes; to this end, sleep with the forehead resting on a chair back, or edge of the table.

15. Never swallow an atom of food while in a passion, or if under any great mental excitement, whether of a depressing or elevating character; brutes won't do it.

DEPOPULATION OF NEW ENGLAND.

A year ago we published a paper from the pen of Dr. Nathan Allen, of Lowell, Mass., the object of which was to show that the native population of his State was decreasing, and that, if some remedy was not found ere long, the native population of the old New England States would become extinct. This paper was widely published throughout the country, and excited much attention; but the subject had well nigh been forgotten, when Dr. Allen comes before the public again in a very able paper, read before the American Social Science Association, in which he points out the causes of this decay of the population of Massachusetts, and suggests a remedy. As might be expected, he shows that this state of things arises largely from the physical degeneration of women. Their muscles are rarely well developed, but are soft, flabby, small, and weak; and with this there is weakness and decay of those parts of the body in which health is so necessary to make the rearing of strong children possible. The result is that while a few generations ago the average number of children to each family was nine or ten, now it is less than three, and many of these die before reaching maturity. He also shows that the practice of abortion still further diminishes the number of births by many thousands.

The cause of this change for the worse in the physical constitution of woman he attributes to three things: too little muscular education, bad habits of dress, and, compared with the physical, too exclusive cultivation of the nervous system. The remedy, of course, lies in returning to a more natural state of living. The body should be developed by labor, dress should be such as not to cramp and distort the vital organs, and intellectual culture should be in harmony with physical development. We have not a full report of this paper, but gathering our ideas of it from the accounts published by the press, it must attract much attention and cause a good deal of discussion.

It seems to us, however, that there are many other causes which have led to this disastrous result beside those for which woman is at fault. There are multitudes of men who are opposed to large families, and who co-operate with woman in every endeavor to prevent increase in the size of their families. Quite generally it devolves on them to furnish the means of supporting, as well as educating and setting their children up in business. We know many fathers who argue that they are unable to furnish the means of doing all that society demands for a large family, hence they prefer small ones.

We think, too, we are correct in saying that the physical degeneracy of man is nearly or quite as great as that of woman. The average age to which she attains is as great as that of man. It is true that man has more physical power; yet, notwithstanding this, he shortens his life as much by dissipation, drinking, the use of tobacco, and sensualism, as woman does hers by want of physical culture and bad habits in dress. Nature takes away from multitudes of men the power of parentage because of their vices and sensualism. It is quite impossible for one sex to become much better or worse than the other. If woman becomes degraded physically, her children suffer in stamina or are reduced in number, and vice versa.

So again, rum and tobacco have, we know, a very extensive and fatal influence in injuring the well-being of the race, and through this lessening the number of progeny. It is not a very uncommon observation that the children of a drunken parent, though they may be many in number, are deficient in vitality, and their children are few in number, and thus are the iniquities of the fathers visited upon the children's children.

The remedies for the evil lie not in one direction, but in several. The rising generation of both sexes must be instructed in the laws of their being. They must be early impressed with the idea that it is folly to live and impossible to prosper while contending with and opposing nature. Our whole system of education must be improved. We must educate more, not less; but education must include the whole man and be harmonious. Youth must be taught to avoid all bad habits, such as animalism, drinking, smoking, chewing, tight lacing, sedentary habits, unbalanced brain or body development.

Life must be made more natural. We must cease to strive for that which we do not need, and to turn all of life's forces in the right direction. We spend half our strength foolishly and wastefully, and thus become prematurely old and decrepid when we should be in our prime. If every young person would become philosopher enough to mark out a plan to perfection, half the work would be done. Let no amount of study be too great to secure a careful physiological education, and upon this let there be built up a great and noble character. A perfect manhood and womanhood should be the aim of every person; and when this is the aim, parents will seek to rear a reasonable number of children, and to so care for them that they shall be an honor and a blessing to the world.—M. L. Holbrook, Herald of Health.

For the Hygiene Column.

CLEANLINESS.

There are some trials incident to itineracy, and once in a great while, perhaps, occurs a trial of domestic or family un-neatness. (How softly I ought to speak!) Will you just bear with me in one bit of experience? I speak of it because cleanliness is a duty, yes, a duty. A certain man, in a certain place (in the body,) tarried with a certain man; social and free-hearted he was, too. In the morning, the good brother assisted in preparing breakfast. But in somerset-ing the griddle-cakes, the good man was much impeded by the constant tax on his attention, which coryza, or cold in the head produced. And so facing about, he managed the best he could, perhaps, without any such modern appurtenance as a handkerchief. And memory was in fault a little at this point, seeing that the two hands were re-applied to the task at the stove, every time coming in contact with the cakes as they were one by one removed to the dish. Call it foolishness, if you will, but then it is an infirmity of some that the enthusiasm of eating is slightly checked under such circumstances. However, it helps one to put in practice the injuction, "Put a knife to thy throat," etc. Now, then, is not cleanliness a duty?

Reader and Correspondent.

CURE FOR BURNS AND SCALDS.

Do people generally know that every family has constantly in the house the best remedy for burns and scalds that has ever been discovered, and can apply it themselves in a few moments time without calling a physician? It is simply flour. This has been used as the only remedy in some of the New York hospitals for twenty-five years, and has never failed to effect a speedy cure, in the most aggravated cases. The most convenient mode of application is to take some cotton batting, dust it full of flour, and apply immediately to the scalded part, so as to exclude the air entirely. Generally in a few minutes the pain and smarting ceases. In some aggravated cases, the flour will need to be renewed when it becomes heated and wet from the discharge of the wound, but in most cases a single application is sufficient. The cause of death from burns is almost never from the effect of the wound, but from the shock to the nervous system and the fever arising from the pain. This flour relieves almost immediately, and we have never known a case where it was applied at once that did not result in a speedy recovery.

We write this because we see almost daily in the papers accounts of deaths from burns and scalds, that might be prevented by the use of this simple remedy. The objection that has been urged against this, that flour leaves a scar, is not valid. Having used it in our own family for more than twenty-five years, and recommended it to others in almost numberless instances, we have never yet known an instance where the least scar remained after recovery. The cure is so quick and so perfect that the skin is left smooth and fair as before, nor do we believe it ever leaves a scar, unless the burn is so deep as to make it inevitable, whatever may be the remedy applied. If the readers will remember this, they never need be for a moment at a loss what to do for a burn.—Springfield Republican.

☞ Never sleep with the head in the draft of an open door or window.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance..............$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address.......$5.60
Same rate for any larger number under ten.
Ten copies six months to one address.....$10.00.
Same rate for any number under ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's name, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
Private Letters.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and appointments on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to the office should give distinctly and plainly the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions, communications and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM;

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS:

Payable always in advance.

[illegible]

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 648. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 25.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,
Issued every Wednesday Afternoon, at
167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS,
M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN,
D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

OUR HIGH PRIEST.—Heb. 4: 15.

Touched with the feeling of our need,
My sad eyes weep for joy indeed;
For else, in all this round of pain,
How could they look on joy again.

Sad and cast down, O, great High Priest,
Thou feelest what I feel the least;
And how much more this sore distress
That yearns so for thy tenderness.

As once of old thy gracious touch
Was laid for healing upon such,
So let me nearer press like them,
And reach and kiss thy garment's hem.

I am so sick—oh, let me feel
One moment thy sweet will to heal;
I am so tired—oh, let me rest
Childlike one hour upon thy breast.

My heart is bruised with sorrrw; see,
O Christ, how deep its wound may be;
Its want no other good can fill;
Its cry no other voice may still;

For thou all human griefs hast known,
Hast trod earth's dreariest paths alone;
Hast loved and wept by love denied,
And for thy love been crucified.

Made perfect in thine office so,
By each temptation every woe,
Thou art thyself, of pain the balm,
And to the waves of sorrow calm.

Touched with the feeling of my need,
O Savior, be my Priest indeed!
Come near while life grows dim and chill,
And show thyself the Healer still.

Selected by Kate N. Chaffee.
South Wilbraham, Mass.

A GLIMPSE OF OUR TIMES.

Men of the world are generally but little interested in looking at the times prophetically. Though their hearts be filled with fearful forebodings of some coming calamity; yet in vain they try to pierce into the dark future, and settle down to feed on the feeble morsels of hope, to wait for the darkness to be dispersed by the onward strides of time. But God's children act differently. Like the sailor on the broad deep, they always consult their chart, while they watch every sign which foretells the harbor is near.

All great convulsions in this world have been preceded by signs which marked their approach. And God's people have never been in darkness when God has inflicted a judgment upon the world. Noah was warned of the judgment upon the antediluvian world one hundred and twenty years before its infliction, and he warned them, giving them an equal chance with himself to escape. But they would not heed the warning, and obey God, that they might live.

Important eras in the history of the world have been ushered in by inventions particularly adapted to the emergencies of the times. The invention of gunpowder preceded the breaking up of the feudal system of the middle ages; and the invention of printing paved the way for the onward march of the Reformation In looking back but a few years in the history of the world we witness such a progression in invention as to startle the world of the nearness of some great event. Month after month mankind have been startled by the new discoveries in the art of killing men. Such a condition of things never existed before. How soon these implements of death may be called into action no one is able to tell. Count Cavour, who possessed a deep insight into the prospective politics of Europe, thus speaks: "The condition of Europe itself is abnormal. In the east, and in the center of the continent, we see the clouds gathering; there is peace in men's words, but war in their actions. Parliaments vote the increase of armies; princes prepare for war, and the nations only complain that the preparations are not extensive enough." These words have been too literally fulfilled to pass over lightly. "Wake up the mighty men, and prepare for war" is the sentiment that is breathed over the world at this age of its existence.

There exists throughout the christian world a universal apprehension of some great revolution in the history of the world—a prevailing impression that a mighty crisis is at hand. We hear of these expectations from the east and the west, the north and the south. It is a conviction that has forced itself upon their consideration, and which has sprung up spontaneously in their minds. They breathe it in the atmosphere, surcharged with the elements that feed and keep it alive.

In looking at the condition of the world we cannot refrain from considering the impressive description Christ gives of the generation that should witness his coming. He says on the part of the world there should be "distress of nations, with perplexity; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things that are coming on the earth; for the powers of heaven shall be shaken; and then shall they see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of heaven, with power and great glory"—Luke 21: 25-27. And hear what He says further: "Verily, I say unto you, this generation shall not pass away till all be fulfilled." I need not array before you the facts, that we are now living in that time of "distress of nations, with perplexity." It is a self-evident fact. Look upon the world. Was there ever such a time of perplexity known? The daily papers are teeming with facts of the universal distress and commotion of nations. All Europe stands ready at short notice to bathe the land with human blood. The conflict cannot be delayed long. It is sure to come. And soon, very soon, the tumult of battle, the clash of steel, the rushing (as the prophet Isaiah says) of "the multitude of many people like the rushing of mighty waters" will usher in the battle of the day of God Almighty. "The nations shall rush, but God shall rebuke them, and shall flee far off and become as the chaff of the mountain before the wind, and like a thistledown before the whirlwind"—Isa. 17: 12, 13.

Again, look at America, the mother of liberty, which is rapidly running to despotism. Such political agitation never rocked a republic like the present. The dividing spirit is in her counsels, and distress and perplexity are throughout her borders. Oh, America! the hand of judgment is upon thee. Concentrated as thou art, no foreign foe dare attempt thy subjugation. But Satan has cursed the lavished blessing of God. Thy enemies are within thyself. Thy destroyers are the children which thou hast reared with the fondness of a mother's care. Thy masses walk in debauchery and crime, and thy rulers wallow in the mire of corruption, while the foe is concentrating within thy borders to inflict the death wound. Mene, Tekel is written by the sweat of thy oppressed people, and in letters of blood upon thy walls.

But, dear reader, I will leave this subject with you for the present. The King stands at the door. There never was a more thrilling time in the history of the world than the present. Every evidence from prophecy coupled with the present condition of the world, and the nominal church, shows conclusively that we stand on the very eve of Christ's coming—awful to the wicked world, but a most glorious event to his waiting flock. I would not take the position of an alarmist. These days are too momentous. There is no occasion for alarm to those who are watching and ready. But to the sinner it would be a subject of deep, heart-rending alarm, if they saw their danger in its true light. Oh, may they be led by the Spirit of God to see their danger, and flee to the extended arms of a merciful Savior, who alone can give them refuge, in the glory of his presence, till the day of his indignation be overpast.

We have passed all the landmarks, and now stand at the end of our journey, tired, and groaning for our deliverance. The rays of that morning already begin to shower their pellucid gleam upon our pathway, though it is filled with thorns and beset with the fiery darts of the devil. The prophetical history of the world is in the past, except the last event, the shaking of the powers of heaven, when Christ shall come in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory to redeem his people. This is what we are waiting and watching for. This is the great motive to purify ourselves from the stains of sin, and be ready for his coming; having our robes washed and made white in his blood.

In sober consideration of this subject what thrilling times are these! What destinies of human beings hang upon the silken cords of these fleeting moments! Oh, reader, arouse thyself. Work and watch, and pray, for behold the judge cometh. No time now must be lost in the idle fancies of the world. Be watchful, and make thy salvation sure. "Behold I come quickly."—Rev. 3: 11.—Glad Tidings.

For the World's Crisis.

THE HOPE.—No. 1.

"Wherein God, willing more abundantly to show unto the heirs of promise the immutability of his counsel, confirmed it by an oath; that by two immutable things in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us."—Heb. 6: 17, 18.

Having been several times requested to write on the above subject, I now enter upon the task. The subject is as interesting as it is important. Man is a being subject to hope; and God, in the plenitude of his mercy, has given him something to hope for. He has given him "great and precious promises" upon which to predicate his hope; and then, that he might have a strong consolation in predicating his hope upon them, has confirmed them by his oath. Paul, in Eph. 4: 4-6, says, "There is one body, and one spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism; one God and Father of all." Here are no less than "seven" units brought to view, and one of them is hope; and it would be just as logical for any one to argue that there is more than one "God and Father of all," as to argue that there is more than one hope.

"Hope" is an effect produced by faith; and hence "faith is the confidence of things hoped for." For "faith" is a "confident belief"; and when we confidently believe the promises of God, and comply with the conditions upon which they are given, then we hope for the things promised; and hence "faith" truly becomes "the confidence of things hoped for."

And now, if there is but "one" hope, as Paul affirms, then there must be but "one faith," as its unit cause; and if but "one" faith, the foundation of which is the promises of God contained in the gospel, there must be but one gospel. And truly this must be the case, or the apostle Paul in writing to the Galatians would not have called down the anathema of heaven upon the individual, or even an angel, who dared to preach any other than the gospel he had preached. See Gal. 1: 6-8.

If we are correct in our investigation thus far, then it does make some little difference what we preach, and what we believe, after all. For "another," or "perverted gospel," will engender in us a perverted faith; and a perverted faith a perverted hope; and before we are aware, we may be found hoping for things God never has promised. "Let us, then, take the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard," for "faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." It is not then the things which we have heard so much through "tradition," that we are to take heed to, as the things that we have heard through the "word of God." "Tradition," so far as it coincides with God's word, is all right; but so far as it contravenes God's word, it is all wrong. "Beware lest any man spoil you through . . . tradition."—Col. 2: 8.

In an age like this, when "tradition" is considered by the masses as being the highest standard of authority, and cherished so much more than plain Bible truth, it becomes the imperative duty of all who are in possession of "the faith once delivered to the saints," to "earnestly contend" for it. Let us then "take to ourselves the whole armor of God," and "fight the good fight of faith" with the vigilance of a Spartan soldier, ever ready to exhort with "all long-suffering and doctrine"; "for the time" has "come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts" they have heaped "to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they" do "turn away their ears from the truth, and" are "turned unto fables." 2 Tim. 4: 3, 4. The reason why they "heap to themselves" teachers is, obviously, because they have "turned unto fables"; and God, of course, will not "heap" to them teachers to teach fables; and therefore they are obliged to "heap" them "to themselves"; or, in other words, manufacture their own teachers. This they do through the instrumentality of theological seminaries, where they take young men, and by putting them through the mechanical operations of these institutions mould them over into modern "teachers"; and set them to perverting the Scripture and spinning theological fables for from five hundred to two thousand dollars a year; just to keep up a "form of godliness," and satisfy those having "itching ears." And the man that pays the most to support such has a right to the highest seat in the synagogue. This state of things, I expect, is going to exist, yea, increase until the Lord comes. Our object in these articles is to show, if possible, what the hope is, when it is to be realized, and where the promises are upon which it is predicated.

Chatham Valley, Pa. J. W. Taylor.

For the World's Crisis.

THE RIGHTEOUS AND WICKED.

"For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers; but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil."—1 Pet. 3: 12.

In looking over the divine record, we find many promises to the children of God, as spoken by God the Father and Jesus the Son; and parallel with these promises we find many admonitions and threats, as well as warnings, to the wicked. The promises not only refer to what we shall have in this life, but, further, extend to the life beyond the grave. So likewise do the woes pronounced against the wicked extend beyond this life.

Let us look for a moment at some of the promises of our Master, and see if any comfort or encouragement can be derived from them. "Say ye to the righteous, it shall be well with him, for they shall eat the fruit of their doings." It shall be well with all the faithful ones. Though we may have to wade through trials and afflictions, yet there is peace and comfort to the believer. "And it shall come to pass that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved." Yes, his ears are continually open to the cries of his followers. Although men may often disdain our petitions, and refuse to hear us when we need their aid, yet our Father will never turn a deaf ear to us when we come to him. Blessed assurance! "Ask, and ye shall receive; seek, and ye shall find." No guess-work here, but "ask in my name," says Jesus, and "ye shall receive."

"I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am there ye may be also." Here is an assurance that though Jesus is now away with his Father, he will come back again; and while he is absent he gives us the Comforter, the Holy Spirit; and if we die and sleep in Jesus, he will remember us when he comes, and bring us up, or, in other words, receive us unto himself. Thus we may find comfort and peace all the way along.

What a blessed friend Jesus is, giving us consolation even in the severest trials. What enjoyment to those who love Jesus and keep his commandments. Let us ever remember that his watchful care is over us, and his ear ever attentive to our pleadings.

But what are the prospects of the wicked? "Say ye to them, Woe to the wicked; it shall be ill with them." "For they shall soon be cut down like the grass, and wither like the green herb." "For evil doers shall be cut off." "For yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be." "The Lord shall laugh at him, for he seeth that his day is coming." "But these shall go away into everlasting punishment." "But the face of the Lord is against them that do evil."

Thus we see the contrast between the righteous and the wicked. Although they may seem to prosper and thrive for a season in this world, yet where is their happiness? Is there not a void unfilled? Is there not often a fearful foreboding of something in the future? Although they may be rich in this world's goods, surrounded by every thing this world affords to make them happy; yet ask them if they are satisfied, and if they answer honestly they will say no. There is a lack that nothing save the love of Jesus can fill.

The time will come when all these things must be given up, and then if destitute of the love and grace of God, awful must be our state indeed. Out of Christ we have no refuge in trouble, no hiding-place when the storm comes, no true friend in trials and afflictions. The time is soon coming when we shall all need a Friend stronger than earth now affords. Now we may secure him, but in a little while it will be too late. Ah! too late!

Sinner, choose ye this day whom ye will serve. To-morrow may be too late. Seek ye out a hiding-place to-day; to-morrow it may be past finding for you. Heed the warnings you have received, accept the invitations, for soon it will be too late, and then you must perish.

May God help us to improve what time we have to work in his vineyard, and some souls yet be saved before Jesus comes.

Gilmanton, N. H. N. B. McMurphy.

BEAUTIFUL RIVER.

Shall we gather at the river,
Where bright angel feet have trod?
With its crystal tide forever
Flowing by the throne of God?
Yes, we'll gather at the river;
The beautiful, the beautiful river;
Gather with the saints at the river
That flows by the throne of God.

On the margin of the river,
Washing up its silver spray,
We will walk and worship ever,
All the happy, golden day.

Ere we reach the shining river,
Lay we every burden down;
Grace our humble hearts deliver,
And provide a robe and crown.

At the smiling of the river,
Mirror of the Savior's face,
Saints, whom death will never sever,
Lift their songs of saving grace.

Soon we'll reach the silver river,
Soon our pilgrimage will cease;
Soon our happy hearts will quiver
With the melody of peace.

RUTHERFORD'S LOVE FOR JESUS' COMING.

Hear the soul-stirring breathings of Rutherford for the coming of Jesus; though dead, his words speak in life-inspiring tones to the saints now looking for, and so near the Revelation of the "Just One?"

"The Lord hath told you what ye should be doing until he comes; wait and hasten, saith Peter, for the coming of your Lord; all is night that is here, in respect of ignorance, and daily ensuing troubles, one always making way to another, as the ninth wave of the sea to the tenth! Therefore, sigh and long for the dawning of that morning, and the breaking of that day of the coming of the Son of Man, when the shadows shall flee away. Persuade yourself that the King is coming; read His letter sent before Him. Rev. 22: 20, 'Behold, I come quickly,' wait for the wearied night watch, for the breaking of the eastern sky, and think that ye have not a morrow; as the wise Father said, who being invited against to-morrow to dine with his friends, answered; "These many days I have had no morrow at all."

"I half call his absence cruel, and the mask and veil on Christ's face a cruel covering, that hideth such a fair face from a sin sick soul. I dare not challenge himself, but his absence is a mountain of iron upon my heavy heart. O, when shall we meet! O, how long it is to the dawning of the marriage day! O, sweet Lord Jesus, take wide steps! O, my Lord come over the mountain at one stride! O, my beloved, flee like a roe or a young hart, on the mountains of separation. O, that he would fold the heavens together like an old cloak, and shovel time and days out of the way, and make ready in haste the Lamb's wife for her husband. Since he looked upon me my heart is not mine own, he hath run away to heaven with it.

"O, day, dawn! O, time, run fast! O, Bridegroom, post, post away, that we may meet! O, heavens, cleave in two, that that bright face and head may set itself through the clouds! O, that the corn were ripe, and this world prepared for his sickle.

"The wife of youth, that wants her husband some years, and expects he shall return to her from overlands, is often on the sea-shore; every ship is her new joy; her heart loves the wind that shall bring him home. She asks at every passenger news, O, saw ye my husband? When shall he come? Is he shipped for a return? Every ship that carrieth not her husband is the breaking of her heart."

VITAL RELIGION.

Notwithstanding all the error that has crept into the churches of Christendom, vital religion does yet exist. And it exists as a blessed reality. It needs no better proof than the exact coincidence of judgment, taste, principles, and habits which prevail among those who have felt its power. Men in the wilds of the new country, in the crowded city, those who lived under the Jewish economy, and multitudes under the christian dispensation now, have all spoken in spite of their peculiarities, one common language of the heart, respecting God and Christ, sin and holiness. Of those who have felt its power, their hopes and fears, their joys and sorrows have been the same. Look at an example. For eighteen hundred years christians have thought, sung, and prayed with David, who reigned about three thousand years ago. How happens it that they have had scarcely a sentiment, a wish, or a feeling which he has not anticipated? Will it be ascribed to chance? How does it happen that persons so distant in time and place, in speculative theories of religion, and in outward modes of worship from each other, should, notwithstanding, so exactly harmonize? Can fancy, enthusiasm, or imagination, explain it? Ah, no!

Had you lived at the day of Pentecost, and heard the first disciples speaking to men of every nation under heaven in the language wherein they were born, you would have owned the reality of their pretensions, and confessed it a miracle. Behold then the counterpart of this miracle; equally astonishing and unaccountable upon any natural principle! All the difference is, that in that case one person spake many languages—in this, many persons of every kindred, and nation, and tongue, and people, whither the gospel hath come, speak one language.—Wm. H. Spencer.

SPIRITUALISM—WHAT IS IT, AND WHENCE IS IT?

The world has sought in vain, as yet, to know from whence so-called Spiritualism originates. Many have conjectured and sought in many ways to account for its varied manifestations; but hitherto no very satisfactory method of accounting for them has been settled upon. Some have attempted to account for them on the ground of odilic force, nerve aura, and other equally unknown causes. What does it signify to say that nerve aura or odilic force is the originating cause of a certain manifestation, when it is not ascertained what the originating cause—nerve aura and odilic force—itself?

That Spiritualism is every day gaining votaries to its cause is evident upon every hand. And wherefore is this? The reason evidently originates in the fact of the physical manifestations which its votaries can adduce in support of its positions.

Hitherto the Christian church has been unwilling to admit the fact of the manifestations; but, as proofs of the manifestations begin to accumulate, that position must be surrendered. What, then, is the last and only resort of the church of Christ? Why, evidently, admit what is most clearly prophesied will take place in the latter day—"Now the Spirit says expressly that in after times some will depart from the faith; giving heed to seducing spirits, and teachings of demons." In King James' translation the word demonion is translated devil, but this is evidently a mistranslation. Webster in his unabridged dictionary uses these words: "In the Scriptures the Greek word rendered devil is sometimes erroneously so rendered—demon is the word. For nothing is more certain than that different beings are intended." Now, this being the case, we must come to the only conclusion which a rational mind can come to—that the modern manifestations known as spiritual manifestations originate from this class of spirits.

Now, how are they characterized; that is, what will be the distinctive teachings of this class of beings? "Speaking lies in hypocrisy, and forbidding to marry." Now, is not this one of the distinctive characteristics of modern spiritualism? Do they not very lightly esteem the marriage relation, and are not their communications through their papers characterized by every variety of opinion upon every subject within the range of human thought?

But Paul, in 2 Thess. is more graphic in his description of the same phenomena. He declares that immediately after the "Man of sin" is revealed, (which undoubtedly refers to papacy,) then shall that wicked or, as the new translation has it, that lawless) one be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his wrath, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming—even him whose coming is after the working of Satan, with all power and signs and lying wonders, and with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish.

Now, it must be evident that this manifestation of Spiritualism is the exact fulfillment of this scripture, coming as it does directly upon the heels of the downfall of papacy. Who cannot see in this prophetic pen-portrait by the apostle an exact likeness of modern Spiritualism?

That Spiritualism is outspokenly infidel cannot be denied. They persecute Jesus Christ with a bitterness which even infidelity has not as yet manifested. They make no scruples in declaring that he was but a man, and quite an imperfect one at that. They have no scruples in declaring that the body of Jesus was never raised and shown to the disciples as his real body, but was made to appear by a pyschological effect upon their minds. Now, who cannot see in all this an Anti-Christ, an absolute opposer of the whole system of salvation by grace?

But the most important question is this. How shall we meet the issue? How most successfully oppose this Goliah of Gath who has defied the armies of the living God?

A work has recently appeared, called "The Powers of the Air, or Spiritualism—what it is, and what it is not." The author labors to show that the facts of spirit manifestation are undeniable; that a class of spirits, called by the apostle Paul the powers of the air, is the source of it all; that they control, to a greater or less extent, the minds and bodies of most men; that they operate sometimes by impression upon the mind, and sometimes by actually controlling a hand to write or the vocal organism to speak; that this is done by a spirit, just as it is done by men when they have a subject under mesmeric control; that the same law that will allow one man to gain over another mesmeric control will allow a . . . . spirit to do the same; that if a man is controlled by a devil, then possession of devils is a fact; if by a spirit of divination or fortune-telling, then the woman at Phillippi, as well as modern women, may be controlled to tell fortunes, that is, tell something that has passed, and guess at what may yet be to come.

The author labors to show that modern Spiritualism is identical in fact with possession of devils or demons of our Savior's day; that this power was only manifest to any considerable extent among the Jews after a lapse of some fifteen hundred years of physical and intellectual training under the Mosaic system; that by this training the nation was rendered the more physically and intellectually sensitive, and thus brought more directly in contact and under control of evil spirits; that when the Jews were scattered among all nations the manifestations from evil spirits ceased, because they, as a nation, relapsed into physical as well as intellectual grossness. But now, after a lapse of some eighteen hundred years, the Gentile, by the refining and elevating power of the gospel, has been brought up to the same degree of physical and intellectual sensitiveness that the Jew had attained to in the days of Christ and his apostles, consequently manifestations from evil spirits must at the present time appear for the same reason that they appeared among the Jews in the days of Christ. That holy or ministering spirits have some power to aid and help the children of men; but their power is not so great as the evil spirits, and hence if christians were not kept by the mighty power of God, they would utterly fail.

That the author of "The Powers of the Air" has said all that should be said I think is not the case, but that he has said some things in the right direction cannot be denied, and they ought to be backed up by the whole christian church. Certainly our Fathers in God's Israel should carefully examine this work, and if found to be a step taken in the right direction, then say God speed it.—Messenger.

For the World's Crisis.

THE SEAL OF THE LIVING GOD. Rev. 7: 2.—No. 3.

Once more John is carried back to the beginning of the first advent work, and on a third and only remaining line he is carried by the Spirit over the entire period of time from the resurrection of the first-fruits (Christ and his wave sheaf), down to the harvest (the resurrection of the saints), the living again of those that are Christ's at his coming.

In this third retrospective view he is shown (as the resurrected church will be shown when like him they shall be "in the Spirit on the Lord's day"), the work of the "Holy Spirit," as he had been shown on the two former occasions the work of the Father, "of whom are all things" (and we in him), and of the one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him.

But before we can make progress understandingly, we must ascertain from foregoing Scripture what is meant by the "seal" of God. To this end, in Eph. 1: 13, Paul tells us that the Holy Spirit of promise is the agent with which we believers are sealed in Christ, and constitutes the guarantee of our inheritance until the time of the redemption of the purchased possession, i. e., the time of the resurrection, when the sons of God are to be redeemed from the bondage of corruption. Passing from this to John 15: 26, and 17: 7, 13-15, Jesus tells us that if he went away he would send the Holy Spirit; and in 7: 37, John informs us that the Spirit was not yet (then) given, for Christ was not yet glorified; but immediately after its bestowment on the day of Pentecost, Peter says in Acts 2: 32, 33, "This Jesus hath God raised up (from the dead), and being by the favor of God exalted, and having received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this." In Malachi 3: 1, "the angel of the covenant" plainly designates Christ; and so here in Rev. 7: 2, the angel that has the seal of the living God as plainly points to Christ, who is seen by John, as he stands in Patmos, ascending from the east, that is, from the Mount of Olives, which is east of Jerusalem, and also east from Patmos.

Having overcome the world during his three years' ministry in it, he next overcomes the flesh on the cross, and then overcomes the devil, being justified by the Spirit in his resurrection from the dead, and is consequently now (then) prepared to ascend on high leading a multitude of captives (those who came out of their graves after his resurrection, Matt. 28: 52, 53), and constitute his "wave sheaf" and loaf baken with leaven (Lev. 10: 23), and give gifts unto men.

We must therefore digress a little here, to show this more clearly. In John 4: 35, Christ said, "The fields are already white to harvest, and he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal." In Matt. 13: 38, he says the field is the kosmos—world; the harvest is the end of the ionos—age.

Christ had come into the land which God gave him, and was soon to enter upon his office of High Priest, and according to the law must have the first-fruits, and, I understand, did gather it. These constituted the first band or company whom God had foreknown and predestinated to be conformed to the image of his Son, and now he calls them (from the dead), as they were also justified, and glorifies them, that they also whom God had given him, who were holy to the Lord for the priest (Lev. 23: 20), might be with him, and behold his glory. John 17: 24.

But you will please notice that one very important and essential particular is omitted, i. e., no mention of their having been sanctified is found in the passage (Rom. 8: 30); and this passing from their justification to their glorification reveals the fact that they were of those who lived under a former dispensation, when as yet the Spirit, through or by which we are sanctified, was not given.

In Rom. 8: 11, the apostle informs us that this Spirit (or seal) constitutes that power which is to also quicken our mortal bodies, and in verse fifteen calls it the Spirit of adoption, but in verse twenty-three shows us that it is not the adoption itself, for we are waiting for that, and it is the redemption of the body, i. e., the resurrection.

In Acts 2: 39, Peter tells the believing, repentant Jews, that the promise of this Spirit was first to them, and then to those "afar off" (Gentiles); and Paul, in Rom. 9: 4, affirms that the adoption also belonged to them; consequently in bringing these sons to glory this seal of the living God, the adopting agent, had to be brought into exercise. But the covenant and promise (Ps. 89: 27) required that Christ should be the first (Acts 26: 23) that should rise from the dead; and then next, the law required that he should have his wave-offering, and these were to constitute the first-fruits of the Spirit, or harvest. The angel, consequently, first takes 144,000, i. e., 12,000 out of each tribe of Israel, those spirits of just (or justified) men made perfect (Heb. 12: 23), the family in heaven (Eph. 3: 15); the ten thousand of his saints, or holy myriads (Jude 14); the angels of Michael (Rev. 12: 7); John's "fellow servants" (Rev. 22: 9), and 19: 10); the King of glory and his seed (Ps. 22: 30, and 24: 7, 10); the virgins which were redeemed from among men, the first-fruits unto God and the Lamb (Rev. 14); who will appear with Christ on Mt. Zion when he comes again to be glorified in his saints and admired in them that believe.

Then next in order is seen that company taken from among the Gentiles, for His name, i. e., to take on His name, become the Lamb's wife,—the seven women of Isa. 4: 1, or the seven churches of Rev. 1: 20; and it is for his specific reason that none of them can learn that song of the virgins, each having the place appointed them of his Father. This last or later company constitute the family in earth (Eph. 3: 15), those that are to be made alive at his coming (1 Cor. 15: 23); the harvest of wheat, to be gathered into the garner of the Lord; the children of the kingdom, who are to reign with Christ on the earth (Rev. 5: 9).

Now it is plain that this sealing time is co-extensive and co-terminous with the preaching of the gospel of the kingdom; consequently beginning with the first and ending with the second advent, which brings the resurrection of them who sleep in Jesus and the change of those who are alive and remain over unto the Lord's coming. G. W. Stetson.

Rutland, Vt., Feb. 8th, 1868.

BRIDLE YOUR TONGUE.

"Wherefore, all things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them." "The Golden Rule." Let us apply it to the regulation of the conversation. Evil speaking is one of the great evils of society. It is the bane, the curse of the church. Tattling, tale-bearing, and slander, are as common as wind and rain.

Many men and women seldom use their powers of speech but for evil speaking, of some grade, And because of this, society in general, and churches in particular, are in a state of constant agitation and contention. Earthquakes are common where slanderers live. The devil does a heavy business in this line. There are manufacturers, peddlers and receivers.

Some get up the slanderous story by direct manufacture, out of the raw material, or by putting "this and that together," so as to make something out of two or three nothings. Others take the story and peddle it out, running at swift speed from house to house, lest some other peddler should be ahead of them. And as they go and peddle their pack—unlike those of ordinary peddlers, which get less the farther they go—it increases at each successive stopping place.

Then there are receivers—good, stay-at-home bodies, that sit and open their ears to take in the filthy, slanderous story; and who from time to time, as the filthy stream flows in, with big eyes say, "You don't say so!"

Which is the worst—the manufacturer, the peddler, or the willing receiver? * * * But this much I say: I pity the poor creature who falls into their hands. The fox in the fable that became entangled in the grass of the brook, was in no very desirable state when the swarm of flies settled upon his head to suck his blood; but he was in a bed of down in comparison with the fate of the poor soul that falls into the hands, or rather mouths, of the party I just now referred to.

The man who is beset in the houseless desert by a pack of hungry wolves, is in no desirable situation; but I would about as soon make a campaign against the wolves, as to attempt to defend myself against the three worthies referred to above.

But if you live by the Golden Rule, you'll never originate a tale of slander—never be the bearer of one. Let me tell you just how you would like others to speak of you. You would like them to speak respectfully, or else not mention your name at all. "Yes," you say, "if you cannot speak well of me, do not speak my name at all; make no reference to me whatever." Very well. Here comes in the golden rule: "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them."

And if you observe the Golden Rule, you'll not willingly be a listener to the slanderer. Would you not prefer that those who may hear the news-peddler speaking evil of you, should in some way manifest their unwillingness to hear you slandered, and thus rebuke the defamer? Do you even so.

A lady did this most admirably one day. She was at a quilting party—a good place for loose tongues. The news-mongers had just served up a new piece of scandal. The ladies, while plying the needle, were making their comments, when the lady referred to was seen to be busily engaged filling her ears with cotton from the quilt. "What is the matter?" asked one and another. "I'm tired of this talk!" said she.

May God write "The Golden Rule" in your heart, and may it adorn your whole outward life.—Earnest Christian

Pleasing Self.—One thing impressed my own mind most peculiarly, when the Lord was first opening my eyes—I never found Christ doing a single thing for himself. Here is an immense principle. There was not one act, in all Christ's life, done to serve or to please himself. An unbroken stream of blessed, perfect, unfailing love flowed from him, no matter what the contradiction of sinners, one amazing and unwavering testimony of love, and sympathy, and help, but it was ever others, and not himself, that were comforted, and nothing could weary it, nothing turn it aside. Now the world's whole principle is self, doing well for itself.

☞ You can never catch the word that has gone out of your lips. Once spoken, it is out of your reach; do your best, you can never recall it. Therefore, take care what you say. Never speak an unkind word, an impure word, a lying word, a profane word.

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

Boston, Wednesday, March 4, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, or World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ ATTENTION! ATTENTION!!

Our subscribers in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, will find their credit of money received for the Crisis on the strip pasted on their paper, which shows the date to which their subscription pays, instead of the No., as formerly acknowledged. Others will be sent likewise as fast as we get each State so arranged. So you can look at the date on your paper, and see if it is changed after sending us money.

DISCUSSION AT WEBSTER.

We have just closed an interesting discussion at Webster, Mass. Our opponent was Mr. Joseph Perry, of Thompson, Ct. Our question for debate read as follows: "Does the Bible teach that man possesses an immortal soul or spirit that continues to exist in a conscious state between death and the resurrection?"

The first evening we pressed the point that we could not find proof in the Bible that any other spirit leaves man at death but the breath of life in his nostrils. We continued to inquire for proof, till our opponent admitted that the Bible did not teach in plain terms that the soul or spirit is immortal; and said Christ did not come to teach that doctrine. We replied that the reason he did not come to teach it was simply because it was not true. The usual arguments were presented to show man has an immortal spirit; but no passage could be found to declare any such doctrine; yet he still affirmed that man has an immortal spirit. In answer to his unproved assertions, the following are some points presented, which he did not attempt to meet:

If man has a spirit that exists as a conscious entity after death, then it was either pre-existent, created at birth, or transmitted. If pre-existent, then there must be a reservoir of spirits waiting for bodies, before they can manifest themselves. We inquired why the Lord should put the pure, innocent spirits into such bad prisons as are human bodies? If created, then the Lord must be continually making them, even for illegitimates. If transmitted, then they must be divisible, and destructible; consequently not immortal. He admitted that the spirits are not created at birth; neither are they pre-existent; hence the third position must be the true one. We inquired, was the spirit a man before it entered into the man? If not, is it one after it leaves? Did it think before it came into man? If not, will it think after it leaves him? If it were possible for the sensation of pain and joy to be in an immaterial spirit, because of its connection with a material body, it could have none when disconnected; hence it could have neither pain in hell, nor joy in heaven, without the body.

The spirit is said to be immaterial. But an immaterial being cannot suffer pain from a material wound, because it is impossible to make a material wound in an immaterial being. Man suffers pain from a material wound, therefore man is a material being. Man who suffers pain from a material wound, feels joy when it ceases. But the man who feels pain and joy is the same being who has love, hatred, envy, sorrow, and all other emotions common to man; therefore, the man who has these emotions is a material being, and not an immaterial, disembodied spirit.

It is said the immortal spirit is what thinks, reasons, hopes, fears, loves, hates, repents, believes and is saved. But some men are idiots, insane, and cannot reason; therefore, if the intelligence is the immortal part, some men have no immortality. Again, it is said, the immortal part does the thinking. But the beasts think; then it would follow that the beasts are immortal.

If the spirit is immaterial it cannot be affected by material fire; hence could feel no pain therein. It could not be burnt, because immaterial; for as soon as consumption takes place, it would be proof of its materiality. Why threaten man with what cannot harm him. Again, the spirit either has a form, or it has not. If it has, it is material; if it has not, what is it? Henry Ward Beecher says of man's spirit, "It is formless, shadowless, no eye beholds it, no hand handles it, no pencil may draw its lineaments." Just think of a being that has no form, not substantial enough to make a shadow, not enough of him to be seen or handled, or even to be traced in his outline by a pencil! Is such a nonentity a man? Can such an one praise the Lord? Absurd.

The spirit is either a part of God or it is not. If it is a part of God, can it sin? If it is a part of man, it is mortal, because man is mortal. As nothing can die but what is mortal, if the spirit dies a spiritual death, it must be spiritually mortal. If the spirit is a spiritual entity, and immortal, it must have spiritual immortality; how, then, can it die a spiritual death? If literal death kills a literal being, spiritual death must kill a spiritual one.

If the spirit is the man, it has the name. That which has the name is material and mortal; therefore an immaterial spirit is not the man. Adam was the name of the first man. Adam was made of dust. Adam sinned; and Adam died. If the spirit is the conscious part, it is the intelligent part, which is innocent or guilty. If it is eternally conscious, it is never unconscious, or without knowledge. But that which has knowledge goes to sheol; therefore the guilty or innocent part goes there. That which goes to sheol is unconscious while there; therefore if the spirit is the knowing and conscious part, it is not eternally so; hence the scriptures do not sustain the doctrine of the immortality of the soul or spirit.

Man, the accountable being, was either made of dust, or he was not. If he was not, the record in Gen. 2: 7 is not true. If he was made of dust, as the Bible declares, he is a material being, and that which is immaterial is no part of him. It is impossible to make an immaterial being out of material elements. Man was made of material things. The one thus made is conscious, is commanded, sins, repents, dies, is raised, punished, or rewarded; hence the man, the material being, made of the dust of the ground, is the accountable being; therefore the spirit is not the accountable part, and eternally conscious, or immortal.

If the spirit existed before it was united with the body, it must have been mature, or else been developed with the body. If mature at the first, then it should be as effective in an infant as in the man of sixty. But if it is developed with the body, then, of course, it will decay with the same. Facts are abundant to prove the latter position.

As the conscious being is the accountable one, and the accountable one is mortal, and in the grave, it follows that man has no conscious spirit that remains alive when he is dead.

Our opponent did not see fit to notice the foregoing points. The discussion occupied four evenings; and we were much pleased with the results. We preached at the same place on the Lord's day, and had a heavenly meeting. Quite a number came from East Douglas, ten miles, and others from Worcester, some sixteen miles. We had a feast from the Lord. We left an open door for the truth in Webster.

PREPARATIONS FOR WAR.

The preparations for war are now without a parallel in the history of the world, and we believe the nations will find use for all their weapons of death. A terrible struggle is approaching. As wickedness increases, the spirit of war abounds. A spirit of insubordination prevails among all classes in church and state. Each claims the right to do as he pleases. The demons are teaching the people that "each man and each woman . . . has a perfect right, under all circumstances, . . . to do as he or she pleases." This they call one of their "eternal principles." Millions are adopting these infidel sentiments, and are purposing to remodel the governments of the world so as to be in harmony with these sentiments. These are strange times.

The following is from the New York World of Feb. 18th:—

"The Russian government has ordered a very large number of Berdan rifles to be manufactured at Colt's Armory, Hartford, Conn., and requisite machinery is in course of rapid preparation. The contract will keep that large establishment busy for eighteen months. Important orders for other weapons have also been received from other European nationalities, and most of our armories throughout the country are actively engaged in the manufacture of small arms, such as the 'Remington,' and others.

EUROPE'S ARMED PEACE

Is something more formidable than Europe in a state of war has hitherto been. The Journal des Debats published the other day a statistical statement which professes to give the aggregate of the armies placed on foot by the European Powers in time of peace. These collective forces reach, it appears, the appalling amount of seven and a half millions of men under arms. Supposing each soldier to cost on an average $170, United States currency, per annum, the whole expense is equal to very nearly $3, 500,000 per day, or over $1,000,000,000 a year. This, of course, only represents the positive expenditure incurred, without reference to the negative loss sustained by throwing out of work and rendering unproductive an amount of population equal to that of a second-rate power. This mania for arming extends in all directions, and even the Pope of Rome has spent nearly one million francs, just collected by the Paris Committee of St. Peter, in the purchase of arms."

DESIRE TO DEPART.

"REV. MILES GRANT:—Dear Sir,—I wish you would allow me to make an inquiry of you relative to the proper construction of Phil. 1: 23, in which Paul speaks of departing 'to be with Christ.' I am a believer in your creed of 'Materialism,' if that is the true name, and have read with much interest some of your pamphlets, etc. But the verse above troubles me, and my opponents use it as their stronghold in argument, and it does seem to show that Paul at least expected to pass at once to glory; and I should be very glad if you would aid me in explaining this verse consistent with our belief. Will you please allow me to hear from you on this point soon? Very truly yours, J. T. CLARKE."

This question has been answered several times in the Crisis, but we cheerfully comply with our Bro.'s request. The following is the passage with its context:—

"According to my earnest expectation and my hope, that in nothing I shall be ashamed, but that with all boldness, as always, so now also Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life, or by death. For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain. But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labor; yet what I shall choose I wot not. For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ; which is far better."

The pronoun I represents Paul as a whole. There is not one word about soul or spirit in the whole subject. In the 21st ver. he says, "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." The pronoun me represents the one who is to live, or die, and that is Paul. In the 20th verse he says, "Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life or by death." He does not say "Christ shall be magnified in my spirit," but "in my body." It appears that Paul was "in a strait betwixt" living and dying. If he lived he must suffer "a great fight of afflictions. If he should sleep with Jesus, then he would be at rest, and not be conscious that one moment of time had passed till he should awake in the morning of the resurrection. He did not know which he would choose, so far as he was personally concerned; but it would be "more needful," or better for them, to have him remain alive. He then brings a third consideration, and says he had "a desire to depart, and to be with Christ, which is far better" than to live and endure the great affliction, or to die and sleep in Jesus till his second coming. Job expressed his choice between living and dying, and said, "O that thou wouldest hide me in the grave." Job 14: 13.

The question is now, What did Paul mean by the word "depart?" If the reader should say, when away from home, "I have 'a desire to depart and to be with' my family," would any get a wrong idea of his meaning? Would any one suppose the pronoun I meant some immaterial part of him, was the one who would like to depart and be with the family? Such an idea is too absurd to be entertained for a moment. Why then say when Paul had a desire to depart, that he only meant some immaterial part of himself, that no one ever saw or can see? If we accept the word "depart," only one idea presents itself; and that is, that Paul desired to be translated like Enoch and Elijah, and be with Christ; yet he does not say, or intimate, that he expected any such thing; but he does say, "If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth me, if the dead rise not?"—1 Cor. 15: 32. Thus it will be seen that Paul's only hope of a future life was in the resurrection of the dead.

The word rendered "depart," occurs in but one other passage, Luke 12: 36, where it is rendered return: "And ye yourselves like unto men that wait for their Lord, when he will return from the wedding." The word analuo, rendered depart in Phil. 1: 23, and return in Luke 12: 36, is employed in twenty-two manuscripts of the Septuagint, including the Oxford, to translate the Hebrew word shoov in Josh. 22: 8, which it is said always means to return.

In the Emphatic Diaglott the passage in Philippians is rendered as follows: "I have an earnest desire for the returning and being with Christ, since it is much to be preferred." This is in harmony with all of Paul's writings.

DULL TIMES.

The New York correspondent of the Boston Journal gives a sad report of the state of things in the great city. Wages and rents are very high, but business is exceedingly dull. The correspondent says:—

"We have here a singular state of things unusual and inexplicable. Business has not been as dull nor commercial matters as gloomy and uncertain as now. There is no market for anything scarcely. A great number of costly stores are for rent and yet the price has not come down at all. Thousands of clerks, book-keepers and salesmen have been discharged, yet rents have not come down for houses. Very few dwellings are to let at all, and those are higher than they were last May. Nearly every tenant has been notified of an advance on and after next May. The thousand dollar houses are to command twelve hundred dollars, and so in proportion through the whole list. Very few leave their houses, preferring to pay the advanced rent. There are thousands of mechanics who have nothing to do, yet will not work for less than five dollars a day, preferring idleness and hunger. Leading builders have been notified by their workmen that the wages of five dollars a day are not satisfactory. The new demand is six dollars a day for eight hours' work."

"GLAD TIDINGS."

Bro. Wm. H. Spencer, Brockport, N. Y., has just issued a new monthly, entitled "The Glad Tidings." It it is an excellent periodical, and we wish Bro. Spencer much success. He is a devoted, earnest, and intelligent christian; who is alive to the great truth of the speedy coming of Christ. His means are quite limited, but he feels anxious to do all in his power to help spread the light. Our readers will recollect his interesting articles in the Crisis. He has struggled hard against adverse winds, that have arisen in consequence of his hope; but he feels willing to suffer with Christ.

"The Glad Tidings" is octavo size, 32 pp "Terms, one copy, per annum, in advance, $1.00. One copy, six months, 50cts. Single copies, post paid, 10cts. To any one sending five subscribers, with the money, one copy gratis, or a commission of 20 per cent."

The following is his introductory:—

With this number we introduce a new publication to your notice and patronage. If any introductory were necessary, the watchword of Paul would be sufficient: "The Lord is at hand." We believe this with all our heart. A firm and abiding conviction of this fact is what prompts us to embark in this enterprise. We have started in the strength of the Lord; in him we trust implicitly; men of the world seek a money basis for an enterprise; but the Lord is our basis, and through his grace, and the assistance of our brethren and friends, we expect to succeed. But what we do must be done quickly. A little more toil on earth, a little more sorrow and trials, and our long looked for Deliverer will come to redeem his people from the power of death and the grave. Evidence enough, it would seem, to startle the world, warrants us in this belief.

The enemy of all righteousness is flooding the land with soul-destroying literature, and earth is becoming one vast scene of corruption, while but few publications are spreading the truth of God to arrest it. There is always work for reformers; and there is always room for publications that come up faithfully to the conflict with the powers of darkness. Such shall be the character of the 'Glad Tidings.' By the help of God we will endeavor to make this such a publication as the 'perilous times' of the world demand—that will be a bright and shining light to the pilgrim's pathway, and a lamp to guide sinners to the ark of safety. It is God's work that we have espoused. He has been our counselor, and in him we rely for direction. Therefore, we come before you as a humble instrument of God in spreading Bible truth, and preparing men for the coming judgment. We believe, if our brethren and those friendly to the truth will assist us with their patronage and prayers, we can make a publication which people will love to read, and be profitably read by all. We know we have a very unpopular message to proclaim, but in the sight of the Lord we dare not shrink from our God-imposed task. The judgment message never has been a popular one; but the message must be sounded. Our publications already in the field are doing a blessed work. But the harvest truly is plenteous and the laborers are few; therefore, we wish to join hands in the work, and by every means which the Lord may give us, to push on the battle. Give us your assistance, and the Lord will bless you.

With the proceeds of this publication we propose to establish a fund to assist in the great work of spreading Bible truth and saving sinners. So it is a work in which all should be interested.

We feel thankful to our friends for their kind words and encouragement. We have not quite the number of subscribers that we desired to start with, but we believe our friends will not be tardy in sending on their subscription and subscribers that we may have no embarrassment in its publication. Let all take some part in this work. If you cannot send subscribers for the Glad Tidings, pray for it."

PILGRIMS TO MECCA.

"Carleton's" letter to the Boston Journal, from Alexandria Jan. 15th, 1868, when speaking of the Mohammedans, and their pilgrimage to Mecca, says:—

"This is the season for pilgrimages to Mecca, and here are the pilgrims—several hundred of them—Circassians, Tartars and Turks. The Turkish government requires all steamers entering its ports, or plying between Constantinople and the Eastern ports, to provide accommodation on deck for this class of passengers. If they can reach Mecca, walk seven times round the tomb of the Prophet, and kiss the stones of the temple, their salvation is sure. They are poor wretches. There is an almost inconceivable distance between them and those who enjoy such civilization as may be found in the United States. They are dressed in sheepskin; the men had a great mop of buffalo skin for a cap, and their wardrobe may be comprised under the general term of old rags—a coat, blanket, turban, a flint-lock pistol, knife, a bag, and you have the outfit.

There are almost two hundred on board—men, women and children. They occupy all spare space on the forward deck, and there are about thirty in a coop on the quarter-deck, protected from the weather by awnings. You look in vain for those types of beauty of which so much has been written. Watch this old man who comes to the captain and inquires the direction of Mecca; he is about to repeat his prayers, and would turn his face toward the holy shrine. He spreads his blanket on the deck, takes his bearings from the officer, raises his hands to his head, kneels, touches his forehead to the deck twice, sits on his knees, mumbles something in Arabic, looking round all the while to see what is going on, gazes upward, watches a sailor hanging by a rope at work in the rigging, puts his forehead to the deck again, keeps up his mumbling, rises, turns his head to the right, then to the left, thus recognizing the good and the bad angels which stand ever by his side, raises his hand again and worship is ended."

SPRINGFIELD NATIONAL ADVENT CAMP-GROUND.

The Committee have published a lithographed plan of our new camp-ground, which gives a good representation of the shape of the ground, the circle for the seats, the lots for the tents, which are all numbered, the locations of the various avenues, buildings, etc., etc. The plan will be a great convenience for all who attend the campmeeting, and be interesting to those who do not.

Price, postpaid, 20 cents per copy. For sale at this office. *

PROPHETIC CHART.

This Chart is now ready for sale. It is a large, illustrative Chart of the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation, with the arrangement of chronology in harmony with W. C. Thurman, giving the chronology of the world, showing the 6000 years will terminate in 1875. Also giving the Jubilee arrangement, briefly showing that the great Jubilee will fall in A. D. 1868. It brings out conspicuously the great Image of Daniel 2nd chapter; also the Beasts of Daniel 7th and 8th, with the leopard beast and scarlet-colored beast of Rev. 13th and 17th chapters, with a description of the great red dragon of Rev. 12th chapter, all in large size, making it a grand thing in aiding preachers, or any one, in understanding prophecy. The size will be about six feet square, mounted, for the use of churches, or for traveling preachers.

Send in your orders immediately. Price, $10.00. For sale at this office. *

BOOK NOTICE.

REVIEW OF "THE SEALED BOOK OF DANIEL OPENED," showing it to be totally unreliable. (By special request.) Also a brief statement of the Argument for 1868. By A. Hale. Boston: Rockwell & Rollins, printers, 122 Washington Street. 1868.

The above is the title of a pamphlet of sixty-four pages, just issued, some of which have been left with us for sale. Price 15 cents; postage 2 cts. *

NEW TRACT.

"THAT MAN OF SIN." By Eld. O. R. Fassett.

The above is the title of a new tract just published by the W. A. C. P. Association, to which is added "The Only Hope," and "The True and Only Hope of the Church." An interesting and valuable tract. Price 5 cents single, postage 2 cents; 50 cents per dozen, postage 6 cents. *

THE POWERS OF THE AIR;

Or, Spiritualism: What it is, and what it is not. By one who has had much painful experience during a period of over four years.

For sale at this office. Price, cloth $1.25 by mail; paper $1.00.

"THE FIRST DAY SABBATH."

Those who wish a thorough work on the Sabbath question, will do well to get Bro. T. M. Preble's work, entitled, "The First Day Sabbath." For sale at this office. Price $1.50, postage 20 cents.

Stories for Young Pilgrims.—Vol. II.

Another neat little volume of 200 pages, with 12 illustrations, has been issued by the Advent Christian Publication Society, and is for sale at this office for 80 cents postpaid. A good book for your Sunday School library. Send for one.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, on Wilbraham Camp-ground, Friday, August 23d, it was—Resolved, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments	333.07
E. Bellows	2.00
C. Colegrove	5.00
W. C. Keys	.50

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	114.55

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society, should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$3912.00
For the poor of the Memphis Mission, as acknowledged by J. V. Himes in last week's Crisis	62.50
Received by M. H. Piper, at Lowell Street Chapel, (who forgets the name), from some person in payment of pledge, made at Wilbraham campmeeting	5 00

W. & E. Sharick, for the poor of Memphis Mission, 5.00.

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments	$227.20
E. Williams	5.00
Mrs. S. R. Robbins	10.00
E. L. Marsh	5.00

For the World's Crisis.

HELP FOR FREEDMEN.

The members of the Mission at Memphis join with the Freedmen in giving thanks to their friends in the north for liberal contributions in money and clothing for the poor. Many barrels and boxes have been received, containing valuable articles for the relief of the needy.

I wish to say to the friends of the Freedmen at this time, that while the appeal from Memphis was promptly heeded, and the wants of the Mission supplied, St. Louis is not to forgotten.

In my late visit to St. Louis, I found that they had only been supplied in part with clothing for the poor. And the attention of the friends of the Freedmen is hereby called to the wants of the Mission. I will add, that the Missions in St. Louis and Memphis are united in sympathy and work, and have no rival interest except to see who shall do the most good to suffering humanity. We are one, and work together for the same great cause. Friends can send to either mission they think best; but at present, as I said before, the Mission at St. Louis has need of garments for the poor.

Send to H. K. Flagg, 1136 North Fifth Street, corner of Biddle and Fifth, St. Louis, Mo. And for the Memphis Mission send to I. I. Leslie, corner of Fourth and Safferan Streets, North Memphis, Tenn.

Send by freight—the Star Line. It will be safe, and they will get them in due season, with the charges less than by express.

J. V. HIMES.

For the World's Crisis.

THE MEMPHIS MISSION.

OSCEOLA, ARK., JAN. 24, 1868.

To the Secretary of A. A. M. Board:

Dear Brother:—Having done what I could in Memphis, connected with the chapel and cause there, I concluded to go out and look up new fields of labor. The door being opened up the river, about fifty miles, I took the boat and landed first at Craighead Point, Mississippi Co., Ark. Here I had a friendly reception from Mr. C. H. Halcomb. And on the next plantation, a mile distant out, on Morgan's Point, I had a kind reception from Mr. O'Dane, who has the charge. These gentlemen, who make no profession of religion, gave me full liberty to visit and preach on the plantations, and do the freedmen what good I might be able to do; at the same time making me welcome at their houses and tables.

I found several hundred freedmen, all of whom received me and my message most gladly. I opened to them the gospel of the kingdom, and made them see that Christ was soon coming, and that his reign would be on the earth, a literal one. I found two intelligent freedmen who were ministers of the gospel. They are temperate, pious men, which cannot be said of most southern colored preachers. These men had been at work, and had already brought most of the freedmen on the Morgan's Point plantation to Christ. And as soon as I opened the question of the Lord's coming, they and the whole flock received it. They said they had had some light by the Spirit on the subject, but it was not clear. "De northern white man clear away de mist." They came out in the full faith. On the other plantation there are more unconverted ones, but they all received the word with gladness.

I labored some ten days with them, and had joyful and successful meetings. The result of my visit will be the addition of two good preachers to the new conference in Tennessee, and one church of from forty to fifty members. These ministers and members will scatter the light and truth in all the region. They are going to put up a log chapel, and have invited Bro. Reed to hold a tent meeting this summer.

Having finished my work, I took the steamer on the 17th for Osceola, from which place I now write. Here I was received by Lieut. Mix, of the Freedmen's Bureau. On the Sabbath, the 18th, I spoke to the freedmen in their new chapel, not quite finished. I had a good hearing. They received me as an angel of help sent from God. I am the first white man that has come to their assistance from the North. They feel very grateful, and joyful indeed. They have just put up a good house that will hold three hundred. They feel the need of a teacher and preacher, and claim one from us. This is the county seat, and an important river town also. I have organized a church, and supply them with preaching by Bro. Jackson from Morgan's Point till we can do better.

The Rebel sentiment here is very strong; but a prudent man will have no difficulty.

Respectfully yours, JOSHUA V. HIMES.

NOTE FROM ELDER LEROY JACKSON, A FREEDMAN.

To the Advent Brethren in the North:—

Dear Brethren:—I was born a slave in Yellow Busha Co., Miss. I am, as I suppose, about twenty-seven years old. I have been in Arkansas about five years. I was converted when I was barely ten years old. Always had it on my heart to preach Jesus. I began to speak in 1857, among the slaves. I have labored in Ark. and Tenn. for five years past, and have seen many converted to Christ. It is now nearly two years since my mind was stirred up on the second coming of Christ. I found myself preaching upon the subject in almost every sermon. I had a deep feeling in my heart that it was nigh, and that the present living generation would see Christ come. I can't say why I had this impression, but it rested on me. And John 14: 1-3, Rev. 20: 1-6, and other passages on the second coming, greatly interested my heart. In this state of mind, I had the great privilege of hearing Eld. J. V. Himes, your missionary from the North. He gave me light. His explanations of the word of God cleared away the mist, and I see clear. His explanation of the great image, in Daniel, and the 24th chapter of Matthew, and other scriptures, set the matter in a clear light before my mind. I am filled with great delight.

I have spoken to you, at the North, that I might thank you for sending us the truth on the second coming, so that I and my afflicted race may get ready for that day. After hearing Eld. Himes all through, I find that I am with you, and shall help to spread the light of the soon coming as far as I can.

LEROY JACKSON.

Morgan's Point, Miss. Co., Ark.

The above was written at the dictation of Eld. Jackson. I am much pleased with him. The door is open to him on all the plantations. I have arranged with him to devote all his time to this work, for $15 per month, if the Board think best to employ him. J. V. H.

For the World's Crisis.

FROM JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

BRO. GRANT:—The little church in this place are firm as a rock, and express their determination to lose their lives before they will give up their faith, or compromise the blessed truth they have lately received. There is the most subtle and bitter opposition from the different sects; and even one of the newspapers commenced an attack on us and the church, but the editor found very soon that it would not pay, so he stopped. Another man, a rich sceptic, said to one of our brethren, a steward in the Methodist church, whose wife and little son had been baptized, that Bro. Wilson and myself ought to be whipped and driven out of town.

"Well, perhaps you had better undertake," said the brother. "But what for? do you not believe the Bible?"

"No," said the man.

He meant to say to him that he was a sceptic, or infidel, but made a mistake, and said, "You are an impostor." The man struck at him, and as the brother was a southern man, and had not hardly grace enough to keep him in the trying moment, he gave him what they call a chastisement; but they were parted, and no particular damage done, only the man called him in the next day or two and told him he thought more of him than ever. But the brother thinks he will be more on his guard the next time. I write this to let you know how excited the people are on the subject.

Another instance of a more pleasing character. When Bro. Grant and Pratt were at Rochester, N. Y., with the tent, there came along by the tent, from North Carolina, a man who had been to Rome, N. Y., to contest a law-suit of $12,000,—money out of which he was cheated during the war. He got judgment, but could not collect it. His name is John B. Wadsworth. He saw the tent, and thought it was a circus; so he went in, but, behold, it was preaching. He listened, was convicted, and prayed the Lord to forgive him; but not until he gave up the revenge that was in his heart against the man who had robbed him of all he had (for he wanted to kill him). At last he relinquished his hold on him in his heart, and found peace. The result was, he felt he must go through the Southern States and scatter tracts, and tell people from house to house that Jesus is coming, and they must get ready. Bro. Pratt ordered some tracts sent to Baltimore, which he could get when he arrived there. So he took up his line of march on foot, walked to Baltimore, got his tracts, called at every house he could, talked, prayed, and warned them to get ready, sometimes sleeping in the woods when there were no houses. He kept on in this way until he arrived here in Jacksonville, and only rode seven miles between Rochester, N. Y., and Jacksonville, Fla.

What do you think of that, you old believers in this gospel of the kingdom, who have never gone out without the camp? May the Lord help others to go and do likewise. Bro. Wilson purchased him a suit of clothes, and we gave him a bundle of tracts, and he has gone on his way rejoicing, happy in God that the man robbed him of all the "filthy lucre" he had, which would have been the means of sinking him in perdition. O, how wonderful are the ways of the Most High!

The Lord will have the people warned of the coming judgment, and, if one class will not do it, he will send out others. I tremble for those who have this precious message and are living in ease and doing nothing to spread it abroad.

We have four little boys converted here, and three of them have been baptized. It seems as though the Lord was laying the burden on them to labor to bring others to Christ. One of them says if the Lord does not come he will be a preacher. He thinks now he can convince the Methodist minister that he is wrong in his views.

Our meetings here are as follows: Sunday, in the forenoon, we have a new kind of Sunday School for young and old, and it is hard to determine which are the most interested, although I preach to the children. Preaching afternoon and evening, and prayer meeting every evening through the week except Saturday. Great concourses of people turn out at the baptisms, and our preaching and views are the topics of the day. If it were not for the ministers and professors, we should take the people en masse. But it is not popular. It is true now as in the days of Christ. Little flock, fear not. Yours in the blessed hope,

Jacksonville, Fla. P. A. SMITH.

For the World's Crisis.

"OPEN COMMUNION."

MR. EDITOR:—Dear Sir,—I feel it a duty to thank the Crisis for the exposition on this subject, contained in a previous number. What you said about "Let a man examine himself," came with the greatest force to my mind; for in the Greek it is emphatic. I now see that every thing is sectarian that destroys love; and that if we wish to escape the curse, pronounced in the third angels' message (Rev.) on those who keep not the commandment of God, we should give heed to John 3: 4-6, where love, and not the decalogue, is the commandment of God. John says he need not give a new commandment, for Jesus (who is the beginning of the new dispensation, Col. 1: 18), said, "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another." Why should one judge another man's servant? Before his own Master he standeth or falleth. I shall, in future, invite to the Lord's table all those who consider themselves christians.

Yours in the truth, I. LAMB.

For the World's Crisis.

A LAMENTABLE STATE OF THINGS.

At a meeting of ministers held in New York, last month, to see what could be done to arouse people, the Rev. Lyman Abbott, in a five minutes' speech, presented some startling facts concerning things in that city. One and a half million of money were expended for the work of God yearly, and seven millions for public amusements. Three hundred and twelve Sabbath schools, eight thousand grog shops, two hundred and twenty-two ministers, fifteen hundred professional thieves, and three thousand five hundred prostitutes. No wonder they were discouraged looking for signs of the conversion of the world.

Paul told us this state of things should come to pass in the last days. See 2 Tim. 3: 7. And this was to be among professors, who had a form of godliness.

Other cities are as bad as New York. No wonder this minister said the devil was busy while others slept. Pleasure is the order of the day with professors. One said to me a few days since, he wished I would go up to their prayer meeting and help the few pray, as he and others of the same church were going to a ball.

So it is going everywhere. The worldly spirit has converted the professed church. Vital godliness is not tolerated in such churches. They believe in having religion and not know it. If one knows it, he never had it. If he has it, he cannot lose it. If he loses it, he never had it. No wonder worldly people reject such teaching as this; yet it is the sum and substance of John Calvin's teaching, in which so many believe at this day. Suppose the world to be converted to such nonsense as that; they would take more comfort in dancing than going to meetings where such stuff is talked.

Religion and faith are nearly gone from the earth, as Christ said it would be in the last days, and we are in the last days; signs showed and spoken out by professors. Let us take warning and keep clear of the spirit of the world, that that day overtake us not as a thief. HIRAM MUNGER.

For the World's Crisis.

OUR CAUSE.

BRO. GRANT:—I have of late spent five weeks in Maine, two Sundays in Kennebunkport, one in Portland, and two in Biddeford, besides evening meetings in other places. And I am glad to say there is an interest to hear Bible doctrine and faith preached; and when they come once they come again.

At Kennebunkport the house was well filled with attentive hearers, solicitous to know the truth, which, if believed, will make wise unto salvation. Brn. W. H. Mitchell and B. S. Emery preach to them the first two Sundays of each month. There was not so much interest in their conference meetings as I could wish; nevertheless, they have some blessed seasons in exhorting one another; but by grace, through faith, they might be more blessed.

At Biddeford there is much interest. In 1860 our brethren, few in number, commenced an Advent meeting; a few came out to hear the everlasting gospel, but it was an up-hill work; sometimes almost discouraged, then faith would take hold, others would come in to hear the blessed truth and lend a helping hand; then they would be encouraged to persevere; thus by the grace of God, prayer, and corresponding effort, they have been prospered, additions have been made continually to their number by conversion to God and his word. They have built a chapel large enough to hold four hundred people, and they find it now too small. Sunday evenings many come that are unable to find seats. The Lord is with them by his converting grace. Some are inquiring the way of life, some putting on the Lord Jesus Christ. It was good to labor among them. I enjoyed it much, and wish them prosperity, harmony with Christ, and the love of God to be shed abroad in their hearts more abundantly.

At Portland I found the cause in a good condition, as I could best judge. It was a stormy day, but the faithful I used to see in former years, with a goodly addition, were out to hear the word. The conference meeting was blessed, the disciples full of sweet expectation, with joy and praise, knowing redemption is very nigh. God bless them with the faith of assurance that will keep them alive to the things of God, and help them to be active in every good word and work.

We must do all we can to convert men by grace to Christ and his word, so they may be saved in the kingdom. Praise the Lord, he is with us in all our efforts rightly directed, In almost all localities some are turning from idols to the living God, and to wait for his Son from heaven. Praise his holy Name forever. Thine full of courage, L. BOUTELL.

Salem, Mass., Feb. 25th, 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

THE DORCAS MISSION.

It is my purpose, by the will of God, to report receipts in our paper twice a month. Our friends have already been informed that we do not publish all that we receive. Many prefer that their contributions should be registered in heaven, so that we acknowledge their donations by letter only. Yet we give the full amount of what we receive at stated times. By this method we can more fully see the hand of the Lord in supplying our needs; for our friends cannot possibly know by our reported receipts whether we are having abundant contributions or otherwise; for sometime not one half are published, and then at other times nearly all are recorded, but we give no intimation of our needs, whether they are many or few. Thus we are saved from all grumbling. We continually look to the Lord, and we expect that he will provide in his own way; so we have our hearts filled with love and peace toward all.

The following receipts are for the present month, up to the 15th day inclusive: A box of clothing and $5 00 from C. W. Smith, of Tamarack, Ill.; a barrel of clothing, etc., and $6.10 from friends in Haverhill, Mass. Many were clothed by this barrel of blessings. P. Sargent, Lawrence, Mass., $2.00; O. L. Fletcher, Buckland, Conn., $2.00; a barrel of clothing, etc., and $2.00 from Ruth T. Woodbury, of Lewiston, Me.; "one that pities the poor," Edinburgh, N. Y., $2.00; Wm. Christian, Newark, O., $7.00; Sr. J. D. Proctor, Downings Mills, N. H., $3.00, and a barrel of clothing; Mrs. E. D. Randolph, Riverdale, N. Y., $5.00. The $2.50 sent as a New Year's gift from Chester, Mass., was received, and I thought it had been acknowledged. In future, I shall not state in my reports what the barrels sent us contain. Some are able to do more than others, and I do not want to injure the feelings of any child of God, by anything that would look like being more thankful for some barrels than for others. The Lord knows how much hard labor is performed, and how many difficulties are overcome by those friends who get up these barrels. We have never heard a single complaint against our previous reports, but in future we will not specify the various articles sent. We have had honest motives in our reports heretofore. We are grateful for all things sent. We turn everything to good account, and may heaven's choicest blessings rest upon all who have administered to our wants. Pray for us, that we may have wisdom, knowledge, grace, and the Holy Spirit in greater abundance, to fit us for our future labors. Your aff. Bro. in Christ,

F. H. BURBANK.

For the World's Crisis.

GOOD NEWS.

BRO. GRANT:—God is doing a great work here on Warwick Plains. Bro. Allen Warner has been preaching the word to us every evening for the past two weeks. The Lord has heard and answered the prayers of his people. About twenty happy souls are rejoicing in the truth. Gray heads, blossoming for the grave, have taken a stand on the Lord's side. None have started yet under twenty years of age. Several of them are from forty-five to seventy-five years old, and the good work is still going on. Praise God.

J. B. WAITE.

Correspondence.

From Bro. Wm. McCullock.

BRO. GRANT:—I have been a subscriber to the Crisis ever since the first number was issued in 1853, have been an attentive reader of the same, and hope to continue to do so till Jesus comes.

To the scattered ones I would say, the Lord is reviving his work in every part of this State, east, west, north and south. Never since I came west, eleven years ago, has there been such inquiry for the faith we hold as at present. Doors are opened in every direction, and if it were possible we could be in a dozen places at once, and then not be able to supply all the calls for help.

I have labored constantly for three months, hardly stopping at home long enough to see to the wants of my family, when numerous letters are read requesting immediate labor; and I find myself worn and fatigued, with sore throat and broken voice; and still the call is so urgent, that I go again and try to raise the cry, Behold He cometh! The Lord blesses the effort, and souls are being brought to a saving knowledge of the truth, and we rejoice together as we journey on to the kingdom. Praise the Lord, I expect to soon be where there will be no more aching lungs or broken voices, but where immortal voices will raise the loud hallelujahs to God and the Lamb forever.

"Oh hail, happy day!"

I long to be there. I am not tired of the way, for it is a good way, a heavenly way; but I am tired of the misery and wickedness of this heartless world. I am tired of the show and pomp of a formal church. I am grieved when death enters the loved family circle and snatches away a fond father with its ruthless hand, and one too who had given counsel in his declining years. I long for the day when death will no longer have dominion over loved ones; for the hour to arrive when all that are in the graves shall hear His voice and come forth. I long to greet that glorified company who will come up through great tribulation, whose robes are made white in the blood of the Lamb. God grant that we may be ready when Jesus comes. Yours in the bonds of the gospel,

WM. MCCULLOCK, Evangelist.

New Rutland, Ill., Feb. 8th, 1868.

From Bro. Geo. A. Streeter.

BRO. GRANT:—I want to say to the readers of our excellent paper, that I find plenty of work to do for my Lord and Master, and ears are open to hear about Jesus and the plan of salvation. I have just returned from a three weeks' tour in Charlton, Mass. (Dresser Hill). It was thought to be the hardest corner on the earth, but even there some hard hearts of stone, which required about two weeks hammering with the Lord's hammer, aided by the Holy Spirit, even melted to flesh. Among these are drunkards that have been hard sots, Sabbath-breakers, etc. One man said, "When I got up this morning (Jan. 19), I felt that I ought to go to the school-house to meeting. I took my gun and went to the woods hunting; but in a little while I went back to the house and told my wife, This is the last day that I shall hunt Sundays." He came out Monday evening, Jan. 20th, happy in the Lord.

Jan. 26th. This evening another got up and said, "This has been the best day I ever saw. It is the first Sunday that I have been to the house of God for fourteen years." Surely, "What hath God wrought?" Praise his holy name forever and ever. Baptists and Methodists, all took hold, and all worked for sinners, while I preached salvation. Our doctrine was used, but as God directed. There is danger of loving our doctrines too much; that is, some of them too well; I mean so as to make it uppermost. O for wisdom from on high. Many have seen the Advent question in a new light from what some have talked it. It will not do to cut a man's head off first. Fourteen started to serve God anew in these three weeks. Nine were baptized. I am going back soon. Brethren who have written to me, and are waiting, be patient; I will come as soon as the Lord says, Go. Pray for us. Thy Bro. in the high-ways,

Feb. 1st. G. A. STREETER.

From Bro. R. Baker.

BRO. GRANT:—I have been visiting for some days past the little flock of God in Brimfield, South and North Adams, Savoy, and Hawley, and have been trying to present the gospel of the kingdom of God to the people in these places, and God has been with me. I can say my labor has not been in vain in the Lord. It has done my heart good to see some that dare to embrace the truth in the love of it. The gospel has not lost its power when presented in its purity. My prayer is, Lord, send forth faithful laborers into thy vineyard, full of faith and of the Holy Ghost; such ministers will be owned of God and rendered a blessing to the church of Jesus Christ; then sinners will be made to tremble under the power of this gospel of the kingdom.

My bounding heart cries out, Come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly. O how important that the Bride should make herself ready. God help us to comprehend and possess the fulness of this blessed gospel of peace. Glory be to God, my soul doth magnify the Lord. Glory be to God. Dear brethren and sisters, be sure that you have the wedding garment on, so that when He who is our life shall appear, we may appear with him in glory. Amen. Yours in Christ, RUFUS BAKER.

Warren, Mass.

From Bro. J. Allen.

BRO. GRANT:—We have had the best series of meetings at Honeoye that we ever experienced. Some twenty or thirty have pledged themselves before God and man to renounce their sins, and henceforth lead a new life. The whole community, for miles around, are stirred as they have not been for years before. Praise the Lord.

Sr. E. S. Jennings came the last Sunday in Dec., and preached four weeks every evening, excepting two, including five Sundays. She is one approved by God, beloved by the church, and just adapted to reach a class that are considered gospel-hardened. The sinners reached in this revival are mainly middle-aged and heads of families. The preaching was plain, simple gospel, in its primitive purity, and attended with power beyond that of mortals. It was a feast to hungry, starved souls, and especially to the believers in the near coming of Jesus, to have their views so ably presented, and listened to with such marked attention by the masses that crowded the church evening after evening, to feed upon the word of the Lord. It was marvelous to us to see in this mixed multitude of preconceived opinions and divers sentiments, that every mouth appeared stopped, and they seemed subdued as in the presence of higher power. I. ALLEN.

From A. D. Flagg.

BRO. GRANT:—God is pouring out his blessing here in New York. Bro. Hook has been laboring with us the past few weeks. The youth are coming to the fountain. Strong young men are breaking down under the melting power of God. Satan's kingdom begins to tumble, and much has been done in the name of the Lord.

With the assistance of the brethren (of the Advent Mission church 24th St., New York), I have hired the Franklin Hall, in Newark Avenue, for the express purpose of promulgating the truth as it is in Jesus, and to induce dying, perishing, and lost men and women to believe and be baptized. I ask the prayers of my brethren and sisters everywhere, that I may live humbly at his feet, and be an instrument in his hands of doing much good in this wicked and ungodly city; and at last have an abundant entrance into his everlasting kingdom, which is about to be established under the whole heaven. A. D. FLAGG.

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 5th, 1868.

From Bro. I. Damman.

BRO. GRANT:—It is with much interest that I write a few lines to let you know that I am in the field, preaching the word of God, to warn sinners and comfort the saints in this day of perplexity. The cause of truth is advancing in Bangor. The Lord is converting sinners, and reclaiming wanderers. I have labored one fourth part of the time in Bangor this winter, Bro. Baker a fourth, and Bro. Smith some part of the time. I hear that Bro. Thomas Smith, of Bangor, is quite ill, and is not expected to recover. His health has been poor for some weeks. We fear we shall lose Bro. Smith. How fast death is doing his work. Is this the year of sweet release? ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Married.

In Richmond, Feb. 27th, 1868, by H. D. Reed, JAMES H. LOWELL, of Bath, Me., and EMMA D. PEACOCK, of Gardiner, Me.

In Bristol, Conn., Feb. 12th, 1868, by Eld. S. C. Hancock, at his residence, Mr. WILLIAM W. LOOMIS, of South Windsor, Conn., and Mrs. LUCY L. CAULKINS, of Palmer, Mass.

In Manchester, N. H., Feb. 21th, 1868, by Rev. Mr. Tilloston, Mr. CHARLES W. MOONEY, of South Reading, Mass., son of Eld. S. S. Mooney, and Miss LOUIE FOLLANSBEE, of Haverhill, Mass.

Obituaries.

M'CLURE. Died in Northboro, Mass., Dec. 3d, 1867, of disease of the heart, Sr. Ellen, wife of Samuel M'Clure, aged forty years.

Deceased was formerly a member of the Baptist church in Ware, Mass., but during the ministerial labors of Bro. O. R. Fassett in Westboro, Mass., she with her husband united with the Second Advent church there, and remained a member until her death. Although the thought of leaving her companion and four young children, was sometimes very painful to her, yet she was calm, and resigned in regard to the future, committing all her interests into the hands of Him "who doeth all things well." May her entire family be prepared to meet her in that land where there is no death, and where the inhabitant shall not say, I am sick. Her funeral was attended by Bro. C. Goodrich, and Rev. B. F. Lamson, pastor of the Baptist church in Northboro. A. STREETER.

WILLIAMS. Fell asleep in Jesus, Feb. 5th, 1868, Sister Lettice Williams, wife of Rufus Williams, of Grafton, N. H., aged sixty-five years and eleven months.

Sr. W. has long been on the field of battle, and her weapons were not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of the strong holds of Satan, and hoped to be an overcomer through the blood of the Lamb and the word of her testimony, and to rise in triumph at the sound of the voice of the archangel and the trump of God; then to meet with the blood-washed throng and sing the victor's song: "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" F. S. RANSOM.

STARVATION IN ALGERIA.—A letter from Paris, says: The poorer classes are now undergoing tremendous sufferings, not only in France, but in Algeria. In that colony, according to the Archbishop of Algiers, the Arab population are dragging out an existence of misery—feeding, like animals, on the foliage of trees, wandering almost naked (writes Monsigneur) along the roads, awaiting, in the neighborhood of cities and villages, for the emptying of household refuse, to quarrel over the filthy remains. To these starving, nay, dying tribes, nothing that can be devoured is repulsive. So desperate is their condition (I translate the Archbishop's words,) that "they actually dig up the carcasses of animals that have died of disease. A heap of ten and twelve bodies of dead Arabs lying by the roadside is no uncommon spectacle. When these poor men feel the approach of death—the slow and terrible death of famine—they do not complain; they stretch themselves near some roadside, cover themselves as well as they can with the wretched rags they may possess, and, covering their faces, await their last hour, murmuring the name of 'Allah!' It is thus they died of cholera all last summer; it is thus they now die of hunger, literally mown down by this plague. Calculations, which are not exaggerated, bring the number of the victims within the last six months to above one hundred thousand."

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

LONDON, Feb. 25. The Liverpool Courier of this morning contained a report that the Earl of Derby had resigned the Premiership, and that his resignation had been accepted by the Queen. During the day this news was confirmed. It was also ascertained that Mr. Disraeli would replace Lord Derby as Prime Minister, at the same time retaining his present post as Chancellor of the Exchequer.

PARIS, Feb. 26. The Presse, to-day reports that the Italian Government is about to send General Nino Pixio to Vienna to negotiate a treaty with Austria.

LONDON, Feb. 26. A great meeting of friends of the United States was held to-night at St. James Hall John Bright, M. P., presided. A number of prominent members of the Liberal party were present on the platform. In course of the evening Mr. Bright made a powerful speech, arousing the sympathy of the audience for the American people by eloquent allusions to their conduct in the war of the rebellion.

Rev. Newman Hall followed with an address, in which he presented with ability the American side of the Alabama controversy, and pressed his views with an earnestness and eloquence which carried the vast assemblage with him.

The meeting was very enthusiastic, and broke up with repeated cheers for America.

BERLIN, Feb. 27. The obligations of the new treaty between the North German Confederation and the United States are to apply reciprocally to Germans and Americans. All previous engagements between the countries in regard to extradition are renewed. By one of its provisions the treaty is made to terminate at the end of ten years.

DOMESTIC.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. A special from Havana of the 24th says: "The steamer Marsella has arrived here from Sisal, with dates the 19th inst. On the 13th a battle took place at Yzamal, in Yutican, between the rebels and the national troops. It lasted fifteen hours, and resulted in the defeat of the rebels. Governor Cepeda has replaced all the authorities who had been deposed by the usurper. Sixty of the rebel office holders have been imprisoned. Trade has recovered its usual animation.

At St. Croix there are revolutionary symptoms. The people are tired of the Danish Government and are resolved before a month to raise the American colors. The authorities instituted proceedings against the editor of a journal as guilty of high treason for having called on the natives to petition the United States Government to purchase St. Croix.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. A Buenos Ayers letter of January 13 states that cholera extended, at the opening of summer, over all the Argentine Republic, and also over nearly all of Uruguay. In this city it carried off in the last 40 days about 5000 persons In some little towns in the country, the people, after being decimated, have fled and deserted their villages. All the river towns have been fearfully scourged. Cordoba, near 200 leagues towards the mountains, and under the breezes of the snow covered Andes, has been more desolated than any other place.

After 30,000 inhabitants had been reduced by flight to less than 10,000, the mortality was over two per cent, daily, of the remaining people. In fifty days all would, at this rate, perish. All work is suspended, and those who depend for food on their daily labor suffer. Carts enough to convey the dead cannot be found, nor men enough to dig graves. Churches are taken for hospitals, and many, unable to be conveyed to them, lie all alone in their houses. In some parts of the country, the cholera attacks isolated families, and they all die, when the neighbors burn the house, as a substitute for burial. Consternation, poverty, sickness, deaths and funerals, are visible in every part of this sadly stricken country.

New York, Feb. 28. A London dispatch gives the following account of a meeting at St. James' Hall:

Mr. Bright occupied the chair. He spoke strongly in favor of the United States and the Government, policy and power of the American people and of the duty and necessity of England's cultivating and maintaining friendly relations with them. "If," he said, "the British Government and English press had acted rightly and prudently during the time of the late war in America, no power on earth could have alienated the two nations in feeling or separated them in interest." Mr. Bright, in concluding, expressed his firm belief that all the prominent questions of apparent difficulty now pending between the two countries would be amicably settled.

The Rev. Newman Hall followed. He stated the nature and probable extent of the Alabama claims carefully and in explicit terms to the assemblage, showing that England was completely in the wrong. He said, although the people of the United States waited and appeared to postpone the matter, the Alabama claims subject would lead to war in some short time unless the bill was paid. He would advise a settlement of the matter by arbitration in the manner proposed or agreed to, by the United States. The reverend gentleman ended his address with a powerful appeal to the people of England and America to affirm and maintain a perpetual peace in the interest of universal civilization.

Mr. Hall resumed his seat amid loud cheering. The following resolution was then proposed:

Resolved, That the meeting expresses the most hearty good will toward America, and pledges itself to support any government at home in its efforts to effect a prompt, righteous and pacific settlement of all international differences, and especially of those connected with the Alabama claims in question.

The resolution was adopted unanimously amid loud cheers and with every person in the hall standing.

A WELL OF BOILING WATER. The Lacrosse (Wis.) Democrat states that a few days since the eastern section of that city was startled by a loud report like a discharge of the heaviest artillery, which proceeded from the Artesian well between the bluffs and the river that had been sunk to a depth of 280 feet. The explosion was immediately followed by a stream of boiling water, gushing with mighty force through the tube from the depths below. The startled workmen were blinded by clouds of steam, and two of them were severely scalded. The upward pressure of the water is very great, not less than two hundred pounds to the square inch. The mean temperature is about 183° of Reumurs' thermometer. It had already melted the snow from six acres of land.

INTERNATIONAL POSTAGE. Washington, Feb. 26. Under the arrangement just concluded between the Post-office Department of the United States and of the Dominion of Canada, the single rate of postage on international letters will be reduced on and after the first day of April, 1868, from ten to six cents, if prepaid at the office of mailing in either country; but if the postage is unpaid, or insufficiently prepaid, they will be subject to a charge of ten cents per single rate in the country of destination. The authorized weight of a single letter will be fifteen grammes by the metrical scale, and half an ounce in the Dominion of Canada.

To the Preaching Brethren.

"I would say to our preaching brethren, when they send an appointment to Richmond, it is necessary they should define the place, as we hold two meetings in town; one at the Reed meeting-house, which has continued since 1843, the other is held at the village. Please state for which place the appointment is intended. In behalf of the brethren. FREDERIC BATES, JR.

We would say that as the churches of Wallingford and Yalesville have become united as one church, we would request the preaching brethren to correspond with the following brethren previous to publishing their appointment for either place.

W. W. IVES, Wallingford,
H. H. MIX, Yalesville.

Preachers are requested to correspond with one of the committee before sending appointments to Worcester, viz., M. M. Blackmer, N. Lasell, Wm. F. Collier. Per order of the church, Worcester, Jan., 1868.

Before sending their appointments to Richmond Village, Me., the preaching brethren are requested to consult the committee, to save confusion.

Per order of Committee, S. BROWN.

Preachers are requested to correspond with H. C. Aborn, Clerk, before sending appointments to Square Pond, Conn.

Notices.

GENERAL CONFERENCE IN BOSTON.

The church of the Lord Jesus Christ worshiping at Lowell Street Chapel, Boston, to those of like precious faith, and who wait for the Son of God from heaven, greeting:

Beloved in the Lord, believing that yet a little while and He that shall come will come, and will not tarry; and that the signs of the times indicate that we are among the predicted perils of the last days; and that we are rapidly approaching those scenes of final trouble such as never was, which shall convulse the world with sorrow and distress; we have thought it good to invite our brethren in Christ, and the preachers of his word who are interested in these momentous themes, without distinction of sect or name, to meet us at our place of worship, at the CORNER OF LOWELL AND CAUSEWAY STREETS, BOSTON, on Tuesday evening, March 31st, 1868, and to continue with us over the coming first day of the week.

To unite with us in worship and thanksgiving to God for his abundant mercies to all men, and to us who have learned his will, and tasted that he is gracious:

To listen to the proclamation of the truth of God for the edification of the church, and the preaching of the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand:

To exhort one another, and so much the more as we see the day approaching:

To invite sinners to Christ, the refuge from approaching wrath, pointing them to the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world:

To encourage each other in the great work, committed to us as a people, of proclaiming life and immortality through Christ alone, the resurrection of the dead, and the speedy coming and kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ.

For these objects we invite our brethren and sisters, and the servants of the Lord, and shall make them welcome to our worship, our homes, and our hospitalities, trusting that we may thus be blessed and comforted together. And we desire the prayers of God's people that our gathering together may be to the praise and glory of our heavenly Father. And when the mighty voice shall be heard, saying, "Alleluia, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth, let us be glad and rejoice, and give honor to him: for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready"; may we all be found arrayed in that righteousness which alone will insure admission to the marriage supper of the Lamb.

The Mass. Advent Christian Conference are cordially invited to meet with us, and to hold its annual session in connection with the general conference.

In behalf of the church,
GEO. T. ADAMS, MILES GRANT, } Elders.
J. G. HAMBLIN, S. HOVEY, GEO. T. ADAMS, M. H. PIPER, GEO. E. FOSTER, GEO. W. WOOD, } Committee.

Conference at North Adams, Mass.

The Advent church at North Adams will hold a special conference in the Advent hall, on Wesleyan Hill, commencing Saturday, March 14th, at 2 o'clock, P. M., and hold over the following week. The object will be to awaken an increased interest in this village and vicinity on the subject of the speedy coming of Christ; to seek a deeper work of grace in preparing for his coming. Preaching brethren will be present to present the word. All the brethren and sisters that can come are needed in this meeting. Come one, come all, to the help of the Lord. In behalf of the church,

EMERSON BLANCHARD.

Notice.

Advent meetings are changed from Center Street, corner of Lincoln Street, to Wesleyan Hill, near the upper end of Eagle Street in the new Advent Hall. Meetings every Sunday at half-past ten, at two, and in the evening; also Tuesday and Friday evenings. Preaching brethren are invited to labor with us. All are requested to give notice of their appointments as long beforehand as possible, so as not to conflict with any other arrangements. All correspondence on business matters should be directed to EMERSON BLANCHARD, North Adams, Mass., Box 468.

Morris, Ct.—Take Notice.

Providence permitting, a series of meetings will commence in the fourth district school-house, Morris, Ct., Tuesday evening, March 17th, to continue over the following Sunday, and perhaps longer. Brethren and sisters, we feel very anxious that this meeting may prove a blessing to the people of this place, and we cordially invite all who feel interested in their welfare to come and labor with us. We intend it to be a free meeting, and wholly for the worship of God.

A. ELLIOT.
C. H. SWEET.

Notice.

The first annual meeting of the Mass. A. C. Conference will be held in Boston, in connection with the General Conference, called to meet Tuesday, March 31st, 1868. It is hoped the churches will send delegates so far as consistent. Let there be a general rally. For the Conf. Committee,

E. OWEN, Clerk.

Notice.

I will hold a series of meetings at Canaan, N. H., commencing evening, March 18th, and continue through the week, and over the following Sabbath, if the brethren wish to have me do so. Will Bro. J. B. Eastman let me know soon by letter. Direct to South Royalton, Vt. J. A CLEAVELAND.

Conference.

The Eastern Conference will be held at Frankfort Mills, Me., commencing at six o'clock P. M., Thursday, March 5th, to continue over the following Sabbath. Brethren from abroad are invited to attend and labor for the Lord.

L. FRENCH, Clerk of Conference.

Minnesota Quarterly Meeting.

The third quarterly meeting of the Minnesota conference will be held, Providence permitting, at Ottawa, Friday, March 6th, 1868, and continue over the following Sunday.

THOS. K. ALLEN, Secretary.

Please Observe This!

Any one having borrowed books of Bro. C. B. Turner, will please return them to his wife. There are many books missing; Murdock's Translation of the Syriac, for one. Who has it? Please direct that and all others to MRS. C. B. TURNER, No. 1 Baldwin Street, Syracuse, N. Y.

A. P. MOORE.

STAR OF HOPE MISSION,

No. 14 Laurens Street, New York City.

ANNA E. SMITH, Superintendent and Manager.

MEETINGS.

Sunday School 10 o'clock every Sunday.
Love Feast 2 o'clock every Sunday.
Preaching 7 o'clock Sunday evenings.
Meetings every evening during the week.

Notice.

I will send to any address, free of cost, tracts on the coming of the Lord, and other subjects. THOMAS J. WHITECAR, No. 814 Swanson Street, Philadelphia, Penn.

Notice.

My tracts are all gone, but I intend to have some more printed soon. Timely notice will be given when they are ready. ALLEN DAMON.

The American Anti-Masonic Review,

AND

PRACTICAL CHRISTIAN.

A MONTHLY FOR THE TIMES.

If the Lord permit, we expect soon to issue the first number of the above work, at $1.00 per annum, payable always in advance. It will comprise sixteen octavo pages, besides a neat cover, suitable for binding at the close of the volume. There is no periodical of the kind published in this country. It will ignore all mere religious theories, be eminently practical, and aim to vindicate the high claims, of Christ and his church, and to induce christians to keep themselves unspotted from the world. It will oppose and expose all unholy and entangling alliances between the church and worldly "orders." We shall aim to issue the "Anti-masonic Review" on the first of each month, and the Biblical Monthly on the 15th of each month; and we will send both to one address for $2.50 per annum, or the "Monthly" for $1.00 per six months, or $1.50 a year; and the Anti-masonic Review at $1.00.

All funds at the risk of the sender, unless in checks, money orders, or registered letters. Address J. T. WALSH, New-Berne, N. C.

Change of Address.

Our business connection with "Austin, Hurd & Co., and "F. Wilson Hurd & Co.," having been dissolved, our friends will hereafter please address us,—Box 382 Dansville, Livingston Co., N. Y., and not "Our Home," as formerly.

F. WILSON HURD, M. D.
MRS. HANNAH J. HURD.

Appointments.

☞ We would say to our preaching brethren that it is necessary we should receive their appointments as early as TUESDAY MORNING, as our paper goes to press about noon; otherwise they will not be inserted till the week following.

LOWELL STREET CHAPEL, BOSTON, CORNER OF CAUSEWAY AND LOWELL STREETS. Meetings are held regularly three times every Sunday, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Seats free.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.

M. Batchelor..........Sunday, March 8th
S. W. Thurber..........Sunday, March 15th
J. Couch..........Sunday, March 22d

Preaching at South Boston, (Union Hall, 216 Broadway), every Lord's day.

Enoch Morrill..........Sunday, March 8th

Chelsea, Mass., (Library Hall, first floor.)

Joseph W. White..........Sunday, March 8th

Westerly, R. I., (Armory Hall), Tuesday evening, March 3d, every evening through the week, and over the following Sabbath.

Mechanic Falls, Me., Wednesday evening, March 12th, every evening through the week, and over the following Sabbath. MILES GRANT.

Concord, N. H..........Sundays, March 8th and 15th
Suncook, N. H..........Tuesday evening, March 17th
Manchester, N. H..........Wednesday evening, March 18th
Exeter, N. H..........Thursday evening, March 19th
Portsmouth, N. H..........Sundays, March 22d and 29th
Salem, Mass..........Tuesday evening, March 31st
Lynn, Mass..........Wednesday evening, April 1st
Boston, Thursday, to conference, four days.
South Reading..........Sunday, April 5th
Letters can be directed to the above places.
HIRAM MUNGER.

New Durham Ridge..........Sunday, March 8th
Northwood Narrows..........Sunday, March 22d
S. S. MOONEY.

Cabot, Vt..........Sunday, March 15th
and longer if desired. A. MURRAY TRIPP.

Keene, N. H..........Sundays, March 8th and 15th
A. M. HIGGINS.

Danielsonville, Ct..........March 8th and 15th
H. F. CARPENTER.

Lawrence, Mass., (Good Templar's Hall), Sunday, March 8th. WM. N. PILE.

New York, (corner of Allen and Grand Streets), Sunday, March 8th. J. K. BELLOWS.

West Hoosick..........Friday evening, March 6th and over Sunday. IRA WYMAN.

Manchester, N. H..........March 14th and over Sunday
W. H. MCDANIELS.

North Dana..........Sunday, March 1st
West Peterboro, N. H., (if the traveling is good,) March 5th, and over Sunday. GEO. A. STREETER.

South Reading, Mass..........Sunday, March 15th
Strafford, N. H., (Roberts' school-house). Friday evening, March 20th, and over the following Sunday. Will Bro. Preston meet me at Gonic, Friday, first train from Dover?
Farmington Village, N. H., (where Bro. Moore may appoint), Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, March 24th and 25th.
New Durham Ridge, N. H..........Sunday, March 29th
A. SIMPSON.

New Haven, Ct., (Day's Hall)..........Sunday, March 8th
West Haven..........March 9th and 10th
Thomaston..........March 15th
Hartford..........March 22d
Wrightville..........March 29th
W. S. CAMPBELL.

Campville, Ct..........Sunday, March 15th
Northfield, Ct., (where Bro. Humphreville may appoint), March 17th.
Wallingford..........March 18th
Cheshire Street..........March 20th
Yalesville..........Sunday, March 22d
Bristol, R. I..........Sunday, March 25th
North Scituate, R. I..........Sunday, April 5th
Natick, R. I..........April 11th
River Point, R. I..........Sunday, April 12th
Lowell, Mass..........Sunday, April 19th
C. H. SWEET.

BIDDEFORD, ME.

B. S. Emery..........Sunday, March 8th
T. E. Lang, Jr..........Sunday, March 15th
through the week, and over Sunday the 22d.
Wm. H. Mitchel..........Sunday, April 5th
B. S. Emery..........Sunday, April 12th

Square Pond, Ct..........Sunday, March 15th
North Somers, Ct..........Sunday, March 22d
L. F. MOORE.

RICHMOND, ME., (Clark's Hall.)
Augustus Durfee..........Sunday, March 29th

Lewiston..........Sunday, March 8th
C. GOUD.

Sugar Hill, N. H..........Sunday, March 8th
N. WHEELER.

Pascoag, R. I..........Sunday, March 8th and longer if thought best. B. ROBERTS.

Plymouth..........Sunday, March 8th
Haverhill..........Sunday, March 15th
B. WOODSIDE.

Clinton, Mass..........Monday evening, March 9th
South Ashburnham..........Tuesday evening, March 10th
West Northfield, (as Bro. Merrill may arrange), Sunday, March 15th.
Springfield..........March 17th and 18th
Warehouse Point, Ct..........Thursday evening, March 19th
New Britain..........Friday evening, March 20th and over the following Lord's day.
Bristol..........evening, March 23d
Pleasant Valley..........evening, March 24th
Southington..........evening, March 25th
Cheshire Street..........evening, March 26th
Yalesville..........evening, March 27th
Hartford..........Sunday, March 29th
A. ROSS.

Bangor, (Music Hall)..........Sunday, March 8th
ISRAEL DAMMAN.

Locustville, March 13th, at 7 P. M., and over the following Sunday, as Bro. O. B. Wilmot may appoint.
Steam Hollow..........Tuesday evening, March 17th
Scranton City, Pa., (as brethren may appoint), Sundays, March 22d and 29th. C. F. SWEET.

Auburn, N. H., (Fox school-house), every Sunday in March. CALEB RICHARDSON.

Merredith, (Dolloff school-house)..........Sunday, March 8th
Z. FORD.

Guilford, Conn..........Sunday, March 8th
W. A. and M. L. DURAND.

East Canaan, N. H., evening, March 18th, and continue through the week, and over the following Sunday.
J. A. CLEAVELAND.

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)
I. K. Lombard..........Sunday, March 29th
S. S. Brewer..........Sundays, March 8th and 15th

South Reading, Mass..........Sunday, March 8th
Portsmouth, N. H..........Sunday, March 15th
WM. C. THURMAN.

Dolloff school-house..........Sunday, March 8th and onward. JULIA BUSWELL.

Southington..........Sunday, March 8th
New Haven, (Day's Hall)..........Sunday, March 15th
I. B. POTTER.

Lowell, Mass..........Sundays, March 8th and 15th
T. W. PIPER.

Worcester, Mass..........Sundays, March 8th and 15th
J. COUCH.

Parsonfield, (where Bro. John S. Moulton may appoint), Wednesday eve., March 4th, and over Sunday
Strafford, N. H., (where Bro. Preston may arrange), Thursday eve., March 12th, and over Sunday.
Chelsea, Mass..........Saturday evening, March 21st and over the two following Sundays. J. G. SMITH.
D. M. LEAVITT.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Meetings are held at the Advent Hall, Curtis' Block, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Entrance, third door from the east end of the bridge, Main-St.

Lenora and Nickols, Minn..........March 1st
Riceford, Bellville and Hesper..........March 8th
Elliota and Burr Oak..........March 15th
Preston..........March 22d
W. J. BURSELL.

LAWRENCE, MASS., ADVENT CHAPEL.
A. Ross..........Sunday, March 8th

Pittsfield, Me., (Brown school-house), Sunday, March 8th, and continue one week or more.
Northport, Me..........Sunday, March 22d and continue evenings through the week.
JER. CARR.

Whitefield, N. H..........Sunday, March 8th
Concord, N. H..........Sundays, April 5th and 12th
J. A. CLEAVELAND.

SQUARE POND, CT.
B. Hitchcock..........Sunday, March 8th
A. M. Higgins..........Sunday, March 22d

Westfield, Mass..........Sunday, March 8th
Palmer Centre, (school-house) Tuesday evening, March 10th.
Woodstock Valley, Ct..........Sunday, March 15th
Abington, Ct..........Sunday, March 22d
Square Pond, Ct..........Sunday, March 29th
My appointment for Abington, Ct., is withdrawn.
P. S. BUTLER.

New Britain..........Sunday, March 8th
Meriden..........Sunday, March 15th
New York, (Cooper Institute)..........Sunday, March 22d
24th street in the evening. WM. STUART.

Holderness, (True school-house)..........March 7th and over the Sabbath. W. H. MCDANIELS.

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ CORRESPONDENTS SHOULD KNOW, THAT WE CANNOT DISCONTINUE OR SEND THEIR ORDERS, UNLESS THEY GIVE US THE POST OFFICE AND STATE IN PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ HATTIE PERKINS—We extend your credit to No. 669.

☞ J. T. HOWLAND—It will be right next week.

CASH RECEIPTS FOR THE CRISIS.

To find how your account stands.

The present No. of the Crisis is 647. The No. which follows your name is the No. to which you have paid.

If the No. paid to is greater than the present No., the difference shows how many weeks you have paid for in advance. If the No. paid to, is less than the present No., the difference shows for how many weeks you owe.

For every week of indebtedness, if less than 26 weeks, charge five cents; if more than 26 weeks, six cents. From the product (which will be a fraction over the actual indebtedness) deduct four cents for every dollar, and you have the exact amount due.

$1.00 each—M Bristol 641, J Whetton 712, C F Morrill 668.

$1.25 each—I Masteman 672.

$2.50 each—L. Ottman 711, B. Woodman 695, C B Hyde 643, J Metsgar 692, J Harvey 699.

$2.00 each—H S Utley 667, B Benton 614, E Whitney 658.

Various Sums—M L Clark $12.00, 644; M. M. Densmore $5.00, 691; C. H. Aborn $1.15, 647; E. Slayton 63c, 660; A. D. Flagg $5.00, 594; E. Stephens $4.14 694; R O'Brien $4.14, 751.

FOR BOOKS AND TRACTS.

W Roworth $5.08, A G Brown $1.00, C B Keech 75c, G A Baker $1.19, M E Green $9.75, B C Bancroft 35c, G T Downing 75c, C. H. Hutchinson 50c, W. Roworth, 35c, L C McKinstry $11.00, N Sawyer 50c, J S Dawley, 50c, T Davis 25c, A Feustermaker $1.00, W B Wells, 85c, D B Closman 50c, S Goodhue 50c, S F D Rice $1.74, B F Brown 50c, J. DeGage 75c, A Babbit $1.25, A E Woodruff 50c, E Johnson 75c, C R Crosman $1.10, J Shackford $1.25, N. Weiner $3.25, J S H Dickenson $1.00, J H Luttenton 80c, E A Stone $5.00, E C Cowles 75c, J H Lee 70c, L Town $1.00, O Emmons 75c, P White 60c, T R Weaver $3.00, T Sprague $1.00, W C Price $1.00, L Northup 75c, E K Dodge $2.00.

BOOKS AND TRACTS SENT.

BY MAIL—W B Webbs, Mrs. Fenstemaker, S F D Rice, Seth Goodhew, G T Downing, Benj. F Brown, J Shackford, J De Gage, L J Adams, A Babbett, E A Woodruff, E Johnson, C R Crossett, Chas. Coleman, J. H. Luttenton, J. S. H. Dickinson, N. Weiner, E C Cowles, Wm. Leaf, C H Sweet, A White, J Disham, N L Davis, J. H. Lee, O. Emons, L. Town, Wm. H. Pierce, E K Dodge, L Northup, D Z Lantz, McAlster, Wm. Johnson, L Mather, L F Clark, J D Hancock, E C Dinsmore, D Banfield, H L Demeritt, A H Briggs, D Avery, J F Young, J Tracey, O Berrey, Wm. Goslin, Wm. Hayes, Wm. Leaff, B Knepper, J Hayford, C H Sweet, T L Waugh, S. Wheelock, Wm. A. Manning, Samuel Harper, S G Bush, A R P Burgess, G W Louger, H. A Clover, G H Bundy, H. S. Utler, H P Chase, Mary Jones, J W Thomas, G A Clark, P F Lyman, Geo. E. Emery, E. Hanes, E. Greenfield, C. F. Churchill, Sarah Smith, John Cooney, John Craig, Geo. W Crane, O R Pease, Wm. Rowets, Geo. Bangs, M P Day, W. S. Reynolds, Rufus Brooks, E. Johnson, B Carr, E. Barrows, J. K. Wilcox, Robt. Warner, C B Mayberry, J N Boswell, M M Davis, J Boster, I Bradley, E M Dewey, R Fernald, G W Brown, L L Tuttle, O Prescott, S A Piper, John F Wood, John P Rathgeber, W R Hill, J Pool, Wm. D Scott, H M Butters, L Foster, G W Sealy, H A Gressey, J W Goodwin, C H Leverton, M H Elmer, Robt. Lovell, Wm. E Pinkham, J B Wilbur, N P Sawyer.

BY EXPRESS—Wm. E. Hatheway, Jared Whitman, E A Stone, A M Loyed.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

C Hill, J V Himes, D Coggswell, F Clark, C Greene, J B Wells, R Turneld, S K Paine, T E Wood, F Converse, C H Sweet, J Hemenway, I I Leslie, J A Libby, M Foss, F W Higgins, B P French, I B Potter, W Peirce, D W Copp, E A Libby, O Spicer, W W Gibson, H H Hall, M L Bickford, J E Whipple, G W Foster, Mrs. Webb, L Boutell, S K Baldwin, G Crouse, I P Wyman, D Lawson, I Lamb, L Allen, F S Ransom, L C McKinstry, A Greely, W Hobbs, J Wendell, F H Burbank.

ADDRESS OF PREACHING BRETHREN.

C. E. Piper—41 Grove Street, Boston, Mass.
C. Goodrich—69 Marion Street, East Boston, Mass.
J. S. White—98 Decatur Street, East Boston, Mass.
Enoch Morrill—No. 69 Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown, Mass.
Matthew Batchelor—New Bedford, Mass.
H. Munger—Chicopee Falls, Mass.
L. Boutell—Salem, Mass.
H. Pratt—Springfield, Mass., 57 Cedar St.
P. S. Butler, Collins Depot, Mass.
E. Owen—Springfield, Mass., No. 64 Walnut Street.
Alvah Bean—Lowell, Mass.
Geo. A. Streeter—North Dana, Mass.
Allen Damman—Fairhaven, Mass.
C. H. Sweet—Millville, Mass.
J. W. Brittan.—Westboro, Mass.
S. Anderson.—Warren, Mass.
Rufus Baker—Warren, Mass.
Dr. A. M. Higgins—Palmer, Mass.
W. E. Hathaway—North Carver, Mass.
T. M. Preble—Lynn, Mass.
S. S. Brazee—Cold Spring, Mass.
N. J. Streeter—Southbridge, Mass.
S. W. Thurber—85 Church Street, Lowell, Mass.
C. H. Leverton—Westfield, Mass.
N. F. Nason—Weeks Mills, Me.
J. C. Wheeler—Carthage, Me.
F. A. Baker—Levant, Me.
H. S. Mitchell—Cushing, Me.
J. Carr—South Albion, Me.
Israel Damman—Corinna, Me.
B. P. Manning—Goffstown, N. H.
J. G. Smith—New Durham, N. H.
N. Hartshorn—Laconia, N. H.
Joseph W. White—Portsmouth, N. H.
J. Couch—Concord, N. H.
A. W. Sibley—Lincoln, N. H.
A. Simpson—Concord, N. H.
T. W. Piper—Melvin Village, N. H.
Z. Ford—Concord, N. H.
C. W. Sargent—Box 426 Concord, N. H.
D. M. Leavitt—Holderness, N. H.
Wm. W. Sutherland—Newport, N. H.
Joseph Pinkham—Dover, N. H.
Wm. H. McDaniels—Fisherville, N. H.
O. D. Eastman—Landaff, N. H.
J. B. Cook—Poultney, Vt.
G. W. Stetson—Rutland, Vt.
E. G. Chadsey—Richford, Vt.
C. P. Dow—Franklin, Vt., or Stanbridge, C. E.
D. N. Chadsey.—Canaan, Vt.
J. A. Cleaveland—South Royalton, Vt.
Wm. H. Fisher—Windsor, Ct., care of S. Cooper.
H. F. Carpenter—Danielsonville, Ct.
B. Hitchcock—Forestville, Ct.
I. B. Potter—West Stafford, Ct.
S. C. Hancock—Forestville, Ct.
T. S. Canfield—Bantam Falls, Ct.
B. St. John—Wolcottville, Ct.
Dr. Samuel Wellis Treat—Middlebury, Ct.
S. B. Munn.—Waterbury, Ct.
Ira Wyman—Warehousepoint, Ct.
Wm. J. Ripley—Pleasant Valley, Ct.
L. F. Moore—Somersville, Ct.
H. Rockwell—West Winsted Ct.
S. Woodruff—Unionville, Ct.
C. H. Williams—West Martinsburg, N. Y.
Geo. A. Cole—Phenix, R. I.
J. K. Bellows—19 Orchard Street, New York City.
Wm. A. Fenn—Wolcott, Wayne Co., N. Y.
Phineas A. Smith—Rochester, N. Y.
Anna E. Smith—Star of Hope Mission, New York City, 14 Laurens Street, above Canal.
S. P. Babcock—Malaga, New Jersey.
A. D. Flagg—No. 329 South 5th St., Jersey City, N. J.
J. W. Taylor—Chatham Valley, Tioga Co., Pa.
F. H. Burbank—Dorcas Mission, 708 Lombard street, Philadelphia, Pa.
John T. Ongley—Lincolnville, Crawford Co., Pa.
A. N. Seymour—Fremont, Mich.
J. M. Snook—Romeo, Mich.
J. R. Preston—Lapeer, Mich.
Wm. McCullock—New Rutland, Ill.
George W. Foster—Victoria, Knox Co., Ill.
O. D. Gibson—Amboy, Ill.
F. Burr.—New Rutland, Ill.
Dr. I. I. Leslie—Box 634, Memphis, Tenn.
Wm. Deverell—Keswick, C. W.
Wm. M. Ingham—Clemensport, N. S.
H. K. Flagg—Advent Christian Hall 1136, No. 5th Street, St. Louis, Mo.
L. C. McKinstry—Norwalk, Ohio.
B. Wm. Wilkins—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634 care of I. I. Leslie.
Daniel Reed—Memphis, Tenn., Box 634, care of I. I. Leslie.
Eld. G. W. Green—Box 16, Memphis, Clark Co., Ind.
P. W. Hough—West Salem, Wis.
George Thompson—Attica, Green Co., Wis.

THE JUBILEE HARP.

We are now ready to supply friends with the new Hymn and Tune Book, at the following prices:—

Plain cloth, leather backs, colored edges, $1.00 per copy; $9.00 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges, $1.15 per copy; $10.50 per dozen.

Extra cloth, leather backs, gilt edges and covers, $1.25 per copy; $12.00 per dozen.

☞ Postage 15 cents per copy additional, when sent by mail.

MILES GRANT'S WORKS.

Spiritualism Unveiled.
What is Man?
The Soul—What is it?
The Spirit—What is it?
The Rich Man and Lazarus.

All the above works, in one volume, flexible cloth, in a compact, durable form, for use and preservation, for 35 cents, postpaid.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

New Music.

"'Tis the very same Jesus" (separate sheets, at 5c.) Calvary, Over There, I shall Rest, The Shining Land, New Year's Chime, Hallelujah, "Say, Brother, shall we meet?" "The Little Grave," "We shall walk through the Valley in Peace." All on one sheet, at 20c. For sale at this office.

BOOKS AND TRACTS

FOR SALE AT THE OFFICE OF THE

Advent Christian Publication Society,

No. 167 Hanover Street, Boston.

Works on the Prophecies—The Coming and Kingdom of Christ, etc.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES; or, A Glance at Christendom as it is. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE VOICE OF THE CHURCH on the Coming and Kingdom of the Redeemer. By D. T. Taylor. Cloth, $1.00.

THESSALONICA, the Model Church, and REASONS FOR MY HOPE, by H. L. Hastings; and SPIRITUALISM, by Dr. Ramsey. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY between God and Man. With various tracts. By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

MATTHEW XXIV. AND XXV. An Exposition, showing Christ's Predictions fulfilled, and his Kingdom near. By I. C. Wellcome. 25c; by mail, 27c.

THE LAST-DAY TOKENS, No. 2, By S. S. Brewer. 21c; by mail, 23c.

SPIRITUALISM a Satanic Delusion. By Wm. Ramsey, D. D. With Reasons of my Hope, and Thessalonica. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

LOOKING FORWARD; or, Prospects of the Church. By H. L. Hastings. 10c.

THE CELESTIAL RAILROAD; or, Modern Pilgrim's Progress. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THE GREAT SYMBOLIC CHART of the times of Daniel and John. Mounted on Rollers, by express, $5.00; on Cloth, by mail, $4.00.

Works on Future Punishment, etc.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT as taught in the Scriptures, Comprising Pauline Theology, Destiny of the Wicked, Old Paths, Retribution, and Will all Men be Saved? By H. L. Hastings. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

STATE OF THE DEAD, and Punishment of the Wicked. A Discussion between Miles Grant and W. W. Clayton. Paper, 20c.; by mail, 22c. Cloth, 40c; by mail, 50c.

DEATH NOT LIFE; or, The Destruction of the Wicked established, and Endless Misery disproved. By Jacob Blain. 25c; by mail, 28c.

WHAT IS MAN? A Bible View of his Creation. By M. Grant. 6c; by mail, 7c.

THE SOUL; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

THE SPIRIT; What is it? A Bible View of its meaning. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS; Thief on the Cross etc. By M. Grant. 5c; by mail, 7c.

ETERNAL DEATH in the literal sense is Eternal Punishment. 6c; by mail, 8c.

ENDLESS MISERY not a Bible Doctrine. 4c; by mail, 6c.

THE WICKED NOT IMMORTAL—(with 300 proof-texts.) 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING OF THE WORD HELL. 2c; by mail, 4c.

BIBLE MEANING of Forever and Everlasting. 3c; by mail, 4c.

SMOKE OF TORMENT and Unquenchable Fire Explained. 1c; by mail, 3c.

REV JOHN FOSTER'S LETTER on Future Punishment. 1c; by mail, 3c.

Miscellaneous.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT. The Common English Version as revised and corrected by the American Bible Union. Prices, by mail, postpaid—Family and Pulpit Edition (8vo, Pica), Plain Cloth, $2.25; Extra Cloth, $2.75. Medium size (18mo. Brevier), Plain Cloth, 85c.; Extra Cloth, $1.10; Sheep, $1.35; Roan, Colored Edges, $1.60. Miniature Edition, for Children and Sunday schools,—cloth, 25c.; roan, 50c.; gilt, 75c.

THE BIBLE TEXT-BOOK; or the Principal Texts relating to the Persons, Places, and Subjects occurring in the Holy Scriptures. Arranged for the use of Ministers, Teachers, and Students of the Bible. With two Maps, and a variety of useful Tables Price, by mail, 40 cents.

UNIVERSALISM EXPOSED from the Inner Temple, and shown to be, in its results, no better than Infidelity. By John T. Walsh. 5c, single by mail. 50c. per dozen.

"THE NEXT DISPENSATION Viewed in the Light of Revelation." By Wm. Sheldon. By mail, 12c. single copy; $1.00 per dozen.

THE EMPHATIC DIAGLOTT; containing the original Greek Text of the New Testament according to the Recension of Griesbach, with an Interlinear Word-for-word Translation, etc. etc. Leather, $4.00; by mail, $4.16. Extra gilt, $4.50; by mail, $4.66. Morocco, $5.00; by mail, $5.16.

THE EXISTENCE OF HOLY ANGELS; their Origin, Nature, Rank and Titles, their Ministry and Various Offices in the work of Human Redemption, and in the Administration of the Government of God. By Wm. Shepherd. 20c.

SPIRITUALISM UNVEILED, and shown to be the work of Demons: An Examination of its Origin, Morals, Doctrines, and Politics. By Miles Grant. Single copy, 15c.; eight copies for $1.00; $10.00 per hundred.

CHRIST OUR LIFE. The Scriptural Argument for Immortality through Christ alone. By C. F. Hudson. Paper covers 45c. by mail.

HOME THRUSTS AND HOME THOUGHTS. The Golden Rule in High Life and Low Life. By D. F. Newton. $1.50; by mail, $1.70.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, the Destined Monarch of the World, and Personal Antichrist. By M. Baxter. $1.00; by mail, $1.12.

FABLES OF INFIDELITY AND FACTS OF FAITH; the absurdity of Atheism, Pantheism and Rationalism. By Robert Patterson. In cloth, $1.00 postpaid.

THE SCRIPTURAL QUESTION BOOK; for Families and Sunday Schools. 15 cents by mail; $1.25 per dozen; postage, 8c. on every three copies.

THE BIBLE TRIUMPHANT; a Reply to a work entitled "144 Self-Contradictions of the Bible." By Mrs. H. V. Reed. 50c.

CRUDEN'S CONDENSED CONCORDANCE to the Holy Scriptures. Leather, $2.00; by mail, $2.36c. Cloth, $1.75; by mail, $2.07.

EVERY BODY'S BOOK; the Personality of God; The Devil, his origin, personality, power, and doom. By P. A. Smith. 10c; by mail, 12c.

HOME, MARRIAGE, AND FAMILY RELATIONS, in the light of Scripture. By James Inglis. 15c; eight copies for $1.00.

STORIES FOR YOUNG PILGRIMS. 16pp. each, in paper covers, with illustrations. 30 cents per dozen; $2.00 per 100; 5c. single, postpaid.

THE TEN VIRGINS; or, Wisdom and Folly Contrasted. By T. M. Preble. 3 cts; by mail, 6c.

THE THREE KINGDOMS. By T. M. Preble. 12c; by mail, 15c.

HEALTH REFORMER'S COOK BOOK. Price 30c; by mail, 32c.

VISIONS OF ELLEN G. WHITE, not of God. By B. F. Snook and Wm. H. Brinkerhoff. 10c.

THE SEVENTH-DAY SABBATH. Is its observance binding? By G. W. Baily. 23pp. Single 5c. postpaid.

SPIRITUAL EVIL: A Warning for the Unwary. 3c. single; 5c. by mail.

BLIND BARTIMEUS; or, How to be Saved. 25c. per dozen; $1.60 per hundred. Single 4c., postpaid.

CHILDREN'S HYMNS. For Sunday Schools, etc. 5c; per dozen, 50c.

BETHLEHEM: a Rhyme for Children. By H. L. Hastings. 10c. postpaid; $1.00 a dozen.

DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, for general use in the study of the Scriptures; with five colored Maps and 250 Engravings. Sheep, $2.00; by mail, $2.25. Cloth, $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE LIFE OF TRUST. The Effects of Prayer and Faith. An account of the Lord's dealings with George Muller, Director of the Orphan Houses at Bristol, England. $1.74; by mail, $2.00.

RAHAB THE HARLOT. The Scarlet Line the token of Safety; or, the fall of Jericho a type of the fall of the "cities of the nations." By Wm. Shepherd. 10c., postpaid; 85c. a dozen.

CANON OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES examined in the light of History. By Prof. L. Gaussen, of Geneva, Switzerland. $1.75; by mail, $2.00.

THE CHRISTIAN LYRE; a Collection of Hymns and Tunes for Worship. 80c; by mail, 85c.

PREMATURE DECAY of American Youth. By Dr. A. Stone. 6c; by mail, 8c.

THE OLD AND NEW COVENANT—Superiority of the New. By A. W. Sibley. 8c; by mail, 10c.

THURMAN'S BIBLE CHRONOLOGY, or, the Sealed Book of Daniel Opened. $1.50; by mail, $1.75.

THE BIBLE FROM HEAVEN; or, a Dissertation on the Evidences of Christianity. 25c; by mail, 30c.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?—a tract on War. By I. C. Wellcome. 10c.

CHLOE LANKTON, or Light beyond the Clouds. A Story of Real Life. 75c; by mail, 87c.

DIPHTHERIA; its Causes, Treatment, and Cure. By James C. Jackson, M. D. 10c; by mail, 12c.

THE DAY AND THE HOUR: a Lecture, by Joseph A. Seiss, D. D. 15c.

"OUR LOSS IN ADAM OUR GAIN IN CHRIST." A valuable tract on the Atonement. By H. F. Carpenter. 5c. single copy, by mail; 40c. per dozen.

"THE BIBLE, OR TRADITION—Which shall we Believe?" An excellent tract. By S. L. Manley 3c. single copy by mail; 20c. per dozen.

"ONE MORE INVITATION." A tract of four pages. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.

"GOLDEN MOMENTS." A four-page tract. By mail, 35c. per 100 copies.

"THE PENALTY OF SIN." By O. R. Fassett. By mail, single copy, 5c.; 40c. per dozen.

AMERICA IN PROPHECY; an Exposition of Isaiah XVIII. By O. R. Fassett. 8c; by mail, 10c.

Fables of Infidelity in Tract Form.

Sent postpaid, as follows:

1. I don't believe in Religion..........12 pp.
2. Did the World make itself?..........16 pp.
3. Is God Everybody, and Everybody God?..........16 pp.
4. Have we any need of the Bible?..........24 pp. 4c.
5. Who wrote the New Testament?..........16 pp. 4c.
6. Is the Gospel Fact or Fable?..........16 pp. 4c.
7. Can we Believe Christ and his Apostles?..........16 pp.
8. Prophecy..........22 pp. 4c.
9. Moses and the Prophets..........28 pp.
10. Infidelity among the Stars..........28 pp.
11. Daylight before Sunrise..........20 pp.
12. Telescopic Views of Scripture..........28 pp.
13. Science, or Faith?..........32 pp.

Put the Set, (making 304 pp.)..........30c.

Address all orders to MILES GRANT, Boston, Mass.

For the World's Crisis.

CHASTENING.

'Neath shady bowers, by sunlit streams,
My heart had lingered long,
Enwrap'ed in vain, delusive dreams,
Lulled by the syren's song.
My Father called, he bade me rise,
My journey quick pursue,
Ere night should come, and o'er the skies
Deep spread night's sable hue.

Make haste, make haste, the night doth come,
No man can work therein;
Speed on to reach thy glorious home,
The promised crown to win.
How seal his words failed to impart,
On drowsy ear they fell;
For oh, too deeply 'round my heart
Was wov'n sleep's magic spell.

My Father sought to break the spell
Of slumber's magic wand;
Hard, quick and sharp, the keen blows fell
From tender Mercy's hand.
On bended knee I bless my God,
His hand I see in this;
Though smarting 'neath affliction's rod,
That rod I fain would kiss.

With patience now I run the race
That's set my soul before;
Looking to Christ for strength and grace,
I'll run, and faint no more.
With him I will endure the cross,
With him despise the shame;
For Christ's sake suffer earthly loss,
And bear an evil name.

With him, I'll bear it for the joy
That's set my soul before,—
The hope of bliss without alloy,
The fadeless crown in store.

Perth Amboy, N. J. ANNA E. McELLISTER.

For the World's Crisis.

INFORMATION WANTED.

Will Bro. W. C. Thurman please help me a little, through the Crisis, in the study of his work, "The Sealed Book of Daniel Opened"? I am trying to profit by his advice, "to take nothing on trust"; at least, in so far as I can test matters by actual experiment. I have found a few things of importance, which I cannot harmonize with facts, nor with each other in Bro. T.'s book. I hope he will straighten them for me. I want to believe in '68 time, if I can consistently.

First the Jubilees. On page 67 he says, "If the law was fulfilled in a rest of seventy years, then there must be just seventy Jubilees to answer the end of the law." Well, in seventy cycles of forty-nine, I find there are 3430 years. Now if, as Bro. T. says, "the first Jubilee was in the year B. C. 1563," and I add 1868 to it, I obtain 3431, one year too much. Again, if I begin at B. C. 1563, and trace the Jubilees through, I find A. D. 1867 to be Jubilee year. Have I figured wrong? If so, where? Perhaps Bro. T. will tell me to diminish one in crossing the line of account between B. C. and A. D.; then I wish to know why that should be done? I also wish to ask if Bro. T. has done so in his chronological tables? If he has, then I should like to know how? because, as yet, I cannot see that he has or can; because I find in his tables that the year A. M. 4125 was B. C. 1; in sabbatical cycle 1, and in Jubilee cycle 43; and the very next year, A. M. 4126 was two in sabbatical cycle; 44 in Jubilee cycle; and A. D. 1. Now, if the very next year after B. C. 1, is A. D. 1, how can I diminish one between them?

Again, Bro. T. has proved to my satisfaction that Jesus was born B. C. 5; then he was five years old A. D. 1, and ten years old A. D. 6, and twelve, A. D. 8. Well, if B. C. 1 was 43 in Jubilee cycle, then A. D. 6 was 49, or Jubilee year; and A. D. 8 was two in next Jubilee cycle, and A. M. 4133 when Jesus was twelve years old; which is precisely as Bro. T.'s table stands. So, I repeat the question, How has Bro. T. diminished one in crossing that line? Again, if B. C. 1563 was a Jubilee year, and every 49th year after was a Jubilee year, how can Bro. T. make the year B. C. 1 to be 43 in a Jubilee cycle? Figures will not do it for me. I make B. C. 1 to be a Jubilee year, and consequently can only reach A. D. 1867 by Jubilee cycles. Will Bro. T. correct my mistakes and show that his tables are correct in this matter? If he should prove to be incorrect, then his Jubilee argument has gone "by the board."

THE TENTH DAY OF SEVENTH MONTH.

On page 210 of his book, Bro. T. states that "on the Jewish sabbath, Saturday, the tenth day of the seventh month, A. D. 1868, the 71st Jubilee will begin, at which time the type . . . must reach its antitype in the proclamation of the great Jubilee. As to the day and month of our time, with which this synchronizes, we—omitting to mention—must leave for others to find out." And on page 248, he has kindly given us a rule by which to find out the day and month. I, wishing to find out, have applied his rule strictly according to directions, with the following result: in "Hastetter's American Almanac" for 1868, I find there will be a new moon March 24th, at 1 o'clock and 39 minutes in the morning; to which I add seven hours and thirty min., and I have March 24th 9 hours, 9 min. in the morning, for time of new moon at Jerusalem, to which I add two days and have Mar. 26th, 9 h., 9 m., in the morning, for first day of the first month, which is just four days later than the time given in Bro. T.'s table for the earliest beginning of Abib, which four days I add to Sept. 15th, the earliest beginning of Ethanim, the 7th month, and I have Sept. 19th, 9 h., 9 min., in the morning, for 1st day of 7th month; which falls on "Saturday, the Jewish sabbath." I then add nine days more to the first, and have Monday, Sept. 28th, for 10th day of 7th month; when (if '68 be a Jubilee year) we shall reach the beginning of the 71st Jubilee, according to Bro. T.'s sacred time table and rule. Now, will Bro. Thurman please show me how he can get this day to fall on Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath, and oblige, Yours seeking for truth,

THOS. G. BURPEE.

Jacksontown, N. B., Dec. 17th, 1867.

ANSWER TO THE ABOVE QUESTIONS.

1. Why diminish one? Answer. From the 25th of April B. C. 1, to the 25th of April A. D. 1, there is but one year. But if you add the year B. C. 1 to the year A. D. 1, you have two; hence must drop one. Now the same rule will hold good in any number; for example, to B. C. 1563 add A. D. 1868, and you have 3431; but according to the above rule, we must drop one, which leaves for correct time 3430. Now if you wish to test the correctness of this, turn to page 237 of the "Book of Daniel Opened," and you will there learn that the year B. C. 1563 is the same with the year of the world 2563; and if to this you add 3430, you have 5993; then turn to page 247, and you will see that the year A. M. 5993 is the same with A. D. 1868. [illegible] objection to the rule of diminishing one [illegible] that it should be done; for you say that the year A. M. 4125 was B. C. 1, and in sabbatical cycle 1; and the very next year A. M. 4126 was 2 in sabbatical cycle, and A. D. 1. And now, if to 4125 you add one, you have but one more; but if to the year B. C. 1 you add A. D. 1, you have two, hence are compelled to drop one.

2. In answer to your question concerning the tenth of the seventh month, I would say, it is not expected that those tables can give any thing more than a mere cycle of the lunations. To make a nice calculation, we must have astronomical tables to find the moon's place, and make the equations; but by making each calculation separate, those tables make the time near enough for ordinary purposes. For example, your almanac will give you for the new moon of September about 16 d., 8 h.; to which add 2 d., 7 h., 30 min., and you have 18 d., 15 h., and 30 min. To this add 9 days, and you have the 27th of September; hence the tenth day of the seventh month begins with the going down of the sun on Saturday, as mentioned on page 210 of the "Sealed Book of Daniel Opened."

WM. C. THURMAN.

For the World's Crisis.

THOUGHTS.

O my Lord, let thy blessed kingdom come. Do, Lord. I long to see thy lovely face and be like thee. O when will the shadows flee away, and thy bright face be seen coming through yonder clouds to take thy weary bride home? We groan, we sigh, we weep, we pray for thy return.

"When shall I see thy glorious face,
And in thine image shine?"

I long for Him whom my soul loveth; to gaze upon Him who is full of love and tender compassion. I long to hear one word spoken by his holy lips. O come, my Lord, and take thy dear ones home. We groan with the groaning creation. We are impatient for the better land. O my Lord, do come and crown us thine. Let the earth give up her dead; let the weary watcher find rest in the happy Eden home. The night has been long and tedious. Thy bride weeps for the morning to break forth, when the shadows shall flee away. Thy loved ones weep and pray in secret places for the bright and blessed day to break forth, when it will be heard from the lips of Jesus, "Come, ye blessed of my Father"; children, come home. O how it fills my whole being with ecstasies to think of that soul-thrilling sound coming from the lips of Jesus. That will cause all the deep trials and sorrows, sufferings and afflictions, that we have passed through in this life, to sink into nothingness.

"What are all my sufferings here,
If, Lord, thou count me meet
With that enraptured host to appear,
And worship at thy feet?"

This is the language of my heart to-day. Dear ones, pray for me. God bless you all, is the earnest prayer of your suffering sister,

No. Dana, Mass. LUTHERA B. WEAVER.

LETTER FROM F. H. BURBANK.

BRO. GRANT:—Several of the preaching and other brethren and sisters have said we ought to send you this interesting letter from Bro. Burbank, to be published in the Crisis. Bro. Burbank has but little time for writing, and is really too modest to write much about his own labors. Yours in the one hope,

Bristol, Ct. HORATIO & ANNA HOUGH.

PHILADELPHIA, JAN. 30, 1868.

Dear Bro. and Sr. Hough:—

Grace, mercy, and peace unto you from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. Your kind note, with $6.00 enclosed, from friends in Bristol, was received yesterday morning, and the barrel full of practical christianity was received this forenoon. May the blessing of the Lord abide with the church in B. for their oft-repeated remembrance of us in our mission work. The quilts were excellent, and were much needed. Now we have a full supply for all our beds, all praise to the name of the Lord. We have thirty-four children under our care, nine boys and twenty-five girls. One girl has spasms, another is paralyzed, another has a lung disease. Three of the boys are cripples; two of them having no feet. They were frozen, and their feet had to be amputated. Little Minnie has been very sick with lung fever. For three days her life hung by a thread, but the Lord has raised her up again. All praise to his name. We shall probably receive six children more, then every nook and corner of our house will be full. If I had the room for them, I could have two hundred children in twenty-four hour's time. This is a hard winter for the poor, and they bring their children daily to be cared for. The nuts and beans are very acceptable, as was everything else that the barrel contained. May the Lord reward all according to the riches of his grace.

Now I have some good news to tell you concerning what the Lord is doing in our field of labor. Sinners, men, women, and children, are seeking the Lord. For quite a number of weeks, the laborers at the Home have held prayer meeting daily. Our petitions have been for more of the Holy Spirit in our hearts, and for its operations upon the hearts of the children of the Home, in our Sunday school, and upon the neighborhood. Three weeks ago we commenced afternoon meetings for children, and up to this time, we believe that fifty of the school, or about one quarter of the whole membership, have already professed faith in Christ, and the work is going on still in great power. About the same time, evening meetings were commenced. Opposite our Home is a small hall, where a band of Protestant colored Methodists meet for religious worship on Sundays. They appear to be the most humble of any of the colored churches in these parts. They are very poor, yet making many rich. I have preached for them quite a number of times on the coming of Christ and the signs of the times. The pastor and quite a number of his flock believe that we are near the end of this dispensation. They talk more about the coming of Christ than all the other churches put together. As they had no place for meetings between Sundays, I invited them to meet in our Home. They accepted the invitation, and we commenced laboring together, and the Lord has blessed wonderfully. You would almost think, if you were here, that you were amongst Adventists. They sing a great deal about the coming of Jesus and the resurrection. Some fifty and more have professed faith in Christ since these meetings started, and the work still goes on.

In about three weeks we shall form a mission church, to be called "The Church of Christ." The Bible will be our creed. The people here are as ignorant, that about all we can teach them is the near advent of Christ, the signs of the times, and the inheritance. And I believe them to be the most important truths to impress upon their minds. They are slow in learning these. The little church I have referred to have made the greatest progress in that direction of any others around us.

Before this revival commenced, I had a severe trial of faith. For three days I was so burdened that I had to pray all the time, O Lord, help me. Provisions were running out, money almost gone, and dwindling away, two children sick, scarcely anything coming in, and thirty-five mouths to be fed daily. After those three days were past, I had the most perfect peace, though the trial lasted yet four days longer. Everything was exhausted, both money and provisions. Our gas bill, $27.00, was due; our hall rent, $6.00, was also due, and in three days more the rent of two rooms would be due, $7.50 more; and all the needs of the family for another week to be met. Yet peace continued. Sunday was the seventh day of the trial, and the last. But, O such peace as I enjoyed on that day, and the three days previous. We have but two meals on Sunday. After the dinner was prepared, everything had been exhausted. But towards evening a sister, who knew nothing of our condition, gave us $2.00. That secured our breakfast for Monday morning. When Monday morning came, another lady, who knew nothing of our circumstances, brought us $51.00 which she had collected without our knowledge. In the afternoon, some friends called, and gave us $11.00 more. Our gas bill was paid, the hall rent, and the other rents as they became due. On that very Monday the revival commenced. Thus you can see how wonderful the dealings of the Lord were with us. When our stock of funds and provisions are exhausted wholly, then the Lord sets the stream running again. Sometimes it will come in a big wave, sometimes in a growing stream. Thus the Lord deals with us. Sometimes the burden will rest heavily upon us, but the Lord will not suffer us to be tempted above that we are able to bear; but will with the temptation provide a way of escape, that we may be able to bear it.

This is a very long letter for one to write, for my cares are so many that I get but little time for writing; and generally when I do write, my epistles are short. But you see how large a letter I have written with my own hand. May the Lord bless you in basket and in store, and enrich you in all spiritual knowledge. Remember me to all the brethren and sisters in B. May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ abide with them all evermore. Pray for your aff. Bro. in Christ, and one of the least of the saints,

708 Lombard St. F. H. BURBANK.

For the World's Crisis.

REPORT OF THE MASS. ADV. CHRIS. CONF. AT WESTFIELD.

The conference was called to order on Thursday morning by the Vice President. Bro. R. E. Ladd the President being absent, after the usual preliminaries, Bro. A. M. Higgins was chosen temporary chairman. Brn. Rufus Wendell and G. L. Teeple were received as members, and reported their labors; the former his as pastor of the church in Salem. Church well united, and meetings well sustained. Had labored the past three months mainly in the West,—Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, etc. A wide door seemed open. Bro. Teeple spoke of the church in Sandisfield (his home) as depending too much upon the minister; felt he must leave there, as the church must eat for themselves. Spoke of Cold Spring, Savoy, and other places where he had labored.

Bro. Munger said the numbers interested in our views had nearly doubled the past six months, in fields where he had labored. Spoke of New Haven and Guilford, Ct. Cause gaining in both places. In Maine, the churches have formed conferences for mutual protection from the influence of men who have hobbies to peddle, even if their appointments do appear in the Crisis. Cited Lewiston church, also the church in Hoosic Falls, N. Y., as instances of local distraction.

Bro. R. E. Ladd felt his knowledge of the cause of God among us was confined mainly to his home; but there had been a great work done there; numbers been gathered, prejudice removed, and an influence gone out from them for good. The prayer and conference meetings are said to be the best and nearly as large as any in the city. Advised the organization of churches. Bro. G. A. Streeter reported North Dana church; also his labors in Vermont, but specially his efforts in Charlton, where much good has resulted from efforts recently put forth, although in a very bad neighborhood.

Bro. P. S. Butler gave an interesting account of his labors with Brn. Carpenter and Potter in Conn., where the Spirit had especially been poured out of late. Preached half the time at Square Pond. Some in the neighborhood of his home, where was a good ear to hear. Bro. T. R. Weaver confirmed the statements respecting the church in Springfield. Ninety-six members; congregations numbered from four hundred and fifty to five hundred; a thriving Sunday School and Bible class. Brn. Hancock and Newell made further remarks on the influence other churches felt from the Bethel, and favored missionary work around the city, the holding of prayer and other meetings among the people.

Bro. Levi Allen said the cause never looked more favorable in Chicopee Falls. The Clerk had, in much weakness, labored to strengthen the things that remain and were ready to die, hoped not in vain in the Lord.

Bro. A. M. Higgins had labored mainly in his old fields, been several times in Keene, N. H., and although much opposition had been awakened among other denominations, and their place of worship hired away from them, and the burden borne by two brethren for a long time, yet the Lord had signally been with them, and his truth had won friends, and a place for worship had been provided; felt the churches needed faithful pastors; thought we should aim our guns at the foe, not to one another. Bro. W. Sherman reported the church in Savoy. Bro. E. McCulloch had been with them now four years. Church had never been in so good condition as now; thirty-one members; more designing to join them; were soon to dedicate a new house of worship. Bro. E. McCulloch confirmed Bro. Sherman's report from Savoy. Was pastor of the church, and beside his labors there, had been in Plainfield, North Adams, Hoosic, N. Y.; in each place was a little band holding on. God had been with him; favored organization, and invited the conference to hold its next quarterly session (the next is the annual) with the Savoy church.

Brn. B. D. Reed and E. Phelps reported the Westfield church. God had blessed them beyond their most sanguine expectations; several cases of hopeful conversion were reported during the past year; the truth was gaining friends among them; had struggled through many discouragements, but the Lord had been their helper.

Voted, The Crisis publishing committee be requested to withhold from publication the residences and appointments of persons as preachers until knowledge of their character and ability be obtained.

The following preamble and resolution was passed, at Bro. Munger's request:—

Whereas, The Camp-ground Committee feel their need of instruction as to the tenting of our new place of meeting; and, whereas, they desire the sense of this conference be taken on the subject; therefore

Resolved, We recommend said committee to rent the lots in the first circle at $2.00, and those in the second at $1.00 per year; also that uniformity both in the size and shape of tents be preserved, so far as practicable, in the first circle.

Voted, The thanks of this conference be cordially tendered the church in Westfield for their hospitality and kindness while we have been their guests. Voted, The Clerk submit a copy of our proceedings to the Crisis office for publication. Voted, to adjourn subject to the call of the Clerk.

Visitors present: Brn. W. J. Ripley, C. H. Leverton. An interesting letter was received and read from Bro. L. C. McKinstry. Preaching from the Clerk, Brn. G. A. Streeter, R. Wendell, H. Munger, E. McCulloch, G. L. Teeple, C. H. Leverton, A. M. Higgins, in the order of their names. The prayer and social meetings have been of a very spiritual character, and Sunday was remarkable for the power of God as manifested in the numbers from all denominations who sought the altar for prayers, and who joined in celebrating the death and sufferings of our Lord. Meetings are to be continued for the present. Brethren, pray for us.

E. OWEN, Clerk.

For the World's Crisis.

THEN AND THERE.

Here we are often weary,
And tired of life's care;
All around looks dreary,
Till our eyes rest "over there."
Oft our hearts are fainting,
As we walk the narrow way,
And we are sadly waiting
To hail that beauteous day,

When earth, with all its sorrow,
Shall be exchanged for bliss,
On the bright and glorious morrow
Of a better time than this;
When the land in all the beauty
Of its Eden state is seen,
And its verdure never fadeth,
For 'tis everlasting green.

There the winter's stormy blast,
And summer's scorching sun,
Will be forever past,
Will be forever gone;
Nor sickness there nor pain
Can ever more be known,
And not an entrance gain
So near the great white Throne.

There tears will all be dried
From off each shining face,
For they can ne'er abide
Within that heavenly place;
And in God's book we find,
With his own hand he dries
The tears, that now oft blind
His weeping children's eyes.

Oh! help us, pilgrims, Lord,
Who now, with staff in hand,
Are seeking for reward
In that bright, holy land,
To wait with patience sweet,
Till Thou, our King, descend,
And then with joy to meet
In the Kingdom without end.

Winsted, Ct. MARTHA E. WILLIAMS.

For the World's Crisis.

A CURIOUS BOOK.

I have been thinking for some time past what a curious book the Bible would be if it should say one thing in one place, and quite another in another place; and this is what brought it to my mind.

I was in a prayer and conference meeting a short time since, where one person took the position that death was the wages of sin, and another one about as soon as the other had taken his seat, rose up and controverted what the former one had said, and took the position that dying the second death was the wages of sin.

I was so astonished at the time, that I could not help asking myself, "Is it possible that the Bible says one thing in one place and contradicts itself in another? And more, I asked a man who is not in the habit of attending meetings, who was in this one referred to, if he noticed how the two persons spoken of above contradicted themselves, or made the Bible do so, and he replied in the affirmative.

Now, to my mind, there is as much difference between death and dying the second death, as there is between a living person and a dead one. If dying the second death is the wages, reward, or punishment due the sinner, and is to last as long as the Bible informs us that it will, then it follows that sinners are to be eternally dying the second death, for the Bible informs us, in at least two places, that the punishment of sinners is to last just as long as the life of the saints; from which may the Lord save us, for his mercy's sake.

Clinton, Mass. A. S. WHITNEY.

DON'T GIVE UP THE CLASS.

"It's no use. I am discouraged about my Sunday-School class. I have taught them as well as I could for the last six months, I have prayed for them, I think in faith, (though I haven't much faith to-night,) but they seem just as thoughtless as ever. I think they regard the Sunday-School and all its surroundings as necessary evils which must be endured as patiently as may be for a time. But it is no use for me to teach them longer. I am going straight to the superintendent and ask him to get a new teacher and a better one for them."

So said Miss Adams to Miss Wilson as they left the Sunday-School.

"Don't be in too much haste, Mary," replied Miss Wilson. "Let me tell you something of my own experience. Several years ago you know I went to a distant state. There I had a dear class of boys. There were ten of them. When a year had passed I felt very much as you do, but at length resolved to try all that prayer and effort could do to bring them to Jesus. Soon I had the joy of leading one after another into the fold of the Good Shepherd, until at the close of another year five were christians. These all turned missionaries, and brought their companions to the Savior's feet; only one lingered. Sometimes he would seem almost decided to be a christian, and again he would seem hardened and thoughtless. We urged him. We prayed for him. At times I am sure we prayed in faith, and we felt sure the blessing would come though long delayed. One dear one of our band we saw leave us joyfully for the upper fold. He said he should wait at the pearly gates for all our class.

"At the close of the third year, I left them sorrowing most of all that one was not a follower of the Lamb. The others promised to pray for him, and never to give up till their prayers were answered. Letters often came from my home saying, 'There is no change in William, but we are still praying. God is trying our faith.' Thus it was for more than a year. To-day came a joyful letter saying, 'We hope William is a christian. He united with the church last Sabbath. God has answered our prayers at last.' As I read the glad news, I thought, 'Oh fools, and slow of heart to believe.' But here we are at the church door, and there is the superintendent. Will you give up the class?"

"No," said Miss Adams, "I think I will pray and wait a little longer."—Sunday-School Times.

For the World's Crisis.

GETTING TIRED.

"O for a lodge in some vast wilderness!"

I am tired of the cold, formal politeness which repels one like ice, and has no heart in it; tired of the deception that I see in so many, of hearing persons say one thing while they think another. Tired of seeing persons accomplish their ends by flattery, and overreach and prosper by craft; of seeing impudence and servility receive updue respect and honor, while modest worth goes so often unrequited; of seeing vice reign triumphant; of hearing and reading of the wickedness of my fellow creatures.

Tired of the ingratitude of others; tired of seeing so many wallowing like swine in the mire, who, having opportunity to raise themselves, choose the filthy sink of their degradation instead. Tired of so much Barnum, alias Humbug, and so little reality as one sees on every side; of the noise and strife on every hand; of the many scandal-mongers and busy-bodies who endeavor to regulate every one's affairs but their own; of a world where so many are disposed to misjudge the actions of others.

Tired of looking so often, and finding so few sincere, disinterested persons, such as one sometimes reads of, but are few and far between; of hearing and seeing so many who destroy their own happiness and that of others with so much vinegar, when a spoonful of oil would set all right, and succeed so much better. Tired of seeing people dig, dig, slave, slave, toil, toil, after more money, more property, more honor, who have already an abundance and yet will not enjoy it, as if they were going to take it with them, for fear they should come to want in the world to come, or were going to enjoy it there. Tired of looking for the party in politics who, being in office, is better than another.

Tired of looking for justice from lawyers, and seeing so many of them and other professional men, and tired of seeing so many foolish people employ them, and of trying to find among all the different systems of Allopathy, Homopathy, Hydropathy, Thomsonian, Botanic, Spiritual and numberless others which profess to be infallible cures for the ailments of the body, one which performs one half, or of seeking a denomination which is right as a whole; of trying to distinguish the truth where there are so many creeds and theories which claim to have it, yet are so directly contrary to one another, though taken from the same book.

Tired of hearing never-ending controversies on topics which the disputants nor any one else is able to decide, and if they were, would do them as much good as to know which foot Adam put outside the garden first, or whether he jumped out, or how many fish escaped when the net broke that the disciples had cast into the right side of the ship, or what kind of government the people of Jupiter are under. I would suggest these as admirable subjects for the lovers of controversy.

I am tired of hearing "this is the fashion and that's not the fashion; tired walking and talking just so, and keeping my arms one way and my head another, and sitting in such a position, and dressing so that this and that one and all the world beside may not be shocked and utterly horrified, because I choose to depart from established customs. Tired of being bound by the fashions of society, I long to throw them all off and like Selkirk to say, for a little while at least, though not with the same spirit,

"I'm out of humanity's reach,"

and

"I'm monarch of all I survey,
My right there is none to dispute,
From the centre all round to the sea,
I'm lord of the fowl and the brute."

These, at least, speak and act according to nature; one would never learn suspicion and doubt in their company. Malice, hatred, envy, and uncharitableness, we should never meet there. I'm tired of this ceaseless toil of providing for the back and the stomach.

O Eve, Eve, what a birthright thou didst bestow on thy descendants, tired of this solitude of being among one's fellow creatures and yet feeling no heart to mix with them; of laboring and looking for peace where peace was never promised; tired of living a life without hope; of living at all after hope has fled and nought remains but to exist; of finding in myself so many of the faults I dislike in others; of thinking and trying to make this world a house and abiding home, and being so often reminded, by the storms of life, that it is only the porch that leads into an eternal habitation beyond of joy or woe.

I am tired of being tired, and tired of the years of maturity and the realities of life. I would fain be a child again, and dream of the world as I then fancied it; but never would I wish those dreams to be chased away by such bitter realities. MARTHA MAPLE.

For the World's Crisis.

A WINTER ROSE.

BRO. GRANT:—The marvelous statement which appeared in the Crisis of Jan. 8th, from the pen of Bro. J. M. Weston, of Keesville, N. Y., relative to a red rose appearing in full bloom when the ground was frozen four feet under it, and plum and apple trees perfected with blossoms, while the thermometer for many days ranged from sixteen to ten below zero; was so much discredited by some as to induce Bro. D. Mathewson to write Bro. Weston, requesting him to get a second party to certify with him in regard to it. Bro. W. answered him thus:—"I would do as you request, with pleasure, were I the first to publish the facts; but I am not. The account of said phenomenon was published in the "Essex County Republican" of Jan. 2d, 1868, communicated by the pastor of the M. E. Church of this place, as the editor of said paper informed me."—Bro. W. sent the said paper to Bro. M., and it is now before me as I write. I would send it, but Bro. M. desires to keep it, intending to have it copied into the "Sandy Hill Herald."

E. MATHEWSON.

Castleton, Vt., Feb. 20th, 1868.

☞ If you would be pungent, be brief, for it is with words as with sunbeams—the more they are condensed the deeper they burn.

EDITING A NEWSPAPER.

Most people think that the selection of matter for a newspaper is the easiest part of the business. How great an error! It is by all means the most difficult. If every person who reads a paper could have edited it, we should hear less complaints. His paper must come out with something in it, and he does the best he can. To an editor who has the least care about what he selects, the writing he has to do is the easiest part of his labor. Every subscriber takes the paper for his own benefit; and if there is nothing in it that suits him, it must be stopped; it is good for nothing. Just as many subscribers as an editor may have, so many tastes has he to consult. One wants something sound; another wants anecdotes, and the next door neighbor wonders that a man of good sense would put such stuff in a paper. Another wants something spicy; something spicy comes out, and the editor is a blackguard. Next comes something argumentative, and the editor is a dull fool. And so, between them all, you see, the poor fellows get roughly handled. They never think that what does not please them may please the next man, but they insist that if the paper does not please them, it is good for nothing.

The Children's Corner.

PLEDGE OF THE TRY COMPANY.

We, the Undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from Tea, Coffee, Tobacco, and all Intoxicating Drinks as a Beverage.

"PEEP, SAYS CURIOSITY."

"How shall we employ our time till the gas is lit?" said George Harvey. "I wonder whether papa will tell us a tale?"

Mr. H. Well, I have thought of one that perhaps may improve a certain young person, if he will attend to it; but I mention no names.

Geo. Do you mean me, papa?

Mr. H. I did not say so.

Geo. No, papa; but though you did not say so, perhaps you did mean me.

Mr. H. In a certain town there lived a gentleman of the name of Broadhurst. Mr. Broadhurst was a married man, but as he had no family of his own, he used to invite a niece to live with him occasionally, and she frequently spent many weeks together at her uncle's. This young lady had acquired a very troublesome habit of asking questions, and of prying into things that did not concern her—in short, she was what is generally called very curious; though I do not think she was well aware of it herself. One evening her aunt left the room, and was absent for some time on domestic affairs. Her uncle sat reading the paper. When he had finished it, he laid it upon the table, and pushed up his spectacles to his forehead, which was a certain sign that he was going to say something very grave.

Geo. That is just as you do, papa.

Mr. H. Is it? Well I believe it is, said Mr. H., smiling. He then called his neice to him, and said, "My dear, I am going from home early to-morrow morning. I have something I should wish to leave in your care; may I depend upon you?" "Certainly, you may," replied his niece; "but what is it?"

"That," said Mr. Broadhurst, "I wish to remain unknown. "Well," said his neice, "that is very odd; how can you commit any thing to my care without my knowing what?" "It is," replied her uncle "inclosed in a small paper box. I have so much dependence on you, that I dare intrust you with the box unfastened; but with the knowledge of what it contains I may not. Here is the key of my desk; open it, and you will find the box wrapped in a brown paper." When she had found it she carried it to her uncle.

"Now my dear," said he, as he unfolded the paper with care, "this small box I give into your hands. You must neither tell Mrs. Broadhurst, nor any one else, what has passed between us this evening; and you will lock the box up in your trunk; it is of importance to yourself to remain ignorant of its contents. Good night, love. It may probably be three weeks before I return."

Geo. I wonder what was in it; do you know, papa?

Mr. H. You cannot wonder more than Mary did. She carried the box up stairs into her room; she examined the outside over and over again; it was a small box made of purple paper; and after pouring over it for a full half-hour, she was just as wise as at first. It had no smell; it felt extremely light, and sounded hollow; for thus far did Mary's curiosity lead her. At length she placed it in her trunk, and locked it up, as she had promised to do. She could scarcely sleep for thinking of it. What could it be, that was of importance to her not to know, and yet that her uncle had put into her hands? What could it be that he would not even trust her aunt with it? for it was the first time she had ever known her uncle to conceal anything from her. When at length she fell asleep, the box—the box—still troubled her; she dreamed about it; waking or sleeping, the box still ran in her head. Day after day passed; the desire to know what was in the box grew stronger. A thousand times did she wish that her uncle had never placed it in her care. It was daily examined; and many a time was her hand on the point of raising the lid. She had tried, and found that it was really not secured in any way. The evening at length came, preceding the day on which her uncle was expected to return. To-morrow, she thought, would put it out of her power to ascertain the contents forever. She tried the lid—it dropped into her hand; there was a paper in the box. "Well," said she, "I will not read this paper; I will only just look at it." She raised it; the paper was blank; but beneath, on the bottom of the box was written in large characters—"Peep, says curiosity." Poor Mary burst into a flood of tears. The box dropped from her hand upon the floor. To deny that she had opened the box she could not; a lie was what Mary never told. It was now apparent what her uncle meant when he said that it was of importance to herself that she did not open it. She had forfeited his good opinion, and, in all probability, a reward; though to give Mary due credit, her mind was so completely occupied by the thought of having lost her uncle's esteem, that the latter idea never entered her mind. To increase her perplexity, at this instant there was a knock at the hall door. It was her uncle's well-known rap. When he was informed of the truth by Mary's frank confession of the whole, he told her that he intended no punishment—that he meant to give her a lesson which he trusted she would never forget. "That I shall not, indeed," said the sobbing girl; and I am happy to say that before long, she recovered the good opinion of her uncle.—Golden Rule Story Book.

ON THE TRACK.

The other day I heard a mother ask her little son to do something. "In a minute," he said. She spoke again. But it was one, two, three, four, five minutes before he minded her.

It makes me think of the switch-tender's boy. What if he had waited a minute before minding his father? A switch-tender in Prussia was just going to move the rail, in order to put a coming train of cars on a side-track, when he caught sight of his little son playing on the track. The engine was in sight, and he had not a moment to spare. He might jump and save his child; but he could not do that and turn the switch in time; and if it were not done, the on-coming train would meet another train, and a terrible crash and smash take place. The safety of hundreds of lives depended upon his fidelity. What could he do? What did he do? "Lie down! lie down!" he called, with a loud, quick voice to the child; and seizing the switch, the train passed safely on its proper track.

Did the heavy train go over the boy? Was he killed? Was he crushed to pieces? No, for he did just as his father said, and did it instantly. He fell flat, and the cars went high over him; and when the anxious father ran to him, there he was alive and not a hair of him touched. It was his quick obedience, you see, that saved his life. He did not stop a minute. Even a moment's hesitation would have been too late.

LITTLE KATY.

Katy B. stood by the parlor window during a heavy thunder shower. Her Aunt Annie, who was greatly terrified by the sharp lightning, called to her, "Katy, come away from the window, dear; it is not safe for you to stand there. Come and sit by me on the sofa."

But Katy, with her thoughtful eyes still fixed upon the white sheet of hail and rain, said, in her lisping way, for she could not yet speak very plainly:

"No, aunty; if it funder, it is God makes it funder, and he'll take care of me!"

The same little one, coming unexpectedly into her elder sister's chamber one afternoon, discovered her in tears.

"What's the matter, Lulie?" she cried, in a tone of deep sympathy; "what's the matter? What makes you cry?"

"Because I am wicked," replied Lucy, sobbing.

"Why, don't you love God?" exclaimed Katy.

"No, I am afraid I don't."

"O do love God, Lulie!" and Katy's little arms clung around her sister's neck as she spoke. "O do love God, Lulie; don't be so stingy!"

ROBIN RED BREAST'S SECRET.

I'm little Robin Red-breast,
My nest is in the tree;
If you look up in yonder elm,
My pleasant home you'll see.
We made it very soft and nice—
My pretty mate and I—
And all the time we worked at it,
We sang most merrily.

But I've a secret I would like
The little girls to know;
Though I won't tell a single boy,
They rob the poor birds so.
We have four pretty little nests,
We watch them with great care;
Full fifty eggs are in this tree—
Don't tell the boys they're here.

Joe Thompson robbed the nest last year,
And year before Tom Brown;
I'll tell it loud as I can sing
To every one in town.
Swallow and sparrow, lark and thrush,
Will tell you just the same;
To make us all so sorrowful,
It is a wicked shame.

O, did you hear the concert
This morning from our tree?
We give it every morning,
Just as the clock strikes three.
We praise our great Creator,
Whose holy love we share;
Dear children, learn to praise him too,
For all his tender care.

Selected by M. S. T.

ORIGIN OF PLANTS.

Perhaps our little readers would like to know where some of the plants and fruits we cultivate were first found.

It may be some of you never give it a thought, and would be surprised to know that so many countries are represented in our gardens and fields.

Oats came originally from North Africa.

Rye is a narive of Siberia.

Barley was first found in the mountains of Himalaya.

Buckwheat came from Siberia and Tartary.

The potato is a native of Peru and Mexico.

Hemp originated in Persia and the East Indies.

Cucumbers, also, came from the East Indies.

Cabbages grow wild in Sicily and Naples.

Currants and gooseberries came from the South of Europe.

Parsnips are supposed to have come from Arabia.

Peas originated in Egypt.

Garden beans came from the East Indies.

Citrons came from Greece.

Onions originated in Egypt.

Celery came from Germany.

Parsley was first known in Sardinia.

Radishes are a native of China and Japan.

The quince came from the Island of Crete.

Horse-radish came from the South of Europe.

The sunflower came from Peru.

The mulberry tree came from Persia.

The pear and apple from Europe.

The chestnut from Italy.

The walnut and peach came from Persia.

The horse-chesnut originated at Thibet.

The pine is a well-known native of the East.

BOYS USING TOBACCO.—A strong and sensible writer says a sharp thing, and a true one, for boys who use tobacco. It has utterly spoiled and utterly ruined thousands of boys. It tends to the softening and weakening of the bones, and it greatly injures the brain, the spinal marrow, and the whole nervous fluid. A boy who smokes early and frequently, or in any way uses large quantities of tobacco, is never known to make a man of much energy, and generally lacks muscular and physical as well as mental power. We would particularly warn boys who wish to be anything in the world, to shun tobacco as a most baneful poison. It injures the teeth. It produces an unhealthy state of the lungs, hurts the stomach, and blasts the brain and nerves.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

TERMS:

If paid in advance............$2.50 a year.
Five copies six months to one address.........$5.50
Same rate for any larger number.
Ten copies six months to one address.........$10.00
Same rate for any number over ten.

CLUB PRICES PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

Postage.—The postage in the United States on each single copy of the Crisis is 20 cents a year, payable quarterly, in advance, at the office of delivery.

Rules for Correspondents.

Over all matters not intended for publication, write—Private.
Over all business matters, write—Business.
Over all articles for the paper, write—For the Crisis.
All articles should be accompanied by the writer's NAME, for the Editor's information, even if it is not published.
When the names of new subscribers are sent, please say they are new, and it will save much labor.
PRIVATE LETTERS.—Those wishing to address the Editor on matters not connected with the office, please write Private on the outside of the envelope.
☞ Put business matters and communications on separate pieces of paper, or so that they can be detached without interfering with any other communication.
☞ All persons writing to us should give their names DISTINCTLY and PLAINLY, the POST OFFICE, COUNTY and STATE at which they wish to be addressed; and all orders, subscriptions and remittances, should be plainly directed to

MILES GRANT, BOSTON, MASS.

PUBLISHED ALSO AT THE SAME OFFICE,

THE YOUNG PILGRIM:

FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

TERMS:

[illegible]

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY; AND MY REWARD IS WITH ME."

WHOLE NO. 649. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 11, 1868. VOL. XXVI.—NO. 26.

The World's Crisis

AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER,

Issued every Wednesday Afternoon at

167 HANOVER STREET, BOSTON.

MILES GRANT, Editor.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
S. G. MATHEWSON, WM. H. MITCHELL, A. ROSS.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:
H. F. CARPENTER, H. V. DAVIS, M. BATCHELOR, J. G. HAMBLIN, D. MATHEWSON.

GEORGE T. ADAMS,
Treasurer and Business Agent.

☞ The Crisis is devoted to the exposition of all Bible truth; especially the doctrine of the immediate, personal coming and reign of Christ on the earth; holiness of heart; the unconscious state of the dead; their literal resurrection, and final destruction of the wicked.

For the World's Crisis.

OH JESUS, COME!

Oh Jesus Savior, long have I been waiting
To see thee, whom my soul delights to love
With strong affection, ever unabating,—
I fain would see thee coming from above.

Thy children, often sad and weary-hearted,
Sighing beneath a weight of heavy care,
And weeping oft, because from thee they're parted,
Would joy to see thee coming through the air.

'Twould be a great joy, springing like a fountain,
In hearts now sad, to cheer each waiting one,
Till, like a young hart springing o'er the moutain,
With faces radiant like the rising sun,

Thy saints would, buoyantly, leave earth to meet thee,
"Caught up" 'mid pearly clouds by angel bands,
And with a song exultingly would greet thee,
With palms of victory waving in their hands.

Then, Jesus, come, I pray make no delaying;
Come to thy waiting ones and make them blest;
Here on this old, sad earth, we still are praying,
"Thy Kingdom come," oh, give the promised rest.

Not long shall we thus wait; till breaks the morning
Of that glad day, when thou shalt, glorious, come;
Now is the heavy darkness which precedes the morning,
Lo! day is breaking; soon we'll reach our home.

L. C. McKinstry.

For the World's Crisis.

"THE YEAR OF MY REDEEMED IS COME."

It has been usual with God, in former captivities of his people, to reveal the periods of time they were to continue in them, as well as that of the church of Christ in the wilderness under the dominion of the man of sin; such as the captivity of the seed of Abraham in Egypt in Gen. 15: 13, 14. And God said unto Abraham, "Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them, and they shall afflict them four hundred years; and also that nation whom they shall serve will I judge, and afterwards they shall come out with great substance"; and in like manner the period of captivity of his ancient people in Babylon was thus predicted by Jeremiah 25: 11, 12, and 29: 10, 11,—"And this whole land shall be a desolation and an astonishment; and these nations shall serve the king of Babylon seventy years; and it shall come to pass when seventy years are accomplished, that I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation, saith the Lord, for their iniquity."

As the periods, then, of these former captivities were prophetically specified, so is that of the symbolical woman, or church in the wilderness, where she was to be hid from the face of the serpent, whose malice was exerted toward her through the medium of the man of sin. These twelve hundred and sixty years commence when the saints, with the times and laws, are, according to Dan. 7: 25, given into the hands of the little horn; and they terminate when the judgment sits to take away his dominion, "to consume and destroy it unto the end."

The time of the treading down of the Holy City, forty and two months, and the witnesses of Jesus beginning to prophesy in sackcloth (Rev. 11: 2, 3), mark the commencement of these forty-two months, or years; and their putting off that sorrowful garb shows that the months have terminated. When the mystical woman flies to the wilderness from the face of the serpent (Rev. 12: 6–11), it marks the commencement of the twelve hundred and sixty days; and when she begins to emerge from her state of captivity there, the time, times, and half a time, have ended. When the seventh trump begins to sound, these times, months, and days, which describe the dominion of the little horn, have terminated.

The sounding of this seventh trumpet of the seventh angel was to mark the commencement of these events by a series of dispensations, both of judgment and of mercy; the latter rising out of the former, as stated in Rev. 11: 15, 19,—"And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ; and he shall reign forever and ever." This event is their final result, and comes into existence ere he shall cease to sound; but it will be preceded by the judgment sitting on the little horn, to take away his dominion to consume and destroy it to the end; "but in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God shall be finished, as he has declared unto his servants the prophets"; that is, the mystery of the prophecies concerning the time which Daniel was commanded to seal up, "even to the time of the end."

From the time, then, of this trumpet begin- [illegible]

tivity of the church of Christ in the wilderness commenced and terminated. The one thousand two hundred and threescore prophetic days, or historic years, we are sure is the exact period of the reign of the man of sin, of the witnesses of Jesus prophesying in sackcloth, and of the mystical woman being concealed in a state of captivity in the wilderness.

Here there can be no error; but a more exact date than that of a year we are not to expect, for by years it is pointed out to us in prophecy, and if within the given year the event predicted comes to pass, the prophecy is infallibly fulfilled. If, therefore, we ascertian the year in which these days commenced. we can easily tell, with arithmetical exactness, when they should close; or, if we can show when they ended, we shall be able, upon the same principle, to show when they began. If events, then, at a given period of time exhibit evident indications of the commencement of these twelve hundred and sixty days; and if providential occurrences at the end of these days from that date plainly indicate the fulfillment of what the prediction gave us cause to expect, ought we not to conclude that we have fallen upon the true interpretation of these mysteries? It is this which is to be ascertained and it can only be determined by a careful examination of the history of the Roman empire, which is the principal theatre and the chief subject of the prophecies. We shall, then, by that history endeavor to ascertain the date of the commencement of these twelve hundred and sixty years, or prophetic days.

They begin, we know, at the period of the saints' times and laws of the church of Christ being given into the hands of the little horn. To wear out the former, and to change the latter, according to Dan. 7: 25, which is also the period of the Holy City's beginning to be trodden under foot, of the witnesses prophesying in sackcloth, of the flight of the woman into the wilderness; for the object of these prophetic emblems and the date of their commencement is all the same. These events cannot be dated at an earlier period whatever later than A. D. 487; for the little horn, into whose hands the saints were given, did not exist until after that period.

We are informed in Dan. 7: 24, that "the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that shall arise and another shall rise after them; and he shall be diverse from the first, and he shall subdue three kings"; that this little horn had "eyes like a man, and a mouth speaking great things,"—came up among the ten horns which were upon the fourth beast, in the prophecies of Daniel, which all interpreters are agreed signifies the Roman Monarchy; and that the ten horns are a prophetic emblem of its divisions into ten kingdoms. After the Gothic conquests, which did not take place until the emperor Augustulus was forced to resign the government of the empire, in the year 487, when it was divided into ten kingdoms, which the ten horns represent, among which the little horn, or man of sin, came up, the saints being given into the hands of the little horn must have been by some great deed or decree of the empire; for the Bishop of Rome and his clergy, when introduced into the popedom, constitute the man of sin, or little horn, in the prophecy. It behoved this important event in the history of the empire to have been accomplished by some great public deed, or decree, which issued from the fountain of imperial authority, and which was enrolled among the constitutions of the empire.

This great imperial enactment is to be found among the first edicts of that great emperor, Justinian, in the sixth century. Justinian succeeded to the throne of the eastern Roman empire in the year 527, forty years after the emperor Augustulus was forced to evacuate his seat there. When Justinian came to the throne, he found the western empire (to which the prophecies principally refer) wholly under the power of the Arian nations, who persecuted the orthodox religion, so that the aspiring Bishop of Rome was forced to bow under the Arian kings of the Goths who ruled Italy.

After Justinian had restored the empire to a high pitch of glory, and seeing himself at peace on all hands, he resolved to collect all the Roman laws into one body. For this important work he chose ten of the ablest men of the empire, and brought these laws, then dispersed in near two hundred books, into fifty. These were called, "The Pendects of Justinian." The code and novels were likewise brought into one volume, and by these additional edicts he endeavored to bring the whole state of society, government, and religion, into conformity to the spirit of his own mind and that of his able counsellors. This work, while it gave forth a body of civil laws, also fixed the hitherto undefined powers of the Roman Pontiff.

By the first of these edicts, authority was given to the Bishop of Rome to settle all controversies of the church, by which he was declared to be her head, and infallible in all matters of faith, and was permitted to use the civil power of the empire against whomsoever he deemed heretical. This important edict bears date "March, 533."

But this momentous matter does not rest on one edict, but on a number passed in the same year or the year following; or rather, it may be said to rest upon a complete system of policy and creed of imperial authority, issued to the empire and written in its laws, whereby popery was established the Imperial religion; so that its image is delineated and determined in the very beginning of Justinian's code, then given as if to signify that it was a leading law of the empire. The celibacy of the clergy, the intercession of the Virgin Mary, the veneration of the holy crosses, the setting of the decrees of councils on a level with the Holy Scriptures; these, together with other capital constitutions, are all within a year of the same date enacted and embodied in the standing law of the empire; and not only so, [illegible]

but in the Emperor's letter to the Bishop of Rome he uses these expressions: "Your highness, the Beatitudes"; "The head of the Holy Churches"; "The head of the Holy Priests of God"; and all such blasphemous titles he recognizes.

Without hesitation I adopt the time of the passing of this decree of the Emperor Justinian, which took place in the month of March, 533, as the commencement of the prophetic days, months, and years, after which we are inquiring. If we are correct in what we have alleged respecting the commencement of the twelve hundred and sixty days, we cannot err respecting the period of their termination, which must be in 1793. In the course of that year the days must have closed.

We shall now proceed to inquire after the events of the year 1793. If that year present to us occurrences of a political and ecclesiastical nature in the western empire, corresponding to the emblematical descriptions of some of these predictions, then we shall obtain confirming evidences of the correctness of our position respecting the time of the commencement of these days. It remains, then, that we should now resort to the historical facts of the year 1793, and inquire whether anything occurred in it which would betoken these events taking place, as the judgment sitting on the beast, "to take away his dominion, to consume and destroy it unto the end." We are not to expect that when the judgment begins to sit on the little horn, and on the beast out of which it grew, that it is the signal of the instant and entire destruction of the kingdom and dominion of Antichrist; for the prophecy gives no cause to expect this; indeed it warrants us to look for its commencement, but not for its immediate conclusion; to be smitten with a stroke from which he will never recover, but gradually waste away, and ultimately die and go into perdition. Having suggested this necessary caution, let us now turn our attention to the events of 1793.

Louis XVI., King of France, finding the finances of the government in considerable embarrassment, passed several edicts for raising certain taxes, which was the immediate cause of the French Revolution, and ultimately of all his misfortunes. He was obliged to call together first the assembly of the Notables, and then to resort to the States General, who resolved themselves into the National Assembly, which, on the 10th of August, 1792, deposed their sovereign from his throne, executed him on the scaffold on the 21st of January, 1793, and the queen on the 16th of October following.

The nation was instantly drenched in blood, and in the course of three years two millions of the inhabitants of France perished, which was immediately followed by dreadful calamities in that kingdom, especially during the reign of Napoleon Bonaparte, who was the principal executioner of the sentence of that judgment which began to sit upon the little horn at the conclusion of the twelve hundred and sixty years, and the avenger of the blood of the martyred saints on these kingdoms where it was shed. Let us trace his martial career in fulfilling these divine predictions. He took command of the French army of Italy early in 1796. On the 7th of April that year he commenced hostilities against the combined Austrian, Neapolitan, and Piedmontese army, and in so short a time as fourteen days achieved six victories, and conquered the richest part of Piedmont.

He recounts his victories to his army on the 26th of the same month:

"Soldiers: in the course of fourteen days you have achieved six victories, taken twenty-one stand of colors, fifty pieces of cannon, several strong fortresses, and conquered the richest portion of Piedmont; you have taken fifteen hundred prisoners, and killed and wounded more than ten thousand men; and the two armies that but lately attracted you with audacity now fly in terror before you."

And again, on the 20th of May: "Soldiers, you have precipitated yourselves like a torrent from the summit of the Alpines; you have driven back and dispersed all that opposed your march; Milan is yours, and the Republican flag floats through Lombardy, while the Dukes of Parma and Modena owe their political existence solely to your generosity."

On the 19th of June he entered the dominions of the Pope, took possession of several towns, and his further progress was only stopped by the submission of the Pope, and his agreeing to pay to France 20,000,000 livres, equal to £85,000. In the months of July and August the Austrians again attacked Bonaparte in Lombardy with two armies, which contest continued until the 16th of June, 1787, when it was computed that the Austrians lost seventy-five thousand men, and the French not less than sixty thousand.

Such was the result of the judgment sitting upon the little horn to take away his dominion, and to consume him unto the end. Says a French writer in describing the situation of the Pope in 1797:—

"Commotions and anxieties of every kind, lively alarms, serious losses, a catastrophe which cost him his money, his peace, and his glory; humiliations, insurrections, everything that can render a Prince's reign tempestuous, were the events which marked for Pope Pius the chief part of the year 1797."

In the month of February, 1798, the Papal government, which had existed so many centuries, was overthrown; on one part of the walls it was written, "The time is come"; and on another, "Rome is in her last agony."

Such has been the political history of France after the termination of the twelve hundred and sixty years. A mass of evil is presented to our imagination utterly confounding, the extent of which is only known to Him whose eyes are in every place, and who has thus judged the great harlot that has corrupted the earth by her fornications, shed the blood of the saints of God, and blood has been given her to drink, for she is worthy.

If I am correct in my deductions, as herein set forth, we have already entered upon the [illegible] last day of the thirteen hundred and thirty-five, at the end of which Daniel is to stand in his lot. Glory to God,

"The year of jubilee is come;
Return, ye ransomed sinners, home."

Jonas Wendell.

Sandy Hill, Feb., 1868.

For the World's Crisis.

THE ATONEMENT.

The Atonement, in harmony with God's revealed attributes, and reconciles the justice and mercy of God.

The Lord is rich in mercy, "yea, he delighteth in mercy." Why, then, does he not pardon all sinners by a mere act of sovereign grace? What need was there of an Atonement? Why must Emanuel agonize and die on the cross? "Known unto God are all his works from the foundatien of the world."—Acts 15: 18.

We answer, first, because there was a necessity. Isa. 59: 16; Luke 19: 10; Heb. 9: 22. Had the human species never forfeited the favor and incurred the displeasure of their bountiful Creator, a Mediator could never have been wanted; for God, who is Love, was of himself disposed to favor and bless the work of his own hands. Had not man been brought into a state of alienation from God, and exposed to his just indignation, no reconciliation, and consequently no Peacemaker, could have been required. When the first Adam had broken the commandment and forfeited the covenant of his Creator, and so sin and death had entered into the world, to pass upon the whole race that was about to descend from him; then, and not before, was the second "Adam, the Lord from heaven," promised to be the Mediator of a new covenant, under the title of "the seed of the woman," who "should bruise the serpent's head." Gen. 3: 14, 15.

Thus the entrance of sin rendered the interposition of a Mediator necessary, being foreordained (Rom. 3: 25; 1 Peter 1: 11, 20; Rev. 13: 8); the "Lamb slain from the foundation of the world," typified by Gen. 4: 4, with Heb. 11: 4; Gen. 22: 2, with Heb. 11: 17, 19; Ex. 12: 5, 11, 14, with 1 Cor. 5: 7; Ex. 24: 8, with Heb. 9: 7, and 12: 28; Lev. 17: 11, with Heb. 9: 22; and effected by Christ alone. John 1: 20; Acts 4: 10, 12; Heb. 2: 9; 1 Pet. 2: 24.

Second, it was voluntary. Heb. 10: 5, 9; John 10: 11, 15, 17, 18. Adverting to such testimonies of the Holy Spirit, we shall know what to think concerning those exclamations, irrational and absurd, which many of those who are wise in this world and in their own eyes employ in opposing the doctrine of the Atonement. Neither can there be any injustice in this statement of it; for if One, who was both able and willing to do it, was pleased to ransom his brethren from deserved eternal death, by enduring temporal sufferings and death as their surety, what injustice could there be in accepting such a sacrifice for sin? And how, I ask, can that doctrine give an unamiable view of God, which shows him to be infinite in righteousness, holiness, love, mercy, faithfulness, and wisdom, and displays these and all other conceivable moral excellences in full perfection and entire harmony? Absurd. It can only appear so to sinners, because justice and holiness are not amiable in the eyes of the unjust and unholy.

Or how can that doctrine be prejudicial to the cause of morality (as some say) which furnishes the most powerful motives and encouragement to holiness, and shows sin in all its horrid deformity, and with all its tremendous effects; and which has done far more to teach men to deny "ungodliness and worldly lusts, and to live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world," than all other expedients besides have ever appeared to do? We love Him because he first loved us. "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3: 16. Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable Gift!

Third, it also exhibits the grace and mercy of God. See Rom. 8: 32; Eph. 2: 4, 5, 7. True, men had forfeited their Creator's favor and deserved his anger, by transgression; and become vile and miserable, even vessels of wrath, fitted for destruction; but it pleased God, "to the praise of his glory," and the display of his infinite and everlasting mercy (for "God is Love"), to purpose the reconciliation, recovery, and eternal felicity of an innumerable multitude of the fallen race. Thus the riches of God's mercy have abounded towards us in all wisdom and prudence (Eph. 1: 7: 8); and in this way reconciles the justice and mercy of God. Rom. 3: 2, 5, 26.

Dear reader, let us throw aside all caviling, and be assured that God has not revealed any thing contrary to his known moral attributes. The whole gospel scheme is in perfect harmony with what we know of God. They who really believe and understand the scriptural account of this surprising transaction, discern the justice and mercy of God in giving his own dear Son to redeem us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us. Gal. 3: 13.

And now, what is your hope? Have you an interest in the atoning work of Christ? Our King is soon coming. Are you prepared to meet him? If not, delay no longer; be assured that "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap"; for out of Christ our "God is a consuming fire." Wm. Lee.

Quebec, Feb. 8th, 1868.

Learn a Trade.—"Because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, and wrought; for by their occupation they were tent makers."—Acts 18: 3. It was the custom among the Jews for every man, of what rank or quality soever, to learn some trade or handicraft. One of their proverbs was, "Whosoever teaches not his son a trade, teaches him to be a thief." In those hot countries where tents were so much used by soldiers and travelers, tent-making was no mean or unprofitable employment. [illegible]

BE YE SEPARATE.

It has been truly remarked,—"that the intercourse of believers with the world should resemble that of angels, who, when they have been sent a message from heaven, discharge their office with the utmost promptness, and joyfully fly back home to the presence of God." The believer and unbeliever are utterly heterogeneous. The believer's intercourse with the world in the daily affairs of life is unavoidable; fellowship is incompatible. The one cannot be avoided; the other must not only be avoided but positively discountenanced and condemned. "For what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? what communion hath light with darkness? and what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel? and what agreement hath the temple of God with idols?" "Be ye separate"—or, "separated."

This separation is not isolation from the physical world as God made it, for we could not well speak of separation from the community, or people, called "the world," in contradistinction from the people of God. The love of that world; of the maxims which govern it, the principles which reign there, the ends that are sought, the amusements and gratifications which characterize it as distinguished from the church of God. "The friendship of the world which is enmity with God," consists in setting our hearts on those which are inimical to life and godliness, and conformity to them; in making them the object of our pursuit, with the same spirit with which they are sought by those who make no pretensions to religion. This course is hostility against God, since that "world which lieth in the wicked one," is arrayed against him. "Whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world," whether in the professing church, or out of it; for it is as easy to be a friend of the world in the church as out of it; is at deliberate enmity with God. Solemn declaration! It forever settles all disputes between the professor and the possessor. It settles the point that any one, no matter what his pretensions, who is characteristically a friend, a lover of the world, cannot be a true christian. The nature and tendency of living christianity in the soul is to distract its possessor from what is opposed to its Author. It is to dispossess "the strong man armed," and to infuse a motive to godliness.

From the moment the soul "puts on the new man," it is in the positive advancement and completion of begun sanctification; and from that blessed time it may be said "they are not of the world." Such "new born sons" are to be regarded as separate, distinct verities in that better life resuscitated from the world's crust—in the communion of which better life, earnest and resolute separation is needed. It is a deeper crime to be unfaithful to God than to any created being. We must not violate our covenant vow in relation to the one—we must not tarnish that relationship by yielding to the indulgence of a passion for worldly joys in the other. We spoil—and in effect break, our marriage covenant with God, by loving the world more than him. We are of "the Bride"—"the Lamb's wife;" and "the bridegroom" expects "the wife to love her own husband." A divided affection would evince unfaithfulness; and a divided heart is no heart at all; and where there is no heart for him, alas! how dead, how cold that heart! The old proverb stands good at all times "a man is known by the company he keeps." And while the proverb propounds a great universal proposition, it advances a step further in that line of demarkation between God and that constituted fellowship which has taken place in the union of life with Christ, in him. Fellowship with God excludes all that is not of him. No matter how specious the element—or under what name—it cannot be intermixed with the life of God in the soul; or the goings out of that life in fellowship. No better evidence of christianity can be produced than that "fruit unto holiness" which shows itself in practical separation from evil. The principle of living unity to Christ is of itself, and of necessity, separation; for, there is nothing in the world that can be substituted for it—nothing that can be commingled with it.

Christ and Satan, christianity and worldliness, have no affinity for each other. Two ingredients of a non-unitive nature, which by no process whatever can be blended together, ought to be kept separate. This separation is not the recluse, the monk, the hermit; such a separation were improper and inconsistent with our Lord's injunction—"Let your light shine before men." Nor is it exclusiveness and narrow-mindedness; for separation to Christ, in the one body over which he is the head, necessarily implies union in love and fellowship with the members of that body. One part of the body sympathizes with the other—and all the parts are "fitly joined together," and have part in the covenant relation with the head. The principle of separation from the world receives into its higher fellowship all those who "in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord." It shuts out none whom Christ has received. It comprehends "all saints;" and it excludes the leavened and the leavening. Its measure is "the measure of the sanctuary"—God's imperial standard—the risen and exalted Christ. Life in him is what we have—and it is this we should seek for in those for whose fellowship we are solicitous. And what further is the spirit of this separation and decision? "He that is joined to the Lord is one spirit." "One spirit!" How close the union! How united in feeling, in spirit, in disposition! The union with Christ is more intimate, entire and pure, than that can be between a man and his wife; and that union should be regarded as sacred and inviolable. Every sin—and even things assuming "the appearance of evil," should be treated with the "one spirit" in us and Him. And what was this spirit in him, and which should now be in us? He was "harmless, undefiled, and separate from sinners." "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." Let us "be perfectly joined together in the same mind." Christians should be pure. They should be above suspicion. They should avoid the appearance of evil. No christian can be too pure; none can feel too much the obligation to be holy. By every sacred and tender consideration God urges it on us; and by a reference to our own happiness as well as his own glory, he calls on us to be holy in our lives.—Herald of the Morning.

For the World's Crisis.

DO YOU PRAY IN SECRET?

There are many persons who profess to be the disciples of Jesus who are not in the habit of secret prayer. They have no closet, no place of retirement to which they daily resort, and where, when they have shut the door, they pray to their Father which seeth in secret, and in solitude seek the society of God. They are accustomed to read the Bible, and perhaps no part of it more than the Savior's sermon on the Mount, and yet somehow or other they seem to overlook and fail to apprehend the importance of the lesson inculcated by our Savior in the following words: "But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet; and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret, and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." This is the duty of all who would be followers of Him who commanded it, yet it is true that this duty is sadly neglected.

Many seem to be shy of God. They care not to meet him alone. It should not be so. God is doing all he can to woo and win us to himself, and secure our confidence in his promise. So much has he done that he asks what he could have done more? He waits upon his throne of grace to be gracious unto all who will come and ask for mercy and grace to help in time of need. He calls upon his creatures to come to him, using, too, the language of most tender and affectionate address, "Son," "my son;" but many respond not—"Abba, Father." It is strange they should treat this Father so. They do not treat an earthly parent so indifferently. What child does not in the morning salute his father? and what father does not expect the salutation of each child as they come into his presence? O yes, we love our father on earth, and we remember with gratitude the favors he has done us. And does not our heavenly Father, the giver of every good and perfect gift; he who has taken care and watched over us from our infantile moments until now; who has sent his Son to redeem us, and promised to give us freely all things together with him; does he deserve no daily notice from us, no affectionate salutation, no grateful recognition of indebtedness? Most certainly he expects it, for he says, "A son honoreth his father; if then, I be a Father, where is mine honor?"

God claims to be a Father, and oh, how well he has established that claim. Truly he is a good and loving Father, and "like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him." To the compassion of the father he adds the tender care and untiring mindfulness of the mother. "Can a woman," he asks, "forget her sucking child?" She may, he says, but he will not forget.

How strange it is that men will not go to the closet to meet and to pray to such a Father. Surely it is not for want of encouragement. If they have it not in his very nature, yet in his invitations, his promises, and his past acts of unsolicited kindness, they have all they could desire. Nor is it that they have no need of God. The prayerless will not often say that they know not what would become of them but for that overlooking eye and that supplying hand, that "sendeth rain upon the just and unjust, and that supporting arm that "maketh the sun to rise upon the evil and upon the good." And do they not know that God has a heart too? that he can love with all the fervor of a friend? And can they not imagine that in the interchange of affection between God and man, there may and indeed must be ineffable delight? And who that looks a little way forward, when the Archangel's trump shall sound, does not perceive an exigency, when in the utter inadequacy of all earthly and human resources for comfort he will want "the consolations of God?"

"Ah! it is indeed a sad as well as a strange thing that so many enter no closet, seek no daily retirement either in their houses or elsewhere, where they may be a little while alone with God, where they may look up and meet the light of his countenance, as he looks down upon them; where they may confess their sins, and receive assurance of his pardoning love; where they may thank him for mercies past, and humbly ask for more; where they may take counsel of him, unbosom all their complaints, tell him all their griefs, have their tears wiped away, and leave with him the weighty burden of their cares.

'I know not whether this excites more my grief or my wonder. I am not so much surprised that people should neglect a manifest duty, but when I consider what a privilege it is, what a happiness, what an honor, to be on terms of intimacy and in habits of intercourse with God, it amazes me that they should forego it. Ah! how will such reflect upon themselves hereafter, when God calls them to an account; how execrate their folly; how will they wonder that they could have deliberately done themselves such a wrong."

But it will be too late to redress the wrong. They sought not the Lord while he might be found; they called not upon him while he was near. Yea, though he called they refused. Now they may call, but he will not answer. Sad, sad indeed, will be their condition. O how dreadful to cry and not be heard. If any one who is living in the neglect of secret prayer shall read this, will he not be persuaded to commence the practice this very day? If it be not convenient, let him make it convenient. Let other things give way for this rather than this for anything. Can he think his heart right in the sight of God, or his condition safe in prospect of soon coming judgment and eternity, while he neglects prayer? How dare he live without prayer? Without it can he have courage to die? We may decline to appear at the mercy-seat of God, but before his judgment seat we must all stand. How a frequent access to the first would prepare us for final arraignment at the other. How it would familiarize us with the presence of God. How it would serve to break the shock which will soon be realized by a sleeping church and an unbelieving world.

"Does any one who is not in the habitual and daily practice of secret devotion pretend to be a christian? It is but pretense. He may believe the creed of the christian, but certainly he does not pursue the practice, nor possess the spirit of the christian. Breathing is essential to living, and prayer is the christian's vital breath. Does he walk with God who never converses with him? Some spiritualize the direction of Christ, making the closet to mean the heart, and the duty of private devotion to be discharged in mere mental prayer. But Christ did not so trifle. His closet was not his heart; he could not have meant that ours should be. He selected the still morning, and sought out the solitary place for prayer. May we be less attentive to the circumstances of time and place? Shall we talk of entering into ourselves, and there thinking prayer? Jesus, even in his most retired intercourse with his Father, used his voice. That prayer—'Let this cup pass from me'—was vocal; and that petition—'God be merciful to me a sinner'—was expressed in words. Shall we reserve the voice exclusively for our intercourse with men, and not with it also supplicate and bless God?"

All the great and good men of ancient times, who have been eminent for their piety and holiness, were men who lived much alone with God. If we are much in secret with God, we shall become more like him. "He that walketh with wise men shall be wise." We soon acquire the tone and the manner of those who converse much with us, especially if they are our superiors, and we very highly love and revere them. Some boast of being very much with God, but so censurable are their conduct and temper, that few of their fellow creatures would like to be much with them. If you are selfish and covetous, censorious and revengeful, some other being has been talking with you. This spirit cometh not from Him who calleth you; it is from beneath, "is earthly, sensual, devilish." But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy. And "the fruit of the Spirit is sown in peace of them that make peace." Do we wish to rise above the world? This, then, should induce us to retire.

How often does the christian lament that his conversation is so little in heaven, and that he is governed so much by things that are seen and temporal. But where is the world conquered? In a crowd? No, but alone. In the midst of active pursuits? No but viewed as an object of solitary contemplation, viewed in the presence of Jehovah, viewed in the remembrance of eternity. Then its vanity and emptiness appears. Then the fascination is dissolved. Then its pomp and emptiness and glitter and show appears like chaff, when by faith we get a view of the inheritance of the saints in light. Do we wish to obtain self-knowledge? This will induce us to withdraw. It is only alone that we can best examine our state, that we can estimate our attainments, that we can explore our defects, that we can discern the sources of our past dangers and falls, and set a watch against future temptation.

Do we inquire after truth? What place more appropriate for asking, "What is truth," than in the closet? Who so likely to be taught of God as they who ask of God? Some carry that question to the Bible, and press it there, as indeed they should; but they carry it not to the throne of grace, and press it there also. They read to know what is truth, but do not pray to know it. The wise man says "Through desire a man having separated himself, seeketh and intermeddleth with all wisdom." The Scriptures alone are the best reading for retirement, especially for those who have but little leisure. They are the fountain; other books are streams, and streams are seldom entirely free from something of the quality of the soil through which they flow. Who would not draw the water of life for himself from the Spring-head?

The Scriptures come immediately from God and lead immediately to him. There is a boundless variety and fullness in them. They are always new. They entertain while they teach. There is always something in them that bears upon our own character and condition, however peculiar it may be. They are "profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, and for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." Oh! how sweet is the word of God to those who read it prayerfully. How an hour in the morning spent with God prepares us pleasantly and profitably to pass the other hours of the day with men, and at night what so calm and composing as communion with God? When we resign ourselves into the arms of sleep, that image of death, what security like that of prayer? It engages Him who never slumbers nor sleeps to watch over us.

Has any one become remiss in secret devotion? What! tired of God? weary of communion with him? How sad the state of such an one! Soon the Judge cometh. "Watch ye, therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man." J. W. [illegible]

The World's Crisis
AND SECOND ADVENT MESSENGER.
Boston, Wednesday, March 11, 1868.

☞ Take Notice!

All subscriptions for the Crisis are payable IN ADVANCE, at the rate of $2.50 a year.

☞ Please Remember!

All remittances to this office, in the form of drafts, bank-checks and postal money-orders, should be made payable to the BUSINESS AGENT, GEO. T. ADAMS.

☞ MONEY ORDERS.

Our correspondents should remember that if they send money orders in a letter which contains the name of the sender, and the name of the person to whom the order is payable, there is NO SAFETY for their money. Any person may draw the amount named in the order, if these names are given.

Neither is it safe to send us your names in advance. Somebody may open the letter, get the names, and then wait till the order comes, and get that too.

Send on the order, not writing a word; make it payable to GEO. T. ADAMS, directing it to MILES GRANT, at World's Crisis. Then, in two or three days, write in the usual way, stating that you have sent the order, and what you wish done with the money obtained on the same, and it will be entirely safe. In the second communication be sure to give us YOUR NAME AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS.

☞ ATTENTION! ATTENTION!!

Our subscribers in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio, will find their credit of money received for the Crisis on the strip pasted on their paper, which shows the date to which their subscription pays, instead of the No., as formerly acknowledged. Others will be sent likewise as fast as we get each State so arranged. So you can look at the date on your paper, and see if it is changed after sending us money.

THE CLOSE OF THE VOLUME.

It will be observed that this is the last number of the volume. Now is the time to pay for the next volume, and a good time to send new subscribers.

DISCUSSION.

We purpose to have a discussion with Moses Hull, the noted Spiritualist, in Milford, N. H., to commence Tuesday evening, Mar. 17th, and continue four or five evenings.

WATERBURY.

We spent the Lord's day, March 1st, at the Advent Chapel, in Waterbury, Vt., and had a precious season. We had a full house, and a deep interest was manifested in the meeting. We had a delightful visit with Brn. T. Wheeler, A. Dillingham, and Dr. Thomas. We did not have the pleasure of seeing Bro. Shipman, their pastor, who was away from home. They have a very convenient house, and the means of accomplishing much good.

WESTERLY.

We are now (March 6th) holding a very interesting series of meetings in Westerly, R. I. Our meetings are held in the nice Armory Hall, which will seat over seven hundred. We have it full of attentive hearers. Brn. Dixon and Durfee are with us to render efficient aid. The prospect is very encouraging. We purpose to remain over the coming Lord's day.

DISCUSSION IN STOWE.

We have just closed a very interesting discussion in Stowe, Vt. Our opponent was Mr. Austin E. Simmons, a Spiritualist inspirational speaker. We commenced the debate Tuesday evening, Feb. 25th, and had five sessions of two hours each. We discussed the following resolution:

"RESOLVED, That the phenomena of Spiritualism proceed from demons" Our opponent, as all admitted, made a very weak defense. The friends of Jesus had much occasion to rejoice in the results of the discussion. The Methodist minister, Bro. Hyde, received us with christian kindness, and freely offered his desk for us to preach in three times, when we had the privilege and pleasure of speaking to large and very attentive audiences. We found an open door in Stowe. We had a good home with Dr. Sutton.

Stowe is a resort for fashionable travelers in the warm summer waather. A large hotel has been built that will accommodate some four hundred persons. The hotel is designed to accommodate those who visit the Mansfield mountain. Last year, the Spiritualists held their Vt. State Association in Stowe. The principles of Spiritualism had taken strong hold in the minds of many in the place, and the surrounding country.

In discussing the subject, we endeavored to show first, that the Bible most clearly teaches that there is a class of beings called demons (in our version "devils.") These demons are "the angels that sinned;" called also "evil angels," and "unclean spirits. The angels are a class of beings higher than men. This we know, because man was made "a little lower than the angels;" hence they existed before man, and are superior in strength and intelligence. They were on probation. This we learn from the fact that some of them sinned. We read, "God spared not the angels that sinned." 2 Pet. 2: 4. The sin of some divided the angels into two classes; the good and the bad; called the "holy angels," and the "evil angels;" or Christ and his angels, and the devil and his angels. The angels resembles men in their exterior form, and have sometimes been mistaken for men; hence the Scriptures say, "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers; for thereby some have entertained angels unawares."—Heb. 13: 2. No man can suppose that disembodied human spirits were mistaken for strangers. Such an idea is too near an absurdity to require a refutation. Whenever good angels have actually appeared, they have always come as real persons, on important business, and have spoken in harmony with the Bible; while the "evil angels" speak through mediums, and profess to be the spirits of our friends. They make these pretensions in order to convince us that our friends are not dead, as the Bible teaches. If they could prove this then they would confirm the saying of Satan to our first parents, when he said, "ye shall not surely die"; and if this could be proved, then, of course, it would follow that the Bible is not a reliable book, for that declares that "all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years and he died.

The angels, good and bad, have power to render themselves visible or invisible at pleasure. When Balaam was on a certain journey, the animal that he rode saw an angel in the way, and turned aside from the direct path to avoid the angel's presence. This displeased Balaam, who smote the beast on which he was riding, not seeing the angel himself, till after he had been repeatedly seen and avoided by the animal carrying him. At length "the eyes of Balaam were opened, and he saw the angel."—Num. 22.

The good angels never claim to be the spirits of our friends, or that they ever lived on this earth. We may here remark that every spirit that claims to be a departed human spirit is a lying demon, trying to deceive us, and lead us away from Christ. One thing is certain: no one has ever been led to embrace Jesus as their Savior, by following the teachings of the spirits; but thousands have been led to depart from him, and renounce the plan of salvation taught in the Bible.

These demons are confined in the airy regions of our atmosphere. In 2 Pet. 2: 4, we read: "God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment." The word here rendered hell is tartarus, which occurs no where else in the New Testament. Able writers on the subject inform us that the word tartarus signifies the lower part of our atmosphere. Dr. Parkhurst, the lexicographer, says:—"It appears from a passage in Lucian, that by tartarus was meant, in a physical sense, the bounds of this material creation." Dr. Wm. Ramsey, an able writer on the subject says:—"The word tartarus means, accoridng to Greek writers, in a physical sense, the bounds or verge of this material system." Grotius, an ancient and learned writer says:—"That is called tartarus which is lowest in anything; whether in the earth, or in the water; or, as here, in the air." We see no room for doubt that the demons are in the airy tartarus, where they must remain till the day of judgment. These spirits made the following confession to Milton Jennings, one of their mediums:—"We are confined to the earth's atmosphere by a law as fixed as the throne of the eternal; a law as operative as the law of gravity, upon your bodies in the earth life." Paul speaks of Satan as "the prince of the power of the air." Eph. 2: 2.

After settling the point that there are two classes of angels, called "holy" and "evil" ones, we then proceeded to show how the "evil" angels manage to deceive the people, and lead them to believe that they are the spirits of our friends. All the spirits and Spiritualists, so far as we know, teach that the manifestations are carried on upon the same principle as a mesmerizer operates. It is well known that when a mesmerizer gets control over his subject, he can form a mental picture of any object, in his own mind, which at once becomes a reality to the one under his influence. In the same manner the demons may present the appearance of any person, place, or thing; and while their mediums are under their control, these mental pictures in the minds of the demons, appear as real objects to the mediums.

Mr. A. E. Newton, a distinguished Spiritualist, formerly editor of the Spiritual Age, published in Boston, says:—

"It is alleged to be possible and common for spirits of a certain class to assume the appearance and characteristics of other spirits, or of other persons still in the body, so completely that the disguise cannot be detected by ordinary spirit-seers. This may be so, and hence the common evidences of the identity of spirits are little to be relied on.

When two persons are closely in sympathetic or magnetic rapport with each other, the images that are in one mind may be perceived as objective realities by the other. This seems to be the case with the once common phenomenon of mesmerism. The operator forms an image, as of a person, a serpent, a fire, or any other object, in his own mind; when the subject, if well under control, instantly sees the same thing as an objective reality. So, positive minds in a circle, cle, or positive spirits who are around, may present the image of any person with whom they are familiar, and it may appear as a reality to the impressible medium."

Perhaps no one is better prepared to speak on the facts of Spiritualism than Andrew Jackson Davis. In the Herald of Progress, Oct. 27th, 1860, he says:—"It is known that a wise and strong-minded person in the spirit-world has the power to make visible to the eyes of mortals the exact appearance or semblance of the body it wore before death. This representations is elaboratad sometimes to the minutest particular, even to the reproduction of habiliments, etc., by which the person was characterized and identified while a resident of the earth."

In the Herald of Progress for Feb. 1st, 1862, he says:—"All intelligent spirits are great artists. They can psychologise a medium to see them, and to describe them, in the style which would produce the deepest impression on the receiver. . . . They can easily represent themselves as being old or young, as in worldly dress, or flowing robes, as is deemed best suited to accomplish the ends of the visitation."

The foregoing facts help us to account for the apparent appearance of deceased friends. In no case are they actually present in the spiritual circle. The demons form a mental picture of any person, animal, or other object, they wish their mediums to see, and these mental pictures appear as real objects to to the medium, and are described as such. If any one will ask the medium to tell where she sees the spirit of a friend, and will go to the spot, and feel about the place where the spirit friend is said to stand, nothing will be felt there, more than in any other place; because nothing is there. The demons may present their own persons to their familiars, to see them; but the spirits of our deceased friends never actually appear to the mediums.

Our opponent admitted that the spirits did present mental pictures to their mediums, and that some of them were liars and deceivers; but he did not like to acknowledge that all were of that class, as facts most clearly proved. We trust great good will result from the discussion. We formed some very pleasant acquaintance with noble hearts during our stay in Stowe.

GERMAN TRACTS.

Bro. L. Reimer, 809 Coates St., Philadelphia, informs us that he has "got out a new German Tract, on the second coming of Christ, and his reign on the earth, with an appendix: 'the characteristics of the last days.'" The tract contains twenty-four pp., and much matter in a short space. He has also two other German tracts: "The hope of the dead in Christ;" and "The future fate of the ungodly.', Bro. Reimer generously proposes to send any quantity without charge, except the postage, to any one that desires to distribute them among the Germans.

We are rejoiced to learn the foregoing facts. May the Lord bless Bro. Reimer richly with peace and joy in the Holy Spirit.

The tracts may also be had at the Crisis office.

GOOD HINTS.

At the Massachusetts Christian Convention, held in Boston, Jan. 29th, some excellent remarks were made in relation to the best mode of conducting meetings and family devotions. We take the following extracts from the report published in the Journal:—

"HOW CAN OUR DEVOTIONAL MEETINGS BE MADE MORE INTERESTING AND PROFITABLE?" Rev. Mr. Roe of New York suggested that those who were accustomed to lead prayer meetings made so good prayers that strangers who came in to seek the Lord were afraid to speak. He thought that it would be a good plan for the presiding officers to invite any such present to speak and endeavor to bring them out.

Rev. Mr. Park of Lawrence said that all a minister really accomplished was what he led his people to accomplish. The first preparation for a prayer meeting was a right spirit. A good plan in order to guide a prayer meeting was for the leader to read a portion of the Bible in the beginning and thus set the brethren speaking on thoughts suggested by it. All should take a part and there should be no pauses.

"HOW CAN THE INFLUENCE OF CHRISTIAN HOMES BE INCREASED?" Rev. Dr. Lamson of New York was the first speaker. He regretted to say that the ordinary services of the family were shorn of a great deal of their efficiency by many things, one of which was their extreme length in most families. Ten minutes was long enough for family worship. He then deplored the great relapse in the observance of the Sabbath, even by christian families. He believed that no secular papers or books should lie even in sight on the Sabbath day. None but religious books should be read. A great deal depended on the atmosphere of a home—whether it was christian or otherwise. Every child should be made to feel that the supreme desire of its parents was its conversion to Christ.

A CALL FOR HELP.

God has graciously prospered our missionary enterprise of late, and thereby rolled upon us new responsibilities. The missions in Memphis and St. Louis have been signally blessed of God, and the prospective is cheering. It is evident the work has but just begun. Confidence has been secured among the freedmen, and others, and now they stretch forth their hands to us for help.

In the region of Memphis, in the very heart of the South, the cry for help comes in from all quarters. And God is raising up freedmen in some cases in the South to proclaim the truth of Jesus' soon coming, to help the white laborers from the North. It is the same in St. Louis and vicinity. Church after church, and ministers with them, are coming into the faith. The harvest is plenteous, and laborers few. Brn. Leslie and Reed, and Sr. Northrup, at Memphis, have their hands full; and they are making the most of their time and means in spreading the truth. Bro. Wilkins is doing a great work at La Grange, Tenn. He is overwhalmned with work, and must have help. Bro. Jackson, a freedman, has his hands full on the plantations in the river counties in Arkansas; and he is anxious to go to Mississippi, the place of his nativity, to proclaim the truth there. Bro. Withers, a freedman also, at Morgan's Point, Ark., is doing a good work there. Brn. Flagg, Decatur, Macon, Fierce, Lott, and Beadle, and sisters Ellen A. Flagg, Vaughan, and Beadle, are all overworked; and yet the door is opening wider to our missionaries in all these fields. In Florida, also, the mission at Jacksonville, under the care of Brn. P. A. Smith and R. D. Wilson, is blessed of the Lord and prospering.

Beside these regular missionaries of the Board, it is pleasant to know that Sr. Smith, in New York city, is doing a good work, as also others in Virginia, as independent missionaries. And Bro. Burbank is still working for the homeless in Philadelphia with success.

While our missions are thus prospered, and the word of life is taking a deep hold on many hearts; while the poor are being cared for, both as to food and clothing, to some extent, we are constrained to give thanks to God who has answered our prayers and blessed the work of our hands.

As yet, thanks be to God, we have not been embarrassed in our finances; but the increased prosperity of our missions is making new demands upon us for help. And though the depressed condition of business throughout the country makes it difficult for our brethren and sisters to give as freely as they once did; yet if all will do as the Lord prospers them, we shall have abundance.

The Board stated in their report at the last Annual meeting, that they would need five thousand dollars to carry on the work for the year ending in August, 1868. Nearly four thousand have already been paid into the treasury; and some that was pledged is not yet paid in.

We would now state to the friends of missions, that the Board have need of more funds to carry on their work; and we propose, that every friend of missions should now send to the Treasurer their free-will offerings—every one.

It is a fact that many of our people have not yet paid anything for the missions. It is only the few that have raised the thousands of dollars paid into the treasury. We now call upon all to take part in this work. Let the father and mother give what they are able, with a gift for the missionary cause from each child. Learn them to save their money, and give for the poor and ignorant. It will do them good. Invite every friend in your family, or circle of acquaintance, to unite with you to give something for missions. Many will do so. Make an earnest business of it.

Let our ministers also present the subject to their congregations, and raise from the public what they can. Insist on every one giving something. Let none be passed by. Remember it is the great number of contributions that make it light for all, and yet make up the full sum wanted.

We repeat, we want a contribution to the mission fund from every one; yes, EVERY ONE! Little or much, send it in. From a dime to a dollar. We need the money. We must have it in order to enlarge our missions, and keep them in prosperity. We speak to all. Wake up there! Are we heard? Are we understood? Shall our Treasurer be made glad by hearing from you? Do not refuse to send, because it is so little that you can give. The multitude of little sums is what we want to make up the needed amount. Let us have a general weekly contribution till the Treasury is full. Mites, dimes, quarters, halves, and dollars, and more if God has prospered you.

And remember any and all the missions as God shall direct you. Let us not be selfish or partial. Although our special plea is for those missions under the care of the Board, as stated above, we plead for all.

Send to GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.; or if more convenient to J. V. Himes, Buchanan, Mich. Contributions will be credited by Br. Adams in The Crisis; and those sent to us in The Voice.

Those who have made pledges will do a great favor by paying into the treasury at this time. Let all wake up now.

JOSHUA V. HIMES.

The above appeal of Bro. Himes is just in time. The American Advent Mission Society have now in the field, at Memphis, St. Louis, La Grange, Jacksonville, Lake City, etc., etc., missionaries, teachers, workers, faithful brethren and sisters, who are proclaiming the glad tidings of the kingdom, distributing tracts, teaching in the Sunday and day-schools, doing all they can to make ready a people for the Lord at his coming. Bro. P. A. Smith, under date of Jacksonville, Feb. 29th, writes:—

"BRO. ADAMS:—I received yours of the 18th, with two postal orders for fifty dollars each, one of which I handed to Bro. Wilson as per order. Much obliged for so prompt a response. The Lord is still doing a blessed work here. Quite a number are expected to be baptized to-morrow; some under conviction all the while; some start almost every meeting."

Bro. R. W. Wilson writes from Lake City, Fla., Feb. 29th:—"I have commenced distributing tracts and talking Jesus here. I have secured a place for our meetings, and we expect the blessing of God to attend our work here. There is now great demand for workers in this State. The sound of the gospel of the kingdom, and its glorious effects, have gone out from Jacksonville to other places, and the cry, 'Come over and help us!' comes to us from various quarters," etc.

Bro. Leslie, of Memphis, Tenn., writes:—"BRO. ADAMS:—We are struggling on with the house. God is with us. Had a good time yesterday (Sunday, March 1st). Two white Baptist ministers came out to hear me last evening. Subject—the 7th of Daniel, with the new big chart. God helped, and we had a triumph in the truth. Pray for us."

Bro. Wilkins also writes from La Grange of the good work of the Lord in progress, etc. These brethren, as also others mentioned by Bro. Himes, are sustained by the Society, which is constantly sending them funds and tracts. The receipts of the Society since our last annual meeting amount to $3,987.50. Our expenditures, $3,997.53. It will thus be seen that we are all out of funds, and more too. Need we say anything more to our friends who have not paid in their subscriptions, and also to other friends of the good cause, to stir them up to send in their mites as soon as possible? Now is the time. "God loveth a cheerful giver."

GEO. T. ADAMS, Treasurer.

For the World's Crisis.

THE MEMPHIS MISSION.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Two barrels, Cordova, Ill., collected chiefly by Lizzie P. Berry, and forwarded by Frank M. Berry. One barrel of clothing, with preserved fruits for the sick, Sr. B. Mathewson, Castleton, Vt. One box of clothing, ladies in New Bedford, Mass., through E. O. White. "A Friend," same place, $5.00. One barrel of clothing from the church and friends of the poor, Bradford, N. H., through John F. Davis, and $1.75. One barrel and $3.00 from Emery Baker, Stewartstown (State not mentioned). A box of clothing contributed by George E. Foster and Sr. Barbadoes, Boston, and Bro. Allen, Bridgewater, Mass.; George E. Foster, $1.00. "Sister Sarah," $2.00. One barrel of clothing, beans, dried apples, etc., from O. D. Eastman, Landaff, N. H.; also from the same, collected by him, $5.00. One barrel of clothing and $7.00 from O. S. Knapp, Prairie Du Sac. One box of clothing and $5.00 from Srs. A. S. Jenness and Fannie A. French, Haverhill, Mass. Mrs. Emma L. Higgins, Worcester, Mass., $10.00. "A Friend, looking for the Lord," $5.00. Bro. and Sr. Russell, Natick, Mass., $15.00. Mrs. L. T. Cunningham, Newton Upper Falls, Ma., $2.00. Mrs. Charles Libbey, Whitefield, N. H., $5.00. Jos. B. Paine, Massena, N. Y., $1.00. Sr. R. G. Ladd, Springfield, Mass., $5.00. "Hope," $5.00.

We most sincerely thank these dear friends for remembering the poor ones here, and relieving them in their destitution and want. It fills our hearts with gladness to be able to help them in their distress with these good things sent, and have the means to purchase food for many who are hungry and come to us for something to eat. Those who send clothing or money may rely upon its being appropriated in the fear of God and with the wisdom that he giveth; and that none of it shall be wasted or spent for unnecessary things. We are trying to be faithful stewards of the Lord's money; for our account must be soon rendered up.

I. I. LESLIE.
D. D. REED.
F. C. NORTHRUP.

RECEIPTS.—$10.00, to be used for the suffering ones in the South, [illegible] from H. Bailey, Brewster's, N. Y., $2.00 from [illegible] Kimball, $2 [illegible] Willoughby, [illegible] ark, Ill. The two barrels I [illegible] sent to [illegible] Eggleston, [illegible] in Westfield, Mass. ANNA E. SMITH.
New York, March 5th.

$3000 TRACT FUND.

At a meeting of the Advent Christian Publication Society, at Worcester, Mass., [illegible] Friday, August 3d, it was voted, That $3000 be raised for the Tract Fund the ensuing year, to publish tracts for free distribution.

Previous acknowledgments	346.87

POOR FUND.

(To send the Crisis to the Poor.)

Previous acknowledgments	114.55

AMERICAN ADVENT MISSION SOCIETY.

All donations and payments of pledges for this Society should be sent to the Treasurer, GEO. T. ADAMS, 167 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., who will acknowledge the same in the columns of the Crisis.

Previous acknowledgments	$3979.50
A friend in [illegible], Mass., for St. Louis and Memphis Missions	5.00
W. E. Grinnell	3.00

EUROPEAN MISSION.

Previous acknowledgments	$247.50
J. McClellan	1.00
D. Q. Kent	7.50
M. Sunderland	10.00

For the World's Crisis.

OUR MISSIONS SOUTH.

It is a happy thought, that as we are nearing the judgment, the Adventists are pouring out their material wealth to spread the gospel among the poor and neglected, and also to clothe the naked and feed the hungry. It is also very pleasant to witness the voluntary offerings of both the rich and the poor, poured into the various channels of benevolence, each making their choice of the mission, or benevolent object they wish to help, while wishing well, and success to all, without selfishness or partiality.

That branch of our Missions of which I wish to speak at this time, relates to those under the direction of the Board in St. Louis Mo., and Memphis, Tenn. I am sure that those who have given to these missions will be glad to know that their sacrifice has not been made in vain.

THE MISSION AT ST. LOUIS, MO., under the superintendence of Eld. H. K. Flagg, has been conducted with much wisdom and success. From very small beginnings, it has risen to much strength and numbers. They have had conversions almost every week, and some of these have been from the most degraded. White and black have alike come to Christ, bowing at the same altar, and baptized in the same font, and rejoice in the same blessed hope. I have been with them in their meetings, and visited them in their houses, and witnessed the wonderful work of God.

They now have three places of worship. The first is at the corner of 5th and Biddle Sts., at a rent of forty dollars a month. In this we have a Hall that will hold some four hundred. There are also five other rooms for the Mission family, and for school rooms, making one of the most convenient and useful tenements for the Mission that we could have.

Meetings and Sabbath-school are held in the Hall, and a day-school is taught in one of the large rooms, of about forty scholars, by Miss Ellen Flagg, which is highly spoken of. An evening school is also taught in the same place by Mrs. Dr. Beadle. I took pains to visit and examine all these meetings and schools, and have to say that they are prosperous, and are a great blessing to the freedmen and their children, as well as to some of the poor white people who attend. The church numbers between fifty and seventy-five. The rent of these rooms is paid by the Bureau, in consideration of the schools, which is of the greatest help to us in our mission work. The second branch of this Mission is located in the north part of the city, called Lowell. We have a large house, suited to the school and meetings, as also the residence of our teachers. The school now numbers about forty, and is kept by Mrs. Vaughn, one of the late converts to the truth. She is every way fitted for her work, and is raising the poor and degraded to happiness and usefulness. The church is just organized, and consists of some twenty members, and growing. The congregation consists of several hundred, who, but for our mission and school, would be mostly neglected. Bro. Napoleon Macon is the pastor. He is an intelligent freedman. The rent of this building (twenty dollars a month) is paid also by the Bureau, on account of the school and meetings. This mission is in prosperity, and great good is being done.

The third branch of this mission is located in the west part of the city, on Compton Hill. A freedman by the name of Commodore Decatur has recently come into the faith, with his congregation. He built the chapel at his own expense, which is to be used for the good of the freedmen. He made application to Bro. Flagg for admission, and was received and ordained, and appointed pastor of the church, now consisting of thirty-two members and growing. The school consists of over sixty scholars, and is taught by Isaac Lott, a member of the church, a mulatto, and a competent teacher. This part of the mission field in St. Louis is not only prosperous, but the door is opening wide in the region all about it, and new accessions are promised.

The St. Louis Mission now consists of three churches of over one hundred members, also three Sabbath-schools of over one hundred and fifty scholars, and three day-schools of about the same number; with an attendance on public worship in all the meetings of over a thousand. A conference has just been organized, for the better regulation of the cause, and both the churches and schools are under the best discipline. Bro. Flagg and his fellow laborers, both white and colored, are worthy of all praise,—they have done well.

I wish to say to the friends of missions that the St. Louis Mission should be remembered. And I will here call attention to some of the ways in which it may be done. While the Board will pay the salary of Bro. Flagg, and the Bureau pay the rents of our rooms, there are poor and needy ones who may be helped to clothing; and, to some extent, food, cast-off garments, or new, plain, useful garments, are needed. The Mission, as it is being enlarged, will find use for what may be sent by the benevolent. In relation to food, our western people could send by railroad, or boat, such articles as corn or wheat, and any kind of produce; which Bro. Flagg will deal to the poor wisely. And any thing in this line sent for Bro. Flagg's own family use, he will give credit to the Society as part of his support. And so, some might help the Society in this way. Let these suggestions be considered, and let the Mission in St. Louis be supplied with all good things.

Col. Leslie, of the Freedmen's Bureau, visits our schools and missions, and takes a great interest in them. He says, he likes the way we work; that we are doing the freedmen substantial good. And so he is helping us all he can.

MEMPHIS MISSION.

This Mission is prospering in the Lord. We have had to labor hard, and overcome many difficulties. Dr. Leslie has stood first at his post, enduring hardness as a good soldier. And God has given us victory. The freedmen give us their united sympathy and support in our work there. At Memphis we have a church of about seventy-five. And of these some are quite intelligent and useful in the work. And some are true and earnest workers for God. Our school, which is suspended till the chapel is opened, consists of about one hundred and fifty scholars; the Sabbath-school and Band of Hope of about the same number. The congregation will fill our house, which will accommodate between four and five hundred. And so soon as the chapel is finished, all these interests will be enlarged and prosper. Dr. Leslie, the superintendent and teacher in this mission, is assisted by Sister Northup, whose heart is in the work, and who is also eminently fitted for the mission.

Bro. Reed is located here, and is a true yoke-fellow for the work here. But he intends to go out with the tent into the country and spread light and truth, whenever the door is open. He gives his labor and pays his own expenses, and works as hard as any person in the mission.

The chapel room is forty-four by forty feet, and is an inviting hall for public meetings and school, and is one of the best rooms in the State for the freedmen. We have at the east end of the chapel building a mission-house or tenement for the mission family, with a primary school-room and vestry for meetings. Everything will be most convenient and useful when done.

We have built larger than was first intended, but the door is open for help, and it is well that we laid out the work on a larger scale than at first contemplated, for even now it will be too small. The prospects are good. The people about us, and the southern people too, are friendly to the mission. We hope to have the house done in March, when it will be dedicated, and our work begin new.

The second part of the mission is in La Grange. Eld. B. W. Wilkins is the missionary and teacher. There is a church of some sixty members, and a school of about seventy-five. They hire the Arcade for worship and the school, and are well accommodated at present. They have bought an acre of ground for a chapel and school-room, and prepare to build this season. I applied to the Bureau for five hundred dollars to aid in the object, which we hope to get. Bro. Wilkins is much liked by all. Even the southern white people like him, and speak kindly of him, and some go to hear him preach. This mission is prosperous.

The next branch of the mission is at Morgan's Point, Mississippi Co., Arkansas. There is a church of fifty members, and two freedmen preachers. The planters being northern men, we have every protection. The next branch of the mission is in Osceola, Miss. Co., Arkansas. Here we have a new chapel, and a congregation of several hundred. I organized a small church, which is destined to increase. There are some sixty children here without a school. They are very desirous for a teacher. The Bureau will give us twenty dollars a month, and the freedmen will raise as much more if they can get a good teacher. Elder Leroy Jackson (freedman), of Morgan's Point, is the pastor.

Besides the above places, doors are now opening in all the region; and Bro. Reed will go out and supply by big tent meetings and otherwise, as far as possible. He will have the aid of several freedmen preachers, who are well posted in the gospel of the kingdom.

I have, as you know, just returned from a visit to the above missions; and I speak of them as an eye witness. I felt that I ought to say to the supporters of these missions what I have, to assure them that their sacrifices for these missions have not been in vain. The many conversions, and the work of clothing the naked, with the care and help to the sick and needy, will soon meet a reward from the coming Savior. I have seen some letters from friends at the North which indicated a misapprehension of the position and state of these missions. It should be understood that there is perfect unity in these missions with the Board, and that all the teachers and preachers in both missions are united. And the only emulation that exists, is to see who shall do the most good for the salvation of men, and prepare them for Jesus' coming. The Memphis mission has been well supplied lately with clothing for the poor, and help for the sick, as also something to feed the hungry.

In conclusion, I wish to say here, that a judicious use is made of the things sent for the needy. A stranger would not know how to give, there are so many that deceive and lie, to get anything they can find. Some put on old shoes and old garments, on purpose to excite sympathy and get help, when they have good things at home. And so we give nothing until we know that the persons are worthy. Besides, some who could not get new garments can pay in part, and so they take such things as they need, and pay in part, which goes to help the mission. Finally, brethren, let us thank God and take courage. The Lord is with us. And not only in these missions, but others both in the North and South. Truly yours, JOSHUA V. HIMES.

Address of H. K. Flagg, 1136 North Fifth street, corner of Biddle. Address of I. I. Leslie, corner of Fourth and Safferan streets, Box 634. Send boxes or barrels by Star Line, and regular freight, instead of express.

J. V. H.

LETTER FROM I. I. LESLIE.

BRO. GRANT:—I wish to say to the dear friends who send money and clothing for the sick and poor in our mission here, that I cannot find time to acknowledge their letters, as I would like to do. When we began to receive donations from the brethren and sisters, I thought I would write an answer to every letter I received; but the increase of our labor [illegible] to forego the pleasure of doing so, being pressed out of measure with accumulated labor. The brethren and sisters must not think we remember them less, or are less grateful because we do not write them. We shall try to have every thing acknowledged in the Crisis, so that all may see that their gifts are received; and if any thing sent is not thus acknowledged, we ask the friends to write us in regard to it.

The work of preparation is going on here. All are growing stronger in the faith of the soon coming of Jesus. The light and truth are spreading, and will increase greatly as soon as we get a place into which we can call the people, and give them the word of God.

Two of the new charts, sent by Bro. L. T. Cunningham, came yesterday. One is already hung up, and will soon be explained to all who come. It is a beautiful chart of time, and should be in every church and congregation in the land; while every messenger of God should have one under his arm as he travels. How blessed is the light that shines! and it will shine brighter unto the perfect day. Yours in the streets and lanes, I. I. LESLIE.
Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 26th, 1868.

THE MISSOURI ADVENT-CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

The increase and prosperity of the Advent-Christian Mission work at St. Louis has made it necessary to form a conference, in order to secure a more perfect co-operation for the regulation and prosperity of the several churches in their christian labor among the freedmen and others. Accordingly, the attention of the President of the American Advent Mission Society was called to this matter, with a request that he would meet with us, to advise and assist in the organization of the body. After consultation with the ministering brethren of the several churches already connected with the Mission, he advised us to proceed in the organization of a conference.

Accordingly in answer to a call which had been made some two weeks previous, the elders and brethren of the several churches met at the Advent-Christian Hall, corner of Fifth and Biddle Streets, February 9. 1868, at 3 P. M. Eld. J. V. Himes delivered an appropriate and interesting address, showing the necessity of an united and harmonious action in all our efforts for the spread of the truth.

On motion, it was voted unanimously that we proceed at once to the organization of the Conference Elders present: H. K. Flagg; J. V. Himes, of Michigan; A. S. Calkins, of Illinois. Of the Freedmen: Elds. Commodore Decatur and Napoleon Macon. Licentiates: Arthur Waite (white) and Sabra Fierce, together with the brethren from the Fifth and Biddle Streets, Lowell, and Compton Hill Advent-Christian Churches.

The following constitution was adopted:—

CONSTITUTION.

Believing that the great and glorious day of God is just at hand as foretold by the prophets, Christ, and his apostles, in the which our Redeemer will come the second time, when he will raise to life the slumbering dead, both the righteous and the wicked; and give reward to all his saints that fear his name, and destroy all them which destroy the earth; when the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements melt with fervent heat; when, according to his promise, there will be a restitution of all things spoken of by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began, including a new heaven and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness; when the saints will obtain a complete and final victory over death and the grave, and receive the gift of eternal life through Jesus Christ their Lord, and dwell forever with him as their Savior and King upon the new earth; when he shall establish his kingdom under the whole heaven, whose kingdom is to be an everlasting kingdom, and that which shall not be destroyed nor left to other people, but will consume and destroy all other kingdoms and stand and continue forever and ever; and

Believing, also, that the dawning of that day has fully come upon the church, as indicated by numerous signs and prophetical events, the fulfilment of which are already to be seen upon the pages of history; which were given to us as precursory tokens to be seen only by the generation last preceding that eventful day; during which, according to the instructions given by our Savior and his apostles, the church were to know when that day would be near, even at the door; when they were commanded to watch and pray lest they should be overcharged and that day come upon them unawares; and

Believing, also, in the fulfilment of nearly all of the chronological periods given to the church in the book of Daniel, and in the Revelation of St. John; the beginning and ending of which were marked by numerous events as signs and beacon-lights to a knowledge as to the time of Christ's coming and kingdom, when (according to the prophet Daniel) the wicked were to do wickedly, and none of them understand; while at the same time he informs us that the wise shall understand; and

Believing it to be a duty enjoined upon us, to exhort one another, and so much the more as we see that day approaching; and to labor the more earnestly in bringing others to a saving knowledge of these great and glorious truths; therefore,

Resolved, That we do hereby unite ourselves together in an association to be known as for the purpose of combining all our efforts together, so as to increase our strength and usefulness in giving publicity to the last great and crowning truths of the Gospel age.

THE MISSOURI ADVENT-CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE,

The object of this association shall be, to secure a mutual co-operation of the several churches in giving a more extensive publicity to all the truths revealed in God's word; and more especially those contained in the preamble as having a more special bearing upon the present generation.

ARTICLE I. The officers of this Association shall consist of a President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer: who together with three other persons shall constitute an Official Board, whose duty it shall be to meet as often as once a month for the transaction of all necessary business connected with the interest of the Conference.

ART. II. The officers of this Association shall be chosen annually; but vacancies caused by death, or otherwise, may be filled at any regular meeting of the Board or Conference.

ART. III. This Conference shall act in harmony with the American Advent Mission Society in all that pertains to the interests of the Freedmen, both in regard to their meetings and schools.

ART. IV. The annual meeting of the Conference shall be held in January; and quarterly meetings in April, July, and October, as the Board shall arrange.

ART. V. This Conf. shall be composed of delegates from each of the several churches in co-operation with the Association, and all the elders and unordained preachers of said churches who are residents of the State; together with the Missionaries and teachers sent by the American Advent Mission Society.

ART. VI. Each church co-operating with the Association shall be entitled to four delegates, who shall be chosen annually, preceding the Annual Conference.

ART. VII. Ministers and Teachers in this Conference shall [illegible] an annual examination, and receive certificates of good christian character, if worthy.

ART. VIII. This Constitution may be altered or amended at any meeting of the Conference, by a two-thirds vote.

It was then moved that the preamble and articles of the Constitution be accepted and adopted, which was carried by a unanimous vote.

Voted, That the Chair appoint a committee of three to nominate the officers of the Conference for the ensuing year.

The Chair appointed Brn. Thomas Lunsford, Arthur Waite, and Franklin Cashion, as that committee.

They retired, and subsequently reported the following names, which were accepted, and carried by a unanimous vote, as the officers of the Conference for the ensuing year, viz:

ELD. H. K. FLAGG, President.

ELDER COMMODORE DECATUR, Vice-President.

HIRAM BEADLE, Secretary.

ELD. NAPOLEON MACON, Treasurer.

Committee—Brn. ISAAC LOTT, SABRA PIERCE, and HENRY POLLARD.

Voted, That the next Quarterly Conference be held at Compton Hill Church.

Voted, That the proceedings of this Conference be sent to The Voice of the West and The World's Crisis for publication.

After the transaction of other necessary business connected with the interests of the Conference, adjourned.

Thus was commenced and concluded, after a harmonious action, the first, and as we believe, the most important meeting ever called in this once Far West, in the interest of the glorious gospel truth we hold so dear; which we hope and believe will ultimate in great good in its relations and bearing upon the good cause in which we are engaged, and in which we propose to continue until we shall have no longer occasion to pray—"Thy kingdom come!"

HIRAM BEADLE, Secretary.

THE CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS.

The Advent-Christian Church, corner of Fifth and Biddle Streets, is the first and oldest church in Missouri: established April 29, 1866. Eld. H. K. Flagg, pastor. Meetings are held three times every Sabbath. Also, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings of each week. Preaching exclusively on the prophecies, Tuesday and Sunday evenings. A day evening-school for Freedmen is kept in rooms adjoining the church hall. Sunday school every Sabbath, from 1 to 3 p. m. Eld. H. K. Flagg, Superintendent; Miss Ellen A. Flagg, teacher of the day school; Mrs. Nancy H. Beadle, teacher of the evening school.

The Lowell Advent-Christian Church is the second church, established December 15, 1867. Eld. Napoleon Macon, Pastor. Meetings afternoon and evening of every Sabbath. Sunday school from 9 to 11. 30. A. M. Meetings are also held Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings of each week. A day school is kept in the church, which is located on the corner of Second Street and Hull-avenue, Lowell. Teacher, Mrs. Eliza Vaughan. The Sunday school is under the superintendence of Arthur Waite.

The Compton Hill Advent-Christian Church, on Chouteau-avenue, is the third church, established January 12, 1868. Eld. Commodore Decatur, Pastor. Meetings each Sabbath, at 11 A. M., at 3 and 7.30 P. M. Sunday school at 1 P. M. Isaac Lott, Superintendent. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Preaching on Thursday evening. Friday evening, women's prayer meeting. A day school is also kept at this church. Teacher, Isaac Lott.

Obituaries.

MARTINDALE. Died in Ashburnham, Mass., Henry H. Martindale, aged thirty-five years.

The subject of this notice was among the first who enlisted in the late national struggle, and endured great privations. He had participated in a great many battles, and particularly the most sanguinary contests, attended with the greatest loss of life, and never received a wound; but the exposures, and at times pinching want, so affected his once robust constitution, the seeds of disease were sown that resulted in his death on the 22d of Feb. 1867. For some days before his death he frequently spoke of meeting his last enemy, and his afflicted companion, who now mourns his loss, has every reason to believe he experienced a change of heart, and a preparation for the trying hour, through the mercy of God that endureth forever, by looking to Jesus, who hath said "come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

He leaves a widow, who now mourns in addition to his loss, that of all her children, five in number. May God in mercy sustain this grief-stricken and lonely one in this her dark night of weeping, and prepare her for the heavenly country, where no tears shall ever fall, nor the weeds of widowhood trail amid the vernal beauties of the evergreen shore.

S. S. BREWER.

Voice of the West, please copy.

Summary of News.

FOREIGN.

Cable Dispatches.

PARIS, March 4. The visit of Prince Napoleon to Germany has no connection whatever with political affairs.

News from Lisbon shows that the popular dissatisfaction has not subsided.

A dispatch from Lisbon to-day reports that an effigy of the Queen of Portugal was burned last night by an excited mob.

CRETAN ENDURANCE. The long and vigorous contest which the Cretans have carried on against the Turks have shown a most remarkable amount of bravery and endurance on the part of the insurgents. It [illegible] early predicted that the superior military power of the Turks would soon wear out their [illegible], but the result has been that victory and [illegible] have alike nerved the christian insurgents [illegible] heroism and renewed efforts for [illegible] Turkish rule. Within the last month [illegible] Government of Crete has issued a [illegible] addressed to the Christian Powers of Europe [illegible] that the Cretans are determined to [illegible] faithful to their vows of union with Greece, [illegible] they will never voluntarily abandon the [illegible] in which they have engaged. The latest dispatches from Constantinople announce [illegible] change by the Sultan in the management [illegible] Department, and he probably hopes by [illegible] to throw more vigor into the war on the [illegible] side, and bring the "christian dogs" to [illegible]

[illegible] changes have been made in the management [illegible] the Turkish War Department and army [illegible] Cretans raised the standard of rebellion, [illegible] whole history of the war which has thus far [illegible] carried on between the Turks and Cretans has [illegible] the power of a determined desire for liberty. The Cretans have been few in numbers and scantily supplied with everything that would be regarded in this country as essential to success in fighting, but the persistence with which they have fought and the ease with which they have [illegible] from disasters have made them most formidable [illegible] opponents, and have thus far baffled all the military and naval power that the Sublime Porte has been able to [illegible] their bravery and [illegible]

Business.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ CORRESPONDENTS SHOULD KNOW, THAT WE CANNOT DISCONTINUE OR SEND THEIR ORDERS, UNLESS THEY GIVE US THE POST OFFICE AND STATE IN PLAIN LETTERS.

☞ H. WHEELER—Money received.

☞ J. T. MERRILL—Money received.

☞ E. A. BLACK—Received.

☞ W. F. CHADWICK—Money received.

☞ R. R. YORK—Yes.

☞ E. OWEN—Money received.

☞ J. C. NEWHOUSE—You have paid to No. 882.

☞ LYMAN H. WILSON, M. D.—Please give us your P. O. address.

☞ P. W. JONES (and others)—Look on your paper to see when your subscription expires.

Notices.

GENERAL CONFERENCE IN BOSTON.

The church of the Lord Jesus Christ worshiping at Lowell Street Chapel, Boston, to those of like precious faith, and who wait for the Son of God from heaven, greeting:

Believed in the Lord, believing that yet a little while and He that shall come will come, and will not tarry; and that the signs of the times indicate that we are among the predicted perils of the last days; and that we are rapidly approaching those scenes of final trouble such as never was, which shall convulse the world with sorrow and distress; we have thought it good to invite our brethren in Christ, and the preachers of his word who are interested in these momentous themes, without distinction of sect or name, to meet us at our place of worship, at the CORNER OF LOWELL AND CAUSEWAY STREETS, BOSTON, on Tuesday evening, March 31st, 1868, and to continue with us over the coming first day of the week.

To unite with us in worship and thanksgiving to God for his abundant mercies to all men, and to us who have learned his will, and tasted that he is gracious:

To listen to the proclamation of the truth of God for the edification of the church, and the preaching of the glad tidings of the kingdom at hand:

To exhort one another, and so much the more as we see the day approaching:

To invite sinners to Christ, the refuge from approaching wrath, pointing them to the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world:

To encourage each other in the great work, committed to us as a people, of proclaiming life and immortality through Christ alone, the resurrection of the dead, and the speedy coming and kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ.

For these objects we invite our brethren and sisters, and the servants of the Lord, and shall make them welcome to our worship, our homes, and our hospitalities, trusting that we may thus be blessed and comforted together. And we desire the prayers of God's people that our gathering together may be to the praise and glory of our heavenly Father. And when the mighty voice shall be heard, saying, "Alleluia, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth, let us be glad and rejoice, and give honor to him for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready"; may we all be found arrayed in that righteousness which alone will insure admission to the marriage supper of the Lamb.

The Mass. Advent Christian Conference is cordially invited to meet with us, and to hold its annual session in connection with the general conference.

In behalf of the church,

GEO. T. ADAMS, MILES GRANT, } Elders.

J. G. HAMBLIN, S. HOVEY, GEO. T. ADAMS, M. H. PIPER, GEO. E. FOSTER, GEO. W. WOOD, } Committee.

NOTICE.

The Springfield National Advent Campmeeting Committee.

The above committee, at the request of the Chairman of the Building Committee, are notified to meet at the office of the "World's Crisis," Boston, on Friday, April 2d, at 10 o'clock A. M.

GEO. T. ADAMS, Secretary.

The Mass. A. C. Conference.

Will hold its annual meeting, in connection with the general conference called by the Lowell Street Church, Boston, commencing April 1st., at 7½ P. M., and continue over the Sabbath.

We have business of importance to transact, and we hope to see delegates from all the churches, that all may have a voice and influence in the work. Will you attend to this matter, brethren, and see that delegates are appointed? It is time to begin at home. Some of our churches are suffering for want of laborers, and new fields are open and ready for work. Shall we attend to the calls for help at home? Come, come, from all parts of the State, brethren, and tell us what we shall do. Do not stay at home, and then complain that the work is not done right.

J. HEMENWAY.

Rhode Island and Connecticut!

Our next quarterly conference will be held at East Gloucester, R. I., where we enjoyed so much one year ago. Will every church send us a delegate or a letter? Do not neglect it, will you? Conference commences Wednesday, April 1st, at 2 P. M. A team will meet the stage from Providence and Putnam at Chepatchet on Wednesday and Thursday only. Come early. Stay late.

H. F. CARPENTER, Clerk.

Notice.

Sr. A. E. Smith, of New York, and two other sisters, will be in Shinnecock, Southampton, L. I., to preach the word of truth, from March 13th to 29th, the Lord will. All lovers of truth are invited to come and help, and all others to hear. Pray for them and us, that good may be done. For the church,

A. WHEELER.

Conference.

The Maine Westerly Second Advent Conference will be held in Topsham, to commence on Wednesday evening, March 18th, 1868, and continue over the following Sunday. The committee on the Maine Mission tent are requested to meet at the same time for the transaction of business. Per order,

I. C. WELLCOME.
C. GOUD.

Morris, Ct.—Take Notice.

Providence permitting, a series of meetings will commence in the fourth district school-house, Morris, Ct., Tuesday evening, March 17th, to continue over the following Sunday, and perhaps longer. Brethren and sisters, we feel very anxious that this meeting may prove a blessing to the people of this place, and we cordially invite all who feel interested in their welfare to come and labor with us. We intend it to be a free meeting, and wholly for the worship of God.

A. ELLIOT.
C. H. SWEET.

Notice.

The first annual meeting of the Mass. A. C. Conference will be held in Boston, in connection with the General Conference, called to meet Tuesday, March 31st, 1868. It is hoped the churches will send delegates so far as consistent. Let there be a general rally. For the Conf. Committee,

E. OWEN, Clerk.

Hygienic Family School.

Dr. W. T. Vail will receive a limited number of pupils, of either sex, twelve years of age or upwards, into his Family School, connected with the "Granite State Health Institute," to be educated with his own children, where especial opportunities will be afforded for a thorough, practical, and ornamental education.

The School is based on the fundamental idea that a careful development of the physical powers, a thorough knowledge of the laws which control human health and human life, with kind and judicious instruction concerning the various habits and practices and vices which run so many of the most promising youths into physical decline, should be made radical principles in all education for the young.

The most splendid literary, scientific, artistic, or business education is valueless, in time and money worse than wasted, where pupils are educated into disease, run into a hopeless decline, or perish by early death.

Dr. V. will have personal charge of the physical department.

Competent teachers will be provided in the other departments.

A term of thirteen weeks will commence on the first Monday in April. Two other terms during the year of fourteen weeks each. [illegible]

Appointments.

Lowell Street Chapel, Boston.

M. Batchelor.......Sunday, March 15th
J. Couch.......Sunday, March 22d
S. W. Thurber.......Sunday, March 29th

Preaching at South Boston, (Union Hall, 215 Broadway), every Lord's day.

W. C. Thurman.......Sunday, March 15th
Enoch Morrill.......Sunday, March 22d

Chelsea, Mass.,(Library Hall, first floor.)

L. C. Cunningham.......Sunday, March 15th

Salem, Mass.......Sundays, March 15th and 22d
Lowell, Mass.......Sunday, April 5th
JOSEPH W. WHITE.

New Britain, Ct.......Lord's day, March 15th
Keene, N. H.......Sunday, March 22d
E. R. LADD.

At Southampton, L. I., meetings every evening, from March 13th to 22d.
Worcester.......April 12th and 19th
Westboro, Mass.......every evening, April 13th to 17th
ANNA E. SMITH.

Northwood Narrows, N. H.......Sunday, March 15th
Rochester (new chapel).......Sunday, March 22d
Pittsfield, N. H.......Sunday, March 29th
WM. BODGE.

Waterbury.......Sunday, March 22d
Cold Spring, Mass.......Sunday, March 29th
WM. J. RIPLEY.

Portsmouth, N. H.......Sunday, March 15th
L. BOUTELL.

Portland, Me.......evening, March 31st
Biddeford, Me.......evenings, April 1st and 2d
Manchester, N. H.......Sunday, April 19th
If this appointment conflicts with others, please write me at Concord, N. H.
J. C. WHEELER.

Danielsonville, Ct.......Sunday, March 15th
Hartford, Ct.......Friday evening, March 20th
Bristol, Ct.......Sunday, March 22d
New Britain, Ct., March 26th, and over Sunday, 29th
H. F. CARPENTER.

WOODSTOCK VALLEY, CT.

P. S. Butler.......Sunday, March 15th
A. Morse.......Sunday, March 29th
I. B. Potter.......Sunday, April 5th

Chichester, N. H., (Pine ground), Saturday evening, 14th, and over Sunday.
Epsom, N. H., (Marden Corner,) Saturday 21st, and over Sunday.
L. E. SAULPAUGH.

North Somers.......March 29th
A. M. HIGGINS.

Center Harbor (Town House).......Sunday, March 15th
Holderness, (True school-house).......Sunday, March 22d
WM. H. SHAW.

Bristol, Ct.......Sunday, March 22d
B. HITCHCOCK.

Plymouth, Mass.......Sunday, March 15th
Wellfleet.......Sunday, March 22d
Haverhill.......April 12th
J. S. WHITE.

BIDDEFORD, ME.

T. E. Lang, Jr.......Sunday, March 15th through the week, and over Sunday. the 22d.
B. S. Emery.......Sunday, March 29th
Wm. H. Mitchel.......Sunday, April 5th
B. S. Emery.......Sunday, April 12th
I. K. Lombard.......Sunday, April 19th

West Abington, Mass.......Sunday, March 15th
ENOCH MORRILL.

Center Harbor, N. H., at Bro. Emery's.......March 16th
Lake Village, N. H.......March 17th
Alton Corner, N. H.......March 18th
Farmington, N. H.......March 19th
Great Falls, N. H.......March 20th
Dover, N. H.......Sunday, March 22d
JOHN H. EVANS.

Portsmouth.......evening, March 23d
Lawrence, (as Bro. Churchell may arrange), evening, March 24th.
Manchester.......evening, March 25th
Shall be at liberty the following Sabbath. If any of the above conflict, please write me at Biddeford, Me., care of John G. Burnham.
T. E. LANG, JR.

Mexico, Me., Durgin school-house.......March 17th
Hap City, March 18th. Ireland school-house, March 19th. Byron, (Buckfield Hill), March 20th and over Sunday. Weld, (Town House), March 25th. Carthage, Sunday, March 29th. Starks, Sunday, April 5th
E. M. HAGGETT.

Sutton, N. H., (Mill Village), evenings, March 12th, 13th, 14th, and 15th.
East Rochester, (Adam's Corner), Sunday, March 22d
South Reading, Mass.......Sunday, March 29th
J. PINKHAM.

Mechanic Falls, Me., Weenesday evening, March 12th, every evening through the week, and over the following Sabbath.
MILES GRANT.

Concord, N. H.......Sunday, March 15th
Suncook, N. H.......Tuesday evening, March 17th
Manchester, N. H.......Wednesday evening, March 18th
Exeter, N. H.......Thursday evening, March 19th
Portsmouth, N. H.......Sundays, March 22nd and 29th
Salem, Mass.......Tuesday evening, March 31st
Lynn, Mass.......Wednesday evening, April 1st
Boston, Thursday, to conference, four days.
South Reading.......Sunday, April 5th
Letters can be directed to the above places.
HIRAM MUNGER.

Northwood Narrows.......Sunday, March 22nd
S. S. MOONEY.

Cabot, Vt.......Sunday, March 15th and longer if desired.
A. MUSSEY TRIPP.

Keene, N. H.......Sundays, March 15
A. M. HIGGINS.

Manchester, N. H.......March 14th and over Sunda
W. H. MCDANIELS.

South Reading, Mass.......Sunday, March 15th
Strafford, N. H., (Roberts' school-house), Friday evening, March 20th, and over the following Sunday. Will Bro. Preston meet me at Gonic, Friday, first train from Dover?
Farmington Village, N. H., (where Bro. Moore may appoint), Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, March 24th and 25th.
New Durham Ridge, N. H.......Sunday, March 29th
A. SIMPSON.

Thomaston.......March 15th
Hartford.......March 22d
Wrightville.......March 29th
W. S. CAMPBELL.

Campville, Ct.......Sunday, March 15th
Northfield, Ct., (where Bro. Humphreville may appoint), March 17th.
Wallingford.......March 18th
Cheshire Street.......March 20th
Yalesville.......Sunday, March 22d
Bristol, R. I.......Sunday, March 25th
North Scituate, R. I.......Sunday, April 5th
Natick, R. I.......April 11th
River Point, R. I.......Sunday, April 12th
Lowell, Mass.......Sunday, April 19th
C. H. SWEET.

Square Pond, Ct.......Sunday, March 15th
North Somers, Ct.......Sunday, March 22d
L. F. MOORE.

RICHMOND, R. I., (Clark's Hall.)

Augustus Durfee.......Sunday, March 29th

Haverhill.......Sunday, March 15th
B. WOODSIDE.

West Northfield, (as Bro. Merrill may arrange), Sunday, March 15th.
Stingfield.......March 17th and 18th
Warehouse Point, Ct.......Thursday evening, March 19th
New Britain.......Friday evening, March 20th and over the following Lord's day.
Bristol.......evening, March 23d
Pleasant Valley.......evening, March 24th
Southington.......evening, March 25th
Cheshire Street.......evening, March 26th
Yalesille.......evening, March 27th
Hartford.......Sunday, March 29th
A. ROSS.

Locustville, March 13th, at 7 P. M., and over the following Sunday, as Bro. O. B. Wilmot may appoint.
Steam Hollow.......Tuesday evening, March 17th
Scranton City, Pa., (as brethren may appoint), Sundays, March 22d and 29th.
C. F. SWEET.

East Canaan, N. H., evening, March 18th, and continue through the week, and over the following Sunday.
Concord, N. H.......Sundays, April 5th and 12th
J. A. CLEAVELAND.

Scitico, Conn., Tuesday evening, March 10th, through the week, and over the following Lord's day.
B. HITCHCOCK.
L. F. MOORE.

CONCORD, N. H., (AT THE BETHEL.)

I. K. Lombard.......Sunday, March 29th
S. S. Brewer.......Sundays, March 8th and 15th
J. C. Wheeler.......Sundays, April 5th and 12th

New Haven, (Day's Hall).......Sunday, March 15th
I. B. POTTER.

Lowell, Mass.......Sunday, March 15th
T. W. PIPER.

Worcester, Mass.......Sunday, March 15th
J. COUCH.

Strafford, N. H., (where Bro. Preston may arrange), Thursday eve., March 12th, and over Sunday.
Chelsea, Mass.......Saturday evening, March 21st and over the two following Sundays.
J. G. SMITH.
D. M. LEAVITT.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Meetings are held at the Advent Hall, Curtis' Block, three times on the Sabbath, and Tuesday and Friday evenings. Entrance, third door from the east end of the bridge, Main St.

Elliots and Burr Oak.......March 15th
Preston.......March 22d
W. J. BURSELL.

Northport, Me.......Sunday, March 22d and continue evenings through the week.
JER. CARR.

SQUARE POND, CT.

A. M. Higgins.......Sunday, March 22d

Woodstock Valley, Ct.......Sunday, March 15th
Abington, Ct.......Sunday, March 22d
Square Pond, Ct.......Sunday, March 29th
My appointment for Abington, Ct., is withdrawn.
P. S. BUTLER.

Meriden.......Sunday, March 15th
New York (Cooper Institute).......Sunday, March 22d
30th appointment in the evening.
WM. SHELDON.

Auburn, N. H., (Fox school-house), every Sunday in March.
CALEB RICHARDSON.

INDEX TO VOLUME XXVI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Annual Meeting Female Ass.......2
A rich minister.......5
Anti-slavery conf. Paris.......7
Across the Sierra Nevadas.......7
An advent campmeeting.......8
A spiritual consecration.......9
An appeal.......10
Acknowledgments.......26, 62, 18, 18, 23
A few hints to preachers.......15
A conversation.......16
A crown.......17
A proposition.......18
And the earth was filled, etc.......18
A fragment of experience.......18
A few thoughts.......20, 21
A look abroad.......21
An omission.......29
A recipe.......33
An ice cave.......33
All talk, etc.......35
An iron man.......35
A ray of hope.......36
A visit to Garibaldi.......36
A treacherous highway.......39
Austrian demonstration, etc.......47
A short discussion.......48
A precious promise.......51
A little pentecost.......51
A. D. 1868.......53
An inquiry.......53
A call.......53
A request.......55
A strange appearance.......59
An admonition.......59
Achan.......60
Alms, prayers, etc.......61
A new creature.......64
A few questions answered.......69
A new pulpit for Plymouth church.......71
A reflection.......72
Adventism soon tested.......73
Are we almost there?.......74
A healthy christian.......75
Admonition.......85
Are you on the Rock?.......86
A remarkable old couple.......87
And still they come.......87
An honest confession.......92
A birth-day meditation.......95
A letter.......96
A glimpse of our times.......97
A lamentable state of things.......98
A well of boiling water.......99
A curious book.......100
A winter rose.......100
Adventure with the Spiritualists.......104
Baptism.......1
Bismarck's views.......19
" and the Pope.......19
Bearing the cross.......20
Burbank's school.......20
Bro. C. B. Turner's grave.......32
Bro. Pennis' proposal.......38
Billiards, whist, etc.......45
Be of good cheer.......48
Behold the Bridegroom cometh.......49
Begging.......56
Buffalo Bap. Ass. and Bro. Blain.......57
Be ye also ready.......59
By faith.......64
Beautiful extract.......65
Brief report of meeting in R. I. tent.......66
Balm for the wronged heart.......68
Book notices.......70, 80
Be ready.......81
Beware of offences.......81
Bonds and afflictions.......84
Bible chronology.......85
Bridle your tongue.......97
Be ye separate.......101
Campmeeting.......2
Clergymen.......4
Clinching a sermon.......6
Christian defense.......6
Call for laborers.......10
Christ's yoke.......13
Cholera riots in Italy.......15
Christians a peculiar people.......16
Clinton tent meeting.......16
Come to the rescue.......22
Curious relics.......24
Correction.......27
Changing and passing away.......28
Christ.......45
Confess your faults.......48
Convention at Hartford, Ct.......50
Conf. report.......51
Come, see the place, etc.......52
Charity.......53
Character of the millennium.......61
Chastening.......61
Calls for help.......62
Credit to whom credit is due.......66
Church discipline.......69
Could n't help it.......83
Contentment.......89
Conf. at Westfield.......94
Complaining christians.......96
Conf. in Maine.......94
Drinking and smoking.......4
Days of Son of man.......1
Death the wages of sin.......2
Dramatic preaching.......12
Discussion in Ind.......18
Directions for a lady's dress.......33
Dr. Livingston.......35
Desert of Sahara.......39
Duty.......40
Do you love Jesus.......40
Doctors differ.......47
Discoveries in Palestine.......51
Danger of self-confidence.......56
Do you pray for Christ's coming.?.......61
Distinctions.......69
Demonism.......76
Don't.......92
Dr. Chalmers and visitor.......72
Don't give up the class.......100
Do you pray in secret?.......101
Execution of Maximilian.......7
Excuses.......8
Exegesis of Mal. 4: 1.......5
Evil speaking.......18
European Evang. Mission.......34
Extempore preaching.......44
Emperor Napoleon and the ticket holder.......83
Empress Carlotta.......87
Editing a newspaper.......100
Financial Report.......2
Family prayer.......16
Foundation of holiness.......17
Friends indeed.......20
Farmington tent meeting.......22
Franklin Co. court-house.......26
France and Italy.......27
532 or 533?.......8, 9, 13
Fine churches.......13
From Memphis Mission.......38
$500 for Maine Mission.......42
Four impossible things.......56
For the "Bruised Reed".......76
Fiery trials.......79
Famine in Europe.......81
Forgiving injuries.......81
Former and recent trials.......84
For Maine Mission tent.......51
Fresh from the fountain.......68
Facts, duties and rewards.......81
Generosity.......8
General W. A. C. conf.......10
Golden sands.......12
Genealogy of Christ.......16
Grudges.......16
Give.......40
Green devils.......49
Getting the heart right.......65
Gentleness.......76
Gospel tests.......77
Great feat in telegraphy.......83
Getting the heart right.......65
Good news.......90
Geo. Needham to A. A. Phelps.......104
Home again.......2
How are the mighty fallen.......22
He died.......22
How to treat balky horses.......30
Happiness.......41
Hemlock Lake.......42
How to ruin a son.......46
Hopeth all things.......60
How to avoid a quarrel.......64
How to be saved.......64
Holiness.......69
Healing of the sick.......82
How Mr. Lincoln is honored abroad.......80
Help for freedmen.......98
Inquiries.......4
Immortality and punishment.......9
Illinois and the west.......26
I will come again.......39
I am the door.......40
Idle words.......[illegible]
In the day of these kings.......61
I am weary.......64
It is done.......65
Italian unity.......[illegible]
Italian crisis.......[illegible]
Information wanted.......100
Jesus loves me.......61
Judaism overthrown.......73
Journal.......[illegible]
Kicking folks.......[illegible]
Liberty tent meeting.......[illegible]
Louis Napoleon.......4, 22, 80
Louis Napoleon's new gun.......[illegible]
Letter from M. A. Wood.......[illegible]
Led to Christ.......[illegible]
Letter from A. H. Smith.......[illegible]
[illegible]
Light wanted.......[illegible]
Little wanderer's home.......[illegible]
Locks on intemperance.......[illegible]
Letter from Sr. C. B. Turner.......[illegible]
[illegible]
Little sins.......[illegible]
Lights and shadows of Rev.......41, 53
Letter from Florida.......[illegible]
Letter to an orthodox friend.......[illegible]
Letter from B. W. Wilson.......[illegible]
Love and fear.......[illegible]
Letter from St. Louis.......[illegible]
" " Memphis, Tenn.......[illegible]
Let your women, etc.......[illegible]
Letter from Rochester.......[illegible]
Letters from the people.......84, 92, [illegible]
Lectures in Bible reading.......[illegible]
Letter from P. H. Burbank.......100
Meekness.......[illegible]
Meditation.......[illegible]
Mission letters from Sisters.......4, 22, [illegible]
Man's nature and destiny.......[illegible]
Materialism.......[illegible]
Maine conf.......[illegible]
Menotti Garibaldi.......[illegible]
Meteoric shower.......[illegible]
[illegible].......42
[illegible].......48, 64
[illegible]
No difference.......104
Our business.......9
Our judgment of others.......13
Our trip west.......15
Our country Sunday schools in winter.......18, 22
Our Lord's position.......18
Our duties.......23
Our work.......23
Occupy till I come.......24
Our age.......33
On its mission.......34
Ordination.......74, 35
Our camp-ground.......36
Our confidence.......36
Our position.......37
Our churches.......38
One hundred agents wanted.......56, 60, 63
Our cause.......65
Open communion.......65
Popular works of fiction.......4
Prepare to die.......5
Pittsfield tent meeting.......6
Poland.......11
Prevailing prayer.......12
Politeness.......16
Population of the world.......19
Progress and perseverance.......20
Putting up butter.......24
Pride and humility.......24
Personal religion.......38
Prophetic measurements.......45
Proverbs.......45
Protracted meeting.......54
Prayer.......54
Pompeii.......64
Pledges for Springfield, etc.......68
Prayer for healing.......72
Playing dinner.......72
Prayer.......84
Progress of our age.......84
Peacemakers.......17
Predestination.......38
Persecution.......64
Pleasing self.......95
Prayers vs. sermons.......104
Preparation for Christ's coming.......104
Report of seventh annual meeting in Wilbraham.......3
Rest of saints.......8
Railroads for Turkey.......11
Russia and Turkey.......14
Religion in St. Louis.......15
Russian feeling against France.......15
Report of conf. at Colebrook.......16
Remarkable escapes.......20
Report of R. I. and Conn. conf.......26
Religion at home.......28
Resurrection of Napoleon.......36, 37
Report of N. Y. Miss. tent.......38
" " A. C. conf., N. H.......40
Retrospection.......41
Report of conf. at Worcester.......44
" " N. Y. conf.......64
" " Liberty conf.......66
Reading the Bible.......76
Report of conf. in Scituate, R. I.......80
Responses to call.......82
Report of fifth Maine conf.......86
" " Conn. conf.......90
Receipts for Memphis.......94
Report of Maine conf.......94
" " Maine tent treasury.......30
Rutland, Vt.......94
Read this.......18
Rutherford's love for Jesus.......97
Sign of the Son of man.......2
Secret societies.......4
Signs of the times.......5
Signs.......6
Serving two masters.......12
Sanctification.......20
1792 or 1793.......28
Steam fleet of Eng.......39
St. Louis mission.......42, 60
Splendid churches.......44
Springfield.......46
So many calls.......47
Something to do.......53
Seasons of sadness.......57
Secret of success.......57
Spiritualism.......60
Spiritual food.......60
Spiritualism and the demons.......65
Strangers and pilgrims.......64
Speaking well of others.......68
Scolding.......72
Systematic giving.......72
Short prayers.......72
Standing alone.......76
Short sermons on long ones.......77
Shaking of the powers of heaven.......81
"Star of Hope" Mission.......90, 94
Special leadings of the Spirit.......93
Supporting the gospel.......96
Saving faith.......96
Signs of our times.......25
Speak kindly.......28
Sleep, what is it?.......45
Starvation in Algeria.......90
Sow beside all waters.......104
Sectarianism.......104
Tracts for free distribution.......2
Torn tendrils.......4
The sea swallowing up land.......4
Thy will be done.......5
The devil's children.......5
To friends of our paper.......6
The coming struggle.......9
" convention.......10
" Bible at Paris Ex.......11
" Pope and Rome.......11
" year-day theory.......12
To the female Ass.......13
The last day.......13
" work of the Holy Spirit.......13
" moral market.......14
" Dorcas mission.......14, 16, 22, 30, 42, 58, 74, 82, 87
" vice of the age.......15
To the mothers in Israel.......16
The sign of the Son of man.......16
" cross of Christ.......17
" temptation in Eden.......17, 29, 33
" coming crisis.......17
Two Sabbaths.......17
The "Bruised Reed".......18
" papal situation.......19
" daily and abomination.......20
" Son of Joseph.......21, 28, 32
" worm at the heart.......21
" infidel silenced.......21
This earth the pur. possession.......24
The word of God.......24
To the waiting ones.......24
The regeneration.......26
" seventh month.......26
" justice of God.......27
" glorious rest.......28
" only remedy.......29
" expected star shower.......29, 43
Travels, labors.......31
The Italian insurrection.......31
" first resurrection.......32
" "Star of Hope" Mission.......32
" words of Jesus.......32
" more excellent way.......32
" kingdom.......33
" judgment of the wicked.......33
" Memphis Mission.......34, 76, 80, 84, 88, 94, 98
Truth, what is it?.......35
" love of God.......36
" gospel.......36
Time.......37
The Advent movement.......37
" Redeemer.......37
" power of love.......38
Thy kingdom come.......39
The oldest person known.......39
" fruit of the Spirit.......40, 48, 52, 64, 72, 80, 89
" Lord is good.......40
Thoughts on a few things.......41
The kingdoms of this world, etc.......41
" cause.......41
" A. A. Soc.......42
" hidden and divine life.......44, 45
" first resurrection.......45
" Young Pilgrim for 1868.......46
" only reliable evidence.......46
" earth shall be found.......[illegible]
" signs of the times.......[illegible]
" church helping the world.......[illegible]
" prophetic chart.......[illegible]
To the church.......[illegible]
The two witnesses.......[illegible]
" family meeting.......[illegible]
" sworn that cure, etc.......[illegible]
" value of apos. succession.......[illegible]
" happy welcome.......[illegible]
Things coming on the earth.......[illegible]
Tokens.......[illegible]
The mission of angels.......[illegible]
" sealing angel.......[illegible]
" day and the hour.......[illegible]
" plan of redemption.......[illegible]
" cup.......[illegible]
To the church in Mass.......[illegible]
The crown of glory.......[illegible]
" way to life.......[illegible]
" earthquake at St. Cruz.......[illegible]
" massacre in Fiji.......[illegible]
" earthquake.......[illegible]
" eruption of Mt. Vesuvius.......[illegible]
" reading of good books.......[illegible]
Take freely.......[illegible]
The Bible.......[illegible]
Things that must not be.......[illegible]
The Young Pilgrim for Jan.......[illegible]
[illegible]
Theology and philosophy at war.......[illegible]
Thurman's Chronology.......[illegible]
" way to be useful.......[illegible]
" Heb. shod.......[illegible]
" higher life.......[illegible]
" Lord will come.......[illegible]
" Emperor's prize.......[illegible]
" law of newspapers.......[illegible]
Time.......[illegible]
The voluntary [illegible] in Birmingham.......[illegible]
" willful blind.......[illegible]
" way to be happy.......[illegible]
" "Glad tidings".......[illegible]
" Pope's Allocution.......[illegible]
" mark of the high calling.......[illegible]
That detail.......[illegible]
Trials while we wait.......[illegible]
The work carried.......[illegible]
" gospel of work.......[illegible]
[illegible]
" comes in many tents.......[illegible]
" 2300 days.......[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
" cause in Canada.......[illegible]
" times in Jersey.......[illegible]
" Oregon preparations.......[illegible]
Thoughts on Ezra.......[illegible]
The great thoughts.......[illegible]
" power of [illegible].......[illegible]
[illegible]
The Papal [illegible].......[illegible]
[illegible]
Useful hints.......66, 69
Venerable saints.......28, 29
Very much mistaken.......5
Vital religion.......97
What will follow?.......5, 6
Will you write?.......8
Work.......9
Watching.......17
Watchfulness.......17
Worcester con.......18, 24
What they say.......18
Wanted.......23
Wisdom and prudence.......24
Will it pay?.......25
What think ye?.......26
Who hath happiness.......26
What will be the result?.......37
What think ye of Christ?.......40
Who were the Gnostics?.......45
Who will work?.......49
What is the difference?.......49
Wisdom.......52
Wicked thoughts.......52
What of the night?.......57
Who wants a job?.......58
Walking with God.......63
What I've heard and seen.......64
Work and wages.......69
Well done.......73
What people talk the most about.......73
What our neighbors say.......77
What is truth?.......77
Where no wood is, etc.......77
Working cheap.......84
Who is the oppressor?.......86
Westford conf.......88
What next?.......98
Which will succeed?.......10
Waymarks.......[illegible]
What next?.......[illegible]
Wayside incidents.......[illegible]
What is thought?.......[illegible]
War clouds.......[illegible]
What is to come next?.......[illegible]
Waterbury.......102
Westerly.......102
You are not your own.......17
Yellow fever at N. O.......19
You can be excused.......60

EDITORIAL.

Alton Bay campmeeting.......2
Am. A. M. Society.......10
A new secret society.......14
Adulteration of food.......18
Another gone.......22
A good spirit.......22
Attention.......30, 34
Allocution of Pius IX.......30
A new God.......38
A wise saying.......38
A new book.......38
A gulf.......46
A proposition.......50
A Catholic congress.......54
A reason for suicide.......66
A valuable work.......70
An ancient prophecy.......74
Abounding wickedness.......94
Affairs at Rome.......18
Boasting still.......2
Book notices.......2, 6, 38
Bro. C. B. Turner.......10, 30
" " " sleeps.......14
Bible Rhymes.......18
Bro. Turner's family.......18
Buffalo.......42, 46
Bad habits.......58
Bond of union.......78
Bro. Thurman's Chronology.......94
Corrections.......2
Cathedral of the Holy Cross.......6
Chronology.......10
Condition of Rome.......18
Chelsea.......22, 26
Christ in the secret chamber.......46
Church fairs.......50
Close of the year.......58
Church gambling.......62
Canada meetings.......74
Christian Spiritualism.......78
Cash receipts.......82
Choice bits.......90
Correction.......94
Condition of the south.......66
Discussion in Quebec.......54, 58
Decay of Protestantism.......58
Discoveries at Jerusalem.......62
Deluge of crime.......66
Danville meetings.......74
Discussion in East Douglas.......90
Danielsonville.......90
Discussion.......94
Demoniacal teaching.......94
Double theory.......94
Discussion at Webster.......98
Dull times.......98
Death.......30
Discussion in Stowe.......102
European war clouds.......2
European war.......46
Eldest son of the church.......50
Fashionable churches.......10
Forgive.......58
Garibaldi.......26
Groaning creation.......66
General conference.......90
"Glad tidings".......98
German tracts.......102
Good hints.......102
Home.......2
Honorable fairness.......38
His body.......46
Holiday presents for children.......58
Is he muzzled?.......14
Italian news.......30
Instruction of the spirits.......50
Infidelity.......54
It shall not die.......94
Keene, N. H.......94
Letters.......2
Light wanted.......38
Light advancing.......62
Like Sodom.......70
Laborers for the south.......22
Meetings in Rochester.......10
Movements of Spiritualists.......30
Meetings in Buffalo.......42
Meetings in Boston.......58, 82
Mormondom.......62
Mt. Vesuvius.......62
Meetings by the way.......66
Montreal.......70
Meetings in Quebec.......82
Mass. Christian Convention.......90
New volume.......2
New tracts called for.......10
"Not eat with him".......38
Notes, queries and objections.......26, 30, 34, 38, 42, 46, 50, 54, 62, 66, 70, 86, 90, 94
Napoleon III. and the Jews.......42
New Year's present.......58
Old and shaky.......58
Open communion.......10
Our missionaries.......34, 62, 86
Origin of Jerusalem.......36
Personal.......6, 22, 30
Purgatory to let.......18
Plans of Napoleon.......30
Pick's Concordance.......30
Prophetic chart.......38
Plans of the Catholics.......46
Protestantism.......54
Preparation for war.......78, 98
Papal troops.......78
Public morals.......90
Powers of the air.......90
Pilgrims to Mecca.......98
Query.......14
Quebec.......78
Rochester.......14, 18, 22, 34, 38
Rome a burdensome stone.......18
Rome.......22
Read this.......78
Repudiation.......54
State of the country.......6
Scarcity of ministers.......6
Sutton.......22
Stories for Young Pilgrims.......30
Sr. C. B. Turner.......30
Scoffers.......34
Spiritualists at Music Hall.......34
Springfield National camp-ground.......54
Speech of Napoleon.......62
Swedenborgianism.......78
Stirring times at Washington.......94
Shocking destitution.......98
Short work.......82
Tract fund.......2
Time of the end.......2
The plan of redemption.......2, 10, 14
Tracts in packages.......2, 10
"The Sealed Book of Daniel".......2, 6
"The Scriptural Question Book".......2, 6
The prospect.......6
" Mohammedan power.......6
" Pope's plans.......6
" Turks and Cretans.......6
" Pope's finances.......6
Time of the Lord's coming.......10
Three commandments.......10
The free list.......[illegible]
" tree of life.......14, 42
" new revelation.......18
" want.......[illegible]
" Italians.......[illegible]
" coming of the Lord.......[illegible]
" first resurrection.......[illegible]
" general campmeeting.......[illegible]
" "Health Reformer".......[illegible]
" condition of Europe.......[illegible]
" Spiritualist's God.......[illegible]
" last lamp.......[illegible]
" Roman question.......[illegible]
" "Bruised Reed".......[illegible]
" new advent camp-ground.......[illegible]
" "Herald of Health".......[illegible]
" "Glad Tidings".......[illegible]
" Pope's thanks.......[illegible]
" state of Italy.......[illegible]
" Amer. A. M. Society.......[illegible]
" Roman conference.......[illegible]
" "Leaves of Life".......[illegible]
" new year.......[illegible]
" state of Europe.......[illegible]
" Pope's troubles.......[illegible]
" "Young Pilgrim" for Jan.......[illegible]
" coming of Christ.......[illegible]
" Quebec discussion.......74, 78
" Davenport brothers.......[illegible]
" Italian situation.......[illegible]
Taking away her dominion.......[illegible]
2300 days.......[illegible]
Tendency of Swedenborgianism.......[illegible]
Two live books.......[illegible]
" Messiah.......[illegible]
" Lord's prayer.......[illegible]
" Papal forces.......[illegible]
Theology of spirits.......[illegible]
" Ottoman empire.......[illegible]
Universal Peace Society.......[illegible]
Visit to Quebec.......[illegible]
Wilbraham.......[illegible]
War prospects in Europe.......[illegible]

POETRY.

A German trust song.......9
A prayer for you.......21
A little while.......33
Alone with Jesus.......40
A prayer.......49
A dirge.......52
All things new.......88
Musings.......85
Beautiful river.......97
Charity.......16
Come and see.......44
Come, Lord Jesus.......80
Children gone.......84
Consolation.......92
Chastening.......100
De profundis.......73
Evening musings.......48
Father, take my hand.......68
How to be sick.......16
He is coming.......20
Heart, be still.......28
How long, O Lord?.......36
How soon?.......52
Hymn.......84
I will come again.......85
Invocation.......88
Jesus wept.......64
Lines to Bro. and Sr. Turner.......24
Lo, I am with you.......36
Let your speech . . . with grace.......48
Lines.......52, 64, 73
Let brotherly love.......41
Long ago.......69
Love.......80
My heart is fixed.......81
Morning.......60
Musings.......72
My Father's at the helm.......89
Nearing home.......45
Nearer, my God, to thee.......61
Our God.......12
Our hope.......20
Oh come, my Savior.......80
Our High Priest.......57
Our infant Lord.......88
Oh Jesus, come.......104
Passing away.......45
Praying in the house of the Lord.......68
Penitent.......72
Robin red-breast's secret.......100
See how these christians love.......56
Truth.......4
The waiting ones.......5
" vision of dry bones.......8
" heavenly footman.......9
" unprofitable servant.......12
" joyful meeting.......17
" Trust and rest.......24
" martyrs.......24
These light afflictions.......32
The old earth.......32
There'll be no sorrow there.......36
The old christian hymn.......41
" book and the throne.......44
" better world.......48
Thus hath the Savior said.......60
The garden of the Lord.......64
" Savior.......68
Take me by the hand, Father.......69
Two ways to live on earth.......76
The children's friend.......76
Trust in God.......77
The Advent.......81
" new earth.......92
Then and there.......100
Uncertainty.......13
Watch, mother.......13
White raiment.......29
What of the night?.......57
We seek a home.......92
We're marching on.......96
We're nearing home.......101

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

A question in long division.......4
A handsome soul.......12
A cure for discontent.......36
Ask mother first.......44
An ugly companion.......68
Aunt Lina's sunshine.......76
A Bible in a log cottage.......92
Beware of the first whiff.......20
Boasting.......20
Blessed are the peace-makers.......52
Boys using tobacco.......100
Child's temp. pledge.......28
Good advice.......68
Good and bad apples.......84
Help father.......[illegible]
How shall I go?.......[illegible]
Honor thy father and mother.......[illegible]
Honor and generosity.......[illegible]
I don't love you, mother.......12
I have made one heart happy.......36
I cannot, sir.......36
Juvenile heroism.......4
Jesus loves me.......68
Katie's lesson.......12
Little Katy.......100
Love Jesus best.......84
My Master's always in.......30
Only three cents.......60
Only a little tipsy.......60
On the track.......100
Origin of plants.......100
Peep, says curiosity.......100
Story of a horse-shoe.......60
The child's prayer.......4
" brave boy.......4
" boy and the bee.......36
" lost found.......44
" crown jewel.......44
" Quaker's gift.......52
" cherries.......60
Tobacco a poison.......60
There's rock at the bottom.......68
The evil of disobedience.......76
" starved dogs.......76
" first lesson.......84
" wrong side of the star.......84
" early dead.......92
" same Jesus.......92
" boy that would not go to the theatre.......92
" greater fool.......92

HYGIENE.

Antidote to poisons.......8
Arrow-root food.......16
Air baths.......24
A good cook book.......24
About smoking.......24
Attention to the feet.......64
A point to be thought of.......64
A hint on bathing.......104
Clothing the neck.......8, 64
Cruel.......48
Cleanliness.......96
Cure for cancer.......104
Death indoors.......8
Dieting.......32
Dyspepsia.......56
Drugs.......88
Depopulation of New England.......96
Eyesight.......16
Effects of tea on the skin.......104
How fruits should be eaten.......16
How to get up refreshed.......48
Healthful observances.......96
I like good things too well.......32
Items for the reformer.......32
Kedzie's rain water filter.......104
Life pills.......64
Mothers and temperance.......80
My remedy.......72
Over-eating.......80
Queries answered.......80
Queries.......104
Rain.......40
Something about nutriment.......64
Sunlight.......80
To remove motes.......8
The right use of stimulants.......8
